VOL. LXX....No. 23,003. NEW YORK, SUNDAY, JANUARY 16, 1921. In Eight Parts, Including Subscription Picture Section, Book and Magazine Section. FIVE CENTS In Manhattan, Bronx, and Brooklyn; Elsewhere TEN CENTS

GEDDES SAILS AWAY IN HASTE TO CONFER WITH LLOYD GEORGE

Big Anglo-American Problems Will Be Themes for Envoy, Premier and Curzon.

WILL PREPARE FOR HARDING

Navy Policy, Disarmament, League, Panama Tolls, Oil and Tariff Likely Questions.

IRELAND A VITAL MATTER

Ambassador Slips Quietly Out of Washington and Goes Aboard Cunarder Here.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Recalled to London for the announced purpose of consulting with Premier Lloyd George and Earl Curzon, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, slipped away from Washington last night without notice to even close acquaintances and sailed today from New York for England. He was accompanied by H. V. Tennant, his private secretary, who came with him to Washington when he assumed his office less than eight months ago.

Lady Geddes remained here with the children, thus bearing out an embassy statement that, according to present intention, the Ambassador would return to Washington next month.

Several subjects, it is said, will be matters of earnest discussion when the Ambassador reaches London, and it is said to be regarded as essential that Sir Auckland shall have the benefit of the fullest disclosure of the views of the home officials before he undertakes to establish formal communications with the Harding Administration.

Some matters, which are even now receiving close attention by the British authorities, it is understood, will probably be made the subjects of express and definite instructions from the Foreign Office.

Among the more important questions, suggested as probable themes of the London conference, are:

1. Navy policy of disarmament.
2. The Irish problem so far as it affects the United States.
3. Oil supplies and especially Secretary Colby's recent note relative to equality of rights in Mesopotamia and other fields under mandate.
4. Disposition of the former German cables, concerning which the recent Washington conference failed to reach a solution.
5. The Japanese-American negotiations.
6. The refunding of the British war debt to the United States.
7. The emergency tariff bill in its relations to British and Canadian trade.
8. The proposal to free American ships from paying Panama Canal tolls.
9. The treatment of the property of British subjects in Mexico, especially those holding oil or mineral lands.
10. The future policies of the Harding Administration concerning the League of Nations and other European problems.

Interest in Tariff Proposals.

Concerning these matters no official comment was forthcoming from the Embassy.

It is believed here to be probable that the British Premier wishes especially to acquaint himself by consultation with the Ambassador with the state of public opinion in America regarding the naval programs and the Irish question.

Pending and prospective tariff legislation by Congress is known to be a subject in which Great Britain and most of her dominions are vitally interested. The British Government is understood to be disturbed least the proposed new tariffs operate against Great Britain's trade with the United States and thus make it more difficult for that country to pay off in goods its debt to the United States. Proposed tariffs on wheat are of great concern to the Canadian Government.

The proposal here to free American ships from payment of Panama Canal tolls also has interest. The British Government believed this matter had been definitely disposed of in the early days of the Wilson Administration, but now that the Republican platform and the utterances of President-elect Harding have indicated a purpose to renew the efforts to obtain such privileges for American ships, it is thought possible that the British Government will feel called upon to protest against any invasion of what it has regarded as solemnly pledged treaty rights.

There is the vital problem of world oil supplies also. The United States has protested energetically against the British and French agreement as to development of oil lands in Mesopotamia and elsewhere and as yet Great Britain has not replied to the note dispatched by Secretary Colby.

Refunding of War Debt.

The refunding or conversion of the British war debt to America is likewise a live question. Lord Chalmers, who was about to come to Washington to arrange this with the Treasury Department, has postponed his visit in view of Ambassador Geddes's absence from Washington, feeling it necessary, it is said, to have the Ambassador at his side when the negotiations are undertaken.

Formal announcement of the departure of Sir Auckland, issued by the Embassy, read as follows:

"Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, sailed for England today

Continued on Page Four.

White Sulphur Springs—The Greenbrier for rest and recuperation. Bookings Miami.—Advt.

Club de Vingt—Vanderbilt Hotel. Thes Dansants, daily. Open to public.—Advt.

Treasury Certificates Oversubscribed $250,000,000

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Subscriptions aggregating more than $500,000,000 were received by the Treasury, Secretary Houston announced tonight, for the combined issue of certificates of indebtedness for $250,000,000 offered for maturity on April 15 and Oct. 15. Over-subscription by 100 per cent. of these issues, which call for a lower rate of interest than has been asked by the Government during the past six months, was regarded by Treasury officials as indicating some easing in the money situation.

BRIAND MAY RETURN TO POWER IN FRANCE

Peret Having Failed to Organize Cabinet, Former Premier Undertakes the Task.

POINCARE HOLDS ALOOF

Bonnevay Mentioned for Justice and Barthou and Doumer for War and Marine.

PARIS, Jan. 15 (Associated Press).—Former Premier Aristide Briand will seek to form a new Ministry to succeed the Leygues Ministry, which resigned Wednesday, Raoul Peret, the President of the Chamber, having failed to form the combination he had in view. He has obtained the collaboration of Laurent Bonnevay, one of the chief leaders of the national bloc, who led the attack on M. Leygues. M. Briand has had interviews with numerous leaders, which apparently insure him the support necessary to constitute a Cabinet.

A forecast of the new Ministry gives M. Bonnevay the post of Minister of Justice, Louis Barthou, War; Paul Doumer, Navy; Louis Loucheur or Charles Dumont, Finance. M. Araga has declined a seat in the Cabinet, preferring to continue in the presidency of the national bloc.

The Ministries of Pensions and Hygiene will probably be eliminated and the number of Under Secretaries of State reduced.

President Millerand was informed at 11 o'clock of the progress of the negotiations by M. Briand, who said he would report again at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

M. Briand has been out of power since he was succeeded by Alexandre Ribot in 1917, in the middle of the war period. He does not belong to any of the groups forming the majority in the Parliament and it seems that if he succeeds in forming a Ministry he will have been brought back into power by the simple force of circumstances.

M. Peret's failure to create a Ministry was due largely to the refusal of former President Poincaré to enter the combination except under conditions that made it difficult for M. Peret to carry out his program. M. Poincaré, it was understood, desired the Foreign Ministry, but M. Briand was the man M. Peret had picked for the Foreign Office because of his qualities as a negotiator and his strength with the European chancelleries.

Another obstacle was the determination of the Radicals not to permit a member of this group to enter the Cabinet unless it was agreed that the new Government would withdraw from the Senate the measure passed by the Chamber of Deputies reinstating the French diplomatic representation at the Vatican.

The failure of M. Peret to assemble a government will, it seems certain, prevent the creation of a new Ministry in time for the proposed interallied conference, set for Jan. 19, and the postponement of this meeting appears probable.

PARIS CRISIS WATCHED ANXIOUSLY BY BRITISH

Fear Developments May Put Severe Strain on the Entente Cordiale.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The French Cabinet crisis is being followed with tense interest in London, for it is feared that developments may subject the Entente Cordiale to a severe strain. The London press as a rule has shown restraint in dealing with the subject, but the two chief Sunday morning papers, The Times and Observer, take a pessimistic view.

The Sunday Times points out that "the French Chamber, composed of inexperienced reactionaries self-confessedly inspired, in the words of its President, by the proud soul of the conqueror, toils insatiably after the unattainable," and adds:

"We Britons are perhaps better able to appreciate the French aspirations since we have but recently emerged from the same dreams. We, too, once announced our resolve to search the German pockets and to extract therefrom full indemnity for all the costs of the war without realizing that we could only secure them if we permitted Germany to search the pockets of the world, and that even then the results might be dubious, for the reason that even we shared French apprehension of German revanche.

"But as the fever of war has abated we have realized the impossibility of any real recovery of Germany's military power within the lifetime of the present generation. Our realization that the

Continued on Page Three.

Hotel Bertolle, 8th Ave. and 29th Street.—Room with private bath, $3.00. Suites at moderate rates. Restaurant and Grill.—Advt.

PALL MALL Rounds round in shape—at better class shops.—Advt.

1,000,000 NOW IDLE IN GREAT BRITAIN; UNREST COMBATED

Extremist Talk of Country's Being Ripe for Revolution in March Is Heard.

TRADE PLANS HASTENED

Government Is Working With Banks to Supply Credits and Open Up Markets.

MANY JOBS BEING CREATED

Direct Relief Measures Put Through to Balk Agitators—Labor Party Refuses to Co-operate.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Unemployment in England is increasing rapidly and today it is stated that the number of men, women, boys and girls who are registered as totally out of work is close upon a million. This figure is conservative, being based only upon official lists, and does not take into account workers on odd jobs and short time who probably are more numerous than the totally unemployed. The dependents of both classes considerably swell the volume of those who have to be considered in dealing with the problem.

The methods by which it is being dealt with are the subject of much controversy.

The Government invited the Labor Party to collaborate in devising a remedy. The Labor Party, actuated by what are generally believed to be political motives, refused to act in conjunction with the proposed Government commission, charged the Government with having failed to provide in good time against an evident contingency and promulgated a scheme of its own which roughly amounted to the demand that every householder out of work should receive a weekly dole of two pounds and each single man and woman unemployed should get twenty-five shillings.

Labor pronouncements went on to declare that the opening of trade with Russia and the "abolition of capitalism" were the real solvents of the situation. The "abolition of capitalism" has not yet reached the stage of practical politics in this country and according to the best information available the reopening of trade with Russia remains a possibility of the still somewhat distant future. Krassin, Soviet Envoy to London, has gone back to Petrograd and is not expected to return. Even if he did bring the Soviet Government's acceptance of all the British proposals, there would be no immediate improvement. Sir Robert Horne, who is in favor of an agreement with Russia, stated this week that little or no benefit could be derived from it for some time to come as Russia will have no surplus to export while present conditions continue.

Relief Sought in Trade.

The reaching of new markets or the revival of old ones is recognized to be the one means of coping with the unemployment problem. During the past week several large businesses have stopped their export work. With this phase of the question the Government is striving to deal by seeking the cooperation of banks and insurance companies in carrying through a scheme along the lines suggested by Ter Meulen, the Dutch economist, whereby credits could be opened for those continental countries which want goods which they are at present unable to buy. Plans whereby the stabilization of exchanges could be secured are also under consideration.

These and other remedial measures to counteract the economic ailments from which the world is suffering, even if success attends them, will necessarily be slow in their effects, and in view of Government unemployment on its present scale, it is too serious a question to be left to work itself out along the regular lines. Sir Lynden Macassey, lecturer on economics of London University, writing in The Sunday Times on "The Menace of Unemployment," says:

"The necessity of dealing immediately with the problem is urgent. A new gospel is in the air. It was preached sporadically before the war, it is now trumpeted broadcast. Unemployment, the new industrial evangelists proclaim, is wholly due to the capitalistic organization of society and industry. Destroy and replace the latter by any kind of Socialist Commonwealth and work will drop like manna from heaven. That insinuating appeal of every brand of socialism in existence and the spread of unemployment are relied on by revolutionaries in this country as the essential means of overturning the present Constitution.

"This attempt to exploit unemployment makes it essential that all classes of the community should co-operate with a view to its reduction by sane and solvent methods to the lowest possible limits."

Extremist Talk of Revolution.

Though Sir Lynden does not say it, he possibly has in mind the talk that is now current in certain extremist circles. This is to the effect that by the end of March unemployment will have increased to such an extent that the country will be ripe for revolution. March 25, indeed, for no particularly apparent reason, has been fixed upon by some of the extremist leaders as the date upon which their hopes will come to fruition.

Although the best observers do not take any stock in stories of "bloody

Continued on Page Five.

"MECCA" AT THE CENTURY THEATRE. Most beautiful production, greatest sensational success known in history of the world. Eve. 8. Mats. Wed. & Sat., 2. LAST 6 PERFORMANCES.—Advt.

5-Cent Loaf Back for First Time Since War; Made of Standard Size and Returns a Profit

The 5-cent loaf of bread, which disappeared early in the war under a steady advance in the price of a loaf to more than double, with a perceptible diminution in quality, has returned. And it is here to stay, say the makers. Furthermore, they boast that even at this price they are able to make a profit of 1¼ to 2 cents on each loaf. The loaf is standard size, though the scales show that it weighs about two ounces less than the product put out by most bakers. In quality, the new loaf appears to be equal to the 10-cent loaf sold by other bakers.

This 5-cent loaf has been a reality for the last week. During that period the sales of the baking company which is putting it out have increased from 80 loaves a day to 1,000, being restricted only by the capacity of two plants. Within a few days machinery already installed will be put into operation increasing the output by another 1,000 loaves a day.

The concern putting out this bread has its principal shop on Eighth Avenue, near Twenty-second Street. Another store and bakery is in Broadway, near 126th Street, but the 5-cent loaf has not yet became a reality in this store. For the last week bread in the Broadway store has been selling for 7 cents a loaf.

The master baker said yesterday, however, that he was making more money out of his bread at 5 cents a loaf than he did when he charged 10 cents because of increased sales. The labor costs have not increased, he said, and now that flour is around $9 a barrel bread can be baked as cheaply as before the war.

O'CALLAGHAN GETS STATUS OF A SAILOR

Labor Secretary Revokes Parole, but Permits Cork Mayor "to Land to Reship."

DAVIS ORDERS AN INQUIRY

He Considers That the State Department's Deportation Order Has Been Ignored.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Ignoring the State Department's order of deportation, Secretary Wilson of the Labor Department today granted permission to Lord Mayor O'Callaghan of Cork, who arrived in Newport News last week without a passport, to land as a "seaman."

According to the ruling of the Secretary of Labor, the Lord Mayor is permitted to land "for the purpose of reshipping on board any vessel bound for any foreign port or place, unless the Secretary of State directs that he be kept on his vessel."

Surprised at the failure of the Secretary of Labor to recognize the formal ruling of the State Department ordering deportation of O'Callaghan for attempting to enter the United States without a passport, Acting Secretary Davis tonight announced that he would order an immediate investigation of the ruling of the Department of Labor by the Solicitor for the State Department.

Until an opinion is received from the Solicitor, Acting Secretary Davis said he would take no action toward directing that O'Callaghan be kept on the vessel upon which he arrived in Newport News.

In granting permission to O'Callaghan to land to reship on a vessel bound abroad, Secretary Wilson further directed that the parole granted the Lord Mayor by the immigration authorities be canceled and that he be surrendered "promptly" by his attorney, Judge Lawless, in whose custody he was paroled.

Judge Lawless said tonight that he had no intention of surrendering O'Callahan until his testimony had been concluded before the Villard unofficial committee of one hundred investigating Irish conditions, before whom he appeared this week. It was for the purpose of testifying before this committee that O'Callaghan said he had come to the United States.

It was further stated by Judge Lawless that he had previously received assurances from the Department of Labor that there was no reason why he should surrender O'Callaghan until the Lord Mayor had accomplished his mission of testifying on the Irish situation.

First indications of the conflict between the Labor and State Departments over the case occurred when the Lord Mayor was paroled by the Secretary of Labor without consultation with the State Department after O'Callaghan had taken an appeal from the order of deportation found by the Immigration Board in Norfolk.

At that time Secretary Davis sought to obtain from Secretary Wilson recognition of the jurisdiction of the State Department in the case, arguing that the wartime powers conferred upon the executive branch of the Government gave the State Department the right to exclude O'Callaghan for entering without a passport.

Arguing on the question of wartime powers, counsel for O'Callaghan, in a brief submitted to the Secretary of Labor, contended that their client came within the meaning of an executive order of the President defining seamen as those who follow seamanship as an occupation, or who have signed a ship's articles.

They pointed out in this connection that the Lord Mayor had been employed as a seaman on the voyage to the United States after his presence as a stowaway had been discovered by the master of the vessel. This argument was accepted by Secretary Wilson and included in the text of his decision announced today.

Lord Mayor O'Callaghan was in Washington tonight, but declined to be seen or to make a statement.

KILLED AS TRAIN HITS AUTO.

Long Island Man Loses Life, Son Critically Hurt at Crossing.

Special to The New York Times.

BAYSHORE, L. I., Jan. 15.—E. R. Bateile, a resident of Brightwaters, near here, was killed instantly and his five-year-old son, Edward, was perhaps mortally injured this afternoon when a small sedan in which they were riding was struck by a westbound train of the Long Island Railroad. The crossing where the accident occurred is at the westerly end of the town, and is unguarded.

There were no witnesses to the accident except members of the train crew. The train was stopped immediately, and the trainmen brought the body of Mr. Batelle and the injured lad back to this city, where the boy was placed in Kings Hospital. Mr. Batelle only recently moved to Brightwaters.

Exodus of the "400" to Ave. A. See Real Estate Section.—Advt.

SIX (6) BELL-ANS in a Little HOT Water for INDIGESTION. Quick relief.—Advt.

CLUB HALTS HORSE DIVING INTO SUBWAY

Policeman Springs From Taxicab to Back of Runaway in Union Square.

BLOW FELLS THE ANIMAL

Frightened Crowds Scatter as Chase Turns Up and Down Broadway.

Policeman Henry Koch captured a runaway horse yesterday after a chase in Broadway which ended like a fox hunt. He brought down the animal just as it was about to "take ground" by diving into the Union Square subway station of the B. R. T. at Sixteenth Street and Broadway.

The horse started to run with a delivery wagon after it had been left standing by Laurence Kerwin, a driver for the Oakley Stables, at Seventh Avenue and Eighteenth Street, while he stopped to get cigarettes.

Policeman Koch saw the horse making for Broadway at high speed, and tried to grab the bridle, but was thrown aside and knocked down. He scrambled to his feet and hailed a passing taxicab.

The chauffeur put on full speed after the runaway and was almost alongside as the horse entered Broadway. The animal started uptown, then made a quick turn downtown. The chauffeur spun his machine around like a polo pony and was on the trail, while the crowd at the corner scattered in all directions, equally afraid of the hunters and the quarry.

Shouts so frightened the horse that it made another half turn and dashed for Union Square, scattering a number of people about to enter the subway kiosk.

The chauffeur made another quick change of direction and got alongside just as the horse saw the subway entrance and seemed to make for it like a scared fox darting into cover. Two or three people on the stairs reached the bottom in one leap.

Policeman Koch, who is a skilled horseman and served in the field artillery of the A. E. F., sprang from the running board of the taxicab and landed astride the animal's back. He made a desperate effort to rein the horse in, but was unsuccessful, and scores of spectators held their breath, expecting to see horse, rider and wagon plunge into the subway.

With only a second to spare, Koch swung his club and landed hard on the head of the animal. The horse and policeman fell in a heap. Koch jumped to his feet unhurt, while the spectators cheered.

HORSEMAN KILLED IN AUTO.

Harry W. Baldwin Crushed When Car Overturns After Collision.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 15.—Harry W. Baldwin of Pennington, a prominent horseman, was instantly killed on the Pennington Road this afternoon when his automobile collided with a coupe driven by Dr. J. W. Richards of Pennington. The impact sent the Baldwin car into a ditch, where it overturned, crushing Baldwin's skull.

Mrs. F. A. Primmer of this city, who was in the Baldwin car, suffered a fracture of the right leg. Mr. Primmer escaped unhurt, as did Dr. Richards. Baldwin was 60 years old.

ROB BANK, KILL TWO.

Bandits at Bay City Get Away With $5,000 in Loot.

BAY CITY, Mich., Jan. 15.—Six armed men robbed the Broadway Branch of the Saginaw County Savings Bank tonight.

They shot and killed L. M. Persons, an insurance man, and Martin L. Debats, President of the Valley Home Telephone Company, and escaped with loot estimated by bank officials at $5,000.

The bandits departed in the direction of Saginaw, according to the police. Debats and Persons were the last customers in the bank, which was about to close for the night. Persons had just turned away from the receiving tellers' window, and Debats had taken his place when the bandits dashed through the doors and immediately opened fire, their first shots killing the men.

The bandits then lined up bank employes and made their escape with all the money in the teller's cage.

Free Wireless in Russia Now.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 15.—News from Moscow says that a decree has been issued giving everybody employed in the State factories or connected with the Council institutions the right to free correspondence and the use of the Russian wireless telegraph. The decree is a link in Lenin's endeavors completely to abolish the money system.

"FLORIDA SPECIAL." Through all Pullman Club Compartment, Dining, Observation car train. No extra fare. Atlantic Coast Line R. R. Office, 1260 Broadway.—Advt.

HIGHWAYMEN SHOOT CASHIER, SLUG GUARD, GET $5,000 PAYROLL

Manhattan Brass Co. Employe Dangerously Wounded in Attack by 3 Men in E. 29th St.

TWO ROOF ROBBERS CAUGHT

Trapped by Police and Captured After 18 Shots Are Fired—Laundryman Held Up.

BURGLARS RIFLE TWO SAFES

Canal Street Jewelers Report $25,000 Loss—Five Held in Jersey as Bandits.

A cashier was dangerously wounded and his bodyguard bludgeoned almost to insensibility in a noon-hour hold-up yesterday in East Twenty-ninth Street by three men who escaped with $5,000.

Carlos Gunther, 40, of 32 Van Cortlandt Avenue, Yonkers, finished making up the payroll of the Manhattan Brass Company, 332 East Twenty-eighth Street, at about 10 o'clock. Armed with the payroll checks, he set out for the Importers and Traders National Bank, Broadway and Murray Street. As protection, Richard Schimke, 38, of 428 East Eighty-third Street, went along.

The cashier presented his checks and with the cash in a satchel turned into Twenty-ninth Street. The plant of the brass company extends through the block and, as the money was designed to pay off the workmen in the factory rather than the clerical staff, the official did not go down Twenty-eighth Street.

With Schimke at his side, Gunther had got as far toward the East River as Public School No. 14, 227 East Twenty-ninth Street. In front of the school three men jumped from a taxicab, waiting at the curb with its engine droning. Two levelled revolvers at the cashier the third with a quick dart got back of the guard and felled him with one blow. Later a 14-inch monkey wrench, such as used in machine shops, was found.

Gunther Shot When He Resists.

Gunther, although "covered," endeavored to put up a fight. At his first move one of the men coolly shifted his aim from the cashier's head to his heart. He fired once and Gunther fell with a bullet found two inches above the heart. The robbers then picked up the satchel, climbed into the machine, and were gone.

Policeman Joseph Hitz of the East Thirty-fifth Street Station heard the report of the revolver and gave chase. The only available machine for the pursuit was a five-ton truck. Hitz hopped on, but with the faster taxicab widening the gap between it and the truck, he abandoned the chase and turned to the wounded men. Both of them were taken to Bellevue in the truck. Gunther's condition was described as critical.

The guard, however, after treatment was taken to the East Thirty-fifth Street Station to see whether he could describe the assailants. He was weak from loss of blood and, after telling his story, had to be assisted to his home.

"The cashier and I left a bank at Murray Street," he said, "and rode up Third Avenue, getting off at the Twenty-eighth Street elevated station. We turned into Twenty-ninth Street. As we were passing the school we were attacked from the rear. I was struck with a monkey wrench. Gunther resisted the attempt of one of them to take the satchel, and one of them, without warning, fired point blank into his chest. Gunther sank to the ground as I regained my senses. The men escaped in an automobile."

The police said the guard could give them only a slight description of the robbers.

Burglars Caught on Roof.

Detectives of the West Sixty-eighth Street station fired eighteen shots at two burglars whom they captured after an exciting chase of the roofs of houses on the south side of West Seventy-third Street, between Columbus and Amsterdam Avenues at 12:30 o'clock this morning. The detectives, summoned by a telephone message, caught the men redhanded after they had looted the apartment of Frederick Cowan in the Hotel Nobleton, 126 West Seventy-third Street.

At the West Sixty-eighth Street Station the prisoners described themselves as Luke O'Neill, 21, a checker, of 500 West 164th Street, and William Daly, 23, also a checker, of 2,074 Eighth Avenue.

Shortly after midnight a woman telephoned to the West Sixty-eighth Street Police Station:

"There are burglars on the roof. Send right away. You can catch them."

Reserves and detectives raced to the scene and in a few minutes the block was surrounded. The skylight of 102 was opened. The roof was deserted. The detectives investigated. Around the chimney of 120 West Seventy-third Street they found a clothes line dangling to the roof of 124-126.

A detective descended and saw an open window on the sixth floor of the Nobleton. He rejoined his companions, who then hid and in a few minutes O'Neill mounted the rope, followed a minute later by Daly with a bag containing clothing and valuables. Then the three detectives leaped from behind chimneys.

Daly dropped his bundle and fled toward a skylight, followed by O'Neill, but after three detectives had emptied their pistols the two were captured.

After Mr. and Mrs. Cowan were noti-

Continued on Page Two.

CARLSBAD SPRUDEL SALT, imported from Carlsbad, Bohemia, Nature's own remedy for constipation, liver, stomach and kidney diseases, rheumatism, etc. Avoid substitutes. All druggists.—Advt.

Spanish Officials Strike To Back Up Wage Demands

MADRID, Jan. 15.—Large numbers of officials of the Ministry of Finance struck today in consequence of the attitude of the Government relative to their demands. Up to the present only Madrid and Tarragona have been seriously affected, but the discontent is showing itself in other districts, and various employes in State departments are discussing the question of joining the movement.

A dispatch from Madrid Friday said employes of the various Ministries were engaged in a conflict with the Government over salaries, which the employes contended should be paid in advance at the beginning of each month.

NURSE IS MURDERED AT NAVAL ACADEMY

Girl Is Found on Grounds With Skull Fractured Three Times With Piece of Pipe.

NO CLUE TO HER ASSAILANTS

Robbery Is Thought to Have Been the Motive—Naval Board Makes Inquiry.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 15.—Miss Harriet M. Kavanaugh, a nurse of the naval hospital, was murdered on the Naval Academy reservation some time between 9:30 and 10 o'clock last night, and although a board of naval officers detailed by Rear Admiral A. H. Scales, Superintendent of the Naval Academy, has been prosecuting a rigid investigation throughout the day, they had not tonight hit upon alue as to the identity of her assailants.

Lying in an unconscious condition at the foot of a 35-foot terrace about the Naval Cemetery grounds, just across College Creek from the Naval Academy proper, her skull crushed in three places, Miss Kavanaugh was found at 9:45 o'clock by Pharmacist's Mate Kenneth Riley, attached to the hospital. The Kavanaugh died today without regaining consciousness.

Numerous enlisted men attached to the local station were called at witnesses before the investigating board, but without result. Meanwhile the city police officials are aiding the academy authorities as far as possible in an effort to hunt down the criminal. At least two men, one in the service and another believed to be a deserter, are said to be under surveillance.

That Miss Kavanaugh was practically beaten to death by a piece of pipe and that robbery probably was the motive of her assailant are the accepted theories. Her pocketbook is missing. The belief most generally advanced at first was that Miss Kavanaugh may have been the victim of a criminal assault, but this was denied after an examination made by naval surgeons on duty at the hospital.

A piece of bloody pipe, about two feet long, which undoubtedly was the instrument with which Miss Kavanaugh was beaten over the head, was found near the spot where her body was discovered.

It has been learned that Miss Kavanaugh had been in Annapolis during the early hours of the evening in company with another naval nurse, whom she bade good night at the Oklahoma gate leading to the Naval Academy grounds. This was about 9:15 o'clock, and it is figured that the assault must have been committed about 9:30.

The spot where Miss Kavanaugh's body was found by Riley is at the foot of a terrace thirty-five feet deep, near what is known as "Cemetery Lodge," the home of James Casey, Superintendent of the Government reservation. So far as has been learned, no one heard Miss Kavanaugh utter any outcries. It is thought therefore that the first blow dealt her by her assailant must have been a severe one and that she was rendered unconscious instantly.

RECOVER $246,0000 STOLEN AT POST OFFICE

One Man Killed and Another Captured When Bandits' Automobile Is Wrecked.

DALLAS, Texas, Jan. 15.—Police here this afternoon announced that they had been advised that $200,000 in Liberty bonds and $46,000 in currency taken by bandits in a post office robbery here last night had been recovered near Lake Worth at Fort Worth. They said two mail pouches had been found.

With one alleged bandit dead and another in custody, the police were searching in Fort Worth for four other men who robbed the post office, escaping with registered mail after seriously wounding three post office employes.

Rufus Clemons of San Antonio was killed when the bandits' car was wrecked near Fort Worth, the police said. W. S. Scrivner, who was injured in the automobile wreck, was brought here from Fort Worth for questioning.

Scrivner, according to the police, confessed to participation in the robbery. Officials said they expected to arrest the leader of the band on information given in the alleged confession.

Twenty-eight thousand dollars' worth of mutilated paper money taken from the stolen pouches was divided among the robbers at the leader's home here last night, the police said they had learned.

ALL EAST COAST POINTS. "Florida Special," quickest time, no extra fare, 4:26 P. M. Atlantic Coast Line, 1260 Broadway.—Advt.

HYLAN AND ENRIGHT TO FACE GRAND JURY; ENRIGHT HASN'T QUIT

Whitman Subpoenas Officials to Testify Tomorrow in Investigation of Corruption.

TO EXPLAIN REFUSAL OF AID

Letter Declining to Assign Detectives to Inquiry Causes Ex-Governor's Action.

RESIGNATION IS DENIED

Report About Police Commissioner Retiring Untrue, Mayor Declares—No Complaint Yet to Miller.

The first step of ex-Governor Charles S. Whitman, in reply to the refusal of Mayor Hylan and Police Commissioner Enright to furnish detectives to assist in the Whitman investigation into alleged corruption in City Departments, was to cause Mayor Hylan and Commissioner Enright to be subpoenaed to appear before the Grand Jury at noon tomorrow.

A circumstantial story was circulated yesterday that Commissioner Enright had handed in his resignation to take effect on Feb. 2, and that Fire Commissioner John Kenlon was to be named to succeed him. Like the many other rumors of the resignation of Commissioner Enright, this one could not be traced to its source. Mayor Hylan said there was not the slightest foundation for it. Commissioner Enright said that it was an "exaggeration," using the familiar form of words in which Mark Twain disparaged the report of his death. Chief Kenlon ridiculed the report, but would not answer a point-blank question, whether the position of Police Commissioner had been offered to him.

The immediate object of summoning Mayor Hylan and Commissioner Enright, it was said, was to ascertain if they had consulted or collaborated in the letter of Commissioner Enright to District Attorney Swann, declining to assign detectives to aid in the Whitman investigation.

Mr. Whitman, discussing what course was open to him to compel the assignment of detectives to aid in the investigation, referred on Friday to the city charter, one provision of which clothes the Governor of the State with summary power to remove the Police Commissioner. Mr. Whitman was asked yesterday if the move was one to lay the foundation for asking Governor Miller to oust Commissioner Enright.

"I can't discuss that," he said.

Has Not Written to Governor.

Mr. Whitman also declined to answer a question whether he intended to ask Governor Miller for the removal of Mayor Hylan. He said that he had sent no communication to Governor Miller on either subject. He refused to say whether they would be asked to sign waivers of immunity or not.

The subpoena was served at 11:40 o'clock yesterday morning by Emil Kling, a process server attached to the District Attorney's office, on John S. Sinnott, the Mayor's Secretary. He accepted the document on behalf of the Mayor, saying that the Mayor was too busy to receive it personally.

Mayor Hylan later in the day conferred with Corporation Counsel John J. O'Brien and Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield. He and his two advisers refused to discuss their conference.

Mr. Whitman was reported to have worked out exact plans for proceeding against the Mayor and Commissioner, but not a word on the subject came from him. It was reported that one subject of discussion was whether the joint refusal of the Mayor and Commissioner to grant detectives to the Whitman inquiry would constitute a conspiracy in violation of the law. This idea was said to have been rejected as something too fine-spun under the circumstances. The investigators are disinclined to make the Mayor look like a persecuted man.

It appeared difficult, however, yesterday to proceed in any way against Commissioner Enright without proceeding against the Mayor. District Attorney Swann admitted that he had received the letter of Jan. 6 from Mayor Hylan declining to furnish the six detectives who had been promised to the Grand Jury on Jan. 8 on behalf of Mayor Hylan in a letter to the Grand Jury by Mr. Swann. Commissioner Enright's letter, barring an introductory paragraph, consisted solely of a quotation from the letter of Mayor Hylan, so that the responsibility for the police attitude was apparently borne by the Mayor alone.

May Effect a Compromise.

One outcome of the Mayor's appearance before the Grand Jury may be a compromise under which the six detectives asked for will be assigned to the Whitman investigation, and proceedings against Mayor Hylan and Commissioner Enright dropped.

Mayor Hylan refused to discuss the subpoena for his appearance before the Grand Jury. The last summons of this kind which he received came from the Aldermanic Extraordinary Grand Jury eighteen months ago, after the Mayor had charged that the Interborough strike was inspired by Interborough officials. The Grand Jurors asked what the Mayor regarded as hostile questions, and District Attorney Swann, who was then very friendly with the Mayor, said that his duty required him to protect the witness and advised the Mayor not to answer such questions.

The publication of the minutes later disclosed a statement of District Attorney Swann's at a later hearing that the Aldermanic body was seeking to indict Mayor Hylan and William Randolph from that time until the Mayor's curt letter, the day after his conference with Mr. Swann, refusing the services of the detectives. Police Commissioner Enright, on the other hand, had not spoken to Mr. Swann for two years and had cut the District Attorney in public. Their break dated back to the time Mr. Swann lavished praise on Captain Costigan when Commissioner Enright reduced and criticised Costigan.

The only statement made by Mr. Whitman for publication yesterday was the following, which he issued in typewritten form, when his attention was called to Commissioner Enright's attack on Captain Dan Costigan before the Kings County Grand Jurors' Association on Friday night:

"I was a Magistrate, Judge of General Sessions and District Attorney for a period covering many years in New York. During this time I was brought into close contact with Dan Costigan of the Police Department, and had every oportunity of observing his work. He is transparently honest, and in my opinion one of the best police officers New York has ever had."

Mr. Whitman declined to comment on the rumor that Commissioner Enright had resigned, but asked eagerly:

"Is it true?"

Denied by the Mayor.

Mayor Hylan, who has denied a number of reports in the last few months that he had asked for Police Commissioner Enright's resignation, smiled when the new report was called to his attention yesterday at the City Hall, and then said emphatically:

"There is nothing to it."

The last rumor of the Commissioner's forthcoming resignation got into circulation at the height of the crime wave when Commissioner Enright seemed to be somewhat excited, after leaving a conference with Mayor Hylan at the City Hall. On the following day Commissioner Enright made public a long series of measures for the protection of the city against bandits and gunmen. It was reported at that time that the Commissioner had handed in his resignation to take effect at some date when the event would appear to be disconnected from the attacks made on him in connection with the crime wave. The Commissioner and Mayor both ridiculed these stories.

Another story which was retailed several months ago was the supposed inside information that Commissioner Enright had submitted his resignation, but stipulated that he should retain his office until after last year's police parade.

Chief Kenion smiled, when he was first asked about the rumor that he had been asked to retire from his present position and head the Police Department.

"Well," he said, "I think I have been pretty successful as Fire Chief, and I might not be as successful in the Police Department. You know that office requires a man of great executive ability."

"But is it true or not?" he was asked.

"What do you mean, is it true or not?" he asked.

"This story that you are going to succeed Commissioner Enright?"

"The answer is that it is not true, as far as I know. I guess I have something to say about it."

He was then asked if the proposal had been made to him that he should resign his present post and take charge of the Police Department. When this was put to him point-blank, he said:

"I don't want to answer that question."

"The Police Department has a good executive now," he continued. "What they ought to do is to let him alone."

After leaving the subpoena for Commissioner Enright with an attendant at his office, Process Server Kling served a subpoena duces tecum on Chief Inspector William J. Lahey and obtained a number of books regarding the Automobile Squad. Those connected with the Whitman investigation refused to tell why the books were wanted.

More Graft Charges.

Mr. Whitman and his assistants are preparing, it was said, to present to the Grand Jury alleged evidence of further instances in which policemen have accepted gratuities to induce them to do their duty, as is charged in the case of Captain William A. Bailey.

Mr. Whitman made public copies of letters sent to him by Charles L. Phillips, General Superintendent of Claims of the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company, praising the work of the city detectives in the pursuit of those who stole securities and cash worth $150,000 belonging to the Chemical National Bank in December. One of the letters addressed to Mr. Whitman, was as follows:

Jan. 14, 1921.

Hon. Charles S. Whitman,
Special Assistant District Attorney,
Criminal Courts Building, New York City:

Dear Sir: I was very much surprised to read on the front page of the Jan. 14 issue of The World, the article relating to the reported hold-up of the messenger of the Chemical National Bank.

My company insures this bank under blanket bond. After the hold-up was reported, I and my assistants were in constant touch with the police officials assigned to investigate the matter, and I have knowledge of what their activities have been in connection with that investigation. I also know what this so-called "Private Detective" Schneider did in connection with it. I wish to say to you that the criticism of the Police Department and the officers, who worked on the case is entirely unjustified. Before this newspaper disclosure I was of the opinion that their efforts were about to result in the police finding the solution of it and apprehending the criminals, but the actions of this man Schneider, who had no rightful connection with the case in any way, have seriously hampered the work of the Police Department.

The writer and my assistants, Mr. William Morris and Mr. Ferdinand Gillespie, who are familiar with the facts, are willing to appear before you at any time to tell you in detail what we know about it.

Very truly yours,
CHARLES L. PHILLIPS,
General Superintendent of Claims.

Frederick J. Groehl, one of Mr. Whitman's assistants, investigated the complaints against the police in this case and reported that they were without foundation.

NOT ASKED TO OUST ENRIGHT.

Governor Says He Has Received No Request From Whitman as Yet.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 15. — Former Governor Whitman's intimation that he would ask Governor Miller to remove Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright of New York City had not assumed a definite proposal tonight as far as Mr. Miller is concerned. The Governor said he had not received any communication of any character from Mr. Whitman as yet.

The Governor declined to comment on his possible action should Mr. Whitman formally ask for the Police Commissioner's removal.

GRAND ST. BOYS REUNITE.

Association Holds Annual Dinner and Dance at the Commodore.

Grand Street, or at least a part of it, moved up to the Hotel Commodore last night, where the Grand Street Boys' Association held their third annual dinner and dance. The membership of 1,200 includes many who have moved away from the locality, but who seize the occasion to meet old acquaintances.

City Magistrate Max S. Levine is President of the organization. Among those at the dinner were Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, Judge Gustave Hartman, Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the Republican County Committee; Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield, Representatives Henry M. Goldfogle and Christopher D. Sullivan and State Senator James Walker.

Belittle Enright Charge That Inspector Was Demoted for Inefficiency.

SCOFF AT DISLOYALTY PLEA

"Marked for Slaughter" From the Day of Commissioner's Appointment, Is Comment.

Associates of Captain "Honest Dan" Costigan yesterday indignantly repudiated the assertion of Police Commissioner Enright in a speech Friday night before the Kings County Grand Jurors' Association that he had reduced Costigan from inspector in charge of the vice squad to captain and assigned him to precinct duty because Costigan had been "tried and found wanting" in the task of suppressing vice.

All of the policemen interviewed by a reporter for THE TIMES called attention to the fact that Rule 137 of the Police Department specifically forbade them from commenting on the Police Commissioner's statement under penalty of dismissal from the force, but it was noticed that they were more inclined to express their feelings in confidence than heretofore.

It also was observed that all of them spoke along the same lines in their defense of Captain Costigan, both as a conscientious policeman and as a fair and square commander, and because of that fact the statement of one man, holding a rank above that of captain, will suffice to record the views of all of them.

"It has taken more than two years for Commissioner Enright to decide on a reason for removing Captain Costigan as head of the vice squad," declared this officer. "During all that time the demand repeatedly has been made of him for an explanation of Costigan's removal. Now he asserts that not only was Costigan inefficient in handling the vice squad, but he also charges him with disloyalty and insubordination.

Scoffs at Disloyalty Charge.

"Disloyal in what way? Does Commissioner Enright think that he can compel all the men of the Police Department to be 'loyal' to him, regardless of what they may think of his management of the department? Insubordinate in what way? Has Captain Costigan, either as Inspector in charge of the vice squad or as Captain in charge of the several precincts to which he has been banished since he was thrown out of the vice squad, refused to obey an order of the Commissioner? Don't you know that if 'Dan' Costigan had been foolish enough to disobey any order issued by Commissioner Enright he would have been dismissed from the force long ago?

"Captain Costigan may have been disloyal in the sense that Commissioner Enright would have liked to have him 'loyal' to him, but no policeman in the city, even Costigan's bitterest enemy, and he has a few among the grafters, would believe for a second that Captain Costigan was inefficient in handling the vice situation.

"The fact is," continued the officer, "Captain Costigan was not wanted at the head of the vice squad from the minute Enright was made Police Commissioner in January, 1918, by Mayor Hylan. Commissioner Enright should bear in mind that the people of this city have not the short memories that would preclude them recalling the fact that 'Dan' was 'marked for slaughter' on the day Commissioner Enright took office.

"They can recall without effort that within four days after Enright became Police Commissioner he assigned to him the responsibility of command of the First Inspection District, on the lower east side, as well as that of suppressing vice in the city through the vice squad. Any man of any experience on the police force knows that the Inspector in charge of the First District, which includes the Bowery, Chinatown and other places which are the stamping grounds of thieves, gamblers and disreputable resort proprietors, has all he can do in attending to the work of that district without being held responsible for vice conditions in the five boroughs of the city.

"Yet Commissioner Enright held Costigan responsible for the enforcement of the criminal laws in the First Inspection District as well as the rest of the city until October, 1918, before he decided to remove him 'for a better man, Inspector McDonald.'

Recalls McDonald Shift.

"Inspector McDonald is acknowledged to be an excellent police officer, but if Commissioner Enright thought he was a 'better man' than Costigan in the suppression of vice in the city, why didn't he keep him there? Why did he transfer him several weeks ago from head of the vice squad to the Brownsville section of Brooklyn, and put Inspector Samuel Belton 'in his place'?

"Commissioner Enright in his speech Friday night led the members of the Kings County Grand Jurors' Association to believe that the work of suppressing vice in this city devolved solely on the head of the vice squad. Such an idea was the intention of Enright's predecessor in establishing and maintaining the vice squad.

"It might interest the members of that organization to know that the vice squad was intended as a check on the Inspectors in the nineteen inspection districts of the city in the work of breaking up disreputable resorts. When Costigan was removed as head of the vice squad he had about thirty-five detectives under him, while the Inspectors in the nineteen districts throughout the city had more than 400 detectives under them.

"If it is Commissioner Enright's view that Costigan should be held responsible with his small force of detectives for vice conditions throughout the city what did Enright expect the 400 detectives in the nineteen districts to do? While the work of arresting thieves is a necessary adjunct of the work of a detective assigned to the staff of an Inspector, he is charged specifically with the work of obtaining evidence against disreputable resorts and gambling places in his district, and his inspector is responsible for the manner in which he goes about his work.

"None of the detectives in the inspection districts is permitted to decide on the particular disreputable house or gambling establishment he would close up. He is assigned by his inspector to obtain evidence against a certain place, and the inspector, if he is on the level, will see that he does the work in such a manner that arrests will be made on legitimate evidence and the place closed.

Feared by Precinct Heads.

"When the vice squad was created it was announced that the squad would obtain evidence against places in any inspection district when the inspector of that district failed. They worked directly from the office of the head of the vice squad, and at no time during the period of Costigan's control did any Inspector learn of contemplated action against a disreputable house or a gambling establishment in his district until Costigan's detectives brought the persons arrested in the place to a police station in the district.

"You can see from that," the policeman explained, "that Costigan was not held in esteem by inspectors or captains in precincts throughout the city. Dan Costigan was considered a 'dangerous man,' and it is easy to understand why those fellows should desire to see him demoted to captain and placed in a precinct where he would not be able to cause them worry through raids.

"Commissioner Enright also said that the Vice Squad was in a chaotic state when he became Police Commissioner. I happen to know that the same number of men were in the Vice Squad when Enright became Police Commissioner as when Arthur Woods went out of office on Jan. 1, 1918. Costigan kept his force of men at work with the same efficiency during the brief period in which Woods managed by Costigan he would have been demoted to a captaincy and sent to a precinct within a few days after Enright took office.

Transferred Three Times.

"In the twenty-seven months since Costigan was dismissed as head of the Vice Squad he has been transferred to three precincts in different parts of the city. First he was sent to the Beach Street Station. After five months Enright decided to shift him to the Westchester Precinct at the extreme north of the Bronx.

"He was permitted to stay there thirteen months, then he was transferred to Brownsville. Costigan is not the kind of a fellow to whimper about any assignment, and he has made himself seem as contented in Brownsville as he would in a precinct near his home.

"But I can tell you that his life as Captain of those three precincts has not been a bed of roses. He has had to watch his step at every turn, because he knew what he might expect if they found him neglecting the slightest duty.

"From the day in January, 1918, when Costigan was held responsible for the First Inspection District, with a population of 600 000 persons, in addition to the Vice Squad, he has been aware that he was watched night and day. It was generally known throughout the department that Commissioner of Accounts Hirshfield was taking an unusual interest in conditions in the First District as well as in the precincts to which Costigan has been assigned since he was taken out of the Vice Squad.

"He has had no home life at all during the twenty-seven months he has been spied on, but he never complained about that because he is a scrapper, and when he is facing danger is most happy.

"Commissioner Enright's statement that forty-eight disreputable resorts were in operation when he transferred Costigan from the Vice Squad is bosh. The same places exist today, but are not carried now on the 'suspected list.' It may be true that they are not being conducted in the open manner they were run before 1917, but the fact is that all of those places were put out of business by the Military Intelligence when it began its crusade against them in 1918. In 1917 Commissioner Woods declared that the entry of America into the war had drawn on his force to such an extent that it would be necessary for the Military Intelligence to help close up such places. There was no secret made of the work of the Military Intelligence, and how Commissioner Enright can claim credit for suppressing those places is a mystery to policemen who know the facts.

Racing Bureaus Kept Moving.

"The records of the Police Department for the period of the war can establish the truth of what I say. I would not care to base my contention on Commissioner Enright's statistics. As regards his assertion that he closed up nine racing information bureaus which were in operation at the time Costigan was put in charge of the vice squad, there never was a time that such places remained in any one quarter for any great length of time. Costigan kept them on the jump all the time, and if there were nine such places doing business why does the Police Commissioner hold Costigan alone responsible for failure to suppress them. What about the Inspectors in command of the districts in which those racing information bureaus were operating? Has Commissioner Enright no word of censure for them for failing to suppress them? With his force of thirty-six detectives, did Commissioner Enright expect him to do all the work of suppressing disreputable resorts and gambling establishments. What proof have we that those racing information bureaus have been suppressed? Only Commissioner Enright's word for it.

"Everybody knows that handbooks and caravan poolrooms are still doing business in this city, and, while there is nothing like the number that were operated years ago, it is certain they could not do business unless they obtained their information from such bureaus.

"There is one way to prove whether the city is in such good condition as Commissioner Enright would have the people believe, and that is by having his administration investigated by a Legislative committee. Such a committee could call on Captain Costigan to tell his side of the story and he would not be hampered by Rule 137, which bars a policeman from defending himself from an attack such as Costigan was subjected to before the Kings County Grand Jurors' Association Friday night."

A reporter for THE TIMES called on Captain Costigan at the Brownsville station yesterday and asked him if he had any statement to make about Commissioner Enright's charge that he was removed as head of the vice squad because he was inefficient.

"My lips are sealed," he replied with a smile.

"Commissioner Enright charged you with being disloyal and insubordinate," he was reminded.

"I have nothing to say."

POLICE STILL GUARD AGBINST BOMB PLOT

Third Night of Special Protection for Homes and Important Buildings.

The police guard over public buildings and the homes of officials and citizens as a precautionary measure against a bomb plot was kept up last night with apparently unabated vigilance. Policemen were posted outside buildings they had been guarding for two nights. The fact that the expected plot had not materialized did not seem to have lessened the precautions.

The police made no progress in tracing the person who sent the telephonic warning that the Custom House would be blown up at midnight last night. In view of other information, the police thought that they were not justified in disregarding this warning.

Agents of the Department of Justice continued to express a lack of interest in the police precautions, although they received information of an anarchist conspiracy from a private detective agency similar to that upon which the police are acting. William J. Burns denied that the information had come from his office.

Patrolman Ginty of the West Forty-seventh Street Station, found a black brief bag at the corner of Forty-third Street and Seventh Avenue, just before o'clock last evening. The bag was locked, but it seemed to have more weight than if it had contained merely papers. He felt of the bag gingerly and found that it contained a cylindrical object, which at once brought to his mind the possibility of a bomb.

Ginty took the bag to the station, where Sergeant Richard O'Connor opened it with a key borrowed from another policeman, and pulled out a quart bottle of whisky. The police evolved the theory that some amateur bootlegger put down the bag while waiting for a surface car and abandoned it on the approach of a policeman in fear that the latter would inspect its contents and then arrest him.

Imports From France $461,125,623.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Exports from France to the United States in 1920 totaled $461,125,623, as compared with $166,867,398 in 1919, said a cablegram received today by the Department of Commerce from Consul General Thackara at Paris. Exports to American insular possessions for the year totaled $6,133,225, while in 1919 the total was $1,578,634.

All Factions Join in Pride Over President at Dinner of State Society.

HE PLEDGES AMERICA FIRST

Senator Willis Brings Message and Promises Real Constructive Program.

Ohioans to the number of 600 sat in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf last night at their annual dinner and patted themselves on the back for having elected Warren G. Harding President. Some of them recalled having voted for Cox, but James M. Beck pointed out that after an acrimonious campaign last night's pleasure was unanimous and could be manifested nowhere except in the United States.

It was remembered that at last year's dinner Mr. Harding had been present, and that the late George W. Perkins aroused prophetic enthusiasm when he hailed Mr. Harding as "our next President."

Senator Frank B. Willis, who nominated Harding at Chicago, and who was appointed on Friday to fill out his unexpired term in the Senate, brought cheers when he said that the next Administration would not be a "one-man" government, but that there could be no doubt Harding would be President all the time. Senator Willis disclaimed any desire or authority to speak for Harding.

"There has been a lot of nonsensical stuff printed that I am his spokesman," he said, "but the last time I saw him, I asked if there was any message he wanted me to bring to you tonight, and he said:

"'Tell them that the Administration will be an Administration that will think of America first, prosper America first, preserve America first.'"

"What Now?" the Question.

The theme of the addresses was "What Now?" to which Ohio, Senator Willis said, had always answered with men and constructive genius. Edison, the Wright brothers, Dan Emmet, and the commanders of the Civil War, men who sleep in the Arconne, all have come from Ohio, he recalled, and said:

"Ohio has never failed to answer, and she will not fail now. She has given the nation six Presidents, and her latest gift, soon to become the seventh, is the peer of any of his great predecessors.

"The incoming Administration will be distinctly American, but it will perform to the fullest every international obligation; it will hear and heed humanity's voice always; it will co-operate with all other civilized peoples to reduce armaments and render wars less likely; it will strive for better international relations through development of international law, but it will not surrender American sovereignty to any foreign council of nine or ninety, or consent to fasten the obligation to go to war upon the shoulders of one single American soldier by any authority in this world other than the Government of the United States."

Senator Willis told a story about a boy who bought a girl candy and took her to the movies, and when asked if he should kiss her was advised that he had done enough for that one girl.

"We've done enough for Europe without kissing her for the next 350 years," he said.

Answer to the Query.

"This, then, is likely to be the answer to your query, 'What now?' Rigorous economy in public expenditures, enlarged and assured prosperity by guaranteeing American markets to American labor and capital, and such dealings with foreign nations as will further in every possible way a lasting peace among nations without surrendering Americanism to Internationalism."

Mr. Beck spoke of the unusual spectacle of victor and vanquished sitting down in amity to hail a favorite son, and any statement to make about Commissioner Enright's charge that he was removed as head of the vice squad because he was inefficient.

"My lips are sealed," he replied with a smile.

"Commissioner Enright charged you with being disloyal and insubordinate," he was reminded.

"I have nothing to say."

HIGHWAYMEN SHOOT CASHIER, SLUG GUARD

Continued from Page 1, Column 6.

fied they identified the contents of Daly's bag.

Burglars Get $35,000 in Jewelry.

Burglars broken open a 3,000-pound safe in the office of Aaron Feldstein, manufacturing jeweler at 340 Canal Street, on Friday night, and escaped with jewelry valued at $25,000. The safe in the adjoining office of the Lexington Jewelry Manufacturing Company also was forced open, but little of value was taken. Both firms are on the eighth floor of a loft building.

Feldstein said his sister Pearl, employed in the office as a bookkeeper, discovered the robbery at 9 o'clock in the morning. A few minutes later, apparently notified by some one who saw that the office door had been "jimmied" open, three detectives from Police Headquarters appeared. Feldstein said he reached the office a few minutes later.

In order to enter the Feldstein office the burglars broke open two doors. The police said Feldstein was unable to give an inventory of the missing articles. Feldstein said his losses were covered by insurance.

An office tenant gave the police a description of two men who left the elevator on the eighth floor after business hours on Friday. This was the only clue.

Laundryman Robbed of $1,225.

Despite the efforts of the police to suppress the facts, it was learned last night that Benjamin Newfeld, proprietor of the Ocean Hill Hand Laundry, at 2,194 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, was held up and robbed of $1,225 in cash and jewelry in his store Friday afternoon. Newfeld was alone at 1:15 o'clock when two men entered. Each pulled a revolver and one of the men said:

"Throw up your hands. Make no outcry. Give us the keys to this door."

Newfeld made no attempt to get the keys. Then the robbers said:

"Keep those hands up; I'll get them." While the other man covered Newfeld, his companion took the keys. The robber then locked the door to the street and pasted up a sign, "Closed."

The men then backed Newfeld into a rear room, where they took $200 from his pockets, a watch valued at $125, a diamond ring worth $300, a scarfpin worth $200, and rifled the cash drawer of $400. The robbers tore several soiled towels into strips and tied Newfeld's hands. They strapped his belt around his ankles, gagged him with a towel, and threw him into a corner. Then they fled, locking the door and leaving the "Closed" sign hanging.

Half an hour later Newfeld freed his ankles. He went to the street door and banged on it. A passer by called a policeman, who unlocked the door.

Newfeld described the robbers as about 5 feet 9 inches in height, weighing from 150 to 160 pounds and dark complexion. They wore caps and heavy overcoats. The police are also seeking a woman accomplice, formerly employed in the laundry. Newfeld, however, denies that a woman took part in the holdup.

Five men going from Newark to Jersey City in a stolen motor truck of the Newark branch of the Metropolitan News Company of this city were caught in a traffic jam, prearranged by the automobile police squadron of Newark at the entrance of the Passaic River Bridge on the Lincoln Highway early yesterday and held pending further investigation. Two revolvers and a jimmy were found in the truck. The motor police went to the bridge entrance at midnight following advices that a big robbery was to be perpetrated in Bayonne. They were under command of Captain Philip Sebold and Lieutenant Frank E. Brex, special investigator for the Director of Public Safety. The news company truck was stopped, because such a vehicle is reported to have been used in several recent robberies in Newark and adjoining towns.

Harry Bohler, 22, of 27 Orleans Street, Newark, according to the police, admitted he had broken into the garage, where he works, early Friday and taken the truck. Ernest Fluard, 17, of 17 Passaic Avenue, is said to have admitted the weapons in the truck belonged to him. The other members of the party gave their names as Patrick J. Sullivan, known as "Paddy the Fight," 25, 752 Boulevard, Bayonne; Stanley Matusiak, 17, 84 Spring Street, Newark, and George Fogler, 22, 10 Madison Street, Newark.

The police records show that Fluard served in the State Home for Boys at Jamesburg, N. J., and that Bohler is now out on probation on a charge of robbery, while Matusiak was arrested several times for burglary. William Spaven was arrested an hour later, and Matusiak is said to have confessed that he and Spaver were two of three men who held up a saloon at 525½ Market Street on Jan. 5. Spaven and Fluard were identified by Harry Steinlous, of 550 Market Street, as two of three men who held up his saloon last Dec. 20, procuring $225.

Miss Ida Edgecomb, Treasurer and cashier of the Comedy Theatre, 110 West Forty-first Street, notified the main Shubert offices by telephone last night that a man had struck her on the head with a stick while she was in the box office and had escaped with $100. The Shubert offices got in touch with the West Thirtieth Street Station.

Investigation disclosed that no money had been taken. Miss Edgecomb refused to permit a physician or ambulance surgeon to attend her. She said she had screamed for help when attacked. Several employes who were near by denied hearing her cry for help.

TODAY'S SUNDAY TIMES

I. General News Section, Sports.
II. Editorial, Financial, Business.
III. Book Review and Magazine (in Rotogravure).
IV. Rotogravure Picture Section, First Part.
V. Rotogravure Picture Section, Second Part.
VI. Drama, Music, Fashions, Art, Steamships & Tours.
VII. Special Features, Automobiles.
VIII. Real Estate and Classified Advertisements.

HARDING AND WEEKS TALK OVER CABINET

Ex-Senator and Probable Next War Secretary Has Conference With President-Elect.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Jan. 15.—In conferring with ex-Senator John W. Weeks of Massachusetts today, Mr. Harding showed that he was still seeking advice in the selection of his Cabinet.

Mr. Weeks came to Marion in response to invitation and had a conference with the President-elect that lasted most of the forenoon. "Senator Harding and I talked over domestic problems mainly," Mr. Weeks said afterward. "Cabinet matters were brought up, and Senator Harding mentioned some men he has under consideration. He asked my opinion on the subject, and I gave it to him. That is all I feel at liberty to say concerning our talk."

It is generally accepted here that Mr. Weeks will be a member of the Cabinet, probably Secretary of War. He is known to have a preference for Secretary of the Treasury, a post that daily appears to be more likely to be held by Charles G. Dawes, despite the last minute appeals by friends of Andrew W. Mellon of Pittsburgh.

One Cabinet matter which Mr. Harding discussed with visitors today was the Department of Labor. The question of appointing a representative of organized labor as head of this department was brought up in a talk which the President-elect had with Meyer Bloomfield of Boston, a writer on industrial matters, who presented the view of organized labor that only a labor man could represent wage earners in the Cabinet. The President-elect has under consideration several labor leaders for the post, should he decide to reject the employers' advice not to appoint a union man as Secretary.

After his conference with Mr. Harding, Mr. Weeks mentioned James Duncan of Quincy, Mass., national head of the Granite Cutters' Union, as one of the more conservative labor men. Mr. Duncan's name was presented to Mr. Harding some time ago for consideration. John T. Lewis of the Mine Workers' Organization, also has been mentioned.

Representative Fordney of Michigan, Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, came here this morning to go over with Mr. Harding the tariff questions that are before the present session of Congress.

One development of the Congressional hearings, Mr. Fordney said, was the necessity for changing the method of imposing duties.

"I favor the establishment of ad valorem duties on imported goods, based upon dollar values of the materials in this country," he said. "Under the present rate of exchange duties on goods entering the country vary according to their source. German marks having depreciated in greater proportion than the franc and the pound sterling, the result, now that trade has been resumed with Germany, is that German goods yield less duty than similar articles from France and Great Britain. The effect is the same as that of a preferential tariff. Such a condition would be removed by duties, fixed according to the price of goods in this country."

Others who saw the President-elect today were ex-Governor Benjamin B. Odell of New York, and Representative John Tilson of Connecticut.

NO REDRESS FOR DRINKERS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Thirsty citizens who buy bottle labeled "champagne" only to discover the contents to be "kickless" cider, have no legal redress, according to a ruling made by District Attorney Laskey today. He refused a request from Department of Agriculture experts for a warrant to seize carbonated cider alleged to be labeled champaign in violation of the misbranding section of the Food and Drug act.

Mr. Laskey explained that any one who purchased champagne in these days was violating the Volstead act, and that the law could not be invoked to aid in its own violation.

Manager of Reisenweber's and Three Waiters Arrested for Selling Drinks.

START OF CLEAN-UP SEEN

Detectives Accompany After-Theatre Crowd and Seize Bottle of "Evidence."

Detectives from the staff of Inspector Boettler, charged with making Broadway dry, began operations last night in Reisenweber's restaurant, Eighth Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street. They arrested Patrick Kyne, the manager, and three of the waiters. All were taken to the West Forty-seventh Street Station and charged with violation of the Volstead Act.

Last night picked men from Inspector Boettler's staff were ordered out for the first test of the department's power to enforce the prohibition amendment.

Three of the detectives arrived at Reisenweber's between 11 o'clock and midnight. They took a choice table and waited. At 12:50 o'clock this morning Lieutenant Rigney, recognized as Inspector Boettler's right-hand man, came into the restaurant.

At that time the place was filled with after-theatre parties and waiters were busy serving what the management insisted was soft drinks. It was on this ground that Manager Kyne several days ago said that he would continue to stay open, despite the 1 o'clock closing ban, since food and soft drinks could never come in conflict with the Eighteenth Amendment.

But Lieutenant Rigney had no sooner appeared in the doorway than the three men at the table went into action. One of them took a bottle that was before them and carefully put it away in an overcoat pocket. Then, with Rigney leading the way, they arrested Mr. Kyne and the waitress.

According to the detectives, high balls were served to them, and the liquid in the bottle had more than its brown color to make it forbidden. A denial that any liquor had been served in the restaurant was made by Mr. Kyne at the station.

GET AUTO PLATES EASIER.

License Numbers to Be Issued at Three Places Here.

Automobile license plates for 1921 will be distributed this year to three points, to avoid the congestion that occurred in former years at the Secretary of State's office, Broadway and Sixty-fifth Street. Under the plan announced yesterday by John J. Lyons, Secretary of State, passenger car and commercial vehicle plates will be obtainable on Tuesday and thereafter at the Twenty-second Engineers' Armory, 216 Fort Washington Avenue; the First Field Artillery Armory, 1,988 Broadway, between Sixty-seventh and Sixty-eighth Streets, and the First Cavalry Armory, 1,679 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn.

The temporary branches will be open daily, except Sunday, from 9 until 4 o'clock, and should the rush prove burdensome additional distributing stations will be opened. These secondary points include the First Field Ambulance Armory, 56 West Sixty-Sixth Street, and the Twelfth Regiment Armory, Columbus Avenue and Sixty-first Street.

As in former years, the Secretary of State's office will be in a position to handle registration of all sorts.

Teachers Honor Dr. Jameson.

A luncheon was given yesterday at the Hotel McAlpin to Dr. Henry W. Jameson, Superintendent of Public School Districts 23 and 24, the Bronx, by 500 teachers and supervisors of the city. Dr. Jameson will retire on Feb. 1, having reached the age limit. The luncheon was in recognition of his long and honorable service in the public schools.

BERGDORF GOODMAN
616 FIFTH AVENUE

HAVE JUST RECEIVED FROM PARIS AN IMPORTATION OF LINEN DRESSES FOR SOUTHERN WEAR, PRICED $50 TO $100.

FROM OUR OWN WORKROOMS—NEW SPORT CLOTHES, WRAPS, STREET FROCKS & EVENING GOWNS.

BERGDORF GOODMAN
616 FIFTH AVENUE

Extremely Low Prices
FUR COATS
EVENING WRAPS
FUR TRIMMED COATS

Redfern Corsets.
Annual Clearance Sale
Every Corset Fitted
$4.75
Although the size range is not so complete as at the beginning of the sale, we still have a number of exceptional values at this price, especially among the smaller sizes.
$7.75
(Including tax)
At this price also the sizes are somewhat broken, but we have an assortment of excellent styles in both back-lace and front-lace.
All the corsets in the sale are in perfect condition and all represent unusual reductions.
No C. O. D.'s
REDFERN CORSET SHOP
570 Fifth Avenue
(Just Above 46th Street)

The Tailored Woman Inc.
A Shop of Tailor-mades
Fur-Trimmed Suits
We will close out a collection of winter coats exquisitely trimmed with beaver, squirrel, mole and other rich fur collars, cuffs and bands.
These represent higher cost models reduced to 145.00
Tailored Suits, Dresses, and Blouses at Clearance Prices
622 Fifth Avenue at 50th Street

J. M. Gidding & Co.
384 386 388 Fifth Avenue AT 46TH ST N.Y.
NEW YORK PARIS
PRESENT
SOUTHERN STYLES
FOR FASHIONABLE
WATERING PLACES
AND WINTER RESORTS
SHEER FROCKS
SPORT SUITS AND COATS
SWEATERS
BLOUSES
SEPARATE SKIRTS
DRESS AND SPORT HATS
WRAPS AND FURS
ACCESSORIES

Dinner—Tonight
And with the dinner delightful music and a captivating cabaret. Between times a whirl on the waxed floor. With it all the hum of conversation from fashionable folk supremely happy in an environment and atmosphere to be found only at Churchill's.
Sunday Dinner De Luxe $2
CHURCHILL'S CABARET AT 7.15 AND 11.15
"More than a restaurant—a Broadway institution."
CHURCHILL'S
Broadway at 49th Street

SOCIALIST CONGRESS

Communist Faction of Italian Party Wins a Tactical Victory at Leghorn.

BOLSHEVISM IS THE ISSUE

Extremists Obtain Earlier Consideration of Action on the Third Internationale.

LEGHORN, Italy, Jan. 15 (Associated Press). — Communism and socialism matched forces this afternoon at the session of the Italian Socialist Congress. The proceedings were tumultuous, and during the uproar fist fights among the delegates were numerous. To observers of the proceedings there seemed to be no doubt from the beginning of the session that the issue of Bolshevism would be fought to a finish.

Every mention of communism and socialism brought forth cheering and protests from the opposing factions.

Deputy Bombacci, the President, head of the Communist wing, opened the congress by sketching the history of the Socialist Party in fighting against prejudices and in overcoming all obstacles. "Our work will remain a glorious heritage to all," he said.

Signor Bombacci then mentioned the names of Dr. Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg, the German Socialists who were killed in Berlin during the disorders of 1919, and whom he characterized as martyrs. At the mention of their names there was pandemonium in the hall. The Communists raised cries of "Hurrah for Communism!" which antagonized the Socialists, and there ensued a fierce battle of words between the factions throughout the hall. In the confusion some of the delegates stood on the benches, gesticulating and shouting until they were exhausted.

Signor Bombacci finally was able to resume his address, which he concluded with the words, "Long live the voices which come to us from the dead, from the prisons, from the exiles, in which the proletariat of all countries unite."

There was one test of strength this afternoon, though no count was taken of the vote. It came on the raising of hands on a motion by Deputy Misiano, which the congress approved, changing the sixth item on the calendar to the fourth. This item dealt exclusively with the reports of the Third (Moscow) Internationale and the action to be taken by the Italian party with regard to it. The Communists are most insistent in adhering to the Internationale and were the authors of the change in the program so as to hasten a final decision.

There now remain to be discussed only three items, which deal with the routine of the organization and the reports of the Secretary and the Treasurer. It is expected that Monday will see a vote on the question of adherence to the Third Internationale.

Today's events in the congress seemingly forecast a schism among the Italian Socialists. A rule has been made in the congress that representatives of other nations may sit at the sessions, but that only the Communists among them may address the congress, the others being simply spectators. Accordingly, this afternoon the German Communist Paul Levy, who was a partner of Dr. Karl Liebknecht, made an address, but Wilhelm Dittman, former Vice President of the German Reichstag, was not permitted to do so, Dittman's name was received with catcalls by the Communists.

In the course of his speech Herr Levy said:

"The good of a party is not always in union. There are moments in party life when the different elements cannot go forward together. It is as Liebknecht said, when there are two parties there is no unity. We look for the German Communist Party to carry the German proletariat to victory."

To this there came an outcry, "The French are stopping you!"

Herr Levy concluded by urging the carrying on of the principles of communism and the making of arms for the proletariat.

"Provide yourselves with the arms and munitions necessary for victory," he said.

Deputy Graziadei, in addressing the congress, said:

"Never was capital so well united internationally as it is today. After the Treaty of Versailles each of us is asking autonomy. The Communists want autonomy: the Centrists want autonomy. We forget the greater object ahead. We must decide between national and international Socialism. Only with a united front can we overcome the international army which will be used to crush us."

So tense was the feeling that the various factions before the opening of the session were isolated by their leaders in different hotels, preparing for the fray to decide between the issues of Socialism and Bolshevism, Nikolai Lenin, the Russian Soviet Premier, and other extremist leaders having decreed that all moderates must be excluded from the Third Internationale.

The moderate elements were led by Deputies Treves and Modigliani, they, with Deputy Turati, head of the Conservative section, controlling the Centre Wing of the party. The Turati faction, it was forecast today, would go over to the forces of Premier Giolitti should the threatened schism occur. This action, it was said, would permit the Premier to form a strong coalition Cabinet which would stabilize the Government.

Leghorn, situated in the midst of the industrial region of Italy, which includes the cities of Milan, Turin and coming as a sequel to the unusual industrial situation which developed a few months ago when workmen occupied factories and evacuated them only when there was in prospect an agreement that employers and employes would join in the operation of industrial plants.

The sessions of the congress are being held in the Goldoni Theatre, where the 3,000 delegates can be easily accommodated. At the entrance are large portraits of Rosa Luxemburg, Dr. Karl Liebknecht, John Leo Jaurès, the French Socialist chief who was assassinated in 1914, and other prominent figures of socialism. Red ribbons and bunting adorn the walls of the theatre, while over the centre of the stage is an immense picture of Karl Marx, framed with a border of red ribbons.

Fifteen hundred Royal Guards and carabinieri reached the city yesterday to reinforce the regular police and preserve order. There has been a great influx of Nationalists, and it has been presumed that a counter-demonstration was being planned, but the number of Nationalists in the city is small and is insufficient to warrant alarm.

CARRY PAPERS IN PARIS, AMERICANS ARE WARNED

Police Raid All Night Haunts, and Persons Unidentified Are Locked Up.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 15.—Americans who come to Paris within the next few months and wish to see anything of the night life of the city will do well to carry with them constantly their passports and identification papers. Since the recent debate in the Chamber on the number and activities of foreigners in France, the police have developed an activity which is proving embarrassing to many respectable citizens, as well as those whose records do not bear investigation.

Every evening during the last week one quarter or another of the city has been raided, the police visiting every café and resort of all kinds, and requesting the frequenters to produce their papers. Those who from negligence or other reasons have none are removed quietly to a lockup to spend the night in reflection before appearing before the Police Commissioner.

Last night more than a score of people were rounded up in this way and half of them detained for the night. Among them were at least three Americans who, according to their own statements, were entirely innocent of any other delinquency than that of having indulged their curiosity and forgotten their passports, so that they had no means of proving their identity and statements.

During the week over a hundred people of all nationalities have been detained, and among them the police have found a number of the most undesirable class of immigrants, whom it is intended to deport. All Americans who visit the Prefecture of Police to obtain identification papers are being warned to carry them with them constantly, and the advice is worth following by all who wish to make any study of Paris night life.

AMERICANS ESCAPE FROM KEMAL'S TURKS

$1,000,000 Tax Demanded of American Factories at Samsun, Which Shut Down.

Melville Chater, a writer, of 106 East Fifty-second Street, this city, who entered Anatolia on behalf of the Near East Relief despite the prohibition orders of Mustapha Kemal Pasha against travel by Americans in the interior of Turkey, has escaped from internment in Talas, a Turkish village near Caesarea, at the foot of Mount Arish, in the heart of Anatolia, according to a cablegram received yesterday from Colonel James P. Coombs, director of the Near East Relief in Constantinople.

H. F. Crathern, Boston, and Martin L. Weaver of La Junta, Col., two Near East Relief workers in Syria who have been besieged in Urfa since Aug. 19 last and cut off from all communication with the outside world, have finally made their way safely to Aleppo, Syria, it is announced in a cable from Bayard Dodge, son of Cleveland H. Dodge, who is director of the American relief activities in Syria. The two Americans are reported on their way to the United States.

Mr. Chater reports by cable conditions in the interior of Anatola as follows:

"American tobacco factories in Samsun have been shut down, as they refused to pay $1,000,000 in taxes levied by the Turkish Nationalist Government. This left 3,000 persons unemployed and compelled the American Near East Relief to open a bread line in Samsun.

"In Talas the American Relief buildings were subjected to a twelve hours' official search by the Turkish Nationalist authorities looking for non-existent wireless installation and for firearms. A general trade boycott of Armenians and Greeks throughout Anatolia is causing a condition of starvation which is being alleviated by the American Near East Relief.

"Seven hundred French prisoners in Caesarea are in pitiful condition. There are many deaths among them. They were furnished by the Near East Relief with clothing, blankets, mattresses and a Christmas dinner, which they ate out of American gasoline cans."

At the same time Colonel Coombs cables the Near East Relief that it is imperative to procure at once three American male surgeons to operate hospitals at Samsun, Sivas and Caesarea.

IN MOST OF IRELAND

Dublin Hears That Sinn Feiners Plan Daylight Ambuscades Throughout the City.

ATTACK LONDON OIL PLANT

Arson Gang, Supposedly Irish, Fights With Police — One of Assailants Is Caught.

DUBLIN, Jan. 15 (Associated Press).—The period of comparative quiet which began in Dublin at the Christmastide proved short-lived. During the past week there was a continuous succession of tragedies in which Crown forces and persons identified with the Sinn Fein movement appeared to have suffered about equally.

The atmosphere in Dublin is now similar to that in Cork before martial law was declared. The people are becoming afraid to venture into the streets owing to the fatalities recently inflicted on innocent civilians. The city is alive with rumors of impending trouble.

According to one report ambuscades against Crown forces, which previously have been staged chiefly after the curfew hour, will take place at daylight in the heart of the city, regardless of the risk of such attacks to pedestrians, for the purpose of forcing an extension of martial law to the metropolis.

That martial law will be instituted generally is credited. The belief prevailing in some quarters is that it will be put into effect in the next few days and be accompanied by the changing of the curfew hour from 10 o'clock at night to 8 o'clock.

The military authorities were never more active in the streets than now. There is not only a marked increase in the number of raids upon houses, day and night, but people walking quietly in the streets are undergoing in increasing numbers the ordeal of sudden challenge and search.

Notwithstanding the renewed peace talk appearing in the English press, the Irish people seem to have abandoned hope of a settlement in the near future.

Eamonn de Valera is said to have spent a busy week conferring with his associates and attending at least one "Irish Cabinet" meeting, at which the heads of all the principal departments of the Sinn Fein were present. It is stated that the "Republican Government" will continue to function without interruption.

Regarding de Valera's delayed manifesto, it is said that it may not be issued until the end of next week. It is understood that it willl contain a review of the situation as de Valera found it on his return from the United States, and perhaps deal with the results of the recent attempts to bring about peace negotiations.

Simultaneous attacks were made on a number of police barracks in the counties of Tipperary and Limerick in the early hours of this morning, but without success. In consequence the police and military were reported to be extremely active in those counties today.

An attempt also was made to blow up the Kilbritain barracks near Bandon, County Cork, but the police appeared on the scene and drove away the attacking party before the fuse to the bomb was lighted.

Other parts of the country report similar incidents, including the ambushing of police and military, but thus far there have been no known casualties. Soldiers and police made an extensive search today of the Camlough and Belleck districts, County Armagh, making many arrests.

The execution of Joseph Murphy, which was due to take place next Monday, has been postponed to Wednesday pending a hearing of an appeal for the quashing of the court-martial sentence. The court-martial found Murphy guilty of having led an attack in Cork on Oct. 8 against the military, when Murphy is alleged to have carried a bomb and a revolver.

Considerable evidence, it is said, will be produced tending to show that Murphy was not a member of the attacking expedition. The case is attracting widespread attention.

CORK, Jan. 15.—Two detectives in plain clothes were wounded here today. The police later drove through the streets firing shots. Two civilians were wounded.

Arson Attempts Renewed in London.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—What is supposed to have been a Sinn Fein arson gang was surprised at work at the big oil premises at Wandsworth, a London suburb, early this morning by police who succeeded in capturing one man, Patrick Kenny. About a dozen men are said to have been engaged in the operation, which, if successful, would probably have caused a conflagration on a great scale. The men fired on the police when the latter chased them.

Kenny was charged today in the police court with being concerned with other men in the attempted murder of two policemen and attempted arson.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The Vacuum Oil Company's plant at Wandsworth, Southwest London, attacked this morning by an arson gang, supposedly Sinn Feiners, has 60,000 barrels containing 2,500,000 gallons of oil stored there.

IRELAND'S CASUALTY LIST.

184 Policemen and 54 Soldiers Killed There in Two Years.

Official information issued in London yesterday announces that from Jan. 1, During the week ended with Jan. 8 two policemen were killed and nineteen policemen and one soldier wounded.

HUSE HAULS DOWN FLAG.

Admiral Turns Over Command in European Waters.

CHERBOURG, France, Jan. 15.—Vice Admiral H. McL. Huse hauled down his flag this afternoon as Commander in Chief of the American naval forces in European waters, and relinquished his command to Vice Admiral A. P. Niblack. The ceremony took place on the United States cruiser Pittsburgh. The customary salutes were fired and a reception followed.

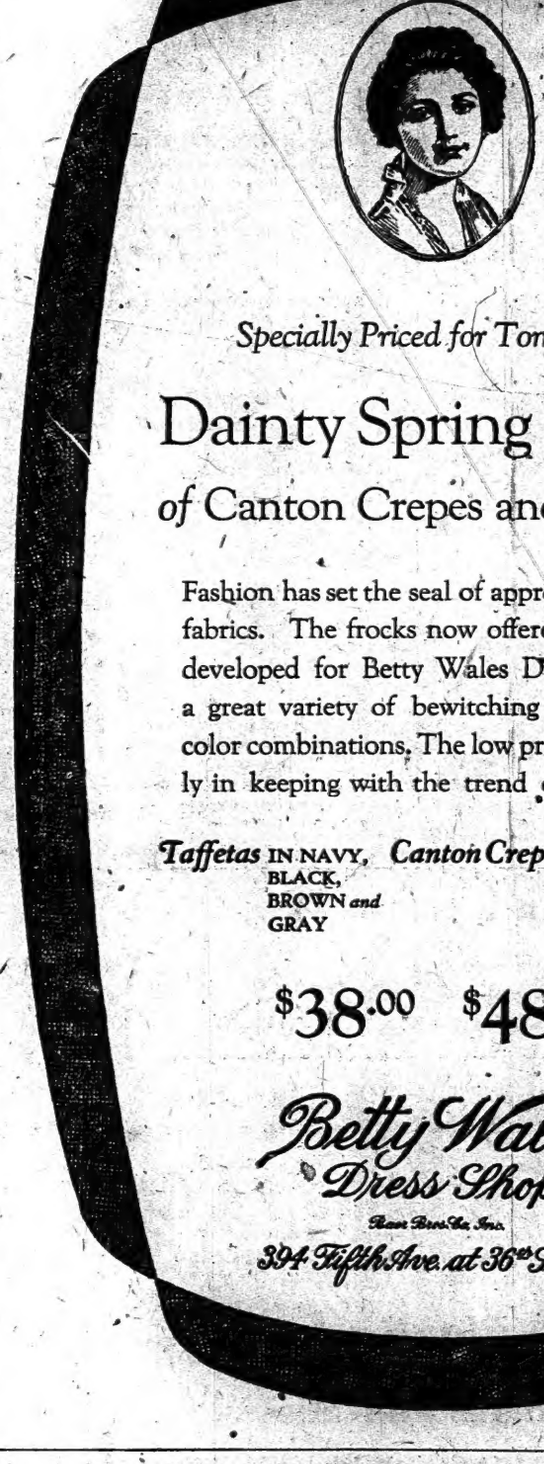
Vice Admiral Huse left late today for Paris, where he will remain a week and then sail for the United States, where he will revert to the grade of Rear Admiral and take up command of the Third Naval District, with headquarters in New York.

The Pittsburgh will join other American warships abroad in a cruise of the Mediterranean.

L. P. Hollander Co.
Fifth Ave., at 46th St.

DRASTIC PRE-INVENTORY SALE

Suits Furs Bathing Combinations
Wraps Blouses Infants' Wear



Specially Priced for Tomorrow

Dainty Spring Frocks of Canton Crepes and Taffetas

Fashion has set the seal of approval on these fabrics. The frocks now offered have been developed for Betty Wales Dress Shop in a great variety of bewitching designs and color combinations. The low prices are strictly in keeping with the trend of the times.

Taffetas IN NAVY, BLACK, BROWN and GRAY

Canton Crepes IN NAVY, BLACK, BROWN, GRAY, HENNA and BIEGE

$38.00 $48.00

Betty Wales Dress Shop
Rose Brox Co. Inc.
394 Fifth Ave. at 36th Street

Hickson INC
PRESENT
NEW MODELS

MORNING FROCKS
AFTERNOON GOWNS
DINNER AND EVENING GOWNS
TAILORED SUITS
TAILORED DRESSES
SPORT ATTIRE
BLOUSES AND SWEATERS
HATS AND ACCESSORIES

Specially created for those seeking smart clothes for the various WINTER RESORTS

Collections pre-eminently typifying the uncomparable charm of Hickson clothes
Youthful — Distinctive — Refined

Fifth Avenue
At Fifty Second Street
New York
PARIS BOSTON

Gloves That Carry An Air of Distinction

THIS is the kind you will see in the shops that recognize accessories as the most important part of the smart woman's costume.

Our Glove Department has just that point of view. Here you may find gloves of the finer sort—fine in material, in workmanship, in fit and in style. Gloves that bear witness to the faultless taste of their wearer. In brief, Gloves of undeniable distinction.

REYNIER
Made in Grenoble, France

Lord & Taylor
FIFTH AVENUE - NEW YORK

CRISIS IN PARIS INTERESTS BRITAIN

Continued from Page 1, Column 2.

world cannot preserve the past and that it must live and work for the future if its wounds can ever begin to heal, has been shared by every one of our allies save France."

The Observer says:

"The view taken by the British Government of the French crisis is extremely grave. There were governments in Berlin, Paris and London each disposed to settle the outstanding legacies of the Treaty of Versailles in a reasonable spirit; the Brussels conference was making real headway on the question of reparations, mainly owing to the fact that the French delegates had instructions to advocate a moderate plan, and the prospects for the Paris conference of next Wednesday were bright.

"That M. Leygues should have been thrown over on the eve of the conference is regarded with perplexity as well as with anxiety in Downing Street if, as seems likely, the vote of the French Chamber is to be interpreted as an attempt to wreck the work of Brussels. And if it means that the French have had enough of reasonableness toward Germany and are determined to stiffen again, then it is feared the position is very serious as between the French and Great Britain.

"It is no exaggeration to say that the sabotage of Poincaré and his confederates has once more imperilled the Entente. Last year's deplorable split over the Polish question will be repeated if the Paris wreckers emerge triumphantly out of the present crisis. The old dismal conflict between London and Paris will have to be refought, with the difference that time is shorter for settlement.

"Before Spring there will have to be a settlement with Germany. The British Government will have to point out to Paris quite unequivocally that the British people, which is already exasperated by constant postponement of the European settlement and is determined at all costs to restart European trade, will not tolerate any further trifling. The dangers of the economic situation are too clearly realized here, as is the fact that they have been accentuated by the refusal of Paris to clinch the settlement of the German indemnity.

"In an interview with the Petit Parisien published on Nov. 20 last Mr. Lloyd George declared: 'It is necessary to investigate, estimate and fix. I repeat fix.' The French Government had at last decided to act on this principle. At the very moment of promised fulfillment the Government itself is defeated by intransigeant extremists who are blind to the dangers which are imminent.

"The British Government has requested the postponement of next Wednesday's conference. No good, it is held, could be hoped from the conference until the exact issue of the French crisis is known, and the British Premier is fully determined to point out that a return on the part of France to unbending insistence on her literal treaty rights in the interests of French financiers will constitute a grave menace to Europe and to the Entente."

From independent sources THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent understands that this question of fixing the indemnity which Germany must pay is the chief point on which a clash is likely. In some quarters it is suggested that the French policy seeks to obtain possession of the Ruhr coalfields as a means of compelling Bavaria to secede from the German Empire. According to this theory Bavaria depends upon the Ruhr for its coal and so long as the Ruhr Valley is in Prussian hands there will be no South German federation, whereas if France could occupy the Ruhr coalfields she would be able to say to Bavaria:

"Now the way is clear to secession. You will be our friend and we will take care of your coal supplies."

It is believed here that while ideas of this kind may be entertained in some, chiefly militaristic, circles in Paris, they do not represent and are unlikely to guide any settled Government policy. The main difficulty confronting the French politicians is that of admitting to their countrymen the impossibility of redeeming their promises of indemnity.

M. Briand is rated one of the few great statesmen in France. In the war he was Premier from October, 1915, till March, 1917. During that time he reorganised the Cabinet once; this was done in December, 1916. His first was a coalition Cabinet, in which all uncompromising Republican factions had representation; his second greatly increased the number of portfolios and attempted to reorganize the conduct of the war. General Joffre was relieved of his command in the field and made technical adviser to the War Council; General Nivelle succeeded him as Commander-in-Chief on the western front, which was considered a popular move, and finally General Hubert Lyautey was made Minister of War.

It was under the second administration of Briand that defeatism first became a force to be felt in France. The conduct of the war did not succeed in accordance with the new plans; there were secret Cabinet meetings which gave rise in the Chamber to charges that the Government was playing politics instead of making war. All during the Winter of 1916-17 the attacks in the Chamber increased in violence. General Lyautey, finally pleaded ignorance of Parliamentary procedure and resigned during a debate on the air service. A few days later the rest of the Cabinet, with Premier Briand, followed him into retirement.

From this time, March 17, 1917, until the following November, when Clemenceau took the helm, France passed through a nightmare of moral and physical uncertainty and steady decline, in which, however, one of the strongest patriotic forces exercised in the Chamber were the speeches of former Premier Briand.

M. Briand has had two careers; that of statesman, sketched above, and that of a politician. There was also the period of transition, for in becoming the statesman he found it necessary to repudiate many of his youthful Socialist doctrines, and to place the dominance of law and order, the supremacy of patriotism, above party and even the international fetish for the universal brotherhood of man. He was Premier during most of 1909, 1910 and 1911, and again for two months in 1913. M. Briand possibly saved the cities of France from starvation in October, 1910, when on a general strike being declared on the lines of transit and communication he called the strikers under the colors, making their strike desertion and punishable by military law.

In various cabinets he has held widely different portfolios, and because he has had the faculty to appoint expert rather than political subordinates in each office he has seemingly shone as a specialist.

He was first elected to the Chamber in 1902, when he was still Secretary of the National Committee of the Socialist Party. He was then 32 years of age. He came to Paris from the Breton port of Saint-Nazaire, having founded a Socialist paper there. It was La Lanterne, then owned by M. Millerand, which caused him to seek his fortune in Paris. His career as a politician from 1902 till 1906 was principally due to the protracted struggle for a free church in a free State, the Associations law and the Separation Act—all the aftermath of the Dreyfus case—which enabled him to reveal his eloquence, his logic and his great persuasive powers to a superlative degree.

He is said to have been one of the very few public men of France who have never met with a serious political defeat and whose steadily growing political prestige has never suffered relapse.

The Tailored Woman INC.

A Shop of Tailor-mades

On Sunday, January the 2nd, we advertised Vorumbo Camel's-hair Coats at fifty-eight dollars.

We have since been informed by the Vorumbo Company that the cloth of which these coats are made, while of Vorumbo manufacture, is composed of cachemere yarn, and not camel's-hair.

It is our primary principle to state the exact truth and never to mislead nor to confuse the public either in printed or verbal statements.

We do not wish our patrons to retain merchandise which may have been selected under a misapprehension. If, therefore, anyone who bought one of these coats will be good enough to inform us, we shall be glad to send for the coat and credit the purchase price.

Exclusive New York Shop for Wooltex Tailormades

622 Fifth Avenue at 50th Street

Assistant Buyer

Misses' Dresses and Suits

Required by

Best & Co.
5th Avenue at 35th St., N. Y.

Unusual opportunity for a woman of conspicuous energy and style ability; one with experience in an active, successful department, and knowledge of the popular-priced market preferred. Apply in strict confidence to Philip Le Boutillier.

FRANCE CONCERNED BY SOVIET MENACE

Confirmation Received of Massing of Troops at Strategic Points on Red Frontiers.

BELIES RED PROTESTATIONS

Bolshevist Authorities Said to Be Drafting All Russian Males of Fighting Age.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 15.—News of Bolshevist troop concentrations continues to reach Paris in increasing volume. Despite Tchitcherin's assertion that the movements of the Red army are to be explained by demobilization, and the flood of pacifist sentiments being poured out by the other leaders in Moscow, it is stated in a high official quarter here that details of Red troop concentrations at various important points on the Soviet frontier have been received from no fewer than twenty-three different sources.

Whether the Bolsheviki intend war or not, one thing seems certain—Red troops at the present moment are threatening the Baltic States, Bessarabia, Georgia, and, most of all, the key area east of Vilna, where a comparatively slight advance would accomplish the double object of gaining touch with the Germans and turning the left flank of the Polish defenses.

Between Smolensk and Mohilev the French say, there are forty Red divisions—of course this is not so big as it sounds, because the division strength doubtless is not over 3,000 or 4,000 men. In the region of Minsk there are sixteen divisions of infantry and cavalry and the Bolsheviki are reported to be drafting all males of fighting age.

The French authorities say they are convinced of the bona fides of their informants and strongly repudiate any suggestion of propaganda, such as a certain section of the press in England which is advocating accord with Moscow has not hesitated to put forward. On the other hand, troop concentrations do not necessarily mean war. The Bolsheviki are too clever diplomatists not to realise that you cannot hope to put over a bluff unless you give your adversary reason to suppose you are prepared to back it with action.

Not the least important feature of the situation is that if, as they assert, the French really believe the Reds are threatening war, they are on this point diametrically opposed to England. In fact, there is reason to believe that England is now ready not only to make a commercial agreement with the Soviet Government, but actually to give it de facto recognition. This conflict of views is of marked interest today when all signs point to France being governed by an aggressive Nationalist element.

A strong policy toward Germany which the Conservative Nationalist Party advocates, naturally has as its pendant as strong policy toward Russia. More than any other party the Nationalists have always said that the Russian and German problems are closely akin. They believe, or affect to believe, that the links between Moscow and Berlin are as close as they are dangerous, not to France alone, but to the future peace of Europe and of the world.

SOVIET TROOPS UNRULY.

Sixth Army Moved From Esthonian Border Following Mutiny.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 15.—A special dispatch from Helsingfors says that according to Russian journals the Sixth Soviet Army has been removed to the interior of Russia from the Esthonian frontier on account of bad discipline and mutiny.

BOLSHEVIKI SOUGHT TO MUZZLE SCHWARTZ

Deceived Delegates to Moscow and Told Them Not to Listen to Him.

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—Zinovieff, member of the Central Committee of the Russian Soviet, upon whose orders M. Schwartz, the American Socialist, of San Francisco, and his wife were imprisoned at Moscow, issued instructions to the other delegates to the Third Internationale that they should hold no intercourse with Schwartz, and should decline to listen to him. Arthur Crispien, one of the four German delegates, so informed Schwartz today.

Herr Crispien said that this order followed a discussion between them and Schwartz, whose opinions they had asked because he spoke Russian and had had an opportunity for investigation without government conductors. Shortly afterward Schwartz disappeared. As a matter of fact, he and his wife were thrown into prison, remaining there for several months. Mrs. Schwartz went on hunger strike, and a few days after her release died from the effects of exhaustion and starvation.

In speaking with Mr. Schwartz today, Herr Crispien explained:

"When we missed you, we went to Zinovieff and asked what had happened. Zinovieff assured us that you had gone home. Later we heard rumors that you were in jail, and again visited Zinovieff, who said: 'Oh, he is all right. He will go out with the other American delegates.'

"The German delegates did not know that the other Americans had already left Russia.

"Had we known that you were still in prison," said Herr Crispien, "we would have started an agitation over all Germany for your release."

BRITISH FIGURES PUT OUR NAVY FIRST IN 1924

Post-Jutland Capital Ships Taken as Basis of Comparison Instead of Daniels Method.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The Morning Post declares that Secretary Daniels's tables regarding the relative strengths of the British, American and Japanese navies present the problem in a light which is hardly justified by the facts, since he adhered to a tonnage and numerical basis of calculation while making little endeavor to emphasize the most important factors in determining the value of fighting ships, namely, pre-Jutland and post-Jutland standards of construction.

"A juster appreciation of what America's building policy really signifies," says The Morning Post, "may be gleaned from the following figures which have been received from an authoritative source. They deal with construction on a pre-Jutland and post-Jutland basis and the battleship and battle cruiser values of the two fleets are, as capital ships, treated as the most important standard of comparison. The tables show to the full the naval superiority which America will have gained by 1924, a year prior to that which Mr. Daniels discusses."

The table given shows the United States in 1924 with eighteen battleships of post-Jutland design as compared with a single British ship, the Hood.

"In the face of this," continues The Morning Post, "Mr. Daniels chooses to emphasize the fact that in 1925 the two fleets will be approximately equal in numbers, that battle cruisers will be equal in numbers, though it is admitted the United States will have the more effective fighting ships.

"Daniels also would have Americans think that in 1925 the British Navy will be superior to the American in light cruisers, destroyers and submarines. Considering once more the year 1924, it is true Britain will have forty-six light cruisers as compared with the American ten, but in the case of modern destroyers of thirty-four to thirty-six knots, America will have 285 and Britain only 153. The United States will also have 94 modern submarines and 69 of a somewhat older type, while Britain will have 108 modern vessels of that type.

"Under these circumstances it is somewhat remarkable that emphasis should be laid by the American Navy Department through Mr. Daniels on the fact that by strenuous efforts America will have built about established a naval equality with Great Britain by 1925. The figures for capital ships of fighting value, in the modern sense of the word, speak for themselves. America's program will in the space of four years give her an overwhelming superiority.

GERMAN EMIGRATION FAR BELOW FORECAST

Only 6,010 Left for United States, Mexico and Argentina in Three-Quarters of 1920.

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—German emigration to Brazil, Argentina, Mexico and the United States during the first three-quarters of 1920 reached 6,010, of whom only a very few went to the United States. This is approximately twice the number of emigrants during the previous year, but a bare fraction of the number German economists and investigators predicted would emigrate.

Estimates are still being made that 5,000,000 Germans are preparing to depart, dependent, however, upon their raising the money for transportation. Most of the emigrants, it is reported, will head for Brazil, which is offering inducements for colonization purposes.

The Imperial Immigration Board has instituted a series of lectures to inform prospective emigrants of South American conditions in detail. The first of these lectures was given at Hamburg last night to 400 men who expect to locate in Brazil.

Official circles in Berlin are apparently much exercised over the class of persons leaving the country. The head of the imperial office said:

"Those leaving are from our best class of citizens. The Bolshevists, the very poor and ultra-radicals are remaining with us. Economic conditions are forcing this situation."

The immigration officials have begun the preparation of a new law in response to demands for the regulation of the outgoing tide, which, in view of the character of the emigrants, some authorities, including Dr. Max Hirsch, believe "eventually will result in a weakened, probably an anaemic, German race and impaired German culture."

State aid has been suggested for the better classes, who have suffered most by the economic condition, and State improvement of barren lands which, if irrigated or drained, it is estimated would support 10,000,000 additional farmers. The provisions being drafted in the new law are not known.

COMMUNISTS BREAK POLICE RANKS IN BERLIN

Four Persons Hurt in a Celebration of the Anniversary of Liebknecht's Death.

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—Four persons were wounded, one of them seriously, in a clash this afternoon between the security police and communists in Unter den Linden, where Reds attempted to form a parade in celebration of the second anniversary of the killing of Dr. Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg, the radical Socialist leaders.

Police reinforcements quickly broke up the demonstration and forced the crowds to disperse.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—A dispatch received here from Berlin says the fight between the communists and the police followed fiery speeches, in which demands were made for the overthrow of the Government. Six thousand persons in procession broke through the police cordons in the Charlottenstrasse and Friedrichstrasse and tried to rush the cordon in the Wilhelmstrasse, but fled in panic when shots were fired from the Brandenburg Gate.

GEDDES CALLED HOME TO SEE LLOYD GEORGE

Continued from Page 1, Column 1.

from New York. He has been summoned to London to confer with the Prime Minister and the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. According to present intentions he will return to Washington in February."

During the absence of Sir Auckland, R. Leslie Craigie, First Secretary of the Embassy, will act as Ambassador.

Suggestions that the Ambassador was called home in connection with the action of Mr. Craigie in writing directly to Chairman Kellogg of the Senate committee investigating cable communications, denying testimony of witnesses that the British authorities imposed a cable censorship, found no support in official circles. It was stated authoritatively that the Embassy had satisfactorily explained the matter and that the incident was closed.

Naval Policy Big Theme, Says London.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The question of the naval policies of the United States and Great Britain will be one of the principal subjects discussed at the forthcoming conferences here between Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador to the United States; the Prime Minister, David Lloyd George, and Karl Curzon, the Foreign Secretary, it was stated in authoritative quarters today.

SAILED IN GREAT SECRECY.

Cunard Officials Would Not Admit Before That Geddes Was on Ship.

Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, sailed yesterday for Liverpool on the Cunarder Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, accompanied by his secretary and valet. Up to the last minute before the liner left officials of the Cunard Line would not admit that he was on the ship, and his name did not appear on the passenger list or the berthing list. Captain W. R. D. Irvine, the commander, apparently had no knowledge of the presence of the Ambassador.

After the liner had moved out into the middle of the river an official of the line admitted that some one, resembling Sir Auckland, went up the after gangway hurriedly, and that a suite on the "B" deck might have been reserved for him by long-distance telephone.

Persons with good eyesight were positive that they could see the tall British envoy on the boat deck, wearing a gray coat and cap, and waving his hand to friends on the pier. Be this as it may, it is certain that the Ambassador did sail on the liner.

Franklin Simon & Co.

Fifth Avenue, 37th and 38th Streets

Monday

At Less Than Cost

Women's Hosiery

OF SILK, WOOL, AND LISLE

From Our Regular Stock

Pure Thread Silk Hose
Black or white pure thread silk hose; lisle garter top.
Regular prices $1.25 and $1.55 .75
Three pairs for $2.20

Pure Thread Silk Hose
Black, heavy weight, full fashioned; lisle garter top.
Regular price $2.45 1.50
Three pairs for $4.45

Openwork Pure Thread Silk Hose
Black pure thread silk, full fashioned; lisle garter top.
Regular price $3.95 2.95
Three pairs for $8.75

Hand Embroidered Clox Pure Thread Silk Hose
Black with white or white with black novelty or plain clox, silk garter top.
Regular price $3.95 2.95
Three pairs for $8.75

Imported English Wool Hose
Heather colorings with contrasting vertical stripes, or two-tone accordeon ribbed.
Regular prices $2.50 and $3.25 2.00
Three pairs for $5.95

Pure Thread Silk Hose
Extra quality, black or white, lisle garter top.
Regular prices $2.75 to $3.25 2.00
Three pairs for $5.95

Pure Thread Silk Hose
Superior quality, black, white or brown, silk top.
Regular prices $3.95 to $4.95 2.85
Three pairs for $8.50

Hand Embroidered Instep Pure Thread Silk Hose
Black or white with self hand embroidered instep.
Regular price $3.95 2.95
Three pairs for $8.75

Paris Openwork Clox Pure Thread Silk Hose
Narrow or medium width openwork clox, black or white with silk garter top.
Regular prices $4.50 and $4.95 3.95
Three pairs for $11.75

Fine Lisle Thread Hose
Silk finished, black; full fashioned, spliced heel and toe, with garter welt.
Regular prices $1.35 and $1.50 .85
Six pairs for $5.00

Superior Quality Lisle Thread Hose
Black, white, and colors; full fashioned, spliced heel and toe, with garter welt.
Regular price $.95 .55
Six pairs for $3.00

WOMEN'S HOSIERY SHOP—Street Floor

Franklin Simon & Co.

Fifth Avenue, 37th and 38th Streets

Monday

At Less Than Cost

Women's Gloves

Our own importations, and gloves made exclusively for Franklin Simon & Co.—all taken from our regular stock.

Imported French Gloves
One, two or three clasp glace kidskin in black, white or suit shades.
Regular price $3.25 1.50

Biarritz Slip-on Gloves
Capeskin in white, black, tan, brown or beaver, also doeskin in white or natural.
Regular prices $3.75 to $4.50 2.75

8-Button Capeskin Gloves
In tan, brown or beaver, or with strap and clasp in white, black, tan or beaver.
Regular prices $6.25 and $6.50 3.75

Imported French Gloves
12 button glacé French kidskin gloves. White or black.
Regular price $5.50 3.75

One-clasp Lined Gloves
Tan or gray capeskin or gray mocha suede. Knitted wool or fleece linings.
Regular price $4.50 2.00

Mocha or Capeskin Gloves
Tan or gray, seamless knitted wool linings; one clasp or slip-on.
Regular prices $7.50 to $8.25 3.50

Imported Wool Gloves
Forearm length accordeon ribbed cuffs; white, black or heather colorings.
Regular price $2.00 1.25

Scotch Wool Knitted Gloves
With accordeon ribbed wrists; all wanted colors.
Regular price $1.75 1.00

Imported Wool Sports or Driving Gloves
White, natural or novelty colors with extra large gauntlet cuffs; brushed wool effects.
4.50
Regular prices $8.25 to $15.50

NO EXCHANGES — NO CREDITS

FEMININE GLOVE SHOP—Street Floor

Franklin Simon & Co.

Fifth Avenue, 37th and 38th Streets

Monday

Women's and Misses'

Milanese Silk Underthings

MADE IN OUR OWN FIFTH AVENUE WORKROOMS

At Greatly Reduced Prices

Fashioned according to Franklin Simon & Co. exclusive models, of the finest quality silks, and made under personal supervision in our own workrooms.

Milanese Silk Bloomers
Extra full with large reinforcement.
Regular price $5.75 3.95

Milanese Silk Vests
Several models of the highest quality, including Minoette silk; bodice or regular tops, also lace or Georgette trimmed models. Chemise length included.
Regular prices $7.50 to $8.95 6.95

Milanese Silk Combinations
Day or evening models, bodice, regular or elastic top; knee length.
Regular prices $12.95 to $13.95 10.75

Milanese Silk Chemises
Envelope models of the finest quality silk, with Georgette crêpe and hemstitching or lace trimmed. Shoulder strap models.
Regular prices $10.75 and $11.75 9.75

NO EXCHANGES — NO CREDITS

GLOVE SILK UNDERWEAR SHOP—Street Floor

Franklin Simon & Co.

Fifth Avenue, 37th and 38th Streets

Monday

At Pre-War Prices

Hand Made, Hand Embroidered

Philippine Underthings

WOMEN'S HAND MADE UNDERWEAR FOR SPRING AT PRICES WE HAVE NOT BEEN ABLE TO OFFER FOR YEARS

Philippine Nightgowns
Hand made of fine batiste and hand embroidered.
JANUARY PRICE 1.95

Philippine Nightgowns
Of fine batiste, entirely hand made and hand embroidered.
JANUARY PRICE 2.95

Philippine Nightgowns
Hand made of fine batiste, and hand embroidered in individual designs.
JANUARY PRICE 3.95

Philippine Envelope Chemises
Of batiste, hand made and hand embroidered.
JANUARY PRICE 1.95

Philippine Envelope Chemises
Shoulder strap models of batiste, hand made and hand embroidered.
JANUARY PRICE 2.95

Philippine Envelope Chemises
Shoulder strap models of batiste, hand made and embroidered in special designs.
JANUARY PRICE 3.95

Women's Imported Paris-Made Underthings

At Greatly Reduced Prices

Silk novelties characteristically French, and only one of each model; also fine Paris lingerie expressing the highest type of French needlework

NO EXCHANGES — NO CREDITS

LINGERIE UNDERWEAR SHOP—First Floor—Take Elevators

SINGER PLANTS CUT WAGES IN 3 CITIES

Reduction of 20 Per Cent. Affects 8,000 Employes in Elizabeth Alone.

AKRON RESTRICTS JOBS

Susquehanna Silk Mills Lower Pay —Northern Pacific Shops on Four-Day Basis.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Jan. 15.—The Singer Manufacturing Company, with its main plant in this city employing about 8,000 persons, and other plants at Bridgeport, Conn., and Flint, Mich., today posted notices of a 20 per cent. reduction in wages, to become effective at once. The cut will not apply to salaried workers. Officials could not say if a reduction in the price of Singer sewing machines would follow, but thought it likely.

The Diehl Manufacturing Company, with a plant here employing about 1,500 persons, also announced a 20 per cent. wage cut today. The company manufactures dynamos and motors.

SUNBURY, Pa., Jan. 15.—Susquehanna Silk Mills, a $10,000,000 corporation, with plants at Sunbury, Northumberland, Milton, Jersey Shore, Lewistown and Huntingdon, Pa., and Marion, Ohio, today announced a wage cut of 10 per cent., effective Jan. 27. Thirty-five hundred employes are affected. The corporation, which manufacturers broad silks, has been working short-handed for eight weeks. No further retrenchments are expected, it was announced. A 10 per cent. bonus and a 6 per cent. dividend were discontinued several weeks ago, making the total readjustment 25 per cent.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 15.—Rather than have a tenth of their number thrown out of work the entire shop force of the Northern Pacific Railway in the St. Paul district, has agreed to go on a four-day basis, it became known here today. More than 2,000 workers are said to be affected. The company recently notified the shop workers that it would be compelled to reduce the force 10 per cent. on Jan. 15. The unions involved held meetings and agreed to forego the clause in their contracts calling for a six-day week.

PEORIA, Ill., Jan. 15.—One thousand employes of the Holt Manufacturing Company today voted to accept a wage reduction of 15 per cent., effective Feb. 16, and agreed to make an effort to increase production 25 per cent.

AKRON, Ohio, Jan. 15.—In an effort to stop the influx of unemployed to Akron, notices that only residents of Akron are being hired have been sent to labor exchanges in Ohio and adjoining States, city officials announced today. Nearly 5,000 men have come here since the first of the year seeking employment in the rubber plants, according to A. A. Berry, superintendent of the State-City Free Labor Bureau. Many residents of the city are still without jobs.

ORDER $3,000,000 IN SHOES.

Retailers, at Milwaukee Convention, Start Buying Movement.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 15.—Orders approximating $3,000,000 were placed during the four-day convention of the National Shoe Retailers' Association, James P. Orr, President, said today. The organization comprises nearly 6,000 active members and as many more associate members, he said.

"The buying movement which opened up at the Milwaukee convention was very encouraging to manufacturers and retailers alike," Mr. Orr said. "Retailers will now anticipate their requirements and shoe factories will open. Steady employment for workers will result."

15,000 ORDERED OUT.

United Shoe Workers Strike in 3 New Hampshire Cities.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 15.—A strike to go into effect Monday was declared by the United Shoe Workers today against the McElwain Shoe Company.

The order affects plants here and in Newport and Nashua, employing, together, more than 15,000. The action was taken after a series of conferences called to consider the company's announcement of a wage reduction of 22 per cent.

METAL WORKERS SEEK PEACE

Hope Now for Settlement of Trouble With 2,100 Locked-Out Men.

Hope of an early settlement of the controversy between the locked out inside iron and bronze workers and the Allied Building Metal Industries appeared yesterday. The insistence of a large number of the 2,100 idle men for a conference to patch up the differences and enter into a new contract caused many of the employers to express the opinion that an early settlement was in sight. Several local unions have asked for a conference, but so far the requests have been refused, on the ground that the controversy has already been taken up with international union officials.

Benjamin Osborn, Third Vice President of the International Union of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, with which the inside iron and bronze workers are affiliated, held one conference last week with the employers and another meeting is expected early this week. It is claimed by the employers that some of the locals ignored their contracts and strikes were declared against several employers during the year.

The agreement between the employers, who at that time belonged to several different associations, and the unions was for two years. One of the provisions was for a 44-hour week in 1921. When the unions tried to enforce this provision early in the year the men were locked out, the contention of the employers being that as the unions had broken the agreement in calling strikes last year the clause for a shorter work week was not binding on the former.

NORTHWEST TRADE RALLIES.

Bank Credit Is Easier and Farmers Are Marketing Grain.

Special to The New York Times.

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 15.—Business in the Northwest has taken a turn for the better. The bank credit situation is easing, farmers are again selling their grain, railroad business is picking up and there are evidences at every hand of revived activity in the industrial and commercial fields of the Twin Cities and the Northwest.

Delayed for four months, frozen bank loans are beginning to be liquidated. There is a noticeable easing of money, though rates may not soften for some little time. Manufacturers report fewer cancellations and more orders on the basis of new 1921 prices.

Wheat has rallied to more than $1.70 cents a bushel, a full 30 cents above the low Fall mark. This price is attractive to farmers, apparently, and there is a new movement to sell. Today 224 cars of wheat were received. Yesterday 298 cars arrived as compared with 288 a week ago and 235 a year ago. Country shipping points are calling for more cars.

The Northern Pacific and Great Northern Railroads today issued orders forbidding any of their grain cars from leaving their lines. The empties are to be rushed to country points.

"We have seen many indications that there is a new movement to market grain," commented Roy A. Young, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank. "The order of the two railroads is very significant. It shows apparently that the end of the grain holding movement has come."

NEW RULES FOR SERVANTS.

Pittsburgh Housekeepers Insist on a Full Day's Work.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 15.—The Housekeepers' Club of Pittsburgh at a meeting in the Hotel Chatham decided that their servants must be on the job at 8 o'clock sharp in the morning and stick to it until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, take a $3 a day wage instead of $3.50, pay their own carfare to and from work and clean the laundry after the washing is done.

These are a few of the new rulings the housekeepers have laid down. Some time ago the housekeepers banded together to protect themselves against the practices of their servants. Then the chief complaints were at washerwomen, who demanded breakfast at their employers' expense and insisted on playing the phonograph instead of the washing machine. Some of them wouldn't ride home in anything less than the family limousine.

But now work isn't as plentiful as it used to be and the house servants will have to get in tune with the mistress or take "the air."

FOOD AND WORK FOUND FOR STARVING FAMILY

Story of Suffering of Peter Aran and Wife and Children Brings Quick Relief.

The family of six, found suffering from starvation and ptomaine poisoning in a bare room on the second floor of 753½ Third Avenue, Brooklyn, on Friday, are back again on the road to enough, if not plenty. Peter Aran, who brought his wife and four children here from Porto Rico two months ago, was told yesterday to report tomorrow at six industrial plants "prepared to go to work."

Police Captain James Gillen of the Fourth Avenue Station got the offers of work, while neighbors and persons who had read the Arans' story in the newspapers brought food enough to last a week, lots of clothing and offers of medical attention. Mrs. Marcoes Aran, who was the most seriously ill of the group, was pronounced out of danger at the Kings County Hospital.

And, topping the turn in the Aran luck, came word last night that both Carmine Aran, 20 years old, and Lola, 16, would go to work tomorrow in a South Brooklyn laundry, each getting $15 a week.

CALVARY TO NAME TRUSTEES

Administration of Lots Bequeathed to Church to Be Discussed.

The annual business meeting of Calvary Baptist Church, Fifty-seventh Street, near Sixth Avenue, will be held Wednesday evening, Jan. 28, at which time three trustees are to be elected, as the term of three, including that of William A. Trabur, Chairman, expire.

It is expected that some friction will develop at the meeting over the manner of holding the title to two lots in New Jersey which were left to the church by a woman member in her will. A statement was made last Wednesday evening at the weekly meeting in regard to these lots, and it seems some have taken exception to the way they have been administered.

K. of C. to Convene in San Francisco

The thirty-ninth annual international convention of the Knights of Columbus will be held in San Francisco the first week in August. This was decided by the Supreme Board of Directors. It was announced here last night by Supreme Secretary William J. McGinley.

1,000,000 NOW IDLE IN GREAT BRITAIN

Continued from Page 1, Column 3.

revolution," it is a good thing for the community, as an official with whom the topic was discussed the other day remarked, that "the ringleaders should announce their plans in advance."

The view taken by the Government is that pending results which may be hoped for from such conferences as those which Sir Robert Horne at the Board of Trade is holding with leading financial and industrial authorities, everything possible must be done to alleviate distress and thereby mitigate immediate perils.

To that end the Labor Ministry has instituted various schemes for staving off starvation in the most urgent cases. First, it has urged the local Government authorities to undertake construction of needed arterial roads, thus improving road transportation facilities in much the same way as the railroads make cut-offs. Eight thousand men are actually employed. The local authorities have also undertaken a number of schemes for public improvements, the figures for which have not been compiled.

The Government committee with Lord St. Davids as Chairman is sitting continuously to examine these projects and has a fund of £300,000 from which to make grants in aid. Another 7,000 men have been put to work already and 4,000 more will soon be employed on construction of sewers, roads, &c., which housing schemes under the Ministry of Health require and actual building operations carried on under them are taking care of other thousands.

All this, however, it is recognized, touches merely the fringe of the problem and does little or nothing for skilled craftsmen. It was to meet the needs of these that the Government proposed the much-abused plan of working "short time." The justification advanced for it is that it is already a familiar method of meeting hard times in a number of well-organized industries.

Dr. MacNamara, Minister of Labor, enumerates fourteen industries, including cotton weaving and spinning, boots and shoes, engineering and hosiery, in which short time has already been adopted, and the Government purposes to extend it to royal dockyards and other naval establishments. But in many trades it is not easily applicable and labor as a whole frowns upon it as having a tendency to reduce the standard of living, or, at any rate, to show workers can get along with lower wages and so paving the way for permanent reduction.

Meanwhile the unemployment insurance scheme which came into force last November is regarded as another palliative. Under it each unemployed man in insurable trades gets 15 shillings and each woman 12 shillings. This is little, but it is something when nothing else is coming in, and it is so much valued that the Government, by special act, waived the conditions for gaining the weekly benefits in cases in which it was impossible for the unemployed to have complied with them.

BONWIT TELLER & CO.

The Specialty Shop of Originations

FIFTH AVENUE AT 38TH STREET

To Close Out Monday

WOMEN'S HIGH & LOW SHOES

About 1000 pairs of walking oxfords, boots and dress pumps in broken lots and sizes.

6.00

Regardless of Cost

No C. O. D.'s. No Credits. No Exchanges

January Sale of Undergarments

Philippine Chemises — Formerly 3.00 — 1.95

Regular chemises of fine batiste, hand embroidered, strap and regular shoulders.

Philippine Drawers — Formerly 3.50 — 1.95

Eyelet hand embroidered of fine batiste, ribbon drawn.

Philippine Chemises — Formerly 5.95 — 3.95

Hand embroidered and hemstitched of fine nainsook.

Philippine Nightgowns — Formerly 8.95 — 5.50

Straight and empire models of fine batiste, hand embroidered.

Philippine Nightgowns — Formerly 6.95 — 3.95

Of fine batiste, hand made, hand embroidered, ribbon trimmed.

Imported Japanese Silk Undergarments

Silk Handmade Nightgowns — Formerly 49.00 — 29.50

Finest quality Japanese crepe de chine, handmade, hand embroidered.

Silk Handmade Chemises — Formerly 39.00 — 23.50

Finest quality Japanese crepe de chine, handmade and embroidered.

Silk Handmade Drawers — Formerly 29.50 — 16.50

Finest quality Japanese crepe de chine, handmade, hand embroidered.

Housecoats & Matinees

Silk Lounging Robes — Formerly 42.50 — 28.50

Changeable taffeta silk quilted robe lined with China silk, interlined with lamb's wool.

Silk Breakfast Coats — Formerly 19.75 — 12.75

Fine quality satin trimmed with self ruchings.

Georgette Matinees — Formerly 12.75 — 8.75

Dainty matinees of Georgette trimmed with hemstitching and two tone ribbon.

January Sale of Silk Petticoats

Very Specially Priced

Silk Evening Petticoats

Special at

4.95

Washable satin in flesh or white, deep lace trimmed flounce, pleated chiffon underlay.

Silk Jersey Petticoats

Special at

5.95

In navy, green and brown, scalloped or edged with self color fringe.

Introducing Fashions of Individualized Types & Distinction

in

SPRING ATTIRE

For Women and the "Jeune Fille"

Featured are original interpretations of the mode, distinctively Bonwit Teller & Co., translated in terms of simplicity and refined elegance.

TAILLEURS GOWNS WRAPS

COATS MILLINERY BLOUSES

SPORTS APPAREL FOOTWEAR

—and all the accessories of dress

ANNUAL CLEARANCE SALE

Women's Smart Wrap-Coats..... Formerly up to 95.00 — 49.00
Veldyne wraps in navy, black, brown, Bedouin or gray.

Women's Evora Wraps and Coats... Formerly 125.00 to 145.00 — 75.00
In evora and other fabrics, in most desirable shades.

Women's Fine Wraps and Coats..... Formerly up to 175.00 — 95.00
Plain and fur trimmed, one or two of a kind in the best fabrics.

Women's Elegant Day Coats & Wraps

Formerly up to 325.00

TO CLOSE OUT 155.00

Finest materials combined with luxurious furs.

Women's Frocks & Gowns
Formerly 110.00 to 235.00
$55 $85 $125
Day and evening gowns in various desirable materials and colorings.

Women's Tailored Suits
Formerly 65.00 to 245.00
$44 $58 $88 $110
Plain tailored and fur trimmed, in the season's fashionable fabrics and colors.

Misses' Velvet Frocks
Formerly 65.00 to 175.00
$45 $68 $88
Of velveteen, copies and adaptations of Paris models. Sizes 14 to 18.

Misses' Tailored Suits
Formerly 59.50 to 175.00
$29.50 $54 $95
Plain tailored and fur trimmed suits in typically youthful types. Sizes 14 to 18.

Misses' Fur Collar Wraps
Formerly 135.00 to 175.00
$95.00
Veldyne, marvella or vel mirage. Sizes 14 to 18.

Misses' Evening Wraps
Formerly 135.00 to 295.00
$95 $125 $150
Of rich fabrics, trimmed with fur. Sizes 14 to 18.

January Sale of Furs

French Seal Coats — Formerly 245.00 — 145.00
36 inches long, full flare model, belt to match, large shawl collar.

Hudson Seal Coats — Formerly 395.00 — 225.00
36 inches long, full loose back model, with shawl collar.

Hudson Seal Wraps — Formerly 650.00 — 375.00
40 inches long, made from choice selected pelts.

Hudson Seal Wraps — Formerly 750.00 — 450.00
45 and 48-inch long models of fine selected skins.

French Seal Coats — Formerly 295.00 — 165.00
36-inch long model, with belt to match, skunk collar and cuffs.

Hudson Seal Coats — Formerly 495.00 — 295.00
36 inches long, with collar and cuffs of squirrel, skunk or beaver.

Hudson Seal Coats — Formerly 750.00 — 450.00
Various styles combined with beaver, skunk or natural squirrel.

Kolinsky Wraps — Formerly 1450.00 — 850.00
48 inches long, of fine dark, selected skins.

Extraordinary Sale

HANDMADE FILET TRIM'D BLOUSES

A collection of most attractive styles in various treatments, of fine French voile or batiste.

7.50 10.00 14.50

Regardless of Cost

No C. O. D.'s. No Credits. No Exchanges

Women's Gloves

At Greatly Reduced Prices

French Kid Gloves — Formerly 3.95 & 4.50 — 2.95
Two clasp, best quality French kid in all white or black stitched. Also brown or beaver.

Arabian Mocha Gloves — Formerly 4.50 — 2.95
One clasp, pique sewn, in grey or beaver.

Capeskin Gauntlet Gloves — Formerly 6.50 & 7.00 — 4.95
Slip-on lightweight Capeskin in tan, brown, beaver or oyster white, P. K. or P. X. M. sewn.

Mocha Gauntlet Gloves — Formerly 7.50 & 8.00 — 5.50
Slip-on Arabian Mocha gloves of finest selected skins, strap at wrist.

January Sale of Corsets & Brassieres

Front and Back Lace Corsets — Formerly up to 13.50 — 5.95
Gossard Front lace corsets in various models. Also "Bontell" back lace corsets in various models.

"Nocturne" & "Bontell" Corsets — Formerly 14.50 — 8.95
Three distinct models of broche for slight, medium and very full figures. Low top and long straight hip.

"Bontell" Brassieres — Formerly up to 9.50 — 2.50 to 4.95
Fine laces, washable satins and various combinations of lace and net.

Wool & Silk Sweaters

Slip-on Wool Sweaters — Special at — 6.50
Drop stitch sweater, V-neck and self belt, sport shades, also black or white.

Tuxedo Wool Sweaters — Special at — 8.00
Link-and-Link or drop stitch models in all desirable colors.

Tuxedo Silk Sweaters — Special at — 38.50
In finest quality Organzine silk with pockets and silk fringe sash, light and dark colors.

"Kayser" Woven Underwear

At Greatly Reduced Prices

"Kayser" Union Suits

Formerly 6.50

3.95

Heavy Italian silk tops and fine mercerized lisle body, regulation and strap shoulders, pink only.

"Kayser" Bloomers

Formerly 3.00

1.75

Mercerized lisle bloomers in pink, white or black, "Marvel-fit" seat.

MAIN FLOOR

ENDS 48-DAY FAST TO 'SAVE HUSBAND'

Mrs. Harrington Takes Her Minister's Advice—Harrington Unconverted.

DOCTORS ARE INCREDULOUS

Health Officer Convinced That She Abstained From Food Not More Than a Week.

DANVILLE, Ill., Jan. 15.—Mrs. Ernest S. Harrington, who says she has been fasting for forty-eight days to influence her husband to become a church member, ended her hunger strike today, on being advised by the Rev. G. S. Payne of Eldorado to take food. She consented and drank a glass of milk in the presence of the minister.

Her husband, for whom she declared she undertook the strike, says his wife has "seen the error of her own way and is willing to resume her daily routine of life." He says he has not joined the church and will not do so "until he gets ready."

Mrs. Harrington is not expected to suffer any ill effects from breaking her fast, as it is the general belief of physicians here that she has not been abstaining from food for more than a week at most. Immediately after drinking the milk she admitted that she felt better and said she would not resume her fast.

A movement on foot here to investigate Mrs. Harrington's sanity and to have the Grand Jury sitting next weeks investigate the activities of religious enthusiasts who are said to have encouraged the woman in her fast is reported to have been responsible for the ending of the hunger strike.

According to the woman's assertions, she had taken no food for forty-eight days. Dr. W. C. Dixon, City Health Commissioner, who examined her, declared, however, that he was convinced she had abstained from nourishment not more than a week and said that her condition was virtually normal.

Expressions of doubt that she had really fasted for the full period were characterized earlier in the day by Mrs. Harrington as "attempts to cheat God of the glory of preserving my body and keeping me alive until the great victory is won."

When asked if she did not fear she would die if she persisted in fasting Mrs. Harrington said: "Death? Why, no, I've never given that a thought. I know, however, that I am not going to die. Why, God wouldn't let me die. If I do, then nothing will be accomplished by my fasting."

"Do you object to having visitors?" she was asked.

"No, for God told me it would be all right for you to come and see me. He said 'If they come in by the front door admit them to your room, but if they come in the back door I do not want you to see them,'" she replied.

This statement was greeted by a laugh from her husband, who was in another room, but overheard her reply.

"That's one time your message got sidetracked—we came in the back way," he said.

FINDS HERBS CONTAIN MEDICINAL QUALITY

French Biologist Confirms Value of Old Treatment Which Has Been Discarded.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 15.—A discovery that may bring the old-fashioned herbalist back into the limelight has been made after twenty years' research by Professor Emile Bourquelot, a biologist, who has succeeded in isolating the active principle of many plants which were formerly throught to have curative value but had been discarded by modern practice. Such plants as verveine, dock, hellebore, hepatica, &c., were generally used in former days and the physicians of olden times had a firm belief in their efficacy. Until recently, however, the fact that they contained no active alkaloid, such as morphine, had caused biologists to suppose that they were devoid of real curative value. As a result they had practically vanished from the modern pharmacopeia.

Professor Bourquelot has by an elaborate series of experiments managed to isolate a non-alkaloid active principle which he calls "glucoside" in more than twenty plants. His experiments go to show that physicians were too hasty in deciding that these herbs were useless in medical treatment. The future may see a return to the old system of simples and decoctions, but with these scientifically prepared and graded. The range of possibilities is great. In addition to curative plants used by the old physicians, every book of travel contains reference to, mysterious herbal remedies used by savage tribes.

Professor Bouquelot as a biologist frankly admits that the physiological side of his experiments is yet to be undertaken. At most, he has tried the effect of a few injections on rabbits and guinea pigs.

He gave details of his discovery in a recent address before the Academy of Medicine and its application to the sphere of physiology will follow.

INDIAN RIOTING ENDED.

Order Is Restored in the Region Southwest of Lucknow.

DELHI, India, Jan. 13.—Order has been restored in the Rai Bareli district, southwest of Lucknow, where rioting recently was carried on by the peasantry. Nearly all those arrested in connection with the disorders have been released.

During the disturbances the police killed nine rioters.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—A dispatch from Allahabad, British India, says that in view of the evidence of the grievances of the rural tenants against the landlords, brought to light in connection with the recent riots, the provincial Government has decided to introduce legislation to insure the fixed tenure of land of tenants and to remove their other grievances.

A London dispatch of Thursday telling of the rioting in the Rai Bareli district said the cause of the trouble was reported to be the efforts of landlords to suppress Soviets established by the peasants. The latter alleged that they had not obtained certainty of tenure in their land holdings and had been forced to submit to illegal extortions.

"The Broadway Shop Where Fashion Reigns"

Hagedorn's

Broadway, Corner of 31st Street

Extraordinary Reductions

to assure an immediate clearaway of Hagedorn's high standard apparel.

98 Lace Dresses — For afternoon and dinner wear in Chantilly lace and embroidered net and lace. 57.50 were $85; 79.50 were $135; 107.50 were $169.50

54 Afternoon Dresses — Of distinctive styling in richly beaded and embroidered chiffon brocades, crepe, back satins and canton crepe. 89.50 were $149.50

96 Street Dresses — Of tricotine and poiret twill, mostly in smaller sizes, many richly beaded and embroidered. 34.50 were $65; 39.50 were $79.50

Evening Gowns — A number of handsomely embellished evening gowns of rich and individual styling—only one model of a kind—at approximately HALF PRICE

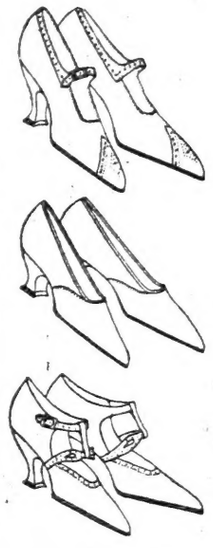
A Limited Number of High Cost WRAPS AND COATS of Marvella, Fortuna, Evora and other High Grade fabrics, trimmed in mole, fox, squirrel, beaver, Australian opossum. $110 were $225; $150 were $300

SALE of BLOUSES — 2200 wonderful blouses, balance of a well-known manufacturer's entire stock. 3.95 regular $7.50; 4.50 regular $8.90; 5.90 regular $12.50

OPPENHEIM, COLLINS & CO

34th Street—New York

Greatly Reduced Monday



Women's Black Satin Strap Slippers and Pumps

Reduced to 9.00

Remarkable Values

All Black Satin, in approved and popular models. Louis XV. or Baby Louis Heels.

OPPENHEIM, COLLINS & CO

34th Street—New York

Beacon Bath Robes

(as illustrated)

Reduced to 3.95

Genuine Beacon Robes in Plaid and Floral Designs. Collar, Cuffs and Pockets satin bound. Cord Girdles.

Corduroy Robes and Breakfast Coats

Lined Throughout

9.75

Full and three-quarter length models of wide wale and Brocaded Corduroy. Cherry, Peacock, Rose, Copenhagen and Wistaria.

Wash Satin Petticoats

Tailored and lace trimmed deep flounce models in Flesh and White.

Special 2.95

Crepe de Chine Nightgowns

Dainty and attractive sleeve and sleeveless models. Tailored, Lace and Georgette Trimmed. Flesh only.

Special 3.95

The Entire Stock of

Women's Fur Wraps and Coats

At Reductions of 40% 50% and 60%

Pittsburgh Brooklyn Philadelphia

OPPENHEIM, COLLINS & CO

34th Street—New York

Cleveland Buffalo Newark

January Clearance Sales

The Entire Remaining Winter Stocks

Women's and Misses' Fur-Trimmed Wraps
Women's and Misses' Plain Tailored Coats

Women's and Misses' Afternoon Dresses
Women's and Misses' Evening Gowns

Women's and Misses' Fur-Trimmed Suits
Women's and Misses' Tailored Cloth Suits

Girls' Winter Coats
Girls' Cloth and Wash Dresses

At Extraordinary Price Reductions

200 Fur Collar Wraps and Coats

68.00

For Women and Misses

Formerly Sold to 100.00

Reduced to 68.00

Wrappy and semi-fitted models of Bolivia and Veldyne. Deep collars of Squirrel, Beaver, Australian Opossum, and Nutria. Silk lined and warmly interlined.

68.00

250 Higher Cost Wraps

Formerly Sold to 175.00

38.00 59.75 98.00 and 125.00

250 Women's and Misses' Dresses

35.00

Formerly Sold to 68.00

Reduced to 35.00

Canton Crepe, Georgette, Taffeta and Tricotine, in Tunic, Draped and Straightline models. Beaded, Embroidered and Button Trimmed.

35.00

150 Higher Cost Gowns

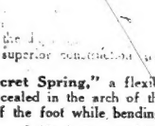
Formerly Sold to 145.00

Reduced to

55.00 78.00 and 98.00

KAHLER

COMFORT SHOES



Fi

in Kahler ful and fulness, as they have telligence since the five points of superior

1. The "Secret Spring," a flexible strip of tempered steel concealed in the arch of the shoe, supporting the arch of the foot while bending with it.
2. The Cupped Heel Seat, which encourages an evenly balanced step and keeps the foot from crowding forward.
3. The Straight Line Last, which allows the foot to retain its normal shape, without the distortion of the toes, which produces bunions.
4. The Combination Last, two widths narrower at heel and instep than across the ball of the foot; the snug heel gives security and keeps the shoe from slipping.
5. The Flexible Cork Filler within the sole, which lessens the shock of walking and keeps out dampness.

DR. P. KAHLER & SONS
15 W. 44th Street near Fifth Ave., New York
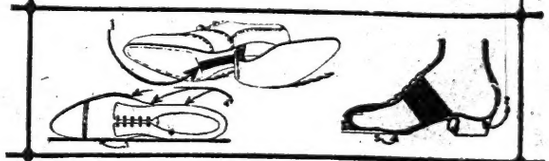
Washington, D. C.—603 13th St., N. W.



George Bernard Co.

The Dash of Youth and Air of Loveliness distinguish our Models for early Spring—Gowns, Suits, Wraps, Hats & Sports Attire to meet your Southern needs.

REDUCTIONS

Velvet and Duvetyn Afternoon and Evening Gowns, Evening Wraps and Coats AT A FRACTION OF THEIR COST.

673 FIFTH AVENUE at 53d St
New York

KING GEORGE TO PAY VISIT TO CONTINENT

Will Travel to Brussels, Paris and Rome With Queen and Prince of Wales.

OFFICIAL BRINGS THE NEWS

Canadian Minister on Adriatic Admits Differences With Balfour in Geneva.

The first cabin of the White Star liner Adriatic, which arrived yesterday from Southampton and Cherbourg included a number of prominent Americans and citizens from other countries. The liner was twenty-four hours late owing to heavy weather and having to go one hundred miles further south on account of the ice.

An official of the British Government on his way to Canada said that when he left London on Jan. 4 arrangements had been completed for a State visit by the King and Queen, the Prince of Wales and members of the royal family to Brussels, Paris and Rome at the beginning of April if the political situation in Europe does not change and make the journey inadvisable.

The party will embark at Dover in the royal yacht and cross to Ostend, where it will be met by King Albert and proceed to the Belgian capital.

From Brussels the trip will be continued to Paris, passing Mons at the frontier, where the famous battle was fought in 1914. After spending some days in the French capital the King and Queen, with their family and suite, will travel by special train to Rome, passing through the new Simplon tunnel from Switzerland into Italy.

Canadian Minister Back.

One of the prominent passengers on the Adriatic was the Rt. Hon. C. J. Doherty, K. C., Minister of Justice of Canada, who returned after attending the Council of the League of Nations in Geneva. When asked if it was true that other members of the Canadian delegation had differed with Arthur J. Balfour at the Council, the Minister replied:

"I have the utmost confidence that the empire will hold, but the empire members stand together on a basis of agreement and not on a basis of control. To get the voice of the empire it is necessary to get the voice of all the nations that compose it. There need be no apprehension as to Canada, which is a nation within the empire. But the persons who are sent out to represent Canada are responsible only in their expressions to the Canadian people.

"We did not agree in several instances with Mr. Balfour at the League Council in regard to certain mandates and also to the admission of certain countries, but, as I have shown we reserve the right to our expressions of independence when we differ with these sent out from Downing Street."

Another distinguished Canadian on board was Lieut Gen. Sir Sam Hughes, K. C. B., ex-Minister of Militia, who was returning to Montreal in poor health and seldom left his cabin. He was under the care of the ship's surgeon and at times seriously ill.

Anthony Caminetti Returns.

Anthony Caminetti, Commissioner General of Immigration, returned with Dr. William Kerr of the Public Health Service from inspection of the principal ports in Europe to study immigration. They visited England, France, Belgium, Holland, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Jugosiavia.

"Secretary Wilson has laid stress, among other suggestions, upon the necessity to adopt additional measures which will have a tendency to avoid long and expensive voyages on the part of intending immigrants who for some legal reason are refused admission on arrival at an American port," said Mr. Caminetti.

"It is his idea that an effort should be made to discover at the outset of the journey if there are legal impediments, and if so the applicant should be so advised. This proposal would prevent the coming of persons disqualified from entry, and materially aid in the enforcement of our immigration laws and regulations.

"I have been impressed with the apparently authentic reports concerning the great number of people in Europe who are awaiting transportation to the United States, and have been wondering what some localities will do without them and what our country will do with them in view of unemployment.

"My visit has illustrated to an extent I never realized the supreme importance of our immigration service and the necessity to connect it with emigration activities throughout the world by proper avenues for information."

E. C. Grenfell of Morgan, Grenfell & Co., London, the bankers, arrived with Mrs. Grenfell, to be the guests of J. P. Morgan on his yacht Corsair for a month's cruise in the West Indies. They will join the yacht Charleston on Jan. 18.

Mrs. H. M. Harjes, wife of the head of the Morgan house in Paris, also arrived, bound for Philadelphia to see a member of her family who is seriously ill.

Son of Peggy Marsh on Ship.

The youngest passenger in the first cabin was Henry Marsh, the four-year-old son of Peggy Marsh, the actress, who claims a share for him in the $100,000,000 estate of Marshall Field. He came over in charge of Miss Olive Sheringham, and was upset to learn that his mother was in a hospital suffering from appendicitis.

Miss Clara D. Noyes, head of the American Red Cross Nursing Service, returned from a three month's visit to Central Europe, where she said the conditions were bad.

J. H. Clarendon, a wealthy Englishman, with mining interests in Nevada, who lived in this country for twenty years, arrived for a visit to his properties. He was detained by the immigration officials on the order of Dr. Kerr, the Public Health Service officer, also a passenger. Mr. Clarendon was badly gassed during the war and his nerves affected. He was here about five months ago.

Mr. Clarendon will go to Ellis Island today with the 1,100 immigrants from the Adriatic and undergo another medical examination.

The Adriatic brought $5,000,000 in gold, which will remain on the ship until tomorrow morning. She had 125 first and 421 second cabin passengers, in addition to the steerage passengers.

The French liner Touraine arrived from Havre two days late due to rough weather, with 276 cabin and 672 steerage passengers. Among those on board was Mme. Jeanne Farnes Benedict, a well-known French actress, on her way to join the company at the French theatre in San Francisco.

The Spanish liner Leon XIII. arrived from Cadiz and Barcelona with 100 cabin passengers, including eight Salvation Army officers bound from Paris to Java via San Francisco. They will do missionary work there. The party was led by Captain Alice Riggs and consists of six women and two men.

FOR DISARMAMENT APPEAL BY WILSON

House Committee Reports Resolution to Have Him Invite All Nations to Parley.

DEMOCRATS OPPOSED TO IT

Contend It Will Embarrass President and Is Matter That Should Be Left to Harding.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. — Definite steps looking toward disarmament were taken today by the House Foreign Affairs Committee, which reported a resolution authorizing President Wilson to invite the nations of the world to send delegates to an international convention to consider ways and means of bringing it about.

Although all members of the committee voted for the proposal, Democrats objected to its adoption at this time on the ground that it might embarrass the President. They contended it was a question which more properly should be considered by President-elect Harding. Chairman Porter, a warm advocate of the movement, insisted, however, that it was the desire to have the resolution ready for Mr. Harding in event Mr. Wilson did not act on it.

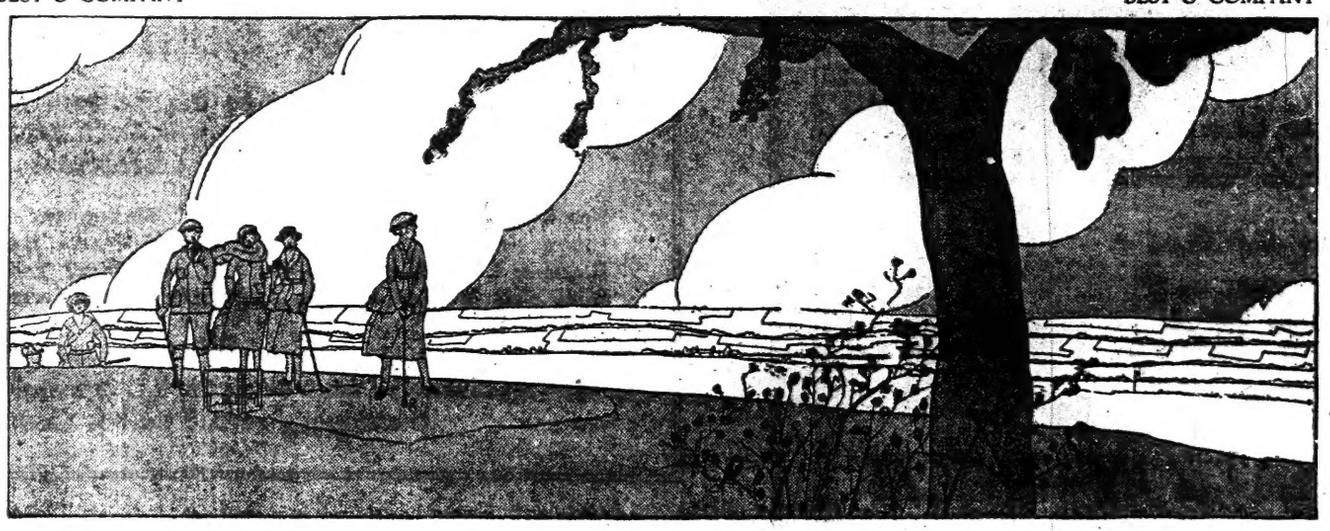
Representative Brooks, Republican of Illinois, author of the resolution, announced that efforts would be made to expedite its consideration by the House. There was no indication of any movement to get together with the Senate, which has pending a resolution by Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, providing for armament reduction by the United States, Great Britain and Japan, and a resolution by Senator Walsh, Democrat of Montana, authorizing the President to appoint a member of the Disarmament Commission of the League of Nations.

Members of the committee frankly expressed doubt whether the Brooks resolution could be voted on at this session owing to the heavy run of appropriation legislation. Representative Flood of Virginia, ranking Democrat, said he saw no reason for the assumption that President Wilson might ignore the direction and pass the question on to Mr. Harding. He questioned the propriety of asking Mr. Wilson to act on the eve of leaving office, and after the League of Nations covenant, providing for joint disarmament, had been rejected by the United States.

Without much discussion the committee defeated an amendment by Representative Mason, Republican, Illinois, stipulating that countries now seeking their independence should be invited to the conference which would be held in this country. Mr. Mason said this would enable Ireland and the Philippines to participate.

Mrs. Charles Edward Russell of the Woman's Peace Society expressed the view that the Borah resolution in the Senate was too limited and might breed suspicion in other nations. Chairman Porter contended also that all nations should participate in the conference and endeavor to disarm.

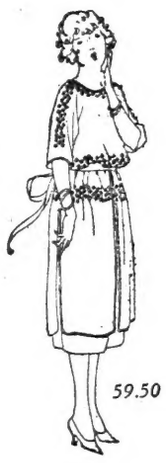
BEST & COMPANY



BEST & COMPANY

ONE OF THE MOST SATISFYING THINGS ABOUT OUR SPRING APPAREL IS ITS PRICE

IF there's anything more satisfying than finding just what you want, surely it is discovering that the price is right, too And this is the double satisfaction that all our patrons may enjoy. With the lower price levels of 1921 prevailing throughout the store—every purchase at Best's is a revelation in economy.



59.50

Biarritz Knitted Dresses at - - 65.00

Knitted frocks are a coming fashion, you know. Paris is wearing them, already Palm Beach is blossoming with them—your Spring Wardrobe will be sadly incomplete without one. These are imported—chemise or elastic waist models. Cardinal red, coral, beige, French blue, or white. Women's Dept., Third Floor

65.00

Canton Crepe Dresses at - - - 59.50

This new Spring frock for a Miss is plainly of French ancestry. As a matter of fact, it is a faithful reproduction of a Renee model. Cut-out forget-me-nots with steel bead centres trim the blouse, and the four loose panels of the skirt. In rose hydrangea blue, beige, navy. Misses' Dept., Second Floor

39.50

Rainbow Tweed Suits at - - - 39.50

Rainbow tweed is a Spring 1921 weave—with the appearance and practical features of tweed, but not half its weight or warmth. In the smart, well-tailored models we are showing, it will prove ideal for early spring wear. The colors are particularly lovely. Women's Dept., Third Floor

75.00

Imported Mixture Suits at - - 75.00

Considerably less than you are accustomed to paying for such splendid English fabrics, and such meticulous tailoring. Sports models with well-turned lapels, narrow belts, and smart pockets—several colorings. Misses' Dept., Second Floor

65.00

French Frilled Blouses at - - - 9.75

—are fashioned of sheer white batiste, daintily hand-stitched, frilled at the wrists, frilled 'round the neck, and frilled down the front. The scalloped edges are in color, supplying that deft bit of contrast that marks the blouses as undeniably French. Main Floor

9.75

New Plaid and Striped Skirts at 15.50

When the story of 1921 fashions is told, there will be at least one interesting chapter on plaids. These new skirts feature wool plaids and stripes in novel colorings—pleated styles are in favor—some stitched down at the top for faultless fitting. Women's Dept., Third Floor

15.50

Best & Co.

FIFTH AVENUE AT 35th STREET NEW YORK

BOUÉ SOEURS

9 Rue de la Paix, Paris announce the arrival from their Paris house of an incomparable group of their originations for Southern wear—

GOWNS, MANTEAUX
LINGERIE DRESSES
DÉSHABILLÉ

Brilliancy of tropical birds, lacy spray of Southern seas, grace of exotic garlands, romance of moon-hung nights, seem to have furnished inspiration for these enchanting creations, the most felicitous expressions of Boue Soeurs art.

A display is given daily from eleven to one and from three to five under the personal direction of Boue Soeurs, Madame la Baronne d'Etreillis and Madame Sylvie de Montegut.

New York Establishment
13 West 56th Street
The Only Rue de la Paix House in America

Stanley & MacGibbon

5TH AVENUE AT 36TH STREET
Second Floor—Take Elevator

Final Radical Reductions

Some of the Wonderful Coat Prices

Fur Collar COATS
Trimmed with Australian Opossum
Velour de Laine, Suedine and Bolivia. 34.75

Squirrel and Beaver Collar WRAP-COATS
In a Variety of Colors
Bolivia, Chamoistyne, Sevilla, and other highly desirable materials. 55.50

Fur Collar Wraps & Coats
Some with Fur Cuffs.
Squirrel, Beaver, Mole, Aust. Opossum and Nutria in Chamoistyne, Corded Bolivia, Frost Glo, Sevilla and Bolivia. All Silk Lined. 65.00

Fur Collar WRAP-COATS
Beaver, Squirrel, etc.
Combined with Bolivia, etc., in a variety of colors. 75.00

Fur Collar WRAP-COATS
In Most Shades of Orlando, Fortuna, Veldyne, Sevilla, Chamoistyne. 95.50

A Few of the Dresses

DRESSES
Tricotine, Satin, Velour Taffeta, in a variety of colors and charming styles. 21.50

DRESSES
Of Kitten's Ear, Canton Crepe, Georgette, Poiret Twill, Tricotine, Crepe Media, Taffeta, Lace, etc. 45.50

DRESSES
Crepe Satin, Taffeta, Tricotine, Crepe Meteor and Chiffon Velvet in a number of exquisite models. 29.75

Semi-Annual SALE of Maxon Models
$19 to $119
Formerly $39 to $239

THE Maxon Sale has been so singularly successful that our Winter models are quickly disappearing. Prices on the several hundred remaining Samples in Street, Afternoon and Evening Gowns, Suits and Wraps have been still further reduced. Exquisite, no-two-alike creations, for which you'd pay elsewhere thrice as much!

Spring Dresses
Just arrived, advance Samples in Georgette, Taffeta, Satin and Serge, will be included in the Sale Monday at Sale Prices!

MAXON MODEL GOWNS
1587 Broadway cor 48th St
One flight up—elevator or stairway

LOWER PRICES

Due to the drop in the cost of leather, a lower price level is now in effect on all Cantilever Shoes. For full particulars inquire at our stores.

The "Arch" Enemy of the Foot

Metal appliances are the "arch" enemy of the foot. Your arch was not made to be propped up stiffly by a piece of unyielding metal. It was provided by Nature with a set of muscles fully capable of supporting it. If those muscles have become weak, an artificial prop may afford a temporary support, but since it is merely a "crutch," it will finally tend to make the arch weaker.

Like the human foot, the

Cantilever Shoe

has a flexible arch. The foot muscles, having full freedom to exercise, grow strong from use.

Buy a pair of Cantilevers and see how really delightful a walk can be. How snugly comfortable your feet feel! How almost unconsciously you straighten up and hold your head high. And don't be surprised if the first friend you meet exclaims about the pep in your step and the smile in your eyes. Cantilever Shoes correct and prevent fallen arches. Well-made, trim lines, fine leathers. Widths AAAAA to E.

A graceful boot in black kid $12.50, Russia calf, $12.50, brown kid $15.00 and white Egyptian canvas $11.50. Cloth tops $12.50 to $13.50. Oxfords $11.50 to $13.50.

CANTILEVER SHOE SHOPS
22 W. 39th St., nr. 5th Av., N.Y.
414 Fulton St. (over Schrafft's), Brooklyn
Also at J. B. BOOTERY
Lexington Ave., at 60th St.

Wanted to Purchase
$100,000
TIRES
for Spot Cash.
2nds or Special Lots.
No Lot Too Small or Too Large.
AFFILIATED RETAIL STORES
1,872 Broadway,
Between 49 and 50.

Income Tax Returns Compiled
J. J. Fitchell & Co.
Certified Public Accountants
103 Park Ave. at 41st. St.
Tel. Murray Hill 0631
Fee Tables Sent on Request.

Ambitions Satisfied.

If you are ambitious to become connected with a successful business enterprise, consult the Business Opportunities advertisements in the New York Herald. Adv.

SCHEER HITS PLAN FOR 'NAVAL HOLIDAY'

Says It Would Help England Only, Enabling Her to Get Over a "Hard Spot."

AND DECIDE FUTURE SHIPS

German Admiral Says America Would Not Benefit—He Favors Disarmament.

Copyright, 1921, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

WEIMAR, Jan. 15.—Admiral von Scheer, whom at least half the world regards as one of the greatest leaders in naval war history, granted a newspaper interview today for the first time since the signing of peace. For the benefit of American readers I sought and obtained the opinion of the Skagerrak-Jutland commander on these great questions of the day.

The "Naval Holiday," the disputes between the 3 secrets of capital ship construction and submarine programs, and the American naval policy, both offensive and defensive.

"I would like," said Admiral Scheer, "to see the world pass from national, class and religious hatred, the dangers of Bolshevism and the chaotic and economic conditions, all of which have resulted from the war, to justice and friendship. Universal disarmament would be a step toward that goal, but for the nation having the biggest fleet to enjoin shipbuilding looks to me like a swindle. Let's have honesty of purpose, not hypocrisy.

"I have read with interest President-elect Harding's plan to call a world congress on disarmament, and I trust that idealism still remains in America, despite her experiences with the fourteen points.

"America is today in a position to strengthen her navy. Great Britain is in a bad position for two reasons. She has not the money and she does not know what kind of ships to build.

"The naval holiday plan benefits England only, not America. In three years who can tell what economic changes will have come to pass? England would then begin building again and by that time the question regarding the supremacy of capital ships or submarines or other mine weapon will have been cleared up. England, which now in possession of a superior naval force, would then concentrate upon her choice and become still stronger.

"Universal disarmament would work out. A naval holiday merely would tide Great Britain over a bad spot in her naval plans, her politics and her economic hardships. As far as I can judge, the press reports, which clamor for a naval holiday, come almost exclusively from Great Britain. America has money for building ships, while England, with her enormous fleet, has not.

"More important, however, I believe, is Great Britain's decision. I see therein a great lesson in naval warfare. England is naturally dissatisfied with the rôle that her high seas fleet played off Skagerrak and throughout the war. England's capital ships decided to do nothing and remained in port.

"A party arises of politicians and naval men who are saying that ships of the line are dead, and desire nothing built but submarines, small craft and aircraft.

"The old timers waver. Their indecision prompts the theory of a naval holiday, during which experiments will show the best course to be adopted.

"This is the best proof that England recognizes that she lost the Skagerrak battle and that her navy has not gained any new laurels.

"Japan is an island empire like England. To some extent she has to meet the same problems.

"America is a continent and does not face the most important of all naval warfare problems, the possibility of an economic and food blockade. America, therefore, can afford to carry out her naval program more easily than her rivals.

"Certainly, if I were an American I would not listen to the naval holiday talk, but would cast my vote for universal disarmament and restoration of world peace, which still is far away."

(Another article of this series will appear soon.)

Lower Bail Denied Landau.

Supreme Court Justice Finch denied yesterday an application in behalf of Kirk A. Landau, Vice President of the Pacat Finance Corporation, who was arrested on Thursday and held in $75,000 bail in a suit of the Shawmut National Bank for fraud, to reduce his bail on the ground that it is excessive. Landau said he was 23 years old and that his father, who was the head of the corporation, left for Europe just before it collapsed. He said that he did not intend to leave the country, although he is an English citizen, and could not go if he wished to do so because he had surrendered his passport.

Ford's Gain Is Now 1,140.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Further recount by the Senate Elections Committee today of ballots cast in the Michigan Senatorial contest between Henry Ford and Senator Newberry increased Ford's gain. With 970 precincts out of a total of 2,232 counted, Ford's net gain was given as 1,140.

"MILLIONAIRE KID" FINED.

Osterweiss Sentenced for Counterfeiting in Reformatory.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 15.—Louis M. Osterweiss of New Haven, Conn., known as the "Millionaire Kid," convicted a year ago of counterfeiting Treasury notes while an inmate of the Federal Disciplinary Barracks at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and released on bond under suspended sentence to report this week for sentence, was fined and released when he appeared before Judge John C. Pollock in the Kansas City (Kan.) Federal Court today.

The fine was $500 and costs and Osterweiss's release was made contingent upon payment of the fine. He left here tonight for New Haven, where, he said, he expected to confer with his conservator regarding payment.

The court declared Osterweiss was the victim of "the curse of gold." According to officials he inherited large sums of money from relatives. According to Osterweiss, since his conviction he has been employed in several cities in the Southwest. He also had worked in New York, he said.

TO FIRE ON ALLIED SHIPS.

Russians Warn Them to Keep Away From Black Sea Coast.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 14.—All vessels flying allied flags which approach within twelve miles of the Russian Black Sea coast will be fired upon by land batteries and be subject to attack by submarines.

This action is indicated in a message received here from Moscow.

47-49-51 West 42d Street

Sale begins at 8:30

Renard

Sale tomorrow (Monday)

A RECORD BREAKING SALE IN WHICH

PRICES REACH BOTTOM

Our Entire Stocks—Women's and Misses'

Coats, Wraps & Dresses

at the greatest reductions ever made!!

Prices for smart styles have never been so low and they may never be so low again, so take full advantage of this extraordinary opportunity.

DRESSES

Beautifully Embroidered and Elaborately Braided All-Wool Tricotine—Embroidered Velour

Many Wonderful Styles

11.95 Values to 30.00

DRESSES — Worth to 20.00 — Tricotine, Men's Wear Serge, Tailored Velour, Sizes for Misses & Women — 7.85

DRESSES — Worth to 40.00 — Emb'd Tricotine, Rich Satin, Crepe Back Satin, Charmeuse — 19.75

DRESSES — Worth to 50.00 — Silk Duvetyne, Canton Crepe, Finest Tricotine, Emb'd Velour — 29.75

Embroidered Velour Coats — Attractive new models, completely lined with silk. All sizes for women and misses. 16.75 Values to 30.00

Fur Collar Bolivia Coats — Fashionable new models, with large collars of fashionable fur. Every Coat silk lined. 27.50 Values to 50.00

Coats and Coat Wraps — Worth to 60.00 — Bolivia, Suedine, Duvette, Silvertip, with large collar of fine furs; completely lined with silk. 35.00

Coats and Coat Wraps — Worth to 85.00 — Bokhara, Chamoistyne, Velour de Laine and Veldyne with Luxurious Collars of fashionable furs. 55.00

Coats and Coat Wraps — Worth to 150.00 — The richest of Materials in Garments of Exquisite line embellished in richest furs. 75.00

RENARD—West 42d St.—RENARD

The Store is closed daily at 5 P. M.

B. Altman & Co.

MADISON AVENUE - FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

Thirty-fourth Street TELEPHONE 7000 MURRAY HILL Thirty-fifth Street

Clothes for Summer Climes

For those who are about to hie themselves Southward or Pacific-ward B. Altman & Co.'s Store offers innumerable attractions

Frocks for every hour of the day; Dinner and Evening Gowns; Coats and Wraps for all occasions; Travel and Sports Suits; Blouses; Lounging Robes for the rest hour; Tea Gowns for the "five o'clock"; and all the accessories of the fashionable costume.

Also

Toilet Necessaries and Complexion Specialties; Perfumes; Stationery and Leather Goods

For Monday

A Remarkable Offering of Imported Wool Suitings and Coatings

comprising three thousand yards of 54-inch tweeds, mixtures, checks and stripe effects, all of the finest quality (pure wool) at the extraordinarily low price of

$2.45 per yard

All Spring patterns; all Spring colors.

(First Floor)

For Monday

A Reduction Sale of Boys' English Jersey Suits

offering 350 Suits (sizes 2 to 8) taken from regular stock and re-priced, for quicker disposal, to $7.75

These are extremely good-looking and durable suits, made of a fine worsted jersey that holds its color well and can be tubbed when necessary. The colors are brown, blue, green and gray.

(Sixth Floor)

A Special-price Sale of Women's American-made Lingerie

will be continued to-morrow, on the Second Floor.

For Monday

An Extraordinary Sale of Hand-made Valenciennes and Point Binche Laces

(made in Belgium); comprising a large purchase of these most desirable of lingerie and Summer frock trimmings, in edges and insertings ranging in width from the narrowest up to 1½ inches; all of them

phenomenally low-priced

Real Valenciennes

per yard 35c., 48c., 65c., 82c., 95c.

Real Point Binche

per yard 55c. & 85c.

(First Floor)

The Department for Women's Silk Underwear

has ready for Spring an exceptionally attractive assortment of dainty silk undergarments, made of washable silk of exquisite quality (in white, lavender and flesh-tone), and charmingly adorned with hemstitching and hand-made Valenciennes edging.

At very reasonable prices, in regular stock:

Nightrobes, Vest Chemises at	$14.50 7.25	Drawers	$8.50
Envelopes	8.75	Bloomers	8.50
		Camisoles	4.50
		Petticoats,	13.50

Some of these prices are subject to War Revenue tax.

(Second Floor)

The Great Yearly Sales of Oriental Rugs, Household and Decorative Linens Blankets and Bed Furnishings

now being held, present a rare opportunity for economic buying

Government.

CREDIT OF FACTORIES HURT

Forced Shutdowns Result of Treasury's Holding Back War Guarantees, Says F. W. Noxon.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Frank W. Noxon of New York, Secretary of the Railway Business Association, manufacturers of railway equipment, testifying today before the House Interstate Commerce Committee, which was considering a bill to clarify the guarantee clause of the Transportation act, asserted that the industrial situation was greatly affected by the inability of the railroads to pay their supply and equipment bills. This condition he attributed to the refusal of the Government to make partial payments under the Transportation act.

"Information began coming to us some time ago," said Mr. Noxon, "that many railways were holding un accounts due our members and giving as their reason that they could not collect large sums certified as owing to them by the Government. The same reason was said to have been given by some roads for not ordering supplies or for requesting manufacturers to delay delivery of goods already ordered.

"Members communicating with us in many cases refrained from stating the amounts overdue them, and in other cases specified the amounts, but requested that their names be not published, as it might injure them to have their embarrassment become known. It is proper to say, however, that distress attributed to this cause is widespread, that amounts due sixty days or more apparently aggregate several hundred millions, and that the consequent industrial shutdown and unemployment of labor involve very large numbers of men.

"One large company, normally employing in its main works and several subsidiaries many thousand men, has furnished us with a comparison of collections now and a year ago, as follows:

"January, 1920, collections, 47 per cent. of accounts receivable, indicating a 'turnover' or average collection period of seventy days.

"December, 1920, collections, 23 per cent. of accounts receivable, indicating a 'turnover' or average collection period of about 130 days.

"The sales terms of that company are thirty days. On this basis as of Dec. 1 about 66 2-3 per cent. of its railroad accounts receivable were overdue. The amount was about $4,000,000; accounts due sixty days or more were 40 per cent. and totaled $2,400,000, and accounts due ninety days or more were 12 per cent., or $720,000.

"Members advise that they have been obliged to fall back upon their local banks to carry them. This increases the credit strain in the community and

PAY TRIBUTE TO SCHIFF.

Hebrew Union College Speakers Recall His Large Gifts to Education.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 15.—Paying tribute to the late Jacob H. Schiff of New York, Dr. Kauffmann Kohler, President of Hebrew Union College, in a memorial address in the auditorium of the college this afternoon, recounted his life work and eulogized the philanthropist's devotion and vast contributions to the cause of education among the Jews in America. He said that it was such hearts as Schiff's that had made the world better for every people regardless of religion.

Dr. David Philipson followed with an address in which he said: "No other Jew has done what Mr. Schiff has done for education. Call the roster of our great Jews, and you will find that there is no other man who had the vision and who took the interest of learning so close to his heart. He did more toward realizing the fruit of his great vision than any other Jew."

Both Dr. Kohler and Dr. Philipson told of the gift of a fund by Mr. Schiff for the purpose of carrying on the work of translating the Bible. They were both appointed by Mr. Schiff members of the committee to carry out this work.

The services were the second of three held in connection with the close of the tour of the "flying squadron," which has for its purpose the raising of a $2,500,000 fund for educational and religious purposes.

SECOND TAYLOR GOVERNOR.

New Republican Executive of Tennessee Refers to Brother.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 15.—Alfred Alexander Taylor, Republican, was inaugurated Governor today, being the second of his family to hold the office.

"I cherish no higher ambition," he said in his inaugural address, "than that I may become as acceptable a Governor as a brother predecessor, whose face I looked on for the last time in this very hall."

The reference was to Robert L. Taylor, who served three times as Governor and died during his term as United States Senator. The new Governor made his first race for the office against his brother, and the campaign was known as the "war of the roses." Afterward the two toured the country, delivering lectures on "Yankee Doodle and Dixie."

Except for two terms served by Ben W. Hooper, Colonel Taylor is the first Republican Governor Tennessee has had since 1880. He is a noted hunter of big game.

Advances on Exports.

FARMERS MISJUDGED IT

Limit Imposed by Law on Its Operations Explained by Houston in Letter to Senator Robinson.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The controversy over the ability of the War Finance Corporation to aid farmers, cotton growers and other producers who may find themselves in financial trouble because of the lack of a favorable market for their commodities was renewed today by the publication of letters exchanged between Senator Robinson of Arkansas and Secretary of the Treasury Houston.

Some members of Congress have intimated that Secretary Houston, who opposed a continuation of the War Finance Corporation, would delay the steps necessary to a renewal of its activities. In his letter to Senator Robinson, however, Secretary Houston asserts that the wishes of Congress will be carried out in "full faith." The question involved, Secretary Houston held, was the ability of the War Finance Corporation to accomplish any material good for the producers.

"I fear," he wrote, "there has been some misunderstanding of the nature of the powers revived."

The Secretary then shows that farmers who may have been led to expect direct financial aid through the Government are doomed to disappointment. The War Finance Corporation act, he pointed out, made it possible for the corporation to lend money only to persons or concerns engaged in exporting or to banks which make advances to such persons or firms, and then under certain very drastic conditions.

It was said at the offices of the War Finance Corporation today that several

ADVERTISEMENT.

Personnel Administration as a Profession

For men and women seeking practical training for the higher executive positions in this field, we offer:

(1) An Eight Weeks' Intensive Course (Beginning Jan. 31st. Class limited to 25) Lectures by foremost specialists, conferences, visits to plants, field work, etc. Subjects include every important phase of employment, technique and industrial relations.

(2) An Evening Lecture Course (Beginning Feb. 17) Thursdays only, 6 P. M. to 7:30 P. M.

Write for catalog today to the

BUREAU OF PERSONNEL ADMINISTRATION
H. C. Metcalf, Director
17 W. 47th St. Bryant 5700. New York

of the War Finance Corporation act. The statement then went on:

"Since Jan. 5, the corporation has been prepared to consider applications for advances that meet the terms of the law in the same manner that it considered advances prior to the suspension of its activities in May. In submitting applications for loans, applicants should set forth in detail all facts relating to their financial condition, the purposes of the proposed advances and full information to enable the corporation to determine whether the applicants are eligible under the law and can meet its terms and conditions.

"In so far as is necessary the corporation will give personal hearings to prospective borrowers. Those desiring information may communicate with the Managing Director of the corporation, whose office is in the Treasury Department building at Washington."

AMHERST, Mass., Jan. 15.—The young women of Smith College are at odds with the young men of Amherst College and the differences have caused a suspension of joint social activities. Attention was called to the break in relations today by the action of Amherst undergraduates in voting to take immediate steps to make their peace with the girls of Smith.

Individual efforts to restore old relations had met with some success, it was said at the meeting, but Smith undergraduates as a body were still understood to regard Amherst men as persona non gratas. In time, the speakers thought, the Smith girls would relent, but it was decided that Amherst should Farmer Leaves $1,275,000.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 15.—The fact that Jonathan M. Parmenter of Wayland, who spent most of his years in farming and trading in cattle, had amassed a fortune of $1,275,000, became known today when his will was filed for probate here. He left nearly half a million for public purposes, including $225,000 for the establishment of a water-supply system for Wayland, and $300,000 for the building of a hospital there.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 15.—Fulfilling a platform pledge, bills providing for the equal representation of women in national, State, county and local Republican councils were approved today at the meeting here of the joint Republican Conference Committee of the two houses of the Legislature.

A number of bills aimed at Governor Edwards were endorsed. The principal one was a resolution directing the Senate and House to appoint three members each to constitute a committee to investigate election frauds in Hudson County, the home county of the Governor. The report on the Sunday blue laws, touched upon by Governor Edwards in his annual message, will not be considered here by the conferees. There was

Telephone Fitz Roy 2400

Fifth Ave. Stewart & Co. At 37th St.

Correct Apparel for Women & Misses

Imbued with that delightful verve and esprit of Youth and representative of the latest Parisian Creations

DISTINCTIVE NEW MODES

For the ensuing season—exquisitely developed in new, rich fabrics of distinctive appearance—radiant colorings effecting a pleasing departure from the conventional

EXQUISITE NEW MODES IN DRESSES
29.50 to 198.50

Irresistible in their charm and beauty, these dresses reveal a wealth of fashion innovations, in line and treatment; included are types of unadorned simplicity as well as more ornate creations, executed in the loveliest of fabrics—Piquetine, Tricotine Taffeta, Canton-Crepe, Satin, Voile, Linen and Organdie.

NEW MODES IN TAILORED SUITS
59.50 to 198.50

An advance showing of new suit modes, particularly emphasizing the new butterfly coat models, the Directoire influence and other chic plain tailored effects—all with various length jackets. Each suit mirrors that irreproachable tailoring which characterizes all Stewart & Co. garments.

The ensemble also comprises new Wraps, Sports Coats, Hats, Sweaters, Skirts and Blouses. New Models are constantly being added to our collections.

Crepe Back Satin Dress
39.50

The pleasing piquancy of this dress is at once apparent; fashioned with tunic of Georgette Crepe combined with Crepe Back Satin, and handsomely adorned with gold and silver thread ribbon. The snug Crepe Back Satin bodice ends in large bow and long sash at back.

Springtime Taffeta Dress
69.50

Of compelling charm and beauty is this pretty dress of soft, lustrous Taffeta, with its flaring tunic and short sleeves gorgeously embroidered in rich, metallic thread and colorful silk. The wide self-girdle with its large bow and long sash at side, and the collarless square neck will make an instant appeal.

CLEARANCE SALE
of
Fur Trimmed Wraps
At Decisive Reductions

Beaver Collar Wraps — 58.00
An unusually handsome wrap of fine Duvet de Velour Superior, enriched with luxurious shawl collar of genuine Beaver. Regularly Sells at 98.50

Fur Collar Wraps — 48.00
Wraps of Veldyne, Duvetyne, Bolivia or Velour Superior, with collars of Scotch Mole, Australian Opossum or Skunk; rich silk embroideries. Heretofore to 98.50

Fur Collar Wraps — 68.00
Collars of Nutria, Scotch Mole or collars and cuffs of Australian Opossum adorn these luxurious wraps of Chamoistyne, Bolivia Superior, Veldyne. Heretofore to 124.50

Fur Trimmed Wraps — 95.00
Wraps of Evora, Chamoistyne or Veldyne, adorned with collars of Beaver or Natural Squirrel; others with collar and cuffs of Scotch Mole, Wolf, Ringtail Opossum or Australian Opossum. Heretofore to 198.50

Wool Jersey Suits — 19.75
Smartly modelled suits appropriate for present or Spring wear, tailored of Wool Jersey in Heather mixtures.

Smart Sport Skirts — 10.75
Ultra-smart sport skirts in many color combinations, modeled of Wool Velour and fine Serge in small and large Scotch Plaids, with box, knife or side pleats.

Wraps and Coats Silk Lined and Interlined.

CLEARANCE SALE
of Fashionable Furs
At Decisive Reductions

Hudson Seal Wraps — 295.00
Unusually beautiful full-length wraps of rich Hudson Seal fur, adorned with deep collar of genuine Beaver. Heretofore 495.00

Blue Squirrel Wraps — 595.00
Exquisite full-length wraps of soft Blue Squirrel fur enhanced with huge self collar. Handsomely silk lined. Heretofore 895.00

Hudson Seal Coats — 395.00
Elegant 45-inch coats of lustrous Hudson Seal fur enriched with voluminous collar and cuffs of Natural Skunk. Richly lined with Silk. Heretofore 595.00

Hudson Seal Wraps — 395.00
Full length wraps of rich, velvety Hudson Seal fur with voluminous collar of self fur. Exquisitely lined. Heretofore 795.00

Natural Muskrat Coats — 149.50
Unusually smart three-quarter length Natural Muskrat coats with reversed border. Large self collar and cuffs. Silk lined throughout. Heretofore 275.00

Scotch Mole Wraps — 295.00
Unusually handsome wraps of fine Scotch Mole in various lengths, with large self collar and cuffs. Beautifully lined with Silk. Heretofore 495.00

All Separate Fur Pieces Also Greatly Reduced

FUR COATS

Manufacturers' Million-Dollar Stock Offered in a

DIRECT SALE

FROM WHOLESALER TO CONSUMER

WILLIAM JACKMAN'S SONS, the largest manufacturing furriers in America, offer in a Direct-to-the-Public Sale their entire MILLION-DOLLAR STOCK OF FURS AT A QUARTER OF THEIR REGULAR RETAIL VALUE.

Three large floors filled with beautiful merchandise known as the standard of excellence the country over!

The Jackman Label Milady displays it with careful nonchalance. She is proud of it!

COATS

Arranged in Price Groups for Quick Selection

$50 — Pony, Wolf, Coney

$75 — Opossum, Bay Seal, Leopard Cat

$100 — French Seal, Russian Mink, Civet Cat

$135 — French Seal with large collars and cuffs of Beaver, Skunk and Squirrel. Ringtail Opossum, Raccoon

Ultra-fashionable one & two skin Boas to be worn with the Spring suits.

Russian Sable . $100
Hudson Bay Sable 40
Baum Marten . 35
Stone Marten . 25
Russian Crown Sables

equal to pelts sold this season for $2,000. $500

Hudson Seal COATS in a superb quality of soft fine skins. Full flare. Beautifully lined, with great deep collars and cuffs of the best Skunk or Beaver. $250

Black Caracul Coats
36 and 40 inch Length. Squirrel and Skunk collars and cuffs. $175

WRAPS DE LUXE

Broadtail and Russian Sable	$3500	Mink	$2750
Broadtail and Mink	2500	Mink	1800
Broadtail of the finest quality of European dyed skins in the world		Caracul (Brown) — Very silky and beautiful skins.	625

SCARFS AND MUFFS

Silver Fox, Blue Fox, Cross Fox, Black Lynx, Skunk, Mink, Beaver, Gray Squirrel, Mole, Hudson Seal, Raccoon, Wolf, etc., all at ¼ of their former retail price.

FREE STORAGE first year on purchases made at this SALE

The sacrifice of these choice goods offers a chance for every one to own beautiful furs

Sales Rooms Open Monday from 8:30 A. M. to 6 P. M.

WILLIAM JACKMAN'S SONS

America's Largest Wholesale Furriers

35-37-39 WEST 35th STREET

Estab. since 1860

Extra Sales Staff. Quick Service. Prompt Deliveries

SCHEER HITS PLAN FOR NAVAL HOLIDAY

Says It Would Help England Only, Enabling Her to Get Over a "Hard Spot."

AND DECIDE FUTURE SHIPS

German Admiral Says America Would Not Benefit—He Favors Disarmament.

Copyright, 1921, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

WEIMAR, Jan. 15.—Admiral von Scheer, whom at least half the world regards as one of the greatest leaders in naval war history, granted a newspaper interview today for the first time since the signing of peace. For the benefit of American readers I sought and obtained the opinion of the Skagerrak-Jutland commander on these great questions of the day:

The "Naval Holiday," the disputes between the adherents of capital ship construction and submarine programs, and the American naval policy, both offensive and defensive.

"I would like," said Admiral Scheer, "to see the world pass from national, class and religious hatred, the dangers of Bolshevism and the chaotic and economic conditions, all of which have resulted from the war, to justice and friendship. Universal disarmament would be a step toward that goal, but for the [redacted] ration having the [redacted]est fleet to enjoin shipbuilding looks [redacted]e like a swindle. Let's have [redacted] purpose, not hypocrisy.

"I have [redacted]terest President-elect Hard[redacted] to call a world congress [redacted]ent, and I trust that ideals [redacted]ained in America, despite her experiences with the fourteen points.

"America is today in a position to strengthen her navy. Great Britain is in a bad position for two reasons: She has not the money and she does not know what kind of ships to build.

"The naval holiday plan benefits England only, not America. In three years who can tell what economic changes will have come to pass? England would then begin building again and by that time the question regarding the supremacy of capital ships or submarines or other minor weapon will have been cleared up. England, which is now in possession of a superior naval force, would then concentrate upon her choice and become still stronger.

"Universal disarmament would work out. A naval holiday merely would tide Great Britain over a bad spot in her naval plans, her politics and her economic hardships. As far as I can judge, the press reports, which clamor for a naval holiday, come almost exclusively from Great Britain. America has money for building ships, while England, with her enormous fleet, has not.

"More important, however, I believe, is Great Britain's decision. I see therein a great lesson in naval warfare. England is naturally dissatisfied with the rôle that her high seas fleet played off Skagerrak and throughout the war. England's capital ships decided to do nothing and remained in port.

"A party arises [redacted] politicians and naval men who [redacted]ing that ships of the line are [redacted]d desire nothing built but su[redacted] small craft and aircraft.

"The old timers waver. Their indecision prompts the theory of a naval holiday, during which experiments will show the best course to be adopted.

"This is the best proof that England recognizes that she lost the Skagerrak battle and that her navy has not gained any new laurels.

"Japan is an island empire like England. To some extent she has to meet the same problems.

"America is a continent and does not face the most important of all naval warfare problems, the possibility of an economic and food blockade. America, therefore, can afford to carry out her naval program more easily than her rivals.

"Certainly, if I were an American I would not listen to the naval holiday talk, but would cast my vote for universal disarmament and restoration of world peace, which still is far away."

(Another article of this series will appear soon.)

Lower Bail [redacted]dau.

Supreme Court Justice [redacted] denied yesterday an application [redacted]behalf of Kirk A. Landau, [redacted]nt of the Pacat Finance Corporation, who was arrested on Thursday and held in $75,000 bail in a suit of the Shawmut National Bank for fraud, to reduce his bail on the ground that it is excessive. Landau said he was 23 years old and that his father, who was the head of the corporation, left for Europe just before it collapsed. He said that he did not intend to leave the country, although he is an English citizen, and could not go if he wished to do so because he had surrendered his passport.

Ford's Gain Is Now 1,140.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Further recount by the Senate Elections Committee today of ballots cast in the Michigan Senatorial contest between Henry Ford and Senator Newberry increased Ford's gain. With 970 precincts out of a total of 2,232 counted, Ford's net gain was given as 1,140.

"MILLIONAIRE KID" FINED.

Osterweiss Sentenced for Counterfeiting in Reformatory.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 15.—Louis M. Osterweiss of New Haven, Conn., known as the "Millionaire Kid," convicted a year ago of counterfeiting Treasury notes while an inmate of the Federal Disciplinary Barracks at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and released on bond under suspended sentence to report this week for sentence, was fined and released when he appeared before Judge John C. Pollock in the Kansas City (Kan.) Federal Court today.

The fine was $500 and costs and Osterweiss's release was made contingent upon payment of the fine. He left here tonight for New Haven, where, he said, he expected to confer with his conservator regarding payment.

The court declared Osterweiss was the victim of "the curse of gold." According to officials he inherited large sums of money from relatives. According to Osterweiss, since his conviction he has been employed in several cities in the Southwest. He also had worked in New York, he said.

TO FIRE ON ALLIED SHIPS.

Russians Warn Them to Keep Away From Black Sea Coast.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 14.—All vessels flying allied flags which approach within twelve miles of the Russian Black Sea coast will be fired upon by land batteries and be subject to attack by submarines.

This action is indicated in a message received here from Moscow.

47-49-51 West 42d Street

Sale begins at 8:30

Renard

Sale tomorrow (Monday)

A RECORD BREAKING SALE IN WHICH

PRICES REACH BOTTOM

Our Entire Stocks—Women's and Misses'

Coats, Wraps & Dresses

at the greatest reductions ever made!!

Prices for smart styles have never been so low and they may never be so low again, so take full advantage of this extraordinary opportunity.

DRESSES

Beautifully Embroidered and Elaborately Braided All-Wool Tricotine—Embroidered Velour
Many Wonderful Styles

11.95 Values to 30.00

DRESSES — Worth to 20.00
Tricotine, Men's Wear Serge, Tailored Velour, Sizes for Misses & Women
7.85

DRESSES — Worth to 40.00
Emb'd Tricotine, Rich Satin, Crepe Back Satin, Charmeuse
19.75

DRESSES — Worth to 50.00
Silk Duvetyne, Canton Crepe, Finest Tricotine, Emb'd Velour 29.75

Embroidered Velour Coats
Attractive new models, completely lined with silk. All sizes for women and misses.
16.75 Values to 30.00

Fur Collar Bolivia Coats
Fashionable new models, with large collars of fashionable fur. Every Coat silk lined.
27.50 Values to 50.00

Coats and Coat Wraps — Worth to 60.00
Bolivia, Suedine, Duvette, Silvertip, with large collar of fine furs; completely lined with silk.
35.00

Coats and Coat Wraps — Worth to 85.00
Bokhara, Chamoistyne, Velour de Laine and Veldyne with Luxurious Collars of fashionable furs.
55.00

Coats and Coat Wraps — Worth to 150.00
The richest of Materials in Garments of Exquisite line embellished in richest furs.
75.00

RENARD—West 42d St.—RENARD

The Store is closed daily at 5 P. M.

B. Altman & Co.

MADISON AVENUE - FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

Thirty-fourth Street TELEPHONE 7000 MURRAY HILL Thirty-fifth Street

Clothes for Summer Climes

For those who are about to hie themselves Southward or Pacific-ward B. Altman & Co.'s Store offers innumerable attractions

Frocks for every hour of the day; Dinner and Evening Gowns; Coats and Wraps for all occasions; Travel and Sports Suits; Blouses; Lounging Robes for the rest hour; Tea Gowns for the "five o'clock"; and all the accessories of the fashionable costume.

Also

Toilet Necessaries and Complexion Specialties; Perfumes; Stationery and Leather Goods

For Monday

A Remarkable Offering of Imported Wool Suitings and Coatings

comprising three thousand yards of 54-inch tweeds, mixtures, checks and stripe effects, all of the finest quality (pure wool)

at the extraordinarily low price of

$2.45 per yard

All Spring patterns; all Spring colors.

(First Floor)

For Monday

A Reduction Sale of Boys' English Jersey Suits

offering 350 Suits (sizes 2 to 8) taken from regular stock and re-priced, for quicker disposal, to $7.75

These are extremely good-looking and durable suits, made of a fine worsted jersey that holds its color well and can be tubbed when necessary. The colors are brown, blue, green and gray.

(Sixth Floor)

A Special-price Sale of Women's American-made Lingerie

will be continued to-morrow, on the Second Floor.

For Monday

An Extraordinary Sale of Hand-made Valenciennes and Point Binche Laces

(made in Belgium); comprising a large purchase of these most desirable of lingerie and Summer frock trimmings, in edges and insertings ranging in width from the narrowest up to 1½ inches; all of them

phenomenally low-priced

Real Valenciennes

per yard 35c., 48c., 65c., 82c., 95c.

Real Point Binche

per yard 55c. & 85c.

(First Floor)

The Department for Women's Silk Underwear

has ready for Spring an exceptionally attractive assortment of dainty silk undergarments, made of washable silk of exquisite quality (in white, lavender and flesh-tone), and charmingly adorned with hemstitching and hand-made Valenciennes edging.

At very reasonable prices, in regular stock:

Nightrobes, Vest Chemises at	$14.50 7.25	Drawers	$8.50
Envelopes	8.75	Bloomers	8.50
		Camisoles	4.50
		Petticoats,	13.50

Some of these prices are subject to War Revenue tax.

(Second Floor)

The Great Yearly Sales of Oriental Rugs, Household and Decorative Linens Blankets and Bed Furnishings

now being held, present a rare opportunity for economic buying representative Puts Blame on Government.

CREDIT OF FACTORIES HURT

Forced Shutdowns Result of Treasury's Holding Back War Guarantees, Says F. W. Noxon.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Frank W. Noxon of New York, Secretary of the Railway Business Association, manufacturers of railway equipment, testifying today before the House Interstate Commerce Committee, which was considering a bill to clarify the guarantee clause of the Transportation act, asserted that the industrial situation was greatly affected by the inability of the railroads to pay their supply and equipment bills. This condition he attributed to the refusal of the Government to make partial payments under the Transportation act.

"Information began coming to us some time ago," said Mr. Noxon, "that many railways were holding un accounts due our members and giving as their reason that they could not collect large sums certified as owing to them by the Government. The same reason was said to have been given by some roads for not ordering supplies or for requesting manufacturers to delay delivery of goods already ordered.

"Members communicating with us in many cases refrained from stating the amounts overdue them, and in other cases specified the amounts, but requested that their names be not published, as it might injure them to have their embarrassment become known. It is proper to say, however, that distress attributed to this cause is widespread, that amounts due sixty days or more apparently aggregate several hundred millions, and that the consequent industrial shutdown and unemployment of labor involve very large numbers of men.

"One large company, normally employing in its main works and several subsidiaries many thousand men, has furnished us with a comparison of collections now and a year ago, as follows:

January, 1920, collections, 6[illegible] per cent. of accounts receivable, indicating a 'turnover' or average collection period of seventy days.

December, 1920, collections, 23 per cent. of accounts receivable, indicating a 'turnover' or average collection period of about 130 days.

The sales terms of that company are thirty days. On this basis as of Dec. 1 about 66 2-3 per cent. of its railroad accounts receivable were overdue. The amount was about $4,000,000; accounts due sixty days or more were 40 per cent. and totaled $2,400,000, and accounts due ninety days or more were 12 per cent., or $720,000.

"Members advise that they have been obliged to fall back upon their local banks to carry them. This increases the credit strain in the community and nearly a million to this.

"Some of our members in the South who deal in lumber say that there is hardship among farmers who are accustomed to cut railway ties, but find this market largely or wholly closed to them.

Alfred P. Thom, counsel for the Association of Railway Executives, asked the committee not to delay the enactment of the legislation which would give the railroads relief.

PAY TRIBUTE TO SCHIFF.

Hebrew Union College Speakers Recall His Large Gifts to Education.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 15.—Paying tribute to the late Jacob H. Schiff of New York, Dr. Kauffmann Kohler, President of Hebrew Union College, in a memorial address in the auditorium of the college this afternoon, recounted his life work and eulogized the philanthropist's devotion and vast contributions to the cause of education among the Jews in America. He said that it was such hearts as Schiff's that had made the world better for every people regardless of religion.

Dr. David Philipson followed with an address in which he said: "No other Jew has done what Mr. Schiff has done for education. Call the roster of our great Jews, and you will find that there is no other man who had the vision and who took the interest of learning so close to his heart. He did more toward realising the fruit of his great vision than any other Jew."

Both Dr. Kohler and Dr. Philipson told of the gift of a fund by Mr. Schiff for the purpose of carrying on the work of translating the Bible. They were both appointed by Mr. Schiff members of the committee to carry out this work.

The services were the second of three held in connection with the close of the tour of the "flying squadron," which has for its purpose the raising of a $7,500,000 fund for educational and religious purposes.

SECOND TAYLOR GOVERNOR.

New Republican Executive of Tennessee Refers to Brother.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 15.—Alfred Alexander Taylor, Republican, was inaugurated Governor today, being the second of his family to hold the office.

"I cherish no higher ambition," he said in his inaugural address, "than that I may become as acceptable a Governor as a brother predecessor, whose face I looked on for the last time in this very hall."

The reference was to Robert L. Taylor, who served three times as Governor and died during his term as United States Senator. The new Governor made his first race for the office against his brother, and the campaign was known as the "war of the roses." Afterward the two toured the country, delivering lectures on "Yankee Doodle and Dixie."

Except for two terms served by Hon W. Hooper, Colonel Taylor is the first Republican Governor Tennessee has had since 1880. He is a noted hunter of big game.

Receive No Applications for Advances on Exports.

FARMERS MISJUDGED IT

Limit Imposed by Law on Its Operations Explained by Houston in Letter to Senator Robinson.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The controversy over the ability of the War Finance Corporation to aid farmers, cotton growers and other producers who may find themselves in financial trouble because of the lack of a favorable market for their commodities was renewed today by the publication of letters exchanged between Senator Robinson of Arkansas and Secretary of the Treasury Houston.

Some members of Congress have intimated that Secretary Houston, who opposed a continuation of the War Finance Corporation, would delay the steps necessary to a renewal of its activities. In his letter to Senator Robinson, however, Secretary Houston asserts that the wishes of Congress will be carried out in "full faith." The question involved, Secretary Houston held, was the ability of the War Finance Corporation to accomplish any material good for the producers.

"I fear," he wrote, "there has been some misunderstanding of the nature of the powers revived."

The Secretary then shows that farmers who may have been led to expect direct financial aid through the Government are doomed to disappointment. The War Finance Corporation act, he pointed out, made it possible for the corporation to lend money only to persons or concerns engaged in exporting or to banks which make advances to such persons or firms, and then under certain very drastic conditions.

It was said at the offices of the War Finance Corporation today that several

ADVERTISEMENT.

Personnel Administration as a Profession

For men and women seeking practical training for the higher executive positions in this field, we offer:

(1) An Eight Weeks' Intensive Course (Beginning Jan. 31st. Class limited to 25) Lectures by foremost specialists, conferences, visits to plants, field work, etc. Subjects include every important phase of employment, technique and industrial relations.

(2) An Evening Lecture Course (Beginning Feb. 17) Thursdays only, 6 P. M. to 7:30 P. M.

Write for catalog today to the

BUREAU OF PERSONNEL ADMINISTRATION
H. C. Metcalf, Director
17 W. 47th St. Bryant 5700. New York

Smith Girls Will Graze It.

AMHERST, Mass., Jan. 15.—The young women of Smith College are at odds with the young men of Amherst College and the differences have caused a suspension of joint social activities. Attention was called to the break in relations today by the action of Amherst undergraduates in voting to take immediate steps to make their peace with the girls of Smith.

Individual efforts to restore old relations had met with some success, it was said at the meeting, but Smith undergraduates as a body were still understood to regard Amherst men as persona non grata. In time, the speakers thought, the Smith girls would relent, but it was decided that Amherst should Farmer Leaves $1,275,000.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 15.—The fact that Jonathan M. Parmenter of Wayland, who spent most of his years in farming and trading in cattle, had amassed a fortune of $1,275,000, became known today when his will was filed for probate here. He left nearly half a million for public purposes, including $225,000 for the establishment of a Water-supply system for Wayland, and $300,000 for the building of a hospital there.

Suffrage Planks Approved.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 15.—Fulfilling a platform pledge, bills providing for the equal representation of women in national, State, county and local Republican councils were approved today at the meeting here of the joint Republican Conference Committee of the Senate and Assembly.

A number of bills aimed at Governor Edwards were approved. The principal one was a resolution directing the Senate and House to appoint three members each to constitute a committee to investigate election frauds in Hudson County, the home county of the Governor. The report of the "Sunday blue laws," touched upon by Governor Edwards in his annual message, will not be considered here by the conferees. There was

Telephone Fitz Roy 2400

FUR COATS

Manufacturers' Million-Dollar Stock Offered in a

DIRECT SALE

FROM WHOLESALER TO CONSUMER

WILLIAM JACKMAN'S SONS, the largest manufacturing furriers in America, offer in a Direct-to-the-Public Sale their entire MILLION-DOLLAR STOCK OF FURS AT A QUARTER OF THEIR REGULAR RETAIL VALUE.

Three large floors filled with beautiful merchandise known as the standard of excellence the country over!

The Jackman Label
Milady displays it with careful nonchalance.
She is proud of it!

COATS

Arranged in Price Groups for Quick Selection

$50 — Pony, Wolf, Coney

$75 — Opossum, Bay Seal, Leopard Cat

$100 — French Seal, Russian Mink, Civet Cat

$135 — French Seal with large collars and cuffs of Beaver, Skunk and Squirrel. Ringtail Opossum, Raccoon

Ultra-fashionable one & two skin Boas to be worn with the Spring suits.

Russian Sable . $100
Hudson Bay Sable 40
Baum Marten . 35
Stone Marten . 25
Russian Crown Sables

equal to pelts sold this season for $2,000. $500

Hudson Seal COATS in a superb quality of soft fine skins. Full flare. Beautifully lined, with great deep collars and cuffs of the best Skunk or Beaver. $250

Black Caracul Coats

36 and 40 inch Length. Squirrel and Skunk collars and cuffs. $175

WRAPS DE LUXE

Broadtail and Russian Sable	$3500	Mink	$2750
Broadtail and Mink	2500	Mink	1800
Broadtail of the finest quality of European dyed skins in the world		Caracul (Brown) Very silky and beautiful skins.	625

SCARFS AND MUFFS

Silver Fox, Blue Fox, Cross Fox, Black Lynx, Skunk, Mink, Beaver, Gray Squirrel, Mole, Hudson Seal, Raccoon, Wolf, etc., all at ¼ of their former retail price.

FREE STORAGE first year on purchases made at this SALE

The sacrifice of these choice goods offers a chance for every one to own beautiful furs

Sales Rooms Open Monday from 8:30 A. M. to 6 P. M.

WILLIAM JACKMAN'S SONS

America's Largest Wholesale Furriers
35-37-39 WEST 35th STREET

Estab. since 1860

Extra Sales Staff. Quick Service. Prompt Deliveries

Fifth Ave. Stewart & Co. At 37th St.

Correct Apparel for Women & Misses

Imbued with that delightful verve and esprit of Youth and representative of the latest Parisian Creations

DISTINCTIVE NEW MODES

For the ensuing season—exquisitely developed in new, rich fabrics of distinctive appearance—radiant colorings effecting a pleasing departure from the conventional

EXQUISITE NEW MODES IN DRESSES
29.50 to 198.50

Irresistible in their charm and beauty, these dresses reveal a wealth of fashion innovations, in line and treatment; included are types of unadorned simplicity as well as more ornate creations, executed in the loveliest of fabrics—Piquetine, Tricotine Taffeta, Canton-Crepe, Satin, Voile, Linen and Organdie.

NEW MODES IN TAILORED SUITS
59.50 to 198.50

An advance showing of new suit modes, particularly emphasizing the new butterfly coat models, the Directoire influence and other chic plain tailored effects—all with various length jackets. Each suit mirrors that irreproachable tailoring which characterizes all Stewart & Co. garments.

The ensemble also comprises new Wraps, Sports Coats, Hats, Sweaters, Skirts and Blouses. New Models are constantly being added to our collections.

Crepe Back Satin Dress
39.50

The pleasing piquancy of this dress is at once apparent; fashioned with tunic of Georgette Crepe combined with Crepe Back Satin, and handsomely adorned with gold and silver thread ribbon. The snug Crepe Back Satin bodice ends in large bow and long sash at back.

Springtime Taffeta Dress
69.50

Of compelling charm and beauty is this pretty dress of soft, lustrous Taffeta, with its flaring tunic and short sleeves gorgeously embroidered in rich, metallic thread and colorful silk. The wide self-girdle with its large bow and long sash at side, and the collarless square neck will make an instant appeal.

CLEARANCE SALE of Fur Trimmed Wraps

At Decisive Reductions

Beaver Collar Wraps — 58.00
An unusually handsome wrap of fine Duvet de Velour Superior, enriched with luxurious shawl collar of genuine Beaver. Regularly Sells at 98.50

Fur Collar Wraps — 48.00
Wraps of Veldyne, Duvetyne, Bolivia or Velour Superior, with collars of Scotch Mole, Australian Opossum or Skunk; rich silk embroideries. Heretofore to 98.50

Fur Collar Wraps — 68.00
Collars of Nutria, Scotch Mole or collars and cuffs of Australian Opossum adorn these luxurious wraps of Chamoistyne, Bolivia Superior, Veldyne. Heretofore to 124.50

Fur Trimmed Wraps — 95.00
Wraps of Evora, Chamoistyne or Veldyne, adorned with collars of Beaver or Natural Squirrel; others with collar and cuffs of Scotch Mole, Wolf, Ringtail Opossum or Australian Opossum. Heretofore to 198.50

Wool Jersey Suits — 19.75
Smartly modelled suits appropriate for present or Spring wear, tailored of Wool Jersey in Heather mixtures.

Smart Sport Skirts — 10.75
Ultra-smart sport skirts in many color combinations, modelled of Wool Velour and fine Serge in small and large Scotch Plaids, with box, knife or side pleats.

Wraps and Coats Silk Lined and Interlined.

CLEARANCE SALE of Fashionable Furs

At Decisive Reductions

Hudson Seal Wraps — 295.00
Unusually beautiful full-length wraps of rich Hudson Seal fur, adorned with deep collar of genuine Beaver. Heretofore 495.00

Blue Squirrel Wraps — 595.00
Exquisite full-length wraps of soft Blue Squirrel fur enhanced with huge self collar. Handsomely silk lined. Heretofore 895.00

Hudson Seal Coats — 395.00
Elegant 45-inch coats of lustrous Hudson Seal fur enriched with voluminous collar and cuffs of Natural Skunk. Richly lined with Silk. Heretofore 595.00

Hudson Seal Wraps — 395.00
Full length wraps of rich, velvety Hudson Seal fur with voluminous collar of self fur. Exquisitely lined. Heretofore 795.00

Natural Muskrat Coats — 149.50
Unusually smart three-quarter length Natural Muskrat coats with reversed border. Large self collar and cuffs. Silk lined throughout. Heretofore 275.00

Scotch Mole Wraps — 295.00
Unusually handsome wraps of fine Scotch Mole in various lengths, with large self collar and cuffs. Beautifully lined with Silk. Heretofore 495.00

All Separate Fur Pieces Also Greatly Reduced

ADDS AMENDMENTS TO FORDNEY TARIFF

Senate Committee Broadens It to Include Practically All Farm Products.

ITS DEATH NOW PREDICTED

Foes Plan Fight on Floor to Load It With Soldier Bonus, Peace Treaty and Other Additions.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The Fordney Emergency Tariff bill, broadened to include practically all farm products instead of the limited number in the measure as it passed the House, was approved today by the Senate Finance Committee, which voted to report it to the Senate Monday.

Seven amendments were added to the bill for today's session, making a total of ten which have been tacked on by the committee. No provisions of the original bill, however, were removed and rates on the major products carried by the House bill were left intact.

Opponents of the bill in the committee joined with the authors of amendments and forced the acceptance of most of them, despite opposition from the bill's defenders. There was no record vote. It was said that the Democrats in the committee, with the exception of Senators Nugent of Idaho and Jones of New Mexico, stood against reporting the bill.

Seven New Amendments.

The amendments which finally were made a part of the measure by committee action included:

Sugar, $2.13 per hundred pounds until the retail price reaches 10 cents a pound.

Frozen meats of all kinds, 2 cents a pound; all other meats 25 per cent. ad valorem.

Apples, 20 cents a box; cherries, 4 cents a pound.

Tobacco, Sumatra, wrappers and fillers, $2.85 per pound; stemmed Sumatra, $2.50 per pound.

Butter and cheese and their substitutes, 8 cents a pound instead of 6 cents, provided in an amendment accepted yesterday.

The length of long staple cotton on which the tariff will be effective was reduced from 1⅛ inches to 1⅛ inches, the duty remaining at 7 cents a pound, as the bill passed the House.

Cattle and sheep to be used for breeding purposes were exempted from the duty on imported animals.

Rice to be used in manufacture of canned goods was excepted from the tariff of 2 cents a pound levied in the House bill.

There was no attempt to change the life of the bill's provisions, and little debate took place relative to whether ten months would be a sufficiently long period for application of the law. Several Republican Senators, in anticipation of argument on this phase of the measure, were said to have explained that the permanent tariff bill, now under consideration by the House Ways and Means Committee, would be whipped into shape before the expiration of the emergency law, and that the latter would then be automatically repealed.

Democrats Fought Additions.

There was no record vote on any of the seven amendments which were added to the bill in today's meeting, although Senator Simmons, Democrat, North Carolina, said the Democrats "generally had voted against everything." One of the amendments agreed to yesterday, that placing a duty on certain dairy products, was changed today, a higher rate being accepted.

Several proposed amendments were rejected today, Senator Jones of Washington, failing to secure a duty on salmon, and Senator Trammell of Florida on oranges. In addition several Democratic Senators fought to place delaying amendments upon the bill, such as the soldier bonus bill, the $50,000,000 reclamation scheme, and the recodification of the United States statutes. While the Democrats were not able to force these through the committee today, they will offer them on the floor, and a long-drawn-out filibuster is expected. There was even a rumor today that Senator Thomas of Colorado, Democrat, proposed to offer the peace treaty as an amendment. Senator Harrison of Mississippi, another Democrat, will offer as amendments some of the other discussion-provoking bills already mentioned.

The bill is not taken very seriously by the majority of the Republican Senators any more than by the Democrats, and its death is freely predicted. When it came from the House Chairman Fordney of the Ways and Means Committee said that if it were overloaded with new amendments it would surely fail of enactment.

The bill will be reported "in the form it is to be defeated," said Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah. He added that "about everything anybody asked for was put in." Several other supporters of the measure also expressed dissatisfaction with the result of the committee's work.

Rates on Other Commodities.

Other rates remain as set by the House, including wheat flour and semolina, 20 per cent. ad valorem; corn, 15 cents per bushel; beans, 2 cents per pound; peanuts or ground beans, 3 cents per pound; potatoes, 25 cents per bushel; onions, 40 cents per bushel; cleaned rice, 2 cents per pound; uncleaned rice, 1½ cents per pound; rice flour, 1 cent per pound; "paddy," 1 cent per pound; lemons, 1½ cents per pound; peanut oil, 28 cents per gallon; cottonseed, cocoanut and soya bean oils, 20 cents; cattle, 90 per cent. ad valorem; sheep over one year old, $2 per head, under one year $1; cotton manufactures, 7 cents per pound; unwashed wool, 15 cents per pound; washed, 30 cents; scoured, 45 cents; wool manufactures, 25 cents.

In its tariff revision hearings today, the House Ways and Means Committee took up Schedule D of the Underwood act, comprising wood and wood products.

John H. Kirby, Austin, Texas, President of the Southern Tariff Association, asked the committee for a rate of 15 per cent. ad valorem on imported lumber, saying that such a tariff would yield $6,000,000 annually in revenue and would not increase the lumber cost to American consumers.

Two other witnesses, Charles A. Bigelow, Bay City, Mich., representing the Hardwood Manufacturers' Association, and J. S. Eckman of Cincinnati, President of the Oak Flooring Manufacturers' Association, were before the committee with proposals for an ad valorem duty of 25 per cent. They explained that the Canadian tariff on lumber products was 25 per cent. and that American manufacturers desired to be placed on an equal basis with their Canadian competitors.

Mr. Bigelow said, however, that the manufacturers in the United States would be satisfied if a reciprocity agreement affecting their products could be arranged, adding that they desired only to have an equal opportunity.

SAYS SHE WAS JILTED, SUES.

Lent Money for Divorce, but Fiance Married Another, Woman Charges.

Mrs. Ada Tyler, former wife of a Montana business man, sued Robert E. Ward, connected with a dry goods firm in Fifth Avenue, in the Supreme Court yesterday to recover $4,250. Mrs. Tyler alleged that she lent the defendant this money on condition that he would use it to divorce his wife and then marry her. She says he divorced his wife in Nevada but returned to New York and married Miss Gladys Claypool.

Mrs. Tyler's attorney stated that she became engaged to Ward in 1918 before she knew he was married. The attorney says she merely wants her money back.

ATTACKS LANDIS

Petition to Congress Protests Against Judge Becoming Baseball Head.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—A petition protesting against the employment of Judge Kenesaw M. Landis as National Baseball Commissioner has been prepared by Thomas J. Sutherland, a Chicago lawyer, and sent to members of Congress from Illinois, it was learned today.

In a letter to Chicago newspapers informing them of his action, Mr. Sutherland is said to have urged that they "comprehend the importance of this petition," and called their attention to "this attempt to mulct the Government and also to set an example of vicious infidelity to public service."

The petition demands action relative to Judge Landis serving both as a Judge and an agent of the Baseball Commission. It seeks to show that the Judge in accepting an annual salary from the Baseball Commission of $42,500 a year, while drawing a salary of $7,500 a year as Federal Judge, is acting in violation of the spirit of statutes preventing a Government officer from engaging in remunerative private enterprises.

"Judge Landis," says Mr. Sutherland in his petition, "by his contract with the league has attempted to barter away what belongs to the Government and all the people, to an organization of a special few and to receive therefrom an office of profit in direct violation of the mandates of the Constitution and laws.

"Unfortunately, it has been done publicly and ostentatiously with all its vicious and demoralizing influences; and if his conduct is to remain unchallenged by Congress it will become an incentive to lawyers of a certain class to seek appointments to the Federal bench with the purpose partly of doing precisely what he has done, to its degradation."

When told of the petition, Judge Landis said:

"I looked into things well before accepting this baseball work. I feel that I did right in accepting the place offered to me."

AUTHER ARRESTED AGAIN.

Mrs. Franzen's Husband Charges Him With Larceny of $100.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Pierre Paul Auther, the Highland Park chemist who eloped with Mrs. Philip Franzen of Madison, Wis., several weeks ago, was arrested here today on a warrant charging larceny, sworn out by the woman's husband. He waived extradition and said he would willingly go to Madison to prove his innocence.

Auther, who had been living in a hotel here with his wife and child, with whom he had been reconciled after police officers found him and Mrs. Franzen in St. Louis, expressed surprise at the arrest, but submitted quietly. The warrant was sent here by the Chief of Police of Madison and charges the theft of $100.

"I understood that Mr. Franzen had dropped the larceny charge," he said. "I can easily disprove the charge. Mr. Franzen and I talked amiably for two hours the night Mrs. Franzen and I left Madison, and we parted on the best of terms. I did not use a revolver, and I did not ask for any money.

"Upon parting Mr. Franzen gave his wife a check for $100 to help defray her expenses and to clear all claims she might make upon their household furniture and other belongings. Mrs. Franzen cashed that check herself. I never handled it."

Auther said he did not know the whereabouts of Mrs. Fransen.

DENIES MOTHER $2 A WEEK.

Goes to Workhouse Rather Than Give Sum to Parent 78 Years Old.

William Salter, 46 years old, who lives with his wife and children at 419 Fourth Avenue, Long Island City, was transferred yesterday from the city prison there to the workhouse on Blackwell's Island, where he must serve a sentence of thirty days imposed by Magistrate Doyle in the Long Island City Court because he refused to pay $2 a week toward the support of his mother, 78 years old, an inmate of the City Hospital on Blackwell's Island.

Salter said that he was a painter and made $9 a day, but that all of this was required for his own expenses and those of his family. Magistrate Doyle told him that he was well able to pay $2 a week for the support of his mother. Salter refused. The Magistrate ordered that he give a bond of $104 to guarantee payment of this sum for a year or go to the workhouse for thirty days. Salter accepted sentence.

SOLDIERS' LEAGUE ASKS AID.

Funds Needed to Carry On Relief Work for Disabled Men.

More than fifteen hundred ex-service men have been assisted by the National Disabled Soldiers' League, Inc., during the last three months, according to a report made public yesterday by Captain George H. Gillin, its Chairman. Through the efforts of the league, disabled men and their families have received $25,421 from the various Government boards. More than 370 cases are being adjusted.

There are 641,900 disabled soldiers, less than 4,500 of whom are being cared for under the Rehabilitation act, and at least 20,000 disabled men are yet in the hospitals. Many of the families of these men are in need. Practically all of the 370 cases being settled by the league are those of disabled men in hospitals who have received no compensation from the Government. The league is in need of funds to carry on its work.

SENTENCES AGED SWINDLER

Federal Judge Sends Dr. Matthews to Atlanta for Five Years.

BOSTON, Jan. 15.—A. Sidney Mathews, promoter of the so-called National Touring Club of America, in connection with which he obtained thousands of dollars on worthless memberships, was sentenced today to serve five years in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta and to pay a fine of $1,000.

The aged promoter, who in his youth was a page in Congress, had asked for a private conference with the Court before sentence was pronounced, but Judge Aldrich refused to meet him. In imposing sentence the Judge wrote that the defendant had had as full a trial as he desired, and that he thought his sentence should be of the largest measure provided by the statutes.

Mathews was arrested in Baltimore recently.

VOLIVA PICTURES HELL.

Tells His Followers Topers Will Stew in Their Favorite Juice.

ZION, Ill., Jan. 15.—Residents of Zion received new light on the terrors of the infernal regions today, when Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva issued advance sheets on a "Handbook and Guide to Hell," based on what he termed "hell-grams," which he said he had received recently.

"Every sinner is going to be punished with an overdose of his own sin," Voliva declared. "A tobacco smoker will be locked up in a den full of tobacco smoke. A chewer of the filthy weed will be immersed to his neck in a vat of tobacco juice. A drinker will pass his term of purification in a natatorium filled with beer, wine and whisky."

West 42nd Street and West 43rd Street

Stern Brothers

Business Hours: 9 A. M. until 5:30 P. M.

Specially Prepared Sale Monday of Women's TAFFETA DRESSES

$29.50

Excellent quality Taffetas in youthfully fashioned modes.

The assortment comprises newest Spring styles in eyelet embroidery or plain Taffeta with full tunics. An extensive showing to select from in Navy Blue, Brown and Black.

Extraordinary Savings in a Sale Monday of Women's Fur-Collared WRAPS

$75.00 Regularly $145.00

Distinctive Chamoistyn, Vel de Cygne and Camelora models

embodying the new style features as revealed in recently imported Wraps. Fur collars of selected Taupe Nutria or Australian Opossum. Silk lined and interlined. All sizes.

A Purchase of Unusual Importance

Enables us to offer Monday

WOMEN'S

NEW SPORT SUITS

at $38.00

A price which represents a saving of at least $20.00 on each suit.

Fashioned in the newest fabrics Toil-de-Laine and mannish Mixtures. These models are ideal for the Winter resorts, also town or country wear. The choicest shades of Pewter, Sea Foam, Fasina, Blue Heather, Fawn and Brown are shown in addition to Oxford Grey; silk lined; 34 to 44.

Women's Gloves

6-button length Glace Biarritz. White, Cream or Pongee

$2.25 Formerly $3.50

12-button length. Glace Mousquetaire style; White

$4.50 Formerly $6.00

Imported Washable Doeskin Gloves

At Greatly Reduced Prices

12-button, White or Cream, $5.00

16-button, White or Cream, $6.00

A Special Purchase and Sale Monday

Will offer Exceptional Values in

MISSES'

TRICOTINE DRESSES

SPECIAL at $15.00

Models made to these same specifications would ordinarily be priced at $29.75

Smart, youthful Dresses in this season's most fashionable silhouettes. Navy Blue Tricotines—many are embellished with handsome embroidery. Silk belts add to their effectiveness. The waists are silk lined. Sizes 14, 16 and 18 years.

Decisive Price Reductions on

Children's Hosiery and Leggings

Imported and Domestic Wool Sport Hose—Blue or Heather Mixtures with fancy cuff tops,

$1.65

Values up to $2.25 pair.

Imported Wool Sport Hose—Heavy ribbed; in Brown or Green Heather Mixtures; fancy cuff tops,

$2.95

Values up to $4.25 a pair.

FINE RIBBED COTTON STOCKINGS—Medium weight; Black or White; incomplete sizes. Formerly 65c a pair.... 35c

Jersey and Velvet Knee Leggings in Black, White, Navy Blue or Grey; incomplete sizes - - pair $1.45

$2.50 Values

Jersey Drawer Leggings Black, White or Navy Blue colors; incomplete sizes - - pair $2.95

Values up to $6.25

DRAWER and KNEE LENGTH LEGGINGS—Of Jersey or Corduroy; Black, White, Grey or Navy Blue; incomplete sizes. $3.50 Value. . . . pair $1.95

Advance Showing of the New

Woolen Dress Fabrics & Coatings

For SPRING 1921

Imported and Domestic Plain and Novelty Fabrics in the newly created Colors and Black.

EXCEPTIONAL VALUES for TO-MORROW:

Fine Quality Navy Blue Serge— 54 inches wide; fine twill; soft finish; medium weight; yd. $2.48

All Wool Tricotine and Poiret Twill— 54 ins. wide; choice quality; soft finish; Navy Blue or Black, $4.50

Finest Quality All Wool Jersey Cloth— 54 inches wide; a complete assortment of the new Spring colors. - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - Yard $2.25

Household and Decorative Linens at 25 to 33⅓ per cent. Off

Pure Linen Pillow Cases—Hemstitched; $4.95 to 10.00 qualities. NOW $3.50 to 7.50 per pair.

Pure Linen Sheets — Hemstitched; $22.00 to 40.00 qualities. NOW $15.00 to 30.00 per pair

Irish Pure Linen Huck Towels—Hemstitched; guests' size, $7.50 and 8.75 doz.

Irish Pure Linen Huck Towels—Hemmed or hemstitched; room size, $8.75 to 11.50 doz.

Irish Pure Linen Glass and Kitchen Towels (Typed), $9.00 to 12.00 doz.

Irish Fine Heavy Weight Satin Damask Table Cloths and Napkins at Half Price:

2x2 Yards . . Regularly $12.00 . . Reduced to $6.00
2x2½ Yards . . Regularly $15.00 . . Reduced to $7.50
2x3 Yards . . Regularly $18.00 . . Reduced to $9.00

NAPKINS TO MATCH:
22x22-inch . . . Regularly $15.00 dz. Reduced to $7.50

A Special Group of Irish All Linen Satin Damask Table Cloths

(No matching Napkins.)

$5.90 $7.00 $8.00

ALL LINEN NAPKINS:

Breakfast size, doz. $7.50, 8.25, 9.25

Dinner size, doz. $8.25, 9.00, 10.50

Crochet Bedspreads—Hemmed, $2.50 and 3.25 each

Satin Finish Bedspreads—Hemmed, $5.00 and 5.75 each

Turkish Bath Towels—Hemmed, $4.50 and 5.90 doz.

Irish Embroidered Pure Linen Pillow Cases—Scalloped edge, $6.25 pair

Madeira Hand-Embroidered and Hand-Scalloped Linens:

Luncheon Sets (13 pcs.) $7.25, 8.75

Tea Napkins . . . doz. $7.85, 8.75

In the Misses' Own Section

Sateen Petticoats, $1.69

They wear well, launder well and look attractive. Made of white sateen with a tucked and ruffle trimmed flounce. Lengths 28 to 34 inches.

Macy's—Third Floor, Centre.

Macy's

Herald Square — B'way, 34th to 35th St.

A SPECIAL SALE OF

Fine English Overcoats

AT A MOST UNUSUAL PRICE CONCESSION

For Details See Tomorrow Morning's Papers.

Macy's—Fifth Floor, Front.

Interesting Sale of Sterling Silver Flat Ware

at Unusually Low Prices

For your own home or as a wedding gift the silver listed below is particularly desirable.

It is of good medium weight and the pattern has a rich simplicity in which both grace and beauty are combined.

	Sets of Six		Each
Tea Spoons (two weights)	$7.44 & 9.94	Butter Knives	$3.69
Dessert Spoons	13.24	Sugar Spoons	1.69
Soup Spoons	16.48	Small Sugar Tongs	1.98
Table Spoons	18.89	Cream Ladles	2.64
Dessert Forks	14.24	Gravy Ladles	5.94
Table Forks	17.48	Cold Meat Forks	5.74
Dessert Knives	16.48	Berry Spoons	7.44
Medium Knives	18.48	Pie Servers	3.96
Butter Spreaders	9.94	Cheese Servers	2.34
Ind. Salad Forks	15.24	Olive Spoons	1.98
Oyster Forks	7.64	Olive Forks, long	2.64
Coffee Spoons	3.89

One script initial engraved free of charge.

Macy's—Main Floor, Broadway.

Important Sale of 25,000 Yards of 56-Inch

All Wool Mixed Suitings

and a few with silk decorations.

98c Yard

Suitings of pure virgin wool in 43 distinct designs and mixtures.

Especially desirable for men's clothes, women's suits and boys' and girls' school clothes. Also a number of attractive mixtures suitable for men's golf suits.

One year ago this same grade material sold at $3.49 yard.

Dressmakers, women's and men's tailors and manufacturers of boys' clothing should see this collection of suitings.

Macy's—Second Floor, 35th Street.

For Your Daughter's Graduation Gift!

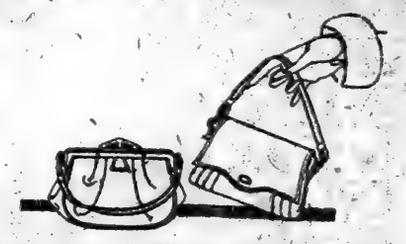
A Special Offer of 50 Solitaire Diamond Rings

$59.50

These diamonds are very brilliant and fine in color. They are slightly imperfect (not our usual quality). The imperfections are scarcely visible to the naked eye.

Single stone style, octagonal or hexagonal, platinum top and 14 kt. solid green gold pierced shank. Average weight 20-100 to 22-100 each.

Macy's—Main Floor, 34th Street, Front.



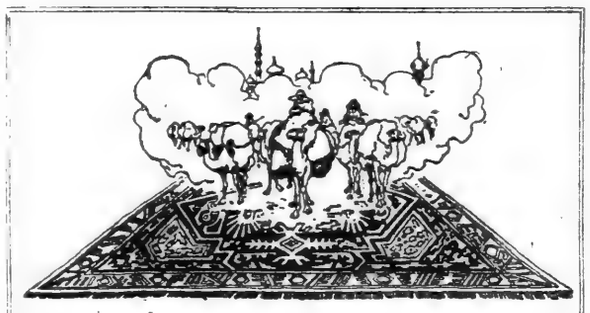
720 Genuine Pin Seal Handbags.

A number of different styles, many with metal or covered frame. Plain colored moire linings.

$3.39

with small mirror, moire bac
We Have Not Sold Pin Se
Bags At Such A Low Pri
For Several Years.

Macy's—Main Floor, 34th St., Centre.



Your Opportunity

Oriental Carpets

Almost Half Price

You have always wanted Oriental floor coverings. You have admired their wonderful designs, their beautiful blendings of color. You have wanted to enjoy the luxurious softness and warmth of an Oriental carpet or rug.

Here are Kerman carpets with all the romance of the Orient. Not perfect in every detail, but true Kermans in design and color effects.

Note Original and Sale Prices for Savings Made Possible.

	Originally Priced	Sale Prices
15.11x10.8	936.00	508.00
13.4 x9.10	721.00	428.00
13.8 x10.0	759.00	412.00
12.6 x10.6	721.00	458.00
14.5 x10.8	847.00	538.00
12.4 x 9.3	568.00	342.00
14.3 x10.4	868.00	512.00
8.7 x 6.5	302.00	168.00
14.7 x 9.6	696.00	378.00
14.6 x11.2	989.00	568.00
13.1 x 9.0	658.00	368.00
14.8 x 9.11	868.00	512.00

Rug Sizes in Persian Rugs

Bought in Persia by our own representative at half what they would cost in the New York market. 3 to 4 feet wide and 5 to 7 feet long.

$43.50 $48.50 $64.50 $72.50

Macy's—Fourth Floor, Centre.

A Sale of

Wash Fabrics

which immediately suggests spring wardrobes for kiddies and grownups, to women who sew.

Imported and Domestic Ginghams 69c yd.

Originally 89c to $1.09 yd.

All Scotch and American ginghams of the finer qualities to be sold at one price. Colors and patterns suitable for women's and children's dresses.

Fancy Ratine 49c yd.

Originally 98c yd.

A good fabric for separate skirts or lounging robes. In pleasing plaid patterns. 36 inches wide.

Lingerie Batiste 39c yd.

44 inches wide.

An imported batiste in flesh color for underthings and children's clothes.

Colored Voile 29c yd.

Reduced from 69c yard.

A suitable weight for dresses or fine draperies. In ecru, peach, pink, cream, myrtle and old rose. 38 inches wide.

Woven Madras 39c yd.

A very low price on madras of excellent quality. Suitable patterns for men's shirts, pajamas, women's aprons, dresses and waists. Some have mercerized stripes. Good assortment of colors. 31 inches wide.

Silk and Cotton Crepe 69c yd.

Small and medium sized patterns on prettily tinted ground. Appropriate for dresses and negligees. 35 inches wide.

Macy's—Second Floor, Centre.

Imported Frocks of Cotton Fabrics

For Women

A delightful selection of fabrics—an alluring delicacy of color—original designs—and the finest of needlework are blended in these dainty hand made cotton frocks.

One model is fashioned of ratine in beautiful shades of wistaria, rose and French blue. Drawnwork outlined in embroidery forms an effective design on the bodice and apron front of the skirt.

$64.75

The other dress is sheer batiste in two-tone effects. The underskirt and neck frill are white, the bodice and skirt panels of a color. Embroidered spots of white are appliqued on bodice and skirt panels, lending a distinctly French touch to the whole frock.

$38.75

Macy's—Third Floor, 34th St., Rear.

Continuing the January Sale of Sheets and Pillow Cases

At Specially Low Prices

A special purchase of 16,800 Bleached Muslin Sheets, hemmed ends, durable and serviceable quality, at specially low prices. Sizes before hemming.

Sheets

Sizes	Each
63x90 inches,	$1.04
72x90 inches,	1.14
81x90 inches,	1.24

Pillow Cases

45x39½ inches, .39

The attention of hotel, boarding house, and summer resort proprietors is called to this opportunity to replenish their stocks of sheets and pillow cases at exceptionally low prices.

Sizes before hemming.

Sheets

6,000—72x90 inches, 89c each

12,000—81x90 inches, 98c each

Hemmed and Hemstitched Bleached Muslin Pillow Cases

Hemmed

42x36 inches, 26c each
45x36 inches, 29c each

Hemstitched

42x36 inches, 36c each
45x36 inches, 39c each

Sizes before hemming.

Hemstitched Bleached Muslin Sheets and Pillow Cases

Sheets

81x90 inches, $1.49 each

Pillow Cases

42x38½ inches, 56c each

Sizes before hemming.

Macy's—Basement, 34th St., Rear

Domestic Night Gowns

In the January Sale of White

Night Gowns of medium weight nainsook in five different styles—tailored effects, square, V or round necks. One illustrated. 79c

Night Gowns of white nainsook and flesh batiste in eleven styles. Trimmed with touches of hand embroidery. Also flesh batiste with Blue Bird design. One illustrated. 94c

Night Gowns of nainsook with fine embroidery and lace and embroidery yokes. Also flesh batiste trimmed with French knots and fancy stitchery. One illustrated. $1.39

Night Gowns of nainsook in 19 different styles. Square, round or V necks. Trimmed with fine embroideries and laces. Slipover models, empire, semi-empire or surplice effects. One illustrated. $1.79

Night Gowns in 10 different styles. Lace and embroidery trimmed empire effects. Some models have set in sleeves. One illustrated. $2.49

Night Gowns of fine pink batiste in simple and elaborate designs. Eight different styles. $2.79

High Neck and Long Sleeve Night Gowns

Nainsook Night Gowns with tucked yokes. $1.19

High Neck Night Gowns in 7 different styles in nainsook and soft finish cambric. Yokes trimmed with tucks and embroidery insertion. $1.79

Night Gowns of fine soft finish cambric with or without yokes. $2.49

Better Quality High Neck Night Gowns at $2.79 and $3.24

Extra Size Night Gowns

Extra Size Night Gowns of nainsook. Round neck, set in half sleeves. Trimmed with embroidery. $1.39

Extra Size Night Gowns of batiste. Tailored models with round or V necks. Also nainsook model with square neck, embroidery trimmed. $1.79

Extra Size Night Gowns of fine nainsook trimmed with lace in elaborate designs. Square or round necks—slip over or empire effects. Only 247 in the lot. $2.79

Better Quality Extra Size Night Gowns at $3.79 and $4.79

Macy's—Third Floor, Rear.

Blankets and Comfortables

All Pure Wool Blankets

$13.89

Our former price, $22.89.

These blankets are made of high-grade wool, exceptionally thick and fluffy. Full size, in white and in large block plaids.

All Pure Wool Amana Blankets

$11.74

Made by the Shaker Colony at Homestead, Iowa, in the good, old-fashioned way. White with colored borders; full size.

Comfortables

$2.94

Winter weight, well filled with sanitary cotton and covered with closely woven printed materials and stitched in attractive designs. A good, warm dependable comfortable at a low price. Full size.

Comfortables

$4.94

full size

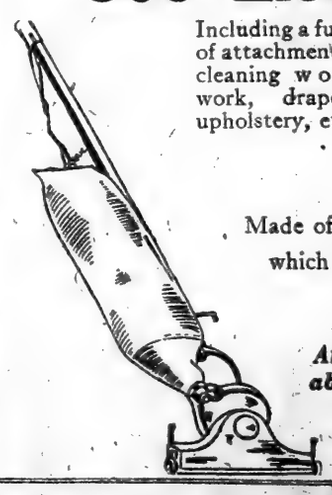
Originally $7.49

This comfortable has the center and back covered with fine quality silkoline, while the covering of the border is plain sateen. Well filled with sanitary cotton.

Macy's—Basement, 34th Street, Rear.

Final Clearance

500 Electric Vacuum Cleaners



Including a full set of attachments for cleaning woodwork, draperies, upholstery, etc.

$27.75

Thor No. 12. Operates on direct or alternating current. 12 inch nozzle.

List Price $52.00

Made of steel and equipped with a General Electric Motor which is started and stopped by a switch in the handle.

Fully guaranteed.

An Opportunity for Those Who Were Unable to Take Advantage of Our Last Sale.

A Most Unusual Offering

Macy's—Basement, 34th St.

A Special Sale of Real Laces

At 1-3 Less Than Original Prices

It is unnecessary to discourse upon the beauty of these laces. Women of discrimination have always preferred to use the better laces when prices were not prohibitive. This sale affords an infrequent opportunity.

Valenciennes—39c, 59c, 74c to $2.34 yard.
Widths from ½ to 3 inches.

Point Binche—59c, 79c to $4.96 yard
Widths from ½ to 3½ inches

Venise—$2.64, $3.59 to $12.34 yard
Widths from 1½ to 7½ inches

Duchesse—$7.64, $9.84 to $11.24 yard
Widths from 7 to 12 inches

Also a Recent Importation of Real Filet Laces At Special Prices from 1½ to 4 inches wide

98c, $1.29, $1.59 yard

Filet Picot—21c Yard

For trimming bridal outfits and all fine lingerie there is a daintier edging nor one more up-to-date.

Macy's—Main Floor, Centre.

See our grocery ad. in to-day's World, American, Herald, Brooklyn Eagle and Staats-Zeitung.

TAMMANY TO SPIKE DIRECT PRIMARIES

Spokesmen in Legislature Will Oppose Governor's Plan for Return to Conventions.

FEAR FUSION WOULD GAIN

Republicans Themselves Are Divided as to How Far Change in Law Should Go.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 15.—Tammany's spokesmen in the Legislature will make a determined fight against any attempt that may be made at the present session to repeal the direct primaries law. When Charles E. Hughes first proposed to the Legislature the substitution of direct primaries for the convention as a nominating medium, the Tammany delegation at the Capitol joined hands with the Old Guard of the Republican organization to combat the plan. Since then Tammany has learned through experience what a good thing direct primaries may be made for the perpetuation of its power in the city of New York and with another municipal election due this year will resist with all its power any change in the present system.

With the storm that has broken as a result of mistakes and derelictions of the Hylan administration already rough to light increasing in violence until it threatens seriously the continued sway of Tammany in the New York City administration, Charles F. Murphy and his lieutenants are depending chiefly on the obstacle to effective anti-Tammany fusion which the direct primary law now on the statute books affords to save them from disastrous defeat.

Fusion depends for its success on a hard and fast agreement between different groups of voters and under the present system also upon the ratification of the agreement in the primaries by the voters of these groups. The failure of the Republican city primaries in the Mayoralty election four years ago to indorse the candidacy of Mayor John Purroy Mitchel proved a fatal blow to the success of that year's Fusion agreement and gave Tammany an object lesson which has determined the attitude of its representatives in the present Legislature toward the proposal to repeal the direct primary law.

Tammany Hall has two representatives on a select committee which was appointed at last year's session to revise and recodify the election law, Minority Leader James J. Walker of the Senate and Assemblyman Maurice Bloch of the Sixteenth Assembly District, Manhattan. There are three Republican members, Senators James L. Whitley of Monroe and D. H. Ames of Cattaraugus and Assemblyman James H. Caulfield of Kings. Senator Whitley is Chairman of the committee and Assemblyman Caulfield its Secretary.

Committee on Revision Divided.

Part of the committee's work was to gather information to guide it in drafting amendments to the election law which would bring about a change in the method of nominating candidates. The committee has held a number of public hearings and has gathered a great deal of information but, it was learned today, has not drafted any bill embodying the changes proposed nor, so far as could be learned, has it any intention of so doing or of recommending the repeal or substantial modification of the direct primary law. The committee is said to be divided two and three, with Senators Whitley and Ames favoring repeal and the two Tammany men and Assemblyman Caulfield opposed to wiping the direct primaries law off the statute books.

Governor Miller has not sent a message to the Legislature recommending drastic changes in the election law. It is expected such a message will be sent within a few days, however. The Governor made his attitude on the subject perfectly clear during the campaign. He favors the repeal of the direct primaries law and the substitution of nomination by convention for all offices.

A bill is now in course of preparation which, it is expected, will be introduced within two or three weeks by Senator Charles W. Walton of Ulster. He has been sponsor for similar measures at three successive earlier sessions of the Legislature. These bills have not made much headway, however, because Governor Whitman and Governor Smith, who for the last six years have held the veto power over legislation, were strongly opposed to any radical change in the election law affecting the method of making nominations.

Whether the Walton bill will go as far as Governor Miller would be willing to have it go has not been fully determined. Senator Walton himself favors throwing the direct primaries law into the discard. But there is not complete unanimity on the question in Republican party councils. Among the up-State organizations many, perhaps a majority, have gone on record in favor of the direct primaries law. Some believe that this would sufficiently safeguard the nominating machinery and insure control by the rank and file of parties instead of by the party bosses. There are dissenters who would retain the direct primary as an additional safeguard which would provide an appeal from the action of conventions where this failed to satisfy any large group or groups of enrolled voters. Dissenting groups under this would have an opportunity to enter candidates of their own in subsequent primaries and the candidates already named by the official conventions would be compelled to have their titles to the nominations tested through open competition with the independent candidates in the direct primary election.

Favor Conventions and Primaries.

The advocates of this plan suggest that it would follow in the main the lines laid down by Governor Hughes in his first message to the Legislature on direct primaries and would be an improvement of the present system in that it would compel the party bosses to lay their cards on the table, while, under direct primary elections, as at present conducted, they may indulge in secret manipulation to insure the success of the candidates they favor, and if something subsequently goes wrong shift the responsibility to the voters.

The Hughes plan did contemplate party designations and a possible appeal at a subsequent direct primary election, but with this difference—that State and district committees, meeting in open session, performed the function which the new plan would have official conventions perform. There is one radical difference, however, between the Hughes plan and the present compromise, which is said to have the support of a majority on the committee of revision. The Hughes plan exempted candidates for municipal office from the operations of the direct primary law on the ground that to include such candidates would make anti-Tammany fusion in New York City difficult, if not impossible.

Opponents of the direct primary law are now having a survey made of the cost of the law throughout the State. In counties up State the cost per capita of voter is a great deal higher than in New York City. There are election districts up State in which the public expense of holding primary elections last year amounted to from $8 to $9 for each vote cast. In this city the average cost per election district, exclusive of the cost of advertising and of printing ballots, was $42.

GIVES 'DONT'S' FOR MAYORS.

Conference of City Officials Shows How to Avoid Some Pitfalls.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 15.—In a bulletin just issued by the conference of Mayors and other city officials, Mayors of cities throughout the State are given a few don'ts and are told how to avoid pitfalls when drafting bills for legislative consideration. The Mayors are told to get their local legislation to the Legislature before the middle of February. Some of the don'ts are:

Don't forget there is a bill drafting department at Albany. This department has its expert bill drafters. You will save yourself time and annoyance if you have your bills either drafted or criticised by this department.

Don't forget this bureau (conference of Mayors) is at your service at all times. It will submit your bills to the bill drafting department if requested, and thereafter will return them to you, or upon request, will give them to your Senator or Assemblyman for introduction.

Don't try to "put something over" on the Legislature.

Don't ask authority to issue ten-year bonds to pay current expenses or a deficit, and then expect the Legislature to look with favor upon a request to grant to your city a greater measure of home rule. The capability of a city to conduct its affairs in a businesslike way is judged somewhat by the kind of legislation it requests.

Don't submit a question to a referendum of the voters of your city and then if you are not satisfied with the outcome, seek mandatory legislation to overcome the will of the people.

Don't ask for authority to issue bonds which will run for a period longer than the life of the improvement to pay the expenses for which they are to be issued.

Don't ask for mandatory salary legislation. The Common Council or Board of Estimate should have jurisdiction over these matters, within certain limits.

Don't tie the hands and feet of your city with detailed mandatory legislation. Ask the Legislature for a conference of power and let your legislative body and officials provide by local ordinance the administrative machinery. Remember that your city charter is only a local constitution.

Germany to Expel Red Agents.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Russian Bolshevist agents who have been engaged in enlisting German workers for emigration to Russia have been ordered to leave Germany, it is said in a wireless despatch from Berlin. The Berlin Government held that the work of these agents could not be tolerated in view of economic conditions in Russia.

STAND BY LOCKWOOD

State Convention Adopts Resolution Favoring Banking and Insurance Inquiry.

RENT LAWS REPEAL SOUGHT

Banks and Insurance Companies Partly Blamed for the Housing Shortage.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 15.—Real estate men from all sections of the State, constituting the membership of the State Convention of Real Estate Boards, met in this city today and adopted a resolution indorsing the Lockwood Housing Committee, which has been conducting an investigation of housing conditions in New York City, and urging the Legislature to continue the inquiry. The convention also went on record as favoring extension by the Legislature of powers of the Lockwood Housing Committee to permit it to inquire into the conduct of banks and fire and life insurance companies.

The association further adopted resolutions calling on the Legislature to enact a law to exempt from taxation under the State Income Tax law the income from mortgages up to $40,000.

It condemned as "unscientific, uneconomical and un-American" the rent and housing laws put on the statute books at the last session of the Legislature, asked their repeal and demanded that, pending a repeal, the measures be amended so as to encourage builders and investors alike by restoring the validity of contracts and protecting the rights of ownership of real property.

The association was severe in its criticism of many banks and fire insurance companies which, it declared, had not aided in solving the acute housing problem. It declared that the record as favoring extension by the Legislature of powers of the Lockwood Housing Committee to permit it to inquire into the conduct of banks and fire and life insurance companies.

The association further adopted resolutions calling on the Legislature to enact a law to exempt from taxation under the State Income Tax law the income from mortgages up to $40,000.

It condemned as "unscientific, uneconomical and un-American" the rent and housing laws put on the statute books at the last session of the Legislature, asked their repeal and demanded that, pending a repeal, the measures be amended so as to encourage builders and investors alike by restoring the validity of contracts and protecting the rights of ownership of real property.

The association was severe in its criticism of many banks and fire insurance companies which, it declared, had not aided in solving the acute housing problem. It declared that the increased powers for the Lockwood Committee came as a surprise, for most of the members believed the association would oppose such action as is contemplated by the resolution now awaiting disposition by committees in both houses of the Legislature.

Governor Miller has not yet seen fit to give assurances of his support for such a move, and a powerful lobby has been active here against the grant of additional powers and life to the committee.

Resolution Upheld Committee.

All the resolutions were adopted without debate.

The resolution on the Lockwood Committee follows:

"Whereas, The State Legislature now in session has been requested to grant to the Lockwood Committee now engaged in the investigation of housing conditions certain extension of powers and of time to further inquire into conditions affecting the construction of dwellings; and

"Whereas, It has been shown that certain influences and combinations have had a most injurious effect in preventing needed funds for building purposes.

"The resolution set forth that when the Legislature and individuals that in any way delay or affect the cost of building operations; also to make investigation of such factors as will tend to assist new construction, and be it further

"Resolved, That we favor such legislation as will effectively prevent such combinations of capital, labor or individuals as will artificially control the production of building materials or increase the cost of production."

Condemned for Withholding Funds.

The association, in its condemnation of banks and fire and life insurance companies, declared by resolution that they had not "done their full duty in providing needed funds for building purposes."

The resolution set forth that when the members believed that investment up to that amount left a proper margin of safety to the banks for investment in more liquid assets to cover any emergency which might confront them.

The association went on record to say that the pressure of public opinion should be brought to bear on all savings banks and insurance companies which have not invested this 65 per cent. quota as they would have been justified in doing in order to help relieve the housing shortage."

It recommended that the State Association of Savings Banks remind its constituent members which have been delinquent that it is their duty to the depositing public to respond fully.

The resolution urging exemption from the income tax of mortgages up to $40,000 points out that the normal supply of mortgage credits for building purposes in the larger centres of population has been exhausted, and that this condition is due entirely to the operation of Federal and State laws imposing "oppressive taxes" upon the income derived from mortgage investments. Congress would also be called on to make similar exemptions under the Federal act adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, The housing problem is an economic problem, responding to the law of supply and demand; and

"Whereas, The construction of housing accommodations in supply sufficient to meet the demand is the only solution of this problem; and

"Whereas, The housing and rent laws passed in 1920 have stopped the construction of dwellings for the working population of cities in New York State; and,

"Whereas, This situation inevitably increases State taxes, to the reduction of which the present State Administration is so wisely and earnestly directing its efforts; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards condemns as unscientific, uneconomic and un-American the housing and rent laws which have demonstrated their failure to solve the housing problem; and, be it further

"Resolved, That, pending their repeal, these measures be immediately amended in such manner as to encourage builders and investors alike by restoring the validity of contracts and protecting the rights of ownership of real property."

RUSSEKS
FIFTH AVENUE
Between 34th and 35th Streets

Continuing
TO-MORROW—MONDAY
January Sale
FURS
Fifty Per Cent
Off Actual Values

OUR INITIATIVE IN BRINGING THE PRICES OF FINE FURS DOWN TO THE LOWEST LEVELS OF ALL TIME IS MEETING WITH SUCCESS. . . . WE ARE TAKING AN APPRECIABLE LOSS ON EACH SALE BECAUSE WE ARE DETERMINED TO TURN A HALF MILLION DOLLAR STOCK INTO HALF ITS WORTH IN CASH. A GLANCE AT THESE VALUES SPEAKS LOUDER THAN WORDS.

$3700 MINK WRAP — $1850
$2200 MINK WRAP — $1100
$1500 ALASKA SEAL COAT with Hudson Bay Sable Collar and Cuffs — $750
$4500 BROADTAIL WRAP with Russian Sable Collar and Cuffs — $2250
$1500 MINK COATS — $750
$1100 SQUIRREL WRAPS — $550
$750 HUDSON SEAL WRAPS — $375
$550 HUDSON SEAL WRAPS — $275
$250 MARMOT COATS Trimmed with Raccoon. — $125

RUSSEKS
FIFTH AVENUE
Between 34th and 35th Streets

Spring Frock of Poiret Twill

Again the Redingote has walked upon the Fashion stage and Poiret Twill shares the applause.

89.50

Pride

ACCOMPLISHMENT IN ANY DIRECTION IS A SOURCE OF PRIDE—JUST SO IN THE MATTER OF CREATIVE STYLING. IT IS IN THIS RESPECT THAT RUSSEKS HAVE GAINED AN ENVIABLE REPUTATION....AND YOUR APPRECIATION IS A SOURCE OF SINCERE PRIDE TO US.

New Spring Frock

This stylish black taffeta owes its distinction to the captivating gold silk thread embroidery.

55.00

Frocks of Personality
49.50 to 250.00

WRITE FOR STYLE PRINTS OF RUSSEK ORIGINAL FASHIONS

RUSSEKS
FIFTH AVENUE
Between 34th and 35th Streets

Continuing
TO-MORROW—MONDAY
January Sale
WRAPS
At Startling Reductions

UNDAUNTED BY THE ACTUAL LOSSES INCURRED ON A NUMBER OF HIGH COST MODELS WE ARE DETERMINED TO DISPOSE OF EVERY SUMPTUOUS WRAP IN OUR STOCK AT STARTLING REDUCTIONS—OUR PLAIN PURPOSE BEING TO LEVEL PRICES IN HARMONY WITH THE WISHES OF THE PUBLIC, NO MATTER WHAT THE COST TO US.

Nutria & Opossum Trimmed WRAPS and Sport Coats — $49.50
Squirrel & Beaver Collared WRAPS — $75.00
Luxuriously Fur Trimmed WRAPS Beaver and Squirrel Collars and Cuffs. — $165.00
Elaborately Fur Trimmed WRAPS — $195.00 Including 10 Evening Wraps
Richly Fur Trimmed Model WRAPS Beaver, Squirrel and Mole Collars and Cuffs. — $250.00 Including 12 Evening Wraps
Velvet & Velour Evening WRAPS — $49.50
Velvet & Sequin Fur Trimmed WRAPS — $97.50
12 Model SUITS Richly Fur Trimmed — $125
Plain & Embroidered SUITS From Values to $95.00 — $49.50

Clark & Weinberg

IMPORTANT SALE
OF
MODEL FUR WRAPS

$1900 Caracul Wrap	reduced to	$1100
$1800 Caracul Wrap	" "	$1000
$1150 Squirrel & Mole Wrap	" "	$775
$1250 Nutria Wrap	" "	$750
$1100 Mole Wrap	" "	$675
$1175 Mole Coat	" "	$725
$750 Natural Muskrat Coat	" "	$450
Hudson Seal Coats	from	$375
Short Mole Coats	"	$250
CLOTH COATS	"	$50
EVENING WRAPS (fur trimmed)	"	$110

634 FIFTH AVE. Near 51st Street

A Permanent Wave

Always gives one's coiffure such a dressy appearance. It may be had at our Hairdressing Parlors at small cost. (Third Floor)

Where There Is Justice, Co-operation, Economy and Energy, There Is Service

James McCreery & Co.

5th Avenue 34th Street

Coty's Face Powder

65c box
Including Tax

Assorted Odors and Shades.
No C. O. D.'s. No Returns
(Main Floor)

On Sale Beginning Tomorrow 1200 Pairs of Plaid All Wool Blankets

Pair 7.25

Through an opportune purchase of the entire output of a mill, we are able to offer these 100% Pure Wool Blankets,—you can obtain no better,—at a "rock bottom" price.

They are selling at a figure actually lower than the cost to the manufacturer, for they were made to sell for 12.50 a pair.

Each Blanket is fresh and new, the very embodiment of woolly warmth. A heavy winter weight blanket in full double size, which will keep out the chill on the coldest night, not only this winter but next winter and numberless winters thereafter.

Pink, Blue, Tan, Grey, Scarlet

Splendid Comfortables in Figured Nainsook,
each 6.75

with Jacquard Silk Mull Borders, the prettiest you have ever seen. They are all wool filled—a fact which in itself warranted their former price of 10.50.

(Second Floor)

January Sale of

Royal Wilton Rugs

At Actual Savings of 40% Over Today's Lowered Prices

A special purchase has enabled us to obtain these Royal Wilton Rugs at a sensational saving, which we in turn pass on to our patrons.

They are the products of the well-known Schuylkill Mills of John and James Dobson of Philadelphia, noted for generations for the quality of their rugs.

Size 9x12 ft. 69.00
Size 8.3x10.6 ft. 65.00
Size 6x9 ft. 46.50

Anglo-Persian and French Wilton Rugs, Size 9x12 ft.
124.00
Other sizes in proportion.

Chinese and Persian Rugs at Lower Prices

Room Size Chinese Rugs	Room Size Persian Mahal Rugs
at 245.00	at 237.50

A wonderful collection of choice weaves at the lowest prices we have quoted in years. (Eighth Floor)

Oneida Community Flatware

At About ¼ Off Regular Prices

This selling certainly presents an ideal opportunity to complete one's silver service or to obtain entirely new sets of a high grade make at a small outlay.

Per Plate Flatware—Bridal Wreath and Vernon design

Tea Spoons ..... formerly 1.75, set 1.24
Coffee Spoons ..... formerly 1.75, set 1.24
Dessert Spoons or Forks, ... formerly 3.30, set 2.50
Table Spoons or Forks ..... formerly 3.50, set 2.60
Bouillon Spoons ..... formerly 3.50, set 2.60
Orange Spoons ..... formerly 3.00, set 2.25
Round Bowl Soup Spoons ..... formerly 3.50, set 2.60
Butter Spreaders ..... formerly 4.00, set 3.00
Individual Salad Forks ..... formerly 4.50, set 3.40
Oyster Forks ..... formerly 3.00, set 2.25
Medium Knives ..... formerly 4.25, set 3.20
Dessert Knives ..... formerly 4.15, set 3.10

(Prices include tax.)

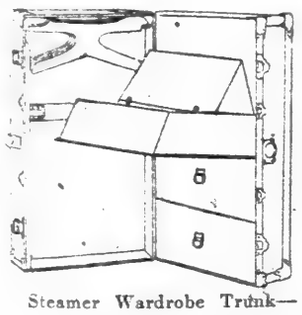
(Main Floor)

McCreery "Life Long Luggage"

250 Steamer Wardrobe Trunks

At Prices Lower Than Their Original Cost

At 19.75 and 27.50, the purchase of trunks such as these is an actual Dollar for Dollar Saving. Whether prices go up or down, you will find it a difficult matter to obtain their duplicates in solid construction and long wearing qualities at figures so low.



Steamer Wardrobe Trunk—made on three-ply veneer basswood frame, covered with hard vulcanized fibre; three drawers, six hangers and shoe pockets. Illustrated. 27.50

Steamer Wardrobe Trunk—made on three-ply veneer basswood frame; fibre covered and lined; spring lock, draw bolts. Illustrated. 19.75

(Fifth Floor)

Annual January Sale of

"Master-Made" Furniture

Chippendale Model

Sale Price 695.00

Every Price Readjusted to the Lowest Level for This Sale

Dining Room Suites

Ten-piece Chippendale Model Suite, as illustrated, in Newby Walnut, including Buffet, China Cabinet, Side Table, Extension Table, Five Side Chairs and One Arm Chair. formerly 1200.00, 695.00

Ten-piece Queen Anne Model Dining Room Suite in American Walnut. 625.00
formerly 1250.00

Ten-piece Hepplewhite Model Dining Room Suite in Mahogany, 595.00
formerly 995.00

Ten-piece Hepplewhite Model Dining Room Suite in Newby Walnut, 595.00
formerly 1190.00

Ten-piece Windsor Model Dining Room Suite in American Walnut.
formerly 687.50, 437.50

Ten-piece Louis XVI Model Dining Room Suite in Walnut, 595.00
formerly 1225.00

Ten-piece Louis XVI Model Dining Room Suite in Walnut and Mahogany.
formerly 1200.00, 675.00

Chamber Suites

Four-piece Queen Anne Model Chamber Suite in Mahogany, including Dresser, Chifforobe, Vanity Table and full size Bow End Bed. formerly 950.00, 675.00

Four-piece Louis XVI Model Chamber Suite in Walnut, including Dresser, Chifforobe, Vanity Table and full size Bed.
formerly 750.00, 495.00

Four-piece Queen Anne Model Chamber Suite in Mahogany, 535.00
formerly 675.00

Five-piece Louis XVI Model Chamber Suite in Walnut, including Dresser, Chifforobe, Vanity Table and Twin Beds, 547.50
formerly 1095.00

Four-piece Louis XV Model Chamber Suite in Walnut. formerly 950.00, 495.00

Four-piece Queen Anne Model Chamber Suite in Walnut, 325.00
formerly 487.00

Four-piece Colonial Model Chamber Suite in Mahogany. 367.00
formerly 465.00

Four-piece Colonial Model Chamber Suite in Mahogany, 195.00
formerly 375.00

(Seventh Floor)

Our January Sale of Linens is Famous for Quality and Low Prices

Table Linens

All Linen Irish Damask Table Cloths,
each 4.50, 6.50 and 7.50

All Linen Scotch Damask Table Cloths,
each 5.00, 6.50 and 7.50

All Linen Scotch Damask Table Napkins,
doz. 4.90, 6.90 and 8.50

Heavy weight all Linen Irish Damask Table Cloths,
each 6.50, 9.50 and 12.00

Heavy weight all Linen Irish Damask Table Napkins,
doz. 9.00, 10.50 and 12.00

1800 yds. all Linen Irish Table Damask, 68 inches wide, bleached, 1.95 yd.

Towels

Hemmed Huck Towels (cotton), doz. 2.25, 3.00 and 3.75

Hemstitched Huck Towels (cotton)
doz. 2.65, 3.75 and 4.50

All Linen Hemmed Huck Towels, doz. 7.50 and 10.50

All Linen Huck Towels, hemstitched, doz. 8.50 and 12.00

Decorative Linens.

All Linen Madeira Luncheon Sets, 18 pieces, Hand Scalloped and Hand Embroidered, set. 6.50 and 9.00

All Linen Madeira Tea Napkins, Hand Scalloped and Hand Embroidered,
doz. 7.50 and 10.50

200 pairs Irish Union Linen Sheets, Hemstitched (part cotton), size 72x96 inches, Full Bleached.
formerly 15.00
pair 9.50

300 pairs Irish Union Linen Pillow Cases, Hemstitched (part cotton), size 22½ x 36 inches, Full Bleached. formerly 3.75, pair 2.50

5,000 Yds.
All Linen Scotch Crash Towelling. Bleached formerly 40c.
yd. 25c

200 doz. Startex
Union Linen Dish Towels (part cotton), hemmed, formerly 3.75.
doz. 2.50

Muslin Sheets and Pillow Cases

The Famous Beverly Brand

(Made expressly for James McCreery & Co.)

Hemmed Muslin Sheets

54x90 inches ..... previously 1.30, now 95c
63x99 inches ..... previously 1.55, now 1.25
72x99 inches ..... previously 1.85, now 1.40
81x99 inches ..... previously 1.95, now 1.50
90x99 inches ..... previously 2.25, now 1.75
90x108 inches ..... previously 2.50, now 1.95

Hemmed Muslin Cases.

42x36 inches ..... previously 45c, now 30c
45x36 inches ..... previously 50c, now 35c
50x36 inches ..... previously 60c, now 40c
54x36 inches ..... previously 70c, now 45c

(Second Floor.)

January Clearance Sale of

Upholstery Fabrics, Lace Curtains and Curtain Materials

This is a selling no thrifty housewife can afford to miss. Draperies, Furniture Tapestries, Portieres, Couch Covers, Cretonnes and Curtain Materials of all descriptions are being offered at prices so low, they hardly give an inkling of the fine quality of these goods.

1.85 Drapery Armures, Crimson, Brown, Blue and Green. yd. 1.25

22.50 Portieres, fine quality Armures, in all desirable colors. pair 12.95

8.75 Furniture Tapestries, verdure and other effects. yd. 5.75

27.50 Couch Covers, excellent quality Tapestry, attractive designs and colors. each 16.75

55c to 85c Cretonnes, 2,500 yards fine grade, beautiful and effective. yd. 35c

4.25 Figured Filet Net Lace Curtains, bordered and lace edges, pair 2.65

10.75 Bobinet Curtains, with dainty filet lace edges. pair 6.75

55c Dainty Swiss Curtain Materials, dotted and figured. yd. 42c

55c and 65c—1,500 yards Bordered Scrims to close out. yd. 32c

Rattan and Sea Grass Arm Chairs, Arm Rockers and Tables

Adaptable for City or Country Homes. Natural color.

Clearance Price 8.25

formerly 14.75

(Fifth Floor)

IN CAPITOL OFFICES

Smoot Introduces Bill as a Result of the Fire Which Destroyed Census Records.

AFFECTS ALL DEPARTMENTS

Strict Interpretation Would Include President, Congressmen and All Employes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—A bill introduced in the Senate today by Senator Smoot of Utah will, if enacted, make it unlawful for any person to smoke in any building in the District of Columbia that is owned by the Government and is used by any executive department of independent establishment of the Government. A strict interpretation of the proposed law would make it unlawful for the President to smoke in the White House and would also prohibit Senators and Representatives from enjoying a similar pleasure in the cloakrooms of the two legislative chambers in the Capitol Building.

Senator Smoot introduced his bill as a result of the recent fire which destroyed some census records in the basement of the Department of Commerce Building, which is a privately owned building leased to the Government. Senator Smoot asserted that one or two other fires in recent years may also have been caused by the careless handling of lighted cigarettes or cigars.

The Smoot bill reads as follows:

"Section 1—That any person who shall smoke, or carry lighted cigar, cigarette, pipe or any form of tobacco for smoking purposes, in any building in the District of Columbia which is owned by the Government of the United States and used by any executive department or independent establishment of the Government, including the respective field services of such departments or establishments, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and when convicted thereof shall be fined not more than $50.

"Section 2—Notices shall be posted conspicuously in all such buildings containing the legend: 'Smoking Prohibited Under Penalty of Fine' together with the text of Section 1 of this act."

In addition to the President and members of Congress, the bill, if enforced, would affect in a similar way Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States when they are in their chambers, all Cabinet officers and all employes of the various departments, as well as other persons who smoke and may have business in any Government building, including the administration buildings of the District of Columbia and the general and branch Post Offices of the city.

Senator Smoot, it is stated, will press for early action on his bill, which in its present form is certain to be opposed by many Senators of both parties.

WESTCHESTER CLERGY TO DISCUSS BISHOP

Qualities of 3 City Rectors, One of Whom Will Probably Succeed Dr. Burch, Will Be Subject.

The clergy of the Archdeaconry of Westchester of the Episcopal Church have been called to meet at Christ Church, Tarrytown, N. Y., next Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, to discuss the coming election of a bishop of the Diocese of New York. As this is the largest archdeaconry in the diocese the meeting is expected to be an important one. The archdeaconry comprises Westchester, Dutchess and Putnam Counties. At the "Catholic" meeting the Rev. Dr. William T. Manning received thirty-two of the forty-five votes cast.

Just one week later the special convention of the diocese will be held at Synod Hall to elect a successor to Bishop Charles Sumner Burch, who died Dec. 20, last.

At the Tarrytown meeting it is likely that the discussion will be confined to the qualities of the three city rectors, one of whom it is generally believed will be elected. These are: the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Slattery of Grace Church, the Rev. Dr. Manning of Trinity and the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires of St. Thomas's.

This morning, at 11 o'clock, "On Electing a Bishop" will be the subject of the sermon by the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Fifth Avenue and Tenth Street. It is recalled that Dr. Grant had a controversy with Bishop Burch over his Sunday evening forum, which resulted in the discussions from the floor being stopped.

It is understood that friends of the Rev. Dr. Slattery are seeking to bring about the nomination of the Rev. Dr. Harry P. Nichols, rector of Holy Trinity Church, Harlem, as Chairman of the diocesan convention. He was Chairman of the convention of Sept. 17, 1919, which resulted in the election of Bishop Burch.

At that time a resolution was adopted that no nominating speeches would be permitted. This matter is being considered for this convention. The Chronicle, an Episcopal monthly, in its current issue, favors speeches.

MRS. MOONEY GETS FEES.

Court Allows $150 and $15 a Week Pending Separation Suit.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Supreme Court Justice Platt filed an order allowing $150 counsel fees and $15 a week alimony to Mrs. Helen T. Mooney pending the trial of her suit for separation against her husband, John Mooney, of Yonkers, in which she charges that within one week after their marriage her husband treated her cruelly.

The couple were married on May 18, 1917, in Yonkers, and during their honeymoon of that week, the plaintiff alleges, the defendant struck and choked her. Three weeks later, according to her complaint, she was forced to leave her husband, whom she did not see again for three years.

She says that on Oct. 13 last her husband seized her by the throat and then locked her in a room. She was forced to jump from a second story window to escape his attacks, she declares, injuring herself so seriously that she had to be removed to a hospital.

DENIES "MATTY" IS DEAD.

Famous Pitcher Is Gaining Instead, His Doctor Reports.

Special to The New York Times.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Christy Mathewson is not dead, though persistent rumors to that effect have been afloat here today. Dr. H. N. Packard, Matty's physician, emphatically denied the report, saying that the famous ball player was not even in a critical condition and is on the road to recovery. Although confined to bed and not allowed to sit up, he is gradually regaining his health.

Dr. Packard said it would take a considerable time for Mathewson to regain his full strength. "He is fighting like he did in the old days when he pitched for the Giants," the doctor added.

Mathewson is living at home with his wife and Christy junior in the Santanoni apartments. Christy junior has joined the Presbyterian Church basketball Got His Rank Through Deathbed Recommendation of Capt. Place.

Police Captain James McAuley of the West Forty-seventh Street station, who got his present rank through the "deathbed retirement" and recommendation of the late Police Captain Charles A. Place of Traffic Subdivision D, Classon Avenue, Brooklyn, is one of four captains retired from the department yesterday morning. McAuley, then a Lieutenant, had been Acting Captain during the long illness of Captain Place, and the latter, a few hours before his death, learning that the eligible list was about to expire and that in that event McAuley could not be advanced, signed his application for retirement and asked that McAuley be named to succeed in the same traffic station. Commissioner Enright complied with the request.

The other retirements were Captains Edward J. Burns of the Prospect Park station, Brooklyn; Charles G. Mead, Simpson Street, Bronx, and Edward F. McNally, Fourth Street, Long Island City. Each will receive a pension of $2,000. Mead is to engage in the practice of law, which he studied while a patrolman, and McNally will enter the building business.

There have been thirty-seven retirements from the department since Jan. 1, 1921, a record for any fifteen days in the department's history.

PARIS SUPPLIES PLANT FOR NEW GLAND STUDY

Municipal Laboratory to Undertake Research in the Hope of Important Discoveries.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 15.—A study of animal glands is being developed by the Paris municipal authorities. The Municipal Council has voted a large sum for the establishment of a laboratory in connection with the city slaughter house at La Vilette, where experiment and research in the new science of animal glands is to be carried out. Although thyroid and suprarenal glands have been studied for some years scientists are convinced that the limit of their possibilities is very far from being reached. It is hoped here that research on a big scale with glands of animals slaughtered at La Vilette may lead to yet further discoveries of intense interest to the whole human race.

As examples of what the future may have in store one need only mention the "elixir of youth" discovered by the Franco-Russian scientist, Voronosoff, which he claimed could rejuvenate worn-out tissue by a process of grafting, and the still more wonderful "elixir of life" injections prepared by a British scientist from suprarenal glands of animals. According to an eminently serious British medical journal the latter extract—adrenalin, as it is called—has already restored to life patients apparently dead and unable to be revived by any other known means.

GUITRY SHOWS PAINTINGS.

Actor and Playwright Exhibits His Portraits of Well-Known People.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 15.—Sacha Guitry, the French actor and playwright, whose play "Deburau" is being played in New York, has launched forth here in the new rôle of a painter. Both in the exhibition of anonymous artists now being held and in a private gallery he is exhibiting canvases which have considerable distinction and originality.

Most of them represent heads of well-known people, including his wife, Yvonne Printemps, and his father, Lucien Guitry. They are not exactly caricatures, though the artist indulges in a slight exaggeration of feature and expression, bringing out the essentials and not troubling about the exactness of his portrait. The result justifies his method in giving a very lively impression of the subjects, such as one might remember after having met them for five minutes.

The artist himself admits, however, that most of the success of his drawings is due to the fact that his subjects are all strong personalities whose characters it is easy to place on canvas.

PORTUGAL'S DEFICIT LARGE.

Amount Lacking in 1921-22 Budget Is $132,000,000.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The Portuguese Minister of Finance has presented to Parliament the budget for 1921-'22, in which it is estimated the deficit will be approximately 265,000,000 escudos (nominally $132,500,000), says a Lisbon dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

The Minister estimates the revenue from direct and indirect taxes at 214,410,000 escudos. The ordinary revenue he estimates at 165,877,000 escudos and extraordinary revenue at 48,533,000 escudos. Ordinary expenditures the Minister estimates at 266,494,000 escudos and extraordinary expenditures at 213,254,000 escudos.

GREEK ADVANCE CONTINUES.

Athens Reports Turks' Resistance in Brussa Region Is Being Broken.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Continuous successes for the Greeks in their offensive against the Turkish Nationalists in the Brussa sector are reported in the latest Greek Army communiqué, forwarded today in a Central News dispatch from Athens. The statement says:

"Our advance is continuing and we are breaking the enemy's resistance. Enemy regular troops to the number of 10,000 occupied Bosoyal and Kevalatalk Heights. After violent fighting the Kemalists retreated in the neighborhood of Eskishehr, abandoning munitions and prisoners.

"The populations are greeting the Greeks as liberators."

BERLIN HOLDS DYEWORKERS

Cancels Passports of Men Seeking to Come Here.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—A private message from Cologne states that several chemists employed in the dye works of the Freidrich Bayen Company in Leverkusen have succeeded in obtaining passoprts for America.

When it became known, however, that these chemists had contracts for service in American dye factories the passports were canceled. The incident has caused much apprehension in dye industry circles.

CAFE OWNERS GET 2 YEARS.

Judge Landis Sentences Two for Violating Order Not to Sell Liquor.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—John and William McGovern, café owners, were sentenced today by Federal Judge K. M. Landis to serve two years each in the House of Correction and pay fines of $2,000 on contempt charges brought by the Federal and State Government.

Judge Landis recently enjoined them from violating the Volstead Enforcement act and Federal agents testified that the McGoverns had violated the restraining order by selling liquor.

SWALLOWS POISON

Ex-Capt. Aub of New York, a War Veteran, Tries Suicide Vainly in Chicago.

HAD BEEN LEGION OFFICER

Aviator Accused of Passing Bad Check—Did Daring Air Stunts for Movies.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Anthony W. Aub, formerly captain in the United States Air Service and member of a New York family, attempted suicide tonight when detectives, who had trailed him to an apartment at 4,220 Sheridan Road, told him he was under arrest on a charge of passing a worthless check for $5,000 on a California bank.

"No," he said, his voice husky, "there is no use trying to take me out of here. I can't face it—I'm too big a coward."

Before the detectives could interfere Aub had swallowed five bichloride of mercury tablets. He was taken to the county hospital, where he was placed under a police guard. He will recover. Detectives say he admitted cashing the worthless check.

Among his effects were found a telegram from General Bullard, letters from Thomas K. Wanamaker Post, American Legion, New York, of which he said he had been commander, and a letter from Armour & Co. of Chicago. This last rejected an offer Aub had made to do stunts flying as advertising for the packing company. There were also a picture of his wife and 6-year-old son, Anthony Jr., and an agreement under which the couple separated last June.

"I needed the money," he said in an interview at the hospital. He stated that he had been doing moving picture "stunt" flying for the Lasky Corporation in California and that he had duplicated the feats of Lieutenant Locklear, who was killed while engaged in that work last Spring.

Aub came to Chicago on Jan. 2 and registered at the Congress Hotel, where he remained until a week ago. Checking out, he left the Hotel McAlpin, New York, as a forwarding address.

Aub's mother is said to be the widow of a well-known New York business man.

Anthony W. Aub, former Chairman of the Luna Park Committee of the New York County American Legion, and ex-head of Thomas K. Wanamaker Post of the Legion, an organization of employes of the John Wanamaker store, has been missing from this city about three months.

Little could be learned about him here last night, except that he was known to have had some trouble, thought to have been domestic, about three months ago. He had been employed in the contract department of Wanamaker's, and during the demobilization of the Seventy-seventh Division aided Rodman Wanamaker in receiving homecoming soldiers. He was appointed an aid to the Mayor's Committee of Welcome.

Later he got into difficulties with his own legion post due to plans for a celebration which legion officers found to be an arrangement under which the legion was to receive one-half of the proceeds of all tickets which it sold.

Hugh W. Robertson, assistant to the State Commander of the American Legion, said last night that Aub had been a Captain in the United States Air Service and had had a good record during the war. Mr. Robertson said he thought Aub had been discharged from Wanamaker's but he was not sure of this.

Aub's name does not appear in the City Directory and it could not be learned last night where he made his home here.

IN DIRE NEED OF FOOD.

More Than 500,000 Jewish Children in Poland Must Have Relief.

More than 500,000 Jewish children in Poland are in dire need of food, clothing and medicine, and will require this relief at least until the next harvest, according to Henry H. Rosenfelt, National Director of the American Jewish Relief Committee, the principal fund-raising organization of the Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, now joined with seven other leading American relief societies in the $33,000,000 appeal of the European Relief Council.

Only about 215,000 of these children are being fed, receiving one meal daily, at Jewish relief stations throughout Poland, the food being supplied through the American Relief Administration European Children's Fund, Mr. Rosenfelt stated. Over 20,000 Jewish children also receive a bowl of hot, sweetened milk daily at American Jewish relief stations in Warsaw, the milk being supplied by the children's fund.

H. D. Burrell, Chairman of the Industrial Division of the European Relief Council, announced that in twenty-nine trades 143 sub-divisions had been organized. About $117,000 in subscriptions already has been reported.

Announcement of the formation of a corps of women speakers, trained in suffrage and liberty loan drives, was made yesterday by Mrs. Willard Straight of the Women's Emergency Committee, at 25 West Thirty-ninth Street. They will address conventions, luncheons and dinners, men's and women's club meetings, gatherings in settlement houses, and public and private schools in all parts of the city in the interest of the campaign for funds for the starving children of Eastern and Central Europe.

CARONIA STARTS ON CRUISE.

Carries 250 Tourists on 50-Day Trip to Mediterranean.

The Cunard liner Caronia sailed at noon yesterday on a fifty days' cruise to the Mediterranean which will take in Madeira, Algiers, Monaco, Naples, Athens, Egypt and Jerusalem among other places. There were 250 on board, and others will join at Monaco, it was said. Sir Herbert Samuel, British High Commissioner in Palestine, will give a reception to the American tourists in Jerusalem.

Among those who sailed on the Caronia were Oliver G. Harriman, John Harriman, J. Border Harriman, Mrs. George C. Taylor, Mrs. Clement L. Despard, Miss Margaret Despard, Professor and Mrs. Eugene P. Andrews, and Dr. and Mrs. J. B. F. Herreshoff.

BELGIANS FOR SOVIET COUP.

Charleroi District Workers Said to Have Taken Secret Vote.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 15.—The metal workers of Chatelineau, four miles east of Charleroi, are reported to have taken a secret ballot in favor of occupation and exploitation of the foundries in the district on communistic principles.

Chatelineau is a town of about 16,000 inhabitants and has many foundries. Charleroi is situated in the midst of an extensive coal region.

Prince of Wales Thanks Jamaica.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Jan. 15.—The Governor of the colony has received an autograph letter from the Prince of Wales expressing thanks for an address and a silver bowl presented to him by the Island, and hoping that his visit to Jamaica may not be too long deferred. The Prince was obliged to forego visiting Jamaica on his recent return from Australia, owing to an epidemic of fever here at that time.

Completing the service rendered women of extra size, Lane Bryant introduces the entire wardrobe for the Southern sojourn, for all events of the social season,

Coats, Suits, Dresses, Blouses, Sweaters, Skirts, Millinery and Bathing Apparel.

21-23 West 38th Street — Lane Bryant — Just West of Fifth Avenue

Slenderizing Fashions for Stout Women

January Clearance Sale

Winter Apparel for Stout Women

At original prices these values were extraordinary—now they are truly phenomenal—in fact, the same as in pre-war days.

COATS

WERE TO	NOW
$75.00	45.00
94.50	59.50
115.00	75.00

DRESSES

WERE TO	NOW
$64.50	29.00
75.50	39.00
94.50	59.00

SUITS

WERE TO	NOW
$79.50	35.00
110.00	45.00
165.00	75.00

BLOUSES

FORMERLY	NOW
$6.95	3.95
9.95	5.95
14.75	8.95

SKIRTS

FORMERLY	NOW
$19.00	14.50
27.00	19.75
34.50	25.00

SWEATERS

FORMERLY	NOW
$11.95	10.50
17.50	12.50
24.50	19.50

Cotton and Silk Lingerie

For Stout Women at Phenomenal Reductions

Petticoats

White and Striped Flannel Petticoats, sizes to 65 hip measure, 1.45

Plain Muslin Tailored Petticoat, all sizes, 1.75

Pique Petticoat, double panelled and all large sizes, 2.50

Other Petticoats, including Satins, Jerseys, Taffetas and Radium Silk, 8.95 to 13.50

Negligees

Negligees and Breakfast Coats of Crepe de Chine, Taffeta, Dotted Swiss, Cotton Crepe, Wool Batiste, Crepe de Chine, with Coat of Georgette and Taffeta. Exquisitely trimmed. 5.75, 12.95, 18.50 to 75.00

Undergarments

Envelope Chemises of Nainsook, Crepe de Chine, Satin, Philippine and recent French imports. 1.50, 1.95, 2.95 to 29.50

Camisoles, Crepe de Chine, Satin. 2.45, 2.75 to 5.95

Bloomers, Flannel, Satin, Jersey. 1.35, 3.95 to 8.25

Nightgowns

Two Tailored Nainsook Nightgowns, fine quality, 1.59 and 1.95

Fine Quality Cambric Nightgowns, edged with embroidery, 2.50

Flannelette Nightgowns, 3.25

Other Nightgowns, of Crepe de Chine, Nainsook, Philippines and a number of recent French Imports, 4.50 to 25.00

Corsets

White Coutil, were 5.95 ..... 4.95
White Coutil, were 6.95 ..... 5.95
Pink Coutil, were 7.50 ..... 6.95
Other Corsets to 18.00

BRASSIERES

Muslin embrd., were 1.35 ..... .98
Linen, lace trim'd, were 2.95 .... 2.45
Other Brassieres, 98c to 3.75

Sizes 39 to 56 bust, 26 to 45 waist

All garments are made "the Lane Bryant Way," proportioned to fit the woman with large hips, long waist, small hips or short waist 21-23 W. 38th St., Lane Bryant Just West of 5th Ave.

The Lace Store of New York

Max Fertig

Our Prices are ALWAYS less

30 EAST 34TH STREET (OPPOSITE ALTMAN'S)

TOMORROW WE COMMENCE

Our Annual Clearance Sale of

Madeira Hand Emb'd Linens

Odd Pieces, Some Slightly Soiled from Handling

In the pre-holiday rush many of our linen pieces became slightly soiled from handling and need only re-laundering. We have decided to sacrifice them along with our regular stock

At Greatly Reduced Prices

MADEIRA, ITALIAN CUT-WORK AND MOSAIC Luncheon Sets, Tea, Luncheon and Banquet Cloths, Sheets, Spreads and Pillow Cases, Towels, Buffet and Dresser Scarfs, Napkins, Etc.

MADEIRA TEA NAPKINS
Reg. 10.50 dozen. Now 6.95
Luncheon and Dinner sizes.
Reg. 12.50 to 37.00. Now 9.50 to 27.50

MADEIRA LUNCHEON SETS
Reg. 7.95 to 29.75. Now 5.50 to 22.50

MADEIRA GUEST TOWELS
Reg. 1.95 to 2.95. Now 1.50
Reg. 2.75 to 3.95. Now 1.95

MADEIRA PILLOW CASES
Reg. 9.50 to 10.75 pr. Now 6.90
Reg. 13.50 to 14.75 pr. Now 9.75

MADEIRA LUNCHEON CLOTHS
Reg. 14.50. Now 9.85
Others More Elaborate,
Reg. 24.50 to 87.50. Now 15.50 to 65.00

MADEIRA BUFFET SCARFS (54 in.)
Reg. 4.50 to 13.75. Now 3.25 to 9.85

MADEIRA BABY PILLOWS
Reg. 1.95 to 2.95. Now 1.50
Reg. 2.50 to $3.25 Now 1.95

MADEIRA CENTERS
Reg. 4.75 to $5.75 Now 3.50
Reg. 5.90 to $7.50 Now 4.50

ITALIAN CUT-WORK & MOSAIC LUNCHEON SETS
Reg. 67.50 to 145.00 Set Now 45.00 to 97.50

MADEIRA, MOSAIC & CUT-WORK BED SHEETS
Reg. 45.00 to 165.00 Set. Some with pillow cases to match. Now 29.50 to 115.00

An early call is advisable to insure a greater selection.

Our Prices Are Always Less.

Friedman's Annual

Shoe Clearance Sale

$6.45

Men's and Women's $10 to $12 High and Low Shoes

MEN'S
All latest models, tan or black calf-skin shoes. Practically any good style you can want.

WOMEN'S
Black, grey, brown suede lace boots. Patent calf, kid or cloth tops. Louis heels. Brown or black kid, military heels.

Practically all of our $10 to $12 shoes included at $6.45 besides those we've described. All Exclusive new styles.

This is an annual event of the utmost importance eagerly awaited by our thousands of customers who know Friedman's Shoes.

In this sale New York's Greatest Shoe Values await you.

Women's $3 Wool Sport Hose; all wanted mixtures $1.29

SALE STARTS TO-DAY

Exchanges Made. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

FRIEDMAN'S
FAMOUS FITTING FOOTWEAR
Open from 8.30 A. M. to 8.30 P. M.

NEW YORK STORES:
1600 BROADWAY, Nr. 48th St.
2138 THIRD AV., Near 119th St.
643 EIGHTH AV., Nr. 41st St.
2925 THIRD AVE., Nr. 152d St.

BROOKYN STORES:
453 FULTON ST., Nr. Smith St.
379 KNICKERBOCKER AVE.,
1327 BROADWAY, Near Grove St.
5320 FIFTH AVE., Near 54th St.

Sale of Furs to accomplish Immediate Clearance

J. Furman & Bro.

42 West 57th Street

Offer their stock consisting of Broadtail, Mole, Mink, Caracul and Hudson Seal Wraps and Coats, without Reserve

Hudson Seal Wraps of Marked Distinction $495 Including Tax

Buyer and Manager for Art Embroidery Department

R. H. Macy & Co., Inc., are seeking a Buyer and Manager for their Art Embroidery Department.

Apply by letter only, giving full details as to experience and qualifications.

Address:

P. S. S., Executive Offices

R. H. Macy & Co.
HERALD SQUARE Inc. NEW YORK

SOLDIERS INCREASE

Surgeon General Reports Ex-Service Men Breaking Down at Rate of 1,000 Per Month.

MORE HOSPITALS NEEDED

He Asks for $30,000,000 to Provide 10,200 Beds—Criticises Present Accommodations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—To properly house and care for the rapidly increasing number of American ex-soldiers who suffer from tuberculosis, mental diseases and other afflictions, approximately $30,000,000 is needed immediately, according to a letter written to Senator Ashurst of Arisona by Surgeon General H. S. Cumming of the Bureau of the Public Health Service. At the present time, the Surgeon General states, sick and insane men whose afflictions can be charged to their service to their country are increasing at the rate of about 1,000 per month, and owing to inadequate permanent hospital accommodations, great numbers of them are of necessity being cared for in structures that are described as "flimsy and inflammable."

Surgeon General Cumming does not look for a decrease in the number of men who are now or will hereafter be entitled to treatment before 1927, or possibly 1929. The letter was read in the Senate today by Senator Ashurst, and is as follows:

"Dear Senator Ashurst:

"I wish to invite your attention to the fact that since June 2, 1920, the date on which the France bill 'to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to provide medical, surgical, and hospital services and supplies for discharged soldiers, sailors, marines, army and navy nurses, and for other purposes' was favorably reported, the number of patients has increased from 17,445 to 22,292 for the week ended Jan. 1, 1921.

"In the week ended Jan. 1, 19.1, there were in hospitals operated by the public health service 12,511 patients and in hospitals under contract with the public health service 9,781. Of this number 19,019 were patients of the War Risk Insurance Bureau. It is understood that there were approximately 3,000 patients of the War Risk Insurance Bureau in hospitals operated by the National Home of Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, and in army and navy hospitals.

Patients Increase 1,000 Per Month.

"The present rate of increase in patients in hospitals of the Public Health Service is approximately 1,000 per month, and it is expected that before the peak is reached the number of beds on request will approximate 30,000 to 35,000. It is estimated that the peak will not be reached before 1927 to 1929.

"The Public Health Service now has, or in the near future will have, under operation hospitals providing approximately 19,878 beds. Of this number of beds 10,347 are in hospitals of flimsy and inflammable construction or in hospitals leased by the service under leases which will expire at certain periods after the declaration of pease, or are otherwise not to be counted upon in the program for permanent care.

"It is understood that when the soldiers' homes are remodeled for the purpose of receiving beneficiaries of the War Risk Insurance requiring hospital care, they will be able to accommodate approximately 6,000 patients. The use of beds in army and navy hospitals is not considered advisable except as a temporary expedient. On this acount beds in these institutions should be left out of consideration in planning for the permanent car eof ex-service men and women.

"An analysis of the 19,019 War Risk Insurance patients in hospitals of the public health service for the week ended Jan. 1, 1921, shows that they were distributed according to disease as follows: Tuberculosis, 7,586; neuro-psychiatric, 5,680; general medical and surgical, 5,743; total, 19,019.

"The most pressing need is for tuberculosis and neuro-psychiatric patients.

"For tuberculosis patients there are 1,431 beds in hospitals operated by the public health service and 1,000 beds in the Soldiers' Home at Johnson City, Tenn. Of the number now in public health service hospitals approximately 5,251 are not satisfactory and should be replaced at the earliest practicable date, because they are in flimsy and inflammable structures or in leased institutions, &c.

"For neuro-psychiatric patients there are 2,500 beds in institutions operated by the Public Health Service and 1,000 beds in the Soldiers' Home at Marion, Ind. Of the 2,500 beds of the Public Health Service 475 are in leased institutions, and owing to the character of the leases are not to be counted upon in the permanent hospital program.

"For general medical and surgical patients there are 9,948 beds in institutions either operated by or to be acquired by the Public Health Service. Of this number 4,621 are not satisfactory and should be replaced at the earliest practicable date. The reason for the unsatisfactory conditions is that they are in flimsy and inflammable structures or in leased institutions where the leases expire at certain periods after the declaration of peace.

10,000 More Beds Needed.

"After careful consideration of (1) the number of war risk insurance patients in hospitals, (2) the present Government hospital facilities, (3) the necessity of replacing some of the undesirable hospitals, (4) the increase in the number of war risk insurance patients within the past twenty months and (5) the geographical distribution of the ex-soldier population, it is found that there is urgent need for 4,800 additional beds for tuberculosis patients, 4,500 additional beds for insane patients and 900 additional beds for general medical and surgical patients.

"In round numbers 10,000 beds are urgently needed, of which the beds for tuberculosis and neuro-psychiatric patients are of the greatest urgency. These additional beds will serve only to meet the increase expected within the present fiscal year.

"At the estimated cost of $3,000 per bed, 10,000 beds urgently needed would require an appropriation of $30,000,000. The amount authorized by Senate bill 4357 ($29,330,000) is approximately correct. From the best advice obtainable it is not believed that the estimate of $3,000 per bed for hospital construction is excessive. Indeed, unless there is a further decline in the cost of material and labor, it is doubted whether this estimated cost would be sufficient.

"H. S. CUMMING,
"Surgeon General."

It is expected that the bill for the relief of the disabled and ill ex-soldiers will be called up for consideration in the Senate next week.

TAX STUDENT IS ACCUSED.

New York Man In Revenue Bureau Charged With Filing False Vouchers

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Saul Gordon of 1,042 Lowell Street, New York, pleaded guilty today before United States Commissioner Mason N. Richardson to a charge of turning in false vouchers in his expense account.

Gordon, who is an ex-service man, was a student in the school of the income tax division of the Internal Revenue Bureau. He is the fourth student to be arrested on this charge.

It is stated that he lived at a rooming house, but turned in expenses for hotel bills, thus using up the $5 a day allowed to students for living expenses, when, it is alleged, his daily expense did not total this amount. He was held for the Grand Jury.

Knit Underwear
At Reduced Prices
Gauze weight Cotton Union Suits—95c
Medium weight Cotton Union Suits
$1.25
Ground Floor

Lord & Taylor

38th Street —FIFTH AVENUE— 39th Street

Children's Dresses
2 to 6 years
Taffeta—Serge—Jersey
Reduced to $7.50
Not all sizes in every style.
Fourth Floor

Wraps of Quality for Women and Misses

Most Favored Models of Beautiful Fabrics in Rich, Seasonable Shades, with Generous Collars of Fur and Silk-Lined Throughout

Priced with Exceptional Moderation

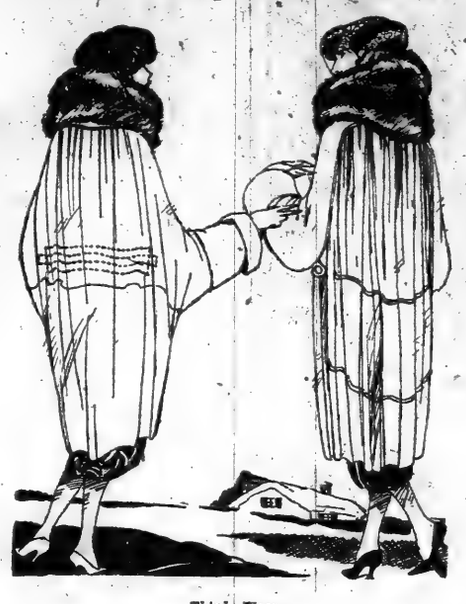
New Spring Dresses
Of Canton Crepe the Silk of Fashion
$75.00

Five bewitching new models that forecast the Spring styles—made of soft, supple Canton Crepe, one of the weaves in most demand for the new season; designed for immediate wear, and especially for the woman going South.

The new silhouette favored by Paris, some with flying panels, looped bands or flat flounces; collars or the straightacross collarless Lanvin neck. Lovely little grey Frocks, others in brown and navy. Women's and Misses' sizes.

New Spring Models
Taffeta, Tricotine, Georgette Crepe.
$75.00 to $175.00
Third Floor

Winter Wraps of the finer type, ample in their graceful fullness, of soft, velvety Bolivia and Vicuna Cloth, topped with Nutria and Australian Opossum collars.
$65.00
One Model Illustrated at Left.



Wraps that owe their style distinction to Paris—copies of our importations in superb Corduval and Cashmere Bolivia, collars of Squirrel, Beaver and Australian Opossum.
$85.00
One Model Illustrated at Right.

Tweed Sport Suits
Smart Models for Town and Country
$50.00 $65.00

To meet the demand of the fashionable woman, exceptionally good values in suits made of sturdy quality, all-wool, imported and domestic Tweeds that will give splendid service.

Trim coats of jaunty cut, youthful in the well-modelled lines of the back and particularly good-looking with their notched collars, unusual pockets and narrow belts, silk lined throughout.

Tans, browns and blues, light and dark shades.
Third Floor

Breakfast Coats
Less Than Original Wholesale Cost
$19.75 and tax

Illustrated

SOFT, beautiful Brocaded Satin, combined with Georgette Crepe in French blue, coral pink, turquoise, Copenhagen, orchid and rose.

Other Attractive Models

Embossed Corduroy, full model, deep flounce, silk-lined throughout.
$10.75 and tax.

Two-tone Satin, heavy quality in a variety of splendid models and beautiful colorings.
$10.75, $12.75, $14.75, $16.75 and tax

Silk Night Gowns

Several charming models in Crepe de Chine and Radium Silk, soft flesh tints, tailored and trimmed with dainty Valenciennes and Calais laces, combined with Georgette Crepe.

Remarkably Good Values

Crepe de Chine	Radium Silk
$5.95, $6.95 and tax	$5.95 and tax

Domestic Night Gowns

Practical models in attractive styles and serviceable materials, trimmed with embroidery and lace.
$1.35, $1.50, $1.95, $2.95, $3.95

Silk Petticoats
Exceptional Values

Taffeta, shirred flounces, edged with pleatings..$4.45, $5.95
Silk Jersey Petticoats in colors, with pleated flounces of self material.....$3.95, $4.95, $6.45

Dance Petticoats

Lovely, lace-trimmed models in Washable Satin, flesh or white.....$5.95, $6.95

Washable Satin Bloomers

Tailored and lace-trimmed models, reinforced with tailored seams.....$2.95
Second Floor

Silks
Excellent Values in Much-Wanted Weaves

Colored Dress Taffeta
$2.50 yard

Soft finish fabric with high lustre. Street and evening shades; 36 inches wide.

Colored Sports Silks
$2.95 yard

A charming soft fabric, ideal for sports and early spring wear. Solid colors and two tone combinations. 40 inches wide.
Ground Floor

French Kid Gloves
Very Unusual Value

Two clasp
Tan
White and black.

$2.25 pair

All white
Black with white
All black.

Fine quality glace kid. Beautifully made and finished—over-seam sewn.
Ground Floor

First Importation

Paris Millinery

Captivating Recent Arrivals

The Foremost French Ateliers represented by such well-known names as

Marie Guy Suzanne Talbot
Caroline Reboux Maison Lewis

Have sent us forerunners of an early Spring season—hats designed with that inimitable taste and charm that make them equally appropriate for immediate wear in the city or for those South-bound.

Fascinating new weaves, of straw, silk or the two combined. Shapes as youthful in spirit as they are daring in originality. Colors so irrepressibly gay and varied, they seem fairly to breathe of Southern climes, sunny skies and festive occasions.

Each charming hat in the large display carries with it a new and authentic style note for Spring 1921.
Fourth Floor

Women's Strap Pumps
A Most Important Offering
$9.75
Begins tomorrow, Monday

At this introductory low price we are presenting the most wanted models in Women's Footwear, represented by six styles of Strap Pumps.

Black, brown or grey suede. Louis XV heels.

Patent leather strap pumps—grey suede quarter and strap.

Tan calfskin strap pumps. Baby Louis heels.

Black satin strap pumps. Louis XV heels.

Second Floor

Model Fur Coats and Wraps
At Greatly Reduced Prices

Developed in mink, mole, caracul and Hudson Seal. Models of striking distinction in style and workmanship.

Hudson Seal Coats
(dyed muskrat)
$245 $295 $345

Loose belted models, made of beautiful well-matched pelts; every coat handsomely lined.

Charming Fur Neckwear
$69.50

Skunk collars Mink scarfs	Beaver collars Black Lynx scarfs

Fourth Floor.

Navy Blue Woolens
At New Low Prices

English Serge	Corded Velour
$1.50 yard	$3.00 yard
All worsted, sponged and shrunk—54 inches wide.	All wool, shrunk—52 inches wide.

Attractive Offerings in Imported Cotton Fabrics

Printed Swiss Organdies	Printed Irish Dimities
$1.45 yard	75c yard
Charming designs in white and colored grounds—45 inches wide.	Fast colors in several designs on white and tinted grounds. Also in plain colors.

Domestic Printed Voiles
38c yard

Wide variety of designs and colors; 38-39 inches wide.
Second Floor

Commissioner Advocates Jail Sentences in Report on Prohibition's First Year.

HAS NOT HAD FAIR TRIAL

Complete Success, He Says, Depends on Co-operation of State and Municipal Officials.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—A report on the first year of national prohibition, made tonight by William M. Williams, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, characterizes the accomplishments of the enforcement officers as "satisfactory." He predicts more effective enforcement in the future.

Mr. Williams expresses the belief that "there is a constantly growing sentiment on the part of the people for a strict enforcement of the law." He advocates jail sentences for serious violations of the statute, stating his conviction that the courts are beginning to realize that only prison sentences will be sufficient. That he expects a few to stick to their liquor for the next few months at least, even if they have to get it from illicit sources, is indicated by this sentence:

"It would be hard to conceive of the devil ceasing to hold out temptations or letting up in his nefarious schemes at any time within the near future."

From Jan. 16 to Nov. 30, Mr. Williams shows, 21,826 distilleries, stills and "still worms" were seized and destroyed. His agents also seized and destroyed 136,608 gallons of liquor and seized, but did not destroy, 161,834 gallons. Twenty breweries and 50,448 fermenters were seized during the same time and 24,469 persons arrested. Prosecution was recommended in the cases of 22,960. Taxes and penalties assessed approximated nearly $22,000,000.

To "Tighten Up" on Permits.

The extent of "bootlegging" is partly shown by the fact that 1,021 automobiles were seized, most of them being employed in "border running" and in the transportation of liquor about the country without a permit.

Mr. Williams states the permit system for the release of liquor for "medicinal uses only" was subject to grave abuse. He says there will be a tightening up in the issuance of such permits and that plans are in contemplation which, it is believed, will practically end the forgery of permits which resulted in scandals in New York and other large cities.

Mr. Williams does not think the Volstead act has had a fair trial, because it went into effect at a time when the world was "turned upside down." The report says in part:

"The first year of national prohibition under the constitutional amendment and the Volstead act has just ended. On the whole, I feel that the accomplishments of the prohibition enforcement forces are satisfactory.

"The bureau of necessity encountered many administrative difficulties in inaugurating the assessment and collection system, and it requires some time to collect the tax after it is assessed. It is the wish of the bureau that the accused shall have every opportunity to present his defense. Up to July 1, 1920, the bureau had collected $641,029.34. During the five months ended Nov. 30, 1920, the collections amounted to $540,889.82. The procedure is now in such condition that it is believed the collections will be rapid. These sums do not include the court fines paid into the Treasury through the Department of Justice, nor proceeds from the sale of seized property sold by court orders.

"The permit system has given us considerable difficulty, especially permits to withdraw from bonded warehouses and distilleries. Many permits were forged, liquors secured thereon and diverted to illegal purposes. Nevertheless we feel that this situation is now well in hand, by reason of new and additional regulations recently put into effect, the need for which was demonstrated by our experience. The bureau is now in the process of revoking many basic permits to engage in the sale of intoxicating liquors for non-beverage purposes, as well as manufacturing permits, where upon investigation it has been discovered that the permittees were not complying with the law.

"From the reports received from the bureau's agents throughout the country it appears that there is a constantly growing sentiment on the part of the people for a strict enforcement of the law. The courts, it is believed, are beginning to realize that only prison sentences for violating the law will be sufficient. The bureau is now receiving better co-operation from State and local officials, and, after all, complete success of national prohibition, unless a very large sum is appropriated by the Congress, depends upon co-operation on the part of State, local and municipal officers.

"It was never the purpose of Congress, under the Volstead act, to match with a prohibition agent every policeman or other local official in the United States and its territories. That would be an unreasonable undertaking. Great faith may be placed in the common sense and fairness of the American people, and it is hoped that their influence will soon bring about proper co-operation on the part of local officials. The better co-operation on the part of such officials the less money will it be necessary for Congress to appropriate for national prohibition.

Has Not Had Fair Trial.

"Some of our people have never realized that $5 out of 'Uncle Sam's pocket' is practically $5 out of their own pockets. In times past there seems to have prevailed a feeling among some of our people 'back home' that any sum appropriated by the Federal Congress was just so much picked up. Such is not the fact. Co-operation will result in reduced cost and more efficiency. Close co-operation, for instance, on the part of New York State, local and municipal officials will release from police work in the City of New York prohibition agents for working along the Canadian border to stop the smuggling which has been going on. It is believed that conditions along the Canadian border will be improved, since it is understood that nearly all the border provinces will soon have prohibition laws.

"The Volstead act is a regulatory law. The administration of all regulatory laws necessarily goes through a period of administrative organization. The more important the law the more necessity there is for a period during which it may be given a fair trial. The Volstead act has not yet had a fair trial, for the reason that it went into effect at a time when the world was turned upside down; the conditions existing during the last twelve months have been abnormal. It is believed there have been more violations of the prohibition laws during the last twelve months than there would have been had ordinary conditions prevailed.

Some of the prohibition agents have fallen into temptation, but that is also true of other trusted employes. The world, of course, as long as it exists, will experience more or less violations of laws. It would be hard to conceive of the devil ceasing to hold out temptations or letting up in his nefarious schemes at any time within the near future. I have great faith in the law-abiding sense of the American public."

The report of Prohibition Commissioner Kramer on the first year's work under the prohibition law is printed on Page 1 of the Editorial Section of this issue of The Times.

WHISKY LABELS FAKED.

Spurious Stamps Also Found on "Bottled in Bond" Bootleg.

Further evidence that much of the so-called whisky now sold under names of former well-known brands is newly made from alcohol, burnt sugar and other ingredients was presented yesterday when Peter Scotti of 150 West End Avenue was arraigned before Commissioner Hitchcock on a charge of having eighty counterfeit revenue stamps and a quantity of fake labels. Scotti was arrested by Federal agents, who found that he had bottles carrying spurious stamps and labels. Scotti is said to have told the detective he bought his stamps and labels from a peddler at Canal and Mott Streets. Scotti was held in $1,000 bail for examination next Thursday.

Four of four men alleged to have stolen 150 cases of whisky were arrested in Long Branch, N. J., early yesterday. The fifth man said to be the leader, escaped. The whisky was taken from the storage barn of S. Sacco, in Morris Avenue, Long Branch. It originally was consigned by a Kentucky distillery to Morris Weiss, of 1,060 Park Avenue, this city.

The prisoners, all giving Newark addresses, said they were to have been paid $20 each for the night's work. They refused to name the man who escaped, but described themselves as Abraham Marlieg, 10 Sterling Street; Jacob Rosenfield, 22 Charlton Street; Joseph Lostus, 320 Eighth Street, and Sidney Barton, Mulberry Street.

Austin Rice, Former Pugilist, Dead.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 15.—Austin Rice, who twenty years ago was one of the leading pugilists, died tonight as the result of injuries sustained yesterday when he was run over by the wagon he was driving. He had been a farmer here many years. He leaves a son, who is in jail at Washington, charged with the murder of Inspector McHenry.

Lieutenant Kloor Spends the Day With Lieutenant and Mrs. Hinton.

TO DINE AT CLUB TONIGHT

Lieutenant Farrell Remains at Home —Receives Several Invitations to Dinner.

The three "lost" aeronauts of the naval balloon A-5536 were excused from all duties yesterday at the Rockaway Air Station so that they would be able to recuperate their strength after their month in the Canadian wilderness and the enthusiastic welcome given them by this city and the Rockaway villages on Friday.

Lieutenant Klorr spent the day with Lieutenant and Mrs. Walter Hinton at their home at 1,701 Woodbine Street, Ridgewood, all day yesterday and received several invitations to attend public dinners to be given in Brooklyn the coming week. He and his two companions of the A-5536 will be the guests tonight of the Twentieth Assembly District Democratic Club at Gates and Bushwick Avenues, Brooklyn.

Four thousand persons greeted Lieutenant Farrell when he appeared on the dance floor of the Palm Garden, Wilson and Greene Avenues, Brooklyn, last night. He was the guest of the Bushwick Democratic Club of the Nineteenth Assembly District. With his wife and son he led the grand march.

None of the officers at the air station yesterday knew anything about the court of inquiry, to open its sessions at the station on Monday, beyond what was contained in the official order of Secretary Daniels. Admiral Kline has not arrived to serve as the president of the court. It is the information of officers that the sessions will be held behind closed doors.

Mrs. Hinton said that she and her husband had not discussed the letters written by the lieutenant from Moose Factory or any of the passages that caused the row with Lieutenant Farrell after he had read some of the extracts after the missives were published.

President and President-Elect Bespeak Success for Community Movement.

COOLIDGE SENDS LETTER

Former Governor Smith and T. V. O'Conner, Head of Longshoremen, Among Speakers.

The formal founding last night of the Town Hall Club in the Town Hall, 113 to 123 West Forty-third Street, was marked by congratulatory messages from President Woodrow Wilson, President-elect Warren G. Harding and Vice President-elect Calvin Coolidge and half a dozen addresses on "Co-operation in Community Life and Work." The speakers included ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith, Thomas V. O'Conner, Head of Longshoremen; Professor Samuel McCune Lindsay, President of the Town Hall Club, presided. The audience arose and applauded as former Governor Smith was introduced. He said that he saw in the theory underlying the Town Hall meeting an absolute necessity in this State, and warned against an attempt to discuss too many questions in a single evening.

Mrs. Mary K. Simkhovitch spoke of the importance of neighborhood centres. "City neighborhoods," she said, "are cross-sections of American life, and no one can understand national life unless he can grasp the problems of local communities."

Professor Lindsay read the letter received from President Wilson and addressed to Henry W. Taft, a member of the Town Hall Committee. The President said:

The White House,
Washington.
Dec. 17 1920.

My Dear Mr. Taft:

I need hardly assure you that it would be a pleasure to me to be associated with you in any way in the movement you have in mind, but I do not see how we come to this conclusion only under the pressure of necessity and much against our choice.

With the best wishes for the success of the occasion,

Cordially and sincerely yours,

WOODROW WILSON.

Mr. Henry W. Taft,
The Town Hall, New York City.

President-elect Harding wired this night letter:

Marion, Ohio, Jan. 14, 1921.

Dr. Samuel McCune Lindsay,
The Town Hall Club,
New York City, N. Y.

Congratulations to the citizens of New York upon the establishment of the Town Hall as a great civic centre for the cultivation of civic virtues, the development of sound thinking on public questions and co-operation with your government in city, State and nation for the promotion of social welfare. It is particularly fitting that the crown of the edifice which results from twenty-five years' work of such author

Vice-President-elect Calvin Coolidge's letter said he looked with the highest approval and satisfaction on the opening of the Town Hall and its dedication by loyal and patriotic societies to a "strengthening of our civic consciousness and righteousness in government."

'Bedell' extends the courtesy and convenience of a thirty-day charge account to those with established credit."

Bedell

PARIS—27 Rue d'Enghien
LONDON—217 Piccadilly West
AMERICA—Coast to Coast

West Thirty-Fourth Street—New York

BROOKLYN—Fulton Near Hoyt.....(Sale at All Three Stores).....NEWARK—Broad and West Park

NEW Spring Afternoon Dresses

Taffeta & Canton Crepe

Youthful New Replicas of High-Cost Modes

$25

A special collection of dainty and expressive new models, attractively developed from high quality fabrics, in the wanted new Grays and Navy—very strikingly embroidered.

This Dress $75

This Dress $25

Charming New Spring Frocks

$35 $45 $55

Delightfully styled—finely made. Fashion's first favorites of Canton Crepe, Silk Taffeta, Tricotine and fine Novelties.

NEW Spring Suits of Aristocratic Tricotine

Superbly Tailored New Models Extraordinary Values at $39.75

Advance Spring Suits of aristocratic character and custom-made refinement of tailoring. Several exclusive models of Tricotine, and Hairline novelties. The values are most extraordinary!

This Suit $55

This Suit $39.75

Ultra-Smart NEW Tailleurs

Comparing with $75 Types $55

Splendid choice of distinctive, hand-tailored productions—mostly along repressed lines. Of Tricotine, Poiret Twill and Novelties.

NEW Fur Collar Coats Greatly Reduced

Sacrificing $50 and $60 Wraps Plain or Fur Collared

$35

Silvertone, Suede, Velours, Lustrola and Bolivia. Fur collars of Australian Opossum, Natural Raccoon, Nutria or Sealine. Silk lined—all colors. Large assortments to choose from.

This Coat $35

This Wrap $55

De Luxe Coats & Wraps

Formerly Much Higher $55

More exclusive and distinguished models! Of superb materials and furs. Incomparable values at the reduced price!

Tailtuneo

The Oriental Store.
Fifth Avenue and 39th Street

Japanese Kimonas at Drastic Reductions

WE have selected a number of our Japanese Kimonas and are offering them at reductions of one-half price or more. Richly colored and elaborately hand-embroidered, they are not only possessions of rare beauty, they represent extraordinary values as well!

Habutai Kimonas

Habutai silk kimonas in pink, light blue, wisteria, night blue and old blue embroidered in floral designs and lined.

Regular price $25.00
Reduced to $12.00

Habutai silk kimona in lemon, pink, light blue, embroidered with chrysanthemums or apple blossoms.

Regular price $40.00
Reduced to $20.00

Habutai silk kimona of dragon green embroidered with the coils of dragons.

Regular price $75.00
Reduced to $37.50

Cotton Crepe Kimonas

Cotton Crepe Kimonas in pink, blue or wisteria, embroidered in Japanese floral designs.

Formerly $6.50
Reduced to $2.95

Men's Robes

Japanese lounging robes in silk poplin, lined with self colored silk. In dark striped designs with Japanese crest embroidered on the back and sleeves.

Regular price $35.00
Reduced to $17.50

Men's lounging robes of heavy silk lined with self colored habutai silk; all dark colors.

Regular price $75.00
Reduced to $30.00

Crepe de Chine Kimonas

White crepe de chine kimona delicately sprayed with pink cherry flowers.

Regular price $75.00
Reduced to $37.50

Pink crepe de chine kimona, embroidered in great soft pink roses.

Regular price $110.00
Reduced to $55.00

Old blue crepe de chine kimona, embroidered in self colored chrysanthemums and daisies. Self colored lining.

Regular price $100.00
Reduced to $50.00

Lemon colored crepe de chine kimona elaborately blossoming with pink peonies.

Regular price $125.00 to $137.50
Reduced to $62.50

All Antique Kimonas Reduced ½

Purple kobi crepe kimona, hand-painted with cherry blossoms and lined with tangerine.

Regular price $110.00
Reduced to $55.00

Navy blue satin kimona embroidered brilliantly in gold metal thread and a design of pine boughs and turtles. Lacquer red silk lining.

Regular price $130.00
Reduced to $65.00

Sapphire blue silk kimona hand embroidered and painted with pines and storks and lined with white brocaded satin.

Regular price $175.00
Reduced to $87.50

War Tax Additional
Second Floor

Continuing the January SALE of CHINAWARE at ½ OFF!

THE response to our January Sale of Chinaware was so great that we were forced to draw upon our reserve stock in order to continue the Sale. The reductions offer you an opportunity to replenish your china stock at obvious savings!

Canton Cake Set consisting of 1 large plate and 6 small plates.

Regularly $4.30
Reduced to $2.15

Canton Dinner Set in the popular blue and white willow pattern; 100 pieces.

Regularly $99.50
Reduced to $49.75

Canton Tea Set; Teapot, sugar bowl, cream pitcher and six unhandled cups and saucers.

Regularly $10.13
Reduced to $5.00

Gold Medallion Dinner Set; a beautiful design of figures and flowers in green and gold. 100 pieces.

Regularly $197.70
Reduced to $98.85

Open Stock China on Special Price Tables and Other Tea Sets also Reduced One-Half!

Basement

No C. O. D.'s. No Exchanges. No Credits.

Store Hours 9 to 5:30.

Sale Departments Include:
Blankets
White Goods
Comfortables and Pillows
Lace Curtains
Portieres
Laces and Embroideries
Women's and Misses' Dresses
Rugs
Draperies
Housedresses
Infants' Woolens
Corsets
Blouses

HEARN

FOURTEENTH STREET ESTABLISHED 1827 WEST OF FIFTH AVENUE

Sale Departments Include:
Table Linens
Towels, Toweling
Decorative Linen
Petticoats
Muslin Underwear
Silk Lingerie
Muslins
Sheets
Pillow Cases Spreads
Ticking
Flannels
Children's Underwear
Infants' Dresses

21st JANUARY SALE—Continues

LIVING UP TO CUSTOMERS' EXPECTATIONS

Two roads are open to the retailer. He may ask a profit on the original cost of his merchandise bought before the drop in the wholesale market, or lower his prices to meet the changed price conditions.

The second way is our way. We would rather sacrifice profits and keep our customers than lose our customers and lessen our volume of business.

Our salespeople are now waiting on nearly twice as many customers as formerly because our January Sale values are meeting the new price conditions with extra January price cuts.

This quick turn-over of goods keeps us always in a position to go into the market and buy for cash at lowest prices, therefore compare our January Sale values with those elsewhere and you will realize these money-saving opportunities.

For example, the following for both Monday and Tuesday:—Roosevelt Wisely said, "Thrift is common sense applied to spending."

3rd Week—January Sale

HEARN LINENS

The tradition of Hearn Quality Linens is worthily upheld by our present great stocks priced at worth-while savings to you.

70-in. Bleached Linen Damasks—heavy quality—were $3.95—Sale, Yd. 2.54
Napkins to Match—were $8.50—Sale, Doz. 5.64
22-in. Bleached Linen Damask Napkins—were $12.00—Sale, Doz. 8.66
20-in. Linen Damask Napkins—were $9.74—Sale, Doz. 6.84
Odd Lot Bleached Linen Damask Pattern Cloths—
70x88 in.—were $12.95—Sale 8.50
68x104 in.—were $15.95—Sale 10.74
70x70 in.—were $8.95—Sale 6.74
Bleached Mercerized Damask Napkins—hemmed—Sale, Doz. 1.94
H. S. Linen Damask Tea Napkins—were $14.95—Sale, Doz. 9.91

Bleached Union Linen Damask Pattern Cloths—excellent wearing quality—
70x70 in.—were $6.50.Sale 4.44
70x88 in.—were $8.50.Sale 5.66
Napkins to Match—(22x22 in.)—were $8.75 dozen...Sale 5.77
Mercerized Damask Pattern Cloths—64x90 in.—were $3.95.....Sale 2.64
Mercerized Damask Lunch Cloths—round scalloped design—were $2.25..Sale 1.57
Bleached Mercerized Damask—64 inches wide—were $1.15 yard.....Sale .66
72 in. Bleached Mercerized Damasks—were $1.37...Sale .78
36 in. Table Tops—were .84 each.....Sale .45
H. S. Linen Damask Sets—cloth 66x66 in h s—½ dozen napkins were $16.00.....Sale 11.77

36-in. Fruit of the Loom Muslin

36-in. Lonsdale Muslin .16½
36-in. Hill Muslin Worth .26

Limit 30 Yards. No Mail or Phone Orders. None Sent C. O. D.

January Sale Clearance

Women's and Misses' Suits 37.50

Were $54.75 and $69.75

Models in tweed, broadcloth, velveteen, oxford cloth and tricotine. Many have fur collars. Some are handsomely embroidered. A number of smart sport suits included.

Special Purchase

Women's Black Coats 35.00

Were $59.74

A good selection of fine black cloth coats, styled with large roll and shawl collars of black opossum, and well lined, are desirable in fashion and satisfactory in price.

MORNING SPECIALS—MONDAY and TUESDAY Until 1 P. M.

To prevent dealers buying quantities restricted. No Mail or Telephone Orders.

$1.97 All Wool French Serges...1.42 also Wool Taffetas—40 and 42 inches wide—navy, brown and black.
DRESS GOODS—MAIN FLOOR.

$1.74 Taffetas, 35-in.....1.10
Chiffon finish—navy and black only—good wearing quality.
SILKS—MAIN FLOOR.

$58.50 Seamless Velvet Rugs....44.00
Bigelow Hartford make—9x12 ft. Oriental and small carpet designs on blue, rose and cream grounds.
RUGS—THIRD FLOOR.

$1.24 Little Tots' White Dresses....67
Yoke and Bishop styles in nainsook, lawn and pequot—sizes to 3 years.
BABIES' WEAR—SECOND FLOOR.

$3.00 Pattern Cloths.....1.75
Firmly woven, bleached, mercerized damask—unusually good patterns.
LINENS—MAIN FLOOR.

28 ct. Women's Cotton Hose.....15
Seamed back—black or white—seconds of .38 quality—all sizes.
HOSIERY—MAIN FLOOR.

27 ct. Fancy Crepe.....21
Blue Bird and Floral effects.
WASH FABRICS—BASEMENT.

$1.97 & $1.17 Women's Underwear .73
Cotton fleeced vests or drawers—various styles—regular and extra sizes.
KNIT UNDERWEAR—MAIN FLOOR.

$6.77 Silkoline Comfortables.....4.35
Flowered centre—plain border—cotton filled—winter weight—full size.
COMFORTABLES—BASEMENT.

84 ct. Sheets.....64
72x90 inches—soft finest muslins—centre seam.
SHEETS—BASEMENT.

$4.98 Crochet Spreads.....3.24
Full size—hemmed or fringed—pretty designs.
SPREADS—BASEMENT.

Special Purchase

$6.97 Marie Antoinette Curtains..4.88
New designs—mounted on first quality net—white or Arabian.
CURTAINS—BASEMENT.

57 ct. Fine Cretonnes.....38
Yard wide—over 40 new patterns in floral, Chinese, tapestry, verdure and Chintz effects.
CRETONNES—BASEMENT.

35 ct. Outing Flannel.....17
Warm fleecy nap—pink or blue stripes.
WASH FABRICS—BASEMENT.

$3.25 Men's Felt Hats.....1.95
Desirable colors—well made—all sizes.
MEN'S HATS—MAIN FLOOR.

$2.65 Men's Starched Cuff Shirts..1.85
Neat colored stripes on white grounds—hand ironed—all sizes.
MEN'S WEAR—MAIN FLOOR.

$1.00 Women's Felt Slippers.....85
Felt soles—gray and maroon—sizes 3 to 8.
SHOES—SECOND FLOOR.

Great Special Purchase! Entire Stock of MUSLIN UNDERWEAR

We have purchased the entire stock of undermuslins, including samples from a noted manufacturer who, after fifty-four years in business, is now retiring and desired to close out. Naturally the opportunity to purchase fell to us, because of our ABILITY TO BUY FOR CASH, which in this, as in other purchases, BROUGHT US GREAT CONCESSIONS.

The assortments are large, varied and extremely fine in materials, trimmings and workmanship. The consignments arrived too late for us to print a detailed description or price list, BUT YOU WILL FIND VALUES WITHOUT EXCEPTION AMAZINGLY GOOD.

Included are:—

Straight Envelope and Vest Chemises—crepe, nainsook, batiste and silk mixtures.

Nightdresses—nainsook and soft finished muslin, exquisitely trimmed.

Drawers—nainsook and cambric—regular and Isabella styles.

Petticoats—sateen, nainsook and cambric.

Bloomers—nainsook, crepe, silk mixtures and sateen.

Triplons, Corset Covers and Short Petticoats—Sizes for children, and extra sizes included.

Special Purchase Sale

MADRAS CURTAINS pr. 1.88

Usually $3.47 and $3.75

About forty-five hundred pairs of madras curtains, mill stocks with slight misweaves, present a golden opportunity to curtain homes, apartments or hotels and clubs at nearly half price.

There is a good assortment of curtains in solid cream color with design of detached figures and double border. Other styles show dainty rosebuds or allover floral patterns in rose, blue or gold shades.

Semi-Annual Sale

All Wool Dress Goods REMNANTS at Half Price

A large selection of seasonable colors and also black and white in the dress materials of the finer weaves and newest fashion constitutes an economy event of great importance to women who are planning their Spring costumes.

Fabrics include:—

French, Storm and Mannish Serges, Velours, Wool Plaids, Broadcloths, Tricotines, Poplins, Prunellas, Poiret Twills, Gabardines, Velours, Shepherd Checks, Cheviots, Silvertones, Fancy Coatings, Cashmirtynes, Wool Taffetas, Mohairs, Challies, Polo Cloths and Granite Suitings.

38 to 54 inches wide—1 to 5 yard lengths

Negligees—Reduced

Beautiful robes of silk, exquisitely trimmed.

Crepe de Chine Negligees—light blue, Copenhagen, rose and peach—were $6.50..... 5.00
Crepe Meteor Negligees and Crepe de Chine Negligees, with Coat of Crepe Georgette and Margot Lace—were $24.94. 18.75
Printed Crepe de Chine Negligees and Negligees of Crepe de Chine Combined with Georgette—were $28.94..... 21.75
Crepe de Chine and Satin Japanese Kimonos—beautifully embroidered with birds & flowers—were $35.00 & $45.00. 19.75

January Sale Specials for third week

Girls' White Guimpes—sheer lawn, with fine tucks and embroidery inserting or finished with picot edge—sizes 6 to 14 years—were $1.28..... .88
Girls' White Dresses—sheer organdie trimmed with lace and embroidery—sizes 6 to 14 years—were $1.94... 1.57
Mignonette Blouses — tie-back models, attractively embroidered—bisque, oriole, Copenhagen and navy—were $4.94..... 3.28
Georgette Crepe Blouses—white, flesh and costume shades—a variety of beautiful styles elaborately trimmed—were $11.98 and $12.68. 7.77

January Sale Specials for third week

Mignonette Blouses — tie-back models, attractively embroidered—bisque, oriole, Copenhagen and navy—were $4.94..... 3.28
Georgette Crepe Blouses—white, flesh and costume shades—a variety of beautiful styles elaborately trimmed—were $11.98 and $12.68. 7.77
Voile Blouses—daintily trimmed with lace and embroidery—were $2.67..... 1.54
Hand-made Batiste Blouses—made with hemstitching, drawn work, and finished with filet lace edging—were $6.85 4.73
Girls' White Guimpes—sheer lawn, with fine tucks and embroidery inserting or finished with picot edge—sizes 6 to 14 years—were $1.28..... .88
Girls' White Dresses—sheer organdie trimmed with lace and embroidery—sizes 6 to 14 years—were $1.94..... 1.57

Continuing Our Special Purchase Sale

House Dresses

Checked plaid or plain-color gingham and chambray house dresses, twenty-seven styles; various colors, prettily trimmed

Sizes 36 to 44—were $5.94 to $7.94.... 2.68
Sizes 36 to 46—were $5.94 to $7.94.... 3.68
Extra sizes—48 to 52—were $5.94 to $7.50.... 3.88

Gifts of Jewelry

For Boys and Girls Who Are to Graduate

Large assortments of the remembrances youth prizes most provide a suitable selection from among which we feature the following list at special prices.

Graduation Rings—1921 design—14-karat gold—raised letters—were $5.97.....4.97
Other Graduation Rings, 3.50 to 8.97
Gold-Filled Wrist Watches—7-jewel—10-year case—were $14.97.....9.95
Pearl Necklaces—solid gold clasp—were $1.50.....1.00
Pearl Necklaces—graduated—24 and 27 inches long—solid gold clasp—were $4.97.....2.75
Solid Gold Cuff Links—plain and engraved—were $3.97.....2.95
Solid Gold Scarf Pins—were $3.97.....2.25
Solid Gold Lavallieres—artistically jeweled—were $7.97 and $8.97.....5.00
Gold-Filled Bracelets—engraved—were $3.97.....2.00
Ingersoll Yankee Watches...2.50
Other Ingersoll Watches, 3.50 to 5.75

CLEARANCE

Silk and Wool Sweaters

Extraordinary Reductions to Close Out Winter Styles

Clearance Pure and Fibre Silk Sweaters—Tuxedo styles—were $21.48 to $27.48....14.24
Fibre Silk and Wool Sweaters—Tuxedo and slip-on styles—were $19.94 to $17.48....10.48
Wool and Silk Sweaters—Tuxedo and button styles—were $8.94 to $10.94.....5.95
Slip-on Sweaters with Sleeves—were $5.68.....2.94
Cardigan Jackets—sizes 34 to 38 only—were $3.94.....1.38
were $4.94.....1.87
Knit Skirts—were $1.97.....64
were $2.97.....94

Third Week—January Sale

HEARN Blankets

6,700 Pairs Deeply Cut in Price

3,500 Pairs Blankets—All-wool plaid blankets, in a variety of color combinations (66x80 inches)—also white wool mixed blankets, with contrasting borders—single, ¾, full and extra large sizes—were $11.94, $12.94 and $13.65..... 7.85

1,500 Pairs Blankets—Handsome all-wool plaids or white blankets—with contrasting borders—also white wool mixed blankets with colored borders—full and extra sizes—were $16.94 and $17.94. Sale 10.77

1,200 Blankets—Eiderdown finish Jacquard comfortable blankets, bath robe blankets (with cord set)—also traveling rugs in attractive color combinations—were $7.95.....Sale 5.38

500 Blankets—All wool blankets in handsome plaid designs—cut and bound singly with 3-inch satin binding (72x84 and 72x90 inches)—also white with contrasting borders (72x84 inches)—were $22.94 and $24.94.....Sale 17.24

FLANNELS

6,000 Yards Flannels—Bleached domet—heavy, fleecy nap—23 inches wide—were 28 cts.....Sale .12½

7,500 Yards Flannels—27-inch domet or canton—bleached, heavy, fleecy nap—were 50 cts.....Sale .23

300 Yards Flannels—All wool plain—35 inches wide—were $1.20—.....Sale .88

200 Yards Flannels—Hemstitched or scalloped silk embroidered—various designs—were $3.27 to $3.67.....Sale 2.44

Excellent Values in Women's and Children's Knit Underwear

We have reduced the prices of underwear most in demand and of seasonable weight to give these special price opportunities.

Women's Wool and Cotton Union Suits—various styles—regular and extra sizes—were $2.97.....1.95
Women's Medium Weight Vests and Pants—various styles—were $1.61.....1.17
Extra sizes—were $1.81..1.33
Women's Wool and Cotton Extra Size Underwear—various styles—were $2.07.....1.27
Children's Cotton Fleece Underwear—vests are high neck and long sleeves—ankle length pants—sizes to 10 years—were .67.....55
Larger sizes—were .87.....67

MONDAY TUESDAY

Clearance

at Sacrifice Prices

Only one of each kind, but matchless value for the lucky purchaser.

Fur Scarfs

75 Fox Scarfs—were $43.97..... } 17.50
Skunk Scarfs—were $65.97..... } 37.50
Beaver Scarfs—were $79.00..... } 45.00
Raccoon Scarfs—were $45.97..... } 25.00
Dyed Skunk Scarfs—were $32.00..... } 17.50

Clearance of 400 Muffs 4.50

Were $7.97 and $12.97

Kit, brown and black coney—melon shape—lined with satin, finished with hand ring.

All muffs in stock are now reduced regardless of cost.

MERCHANTS OFFER AUTO LAW CHANGES

Greater Power to Secretary of State in Issuing and Revoking Licenses Is Proposed.

WOULD INCREASE PENALTIES

Association Says Granting Privilege of Operation to Family of Owner Is Not Desirable.

Proposals for the amendment of the State Automobile law, to be presented to the Legislature, were made public yesterday by the Merchants' Association. After telling of an examination of the regulations in Connecticut and other States, the report continues:

"As a result of our study we are of the opinion

"(1) That the safety of the public requires that the operation of automobiles upon the public streets should be restricted to persons whose fitness for such operation is first clearly established and who thereafter conform strictly to the law.

"(2) That violators should be subject to penalties much more deterrent than are at present imposed.

"It is our opinion that the Secretary of State, subject to review of his decisions by the courts, should have plenary power as to the granting, suspension and revocation of licenses, so that at all times the privilege of operation should be conditioned, first, upon the demonstrated fitness of the licensee, and, second, upon his unvarying observance of the law.

"The present power of the Secretary of State is materially limited in these respects, so that only under restricted conditions can he suspend or revoke licenses which he himself has granted, even though the holder of a license be manifestly unfit to have the privilege.

"We have therefore prepared, and submit herewith, an amendment to the Highway law which clothes the Secretary of State with unlimited discretion in respect to determining the initial fitness of an applicant for a license and with respect to the subsequent suspension or revocation of such license if it shall appear that the holder exercises his privilege in such manner as to imperil the public safety.

"Further study has convinced us that granting of the privilege of operation to the family of an owner is not desirable, and that no one should be permitted to drive without a personal license granted after thorough personal test of the applicant's ability safely to operate an auto and of his knowledge of the laws governing such operation.

"To enable the Secretary of State effectively to administer the law with whose enforcement he is charged, it will require a great increase in the number of employes assigned for the purpose indicated, and due provision should be made by the Legislature for that purpose.

"The revenues derivable from drivers' licenses are amply sufficient to provide for these expenses, and, to whatever extent is necessary, such revenues should be made available to provide adequate machinery for enforcement of the law.

"We have prepared an amendment to the city ordinances which gives wide discretion to Magistrates, which discretion may be so used as to permit sufficiently deterrent penalties to be imposed upon any offender to whom, in the judgment of the court, heavy and deterrent penalties should attach."

DR. FINLEY PROLONGS LAST DAY IN OFFICE

Works Till Midnight at Albany—Will Join Times Editorial Staff This Week.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 15.—John H. Finley, who today relinquished his office as State Commissioner of Education, took leave of his staff at noon and then accompanied Acting Commissioner Frank B. Gilbert to the Secretary of State's office, where Dr. Gilbert was sworn in.

Dr. Finley's last day as Commissioner was a busy one. Not only was he called upon to sign many important State papers, but he was also interrupted every few minutes by some one dropping in to say farewell and to wish him success in his new venture.

Dr. Finley said he was going to quit the office at the close of the business day, but he said that he would prolong the day until midnight, not only from force of habit, but from a desire to stay as long as possible, and that he would go to New York between two days, since he would find it difficult to bring himself to leave the Education Building by day.

Dr. Finley has had a conference with Governor Miller and has made recommendations in relation to reducing certain items in the proposed departmental budget for activities temporarily undertaken by the State, but ultimately to be assumed by local authorities. He is rejoiced by assurances of the Governor's sympathy with the maintenance of teachers' salaries at the new level.

On Friday night the men of Dr. Finley's staff gave him a dinner in the course of which State Historian James Sullivan read what purported to be a record of Dr. Finley's activities. It was full of fun for those who listened to its reading and in his reply Dr. Finley made one of his characteristically, good-natured speeches.

Dr. Finley will join the editorial staff of THE NEW YORK TIMES next week. His going has been deferred in order to make it possible for him to finish some departmental work. He has under way a report of the activities of the State Education Department during the war, which was the period of his administration.

SHIP INQUIRIES HERE.

Two Congressional Committees Will Resume Work Tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—A subcommittee of the War Expenditures Committee, consisting of Representatives Frear, Republican, Wisconsin; Jefferis, Republican, Nebraska, and Lea, Democrat, California, will go to New York tomorrow night to resume investigation on Monday into the reconditioning of ships which were used by the War Department as transports.

The committee investigating into the Shipping Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation, of which Representative Walsh, Republican, Massachusetts, is Chairman, will go to New York also to continue the inquiries there on Monday.

REVOLT IN HOUSE IS LED BY SNYDER

New Yorker Resents Power of One Committee to Direct Appropriation Bills.

RIPS UP INDIAN MEASURE

Apprehension Felt That Similar Tactics Will Be Used Against Army and Navy Bills.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Dissatisfaction broke loose in the House today during consideration of the annual Indian Appropriation bill over what was described as the concentration into the hands of one committee of authority to direct all appropriation bills.

The Indian Appropriation bill was riddled, section after section being stricken out on points of order by Representative Snyder, Republican, New York, Chairman of the Indian Affairs Committee, which until this year has annually framed the bill.

A sub-committee of the Appropriations Committee, Representative Snyder contended, had exceeded its authority in recommending appropriations not authorized by existing law. He charged that the sub-committee had attempted to inject new legislation into the bill which, he held, should obtain nothing except out and out appropriations.

Representative Mondell, the Republican leader, championing the cause of Chairman Elston of the sub-committee, attacked Mr. Snyder's methods and charged that he was leading a "post mortem fight on the budget." The power to draw up all appropriation bills, Mr. Mondell said, was given to one committee in the interests of economy and efficiency with the expectation that the budget bill passed by the last session but vetoed by the President would become law.

"Members of the House who voted for the budget," the Republican leader declared, "are now fighting it in an indirect way."

During the debate, which became acrimonious, it was charged by advocates of the new system, that jealousy of chairmen and members of various committees which had lost their power to recommend appropriations was prompting the fight on the bill.

Some members expressed apprehension lest similar tactics by adopted against the naval and army appropriations bill.

To Hold Hearings on Coal Control.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Senator Calder's bill for Federal regulation of the coal industry was given a preliminary examination today by the Senate Manufacturers' Committee, which decided to open hearings on it Tuesday. Coal operators, wholesalers and others interested will have three days for the presentation of evidence, and on Friday the committee will meet in executive session to pass on the measure.

ADVENTISTS ATTACK BLUE LAW MOVEMENT

Memorial Declares Sabbath Keeping Not a Civil Duty, so Congress Should Not Act.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Sunday blue laws are described as an encroachment of civil power into the spiritual realm by a memorial adopted by the General Conference Committee of Seventh Day Adventists, made public at its headquarters here. Opposition to all Sunday laws is declared, particularly to proposed Federal enactments.

Asserting that the complete separation of Church and State was essential to the country's well-being, the memorial declared that failure to recognize this distinction in the past had been the primary cause of religious persecutions. The present "strong organized effort" to obtain blue law enactments, it added, "are destructive both to the Church and the State, however innocent they may appear, and if successful will eventually destroy the pillars upon which our Government is founded."

"Sabbath keeping is not a civil but a religious duty," the memorial declared. "Congress therefore has nothing whatever to do with the question of its observance.

"Only those whose hearts God has changed can truly keep a holy Sabbath. As no legislation by Congress can change the human heart, to make citizens perform a religious act when they are not religious is to enforce hypocrisy by law.

"Honest labor is no more uncivil on Sunday than on Monday. It is only religious prejudices which are disturbed by labor on this day more than on other days. But bolstering of some particular theological dogma and protecting the religious prejudices of citizens is not the business of Congress."

BACKS SUGAR COMPANY.

Palmer Wants Government to Stand Loss on Purchase Made on Request.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Attorney General Palmer and representatives of the American Trading Company, a New York importing concern, appeared today before a Senate committee in support of Senator Wadsworth's bill to have the Federal Sugar Equalization Board distribute and assume liabilities for about 13,000 tons of sugar bought in Argentina by the trading company for the account of the Department of Justice.

The attorney said that by the time the sugar reached this country the famine had been broken and prices had fallen, and that it was not fair that the company, which bought the sugar at the request of the Government, should bear the loss, estimated at about $1,800,000.

Delay Mailing Income Tax Forms.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The sending out of income tax forms for incomes of less than $5,000, a job requiring distribution of more than 5,000,000 copies, has been delayed. It was expected to begin mailing them today. Treasury officials said, but probably they will not be ready before Jan. 25, leaving forty-three days for filling out and filing.

WILL SEEK NEW VOTE ON ARMY REDUCTION

Phelan Serves Notice That He Will Move Reconsideration of Resolution.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Senator Phelan of California gave formal notice to the Senate today of his intention at an early date to move reconsideration of the action of the Senate yesterday in adopting a resolution which, if enacted, will reduce the regular army to an enlisted strength of 150,000 men. The enlisted strength of the army is now about 230,000, and men are enlisting at the rate of more than 1,000 a day.

The notice by Senator Phelan of his intention to move reconsideration automatically acts to keep the resolution in the Senate until the motion to reconsider is disposed of. In the meantime the status of the army remains unchanged, and unless orders are issued by the Secretary of War to discontinue recruiting the recruiting service will keep up its work.

The motion to reconsider is certain to receive strong support, but whether enough votes to pass it can be mustered is a question that friends of the proposition admit they cannot answer.

WANTS STOCK YARD SEIZED.

Government Asks Receiver for Cudahy Plant at Wichita.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Arguments were begun today in the District Supreme Court by Assistant Attorney General Herman J. Galloway on the petition of the Department of Justice for a receiver or holding corporation to seize and sell the stock yard belonging to Cudahy & Co., at Wichita, Kan.

This is the first time the department has come into court with a proposal to carry out the decree of February, which directed the big packers to dispose of their stock yard terminals and stock yard newspapers. Several months after the decree was signed, the department, charging delay and alleged subterfuge by the packers, asked the court to appoint receivers or trustees to seize and sell all the involved holdings of all the packers. The court has since suspended action on this petition.

Mr. Galloway said that the plans of Cudahy & Co. for disposal of their Kansas stock yards were not acceptable to the Government and urged the court to take immediate steps to force their sale.

Messrs. Douglas and Syme, on behalf of the Cudahy interests, held that now was not the proper time for such action, especially since the department has insisted on action by all the packers and had appealed to the courts to bring things to a head.

WANTS ADDRESS BY WILSON.

J. T. Graves Asks Him to Attend Dedication of Lincoln Memorial.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—John Temple Graves, resident Commissioner of the Lincoln Memorial Commission, called today at the White House to ask that President Wilson deliver an address at the dedication of the memorial here in May.

The program is not completed, but is understood to provide for the presentation of the memorial by former President Taft and its reception by President Harding.

If President Wilson is not able to be present, it was hoped he will send a message to be read.

Loan $4,200,000 to Two Railroads.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Payments of loans of $3,759,000 to the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company and $500,000 to the Wheeling & Lake Erie Railway Company from the revolving fund created by the Transportation act, was announced today by the Treasury.

Gooding Takes Senate Seat.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Frank A. Gooding, former Governor of Idaho, took his seat in the Senate today, succeeding Senator Nugent, appointed to the Federal Trade Commission. He was elected for a full term, beginning March 4, and appointed to fill out the present term.

ESTABLISHED 1856

W. H. HALL

FURRIER

18 West 38th Street

NEAR FIFTH AVENUE

These exceptional times demand extraordinary deeds. The House of Hall has never shirked its duty to the public or failed to live up to its reputation.

WE ARE NOW MAKING A GREAT

January Clearance Sale of

OUR ENTIRE STOCK OF

FURS

INCLUDING FUR COATS, WRAPS, SCARFS, STOLES AND MUFFS, ALL OF WHICH ARE OFFERED AT THE MOST

Drastic Price Reductions

EVER MADE IN THE 65 YEARS OF OUR BUSINESS CAREER

All prices have been ruthlessly marked down at least 40% and in many instances to

Half Former Prices

With such Extraordinary Inducements these Offerings become the chance investment of a lifetime, and leave no doubt about Fur selling having been forced down to rock bottom.

Every article has the Price Reduction marked in Plain Figures upon Original price tag

AMONG THE STRIKING FEATURES OF THIS SALE ARE A NUMBER OF

Superfine Hudson Seal Coats and Dolmans

Marked $235 to $475

FORMERLY PRICED AT $450 TO $950.

W. H. HALL, 18 W. 38th St. Telephone Fitz Roy 2707 Formerly 6th Ave. and 22nd St.

Lambert Bros.

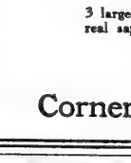
JEWELERS

Your Old Jewelry

Why Not Have It Rebuilt?

OLD JEWELRY which one feels a little backward about bringing out into the open because of its antiquated appearance is virtually lost to the world. If you possess a gem of this kind withdraw it from its hiding place and have it made up-to-date.

Consult Lamberts



Fine large high grade diamond, 20 smaller cut diamonds in all platinum ring..$565

LAMBERTS' skillful designers will take an artist's delight in examining your heirlooms and advising you what can be done with them to make them charm this generation and the next as they did the last.

Lambert Diamonds

LAMBERT DIAMONDS are personally selected in the European markets by a member of the firm and imported without the "aid" of middlemen. Each stone is chosen with an eye to pleasing the discriminating New York buyer.

The Lambert Factory

LAMBERT DIAMONDS are mounted in the Lambert factory on the premises under personal supervision. Only the most expert workmen are employed. All work turned out is of the excellence for which Lambert Brothers are famous.

3 large and 74 small diamonds with trace line of real sapphires set in platinum.....$1,900

Third Avenue
Corner Fifty-Eighth Street

JANUARY INVENTORY

Sale of Antiques

French metal and porcelain flowered Bird Light, formerly $90 pair, Now $50 pair.

A Notable Collection of French Furniture

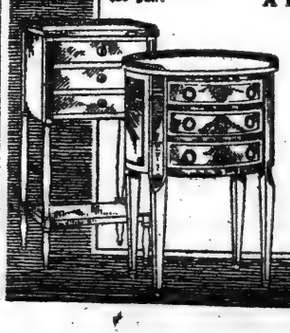
Commodes, Petit Tables, Consoles, Needlework Covered Armchairs, Etc.

At Greater Reductions in prices than have ever been offered heretofore.

A Remarkable opportunity.



Oval Louis XVI. Commode, satinwood inlay, bronze mounts, marble top, height 30½ in.; formerly $175. NOW $85

Louis XVI. Commode, rosewood, marble top, bronze gallery, formerly $135. NOW $60

LANS

514 MADISON AVE. (53d St.)

Branch: 466 Madison Ave. (47th St.)

J.M. Gidding & Co.

564-566 AND 568 Fifth Avenue. 46TH AND 47TH STS.

Midwinter Sales—before inventory

Values that have filled our salons with the largest number of pleased patrons in our history.

When many talked of lowered costs and replacement prices they were in effect here.

We have not in many years been able to give so much intrinsic worth for so little.

Half former costs* rule in most instances, and less than half in others.

Evening Gowns and Day Dresses

Formerly $125 to $295 at $55---$75---$95---$125

For dinner and evening wear; of chiffon velvet, metallic brocades, embroidered and beaded chiffons, real laces, soft crepe satins and other rich materials. Handsome cloth styles of tricotine, duvetyn and velvet.

Handsome Evening Wraps

Formerly $250 to $950 at $125---$165 to $495

Of rich chiffon velvets and gorgeous metallic brocades in plain or combination effects with rich trimmings of ermine, fox, mole and other luxurious furs.

Fur-Trimmed Day Coats

Formerly $175 to $350 at $95---$125 to $195

Full wrap-coats and attractive straightline effects, fashioned of duvetyn, velour, peach-bloom, bolivia and other fashionable materials, with mole, seal, squirrel, opossum and beaver.

Smart Fur-Trimmed Suits

Formerly $125 to $450 at $75---$95---$125 to $195

Trig two-piece tailored effects and elaborate three-piece costume styles, fashioned of the season's most desirable materials and enriched with trimmings of such furs as mole, seal, squirrel, beaver and opossum.

Luxurious Fur Coats and Wraps at about half and less than half usual prices as for example:

MINK

$6500 Handsome Coat Wrap..$2500
$4250 Choice Wrap Coat.....$1950

ERMINE

$4500 Beautiful Wrap.....$2500
(Paquin model)

ALASKA SEAL

$2150 Exquisite Wrap.....$975
$1050 Choice Coat.....$675
(36 inches length)

SQUIRREL

$1950 Natural Dark Wrap....$975
$1650 Natural Coat Wrap.....$875

MOLE

$1250 Scotch Mole Coat.....$625
$ 850 Short Novelty Cape....$295

KOLINSKY

$2250 Rich Coat Wrap.....$975

HUDSON SEAL

$1050 Full length Cape.....$550
$1250 Choice Cape.....$595
$ 850 Cape Wrap.....$395
(40 inches length)
$1350 Cape Wrap.....$675
(Foreign dyed skins)
$975 Handsome Wrap.....$500
$750 to $850 Hudson Seal Day Coats and Short Day Wraps..$395
(Plain or Beaver and Skunk trimmed)

NUTRIA

$395 Natural Coatee.....$185
$650 Short Wrap Coat.....$295
$850 Beaver Day Coat.....$550

Y WILSON.

n to Attend Memorial.

—John Temple sioner of the sion, called to- to ask that an address at morial here in npleted, but is the presenta- former Presi- n by President not able to be e will send a ve Railroads. Payments of Chesapeake & 1 $500,000 to Railway fund cre- ct, was an- ...ry.

ize Steer ...Frank A. f Idaho, took ...succeeding ...to the Fed- ...was elected ...March 4, and ...t term.

ns

ed

ich nrs.

ses

125

ed and he cloth

95 effects

5

peach- m and

95 ned of mole.

$975

$550 $595 $395

$675

$500

$395 ned)

$185 $295 $550

GALLI-CURCI WEDS HER ACCOMPANIST

"Happy," Says Prima Donna, After Her Marriage to Homer Samuels at Pianist's Home.

UNDER THE AMERICAN FLAG

No Music at Ceremony Attended by Family and Concert Company—Soprano's Rise to Fame.

Special to The New York Times.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 15.—Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci, coloratura soprano, and Homer Samuels, pianist and composer and accompanist, were married at noon today. At an altar of ferns and roses in an arch draped with an American flag their wedding vows were said before the Rev. Harry P. Dewey, pastor of Plymouth Congregational Church, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Samuels, Mr. Samuels's parents, at Edgebrook in St. Louis Park, Minneapolis. Simplicity characterized the marriage ceremony. In accordance with their wishes, there was no music, and only members of the Samuels family and members of their concert company witnessed the ceremony.

Mme. Galli-Curci wore a wedding dress of pink satin silk, trimmed with lace and ostrich fan. She carried an arm bouquet of orchids. They were unattended at the altar. The ceremony was solemnized with a ring completing the "circle of love." It was handed first to the bride by her fiancé, then to Dr. Dewey, who returned it to Mr. Samuels. He placed it upon the finger of his bride at the words "with this ring I thee wed."

At the Samuels home it was a double anniversary. Thirty-six years ago today Mr. Samuels's parents were married. Thirty-two years ago today Mr. Samuels and his twin brother, Dr. Harvey P. Samuels, were born.

Telegrams of congratulation came today to Mr. and Mrs. Homer Samuels from friends throughout the world. Among them was one from Mary Garden, new Director of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, under whose management Mme. Galli-Curci will sing in an Eastern grand opera engagement.

The couple spent a happy afternoon with letters and telegrams today, opening messages from their friends and admiring wedding gifts that came from friends everywhere.

"Of course I am happy," said Mme. Galli-Curci, following her wedding. "Who wouldn't be happy, for I have married the man I love. He is, too, a great artist. All the world is before us. Together we will work hard to give back to the world what we may of art for the good things it has given to us."

Amelita Galli-Curci has been a conspicuous figure before the American music public since she first appeared in the concert hall of the Chicago Auditorium, where she made her début in the operatic field in a popular-price Saturday night performance in "Rigoletto," on Nov. 18, 1916, and the singer woke up next morning to find herself famous. It happened to be the twenty-second anniversary of her birth, which was in 1889 at Milan.

Meanwhile, who was a friend of her father, a Milan banker, encouraged Galli-Curci to adopt a stage career, she made her début at the Costanzi Theatre, Rome, in 1910, as Gilda in Verdi's "Rigoletto." She was married on Feb. 2 of the same year to Luigi Curci, an Italian Marquis and painter, from whom she was divorced last year. Galli-Curci sang in opera at Cairo, Barcelona and Mexico City, Naples, Petrograd and finally Buenos Aires, where she appeared with Caruso. Coming from South America to New York, she made her sensational success in the West, followed nearly two years later by her New York début at the Lexington, on Jan. 28, 1918, in Meyerbeer's "Dinorah."

Homer Samuels, the bridegroom of yesterday's wedding, has for some years acted as Mme. Galli-Curci's piano accompanist on her concert tours.

OPERA IN TWO THEATRES.

Metropolitan Stars Sing 'Trovatore' Here and 'Tosca' in Brooklyn.

The Metropolitan stars gave opera in two theatres last evening, singing "Trovatore" for the first time this season on Broadway, and "Tosca" in Brooklyn for subscribers who were turned away from the Academy there when Caruso became ill during a performance of "Elisir d'Amore" in December. Florence Easton, a new Gilda in "Rigoletto" last month, with Mario Chamlee and Scotti, included "Tosca" in her repertoire, but on Monday evening, after making those engaged in Metropolitan work very Peralta, Mardones, Kingston, Danise and Martin and Didur Eagle's distribution of double casts, was compelled, while the Gilda singers were limited, the larger number being required on the home stage.

Alfred Mirovitch, Pianist, Plays.

Alfred Mirovitch, who has appeared as pianist at the Hippodrome and in Carnegie Hall, gave a matinee recital yesterday at Aeolian Hall, introduced by Schumann's "Carnival" pieces and other music of the more intimate sort. Mr. Mirovitch left the stage midway in a group from Mendelssohn, Greig and Chopin and when he later gave as encores Chopin's E flat waltz and E minor nocturne, his audience, thinking the recital over, started to leave the hall. It discovered its mistake as the pianist gave a second with an étude of Rubinstein and two little pieces of his own, "Spring Song" and "Humoresque," as well as the showy "Rakoczy March" in Liszt's version.

Throng at Art Museum Free Concert

Between 7,000 and 8,000 persons filled many corridors and halls of the Metropolitan Art Museum last night at the second of the free concerts given there by an orchestra directed by David Mannes. The concerts will continue on Saturday nights this month and again during March. Last evening's program included operatic music from "The Prophet," "Oberon" and "The Master Singers," followed by Grieg's "Peer Gynt," Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony" and Tchaikovsky's "Slavic March."

Benefit for Italian War Orphans.

Rafael Diaz of the Metropolitan and Nokika Hara, a Japanese soprano heard with the San Carlo singers at the Manhattan, were among those appearing last evening at an Aeolian Hall benefit for war orphans of San Cataldo, Italy. There was a large audience, which listened to the long program arranged by Emilio Roxas, including solos also by Miss La Gambina, Leon Carson and Manolito Funes.

Nan Christy, Film Actress, Weds.

Miss Nan Christy, a motion picture actress, and Ted Thiele of this city, were married yesterday by Justice of Peace Albert S. Mead in Greenwich, Conn., after motoring up from New York. Miss Christy has been associated with the Broadwell Production Company in the Nick Carter series of photoplays.

PICK PANSIES IN MONTCLAIR.

Dandelions Also Bloom as Mild Weather Encourages Early Flowers.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Jan. 15.—The mild weather is proving an aid to horticulture in Montclair. A. H. Loomis of 18 Princeton Place has been picking pansies in his garden. The flowers are of the yellow and dark varieties.

A resident of North Mountain Avenue picked dandelions from her lawn.

THE OPERA

By Richard Aldrich

LOUISE, musical romance in four acts and five scenes, with book in French as well as music by Gustave Charpentier. At the Metropolitan Opera House.

Louise	Geraldine Farrar
Julien	Orville Harrold
The Father	Clarence Whitehill
The Mother	Louise Berat
Irma	Raymonde Delaunois
An Errand Girl	Mary Ellis
Gertrude	Flora Perini
Camille	Elfén Daloasy
The Forewoman	Gladys Axman
A Noctambulist, and King of the Fools	Rafaelo Diaz
A Street Arab	Mary Ellis
Bird Food Vendor	Mary Mellish
A Rag Picker	Paolo Ananian
Artichoke Vendor	Marie Sundelius
A Milk Woman	Minnie Egener
A Junkman	Louise D'Angelo
Old Clothes Man	Angelo Bada

Other characters by Anne Roselle, Alice Miriam, Marie Tiffany, Edna Kellogg, Frances Ingram, Margaret Farnam, Cecil Arden, Marion Telva, Robert Leonhardt, Pompilio Malatesta, Millo Picco, Mario Laurenti, Giordano Paltrinieri, Vincenzo Reschiglian, Pietro Audisio, Georges Barates. Conductor, Albert Wolff.

For the first time Charpentier's opera of "Louise" was given at the matinee performance at the Metropolitan Opera House yesterday. The audience was very large and full of curiosity and interest to witness a performance in which Mme. Farrar made her first appearance as the wayward heroine, and Messrs. Harrold and Whitehill and Mme. Bérat took the other leading parts. It was apparently pleased with the results and was liberal in its applause.

"Louise" has, of course, been well known to New York operagoers for twelve years, ever since the first production by Mr. Hammerstein at the Manhattan Opera House with a notable cast—Miss Garden, Messrs. Dalmores and Gilibert and Mme. Bressler-Gianoli. It had numerous performances in the four years of Mr. Hammerstein's operatic experience, and it has been heard since in New York from the visiting Chicago Opera Company. So the adoption of "Louise" into the repertory of the Metropolitan Opera Company is not so momentous an event as it might have been ten or a dozen or fifteen years ago.

It was thought by the guiding spirits of the Metropolitan Opera House in the years immediately following the first success of "Louise" in Paris in 1900 that the opera was too local, too restricted in its interests, too "Parisian" to please a New York audience. How mistaken this idea was the recent operatic history of this city has demonstrated. Whether New York knows its Paris better than the guiding spirits supposed or whether the "Parisian" note of the opera is only a detail overlying an appeal much wider than the municipal limits of the French capital does not much matter. The fundamental idea, pathetic and tragic, of Charpentier's opera is universal; it is expressed in a guise purely local. It has made a full appeal of its appeal to a widely extended interest and sympathy, and no doubt a substantial addition to that record will be made at the Metropolitan Opera House.

And yet it occurred to some that the musical substance of "Louise" was beginning to show signs of age and of the touch of time. It never seemed, even on first hearing, that the music had a strong fibre of originality. It leans too much on Wagner, on Gounod, on some of the Italians who were young when "Louise" was; and Charpentier is another in the list of those who corroborate Romain Rolland's sage observation in "Jean Christophe" that every Frenchman has a little of Massenet in the bottom of his heart.

If the music shows signs of age, under such circumstances, it can hardly excite surprise. The ingenuity of the composer in his thematic developments, his orchestration, often rich, and in his application of local color, can still command admiration. The street cries that are heard at the close of the second act are used with skill and suggestiveness—though the idea is far from being original with Charpentier, and to find the first germ of it the student would have to turn far back in his musical history. In such scenes as that of the vivacious chatter of the dressmaker's girls in the second act Charpentier has found plenty of expedients.

The scene at Julien's home on the slope of Montmartre, including Louise's air, "Depuis le Jour," which has become popular on the concert stage (the only air in the opera that is adapted to gain such popularity), the glorification of Paris, is, in a way, the keynote of the whole. It is indeed the germ from which the opera was developed, and was composed first, as a piece by itself. It seems now, however, to be only a picturesque episode added to the local color, though Charpentier has accumulated in it all his resources to make an imposing effect. It was presented yesterday with brilliancy and animation.

The more vital scenes in the drama, in which the composer has developed the lines of emotion, rather than the elucidation and illustration of picturesque incidents, are the last act, in which Louise returns to her parents only to tear her father's heart with anguish and incite him to drive her out; and, to a less degree, the exposition of the situation, what Henry James used to call the "donnée" in the first act. He has been successful in his musical interpretation in the first act, considerably less so in the poignant conflict of passions in the last, where the music does not rise to the height of the situation.

The performance was one that reflected credit on the management in many respects. An enormous cast was required, which in the main was effectively filled. Of course Mme. Farrar's impersonation of the heroine was looked for with interest and curiosity. It is the kind of part that is well adapted to her. She makes it an interesting and characteristic study, with special power in the last act, in the conflict with her father. As to how far she reproduces the essential nature and emotions of the Parisian girl that Charpentier drew, there may be some question. It may confidently be expected, however, that Mme. Farrar will elaborate and intensify the impersonation that she disclosed yesterday, as she has so often done with so many of her parts.

Julien is no strongly marked or characterized figure in the opera; Mr. Harrold made a plausible exposition of it and sang the music with sufficient ardor and vocal power. Much more talked and characterized is that of the unnamed father, the most sympathetic and appealing personage of the opera. He was well represented by Mr. Whitehill, with a full suggestion of the bonhomie and affection, and then of the despairing pathos of the final scene, and with an excellent delivery of the music; though memories of the genial and poignant impersonation of Charles Gilibert would not down. And Mme. Louise Bérat gave an admirable representation of the unsympathetic mother.

The rest of the cast, which looks like a roster of the Metropolitan company, was in various degrees capable. Mr. Wolff conducted, and made the performance move with life and dramatic energy.

The stage settings were appropriate and as true to the scenes represented as may be expected, especially the street at the foot of Montmartre and the view of Paris from the slope of that eminence, in the sunset light, then illuminated as the dusk comes on. The chorus in the scene at Julien's house was vigorous; the bustling crowd and its merrymaking were well depicted. The vivacious chattering and antics of the seamstresses in the dressmaking establishment, a difficult ensemble, were also successfully carried out.

Josef Hofmann's Recital.

A recital by Mr. Josef Hofmann is necessary a notable event in the musical season, no matter how crowded it is with matters of the first magnitude. He appeared for the first time this season in Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon, when the hall was filled to its utmost capacity. Mr. Hofmann showed the artist's feeling by putting a stop to the growing practice of filling the space on the stage behind the piano with listeners unable to find seats where listeners are expected to sit—a practice that is no doubt likely to disturb the complete freedom of the player.

Mr. Hofmann made his program entirely of the music of Schumann. Not every composer can meet the test therein implied so well as he; not many can supply matter so varied in spirit, mood and in actual musical texture, and thus sustain the interest and engross the listener's attention unfalteringly. Mr. Hofmann's playing had all the magnificence of power, the wonderful rhythmic pulse, the infinite gradation of tone in quality, tint and dynamic nuance and the larger qualities of soaring imagination, sympathetic discernment of the composer's meaning and the great interpreter's power of reproducing it. His technique is of a sort that knows hardly an equal; the fact that yesterday he on a very few occasions struck notes other than he intended may have been a comfort to lesser men, but it did not obscure the passion for perfection which is one of the underlying bases of his art.

He began with the "Etudes Symphoniques" of which his performance had the bigness of conception, the grandiose power that are essential to their true interpretation; also the bravura that belongs to some of the variations, and the intimate poesy of some of the others, notably of the next to the last, in which two voices in the right hand hold exquisite converse over the murmuring accompaniment of the left.

This was balanced by the "Carnival" at the end of the program. Mr. Hofmann's interpretation of this marvelous vista of imagination, gracious fancy, poetry and humor is well remembered, and exhibits a constant play of all the qualities that Schumann so richly embodied in his music. Between these two chief numbers he played a series of smaller pieces, "Des Abends" and "In der Nacht," from the "Fantasiestücke," the romance in F Sharp; the "Vogel als Prophet," from the "Waldscenen" and Tausig's transcription of "The Contrabandist."

After the printed list that was played Mr. Hofmann added innumerable encores, to the unending delight of his audience.

SAYS FRANCIS BACON WAS ELIZABETH'S SON

Mrs. von Kuhnow Tells German Savants He and Essex Were Her Children by Dudley.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—Before a large circle of literary and scientific men and women at Weimar Mrs. Anna Deventer von Kuhnow, described as a writer and historian and some years ago a practicing physician in New York, expounded an entirely new and highly sensational theory regarding the personality of Sir Francis Bacon, whom many Germans believe to have been the author of the dramas attributed to Shakespeare.

She said that she had had access to the secret archives of the new Record Office in London and with her own eyes had read documents which had hitherto been carefully hidden and finally almost forgotten, but had recently been rediscovered. According to these documents, she says, Queen Elizabeth was married to Robert Dudley Jan. 31, 1561, in Lord Pembroke's house, in the presence of several witnesses. The same day the Queen was delivered of a son, who it was decided by the royal mother and the bridegroom should be killed.

But Anna Bacon, wife of Nicholas Bacon, afterward Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, begged so touchingly to be allowed to keep the baby that Elizabeth consented, very reluctantly, on the Bacons' oath never to reveal the secret of the child's parentage. Later, however, a rumor of these occurrences spread in Court circles and was traced to a certain lady-in-waiting, who with sixteen other garrulous members of the Court, was executed.

Elizabeth's boy grew up in the Bacon family, who had named him Francis, and when he was 16 accidentally discovered the secret of his parentage. When Elizabeth heard this she sent him away from England, appointing the sixteen-year-old boy Secretary to the British Ambassador at the French Court, where Francis remained until recalled to England by the death of his foster-father in 1579.

Mrs. von Kuhnow further stated that she had seen all the documents concerning the Bacon family at about that time, but had found no record of the birth of Francis. In his "Minerva Britannia," printed in 1612, Bacon in a cipher repeatedly referred to himself as a prince, the heir to the throne and Elizabeth's first-born, said Mrs. von Kuhnow, and she asserted that Francis Bacon's correspondence with his foster-brother, Anthony Bacon, also contained much evidence of his real parentage.

The lecturer assured her audience that the same secret archives in London contained evidence that Robert, Earl of Essex, whom Elizabeth had executed, was her second son by Dudley.

CONGRATULATE GIBBONS.

Many Telegrams Express Joy at News of Cardinal's Improvement.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 15.—Cardinal Gibbons's physician and the clergy of his household are convinced that his return to the beloved surroundings of his Baltimore home has had a revivifying effect upon the aged prelate, although he is still in a very debilitated conditton. There is no organic disease, but a general weakening of the vital organs due to age.

Many messages arrive inquiring as to the state of his health and congratulating him upon his improvement.

"All America is praying fervently for the return of your Eminence to good health," said Cardinal O'Connell of Boston in his message; and from Archbishop Mundelein of Chicago came these congratulations:

"I need hardly assure your Eminence that we are gratified by the news that your Eminence is rapidly recovering your former strength. Nor need I caution you that the old Roman adage, 'Cha va piano va sano' is particularly true when one has arrived at the advanced age of 86 years."

Major Gen. Leonard Wood wrote to the Cardinal from Fort Sheridan, Ill., as follows:

"Dear Cardinal Gibbons: I cannot tell you how delighted I am to know that you are on the high road to recovery. I trust that you will soon be again in your usual good health. Your friends all over the country have been filled with deep anxiety at the report of your serious indisposition. I am sure I voice the feelings of all when I tell you that I am delighted to receive the good reports from the press in the last few days.

"With kindest regards and best wishes, LEONARD WOOD."

Every day the Cardinal, accompanied by one or more priests, is wheeled into the Cathedral and remains some time in prayer before the high altar.

SIX LINERS DEPART.

Many Tourists Sail to Winter in South of France and Egypt.

Six liners sailed yesterday for European ports with well-filled cabins, their lists including a large number of Americans going to winter in the south of France and Egypt.

Irving Bush sailed on the White Star liner Celtic for Liverpool to look after the terminal building he is having constructed in London. Another passenger was the Rt. Rev. William M. Overs, Episcopal Bishop of Liberia, with $83,800 raised here for the maintenance of mission schools and hospitals.

On the Red Star liner Finland for Plymouth, Cherbourg and Antwerp were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tod, Major E. M. Watson, Miss Grace Miller, G. M. Dyatt and T. F. Ritchie.

In addition to Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, the passengers on the Cunarder Kaiserin Victoria for Liverpool, Cherbourg and Antwerp were Lieut. Col. E. G. Cape and Joseph de Wyckoff. The Anchor liner Columbia had a good crowd of passengers for Moville, Ireland and Glasgow, and the King Alexander for Piraeus carried a number of wealthy Greeks going home to attend the celebrations in Athens on the return of King Constantine.

The Cunarder Caronia had tourists for a Mediterranean cruise.

Stern Brothers

West 42nd Street (Between 5th and 6th Avenues) West 43rd Street

Savings of Most Liberal Proportions in Our ANNUAL JANUARY SALE of High-Grade Furniture

Recent Price Adjustments on our entire stock of Furniture enable us to present such decisive value-giving as would make immediate purchasing worth-while.

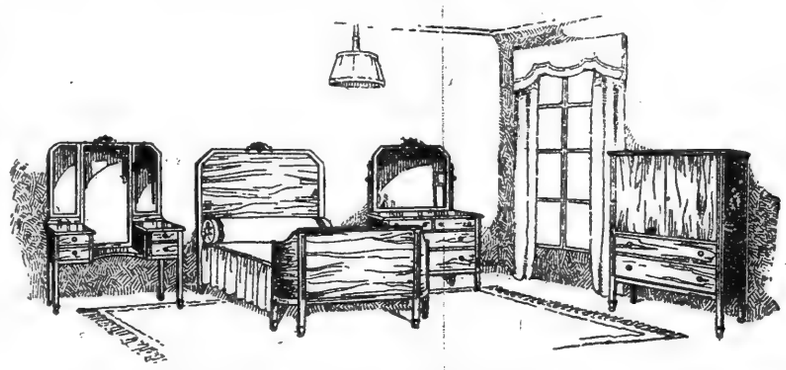
DINING ROOM SUITE, 10 pcs. (as illustrated); in Old Mahogany finish; Heppelwhite design; 66 in. Buffet, 40 in. China Closet, 54 in. Round Extension Table, Side Table, 5 Side Chairs and Arm Chair; seats upholstered in leather; formerly $790.00, $550.00

DINING ROOM SUITES

	Formerly	Reduced to
Mahogany Suite, 10 pcs., Queen Anne design,	$1000.00	$650.00
Mahogany Suite, 10 pcs., Adam design,	534.00	395.00
Walnut Suite, 10 pcs., Louis XVI. design,	691.00	475.00
Mahogany Suite, 10 pcs., Queen Anne design,	651.00	435.00
Mahogany Suite, 10 pcs., Louis XVI. design,	815.00	595.00
Mahogany Suite, 10 pcs., Heppelwhite design,	1500.00	1095.00

LIVING ROOM FURNITURE

	Formerly	Reduced to
3 piece Suite upholstered in Velour,	$650.00	$487.50
3 pc. Mahogany and Cane Suite covered in Damask,	465.00	348.75
3 piece Suite in Damask, Velour or Tapestry,	500.00	250.00
3 piece Suite upholstered in Tapestry,	535.00	395.00
Fireside Wing Chairs, in Tapestry or Velour,	75.00	45.00
3 piece Rattan Suite upholstered in Cretonne,	152.00	76.00



CHAMBER SUITE of American Walnut or Mahogany, including Bow End Bed, large Bureau, Chifforobe and Vanity Case; four pieces, as illustrated. Regularly $605. Sale price, $395.00

CHAMBER FURNITURE

	Formerly	Reduced to
American Walnut Suite, 4 pcs,	$720.00	$475.00
Mahogany Suite, 4 pieces,	435.00	326.25
American Walnut Suite, 3 pieces,	565.00	395.00
American Walnut Suite, 4 pieces,	460.00	345.00
Mahogany Chamber Suite, 5 pieces,	1675.00	1150.00
Mahogany Four Post Colonial Beds,	75.00	55.00
Simplex Day Bed Frames, any finish,	45.00	29.75

REGULAR SEMI-ANNUAL

SALE

Women's High Shoes

2000 Pairs at much less than we paid for them.

Buttoned and laced. Cuban and French heels. Choice of many styles. Finest quality obtainable. All sizes.

Previously $15 to $20 — 10.00 — A Pair, No Tax

EVERY SALE FINAL—NONE RETURNABLE

Low Shoes and Slippers Proportionately Reduced

Exceptional Reductions on Hosiery, Buckles and Accessories.

ALFRED A. KOHN

505 Fifth Ave., at 42d St.

RECEIVER'S SALE

UNDER ORDER OF U. S. DISTRICT COURT.—MEZZOTINTS, ETCHINGS AND NOVELTY FURNITURE AND GIFT GOODS, MIRRORS, LAMPS AND SHADES.

MUST BE SOLD REGARDLESS OF COST. ROBERT W. B. ELLIOTT, RECEIVER OF ADOLPH DE JONG, INC., COLUMBUS AVENUE AT EIGHTY-SIXTH STREET.

Only One to Each Purchaser

Coty's L'Origan Extract

$6.25

(Includes Tax)

Coty's Face Powder, 55c.

La Blache Face Powder, 60c.

Powders which do not clog the pores $1.00

A Berexa Treatment renews and protects beauty. A full line of the most celebrated preparations includes:

MA BELLE instantaneous NAIL POLISH, also newest Parisian Transformation with invisible parts.

MADAM FRIED,

21 West 34th St.,

New York City.

Smallest Grand $750

Only 4 Feet 8 In. High

THE great volume of our business on Grands has given us the leadership in the sale of Grands and gives you the advantage of consistently low price.

Come and see the Opera Grand in our room specially designed to show you how little space it requires.

Smallest Reproducing Grand $1900

Payments Arranged

MATHUSHEK

37 West 37th Street

Telephone Fitz Roy 976-977

HAMILTON'S

Every Fall and Winter Style in Coats, Suits and Dresses Reduced Exactly One-Half!

$20 Dresses Now $10

1200 Dresses in Tricotines, Serges, Jerseys, Tricolettes, Georgettes, Satins

Some as Low as $8.50

$50 Coats Now $25

1000 Coats in Bolivias, Polo Cloths, Silvertones, Velours, Many with Fur Collars

Some as Low as $12.50

Not all sizes in every style, but a variety of styles in each size.

Style illustrated All Wool French Serge. Sold in our Catalog for $21.95 Now $10

No Mail Orders, C. O. D.'s, Refunds or Exchanges.

HAMILTON GARMENT CO.,

307 FIFTH AVENUE, Near 31st St.

Footwear of Refinement

Semi-Annual SALE

Women's Button and Lace BOOTS

Formerly Priced $18.00 to $26.00

NOW

$10.55 Including Tax

Shown in Buckskin, Kidskin, Patent Leather and combinations with Cuban and French heels.

No Exchanges
No Charges
No C. O. D.'s

An especially interesting group of high and low shoes consisting of a wide assortment of styles and materials, on sale at $8.50

Sizes Incomplete

LIVINGSTON

2293 Broadway, at 83rd St.

JOCK SOUTAR TAKES COURT TENNIS FINAL

Philadelphian Defeats Fairs in Hard-Fought Match Requiring Five Sets.

GOULD WILL MEET WINNER

New Yorker to Defend Title as American Open Champion in Quaker City This Week.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—Jock Soutar of the Philadelphia Racquet Club defeated C. J. " Punch " Fairs of New York in the final round of the national open court tennis tournament here today 3 sets to 2. The score was 6—5, 5—6, 5—6, 6—4, 6—2.

Fairs put up a wonderful fight against his younger and more active opponent. His court strategy was beautiful to watch, his service was always puzzling, his stroking amazingly consistent and some of his " gets " bordered on the marvelous.

Soutar had several lucky breaks when he met the ball while off the balance and yet found the dedans or the grille for an ace. Once Soutar hit the ball from behind his back as it was whizzing between his legs, and to the astonishment of the gallery banged it into the grille.

Winner to Meet Gould.

On points earned by hard work, clever generalship and accurate placing Fairs had the edge, but Soutar's harder hitting, greater stamina and court-covering ability, plus luck, gave him the honors and qualified him to meet Jay Gould for the open championship of the United States at the Racquet Club next Wednesday and Friday.

Soutar started by winning four of the first five games, and it looked as if he would romp away with the match, but Fairs, in the sixth game, came to life, won two in a row, and, though he dropped the eighth after deuce had been called twice, came back and won two more, both keenly contested struggles with deuce called three times. Fairs dropped the racquet at the critical moment in the final game of the set, however, and lost this, costing him the frame by a 6-5 score.

Fairs Takes the Lead.

Fairs won handily in the second set, 6 to 3, and rose to his greatest heights in the third set. After losing the first game he rallied and collected the next three. Then he dropped two long drawn out, hard fought deuce games. The next game was a bitter struggle, but Fairs finally won out by some perfect playing after deuce had been called four times. Soutar won the next two, making the score 5 to 4 in his favor, but Fairs braced once more, pulled the tenth game out of the fire by some wonderful stroking and then took the eleventh game and the set by 6 to 5.

The fourth set was a ding-dong affair, with Soutar coming from behind with the score standing 4-all, winning the next two after a desperate grapple and the set by 6 to 4. Fairs weakened in the fifth and final set, taking only two games.

The point score:

FIRST SET.
Soutar ....2 4 4 4 4 2 2 6 5 5 4—41 6
Fairs ......5 0 6 2 0 4 4 4 7 7 1—40 5

SECOND SET.
Fairs ....4 4 4 4 8 2 4 5 1—39 6
Soutar ....2 2 2 1 6 4 6 7 1—31 3

THIRD SET.
Fairs .....5 4 4 5 8 6 8 2 1 7 4—54 6
Soutar ....7 1 2 3 10 8 6 4 4 5 1—51 5

FOURTH SET.
Soutar ......2 4 5 0 4 3 5 2 6 6—37 6
Fairs ....4 0 3 4 2 5 3 4 4 4—33 4

FIFTH SET.
Soutar ....4 4 2 4 4 4 3 4—29 6
Fairs ....2 2 4 2 1 2 5 1—19 2

CASINO WINS NET TOURNEY.

Brooklyn Outfit Captures Indoor Event in One Day of Play.

In the first dual tennis meet of the indoor season the team of the Heights Casino, Brooklyn, met the Seventh Regiment Tennis Club players yesterday on the former's courts. The Brooklyn players won five straight victories out of a total of six singles and three doubles matches for the meet. The matches played were three singles and two doubles. Brooklyn therefore won the meet with the five out of a possible nine matches, but the remaining ones are to be played today, regardless of that fact.

The Heights Casino players had things very much their own way throughout, as only one of the five matches played yesterday went for more than two straight sets, and that exception was afforded in the match between W. J. Gallen and George G. Moore.

The summary:

SINGLES—Dean Mathey defeated F. T. Anderson, 6—4, 6—3; H. F. Parker defeated W. D. Cunningham, 8—6, 6—0; W. J. Gallen defeated George G. Moore, 6—2, 1—6, 6—3.

DOUBLES—Dean Mathey and H. F. Parker defeated F. T. and F. C. Anderson, 6—3, 6—3; Fred Major and Hugh Kelleher defeated George G. Moore and Merritt Cutler, 6—2, 8—6.

TO APPLY FOR TOURNEYS.

West Side Tennis Club Anxious to Conduct Title Events.

The West Side Tennis Club, which held the Davis Cup matches in 1913 and 1914 and the national championships from 1915 on, will probably make application again this year for championship events. At a meeting of the Board of Governors, held last week, it was decided to recommend to the club for action at the annual meeting on Jan. 21 that the West Side club apply to the U. S. L. T. A. for such championship events as the association may care to award the club during the season of 1921.

The West Side organization will, however, only make a bid for the title events. It will not make a fight for them. It is the policy of the club that the association should send the championship tourneys wherever the holding of the matches will do most good for the game of tennis in America. In view of West Side's record in these events it is, however, the belief of members that the New York club stands an excellent chance of being awarded one of the season's plums.

U. S. RACQUETERS WIN.

Frelinhuysen and Mortimer Take Canadian Doubles Title.

MONTREAL, Jan. 15.—F. T. Frelinghuysen and S. G. Mortimer, New York, won the Canadian doubles racquet championship here today by defeating A. C. Cassils and A. W. Wilson, Montreal, by scores of 4—15, 18—13, 15—11, 15—10, 15—12.

In the semi-finals for the singles championship, C. C. Pell, United States titleholder, defeated Mortimer in three successive games, 15—8, 15—5, 15—8.

H. Dickson, Chicago, defeated H. Linn, Chicago, 12—15, 15—11, 10—15 15—10, 15—11. Pell will play Dickson in the finals tomorrow.

SIGMAN LEAVES LAFAYETTE.

Graduate Manager of Athletics Resigns College Post.

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Pa., Jan. 15.—George A. Sigman's resignation as graduate manager of Lafayette College athletes went into effect today. He left tonight for his new home in Philadelphia.

According to announcement made by David B. Skillman, Secretary of the Board of Trustees, a successor to Mr. Sigman has not been selected. The job may be held open until the Summer months, the undergraduate managers and the college bursar handling the various sport activities the remainder of the college year.

Americans Win Two of Three Tennis Matches in Australia

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 15.—In the third meeting of the American lawn tennis players in their series of matches with the Australians the Americans today won two out of three matches. In the singles Gerald F. Patterson, Australia, defeated William M. Johnston, California, 6—2, 4—6, 6—4. William T. Tilden of Philadelphia beat Norman E. Brookes, Australia, 6—1, 6—4. In the doubles Johnston and Captain Watson M. Washburn, the American pair, defeated Patrick O'Hara Wood and J. B. Hawkes, Australia, 5—7, 6—3, 4—6, 6—2, 6—3.

WESTERN GOLF BODY POSTPONES ITS WAR

Defers for One Year Action on Proposal to Separate From the U. S. G. A.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—The Western Golf Association at its annual meeting tonight decided to defer for one year, or until the next special meeting, action on the proposal to change the name to the American Golf Association and to adopt a new constitution.

This action was taken on the motion of Vice-President A. R. Gates, who explained that at recent conferences with directors of the United States Golf Association the latter body promised to grant several concessions to avoid a contention over control of golf in the United States. He said the U. S. G. A. had increased its Directors from nine to thirteen, six of whom would represent various golf associations, the four added Directors coming from Western clubs. The U. S. G. A. also had promised to revise the rules of golf to an American standard, he said, and to make all allied member clubs active members provided that 50 per cent. of the allied clubs voted to become active.

The motion was seconded by James E. Nugent of Kansas City, Mo., a Director, who said that the U. S. G. A. had arranged for a committee to come from England and Scotland as soon as possible to confer on further changes in the rules obtained last Summer by the American committee that went to St. Andrews, which, he said, were not satisfactory.

Mr. Nugent said it was expected that within a year an entirely new code for golf would be agreed on and that while it would not change the game, it would codify the laws of golf in such a way as to avoid disputes and discontent.

In recommending that action be deferred, the representatives of the W. G. A. clubs were told that the U. S. G. A., having passed into the hands of younger men, had asserted its willingness to do anything reasonable to make the game more democratic and to satisfy the demands of Western clubs for active voice in the control of the sport.

Speakers asserted that it would be only fair to give the U. S. G. A. the chance to work out the plans promised at recent conferences, and the motion carried by a viva voce vote.

Officers and directors headed by President Wilbur F. Brookes of Cleveland were re-elected.

The amateur championship tournament was awarded to the Westmoreland Club of Chicago and the dates set were July 18-23. The course and dates for the western open and the junior championship will be selected later by the Board of Directors.

PLAN OPEN TOURNAMENT.

Michigan Golf Associations Combine for Big Event in August.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 15.—The Michigan State Golf Association and the Detroit District Golf Association today announced plans to join forces next Summer and stage an open tournament which would carry both the State and Detroit district championships. By combining forces it is expected the association would be able to offer purses that will attract the country's best professionals.

The event probably will be held at the Lochmoor Club in August, just prior to the State amateur tournament.

RALLY SAVES TIGER FIVE.

Princeton Plays Uphill Game and Beats Stevens, 30 to 27.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan 15.—Princeton's rejuvenated basketball team had a close call with Stevens here tonight, winning only in the last five minutes of play, 30 to 27. The Engineers, led by Captain Egger, who caged four field goals, gave the Tigers a hard fight and led throughout the greater part of the game. The half ended in a tie, 17 to 17. Early in the second period Stevens went into a lead that made Princeton's chance look gloomy.

The Orange and Black victory was due in large measure to the fine playing of Harry Brawner, who started his first game on a Princeton five tonight. Brawner took the place of Stannetts, the ineligible Tiger captain, and not only shot four field goals, but caged eight out of twelve foul shots, a department in which Princeton had failed to break even thus far in the season. Kurtz of the visitors shared the honors of the Scarlet with Captain Eggers by dropping thirteen of his nineteen foul tries.

With five minutes to play in the last half Stevens was leading by a three point margin, when Dickinson dribbled the ball from under the Engineers' basket and sank a long shot from mid-court. A few minutes later Brawner tallied in a melee under his own basket and scored enough fouls to put Princeton off to a comfortable lead.

The line-up:

PRINCETON (30). STEVENS I. (27).
Brawner ....L. F.......... Kurtz
Opie ....R. F.......... Highley
Dickinson ....C.......... Provost
Witmer ....L. G.......... Eggers (Capt.)
Bergen ....R. G.......... Roth

Substitutions—Jefferies for Opie, Opie for Jefferies, Jefferies for Witmer, Brune for Roth.

Field Goals—Dickinson (4), Brawner (4), Witmer (1), Jefferies (2), Eggers (4), Highley (5). Goals from foul—Brawner (8), Kurtz (13).

Referee—Lewis. Umpire—Brennan.

HARVARD FIVE IS VICTOR.

Crimson Wins Basketball Match With Wesleyan, 33 to 31.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 15.—Robertson and Robinson of Wesleyan starred in a 33 to 31 basketball victory over Harvard here tonight. The former shot eleven baskets after fouls and scored five of them in the last four minutes of play, bringing his team from behind. The three goals scored by the victors in the final half went to Robinson. Fitts, with four baskets from the floor, and Pallo, with eleven after fouls, proved the stars for Harvard.

The line-up:

WESLEYAN (33). HARVARD (31).
Robertson ....L. F.......... Pallo
Robinson ....R. F.......... Fitts
Moore ....C.......... Tyson
King ....R. G.......... Fiering
Hodowitch ....L. G.......... Toibert

Goals from field—Robinson (3), Robertson (3), Moore (3), King, Hodowitch (2), Chase, Tyson (3), Pallo (2), Fitts (4). Goals from fouls—Robertson 9, Pallo 11.

Substitutions—Harvard: Chase for Fiering, Cleish for Tyson. Time of halves—20 minutes.

Lawyers Lose at Basketball.

The basketball five representing St. Francis College of Brooklyn defeated the team of the Albany Law School last night in the former's gymnasium by the score of 31 to 24.

PENNSYLVANIA WINS BASKETBALL MATCH

Quaker Quintet Defeats Columbia in Hard-Fought Contest —Final Score, 22 to 16.

INTERCOLLEGIATE BASKETBALL LEAGUE STANDING.

Teams.	Games.	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Dartmouth	2	2	0	1.000
Penn	1	1	0	1.000
Cornell	3	2	1	.666
Columbia	2	1	1	.500
Yale	2	0	2	.000
Princeton	2	0	2	.000

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—Columbia University lost tonight to University of Pennsylvania in the opening game here of the Intercollegiate Basketball League by the score of 22 to 16 in a hard-fought contest. Penn led at the end of the first half, 11 to 9.

Captain Danny McNichol of Penn and Joe Johnson, Columbia's colored forward, were the scoring wizards of the contest. McNichol contributed eighteen of Penn's points and Johnson made twelve of his team's sixteen counters. In the field goals they were even, each scoring one, but Captain McNichol had the edge in fouls. His aim was wonderful and out of twenty tries he sent the ball through the net sixteen times. Johnson got ten out of seventeen.

There was a long delay before the start of the second half, in which Captain Tynan of Columbia claimed that one of the personal fouls called on him in the first period should have been charged to Horowitz. The game was held up for at least ten minutes while Referee Cochran, Umpire Cartwright and the scorers argued it out. Finally, the one foul was deducted from Tynan's account.

The line-up.

PENN (22.) COLUMBIA (16).
Miller ....F.......... Tynan
Rosenast ....F.......... Johnson
Grave ....C.......... Watson
Huntzinger ....G.......... Pulleyn
McNichol ....G.......... Horowitz

Goals from field—McNichol, Miller, Grave, Johnson, Horowitz. Goals from foul—McNichol, 16 out of 20; Johnson, 10 out of 17.

Substitutes—Penn: Voegelen for Huntzinger, Columbia: Stutz for Pulleyn, Pulleyn for Stutz, Reilly for Pulleyn, Stutz for Reilly.

Referee—Cochran, Navy. Umpire—Cartwright. Time of periods—20 minutes.

GREEN DEFEATS ITHACANS.

Dartmouth-Cornell Basketball Game Goes to Extra Period.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Jan. 15.—A foul shot by Cullen, followed by a sensational field goal by Miller, gave Dartmouth a 25 to 22 basketball victory over Cornell here this afternoon in an Intercollegiate League game which required a five-minute extra period before the winner could be determined. The teams were evenly matched throughout, with the Green holding the lead up to the final minutes of the game, only to be brought to a tie score through the brilliant work of Captain Molinet and Sidman, the midget guard of the Ithacans.

Cornell got the jump at the start and held the lead until the middle of the first half, when the Green offense strengthened and managed to break through the opposing defense.

Dartmouth maintained its lead until well into the second half, then Molinet and Sidman got going and brought the score up to 22 to 22, when the final whistle blew.

A five-minute extra period was decided on. Neither team was able to pierce the other's defense during the first three minutes, but then a foul gave Cullen a chance to score and he dropped the ball through for what proved to be the winning tally. Millar followed this up a moment later with a pretty goal from mid-floor.

The lineup:

DARTMOUTH (25). CORNELL (22).
Cullen ....L. F.......... Barkelew
Yuill ....R. F.......... Molinet
Chamberlain ....C.......... Rippe
Heep ....L. G.......... Cornish
Millar ....R. G.......... Sidman

Goals from floor—Cullen (5), Millar (3), Chamberlain, Molinet (2), Sidman (2), Barkelew, Rippe, Cornish. Goals from fouls—Cullen (7), Sidman (8).

Substitutions—Dartmouth: McDermott for Heep. Cornell: Pope for Cornish, Crabtree for Molinet.

Referee—Mr. Kelly. Umpire—Mr. Finn. Time of halves—Twenty minutes. One five-minute overtime period.

CITY COLLEGE FIVE LOSES.

Drops Basketball Game With Army, 35 to 32, After Extra Period.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Jan. 15.—The Army and the College of the City of New York went into an extra period of five minutes' play today to decide a basketball contest which was cyclonic in action and speed and cleanly fought throughout. The Army won 35 to 32.

At no time during the contest did a margin of more than four points separate the teams, and during the second half four tie scores were broken before Krinskey caged a basket which ended the game at 30 to 30. City College trailed for fifteen minutes of the first half, but closed the second on the long end of a 13 to 12 score.

Pfeiffer broke the tie when he tossed a goal from foul after the resumption of play at the opening of the extra period, but Klauber gave City College a one-point lead by shooting a sensational goal from scrimmage. It looked bad for the Army, but, with a minute to go, both Smythe and French tossed goals from the field, which gave the Army the victory.

Smythe's fine defensive play and French's speed and accuracy in goal shooting were features of Army's play. Krinskey and Lamm starred for City College.

Line-up:

ARMY (35). C. C. N. Y. (32).
French ....L. F.......... Krinskey
Vichules ....R. F.......... Lamm
Dabezies ....C.......... Murray
Pfeiffer ....L. G.......... Feigin
Kessler ....R. G.......... Raskin

Goals from field—French (3), Vichules (2), Dabezies (3), Pfeiffer (2), Smythe (2), Whitson (2), Krinskey (4), Lamm (4), Murray, Klauber, Raskin. Goals from foul—Pfeiffer 7 out of 11, Lamm 10 out of 13.

Substitutions—Army: Smythe for Vichules, Vichules for Smythe, Smythe for Kessler, Whitson for Dabezies. C. C. N. Y.: Klauber for Murray.

Referee—Tom Thorp, Columbia. Umpire—Howard Cann, N. Y. University. Time of halves—Twenty minutes.

EIGHT STRAIGHT FOR NAVY.

Midshipmen Add Rutgers to List With a 38-13 Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 15.—The Naval Academy won at basketball from Rutgers on the local court this afternoon, 38 to 13. The work of the midshipmen was faster and better than in any previous game. They have won all eight of their contests. Rutgers had an exceptionally good dribbler and shooter in Benzoni, but the general speed, shooting and team play of the Navy lads excelled the work of the visitors.

The line-up:

NAVY (38). RUTGERS (13).
McKee ....L. F.......... Benzoni
Davis ....R. F.......... Enander
Ault ....C.......... Hall
Watters ....L. G.......... Boudinot
Parr ....R. G.......... Dornan

Field Goals—McKee (6), Watters (3), Ault (2), Greber, Waldlich, Parr, Benzoni (2). Foul Goals—McKee 10 in 16, Benzoni 7 in 15.

Substitutions—Naval Academy: Barnes for Davis, Lenhart for Barnes, Waldlich for Lenhart, Johnston for Ault, Lyons for Watters, Greber for Lyons, Blue for Parr. Rutgers: Ellis for Enander, Enander for Ellis, Whitehill for Dornan, Ellis for Whitehill, Whitehill for Hall.

Referee—Pippen, University of Maryland. Umpire—McDevitt, University of Penn. Time of periods—20 minutes.

SWIMMERS BREAK SCHOLASTIC MARKS

One American Record and Two for the Meeting Set at School Water Title Events.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—A new American scholastic record and two new records for the meeting were established at the eighteenth annual interscholastic swimming championships, which were won by the Lawrenceville School at the University of Pennsylvania pool here today. The Lawrenceville boys made 21 points and were closely followed by Girard College with 20. Sixteen schools competed.

Wright of Erie High School won the 50-yard swim in 25 1-5 seconds, bettering the former American record of 25 3-5 seconds made by Grieg Gunther of Brooklyn Polytechnic Preparatory School last year. The old record was smashed twice in two successive heats of the 220-yard swim, first by Paul Chase of Berkeley Irving School, who bettered his old mark of 2:38 4-5, made last year, by 1 1-5 seconds. James Hall of Poly Prep, in the next heat, bettered Chase by 1 4-5 seconds and the old record for the meet by a full three seconds. Hall was the individual star of the meeting, scoring 8 points, with Crownover of Girard College second, with 7 points.

The third new record came in the plunge, when Raymond McGreery of Lawrenceville plunged the length of the pool, touching the end for a distance of 75 feet. The old record for the meet was held by Ted Hann of Rutgers Prep, made last year. Hann competed for the Berkley Irving School today, but was only able to take third place. Previous to the performance of McGreery a teammate, Hazelton, had plunged 73½ feet, also breaking the old record.

Lawrenceville clearly outclassed the field in the relay event, and won by a margin of three-fifths of a second.

The scores of the leading teams follow:

Lawrenceille 21; Girard 20; Erie High 10, Berkley Irving 9; Brooklyn Polp Prep 10, West Philadelphia High 3; Lane High 2, Stuyvesant School 1.

N. Y. U. BEATS UNION.

Emerges From Rough Game With Victory by 22 to 18.

Special to The New York Times.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Jan. 15.—The Union College Basketball five lost here tonight to the New York University team in a fast game. The score was 22 to 18. One of the largest crowds of the season turned out for the contest, which was exciting after the first fifteen minutes of play. Union was the first to score in the opening after five minutes of play, and held New York scoreless until five minutes before the whistle was blown in the first half, when the visitors jumped in and ran the score up to 9 points, closing at half time 9 to 12 in favor of the Garnet five.

Both teams speeded up in the second half and played a tight game, which was rough and exciting. Union fouled frequently, and New York shot well from the foul line. Brucker was the star for the Schenectady boys.

Robertson, New York's centre, scored 16 points for his team and played a great game. The visitors were heavier, but the pass work by the Union team was superior.

Line-up:

N. Y. U. (22). UNION COLL. (18).
Goller ....L. F.......... Brucker
Holman ....R. F.......... Wilber
Robertson ....C.......... Jones
Baker ....L. G.......... Rinaldi
Delaney ....R. G.......... Schwartz

Goals from field—Holman (2), Robertson (6), Baker (2), Delaney (2), Brucker (8), Jones (2), Rinaldi (2). Goals from foul—Robertson (10), Brucker (6).

Substitutions—Dorf for Delaney, Winberg for Schwartz.

Referee—Sternberg, Syracuse.

Time of halves—20 minutes.

WINS OPENING GAME.

Lafayette Takes First of Basketball Matches With Lehigh.

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Pa., Jan. 15.—Lafayette College won the first of a series of three basketball games from Lehigh University here this evening by the score of 18—15. Each team presenting such a defense that only one field goal was tallied in the second half. This was a one-hand short by Kearney.

In the preliminary game Lafayette freshmen defeated Lehigh freshmen 25—13.

The line-up:

LAFAYETTE (18). LEHIGH (15).
Bieber ....F.......... Maurer
Kearney ....F.......... Lingle
Brennan ....C.......... Lees
Reese ....G.......... Frain
Reeves ....G.......... Springsteen

Goals from the field—Kearney (2), Bieber, Brennan, Maurer, Lingle, Frain. Goals from foul—Roeves, 10 out of 14; Lingle, 9 out of 13.

Substitutions—Longacre for Kearney, Kearney for Reese, Colgan for Maurer.

Referee—Reed, Springfield.

TITLE FOR COMMERCE FIVE.

Downs Stuyvesant in Hard-Fought Game by 20 to 17.

In a close and exciting clash at basketball the five of the High School of Commerce defeated the Stuyvesant High School aggregation last night at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory by the score of 20 to 17. With the decision goes the local P. S. A. L. championship.

The great armory was packed with interested spectators, and the match was worthy of the attendance. From the very outset it was a thrilling battle, with the advantage resting now with the lads from Commerce and then with the Stuyvesant brigade. The work of Norenberg and Jacobs was especially noteworthy.

Ohio State Five Beats Michigan.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 15.—Ohio State won a Western Conference basketball game from Michigan here tonight, 22 to 10. It was the Wolverine's third consecutive conference defeat.

Penn State Beats W. and J.

Special to The New York Times.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Jan. 15.—Superb guarding kept W. and J. away from the goal tonight in a basketball game here. Penn State ran riot during the second half, winning 53 to 20.

BRITISH FOOTBALL RESULTS.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—British football results today were:

FIRST DIVISION—Everton 3, Aston Villa 1; Bradford 1, Huddersfield T. 1; Burnley 4, Blackburn R. 1; Chelsea 2, Manchester City 1; Liverpool 0, Sunderland 0; Newcastle U. 4, Bradford C. 0; Oldham A. 0, Bolton W. 0; Preston N. E. 2, Derby C. 1; Sheffield U. 1, Middlesbrough 1; Tottenham H. 2, Arsenal 1; Manchester United 4, Bromwich 1.

SECOND DIVISION—Barnsley 2, Leicester City 1; Bristol City 0, Cardiff City 0; Bury 1, Fulham 1; West Ham U. 1, Clapton O 0; Hull City 1, Coventry City 1; Nottingham F 3, Blackpool 1; Portvale 1, The Wednesday 0; Rotherham C. 0, Notts C. 0; South Shields 1, Stoke 1; Birmingham 3, Stockport C. 0; Wolverhampton W. 3, Leeds U. 0.

THIRD DIVISION—Exeter C. 1, Brighton and H. A. 4; Brentford 3, Gillingham 1; Crystal Palace 1, Millwall A. 0; Northampton 1, Luton T. 0; Portsmouth 3, Reading 3; Swansea T. 2, South End U. 1; Swindon T. 2, Bristol R. 1; Watford 0, Southampton 0; Merthyr T. 2, Queens Park 1; Plymouth 0, Grimsby 0.

SCOTTISH LEAGUE—Aberdeen 1, Falkirk 1; Albion Rovers 1, Clydebank 1; Dumbarton 2, Raith Rovers 0; Rangers 1, Hamilton A. 0; Hibernians 3, Ayr United 3; Hearts 2, Kilmarnock 1; Morton 1, Celtic 1; Partick T. 0, Airdrieonians 0; Queen's Park 0, Dundee 0; Third Lanark 3, St. Mirren 1.

UNION RUGBY LEAGUE—Huddersfield 40, Keighley 2; Leeds 25, Bradford 5; Dewsbury 41, Bramley 0; York 11, Batley 3; Hull-Kingston 2, Leigh 0; Wigan 13, Barrow 7; Swinton 6, Warrington 0; St. Helens Rec. 3, Widnes 3; Broughton 23, Rochdale 0; Hull 63, Wakefield 11.

Julian W. Curtiss to Referee Crew Races at Poughkeepsie

Julian W. Curtiss, former Yale oarsman, has been selected as referee of the Intercollegiate Regatta, to be held at Poughkeepsie June 22, it was announced yesterday by the Board of Stewards of the association. The position will carry added responsibility this season because of the expected entry of eight-oared crews from East, South, Middle West and Pacific Coast, and possibly an English university shell.

YALE VANQUISHES C. C. N. Y. SWIMMERS

Elis Make Clean Sweep of Water Matches With City College—Take Polo Game.

INTERCOLLEGIATE LEAGUE STANDING.

Swimming.

Teams.	Meets.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Pennsylvania	2	2	0	1.000
Princeton	2	2	0	1.000
Yale	2	2	0	1.000
Columbia	3	1	2	.333
C. C. N. Y.	5	0	5	.000

Water Polo.

Teams.	Meets.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Columbia	3	3	0	1.000
Princeton	2	2	0	1.000
Yale	2	1	1	.500
C. C. N. Y.	5	1	4	.200
Pennsylvania	2	0	2	.000

Yale's swimmers vanquished those representing City College last night in the latter's natatorium by a score of 45 points to 8, and also established a new intercollegiate mark for the 800-foot relay race by clipping four seconds from the old figure. In addition, the swimmers from the City of Elms won a water polo match against City College by the score of 28 to 15.

There were five events on the program aside from the relay race and Yale swimmers were first and second in four of those five events. It was a veritable waterspout for Yale.

The summary:

50-Yard Dash—Won by Banks, Yale; Dauss, Yale, second; Ashworth, C. C. N. Y., third. Time—26 3-5s.

100-Yard Dash—Won by Pratt, Yale; Townsend, Yale, second; Ashworth, C. C. N. Y., third. Time—51 2-5s.

220-Yard Swim—Won by Marshall, Yale; Cook, Yale, second; Lehrman, C. C. N. Y., third. Time—2:39 4-5.

Dive—Won by Crane, Yale, 86.1; McAleenan, Yale, 82, second; Josepher, C. C. N. Y., 74.8, third.

Plunge—Won by Wood, Yale; Thnor, C. C. N. Y., second; Synk, C. C. N. Y., third, distance 72 feet.

800-Foot Relay—Won by Yale; Thurston, Jelliffe, Pratt and Solley; C. C. N. Y., MacTague, Murray, Haas and Levin, second. Time—2:24 4-5.

FAST TIME BY SWIMMER.

Navy Amphibian Shows Great Speed in Victory Over Johns Hopkins.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 15.—As one of the events in the swimming meet in which the Naval Academy won this afternoon from Johns Hopkins by 51 to 11, Sinclair, a first-year midshipman from Washington, undoubtedly swam the fastest 220 yards ever accomplished by a college swimmer. His time was 2:23 3-5, which is 7 2-5 seconds better than the intercollegiate record. It is regrettable, however, that this cannot stand as an official record, the Academy tank having been found to be four inches short. However, with due allowance for this, it was by far the best time for the distance ever made by a college swimmer.

Several other notable performances were made. The 160-yard relay team did 2 3-5 seconds betters than the former college record time of 1 minute 20 seconds, while Emory, captain of the team, besides swimming in the winning relay team, equaled the intercollegiate best performance of 19 seconds for the 40-yard and 57 for the 100.

The summary:

160-Yard Relay—Won by Navy (Bolling, Winkjer and Emory; Johns Hopkins (Buhrere, Morrell, Hall and Gould), second. Time—1:17 2-5.

60-Foot Plunge—Won by McCandless, Navy; McCooey, Navy, second; Hambleton, Johns Hopkins, third. Time—0:39 3-5.

40-Yard Swim—Won by Emory, Navy; Gallagher, Navy, second; Rowland, Johns Hopkins, third. Time—0:19.

60-Yard Back Stroke—Won by McIntosh, Navy; Reins, Johns Hopkins, second; Hall, Johns Hopkins, third. Time—0:26.

220-Yard Swim—Won by Sinclair, Navy; Fish, Navy, second; Gould, Johns Hopkins, third. Time—2:23 3-5.

60-Yard Breast Stroke—Won by Quinby, Navy; Rowland, Johns Hopkins, second; Bearce, Navy, third. Time—0:25 4-5.

100-Yard Swim—Won by Emory, Navy; Winkjer, Navy, second; Gould, Johns Hopkins, third. Time—0:57.

RUTGERS WINS SWIM MEET.

Defeats Lehigh by 33 to 20 Score—Giebel Takes Two Firsts.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Jan. 15.—Leo Giebel, former Olympic swimmer, won two first places and broke his own record for 100 yards, clipping one-fifth of a second from his former mark, in the dual swimming meet between Rutgers and Lehigh here this afternoon. Rutgers won the meet by 33 to 20, taking first place in five of the six events.

The summary:

50-Yard Swim—Won by Giebel, Rutgers; Hearn, Rutgers, second; Van Nort, Lehigh, third. Time—0:25 4-5.

100-Yard Swim—Won by Giebel, Rutgers; Schaefer, Lehigh, second; Porr, Lehigh, third. Time—0:58 4-5.

220-Yard Swim—Won by Ross, Rutgers; Jacobs, Lehigh, second; Schaefer, Lehigh, third. Time—2:39 2-5.

200-Yard Relay—Won by Rutgers (Redmond, Hearn, Ross, Giebel); Lehigh, second (Jacobs, Gangerwerl, Davis, Van Nort). Time—1:48 3-5.

Plunge for Distance—Won by Rigaud, Lehigh; Arner, Lehigh, second; Schaefer, Rutgers, third. Distance—59 feet 6 inches.

Fancy Diving—Won by Galbraith, Rutgers; Sherwin, Rutgers, second; Straub, Lehigh, third.

SMASHES SOCCER DEADLOCK

Bethlehem Breaks Tie With New York by 4 to 0 Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Jan. 15. — The existing deadlock between Bethlehem F. C. and the New York F. C. in the National Soccer League was broken here this afternoon, when the steel workers decisively defeated the New Yorkers by the score of four goals to none.

Bethlehem counted two goals in each period. The first came within five minutes after play started, when Brittan broke through and counted from twenty yards out. About ten minutes later he converted a cross from Wilson into the second goal. Bethlehem was leading at half time by the score of 2 to 0.

The line-up:

BETHLEHEM (4). N. Y. F. C. (0).
Duncan ....G.......... Bell
Wilson ....R. F. B.......... Kelly
Ferguson ....L. F. B.......... Vandeneynder
Bethune ....R. H. B.......... Bustard
Campbell ....C. H. B.......... Meyerdirks
Murray ....L. H. B.......... Carter
Wilson ....O. R.......... J. McDonald
Morrison ....I. R.......... S. McDonald
Brittan ....C. F.......... Herd
Forrest ....I. L.......... Bleich
Fleming ....O. L.......... Phillips

Goals—Brittan (2), Forrest, Morrison.

Referee—G. Young, Philadelphia. Linesmen—Messrs. McGee and Morrison. Time of halves—45 minutes.

COLUMBIA ICE TEAM DEFEATED IN DEBUT

Loses to Yale Hockey Six, 7 Goals to 5, in First Match in Eight Years.

Last night at the 181st Street Ice Palace a Columbia hockey team appeared in action for the first time in eight years. It would be gratifying under the conditions to announce a victory for the returned wanderers, but the best that can be reported of them is that they made a game fight against their opponents, the Yale skaters, and yielded finally only by the score of 7 goals to 5.

The Morningside Heights institution turned out a six composed of fast men, headed by Captain Anderson; but in team work the visitors from New Haven had something of an edge on the local men. Aside from the excellent work done by Anderson at cover point, the greatest exploits of the Columbia sextet were credited to Squires at point and Skelton at goal. The latter was alert and speedy in averting disaster when the puck strayed dangerously near the goal of the New Yorkers.

The Yale wings were particularly strong, and in this respect Columbia suffered by comparison. Carson, playing at right wing for the Blue, was the stellar performer of the evening in the matter of successful shots for goal, caging the puck on three occasions. The play at times verged upon roughness, but never so much so as to become unsportsmanlike.

Yale got away to a long lead at the outset, Carson, Bulkley and then Carson again tallying goals, and after seven minutes of play in the first period the score was 3 to 0 against the Columbia skaters, who then appeared hopelessly beaten. The local aggregation braced, however, and before the close of the period had come within a single point of evening the tally. Walker and Rollins delivered the shots that changed the aspect of affairs and put Columbia back in the running.

Near the beginning of the second period Walker flared down the ice, dodging the Yale defense, and whisked into the net the goal that tied the score at 3-all. Ribet kept up the gratifying rally of the new Columbia team by shooting the fourth straight goal for the local men, who thereby took the lead by the score of 4 to 3.

Soon, however, Griscom equalized for Yale, and, an instant later, Shiras came through with the tally that put the Elis once more in the van. Before the close of the period Captain Anderson produced another perfectly good goal for Columbia, and the period closed with the score a 5 to 5 tie.

In the final period Yale's superior teamwork began to turn the tide. Columbia had divers chances to score, but was unable to cash them, while the tourists from Connecticut tallied twice and carried off the honors by the score of 7 to 5. Carson and Van Ingen shot the final goals.

The line-up:

YALE (7). COLUMBIA (5).
Bulkley ....C.......... Ribet
Shiras ....L. W.......... Rollins
Carson ....R. W.......... Walker
Griscom ....C. P.......... Anderson
Van Ingen ....P.......... Squires
Bassett ....G.......... Kopper

Goals—Yale: Bulkley, Shiras, Carson (3), Griscom, Van Ingen; Columbia: Ribet, Rollins, Walker (2), Anderson.

Substitutions—Yale: Foster for Shiras, Diefendorf for Bassett; Columbia: Parks for Squires, Skelton for Kopper.

Referees—Tom Howard, John McGrath. Time Keeper—Tom Lynch. Judge of Play—Lars Kennedy. Length of Periods—15 minutes.

ST. NICKS BOW TO UNICORN.

New Yorkers Lose Hockey Game With Boston A. A., Score, 3 to 1.

Special to The New York Times.

The Boston Athletic Club's amateur league hockey champions opened the new United States Amateur League series at the Arena tonight by beating the St. Nicholas team of New York, 3 to 1. The match was fast at the start but the players of neither team were able to stand much of a pace.

In the first period, Boston A. A. scored two goals and St. Nicholas one. Hutchinson made the first for the Unicorn after one minute of play. Two minutes later Percy scored on a high line shot from scrimmage and shortly afterward Morgan counted for St. Nicholas. There was no scoring in the second period. Late in the third session Hutchinson scored the B. A. A. final goal.

The lineup:

BOSTON A. A. (3). ST. NICHOLAS (1).
Wylde ....G.......... Smart
Stubbs ....P.......... Morgan
Doty ....C. P.......... Huntington
Downing ....L. W.......... Burgess
Hutchinson ....C.......... Ellis
Percy ....R. W.......... Bierwith

Goals—Hutchinson (2), Percy, Morgan.

Substitutions—B. A. A.: Ingalls for Downing, Murphy for Hutchinson, Murchie for Doty, Hutchinson for Murphy, Doty for Murchie, Downing for Ingalls, Murphy for Hutchinson; St. Nicholas: Henriques for Ellis, Jewett for Burgess.

Referees—Clifford and Caw. Goal Umpires—Edwards and La Rocca. Timers—Von Schukman and Murphy. Time of periods—Three, of 15 minutes each.

TIGERS DEFEAT COLUMBIA.

Princeton Wrestlers Capture Bout With Blue and White.

Princeton's wrestling team defeated the Columbia grapplers in a meet last night in the Morningside Heights gymnasium by a score of 16 to 13. The Tigers gained two falls and two decisions in the seven bouts, while Columbia won two of the clashes by falls and the third by judges' decision.

The failure of Phil Hart, former metropolitan champion, to hang up a victory in his 135-pound battle with Morrison of Princeton was the chief setback of the evening for Columbia and prevented the home mat men from winning the meet. Hart forced his Tiger opponent to go two extra periods of three minutes before the judges were able to give a decision, but his work was below standard. For the first nine minutes of the bout neither grappler left his feet.

Captain Paull, Hayman and Potter scored victories for Columbia. The Blue and White leader threw Webster of Princeton in 7:40 with a further arm and head lock. Potter also scored a fall when he pinned Wilson's shoulders to the mat with a body and arm hold after slightly more than a minute of wrestling.

The summaries:

115-Pound Class — Brook, Princeton, threw Heiner, Columbia, with body hold and half nelson. Time—6:10.

125-Pound Class — Hayman, Columbia, won from Cover, Princeton, by decision. Time advantage—2:54.

135-Pound Class—Morrison, Princeton, won from Hart, Columbia, by decision after two extra periods of three minutes each.

145-Pound Class — Paull, Columbia, threw Webster, Princeton, with further arm and body hold. Time—7:40.

158-Pound Class—Gage, Princeton, won from Johnson, Columbia, by decision. Time advantage—7:46.

175-Pound Class—Potter, Columbia, threw Wilson, Princeton, with body and arm hold. Time—1:01.

Unlimited Class—Carpenter, Princeton, threw McLaughlin, Columbia, with combination arm, body and head lock. Time—1:16.

Total point score—Princeton, 16; Columbia, 13.

PHILA. JACK O'BRIEN Opens His
World's Greatest Health and Athletic Institute
Exclusively for Business Men
TO-MORROW (Monday)
MADISON SQ. GARDEN 26th St. Side.
Flesh Reducing—Body Building. Boxing Taught—No Punishment. Largest Swimming Pool in World. Running Track on Roof. Handball Courts. Roof and Indoors. Hot and Steam Rooms. Electric Cabinet, Tub, Liver, Spray Shower Baths. Private Lesson Rooms.
MEMBERSHIP One Year $100.00
Open All Year, 8 A. M.–10 P. M. Catalog Sent.
Phone Mad. Sq. 7540-7283-5100.

The Greatest Sporting Goods Store in the World

Madison Avenue and 45th Street, New York

Entering the New Era of Lowered Prices

The twain have met—Abercrombie & Fitch qualities and lowered costs of production.

Greatly revised prices, based entirely on present and future costs, have been put in effect throughout the women's floor, affecting the assortments already assembled for Spring and those daily arriving.

Every suit, coat, jacket, skirt, sweater—all the strikingly original new Abercrombie & Fitch models for the Southland and for Winter and Spring sports in the North—feel the immediate effect of this readjustment.

All the new things coming in from the workrooms, representing the world's latest development in outdoor and sporting clothes of every description, are included in the downward revision.

These new prices, compared with those of two months ago, represent in all truth a startling reduction—applied to the freshest, newest, best stock of its kind in existence.

Women's Suits and Riding Habits

Miscellaneous Assortment of Discontinued Styles, Winter Sport Suits..........$25.00 to $35.00
Country and City Suits of imported Harris and Shetland Tweeds, in great variety.......... $95.00
Sport and Country Suits of Thorntweed and imported Scotch and Welsh Tweeds.......... $75.00
Killicrankie and Shetland Tweed Suits—imported materials.......... $55.00
Innsbrook Knit Fabric Suits.......... $34.50
Three-piece Woods Suits of Thorntweed and imported Killicrankie Tweed.......... $75.00
Riding Habits of Thorntweed, newest model.......... $75.00
Oxford Melton Riding Habits.......... $59.50
Children's Riding Habits of Thorntweed.......... $65.00
Children's Oxford Melton Riding Habits.......... $49.50

Women's Sport and Motor Coats

English Slip-ons......$35.00, $45.00, $55.00 and $65.00
English Motor Coats, finest fleeces.......... $75.00
Coats of Imported Camel's Hair, plaids.......... $85.00
A. & F. Slip-ons of Camel's Hair.....$100.00 and $120.00
Polo Coats of Imported Camel's Hair.......... $65.00
Reversible Leather Coats..........$75.00 and $95.00
Short Sport Coats of Innsbrook, to be worn with skirts.......... $22.50
Short Sport Coats of Velour..........$35.00 and $55.00
Short Sport Coats of Leather.......... $20.00
Three-quarter Length Coats of Leather.......... $48.75

Sporting Garments and Hats

Iceland Wool and Shetland Sweaters.......... $15.00
Hand-made Shetland Sweaters.......... $9.50
Camel's Hair and Alpaca Sweaters.......... $25.00
Fine Mohair Sweaters.......... $19.50
Silk Sweaters, Slip-overs.......... $25.00
Silk Sweaters, Tuxedo Models.......... $34.00
Golf Sweaters of Cashmere, A. & F. Models.......... $25.00
Sport Hats—a large assortment at..........$5.00 and $10.00
Quartier Latin Berets—Tams.......... $3.00
Silk Sport Shirts..........$8.00, $10.00 and $15.00
Madras Sport Shirts..........$2.50 and $4.00
Flannel and Dimity Sport Shirts.......... $9.50
Separate Sport Skirts of Scotch Plaids, Tweeds, Flannels and Innsbrook..........$15.00 to $30.00

Corresponding revisions on Sport Scarfs, Gloves, Hosiery, Belts, Crops, Stocks and Ties, etc., etc.

Abercrombie & Fitch Co

EZRA H. FITCH, President

Madison Avenue and 45th Street
New York

"Where the Blazed Trail Crosses the Boulevard."

Defeats Field of Eight in Race for Metropolitan Honors at Osceola Games.

RELAY EVENT TO COLUMBIA

Higgins's Brilliant Running Gives Collegians Medley Championship —Landon Takes Jump.

A wonderful closing half-lap spurt, in which he summoned every ounce of his strength in a last effort at victory, brought Jack Sellers of the New York A. C., local outdoor hurdling champion, the Metropolitan A. A. U. indoor 600-yard championship title last night. The championship was decided in connection with the annual games of the Osceola Democratic Club in the Seventh Regiment Armory.

A crowd of about 3,000 taxed the limited capacity of the armory and cheered wildly as the Mercury Foot wearer, speeding as fast as his strong legs could carry him, brushed past his rivals and snatched the victory by a margin of about ten yards. Sellers covered the distance in 1:27 1-5.

Sid Leslie, former Military Athletic League middle-distance champion, a contender up to the time that Sellers suddenly shot out on his closing burst, finished second. Leslie enjoyed an advantage of about ten yards on Al Dolder, another Mercury Footer, who finished third.

A field of eight title aspirants sought to gratify their championship ambitions. The remainder of the field, in addition to the leading three, included Harry Braverman, Morningside A. C.; L. Granger, St. Christopher Club; W. Parker, St Christopher Club; J. Chankin, Morningside A. C., and C. Brundage, unattached. From the outset, however, it was evident the title contention would develop a duel between Sellers and Leslie. The pair got off in good position, following the pace of Braverman, who carried the field over the first lap of the journey of slightly less than four laps.

Sellers Sprints Near End.

Near the end of the second lap Leslie jumped to the lead, followed by Sellers, who stuck tenaciously to the pace. Round the ellipse Leslie showed the way, gradually picking up speed in a victory dash which started too soon to be effective. On the backstretch of the bell lap Sellers summoned all his reserve and in a short, sharp struggle to the turn finally displaced Leslie as the leader. The race was over there. Leslie fought to regain the lead, but though he tried with all the strength left in him, the old M. A. L. champion was unequal to the task, and gradually dropped back from the flying Mercury Footer.

The crowd was treated to another spectacular track struggle for championship brackets in the closing event of the card. This was the Metropolitan A. A. U. medley relay championship event, in which eight clubs nominated teams. The remarkable running of the redoubtable Walter Higgins gave Columbia University's Blue and White quartet this title in one of the most interesting relay races seen here in years. Andy Craw pulled the Brooklyn A. A. team to second position in a driving finish with Jack Sellers, whose efforts to annex the place position for the New York A. C. quartet were unavailing. Sellers was right at Craw's shoulder at the finish line. The time for the race was 7:58 1-5.

Up to the final leg of the event, the mile relay, the title belonged to any one of the three clubs. In the closing leg, however, while the crowd sent up a din which resounded through the drill shed, Higgins, with a characteristic display of ability, circled the board floor at a rate of speed which betokened a Blue and White triumph. The Morningside Heights collegian alternated with Craw in the lead until the last lap of the mile, when Higgins went away on his own and gained the title for Columbia by a margin of about eight yards on Craw.

Landon Wins High Jump.

Dick Landon, Olympic high jump champion and record holder, competing in the blue of Yale, treated the large crowd to an impressive exhibition of jumping. Landon captured his specialty from scratch, but fell short in his effort to equal the existing indoor mark of 6 feet 4½ inches, made by S. C. Lawrence of the Boston A. A. in 1912.

Landon cleared the crossbar at 6 feet 2 inches and the bar was then placed at 6 feet 3¼ inches. The Yale lad three times tried to clear this notch but failed. His jump of 6 feet 2 inches, however, gave Landon first prize over T. J. Cullen, Mohawk A. C., and F. J. Neubert, Boys' Club, both of whom tied at 5 feet 6 inches. On the jump-off Cullen won second prize.

An accident to his right leg forced the withdrawal of Bernie Wefers Jr. of the New York A. C., local indoor sprint champion, from the ninety-yard dash. In this event Wefers competed from scratch and advanced through his trial and semi-final heat. He hurt his leg in the latter test, however, and could not toe the mark for the final. F. D. Vogel, unattached, who was allowed a start of seven yards, captured the premier prize, sprinting to victory in 9 seconds.

The summaries:

90-Yard Dash, Handicap—Won by F. D. Vogel, unattached (7 yards); S. Prereau, C. C. N. Y. (7 yards), second; E. Farrell, Brooklyn College A. A. (2 yards), third. Time—0:09.

880-Yard Parochial Schools Relay—Won by Sacred Heart School (W. Giblin, F. Markey, G. Shaw, J. Gibson); St. Cecilia's School, second; Holy Cross School, third. Time—1:52.

800-Yard Run, Handicap—Won by S. Prereau, C. C. N. Y. (16 yards); J. Warburton, Loughlin Lyceum (16 yards), second; E. Berquist, Mohawk A. C. (14 yards), third. Time—0:34.

One-Mile Walk, Handicap—Won by J. B. Pearman, New York A. C. (scratch); J. Aronson, Pastime A. C. (25 seconds), second; A. Jessup, Morningside A. C. (40 seconds), third. Time—6:48.

600-Yard Run; Metropolitan A. A. U. Championship—Won by Jack Sellers, New York A. C.; Sid Leslie, unattached, second; Al Dolder, New York A. C., third. Time—1:27 1-5.

1,000-Yard Run; Handicap—Won by N. Brown, New York A. C. (20 yards); R. C. Rockwell, Brooklyn Central Y. M. C. A. (20 yards), second; W. Deegan, St. Anselm's A. C. (10 yards), third. Time—2:23 4-5.

600-Yard Run; Heavy Marching Order (closed to 7th Regiment)—Won by J. McCormack, Co. L; Fred Cox, Co. D, second; L. Husen, Co. L, third. Time—2:57 4-5.

600-Yard Run; Novice—Won by D. Carroll, St. Vincent Ferrer A. C.; A. Arcurn, St. John's Club, second; J. Shevlin, unattached, third. Time—1:37.

Two-Mile Run; Handicap—Won by D. Sands, C. C. N. Y. (215 yards); L. Milofsky, Morningside A. C. (200 yards), second; W. Smith, Yonkers Y. M. C. A. (250 yards), third. Time—9:43.

Running High Jump; Handicap—Won by R. W. Landon, Yale University A. A. (scratch), with 6 feet 2 inches; T. J. Cullen, Mohawk A. C. (8 inches), 5 feet 6 inches, second; F. J. Neubert, Boys' Club, (6 inches), 5 feet 6 inches, third.

Medley Relay Race; Metropolitan A. A. U. Championship—Won by Columbia University (V. Graeb, J. Carroll, H. Lowenkopf and W. Higgins); Brooklyn A. A. (L. Buxbaum, D. Fisher, H. Browser and A. Craw), second; New York A. C. (A. Kelly, R. Georgi, J. Higgins and J. Sellers), third. Time—7:58 1-5.

STECHER RETURNS HOME.

Wrestler Will Continue Treatments for Paralysis.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 15.—Joe Stecher, former heavyweight wrestling champion, who has been ill here for some time, departed tonight for his home in Dodge, Neb., but will return next week to receive further treatments for relief from paralysis of the right arm and shoulder, Dr. Lee Edwards, his physician, said.

The paralysis was the result of an injury received four years ago in Chicago during a match, Dr. Edwards said. At that time, he added, Stecher suffered a slight disalignment of a vertebra, which has been the cause of his illness. An adjustment of the vertebra has been made, he stated.

Dr. Edwards added that Stecher's recent match with Ed (Strangler) Lewis "might have aggravated" the condition which caused the paralysis.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 15.—William W. Roper, who coached Princeton's successful 1919 and 1920 varsity football teams, will head the coaching staff of the Tigers again next Fall. His reappointment was ratified at a meeting of the Executive Athletic Committee here last night. Roper's choice was unanimous and the ratification was merely a matter of form.

It was announced that Princeton would try to retain, as nearly as possible, the same staff of assistants that carried the team through the 1920 season, and Keene Fitzpatrick will handle the conditioning of the men as usual. Gold footballs were awarded to the members of the football team at the annual Varsity Club dinner here tonight which was attended by seventy-five old letter men, in addition to the undergraduate "P" men.

RICE IN FINE FORM AT N. Y. A. C. TRAPS

New Gunner Takes Two Prizes in Shoot at Travers Island.

R. F. Rice and W. B. Ogden tied for the high scratch prize at the Travers Island traps of the New York Athletic Club yesterday. Each had 96 out of a possible 100 targets. The total was excellent, considering that the sky was overcast and that the light was exceedingly poor. On the shoot-off, the prize went to the first-named gunner, a new shot at Travers Island, who has been coming strong in recent shoots. Rice also won the Travers Island Trophy and scored a leg, along with Ogden, in the shoot for the Buermeyer Cup. In the latter shoot, each had 49 out of a possible 50 targets.

Although there were forty-one gunners on the firing line, very few made full scores of 100 targets in the shoot for the high handicap prize. In this event, the winner finally proved to be W. R. Delehanty. There also was a Distance Handicap, which was taken by Frank B. Stephenson, the Brooklyn gunner, with a straight score of 25 targets. Stephenson shot from the 20-yard mark. A scratch special shoot went to E. D. Anderson.

Only five other gunners had straight strings during the day. They were R. L. Spotts in the shoot for the Travers Island Cup, R. F. Rice and C. A. Brown in the Club Cup shoot, and W. B. Ogden and H. K. Curtin in the shoot for the Monthly Cup. The last-named gunner was one of the visitors on the firing line.

The scores:

Name.	T. I. Cup.	Has. Cup.	Club Cup.	Mo. Cup.	Scr. & Hcp. Cups.
Bristol	5 24	4 25	3 23	3 22	76, 16—95
Milliken	4 24	3 23	1 22	2 24	83, 14—97
Peters	4 21	3 25	3 23	3 21	78, 14—92
De Wolfe	3 25	0 18	1 24	1 22	84, 10—94
Vanderveer	1 22	0 18	0 21	0 18	79, 14—93
Thomson	3 24	2 21	3 23	2 18	76, 10—86
Nida	4 24	3 25	2 23	3 22	83, 12—95
Connors	7 25	6 23	5 20	6 25	63, 25—87
Healy	5 23	4 24	3 23	4 23	79, 17—96
Timmons	5 25	3 24	0 22	4 22	83, 16—99
Teckulf	2 24	1 23	0 24	1 21	88, 6—94
Anderson	1 25	0 21	0 24	0 20	89, 0—89
Baker	2 25	1 24	1 25	1 22	92, 8—100
Stephenson	2 23	0 22	1 24	0 22	88, 4—92
Vogel	3 25	2 20	1 22	2 24	83, 7—90
Debacher	7 25	6 24	5 22	6 23	72, 25—97
Stein	2 25	0 21	0 22	0 22	87, 4—91
Peabody	3 25	2 24	2 25	1 23	91, 7—98
Martin	1 25	0 21	0 22	0 21	88, 4—92
Bennett	2 20	1 22	1 23	1 23	83, 7—90
Ogden	1 25	0 22	0 24	0 25*	95, 0—95
Spotts	1 25*	0 21	0 24	0 24	94, 0—94
Webb	3 24	2 25	1 19	2 23	85, 9—91
Chandler	0 22	0 21	0 23	0 20	86, 0—86
Ham	3 25	2 17	1 22	2 18	76, 10—86
Lawrence	1 24	0 23	0 24	0 22	93, 4—97
Rice	2 25	1 24	0 25*	0 24	85, 6—100
Atherton	3 24	2 20	1 25	2 21	80, 10—90
Wilson	5 21	4 18	4 25	4 17	65, 18—83
Brown	2 20	2 22	2 25*	2 22	82, 10—92
C. S. Wills	3 24	2 21	2 20	2 23	79, 7—86
Callahan	4 23	3 19	2 21	3 23	74, 15—89
E. S. Wills	0 20	0 21	0 21	0 16	78, 0—78
Curtis	0 24	0 22	0 24	0 25*	95, 0—95
Hollins	0 21	0 21	0 23	0 19	84, 0—84
Doyle	0 19	0 24	0 22	0 18	83, 0—83
Delehanty	5 25	4 24	4 25	4 25	82, 18—100
Berlin	0 24	0 20	0 20	0 19	83, 0—83
Meeker	7 24	6 21	6 25	6 25	71, 25—96
Williams, Jr.	2 25	1 23	1 22	1 24	89, 7—96
Decker	6 21	5 25	4 25	4 19	73, 23—96

*Ran straight.

WINNERS.

High Scratch—R. F. Rice.
High Handicap—W. R. Delehanty.
Buermeyer Cup—R. F. Rice and W. B. Ogden.
Distance Handicap—F. B. Stephenson.
Scratch Special—E. D. Anderson.

HOWARD LEADS NIMRODS.

Wins Trophy at Jamaica Bay Traps by Single Target.

Veteran gunners came into their own at the Jamaica Bay traps of the Bergen Beach Gun Club yesteray. All the prizes were won by nimrods who have been shooting for a good quarter of a century. J. A. Howard and G. S. K. Remsen tied for the high scratch trophy. Each had a 93 out of a possible 100 targets. On the shoot-off at 25 targets Howard won by a 24 to 23 score. J. K. Voorhies won the high handicap prize.

The scores:

WEEKLY SHOOT—100 TARGETS.

Name.	Hit.	H'dicap.	Total.
G. S. K. Remsen	93	8	100
J. K. Voorhies	92	8	100
J. A. Howard	93	6	99
A. E. Günther	90	8	98
I. J. Kauder	87	10	97
J. W. Voorhies	87	10	97
O. Kappler	73	14	86
W. Schroeder	84	8	92
H. W. Dreyer	81	10	91
E. M. Walling	71	20	91
J. Banzal	62	25	87
C. H. Heyman	60	0	60
E. M. Griffith	58	0	58

YALE CAPTURES SHOOT.

Defeats Columbia Gunners by 982 to 955.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 15.—The Yale rifle team today defeated Columbia in a telegraph shoot, 982 to 955 out of a possible 1,000 targets. C. P. Williams of Yale led both teams with 199 out of 200. E. N. Smith, the Columbia high scorer, was below the entire Yale team.

HAVANA ENTRIES.

FIRST RACE—Six furlongs; for three-year-olds and upward; claiming; purse $700. *Miss Dixie 95 pounds, *Coombe 97, Helen Lucas 98, *Major Fiske 104, *Thornbloom 104, *Edith K. 104, *Timothy J. Hogan 109, Superior 109, Biscuit 107, *Pokey B. 107, James G. 109, Top Rung 117.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs; for three-year-olds and upward; claiming; purse $700. Automatic Red 95 pounds, *Punctual 98, *Hatrack 101, *Pokey Jane 104, Swirl 108, Fait Accompli 108, Blanca 107, Monomoy 109, Repton 109, Locust Leaves 109, Elmont 111, Plantagenet 114.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs; for three-year-olds; claiming; purse $700. Classic 98 pounds, *King's Belle 100, *Natural 103, *Spugs 107, Recoats 108, Brol 109.

FOURTH RACE—Five and a half furlongs; for four-year-olds and upward; claiming; purse $700. *Fleer 98 pounds, *Polar Cub 98, Far East 103, Doublet II. 103, Hemlock 109, Waterford 109, Fickle Fancy 110, Bulger 112, Pas de Chance 112.

FIFTH RACE—One mile and one-eighth; for three-year-olds and upward; American Club Handicap; $3,000 added. Rama 93 pounds, Dooed 100, Furbelow 107, Pastereau 112, Ballyn II. 104, Lackawanna 104, Grandy 108, Mambo Jumbo 116, Breadman 118.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and one-sixteenth; for four-year-olds and upward; claiming; purse $800. American Soldier 104 pounds, Wilfreda 106, *Faux Col 110, Matha 110, Pierre a Feu 110, Roonie 111.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile and fifty yards; for four-year-olds and upward; claiming; purse $700. *May Rose 98 pounds, Ford 103, *Wish Wainer 103, *Roundel 108, *Jack Healey 108, *Jellison 108, *La Kreme 108, Semper Stalwart 116.

*Apprentice allowance claimed.

Weather cloudy; track slow.

OLD TOWN PURSE

Captures Handicap to Delight of Large Crowd at Fair Grounds Track.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 15.—With bright and balmy weather as a lure, a large crowd turned out at the Fair Grounds today and witnessed one of the best cards of racing that has been provided during the meeting. Good as it was, however, it left something wanting for those who backed the favorites, for but two of the public choices got home in front, although the racing was keen.

Chief of the features was the Old Town Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth for a purse of $1,500, which brought out some of the best performers stabled here. This event went to Veto, a chestnut gelding which has displayed very good form for several months, and which was able to run the race to suit his fancy and handily defeated Parader and General Haig among the five starters.

Veto was made the medium of a heavy plunge by the form players and was sent to the post a 2 to 5 choice. He quickly showed that the faith in him was justified. Veto is a noted front runner and getting away with a bound he took the lead at the barrier and was never headed. However, the distance and the pace began to tell on him as he came within sight of the finish line and Lyke had to shake him up to keep him going to the end.

It was a two-horse race all the way, for Parader was the only serious contender. He followed the pacemaker from the start and finished with a rush. When the winner began to weaken right near the end, Parader made a strong bid for the victory, but Lyke was able to keep Veto together long enough to stall off the challenge. General Haig trailed the field to the last turn, when he came through on the rail and got up for third place.

The Tid Bit purse, for two-year-olds, at three furlongs, resulted in a new track record when T. J. Pendergast's Lord Allen scored an easy victory and hung up a new mark of 0:34 4-5 for the distance.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE—The Tid Bits Purse; for two-year-olds; purse $1,000; three furlongs. Lord Allen 117 pounds (Smith), 3 to 3, 1 to 2, 1 to 5, first; Adventure, 110 (Poole), 4 to 1, 8 to 5, 4 to 5, second; Star Time, 114 (Lyke), 6 to 1, 2 to 1, even, third. Time—:34 4-5. Grace E. Stamp, Johnny Dundee, Bully Buttons, Bumpety Bump and Piunella also ran.

SECOND RACE—For three-year-olds and upward; claiming; purse, $1,000; six furlongs. Ting-A-Ling 109 pounds (Robinson), 12 to 1, 5 to 1, 5 to 2, first; Hidden Jewel 108 (Ponce), 5 to 2, 4 to 5, 2 to 5, second; Marie Maxim 108 (Wida), 8 to 1, 3 to 1, 8 to 5, third. Time—1:12 4-5. Meliora, Bill Rendered, Triotus, Brisk, Herald, Rolo, Frederick The Great and Meroni also ran.

THIRD RACE—The Sunny South Handicap; for three-year-olds and upward; purse, $1,000; six furlongs. Mahoney 104 pounds (Poole), 8 to 1, 5 to 1, 2 to 1, first; Columbia Tenn 110 (Jarvis), 4 to 5, 1 to 3, out, second; Archie Alexander, 101 (Roberts), 10 to 1, 4 to 1, 2 to 1, third. Time—1.12 4-5. Crystal Ford, Dardue, St. Quentin, Two Pair, Bone and Minute Man also ran.

FOURTH RACE—Old Town Handicap; for three-year-olds and upward; purse, $1,500. One mile and a sixteenth. Veto 113 pounds (Lyke), 2 to 5, 1 to 6 and out, first; Parader 98 (Coltiletti), 5 to 1, 4 to 5, 1 to 5, second; General Haig 114 (Jarmer), 7 to 1, 7 to 5, 1 to 4, third. Time—1:46 3-5. Fleer and St. Jermain also ran.

FIFTH RACE—The Seminole Purse; for three-year-olds and upward; purse $1,000; one mile. Dr. Carmen, 106 pounds (Pool), 7 to 1, 5 to 2, 6 to 5, first; Louis A., 104 (Mooney), 8 to 1, 3 to 1, 7 to 5, second; Tantalus, 108 (Thurber), 7 to 1, 5 to 2, 6 to 5, third. Time 1:39. Pantoche, Frogtown, White Star, Grayson, Biff Bang and Lad's Love also ran.

SIXTH RACE—For four-year-olds and upward; purse $1,000; one mile and a quarter. Nominee, 109 pounds (Haupel), 10 to 1, 4 to 1, 2 to 1, first; Lad, 102 (Roberts), 8 to 1, 3 to 1, 8 to 5, second; Pit, 101 (McDermott), 15 to 1, 6 to 1, 3 to 1, third. Time 2:06 2-5. Walter Turnbow, Royden, Solid Rock, Austral, Capital City, Thursday Nighter, Corydon, On High, Old McKenna, Orenzo, Newel W., Pansy Blossom and Aztec also ran.

SEVENTH RACE—For four-year-olds and upward; purse $1,000; one mile and a sixteenth. St. Isidore, 111 pounds (Hamilton), 6 to 5, 2 to 5, 1 to 6, first; Lucky B., 108 (Roberts), 9 to 5, 1 to 2, 1 to 5, second; Fair Orient, 108 (Pool), 4 to 1, 7 to 5, 1 to 2, third. Time 1:46. Trooper, Redmond and Charlie Lydecker also ran.

Weather clear; track fast.

NEW ORLEANS ENTRIES.

FIRST RACE—For maiden two-year-olds; purse $1,000; three furlongs. Harry Buxton 114 pounds, Bully Buttons 114, Cornstalk 114, Tom Hare Jr. 114, Sundo 114, Daddy Wolf 114, Stamp 114.

SECOND RACE—For maiden three-year-olds; purse $1,000; six furlongs. Vulcanize 114 pounds, Dora W. 109, John Arbor 114, Plato 114, Domingo 114, Cut Up 109, Locarno 114, Obstinate 109, Surmount 110, Lusmore 114, Sea Cove 114, Marjorie N. 109, Lady Freppo 109, Zainer 114, Anne's Pet 109.

THIRD RACE—For three-year-olds and upward; purse $1,000; six furlongs. Sandy H. 108 pounds, Circulate 114, American Rose 104, Tony Sutton 101, Gloom 102, Little Maudie 104, Miss Mink 107, First Pullet 104, Loys 104, Elaine 113, Kulture 114, Tom Roach 101, Bantry 114, Lowell 109, Glass Toi 109, Murphy 114, Philanderer 105.

FOURTH RACE—Argonne Purse, for three-year-olds; purse $1,500; seven furlongs. Tharon 104, Loveliness 97, Dr. Mae 109, Brown Check 102, Two Pair 103, Botheration 108, Frivol 103, Madeline Lillian 107, United Verde 109.

FIFTH RACE—Old Glory Purse, for three-year-olds and upward; purse $1,000; one mile and a sixteenth. Frogtown 101, St. Isidore 109, Barry Shannon 104, Wyoming 112, Snapdragon 2d 112.

SIXTH RACE—For four-year-olds and upward; claiming; purse $1,000; one mile and a sixteenth. Sandy Mac 110, Ettahe 112, Deckmate 112, Spearlene 112, Our Birthday 110, Speedster 112, Mandarin's Coat 110, Simonite 110, Claquer 112, Harry Burgoyne 112, Challenger 110, Mark West 110, Colonel Lit 110, Lady Lou 107, Warsaw 112, Dahabiah II. 107.

SEVENTH RACE—For three-year-olds and upward; claiming; purse $1,000; one mile and seventy yards. Lorena Moss 102 pounds, Betty 103, Paul Connelly 115, Pansy Blossom 100, Balrose 107, Aurum 115, Alexander 112, Roysterer 107, Repent 85, Dr. Shafer 112, Westerman 96, Brookland 107, Lottery 107, Louise Wynne 90, Phillipic 107, Magnet Land 112, Orenzo 110, Crimson Rambler 98, Big Idea 100, Gadling 105.

Weather clearing; track fast.

HAVANA RESULTS.

FIRST RACE—Purse, $700; for two-year-olds; two furlongs. Elias O., 118 pounds (Miller), 2 to 1, 3 to 5, and out, first; Jou Jou, 115 (Kelsay), 7 to 10 and 1 to 4, out, second; Noon Time, 110 (Pickens), 5 to 2, 4 to 5, and out, third. Time—0:24 2-5. Justina E. and Cainito also ran.

SECOND RACE—Purse, $700; for four-year-olds and upward; claiming; five and one-half furlongs. Miss Wright, 111 pounds (Crump), 2 to 1, 4 to 5 and 2 to 5, first; Algretta, 108 (Barnes), 4 to 1, 8 to 5 and 4 to 5, second; Hamam, 105 (Pickens), 12 to 1, 5 to 1 and 5 to 2, third. Time—1:13. Terrible Susan, B. B. Johnson, Honest George, Ed Garrison and Top Rung also ran.

THIRD RACE—Purse, $700; for four-year-olds and upward; claiming; five and one-half furlongs. Hindo, 111 pounds (Collins), even, 2 to 5 and 1 to 5, first; Avion, 107 (Lancaster), 3 to 1, even and 1 to 2, second; Lucie May, 95 (Penman), 3 to 1, even and 1 to 2, third. Time—1:12 2-5. Norfolk Belle, Jutland, Onwa and View also ran.

FOURTH RACE—Purse, $800; for four-year-olds and upward; claiming; five and one-half furlongs. Byrne, 107 pounds (Francis), 3 to 1, 7 to 10 and out, first; Fickle Fancy, 108 (Boyle), 2 to 5, 1 to 5 and out, second; Military Girl, 110 (Anderson), 3 to 1, 7 to 10 and out, third. Time—1:12 1-5. Cherry Feast also ran.

FIFTH RACE—Purse $1,000; Evening News Handicap; for three-year-olds and upward; one mile and fifty yards. Dooed, 108 pounds (Kennedy), 1 to 1, out, out, first; Buford, 114 (Butwell), 1 to 2, out, out, second; Walnut Hall, 110 (Pickens), 4 to 1, out, out, third. Time—1:49 4-5. Only three starters.

SIXTH RACE—Purse $700; for three-year-olds; claiming; one mile. Disturbance, 99 pounds (Fletcher), 3 to 1, 2 to 1, even, first; Draftsman, 110 (Eames), 3 to 2, even, 1 to 2, second; Win All, 103 (Robinson), 4 to 1, 8 to 5, 4 to 5, third. Time—1:47 1-5. Ravanna, Chefa and George C. Jr. also ran.

SEVENTH RACE—Purse $700; for four-year-olds and upward; claiming; one mile and fifty yards. Attorney Muir, 107 pounds (Wilson), even, 1 to 2, 1 to 6, first; Plantaresis, 109 (Dames), 3 to 1, even, 1 to 2, second; Night Wind, 110 (Boyle), 7 to 2, 6 to 5, 3 to 5, third. Time—1:54. Mildred, Short Change, Frank Burke, Misericorde and Garbage also ran.

Weather cloudy, track slow.

JOIN BOXING BODY

O'Rourke Denies New National Association Will Usurp Powers of Local Commission.

Despite the announced decision of the New York State Boxing Commission and the License Committee, the controlling bodies of the ring sport in this State, not to affiliate with the recently formed National Boxing Association of the United States, officials of the new organization have not abandoned hope that the Empire State will eventually fall into line. This is reflected in a statement issued yesterday by Tex O'Rourke, matchmaker of the International Sporting Club, who is also secretary of the new association.

In his statement Secretary O'Rourke disputes the possibility of the National Association's usurping the State or territorial rights of the local commissions holding membership, and points to an amendment to Section 111 of the constitution and by-laws, which provides that the new organization's rulings "must be enforced only in so far as they were not inconsistent with the laws of the State." It was on this section of the constitution and by-laws, before amendment, that the local governing authorities based their declination of the invitation to join in the movement to nationalize and unify the control and conduct of boxing.

Secretary O'Rourke's statement points out that affiliation with the new body imposes but one important obligation on State members—that they must recognize and respect the rulings of other States in regard to penalizations.

Following is the statement issued by Secretary O'Rourke:

It is unfortunate that the New York Boxing Commission's determination to remain outside the National Boxing Association of the United States has been made a matter of public comment before a clear understanding of the points at variance had been arrived at. No good purpose has been served by this; it has reflected on the remarkable success of the convention and has directed a considerable amount of criticism at the local commission, which can only be harmful to the sport.

The commission has assigned Article 111 as the reason for not supporting the association.

Chairman Johnson placed before his colleagues a rough draft of the constitution and by-laws, which had not been properly edited and which did not contain one very important clause adopted at the final meeting.

This clause modified the obligation of membership by stating that "rulings of the association must be enforced only in so far as they were not inconsistent with the laws of the State." This amendment removed any question of subordination of power and left each commission supreme in its own State.

Alignment with the national body imposes the one important obligation on members that they must recognize the rulings of other States in regard to penalizing offenders.

As Commissioner Johnson put himself on record during the recent meetings as being strongly in favor of such co-operation, it removes the last objection which has been put forward.

We now put it squarely up to the New York Boxing Commission. If they are genuinely in sympathy with an organization which will assure national and uniform regulation of boxing without which the sport can never advance, the invitation to join the National Boxing Association of the United States is open to them.

Whether the Empire State authorities have changed in their attitude toward the new national body could not be learned yesterday. Efforts to communicate with the members of the License Committee or the Boxing Commission failed. At the headquarters of the governing State bodies, Secretary Charles White refused to comment on the situation.

TWO BOXERS SUSPENDED.

Featherweights Charged With Stalling Set Down Pending Hearing.

Bobby Michaels and Johnny Reisler, local featherweights, who were disqualified in the sixth session of the scheduled ten-round semi-final to the Benny Leonard-Ritchie Mitchell championship bout at Madison Square Garden Friday night, were suspended, pending a hearing, by the Boxing Commission yesterday. The lads were disqualified by Referee Patsy Haley, who declared he took the action because he was not satisfied that the boxers were extending themselves to the best of their respective abilities. Through their disqualification the money the boxers were to have received has been automatically held up, in accordance with the regulations of the Boxing Commission.

SHOWS FUTURITY'S VALUE.

Record List of 1,923 Entries Proves Importance of Classic.

There is no better testimonial to the interest displayed in the horse industry in the United States than that furnished by the entry list for the Futurity Stakes of 1923, which has just been announced. This juvenile classic, which will be run during the September meeting at Belmont Park, closed with a record of 1,402 nominations, which beats the best previous mark by 117 nominations.

This long list represents practically every portion of the United States and Canada and is considered a remarkable response to the stake offering of the Westchester Racing Association. The horses named were nominated by 160 breeders, an unusually large number, which indicates increased patronage. Forty-four of these breeders named but a single mare and twenty-two others are represented by but two nominations each.

August Belmont, Chairman of the Jockey Club and President of the Westchester Racing Association, regards this record achievement as a proof that interest in racing is growing throughout the country and sees in it the public's keen interest in the sport.

"The history of racing in the past has shown a periodic shifting of authority," said Mr. Belmont, "and variations in public support and interest. The foundation of the turf must, therefore, be carefully looked after, so that, as an institution, the sport can go on, with great fixtures such as this which can be counted on as enduring. This stake system is best for the breeding industry, as a definite and progressive engagement attached to a horse carried a vital interest to both the owner and the breeder.

"A good deal can be said for the comfort, profit and ease of mind of the owner racing under the Maryland plan of stake offerings in which the obligation of the horseman is reduced to a minimum, and in most cases he has none beyond the naming of the entry for the race. On the other hand, a Maryland association desiring or being compelled to liquidate could and would go out of business without having any obligations to racing as a deterrent to dropping out of the sport. That system offers no assured prospect for yearlings at our sales, the future depending solely upon the prosperity of the associations in question.

"Under the stake method we offer in New York, and in vogue in all countries having great turf history, prospects have been built up solidly giving definite values to the thoroughbred. This carries with it obligations on the part of racing associations which call for the greatest sacrifices in order that those obligations may be fulfilled. They bind breeder, owner and racing associations together in a bond of common interest. The Maryland system is a stimulant, I admit, but ours is a wholesome and steady diet."

Among those who made the largest nominations were Belair Stud 28, August Belmont 49, J. N. Camden 43, Henry T. Oxnard 47, J. E. Madden 61, H. P. Whitney 89, A. B. Hancock 58, John H. Rosseter 53, J. K. L. Ross 25, and A. K. Macomber 34.

In an exhibition match last night at Thum's Billiard Academy, Edouard Horemans made a run of 791 points. The game, at 18.2 balkline, was to have been for 400 points. Edward Knowles was the Belgian's adversary, but he only scored 2 points. The game lasted for but two innings. In the first Horemans made 9 and when he returned to the table he started in on the run which far more than ended the block. When he hit the 500 mark he changed in style and played the next hundred in the usual American style and then reverted to his own particular method of play. Hoppe's longest run, made in Paris, was 646. In 1896 Frank Ives, in competition with Maurice Daly in this city, ran 549 points, and while touring in Spain he made a run of 524 points.

LANDIS IS BACKED WITH $10,000 FUND

Baseball Commissioner Is Provided With Sum to Press Investigations.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—The newly created Advisory Council of organized baseball today wound up its first meeting by drafting the rules which will govern relations between the major and minor leagues and by placing a fund of $10,000 at the disposal of Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, Baseball Commissioner, to be used as he sees fit in investigations in connection with the game.

The fund will be supplied entirely by the major leagues and it is believed that Judge Landis may use some of it in furthering the investigation of alleged game throwing in the 1919 world's series.

"We made Judge Landis the ruler with power to do as he pleased," said President John Heydler of the National League in announcing the fund, "and now we are placing at his disposal the means of carrying out his wishes."

The tentative draft of the major-minor regulations provides that all leagues not going into the draft, which was restored at the recent joint meeting of the leagues, must notify the Advisory Council not later than Feb. 15 next. The regulations provide that the draft should not be compulsory, but that leagues remaining out of it cannot draft from leagues which come in.

The tentative draft of the regulations will be sent to the various leagues for their individual approval, which in most cases already has been indicated, for most of the rules were discussed at the recent baseball meetings.

Within two weeks the Advisory Council expects to be organized, with a secretary and treasurer, and will then begin to function officially. Headquarters will be here.

NEW RIVALS FOR COLUMBIA.

Army, Yale and Holy Cross Additions to Baseball Schedule.

The Columbia baseball schedule for the coming season, as announced yesterday by Graduate Manager Watt, calls for eighteen games, twelve of which will be played on the home diamond at South Field. The schedule is smaller than that of last year, and it is notable chiefly for the number of new opponents that will be encountered before the season comes to an end.

Chief among the new attractions on the list are West Point, Yale, Rutgers and Holy Cross, none of which has played against Columbia for a number of years. Vermont and Bowdoin are also new attractions, the latter being scheduled to open the season on South Field with a game March 31. Vermont will be the second visiting team, playing in New York on April 4. The game with the army will be staged at West Point on May 11.

The schedule follows:

March 31, Bowdoin at South Field.

April 4, Vermont at South Field; 7, N. Y. U. at South Field; 9, Holy Cross at South Field; 13, Yale at New Haven; 16, C. C. N. Y. at South Field; 20, Fordham at South Field; 23, Harvard at South Field; 27, Fordham at Fordham; 30, Wesleyan at South Field.

May 4, Cornell at Ithaca; 7, Rutgers at South Field; 11, West Point at West Point; 13, Dartmouth at Hanover; 14, Wesleyan at Middletown; 28, Dartmouth at South Field; 30, Yale at South Field.

June 1, Cornell at South Field.

ROBINS TO PLAY BROWNS.

Four Exhibition Games Arranged for Southern Training Camps.

Colonel Charles H. Ebbets, President of the Brooklyn National League Club, announced yesterday that four games had been arranged with the St. Louis Americans during the training season. Two of the skirmishes between the Robins an dthe Browns wil loccur at Bogalusa, La., on March 15 and 16, and Robins and the Browns will occur at Orleans on March 28 and 29.

POULTRY SHOW THIS WEEK.

Exhibition to Begin in Garden Tuesday—Entries Number 16,000.

The thirty-second annual exhibition of the Madison Square Garden Poultry Show will open in the Garden on Tuesday morning and continue until Saturday night. The entries number in excess of 16,000 and they so far exceed those of any previous years that the judges will be hard put to finish their awards in the allotted days. The entries include poultry, pigeons, water fowl, rabbits, cavies and milch goats.

A small army of judges, numbering thirty-six, will be in readiness when the show opens on Tuesday. They include an Englishman, Harold Wilkinson, who is coming to this country especially to judge Jacobin pigeons. Every standard breed will have full representation, from the American Plymouth Rock and Rhode Island Reds to the Asiatics.

BLAME ON HOPPE

Says That if They Fail to Cross Cues It Will Be American's Fault.

The question most frequently heard propounded in billiard circles is: will Willie Hoppe and Edouard Horemans cross cues for billiard supremacy this Winter? J. F. L. Derks, Secretary to the Belgian expert, says Hoppe will be responsible if they fail to get together, and adds that Horemans is ready to meet Hoppe at either 18-2 or 18-1 balkline, 18-1 preferably, for a liberal stake and the terms Hoppe's manager dictated, namely, the winner to take all the gate.

According to Derks, Boston enthusiasts have offered to back Horemans. "Hoppe can now play for plenty of money and all the gate," said Derks, and added: "I told this to Hoppe's manager last Thursday, and he replied that Hoppe has no time to play a match until May, as his exhibition engagements will keep him busy until the latter part of April.

"If Hoppe does not play before May, Horemans will go home and remain in Europe until late in September or early in October, when he will return to play in a tournament next Winter. All I can now announce is that Horemans has the time in which to play a match and Hoppe has not."

While in Boston week before last Horemans and Nathan Hall, winner of the national amateur championship tournament held by the Boston A. A. in 1916, arranged to play a game of 400 points at 18.2. Horemans won the bank and opened with a run of 154. Hall had one inning which resulted in a miss and the Belgian then ran 268, making the score 422 to 0.

DE ORO TURNS TO POOL.

Former Champion May Meet Greenleaf in Match.

It is more than probable that there may be a pocket billiard match between Ralph Greenleaf, the champion, and Alfredo De Oro, the former champion, in the very near future. De Oro only this season returned to public competition after a retirement of nearly a year and a half. He came back to take part in the national three-cushion championship tournament in Chicago and showed in that event that with a little more practice he will be as good as ever.

Although he has not played much pocket billiards of late it is understood that he has been practicing in private, and is deferring the acceptance of Greenleaf's challenge until he is certain he can attain his old-time form. Once satisfied in this respect De Oro will take up the pocket game.

Greenleaf leaves this city this afternoon for Detroit, where he will engage in a series of exhibition matches. He will return next week. "I would like nothing better than to meet De Oro in a pocket billiard match," said Greenleaf yesterday.

WILL EXHIBIT PEKINGESE.

Fourteenth Annual Show to Be Held Tomorrow at Plaza Hotel.

The imperial dragon of China has been consigned to the limbo sacred to the dodo, but China's royal dog, the Pekingese, still rules. His especial domain, moreover, is Manhattan Island, and tomorrow will be the day for society to do him obeisance. The throne room for his Oriental majesty will be at the Plaza Hotel, where a sign reading "Fourteenth Specialty Show of the Pekingese Club of America" will point the way.

Thousands of dollars, it is said, have been spent for the funny-faced little Chinese dogs which will compete at the Plaza show, and the princelings of dogdom will be surrounded with masterpieces of Eastern art that they may be seen against their native background.

Among those who will exhibit are: Mrs. Michael M. Van Buren, the President of the Pekingese Club; Mrs. Frederick Edey, Mrs. Palmer Campbell, Miss Isabel K. Benjamin, Mrs. Arthur M. Hunter, Mrs. Clinton Irwin Martin and Elbridge G. Snow Jr.

Mrs. M. E. Harby of Huntington, L. I., is to judge the dogs.

Of Our Entire Newark Stock of

Bohn Refrigerators

We Are Closing Our Newark Store

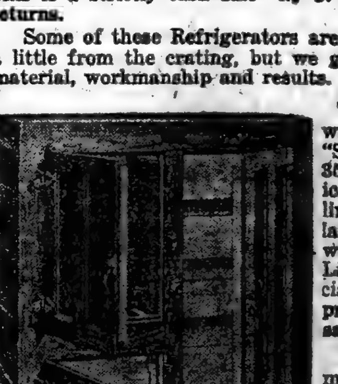
Every Refrigerator in that Store Is Offered at a Bargain

We are about to turn this store over to Charles Hartdegen & Co., the well-known jewellers, who have sublet it from us.

We are now offering every Refrigerator in stock in our Newark store at special price. This includes our Bohn "Syphon," "Sanitor," "Icyco" and steel-exterior, silver-finished "Ideal" Refrigerators. We also have here Refrigerators from $25 up.

There are no reservations—everything must be sold. This is a strictly cash sale—no C. O. D., no credits, no returns.

Some of these Refrigerators are marred or scratched a little from the crating, but we guarantee them as to material, workmanship and results.



The Refrigerator herewith illustrated is our "Sanitor," 3 doors, size 35½ x 21½ x 50 inches, ice capacity 125 lbs.; lining of genuine procelain-enamel (not paint), with seamless corners. List price $122.00; special bargain price for this sale $74.33

This is only one of the many models, sizes and ice capacities included in this sale. Call at once, while the selection is large. These special prices apply to our NEWARK STORE ONLY.

Buy Now for the Future

If you are not quite ready for your Refrigerator, it will pay you to buy now and leave it in the crate for the two or three months until warm weather, as it is not likely that such a chance to buy a world-famous Bohn Refrigerator at such a bargain price ever will be offered again.

We will make deliveries as promptly as possible, but ask the indulgence of our customers for any slight delays during the rush of this closing-out sale.

Bohn Refrigerator Co.

of New York

913 Broad Street, Opp. City Hall, Newark

Open Saturday Evenings Until 10 o'Clock

SHORT CUT TO TAXATION.

An engineer's device which enables direct reading of a corporation's liability under present income and excess profits taxation law, will be described in The Annalist (out tomorrow). Ten cents a copy at news stands.

HOTELS AND RESTAURANTS

Other Hotel and Restaurant Advertisements, Section 6, Page 5.

The DRAKE
CHICAGO
Now Open for Guests

Suites and bedrooms (each with bath)
Five dollars per day and upward

This long looked for event designated by the Chicago Tribune as "a social event, a landmark in the life of the community" is now an accomplished fact.

THE DRAKE is a notable addition to the hotel facilities of Chicago—and it is destined to be a new focus for political, economic and social events of first magnitude.

In location, in architectural arrangement, and in beauty of its appointments, THE DRAKE is distinctive among the hotels of America.

Facing upon Lake Michigan, it offers a charming natural setting in surroundings of the highest social order. Yet it is metropolitan — within five minutes ride of the heart of Chicago's business, theatrical and shopping districts.

Within thi beautiful and wonderfully spacious hotel, the largest affairs, conventions and delegations can be handled expeditiously, and without disturbing the natural quiet which guests enjoy in this residential district apart from the loop

Lake Shore Drive and Upper Michigan Avenue • Chicago

The DRAKE

CHICAGO

THE DRAKE is under the direction of The Drake Hotel Company, owners of THE BLACKSTONE

HOTELS AND RESTAURANTS.

Other Hotel and Restaurant Advertisements, Section 6, Page 5.

TO SUBLET

One Parlor, Bedroom and Bath Suite. One Two Bedrooms, Parlor and Bath Suite to Sublet for the Balance of the Season, both handsomely furnished and appointed.

Service First Class Dining Room a la Carte at moderate prices

Hotel Patterson
58 West 47th St.

THE NEWEST FRENCH RESTAURANT
DE LA PAIX
423 Madison Avenue
bet. 48th and 49th Sts.
New open—a restaurant of unusual excellence
French dishes of every variety
Breakfast—Luncheon—Dinner
Very attractive prices
Afternoon tea
The first restaurant to inaugurate the European system of non-tipping.

INSTRUCTION

Special Schools.

PRIVATE instruction, experienced teacher; specialties, algebra, music, English. A 1008 Times Harlem.

ESTABLISHED teacher offers several two-third scholarships, interpretative dancing. B 185 Times.

MISS CURTIS BRIDE OF T. L. CHADBOURNE

Daughter of Late Dr. H. Holbrook Curtis Married in Mother's Madison Av. Home.

HONEYMOON ON HOUSEBOAT

Miss Vivienne Moncure Weds Wm. Allen Butler Jr.; Miss Helen Hinman, James B. Leary.

The wedding of Thomas L. Chadbourne of this city and Miss Marjorie A. Curtis, the only child of the late Dr. H. Holbrook Curtis and Mrs. Curtis, was solemnized at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's mother, 786 Madison Avenue, by the Rev. Charles P. Fagnani of the Union Theological Seminary. The house was decorated with cut flowers, and none except relatives and a few close friends witnessed the ceremony.

The bride walked with her uncle, William F. Curtis, who gave her in marriage. She wore an afternoon gown of cafe au lait crepe de chine, topped by a brown tulle hat. Mr. Chadbourne's son, William Chadbourne, was his best man, and there were no other bridal attendants. Mr. Chadbourne and his bride left early last evening for Miami, Fla., where they will occupy his houseboat, and about the middle of February will go to Palm Beach.

Butler—Moncure.

The marriage of Miss Vivienne Randolph Moncure and William Allen Butler Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Allen Butler of 30 East Seventy-second Street, took place yesterday at Richmond, Va., the home of the bride. She is a daughter of William Moncure and the late Mrs. Moncure of Richmond.

Leary—Hinman.

The wedding of Miss Helen Hinman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hinman of 340 Park Avenue, to James Bartlett Leary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Leary of 876 Fifth Avenue, took place yesterday afternoon in the chapel of St. Bartholomew's Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks and was followed by a small reception at the home of the bride's parents attended by only members of the immediate families.

Atterbury—Adams.

Miss Anne Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Cook Adams, and Kirby Atterbury, son of the late George Stone Atterbury and Mrs. Atterbury, were married yesterday in Buffalo. Mr. and Mrs. Atterbury will reside at 17 East Ninety-fifth Street, and will be at home after Feb. 1.

Biddle—Bullard.

Miss Margaret Bullard, daughter of Charles G. Bullard, was married yesterday afternoon to William C. Biddle Jr., at the home of the bride's father, 431 Riverside Drive. The Rev. Dr. Dwight W. Wylie of the Central Presbyterian Church performed the ceremony in the presence of a few intimate friends. Miss Marian Edwards of Chestnut Hill, Mass., was the maid of honor and Clarence H. Montgomery of this city acted as best man.

Mulford—Williams.

The wedding of Miss Hazel Mae Williams, daughter of Mrs. W. Edwin Williams of Plainfield, N. J., and Jesse G. Mulford, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong Mulford of this city, took place last evening at the Congregational Church in Plainfield, the Rev. Howard B. Clarke officiating.

Conrad—Vinson.

The marriage of Miss Frances Vinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hamilton Vinson of East Orange, N. J., formerly of this city, and Charles Conrad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pearson S. Conrad of Wayne, Conn., took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Woman's Club of Orange. The Rev. Dr. Ernest Matthews of the Church of the Heavenly Rest in this city performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Charles Hutchison.

Saroli—Arcudi.

The wedding of Francesco Saroli, manager of the Italian Commercial Bank, 165 Broadway, and Miss Eleanor Maria Arcudi of Milan, Italy, was performed at 11:30 yesterday morning in the Church of the Blessed Sacrament by the Rev. Father Ryan. The bride was attended by Mme. Mirella d'Aria and Eduardo Roffi was the best man. Mr. Saroli has lived here several years, making his home at the Ansonia. His bride, whom he knew before coming to New York, arrived a week ago from Italy.

Hiley—Winne.

Miss Dorothy Winne, daughter of Mrs. Mabel La Forge Winne of East Orange, N. J., and Eugene Spurgeon Hiley, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Samuel B. Hiley of Summit, were married last evening in Montclair, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Henry Lamborn, uncle and aunt of the bride. The ceremony was performed by the father of the bridegroom, assisted by the Rev. Robert Brewster Beattie of East Orange.

Perrin—MacClymont.

Miss Catherine E. MacClymont, daughter of Mrs. William E. MacClymont of Plainfield, N. J., and Arthur R. Perrin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Perrin, also of Plainfield, took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in St. Agnes's Church in this city, the Rev. Harold St. George Burrill of Plainfield officiating. Miss Dorothy J. Cameron was the maid of honor and Edward J. Perrin Jr. served as best man. Following the ceremony there was a luncheon and reception at the Hotel Marseilles.

Midwinter Dances.

The New York Southern Society will hold its annual charity ball on Monday, Jan. 24, at the Waldorf-Astoria. Mrs. Robert Adamson, Mrs. Charles Baskerville, Mrs. F. Graham Cootes, Mrs. Stuart G. Gibboney, Mrs. Walter L. McCorkle, Mrs. Theodore H. Price, and Mrs. Thomas F. Ryan are among the patronesses.

Mrs. John J. Byrne, Mrs. T. J. Oakley Rhinelander and Mrs. T. O'Connor Sloane Jr. are members of the committee in charge of concert, supper and dance, which the Woman's Auxiliary of the Ninth Coast Defense Command will give on Saturday evening, at the armory, 125 West Fourteenth Street. Mrs. George F. Shrady of 328 West Eighty-seventh Street and Captain J. G. Phelps Stokes are receiving applications for tickets.

Miss Train to Wed Dr. Janvrin.

Mrs. Franklin M. Train of Brookline, Mass., announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Train, to Dr. Edmund R. P. Janvrin, son of Mrs. Joseph E. Janvrin of 515 Park Avenue, this city.

Miss Train attended Miss Hall's School in Pittsfield, later graduating from Miss Amy M. Sacker's School of Design. Dr. Janvrin is a graduate of Princeton, class of '05, and is an assistant visiting physician to Bellevue Hospital and an associate in medicine in the College of Physicians and Surgeons. He is a member of the Riding and Princeton Clubs.

Hosts to Willem Mengelberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Untermyer gave a reception in honor of Willem Mengelberg last evening at their home, 2 East Fifty-fourth Street. The reception followed a concert of the National Symphony Orchestra under the Dutch conductor's direction at Carnegie Hall, the first he has led here before a popular Saturday night house. At the concert's close the audience engaged in a demonstration for the new leader, crowding about the stage and applauding for ten minutes. Many musicians afterward greeted Mr. Mengelberg at Mr. Untermyer's home.

Roosevelt to Speak at Dinner.

The annual dinner of the St. Lawrence County Society will be held at the Hotel Astor on Feb. 8. Congressman Bertrand H. Snell will act as toastmaster. Among the speakers will be Colonel Theodore Roosevelt Jr., H. B. Johnson and John O'Connor of Ogdensburg.

SOCIAL NOTES

New York.

Miss Eleanor S. Sullivan of Philadelphia is the week-end guest of Miss Mary Cameron at the residence of Miss Cameron's aunt, Mrs. Belmont Tiffany.

Miss Louise Homer, eldest daughter of Sidney Homer and Mme. Louise Homer, and Ernest Van Rensselaer Stires, eldest of the four sons of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Ernest M. Stires, will be married on the afternoon of April 19 in St. Thomas's Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Howe Bailey gave a dinner for W. Ambrose McEvoy of London at the St. Regis last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey are sailing for Spain the latter part of February.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lewisohn will entertain at dinner tonight at their home, 835 Fifth Avenue.

Mrs. Henry Lewis is occupying her new apartment at 11 West Forty-seventh Street for the Winter.

John Kirkman Berry gave a dinner last night at Greenwich, Conn., preceding the dinner dance held at the Field Club.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Lancashire and Miss Lancashire are sailing on Feb. 3 for France. They plan to spend some time with their daughter, Mrs. Umberto Coletti, in Florence, Italy.

Mrs. Francis M. Weld will open her home at 930 Park Avenue on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock for a bridge for the benefit of the Social Service Committee of the New York Infirmary for Women and Children.

Sir Sam Hughes has returned from England, and is at the Vanderbilt for a few days prior to leaving for his home in Toronto.

Mrs. I. Chauncey McKeever entertained at 135 East Sixty-sixth Street on Friday afternoon, in the interest of Thrift House.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Dole have moved to their new house at 461 East Fifty-seventh Street.

MISS FARR'S BRIDAL PARTY.

Plans for Her Marriage to Wm. Montague Geer Jr. in Grace Church.

The wedding of Miss Edith Jaffray Farr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Farr of 14 West Tenth Street, and William Montague Geer Jr., son of the Rev. Dr. William Montague Geer, Vicar Emeritus of St. Paul's Chapel, Trinity Parish, and the late Katherine Throop Geer, will take place at Grace Church next Saturday at 4 o'clock. The ceremony will be performed by the father of the bridegroom, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Charles Lewis Slattery, rector of Grace Church. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Mary Evelyn Scott is to be the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be the Misses Margaret L. Strong, Gertrude M. Geer, Philena F. Fine, Anne D. Farr, Marian H. Farr and Elizabeth B. Bartow of Philadelphia, the latter three being cousins of the bride. Enos Throop Geer, brother of the bridegroom, will serve as best man, and the ushers are to be F. Sheldon Farr, Austin P. Montgomery, Sydney P. Henshaw, G. E. Hugh Greeff, Francis H. Geer, Garrow T. Geer, Henry Pemberton Sturgis and Louis A. Coffin Jr.

Mr. Geer is a graduate of Columbia, class of '03, and of the Columbia Law School. He is a member of the Columbia University and Church Clubs and the St. Nicholas Society. During the war he served overseas as a Lieutenant in the Fifteenth Field Artillery Regiment, Second Division. His engagement to Miss Farr was announced last September.

TEACHER TO WED JANITOR.

Miss Georgia Cerow Engaged to E. P. Mellin, Student of Engineering.

Miss Georgia Cerow, a member of the Faculty of Erasmus Hall High School in Brooklyn, has announced her engagement to Edward P. Mullin, Jr., one of the schools sub-janitors, who has been taking an engineering course at the Pratt Institute, and who expects to receive his diploma within the month.

Miss Cerow is 28 years old and is a teacher in mathematics and grade supervisor at the school. She is a graduate of Barnard College, class of '12, and was active in welfare work during the war.

ENGAGEMENTS.

Thomas Kenworthy of 102 West Eightieth Street has announced the engagement of his daughter, Miss Ethel Collier Kenworthy to Wolodja G. Hagelin, son of K. W. Hagelin of Stockholm, Sweden, who is President of a petroleum company in Petrograd. Mr. Hagelin Jr. is connected with the Standard Oil Company of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Grunsfeld of 151 West Eighty-sixth Street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elinor Louise Grunsfeld, to Sam G. Adler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Adler of Savannah, Ga. Mr. Adler was a first lieutenant in the Third Battalion, 319th Field Artillery. He served in the St. Mihiel, Argonne and Meuse offensive, returning after the armistice was signed.

William Duncan Judkins, formerly of 563 Park Avenue, this city, now in Florida, announces the engagement of his daughter, Miss Katharine Lee Judkins, to Reuben Grove Clark Jr., son of Mrs. Reuben G. Clark of Savannah, Ga. The marriage will take place at Clearwater, Fla., early this Spring.

Dr. and Mrs. Homer Wakefield of 411 West 114th Street and Winsted, Conn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Harriet Jane Wakefield, to Philip Penhale Whritner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Whritner of Winsted. Miss Wakefield is a sister of Mrs. Stephen H. Tyng Jr.

Mrs. Robert Weil of 736 West End Avenue has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Dorothy Piza Weil, to Jesse Siegel, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Siegel of 884 West End Avenue. Miss Weil is a graduate of Barnard College, Class of 1920.

Issue Newspaper of Wedding Plans.

A miniature newspaper has been issued for the benefit of the relatives and friends of Miss Rae Helfant, daughter of Mrs. Bella Helfant, and Max Lippman, son of Mrs. Bessie Lippman, whose wedding is to take place this evening at the Hotel Majestic.

The bridal party is enumerated like the cast of a play under the head of "Who's Who in the Play of Life Called 'Max and Rae.'" The Rev. Dr. Elias Margolis of Mount Vernon, N. Y., is to officiate.

The back page contains a warning to the guests of early morning hold-ups, with the advice to travel by the subway, "the safety road."

Mrs. Harding in League for Animals

Mrs. Warren G. Harding, wife of the President-elect, has become a sustaining member of the New York Women's League for Animals. This fact was made known at a meeting held last Thursday at the home of Mrs. James Speyer, 1,058 Fifth Avenue, the President of the league. In her letter to Mrs. Speyer, Mrs. Harding expressed her sympathy with and admiration for the humane work of the league.

A benefit bridge is to be held at the Ritz-Carlton on Feb. 8 for the benefit of the cause. Among the prizes will be the use of Mrs. Speyer's parterre box at the Metropolitan opera one night.

Coffee Dances at Cosmopolitan Club.

A series of four informal subscription dances known as the coffee dances are to be held on alternate Monday evenings at the Cosmopolitan Club beginning on Jan. 17. Among the patronesses are Mrs. John Clarkson Jay Jr., Mrs. William G. Rockefeller, Miss Constance Curtis, Mrs. Theron G. Strong, Mrs. Joseph H. Hunt, Mrs. Frederick De Witt Wells, Mrs. Henry H. Pease, Mrs. Mansfield Patterson, Mrs. George DeB. Greene, Mrs. Lindsley Tappin and Mrs. Allen Tucker.

Mme. Tetrazzini Gets War Medal.

Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini, the prima donna, has returned from a visit to Washington, D. C. During her stay there she was the guest of honor at a reception on the President's yacht, the Mayflower, given by Mrs. Gordon Woodbury and Mrs. Ralston Holmes, and was also received by Secretary and Mrs. Daniels. Before leaving the American Red Cross medal was presented to her by the District of Columbia branch in recognition of her war work.

FUND FOR NEEDIEST $588 OVER THE TOP

Day's Contributions of $345 Put Fund $3,467.91 in Excess of Last Year's.

AID FOR MORE THAN 200

Distressed Families Not Mentioned Among The Times Cases Will Receive Help.

Contributions of $345 for the Neediest Cases were reported yesterday, making a total of $110,248.62. The sum exceeds by $588.13 the total required to make complete provision for 200 families and exceeds the total of a year ago by $3,467.91.

The following contributions were received yesterday by THE NEW YORK TIMES:

A. A. W.	$2	In Memoriam	$5
Anonymous	1	L.	1
Anonymous	2	Latham, Miss H.M.	5
Anonymous	5	Levy E. N.	10
Anonymous	5	Litchfield Miss M.	10
Anonymous	10	Lucas, C. A.	1
Anonymous	25	M. M.	5
Blum, A. R.	5	Macaulay, Pierre	2
Brown, Mrs. D.	50	Melden, K. M.	5
Coon Can Club	10	Moore, L. S.	5
Dimon, Mrs. T. D.	3	"Procrastinator"	2
E. F. H.	10	Rogers, Mary E.	25
Hyde, A. E.	1	Thomas, Mrs. T. G.	25
In Memory of My Husband	5	Thompson, Mrs. P. J.	5
		Williams, S. J.	100

Total $345

$900 FOR VENETIAN VIOLIN

By Bergonzi, Follower of Stradivarius—32 Old Instruments, $7,848.

An interesting sale at the Anderson Galleries yesterday afternoon was of thirty-two old string instruments from the collection of "The Society of the Friends of Music," Vienna. This collection has been well known in the history of old instruments, and it is the pressure of present circumstances which has forced the society to dispose of it. Many of the instruments had histories, being gifts from distinguished people or their families. No. 30, an old Italian violin, with the label "Johannes Baptista Guadagnini Placentinus fecit Mediolani 1742," which sold yesterday for $825, going to Abraham Goldberg, was presented to the society by the family of Haydn, the composer. Guadagnini was a pupil of Stradivarius.

A Viennese master violin by Franciscus Geissenhof, who made excellent instruments in the style of Stradivarius, presented by his family, went to N. E. Posner for $265, and for a Viennese master viola, by the same maker, Posner paid $245. An old Viennese violoncello by Michael Ignatius Stadelmann, member of an old family of violin makers, was bought by T. Mirsch for $205; a Viennese violoncello by Geissenhof, Stradivarius size, reddish brown lacquer, sold to A. T. Louis for $210; an old Viennese violoncello by Martin Stoss, an excellent Viennese master who lived in the latter part of the eighteenth and first part of the nineteenth century, sold to A. Tacroff for $230; to Louis went an old Italian viola of a rarely large size, yellow lacquer, made by Carlo Antonio Testore of Milan, a seventeenth and eighteenth century maker and son of a violin maker, for $375.

A very fine large Italian violoncello, made by Lorenzo Storioni, the last of the great Cremonese masters, was bought by T. Ackerman for $625; an old French violoncello, made by Jean Baptiste Vuillaume, said to have been the best French violin maker, and who made excellent copies of Stradivarius violins, went to A. L. Smith for $650; Edward Collins paid $850 for an old Italian violoncello, made by Francesco Ruggeri, who was a pupil of Amati, lived in Cremona and specialized in violoncellos. Abraham Goldberg, who bought the Haydn violin, paid $650 for an old Italian master violin, one of the finest instruments of the collection, in excellent preservation, made by Storioni, the last great Cremona violin maker.

The highest price of the day, $900, was paid by Goldberg for a Venetian violin by Carlo Bergonzi, who was the best pupil and follower of Stradivarius and lived in Cremona. It was this pupil who acquired the house and workshop of the master after his death. The violin had a divided back, was of red lacquer and bore the label "Anno 1736 Carlo Bergonzi fece in Cremona." The returns for the sale were $7,848.

$26,390 FOR BARTLETT ART.

Bureau, XVIII. Century American, Brings Highest Price, $1,250.

A fine old mahogany block-front bureau, XVIII. century American, with original brasses, inverted shell carvings and heavily molded top, made for the Post family by Thomas Goddard of Newport, brought the highest price at the Mrs. Franklin Bartlett sale at the American Art Galleries yesterday afternoon going to a buyer giving the name of Fox for $1,250.

A carved mahogany corner chair, English XVIII. Century, with scrolled horseshoe top rail, went to Miss Clark for $245; a pair of old Dutch marquetry chairs, Queen Anne period, with seats of crimson floral damask, were bought by L. Josephs for $240; James Cunan paid $262 for five carved mahogany Hepplewhite chairs with the Prince of Wales feathers; another mahogany bureau, by Goddard of Newport, with four cock-beaded drawers and molded serpentine top, with plate glass, went to Mrs. Canning for $800, and the same buyer paid $550 for a carved and gilded convex mirror of the Georgian period.

An Aubusson tapestry suite of the Louis Philippe period, a sofa, two arm and two side chairs, sold to Leo Elwyn for $420; a mahogany console table of the American Empire period, with scroll legs and claw feet and mirror panel back, was bought by Mrs. A. S. Richardson for $300; a mahogany chest of drawers, made by Goddard of Newport for the Post family, went to W. R. Hearst for $750, and to the same buyer went an XVIII. Century American carved portal and eight panel door, surmounted by a beautifully glazed semi-circular lunette, for $850.

The returns for the day were $15,241, making a total for the entire collection of 711 numbers of $26,390.

George F. Cornwell.

George F. Cornwell, Secretary and Treasurer of Claflin's, Inc., Church and Worth Streets, died Friday afternoon at his home, 76 Bushwick Avenue, Bellehaven, Greenwich, Conn., at the age of 46. He had been in failing health since last August. Mr. Cornwell was born in Brooklyn in 1874 and had lived there until his marriage in 1905. His term of service with H. B. Claflin & Co., and Claflin's, Inc., aggregated twenty years. He is survived by his widow and son, Robert. Service will be held at the home at Bellehaven this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Obituary Notes.

VALENTINE JEWELL, 55 years old, a mechanical engineer, died on Friday at his home, 66 Hart Street, Brooklyn. Mr. Jewell had been a resident of Brooklyn for thirty years, and left a widow, two sons and a daughter.

J. FRANK QUINN, an officer of the New England Steamship Company and formerly a general contractor in Brooklyn, died on Friday at his home in West Collingwood, N. J.

ROBERT V. MAGEE, member of the Connecticut State Finance Commission and former Assemblyman, died yesterday at his home in Watertown, Conn., of pneumonia contracted while returning from the Governor's inaugural ball on Jan. 5. He was born in Tyrone, Ireland, in 1866.

DURAND E. BELL, 81 years old, a mine superintendent for the Lackawanna Railroad Company, died yesterday in South Plainfield, N. J., at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Pickering.

Dr. EDWARD W. KELLOGG, who was the family physician of Mark Twain, Charles Dudley Warner and Harriet Beecher Stowe, died yesterday at his home in Avon, Conn., aged 80 years.

JAMES T. BRUNDAGE, an insurance broker with offices at 68 Broad Street, died Friday at the home of his brother, 316 Eighth Street, Brooklyn. He was born in Manhattan in 1849 and had lived fifty years in Brooklyn.

GEORGE WILLIAM CARUTH, 79 years old, of Cleveland, died yesterday at Little Rock, Ark.

CAPT. R. PAGET MARRIED.

Son of Gen. Sir Arthur Weds Mrs. Laurens Rider in London Dec. 22.

The marriage is announced of Captain Reginald Paget and Mrs. Minna Louise Rider, widow of Laurens Rider of this city, which took place in London on Dec. 22.

Captain Paget is the son of General Sir Arthur Paget, of 35 Belgrave Square, London, and the twin brother of Arthur Henry Paget. His mother, Lady Paget, was Miss Minnie Stevens, daughter of the late Paran Stevens of New York. She died in 1919, after a brilliant record of war relief work.

Captain Paget and his brother came to this country some years ago in quest of a fortune, and worked for a time on the Northern Pacific Railroad in the freight department at St. Paul. Later they became owners of a California ranch. They were graduated from Oxford.

ISAAC H. CLOTHIER DEAD.

Retired Philadelphia Merchant and Philanthropist Was 83.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—Isaac H. Clothier, last surviving founder of the firm of Strawbridge & Clothier, philanthropist, and a prominent member of the Society of Friends, died today at Wynnewood, Pa., near here.

Born in Philadelphia in 1837, he attended the Friends School until 17, when he entered the importing dry goods house of George D. Parrish & Co. Six years later he formed a partnership with George Morris and Edmund Lewis. He left them in 1868 to establish Strawbridge & Clothier, a modest retail dry goods business at Eighth and Market Streets.

This enterprise grew steadily, so that in 1887 it was the largest store in the United States devoted solely to dry goods. Mr. Clothier retired at the beginning of 1895, the year his son, Morris L. Clothier, who now directs the business, was admitted to partnership. He retained, however, his place on the boards of several financial and public institutions.

Born.

BERNSTEIN—Mr. and Mrs. Gad Bernstein (nee Hannah Rosenberg) announce the arrival of a baby girl, Wednesday, Jan. 12, at the Brooklyn Hospital.

BRANDT—To Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brandt (nee Shirley Manteo) of 502 Bedford Av., Brooklyn, a son, at Williamsburg Maternity Hospital Thursday, Jan. 13.

COHEN—To Mr. and Mrs. Mandel E. Cohen (nee Birdie T. Shapiro) of 601 West 149th St., a boy, at New York Nursery and Child's Hospital, Friday, Jan. 14.

COHN—Mr. and Mrs. Perry Cohn (nee Selma Adelson) announce arrival of a daughter, Eleanor Jean, Jan. 9, 1921.

GOODMAN—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goodman (nee Mae Jaffe) announce the arrival of a daughter, Jan. 7, at the Woman's Hospital.

GREENBERG—To Mrs. Ralph Greenberg, a daughter, at the New York Nursery and Child Hospital, Jan. 10, 1921.

GULACK—Mr. and Mrs. Simon Gulack of 2,107 Daly Av. announce the arrival of a daughter on Jan. 6, 1921, at home.

HARRIS—Mr. and Mrs. Laury Harris of 934 East 181st St. announce the birth of a daughter, Irma, on Jan. 7, 1921.

INKELAS—Mr. and Mrs. Morris Inkelas (nee Bertha Semansky), a daughter, Esther Gertrude, on Jan. 12 at Lloyd's Sanitarium.

MARCALUS—To Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Marcalus (nee Mildred Goldsmith), on Wednesday, Jan. 12, a son, at Muhlenburg Hospital, Plainfield, N. J.

MEDINE—Mr. and Mrs. William Medine of 280 West 117th St. announce the birth of a daughter, at the Lloyd Sanitarium, Monday, Jan. 10.

ROSENBLUM—To Mr. and Mrs. William Rosenblum (nee Elsie Schwarz) of 404 Audubon Av., on Jan. 14, a daughter, at Lebanon Hospital.

ROSENS—Mr. and Mrs. Leo A. Rosens (nee Augusta Russ), 3,505 Broadway, announce the birth of a daughter, Jan. 8.

RUKEYSER—Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rukeyser (nee Myra Lyons) announce the arrival of a daughter, Jan. 11, at their residence, 789 West End Av.

SILVER—Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Silver (nee Hannah Burnstine), 545 West 111th St., announce the birth of a son, Jan. 10.

ULLMAN—To Mr. and Mrs. Max Ullman (nee Bertha Weinberg) of 1,061 East 14th St., Flatbush, a daughter, Marjorie, at New York Nursery and Child's Hospital, Thursday, Jan. 13.

WEINGART—Mr. and Mrs. Richard I. N. Weingart (nee Emily Hillman) of Atlantic City announce the birth of a daughter Jan. 15.

WEINSTEIN—Mr. and Mrs. Bert L. Weinstein (nee Bessie Topal) announce the arrival of a daughter Jan. 9 at their residence, 800 Riverside Drive.

WEISS—To Mr. and Mrs. Michael Weiss (nee Florence H. Springer), a daughter, Jan. 6. 1,400 Grand Concourse.

Confirmation.

BING—Mrs. Nathan Bing wishes to announce the bar mitzvah of her son, Leon, on Saturday, Jan. 22, 1921, at Sinai Congregation, 951 Stebbins Av., Bronx, at 10 A. M. At home Sunday, between 2 and 5 P. M., at 948 Tiffany St.

Engaged.

ABROMOWITZ—SMOLOWITZ—Mr. and Mrs. Herman Smolowitz, 203 West 111th St., announce the betrothal of their daughter Ethel Frances to Mr. Morris Abromowitz of Brooklyn.

ADELSTEIN—GITTLER—Mr. Adolph Gittler of 280 Riverside Drive announces the engagement of his daughter, Lillian Marion, to Mr. Samuel Adelstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Adelstein of 327 Central Park West. Reception, Hotel Biltmore, Jan. 23, from 3 to 6. No cards.

AGATSTON—SIMON—Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Simon of 615 West 150th St. announce the engagement of their daughter, Blanche, to Dr. Sigmund A. Agatston.

AMSTER—DAUM—Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Daum announce the engagement of their daughter, Muriel, to Mr. Max M. Amster.

APPLEBAUM—FRIEDMANN—Mr. and Mrs. Leon Friedmann of Paterson, N. J., announce the engagement of their daughter, Lillian, to Paul E. Applebaum of Philadelphia. No cards.

BARUTH—HOCHSTIM—Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Hochstim of Far Rockaway, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Florence, to Roland M. Baruth, son of Mr. Herman Baruth of Brooklyn. Reception on Sunday, Jan. 30, at Hotel Commodore, after 8 P. M. No cards.

BUSCHMAN—LEWINE—Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Lewine of 1,052 Findlay Av. announce the engagement of their daughter Tillie to Mr. Herman L. Buschman of this city.

COHEN—SCHECTER—Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Schecter of 454 East 140th St. announce the engagement of their daughter, Ada, to Morris Cohen of 229 West 111th St.

DAUM—VAN RAALTE—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Van Raalte announce the engagement of their daughter, Pauline, to Mr. Godfrey Daum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Daum. At home Sunday, Jan. 30, 3 to 6. No cards.

DICKINSON — PELZ — Miss Selma Pels, daughter of Samuel Pels of 487 Ocean Parkway, Brooklyn, to Arthur J. Dickinson, son of J. H. Dickinson of 809 Avenue K, Brooklyn. Notice of reception later.

DUNCAN—CURL—Mrs. Arthur A. Curl of Boston, Mass., announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Phyllis Edith, to Mr. Elbert B. Duncan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Duncan of Englewood, N. J.

EISENSTADT—LANCE—Mr. Hillel Lance of Brooklyn announces the engagement of his daughter, Rae, to Paul Eisenstadt.

EPPSTEINER—KAHN—Mr. and Mrs. Morris Kahn of 2,254 Bassford Av. announce the engagement of their daughter, Hattie, to Mr. Herman Eppsteiner.

FRANK—FRIEDMAN—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Friedman announce the betrothal of their daughter Hattie to Mr. David J. Frank. Reception Jan. 23, 3 to 6 P. M., Savigny.

FREEDBERGER—EDELSON—Miss Matilda Edelson of 232 East 6th St., New York City, to Mr. Joseph Freedberger of New Bedford, Mass. Betrothed Jan. 2, 1921.

GEIGER — ROSENBAUM — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rosenbaum of 143 Bay 23d St., Bensonhurst, announce the engagement of their daughter, Florence H. Rosenbaum, to Mr. Irwin Geiger of Cleveland, Ohio.

GOLDSTEIN—BRODIE—Mrs. Dora Brodie of 15 West 122d St. announces the engagement of her daughter, Beatrice, to Mr. Murray Goldstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Goldstein, Brooklyn.

GREENSPAN—GOODSTEIN—Mr. and Mrs. David Goodstein of 1,338 Carroll St., Brooklyn, N. Y., announce the betrothal of their daughter Agnes to Mr. Jacob S. Greenspan.

GROSSMAN—REICH—Mr. and Mrs. Louis Reich of Brooklyn announce the engagement of their daughters Hannah, to Mr. Harry Grossman.

HANDLER—BLISS—Mr. and Mrs. Max Bliss, 1,135 41st St., Brooklyn, announce the engagement of their daughter Sophie to Nat Handler. Syracuse papers please copy.

HOLLANDER—KAUFMANN—Mr. and Mrs. David Kaufmann of 340 West End Av. announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen to Alvin L. Hollander, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hollander. At home Saturday, Jan. 22, after 8:30 P. M. No cards.

JOSEPH—DAUM—Mr. and Mrs. Albert Daum, 2,406 Grand Concourse, announce the engagement of their daughter Ruth to Mr. Perry I. Joseph, son of Mrs. Ray Joseph. Receive later.

KLAFF—FOX—Mrs. R. Fox announces the engagement of her daughter Lillian to Mr. Jack Klaff.

LAKOW—KLEIN—Mr. and Mrs. William Klein of 1,226 48th St., Brooklyn, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mildred, to Mr. Harry Lakow. Reception on Sunday, Jan. 16. At home from 3 to 6.

LEWIN—SIDON—Mr. and Mrs. I. Sidon of Henry St., Linden, N. J., announce the engagement of their daughter Ilka to Jeffrey J. Lewin of New York. Reception at Henry St., Linden, N. J., from 3 until 6 P. M., Jan. 23.

LIEBERMAN—KLOTZ—Mr. and Mrs. Feibl S. Klotz announce the betrothal of their daughter Florence to Herman I. Lieberman. Reception Sunday, Jan. 23, from 3 to 6, Hotel Bossert, Brooklyn.

LIEBOWITZ—BAUMAN—Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bauman of 38 Oak St., Far Rockaway, announce the engagement of their daughter Gertrude to Mr. Edwin A. Liebowitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Liebowitz of Rockaway Park. At home Jan. 23, from 2 to 5. No cards.

MAGRILL—HEYMANN—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Heymann, 431 56th St., Brooklyn, announce the engagement of their daughter Mildred to Mr. George Magrill. Reception Sunday evening, Jan. 22, at Hotel Bossert, Brooklyn.

MANNE—ORANGE—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Orange of 568 Delaware Place, Brooklyn, announce the engagement of their daughter Charlotte to Dr. Alexander S. Manne of Brooklyn.

MARWELL—GOODMAN—Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Goodman, 1,520 51st St., Brooklyn, announce the engagement of their daughter Edith to Mr. Max Marwell.

MOCK—WORONOV—Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Woronov, Brooklyn, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter Anna to Mr. Walter E. Mock of Brooklyn, Jan. 11.

PEYSER—KARKUS—Mr. and Mrs. M. Karkus, Perth Amboy, N. J., announce the engagement of their daughter Kate to Mr. Alfred E. Peyser.

RABINOWITZ — SCHMERTZLER — Mr. and Mrs. M. Schmertzler of 308 East 78th St. announce the betrothal of their daughter Selma to Sam Rabinowitz, Jan. 16, 1921.

READER—BLUME—Mr. and Mrs. Max Blume of 612 Lincoln Place, Brooklyn, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter Bertha to Mr. Charles H. Reader of Brooklyn.

RINGLEIN—FROEHLICH—Mr. Aaron Froehlich of 168 Lincoln Av., Newark, N. J., announces engagement of his daughter Mildred to Mr. Louis Ringlein of this city. At home Sunday evening, Jan. 23.

ROTH—KERN—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kern of 1,257 Boston Road, New York City, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sylvia, to Mr. Gabor Roth of 1,066 North Av., Elizabeth, N. J. Reception on Sunday, Jan. 16, at Savigny Hotel, 229 Lenox Av., at 8 P. M.

SCHWARTZ—SUMNER—Mrs. B. Sumner of Brooklyn announces the engagement of her daughter, Florence, to Dr. Emanuel Schwartz of New York.

SIEGEL—SCHIFF—Mr. Morris Schiff of 18 East 120th St., announces the engagement of his daughter Edith Roslyn to Mr. Aaron M. Siegel, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Siegel of 558 50th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

UNGAR—BIRN—Mr. Solomon Birn, 972 Aldus St., announces the engagement of his daughter, Hannah, to Mr. George Ungar.

ZEISLER — PROKESCH — Mr. and Mrs. J. Prokesch of 473 West 158th St. announce the engagement of their daughter, Irene Ruth, to Mr. Al. S. Zeisler, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Zeisler of 600 West 187th St.

Married.

BIDDLE—BULLARD—On Saturday, Jan. 15, at the home of the bride, 431 Riverside Drive, by the Rev. Dr. Dwight Witherspoon Wylie, Margaret Bullard, daughter of Charles G. Bullard, to William C. Biddle.

BREGMAN—DANIELS—Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Daniels announce the marriage of their daughter Anna to Dr. Philip B. Bregman, Jan. 9, 1921.

BUTLER—MONCURE—On Saturday, Jan. 15, 1921, at St. James's Church, Richmond, Va., by the Rev. G. Freeland Peter Vivienne Randolph, daughter of Mr. and the late Mrs. William Moncure, to William Allen Butler Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Allen Butler of New York City.

HIRSCHHORN—NETZER—Mr. and Mrs. William Netzer, announce the marriage of their daughter Pauline to Mr. Nat R. Hirschhorn on Jan. 9, 1921, by the Rev. Dr. Reichler.

LEARY—HINMAN—On Saturday, Jan. 15, 1921, in the chapel of St. Bartholomew's Church, by the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hinman, to James Bartlett Leary.

LEVY—GROSS—Mr. and Mrs. Julius Gross announce the marriage of their daughter Adele to Joseph Sperling Levy, Jan. 10.

LYONS—ZIPSER—Oscar L. Lyons to Mrs. Anna Zipser, Jan. 9, 1921.

MACHBY—KRITZER—Mrs. A. Kritzer of 86 West 119th St. announces the marriage of her daughter, Betty, to Mr. Henry Machby, Jan. 9, 1921.

MARTIN—TOEDT—On Saturday, Jan. 15, at St. George's Chapel, by the Rev. Karl Reiland, Masian Van Santvoord Toedt to Samuel Alexander Martin.

NEUWIRTH—BERKMAN—Mr. and Mrs. Philip Berkman, 1,529 52d St., Brooklyn, announce the marriage of their daughter May to Mr. Henry Neuwirth, Jan. 9th.

PAGET—RIDER—Marriage took place Dec. 22, St. John Baptist Church, Coombe, London, between Captain Reginald Paget, late Irish Guards, son General Right Honorable Sir Arthur Paget, G. C. B., P. C., &c., of Warren House, Coombe, and Minna Louise Rider, widow Laurens Rider, New York, daughter G. A. Clausenius of Chicago.

ROSENWASSER—LEVY—Married, on Thursday, Jan. 13, 1921, Gertrude Blanche, daughter of Mrs. Hannah Levy, to Benjamin B. Rosenwasser, both of New York City.

ROTHSCHILD—COHN—Mrs. Florence B. Cohn to Alex W. Rothschild, on Jan. 9, by the Rev. Dr. Eiseman.

SAROLI—ARCUDI—Miss Elena Maria Arcudi to Mr. Francisco Saroli, at Church of the Blessed Sacrament, Jan. 15, 1921.

SEMAN—KORNBLUTH—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kornbluth, 531 West 148d St., announce the marriage of their daughter May to Mr. Karl Seman, Dec. 26, 1920.

WECKSTEIN — MARKEL — Mr. and Mrs. Louis Markel, 924 West End Av., announce the marriage of their daughter, Therese, to Mr. Samuel H. Weckstein, Monday, Jan. 10, at the Biltmore.

WEISBERG—WALLACH—Miss Bertha Frances Wallach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonas A. Wallach of New York, was married to Chas. Weisberg of Brooklyn, N. Y., at her home, 318 East 67th St.

Anniversaries.

CRYSTAL—Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Crystal, 207 West 110th St., announce their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary on Saturday, Jan. 15, 1921. At home Sunday, Jan. 16, 3 to 6 o'clock.

DRUCKER—Mr. and Mrs. Salomon Drucker of 70 West 118th St. announce their golden wedding anniversary. Reception at the Savigny, 220 Lenox Av., Sunday, Jan. 23, at 8:30. Friends invited.

FASKE—Dr. and Mrs. Max Faske, 944 Tiffany St., announce their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary Jan. 19, 1921.

GOLDSMID—Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Goldsmid of 230 West 101st St. celebrated their 25th anniversary Jan. 8 at their residence.

MORGANSTERN—Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Morganstern of 300 Central Park West gave a reception last night to celebrate their golden wedding.

Died.

ADAMS—Frederick F., on Friday, Jan. 14, 1921, at his home, 52 West 103th St., aged 75. Funeral Scranton, Pa.

AUSTIN—On Jan. 14, 1921, Louise Suydam, widow of Samuel H. Relatives and friends are invited to the service on Monday, 11 A. M., at her late residence, 3,913 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa. Interment private.

BARD—At Norwich, Conn., Friday, Jan. 14, 1921, Charles Bard, son of the late John and Mary Foster Bard, in the 94th year of his age. Funeral service at Park Congregational Church, Norwich, Sunday, Jan. 16, at 3 P. M. Friends are kindly requested not to send flowers.

BARRE—Entered into rest on Jan. 14, 1921, Adelaide T., widow of the late Abraham Barre and beloved mother of Harry F. and Frederick H. Barre. Funeral services at 12 Arlington Place, Brooklyn, Monday, the 17th, at 2 P. M.

BEYER—On Thursday, Jan. 13, 1921, Christina Elizabeth Beyer, daughter of the late Henry A. and Philopena Beyer. Funeral service at the residence of her brother, 551 Bronx River Road, on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Take New York Central train, Harlem Division, to Mount Vernon station. Interment private, on Monday.

BISBEE—On Friday morning, Jan. 14, 1921, Martha F. Bisbee. Services and interment private. Jacksonville (Fla.) papers please copy.

BLOOM—Anna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Bloom. Funeral from her late residence, 216 East 6th St., Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

BLUMENTHAL—Mrs. Rosa Blumenthal, widow of Max Blumenthal, at 3 o'clock Friday evening. Funeral Sunday, at 2 P. M., from her late home, with Commander Albert Moritz, 723 East 18th St., Flatbush. Interment New Mt. Carmel Cemetery. Cincinnati (Ohio) papers please copy.

BOEKER—Entered into rest Jan. 15, 1921, Jennie Boeker (nee Loose), in her 64th year, dearly beloved mother of Alfred, Jennie, Carl and Adelaide Boeker. Services Monday evening, at 8 o'clock, at her late residence, 147 East 90th St. Kindly omit flowers. Interment private.

BRADLEY—Charles Whiting, Jan. 14, at home of his nephew, C. B. Cornelison, Nyack-on-Hudson. Funeral services Monday, Jan. 17, at 1:30 o'clock, at the Episcopal Church, New Milford, Conn.

BRENNAN—James F., Jan. 14, 1921, at his residence, 460 East 146th St., beloved husband of the late Mary Brennan, and devoted father of Edward, James, William, Leo, Frater Francis J. Brennan, C. SS. R.; Julia, Mary, Agnes, Margaret Brennan. Funeral from his late residence on Monday, Jan. 17, 9:30 A. M.; thence to the Church of Immaculate Conception, 150th St. and Melrose Av. Interment Calvary. Automobile cortege. Scranton papers please copy.

BROWNE—Jan. 14, Ellen McQuade, beloved wife of the late Thomas Browne and mother of Margaret C. Towel, Helen Farrell, John F. and the late Thomas P. Browne. Funeral Monday, the 17th, from her late residence, 933 Castleton Av., West Brighton, S. I., at 9:30 A. M. Thence to Sacred Heart Church. Interment Calvary Cemetery.

BROWNING—At Chicago, on Jan. 14, Louise Margaret, daughter of the late Oren F. and Mary Gertrude Browning. Services at St. Luke's Church, Metuchen, N. J., Sunday, Jan. 16, 2:45 P. M.

BRUNDAGE—On Friday, Jan. 14, 1921, James T. Brundage of 316 8th St., Brooklyn, in his 71st year. Friends may call at the Lefferts Place Chapel, 86 Lefferts Place, near Grand Av., until Sunday noon. Funeral services at the Greenwood Cemetery Chapel on Sunday, Jan. 16, at 2:30 P. M.

BUEHLER—Camilla (nee Brody), beloved wife of Simon I., mother of Leonora and Lucille, daughter of Mrs. Theresa Brody, sister of Hugo, Gustave, Elsie and Stella. Funeral notice later. Philadelphia papers please copy.

CORNWELL—George F., at his home, 76 Bushwick Av., Belle Haven, Greenwich, Conn., on Friday afternoon; beloved husband of Alice Harriott. Service at his late residence, Sunday, on arrival of train leaving Grand Central at 2:03 P. M.

CORT—On Saturday, Jan. 15, Joshua Henry, son of the late Nicholas and Elizabeth King Cort, in his 89th year, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Adolf Abresch, Tenafly, N. J. Funeral private.

DANHAUSER—Alphonse, on Jan. 15, beloved husband of Elise and father of Alice, Hattie, Mrs. John Levy, Mrs. Charles Geismar, Mrs. George Bauerdorf, Mrs. R. Fortiosis. Services The Funeral Church, Broadway, 66th St., Monday, Jan. 17, at 11 A. M. Interment private.

DAVIS—Jan. 15, in her 60th year, Hannah (nee Stern), at her residence, 108 East 116th St., beloved wife of Sol. Funeral on Tuesday, Jan. 18, 2 P. M.

DEMAREST—On Thursday, Jan. 13, 1921, Margaret Jane Demarest, in her 79th year. Funeral service at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles Wessells, 3 Forest Park Av., Larchmont, N. Y., on Sunday at 2 P. M.

DORN—On Thursday, Jan. 13, at his residence, 365 West 118th St., Mark, in his 93d year, beloved husband of the late Bertha Dorn and father of Hattie Fernbacher, Serena Hamburger, Flora Werner, Henry and Jacob. Funeral Sunday, Jan. 16, at 10 A. M. San Francisco, Cal., papers please copy.

EASTMOND—Sarah Barker, widow of Colonel Oscar, on Friday, Jan. 14. Funeral at late residence, 7 Elm Place, Summit, N. J., Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 18, at 2:30. Train leaves Hoboken at 1:08.

EASTWOOD—At Miami, Fla., on Tuesday, Jan. 11, 1921, John Henry, husband of Margaret Spence Eastwood, in his 68th year. Funeral services will be held at Trinity Cathedral, Newark, N. J., on Monday, Jan. 17, at 3 P. M. Interment at the convenience of family.

ELWES—Gervase, of Billing, Northampton, England, suddenly, in Boston, Mass., Jan. 12. Solemn mass of requiem at 10 o'clock A. M., Jan. 17, at the Church of St. Paul the Apostle, 60th St. and Columbus Av.

FITZPATRICK—Frederick J., son of Lucy A. and Michael E. Fitzpatrick. Funeral from St. Bernard's Church, in West 14th St., Monday, Jan. 17, at 9 o'clock. Body at Benedict's, 150 West 13th St. Interment in Bridgeport, Conn.

FRAENCKEL—On Saturday, Jan. 15, 1921, Richard H. Fraenckel, in his 77th year. Notice of funeral later.

GEGAN—On Friday, Jan. 14, 1921, Mary Fagan, beloved wife of William Gegan and mother of James J., John T., William J. and the late Helen E. and Christopher C. Gegan. Funeral Monday, Jan. 17, at 9:30 A. M., from her late residence, 1,664 East 14th St., Brooklyn, near Kings Highway station, Brighton Beach line. Solemn requiem mass St. Brendan's Church, 10 o'clock. Interment Calvary. Automobile cortege.

GOLDBERG—Suddenly, on Jan. 14, Edward, beloved husband of Millie (nee Tuck), and brother of Henry and Mrs. Jennie Samuels. Funeral Sunday, Jan. 16, from his late residence, 1,166 Hoe Av., Bronx, at 2 P. M. sharp. Kindly omit flowers.

GOLDSMITH—Josephine, beloved mother of Carrie M. Goldberg, on Friday, Jan. 14, at her residence, 601 West 135th St. Funeral private.

GORDON—Solomon Gordon, father of Nathan, Max and Phillip and husband of Sarah, passed away. Funeral will be held from his late residence, 12 West 113th St., Jan. 16, 1921, at 2 P. M. Please omit flowers. Montreal (Canada) and New Orleans (La.) papers please copy.

GREENFIELD—At Point Pleasant, N. J., Caroline Elizabeth Greenfield, beloved mother of E. J. Forrest Greenfield. Requiem mass Monday, Jan. 17, St. Mary's Church, Point Pleasant, 11 A. M.

GROSS—Johanna, beloved wife of Rudolf Gross, mother of Sadie Rosenbluth, Esther Gross, Minnie Lefkowitz and sister of Sigmund Lewin, Friday evening, 7 P. M. Funeral services at her late residence, 35 West 111th St., on Sunday, 2 P. M. sharp. Omit flowers. Houston, Galveston and Brenham (Texas) papers please copy.

GUTMANN — Josephine (nee Deutsch), beloved wife of Dr. Rudolph Gutmann. Funeral services at her late residence, 173 Bay 34th St., Bensonhurst, N. Y., Sunday, Jan. 16, 1921, at 2 o'clock.

HERSCHKOWITZ—Samuel J., suddenly, Jan. 14, beloved father of Yetta Berg, Bessie Bacher, Herman R., Jack, Sadye and Ida Herschkowitz. Funeral from his late residence, 142 South 9th St., Brooklyn, Sunday, 10 A. M.

HOLZMAN—On Jan. 14, Ferdinand, beloved brother of Jacob, Fanny Freund, Hannah Rosenberg, Jennie Fox and Leopold. Funeral services on Sunday at 2 P. M., at the Funeral Parlors of the National Casket Company, Ashland Place, near Fulton St., Brooklyn. Relatives and friends invited to attend.

HOTZ—On Friday, Jan. 14, 1921, Gertrude Frances Hotz, daughter of the late George Hotz and Frances Hart. Funeral Monday at 10 A. M. from her late residence, 435 2d St., Brooklyn. Solemn requiem mass at St. Francis Xavier's Roman Catholic Church, 6th Av. and Carroll St., Brooklyn.

JACOBSON—On Jan. 14, Leon, 1,159 52d St., Brooklyn, aged 67 years. Funeral services 11 o'clock Sunday at home.

JANDORF—Benjamin, at Lakewood. Funeral today, Sunday, 1 o'clock, from Martin Pick's Parlors, 227 Lenox Av. Interment private.

KANDEL—Gisella, wife of the late Louis Kandel, on Friday, Jan. 14; survived by sons Charles and Montefiore and two daughters, Celia Leight and Jeanette Finkelstein. Funeral took place on Friday, Jan. 14.

KINGSBURY—On Jan. 14, Herman L., beloved husband of Fannie M. Kingsbury and father of Stella K. Newborg. Funeral service will be held at his late residence, 32 West 88th St., on Sunday morning, Jan. 16, at 10 o'clock.

KORNFELD—Mary, widow of Oscar and mother of Max, Rose Cohn, Carrie Weiss and Lillie Rosenberg. Funeral Sunday at 10:30 A. M. at Martin Pick Chapel, 227 Lenox Av.

KREISER—Louise M., widow of the late August Kreiser. Services on Monday, Jan. 17, at her late residence, 217 Linden Av., Jersey City, at 2:30 P. M. Interment at the convenience of the family.

LEADER—Ada, daughter of Mrs. E. Leader. Funeral service Monday, Jan. 17, at 8 P. M., at her late residence, 1,260 Nelson Av., High Bridge.

LERNER—Bertha, on Friday, Jan. 14, in her 67th year, at her residence, 771 Dawson St., New York.

LEVY—Morris J., beloved husband and father, suddenly, on Saturday, Jan. 15, at 2 A. M., member of South Brooklyn Lodge, No. 174, B. O. B. A. Funeral Sunday, 1:30 P. M., from his late home, 1,134 Union Av., Bronx. Interment Washington Cemetery, ground No. 4.

LOOMIS—New Haven, Conn., Jan. 15, 1921, Mildred Embler Loomis, daughter of Maria E. and the late Andrew H. Embler. Funeral service will be held at her late home, 460 Norton St., New Haven, on Monday afternoon, Jan. 17, at 2 o'clock.

McCORMICK—Suddenly, on Jan. 14, Caroline E. McCormick (nee Hartigan), beloved wife of John J. McCormick. Funeral from her late residence, 463 Macon St., Brooklyn, on Monday, Jan. 17, thence to the Church of Our Lady of Victory, Throop Av. and McDonough St., at 10 A. M. Interment Holy Cross Cemetery.

MARSH—Harry L., on Thursday, Jan. 13, 1921, at Overlook Hospital, Summit, N. J. Funeral services will be held at Calvary Church, Summit, N. J., Sunday, Jan. 16, 1921, at 3:30 P. M. Special train leaves D., L. & W., Hoboken, at 2:30 P. M., making stop at Newark 2:45. Interment at convenience of family.

MURRAY—Rev. David A., pastor of St. Catherine's R. C. Church, Blauvelt, N. Y., Jan. 13, 1921. A solemn requiem mass will be celebrated Monday, Jan. 17, at St. Catherine's Church at 11 o'clock. Interment St. Dominick's Cemetery, Blauvelt, N. Y. Trains leave West Shore Railroad at 9:15 A. M. (West 42d St. ferry), or Erie Railroad at 7:40 A. M. (9th St. tube). Conveyance will meet trains at Orangeburg.

NEGBAUR—On Jan. 15, Hazel R., beloved wife of Edward Negbaur. Funeral services Tuesday the 18th inst. at 11 A. M., at parlors of August Eickelberg, 934 8th Av., near 55th St. Interment private.

NEWBOLD—Helen Markham Newbold, wife of Thomas Gray Newbold, and beloved mother of Dorothy Usmer Baxter, entered eternal life Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 8. Cremation Weehawken, Jan. 15. Chicago papers please copy.

NEWCORN—Miriam, beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Newcorn, 380 West End Av., passed away Saturday, Jan. 15. Notice of funeral hereafter.

PALMER—At Ridgefield Park, N. J., on Jan. 15, 1921, William H. Palmer, husband of Annie M. Peppard, 67 years. Funeral services at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. C. E. Haring of 205 Preston St., Ridgefield Park, N. J., on Wednesday evening, Jan. 19, at 8 o'clock. Relatives and friends are invited to attend. Interment Cedar Grove, L. I.

PATTERSON—In Morristown Jan. 12, Susan Ryerson Patterson, wife of George W. Patterson Jr., and daughter of Mrs. Arthur Ryerson of Chicago. Funeral at Cooperstown, N. Y., private. Please omit flowers.

ROBESON—At Walpole, N. H., Jan. 15, Katharine Bellows Robeson, widow of Rear Admiral Henry B. Robeson.

ROBINSON—On Jan. 13, at Rochester, Minn., John Robinson, beloved husband of Anne Mary, passed away, in his 70th year. Funeral services at Sea Cliff Sunday, Jan. 16.

ROBINSON—On Saturday, Jan. 15, 1921, at Freehold, N. J., Oscar Robinson, husband of Jennie E. Thompson. Funeral from his late home, 82 West Main St., Freehold, N. J., on Tuesday, Jan. 18, at 2 P. M.

ROSENHEIM—Rosa, in her 77th year, relict of the late David Rosenheim and devoted mother of Lenora Helborn, Emma Sancier, Amelia Blam, Carrie Loew, Sarah Oppenheim, Blanche Morgenstern and Jacob Rosenheim. Funeral services will be held at Temple Rodeph Sholom, 63d St. and Lexington Av., on Sunday, Jan. 16, at 11 A. M.

ROSENHEIM—Congregation Rodeph Sholem: Members and seatholders are respectfully requested to pay their last tribute of respect to our departed member, Rosa Rosenheim. Funeral services will be held at Temple Rodeph Sholem, 63d St. and Lexington Av., on Sunday, Jan. 16, at 11 A. M. By order of Benjamin Blumenthal, President.

SCHRENKEISEN—On Saturday, Jan. 15, 1921, Martin F. Schrenkeisen, aged 65 years. Funeral services at his late home, 2,316 Andrews Av., on Monday evening, Jan. 17, at 8 o'clock. Interment private.

SHERIDAN—On Thursday, Jan. 13, 1921, John, beloved husband of the late Annie Sheridan (nee McKanna) and devoted father of John M., James L. and Katherine G. Funeral from his late residence, 2,332 Catalpa Av., Ridgewood, Brooklyn, Monday, Jan. 17, 9:30 A. M.; thence to St. Mathias Church, where a solemn requiem mass will be offered for the repose of his soul. Interment Calvary.

SHERMAN—Josephine, in her 63d year, beloved mother of Howard and George. Funeral from Martin Pick's Chapel, 227 Lenox Av., Sunday, at 2 P. M.

SIMONSON—At Cranbury, N. J., on Jan. 13, Edward Whitson, son of Phebe E. and the late Bergen M. Simonson. Funeral services at the residence of his mother, Parkview Av., Hollis, L. I., Sunday, Jan. 16, at 3 o'clock. Trains leave Flatbush Av. and Pennsylvania stations at 1:55.

SIMONSON—On Friday, Jan. 14, Eugenie, daughter of the late Isaac and Fannie Simonson and member of St. Luke's Home, 2,914 Broadway. Funeral service at the chapel of the Home, on Sunday, Jan. 16, at 4 P. M.

SLOCUM—Suddenly, on Jan. 15, at his residence, 499 Washington Av., Frank Slocum, husband of Louise A. Slocum, aged 69 years. Funeral private.

SMART—Louisa, of cerebral hemorrhage, on Jan. 14, 1921, in her 82d year, widow of James Frazer Smart and mother of Dr. Isabelle Thompson Smart. Services on Monday, Jan. 17, at 2 P. M. at her late home, Lelewayou (Brielle), Manasquan, N. J.

SONDHEIM—Jonas, beloved father of Leo, Harry, Sam and Sidney, in his 74th year. Funeral services Monday, 10:30, Reading, Pa.

STETLER—At her home, Jan. 15, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Stetler, beloved mother of Anna, Bertha, Edna and Henry. Services at her late residence, 201 Main St., East Rutherford, N. J., 2:30 P. M. Monday.

STRAUSS—Milton, of the firm of Houghton & Strauss, New Brunswick, N. J., son of Natilda and the late Lemuel Strauss, formerly of New York City, died Jan. 8, age 33 years. San Francisco (Cal.) papers please copy.

TAYLOR—Frank Keith, on Friday, Jan. 14, in his 61st year. Services at home of his sister, Helen W. Smith, 94 2d Place, Brooklyn, Monday, Jan. 17, at 2 P. M. Burial private. Kindly omit flowers.

THOMSON—At Rutherford, N. J., on Jan. 13, 1921, Elizabeth Thomson, in her 90th year. Funeral services at her late residence, 88 Ridge Road, Sunday afternoon, at 3:15. Train leaves Chambers St., Erie Railroad, at 2:30.

TYLER—On Friday, Jan. 14, 1921, Bella Ennis, beloved wife of William M. Tyler. Funeral services will be held at her late residence, 426 Central Park West, near 103d St., on Monday morning, Jan. 17, at 10 o'clock. Interment at convenience of family.

VALVERDE—Marie, beloved wife of Dr. B. Valverde, mother of Robert Valverde, passed away at her home, The Loring, 202 West 74th St., Thursday morning, Jan. 13. Funeral Monday, 9:30, from house. Services at Church of Blessed Sacrament, 71st St. and Broadway, 10 A. M. Interment private.

VAN ORDEN—On Jan. 15, 1921, Rose E., beloved wife of Frederick W. Van Orden and daughter of William E. and Hattie E. Parpart, in her 29th year. Relatives and friends are invited to attend funeral services at her late residence, 921 Washington St., Hoboken, N. J., on Monday, Jan. 17, at 8 P. M.

WAAG—On Friday, Jan. 14, at Rockaway Park, L. I., Benoit H. Waag, beloved husband of Elizabeth C. and devoted father of Herman and Colette Polak. Services at Meyers's Funeral Parlors, 228 Lenox Av., Sunday, Jan. 16, at 1 P. M. Kindly omit flowers.

WAAG—Benoit. Hadassah, No. 8, U. O. T. S., are requested to attend the funeral of Benoit Waag, husband of Sister Elizabeth Waag, from Meyer's Funeral Parlors, 228 Lenox Av., on Sunday, Jan. 16, 1921, at 1 P. M.

WAGER—Harold, in his 28th year. Services at Meyers's Funeral Parlors, 228 Lenox Av., Sunday, Jan. 16, 10:30.

WARD—Samuel Harvey, father of Josephine and Edward Ward, on Jan. 14. Services Campbell's Funeral Church, Broadway and 66th St., Campbell Building, Monday, Jan. 17, at 10 A. M. New Jersey papers please copy.

WATERS—At 2,780 Bainbridge Av., Bronx, Jan. 15, 1921, Ann T. Waters, widow of Thomas Waters. Funeral private.

WEISS—Isaac, at 120 West 116th St., in his 87th year; beloved father of Mrs. Mark Weiss and Lena Weiss. Services at Meyers's funeral parlors, 228 Lenox Av., Sunday, Jan. 16, 10 A. M. sharp.

WEINBERG—Salaam Temple, No. 146, Dramatic Order Knights of Khorassan, with profound sorrow announce the death of Votary Charles Weinberg. Funeral services will be conducted Sunday, 1:30 P. M., 191 Main St., Ridgefield Park, New Jersey. Votaries are requested to attend. Isaac Newton Brown, Royal Vizier.

WEISSBERGER—Isadore, in his 69th year, at the home of his daughter, 717 De Kalb Av., Brooklyn. Funeral at 11 A. M., Jan. 16. Interment Washington Cemetery.

WIRTZ—On Friday, Jan. 14, C. G. Richard Wirtz, beloved husband of Nellie Wirtz. Funeral service at his late residence, 17 Wootton Road, Essex Fells, N. J., on Sunday, Jan. 16, at 4 P. M. Trolley from Hudson tube terminal, Newark, to Caldwell, one hour. Interment private.

WRIGHT—Suddenly, on Friday, Jan. 14, 1921, William Sharpe Wright. Funeral service at his residence, 205 Park Place, Brooklyn, on Sunday, Jan. 16, at 1:30 P. M.

ZUGALLA—Suddenly on Saturday morning, Jan. 15, at his residence, 1,362 Pacific St., Brooklyn, Albert H. Zugalla, husband of Maud Shortland. Funeral services will be held at his late residence on Monday, Jan. 17 at 8 P. M.

In Memoriam.

BRAYER—In sad and loving memory of my beloved wife and darling mother, Millie, who passed away Jan. 18, 1920. Gone, but not forgotten. Husband and Children.

BREEN—With profound sorrow and loving memory of our beloved daughter, Ruth Reid Breen, who departed her young life Jan. 16, 1919. Second anniversary mass at St. Vincent Ferrer's Church, Monday, Jan. 17, 1921, at 9 A. M. Father, Mother and Buddie.

DILLON—Anniversary mass in memory of Annie E. Dillon on Monday, 9 o'clock, in Lady Chapel of St. Patrick's Cathedral.

GOLDBERG—In fond and loving memory of our darling son, E. Seymour Goldberg, who departed this life Jan. 16, 1920. His Father and Mother.

GOLDBLATT—David. In memory of my devoted husband and loving father, who departed this life Jan. 18, 1919. WIFE AND CHILDREN.

GOLDSTON—Nat, who passed away Jan. 18, 1920. Constant and beautiful memory of my dearly beloved husband and father. Services Tuesday, 2:30, Cypress Hills.

HALLER—Viola Belle. In eternal memory of our darling daughter and sister, who departed Jan. 14, 1919. May her soul rest in peace. Parents and Brother.

HARRIS—In sad and loving memory of our beloved daughter and sister, Viola R. Died Jan. 18, 1920.

HOYKENDORF—Matilda. In devoted memory of my sainted mother, who passed onward one year ago today. Forever loved and forever living in my heart.

JACOBS—Samuel. In loving memory of our dear father, who departed this life Jan. 15, 1917. To live in hearts of those we love is not to die.

KRAUS—In loving memory of our mother, Matilda Kraus, died Jan. 17, 1920.

McCABE—James J. Second anniversary mass will be celebrated at Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, 142d St., Convent Av., Monday, Jan. 17, at 8 o'clock. Sister.

MARCHAND—In loving memory of my beloved husband, Charles Marchand, who passed away Jan. 16, 1917. Louise Marchand.

MAYER—In memory of our dearly beloved mother, Henrietta Mayer, who passed away Jan. 17, 1920.

MUTH—In fond and loving memory of our beloved brother, Theodore P., who passed into the next world, Jan. 16, 1920. Brother and Sister.

RYDELL—Estelle. In loving memory of our beloved daughter and dear sister, who died Jan. 16, 1916. Mrs. Miriam Rydell and Family.

STAHL—Bertha (nee Charig). In loving memory of my dear wife and darling mother of Joseph, who passed away Jan. 12, 1919. May God rest her soul. Husband and Son.

STAHL—Bertha (nee Charig). In everlasting memory of my beloved daughter, who departed this life Jan. 12, 1919. Gone but never forgotten by her mother.

TISCH—In loving memory of Mollie (nee Rophman), who departed this life on Jan. 16, 1919. May her soul rest in peace.

VICTORIUS—Rosalia. In sad and loving memory of my darling mother and friend, who departed this life Jan. 20, 1920. In my heart she lives forever. Dora Victorius.

Unveiling.

BLAUNER—Unveiling of tombstone of the late Saul Blauner will take place on Sunday, Jan. 16, 1921, at 2:30 P. M., at Union Field Cemetery, Cypress Hills, Brooklyn, N. Y. Friends and relatives respectfully invited. In case of unfavorable weather, unveiling will be postponed until Jan. 22d.

BLOOM—Unveiling of monuments in memory of my beloved husband, Michael, and son, Mortimer D., will take place on Sunday, Jan. 16, at 2:30 P. M. sharp, Mount Zion Cemetery. Relatives and friends invited. Fannye Bloom.

GOLDSTON—Unveiling of the mausoleum of the late Nat Goldston will take place on Tuesday, Jan. 18, at 2:40 P. M., at Salem Fields. No cards.

ISAACS—The unveiling of the monument erected to the memory of Jacob F. Isaacs will take place at the Mount Carmel Cemetery, on Sunday, Jan. 23, at 2:30 P. M. In case of rain Sunday following. Relatives and friends invited.

KAYE—The unveiling of the monument of the late Leah Kaye will take place at Union Fields Cemetery Sunday, Jan. 23, at 3 o'clock. In case of rain, will be postponed till the following Sunday.

MACK—Unveiling tombstone of the late Cecelia Gross Mack will take place at Mount Zion Cemetery, Sunday, at 2 P. M. Friends and relatives invited.

ROSE—The unveiling of the monument of the late Morris J. Rose will take place at Union Fields Cemetery Sunday, Jan. 23, 3 o'clock. In case of rain, will be postponed till the following Sunday.

SCHORSCH—The monument dedicated in memory of my dearly beloved husband and our devoted father, David Schorsch, will be unveiled on Sunday, Jan. 16, at 2 P. M. sharp, at Bayside Cemetery, Acacia section, Kalischer Grounds. Directions, take Fulton St. elevated of Brooklyn Rapid Transit at Brooklyn Bridge, get off at Boyd Av. In case of rain, postponed until following Sunday.

SIMON—Relatives and friends are invited to attend the unveiling of the monument erected in loving memory of my beloved wife, Rosa Simon, and devoted mother of Myer, Jacob K., Mrs. J. Rosenthal, Mrs. B. Kamber, Herman, Moe and Dave, on Jan. 16, 1921, at 2:30 o'clock, at Washington Cemetery. In case of rain postponed to the following Sunday. Theodore Simon.

Card of Thanks.

CHODOROV—Mr. S. Z. Chodorov and family wish to thank their relatives and friends for their kind expressions of sympathy during their recent bereavement.

DREYFUS — The Dreyfus family extend deepest appreciation for sympathy shown by our relatives and friends upon the death of our beloved niece, Nathalie Lewis.

OCHS—Mrs. Ike Ochs extends her appreciation to all her friends for their kind expressions of sympathy.

Flowers FOR EVERY OCCASION
In New York within the hour
In other cities our bonded representatives await wired instructions to fill your order
PHONE PLAZA 7241
Max Schling
785 FIFTH AVE at 60th St.

Bloomingdale's Florist Shop,
59th St. and Lexington Av.—Artistic floral designs, $1 and up; open evenings and Sundays. Phone Plaza 8084.

"CAMPBELL SERVICE" IS NOT CONFINED TO NEW YORK CITY.
A telephone call will bring our representative to you, wherever you may be, with the least possible delay.
We have personal representatives almost everywhere
Call "Columbus 8200" Any Hour, Day or Night
FRANK E. CAMPBELL
"THE FUNERAL CHURCH" Inc.
(NON SECTARIAN)
Broadway at 66th St. 23d Street at 8th Ave.
Flowers for all Occasions. Artistic Funeral Designs our Specialty

Crocker MOURNING HOUSE
HATS, GOWNS, WAISTS, VEILS, NECKWEAR, FURS.
375 5th Ave. at 35th St.

JACOB HERRLICH'S SONS
FUNERAL DIRECTORS—CHAPEL
332 East 86th St. Lenox 6652
1963 Concourse, near 179th. Tel. 2868 Tremont.

Jewish Cemetery, Mount Carmel
Lots at Reasonable Prices.
Cypress Hills, Brooklyn, N. Y.

THE WOODLAWN CEMETERY
233d St. By Harlem Train and by Trolley. Office, 20 East 23d St., New York. Lots of small size for sale.

MOUNT HOPE CEMETERY
WESTCHESTER COUNTY. NON-SECTARIAN.
Family plots. Convenient payments. Booklet free. Office 284 Lenox Av.

SHARP BREAK IN GRAINS AT CHICAGO

England and Germany Hasten to Buy Wheat When the Fall in Prices Comes.

MORE COMPETITION LIKELY

Argentina and Australia to Be Factors in the Market, and Foreign Demand Slower.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Withdrawal of the support given to the grain markets for some weeks by strong interests, resulted in a sharp break. At the low point wheat was off 4 cents, corn 3¼ to 3½ cents and oats 2¼ to 2½ cents from the previous close, with all deliveries of oats selling at the new low on the crop, as did the cash article. Price fluctuations were very rapid, with the close at the bottom, at net losses of 4 cents on wheat, 3¼ to 3½ cents on corn and 2½ to 2½ cents on oats. Rye finished with a net loss of 2⅝ to 3½ cents and barley 1¼ cents. As compared with a week ago, wheat is unchanged to ½ cent lower, corn 3⅝ to 4⅛ cents and oats 2½ to 3 cents lower; rye ⅛ to 2½ cents higher and barley unchanged.

Sentiment has been bearish for several days, but losses have been small up to today. The prospects of increased competition of Argentine wheat and the tendency to increase estimates on the exportable surplus in that country and in Australia, combined with a slower foreign demand and prospects of increased country movement, have counted heavily against the wheat market.

Foreigners came into the market as good buyers of wheat on the break. England was credited with buying 800,000 bushels via the Gulf, and Germany took 100,000 bushels, of which 80,000 bushels were for immediate shipment.

It is expected that the Argentine export tax on wheat will be equal to around 18 to 19 cents per bushel, but despite this, seaboard exporters figure that Argentine is cheaper than American via Gulf.

It is estimated that over 10,000,000 bushels of cash corn have been hedged at Chicago alone the past week, and a big business was done in other markets. This selling has placed a great weight on the market and many traders have been surprised at the strength shown up to today. It would not be surprising to see receipts, here Monday of around 900 cars. Konsas City expects close to 700 cars of wheat. The biggest sellers of corn bought early on the break under cover.

Arrivals of wheat at primary points the past week aggregated 7,044,000 bushels, the largest at this season in over five years, comparing with 6,354,000 the previous week and 5,401,000 bushels last year. Shipments were 3,992,000, ...,000 last year.

Receipts of corn of 7,865,000 bushels were well above the five-year average, comparing with 7,200,000 bushels the previous week and 5,640,000 bushels last year. Shipments were 4,111,000 bushels; previous week, 2,727,000; last year, 2,882,000.

Today's Chicago prices for the principal commodities were as follows:

WHEAT.

	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.
March	1.78⅝	1.73½	1.73½	1.77¼
May	1.69⅝	1.66⅝	1.66⅝	1.70⅝

CORN.

	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.	Last Year.
May	73⅝	70	70⅝	74⅛	1.33
July	74.⅞	71⅞	71⅞	75⅛	1.31⅜

OATS.

	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.	Last Year.
May	48⅛	45⅞	46	48⅛	82⅛
July	47⅝	45⅞	45⅝	47⅞	76⅝

RYE.

	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.	Last Year.
May	1.52⅛	1.50⅝	1.51	1.53⅛	1.75⅜
July	1.25⅝	1.23⅝	1.23⅝	1.27½	1.68

PROVISIONS.

	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.	Last Year.
Lard— May	13.77	13.60	13.60	13.82	24.42
Ribs— Jan.	11.77	11.25	11.25	11.97	20.47
May	12.55	12.52	12.52	12.70	20.81
Pork— May	23.70	23.55	23.55	23.90	38.96

Eastern Cotton Mill Stocks Quoted.

FALL RIVER, Jan. 15.—Following are the latest quotations of cotton stocks:

	Bid.	Ask.	Sold.
American Linen Co.	11	..	..
Arkwright Mills	90	..	..
Barnard Mfg. Co.	175	..	..
Border City Mfg. Co.	180	..	..
Chace Mills	..	150	..
Charlton Mills	140	..	150
Cornell Mills	185	..	..
Conanicut Mills	125	..	..
Davol Mills	..	140	..
Davis Mills	100	..	105
Flint Mills	190	..	..
Granite Mills	..	137	..
Hargraves Mills	40	55	..
King Philip Mills	..	170	..
Laurel Lake Mills	..	150	..
Mechanics Mills	..	145	..
Narragansett Mills	165	..	..
Osborn Mills	..	150	..
Parker Mills	40	33	..
Pilgrim Mills, common	..	210	..
Pilgrim Mills pf.	104	..	..
Pocasset Mfg. Co.	350	..	..
Stafford Mills	125	..	..
Tecumseh Mills	190	..	..
Union Cotton Mfg. Co.	200	..	..
Wampanoag Mills	150	..	160
Weetamoe Mills	..	130	..
King Philip, rights	76	[illegible]	..
Davis, rights	84	..	..
Arkwright, rights	10	..	..

Week's Sales of Mill Stocks in Boston

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 15.—Sales of manufacturing stocks in Boston this week:

6	American Glue Co.	180
300	American Agricultural Chemical Co.	63
1	Bates Mfg. Co.	193
10	Bausch Machine Tool Co.	100
10	Dartmouth Mfg. Co., Pfd.	75
10	Draper Corporation	129¾
3	Essex Co.	178
10	Farr Alpaca Co. Rights	½
1	Fisk Rubber Co., First Pfd.	73
5	Great Falls Mfg. Co.	135⅝
6	Hood Rubber Co., Pfd.	92⅞
19	Naumkeag Steam Cotton Co.	195
3	Pepperell Mfg. Co.	202
50	Plymouth Cordage Co., Ex. Div.	195

GOLD CHIEF ITEM IN RESERVE GAINS

For First Time in a Year Banks' Earning Assets Drop Below $3,000,000,000 Level.

LESS TREASURY PAPER HELD

Demand in the Open Market Reduces Purchased Acceptances Total by $31,300,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Aggregate reductions of $189,100,000 in the holdings of discounted and purchased bills, accompanied by declines of $110,500,000 in Federal Reserve note circulation and of $39,100,000 in net deposits, are indicated in the Federal Reserve Board's weekly bank statement, issued as at close of business on Jan. 14, 1921. The Reserve Banks report also a gain of $5,200,000 in gold and of $11,700,000 in total cash reserves. Their reserve ratio shows a further rise from 46.4 to 48.1 per cent.

Reserve Bank holdings of paper secured by Government obligations show a reduction for the week of $79,900,000; other discounted paper on hand declined by $77,000,000, while holdings of purchased acceptances, because of the increased demand for this class of paper in the open market, fell off $31,300,000. An increase of about $28,000,000 in the amount of special certificates taken by the Reserve Banks of New York, Philadelphia, Richmond and Chicago to cover temporary advances to the Government.

Total earning assets for the first time since Jan. 9, 1920, fell below $3,000,000,000, the amount held on Jan. 14 being $2,968,500,000, a decrease of $161,500,000 for the week, and of $483,400,000 from the peak figure shown on Oct. 15 of last year.

Of the total holdings of $1,024,600,000 of paper secured by United States Government obligations, $599,900,000, or 58.5 per cent., were secured by Liberty and other United States bonds; $296,600,000, or 28.0 per cent., by Victory notes, and $128,100,000, or 13.5 per cent., by Treasury certificates, compared with 58.7, 28.2 and 13.1 per cent. of a corresponding total of $1,104,500,000 shown the week before.

Discounted bills held by the Boston, Philadelphia and Cleveland banks are shown, inclusive of $77,600,000 of bills discounted for five reserve banks in the South and Middle West, compared with $96,500,000 shown the week before, while the total of purchased bills held by the San Francisco bank is inclusive of $2,300,000 of bank acceptances purchased from the New York Reserve Bank, compared with $4,300,000 reported on the previous Friday.

Government deposits are shown $16,600,000 less and members' reserve deposits about $39,000,000 less than the week before, while other deposits, composed largely of cashiers' checks and non-members' clearing accounts, show an increase for the week of $1,600,000. On the other hand, the "float" carried by the reserve banks and treated as a deduction from immediately available deposits is shown $14,900,000 less than the week before. As a result, calculated net deposits show a decrease for the week of $39,100,000.

Federal Reserve note circulation shows a reduction for the week of $110,500,000, compared with a reduction of $64,500,000 during the corresponding week in 1920. Since Dec. 23 of the past year there has been a reduction in Federal Reserve note circulation of $245,400,000, as compared with a reduction of $207,800,000 during the three weeks following Christmas of 1919.

FEDERAL RESERVE STATEMENT.

The following table shows the total gold holdings and other chief items in this week's report of each of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks:

District.	Gold Reserve.	Rediscounts on Government War Paper.	Total Bills on Hand.	Due Members' Reserve Acct.	F.R. Notes in Cir'la'n.	Ratio Reserve to Deposits and Notes.
Boston	$221,821,000	$61,996,000	$157,947,000	$113,385,000	$272,193,000	62.9
New York	431,971,000	393,522,000	893,748,000	677,402,000	809,121,000	40.7
Philadelphia	202,318,000	110,233,000	164,534,000	103,799,000	266,856,000	57.2
Cleveland	200,164,000	71,535,000	196,066,000	150,135,000	333,509,000	64.2
Richmond	86,020,000	45,002,000	115,635,000	59,202,000	150,865,000	44.2
Atlanta	81,334,000	58,468,000	131,286,000	48,278,000	169,913,000	41.2
Chicago	318,999,000	132,550,000	438,496,000	252,251,000	517,474,000	45.1
St. Louis	88,775,000	37,256,000	102,238,000	63,043,000	129,573,000	49.2
Minneapolis	46,602,000	10,600,000	80,556,000	43,834,000	76,454,000	39.0
Kansas City	72,950,000	35,151,000	110,117,000	78,600,000	106,912,000	41.6
Dallas	41,101,000	13,512,000	69,876,000	49,396,000	73,263,000	40.6
San Francisco	193,390,000	47,782,000	194,573,000	113,991,000	260,068,000	52.4

In the Previous Week.

District.	Gold Reserve.	Rediscounts on Government War Paper.	Total Bills on Hand.	Due Members' Reserve Acct.	F.R. Notes in Cir'la'n.	Ratio Reserve to Deposits and Notes.
Boston	$215,918,000	$68,746,000	$173,880,000	$117,890,000	$281,372,000	59.6
New York	440,495,000	483,982,000	976,170,000	695,942,000	839,625,000	30.0
Philadelphia	211,219,000	111,684,000	167,620,000	112,334,000	272,005,000	58.2
Cleveland	281,808,000	83,703,000	222,128,000	148,106,000	340,664,000	59.4
Richmond	90,043,000	44,864,000	117,588,000	59,306,000	154,158,000	46.2
Atlanta	84,726,000	59,004,000	134,046,000	49,916,000	173,018,000	41.4
Chicago	313,654,000	135,868,000	461,840,000	249,989,000	535,075,000	43.6
St. Louis	89,316,000	39,597,000	106,543,000	67,144,000	131,697,000	48.2
Minneapolis	47,542,000	15,768,000	83,448,000	45,312,000	78,284,000	39.2
Kansas City	75,741,000	33,919,000	115,338,000	88,097,000	109,720,000	41.6
Dallas	40,990,000	13,364,000	70,582,000	46,350,000	73,280,000	40.2
San Francisco	188,840,000	53,339,000	212,655,000	119,757,000	275,123,000	49.1

Consolidated statement of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks compares as follows:

RESOURCES.

	Last Week.	Previous Week.	Year Ago.
Gold coin and certificates	$247,365,000	$250,135,000	$212,119,000
Gold settlement fund, Federal Reserve Board	393,173,000	405,644,000	486,280,000
Gold with foreign agencies	3,300,000	3,300,000	120,323,000
Total gold held by banks	$643,838,000	$659,079,000	$788,702,000
Gold with Federal Reserve agents	1,265,553,000	1,264,762,000	1,136,326,000
Gold redemption fund	176,058,000	156,441,000	118,850,000
Total gold reserves	$2,085,454,000	$2,080,282,000	$2,043,878,000
Legal tender notes, silver, &c.	203,084,000	196,566,000	60,403,000
Total reserves	$2,288,538,000	$2276,848,000	$2,104,281,000
Bills discounted:
Secured by Government war obligations	1,024,607,000	1,104,536,000	1,351,454,000
All other	1,424,933,000	1,502,813,000	748,611,000
Bills bought in open market	203,412,000	234,753,000	573,675,000
Total bills on hand	$2,652,952,000	$2,842,108,000	$2,673,740,000
United States Government bonds	25,888,000	26,102,000	27,036,000
United States Victory notes	19,000	19,000	64,000
United States certificates of indebtedness	289,685,000	261,785,000	319,084,000
Total earning assets	$2,968,544,000	$3,130,014,000	$3,022,524,000
Bank premises	17,955,000	17,359,000	10,461,000
Uncollected items and other deductions from gross deposits	706,765,000	744,111,000	1,116,852,000
Five per cent. redemption fund against Federal Reserve Bank notes	12,799,000	12,389,000	12,865,000
All other resources	6,112,000	4,998,000	5,463,000
Total resources	$6,000,713,000	$6,185,719,000	$6,272,446,000

LIABILITIES.

	Last Week.	Previous Week.	Year Ago.
Capital paid in	$99,815,000	$99,808,000	$87,529,000
Surplus	202,036,000	202,036,000	120,120,000
Government deposits	8,970,000	25,592,000	34,698,000
Due to members—reserve account	1,756,325,000	1,795,343,000	1,843,561,000
Deferred availability items	509,452,000	532,356,000	849,854,000
Other deposits included for Govt. credits	27,464,000	25,158,000	107,800,000
Total gross deposits	$2,302,211,000	$2,378,049,000	$2,935,913,000
Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation	3,159,491,000	3,270,023,000	2,849,879,000
Federal Reserve Bank notes in circulation, net liability	218,177,000	213,532,000	258,482,000
All other liabilities	23,083,000	21,651,000	20,523,000
Total liabilities	$6,000,713,000	$6,185,719,000	$6,272,446,000
Ratio of total reserves to net deposit and Federal Reserve note liabilities combined	48.1%	46.4%	45.1%
Ratio of gold reserves to Federal Reserve notes in circulation after setting aside 35 per cent. against net deposit liabilities	34.8%	32.1%	31.5%

Check Volume in New York City Drops $1,343,000,000 Below Previous Week's

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Aggregate debits to individual account, as reported for banks in 153 of the country's leading clearing house associations for the week ending Jan. 12, were $8,636,000,000, or a daily average of $1,439,000,000, compared with $10,738,000,000, or a daily average of $2,148,000,000, shown for the preceding five-day week.

A large decrease in volume of checks is shown for all the larger centres, except Los Angeles, the aggregate for New York City alone being $1,343,000,000 below the previous week's figures.

The smaller volume of debits is due in the main to a comparative business quiet following exceptionally heavy activity at the turn of the year.

As compared with the corresponding week a year earlier, debits for the week under review were $1,523,000,000 smaller, the decrease in the total for New York City alone accounting for about two-thirds of the aggregate decline.

This table furnishes more detailed information:

DEBITS TO INDIVIDUAL ACCOUNTS.

Comparative figures for centres reporting for week ending—

	Jan. 12, 1921.	Jan. 5, 1921.	Jan. 14, 1920.
New York	$4,525,613,000	$5,894,690,000	$5,465,821,000
Boston	406,754,000	525,091,000	523,278,000
Philadelphia	402,231,000	462,101,000	440,100,000
Cleveland	596,067,000	528,451,000	577,974,000
Richmond	166,736,000	203,713,000	183,299,000
Atlanta	214,318,000	252,272,000	301,060,000
Chicago	1,023,066,000	1,152,805,000	1,176,035,000
St. Louis	206,859,000	257,755,000	272,225,000
Minneapolis	150,598,000	170,229,000	189,522,000
Kansas City	244,813,000	312,186,000	383,228,000
Dallas	166,018,000	178,068,000	175,463,000
San Francisco	532,205,000	577,739,000	587,731,000
Total	$8,635,678,000	$10,533,000,000	$10,158,754,000

THE TREASURY STATEMENT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Revenue receipts and expenditures as at close of business Jan. 13:

	This Month.	Corresponding Month, 1919.	*Fiscal Year, 1921.	*Corresponding Fiscal Yr., 1920.
Customs	$6,700,688.80	$12,006,507.17	$156,797,084.53	$154,776,041.47
Internal revenue:
Income and profits tax	8,595,606.32	9,034,507.10	1,636,799,596.86	2,012,533,326.13
Miscellaneous	81,061,769.58	72,137,894.90	821,226,080.78	815,797,918.81
Miscellaneous revenue	16,258,891.92	21,687,588.40	431,711,019.06	380,260,432.62
Panama Canal tolls, &c.	774,420.53	338,717.09	4,476,063.38	3,006,639.55
Total ordinary	$93,991,437.15	$116,228,274.86	$3,061,510,714.63	$3,346,291,368.58
Excess of ord. receipts over ord. disbursements	......	......	313,310,821.29	......
Excess of ord. disbursements over ord. receipts	146,194,123.14	74,733,628.63	......	691,553,653.85
Expenditures	240,185,560.29	190,961,913.29	2,748,199,893.34	4,037,847,022.43

*Receipts and disbursements for June reaching Treasury in July are included.

BUSINESS RECORDS

In Town.

OTTO HIGEL COMPANY, INC.—Judge Hand has appointed Adam C. King and John G. Sheppard Jr. receivers, in $25,000 bond each, for Otto Higel Company, Inc., in a suit brought by the Cornwall & Patterson Manufacturing Company, a creditor for $1,-837. It is stated that the defendant was organized in 1913 for the manufacturing of piano player actions and parts, and that its office and plant are located at 238th Street and Bronx Boulevard; that it has an authorized capital of $500,000, all issued and outstanding. The defendant is alleged to have outstanding obligations of $328,000 and assets of upward of $800,000, but is said to lack sufficient money to meet its obligations matured and maturing.

MERIDIONAL TRADING COMPANY, INC.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Meridional Trading Company, Inc., importer and exporter at 63 Park Row, by these creditors: Refreshment Sales Corporation, $1,000; Irving L. Pontorey, $53, and H. J. Greenstein, $44. An assignment was also made to Marcus Helfand. The company was incorporated in 1919. Julius Levine is its President.

WOLFSON, GARELICK & SIROTTA—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Harry Wolfson, Benjamin Garelick and Hyman Sirotta, copartners, trading as Wolfson, Garelick & Sirotta, manufacturing furriers, at 31 Bleecker Street, by T. Saslaw, a creditor for $1,000.

WROOBEL BROTHERS—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Benjamin and Nathan Wroobel, copartners, trading as Wroobel Brothers, tailors, at 47 Barclay Street, by these creditors, Abraham Brafstein, $250; Isidore Jacobskind, $250, and Henrietta Loew, $250.

PARA CRUDE OIL CORPORATION—Judge Hand has appointed Bertha Rembaugh receiver, in $2,000 bond, for the Para Crude Oil Corporation, jobber in oils and greases, at 238 Greenwich Street.

UNIVERSITY TAILORS—Judge Hand has appointed John L. Lyttle, custodian, in $1,000 bond, for the University Tailors, tailoring and clothing, at 10 University Place. It is stated that the liabilities are about $30,000 and the assets about $10,000.

SUSSMAN, LEV CO., INC.—Judge Hand has appointed John L. Lyttle receiver, in $3,000 bond, for Sussman, Lev Co., Inc., bakery and restaurant, at 99 2d Av.

O. P. OLSEN & CO., ship chandlers, at 80 Water St., have filed schedules in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $43,713 and assets of $17,164, consisting of stock, $11,000; accounts, $2,700; machinery, &c., $500; stocks, $2,000, and unliquidated claims, $964.

KAHANE & YOUNG.—Samuel Kahane and Jacob Young, trading as Kahane & Young, hosiery, gloves and underwear, at 153-15 Canal St., have assigned to Isaac Lewis.

LOUIS KRESH, furrier, at 166 West 29th St., has assigned to Norbert Rosenbaum.

Out of Town.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 15.—Twenty-five cents on the dollar was the proffer today in the United States Court here to New York City creditors of E. Walter Wise, local clothing dealer, to the amount of $95,428.83 for supplies. Wise has been in business under the name of the Original Sample Cloak and Suit Company. Assets are appraised at $37,736. Action on his request that the Court submit the proposal to the creditors is to be taken on Monday.

Among the New York supply houses holding the bulk of the debt are: Siegel & Barrett $11,106, Kruskal & Kruskal $6,280, I. D. Karpas & Co. $7,339, Holzman & Mittelthal $6,444, Rothstein & Nelson $5,829, National Garment Co. $2,732, Majestic Dress Co. $1,202, Weinstein & Samuels $1,545, Krugman & Peltz $1,537 and Mannheimer & Kasse $1,765.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, Jan. 15.—Otto Schlindler, farmer, of Plattsburg, filed petition in bankruptcy today with liabilities of $24,022.15, and assets $27,897.25.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy has been filed by Joseph Martin, confectionery merchant, 1,318 West Grand Avenue, with liabilities of $21,867 and assets $12,773.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15.—Samuel W. Wells, realtor, of Los Angeles, was adjudged a bankrupt. His debtors' petition showed $10,300 liabilities and no assets.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Jan. 15.—The Gas Oil Stove Company of Detroit today filed a petition in bankruptcy, setting liabilities at more than $79,000 and assets $53,000.

JUDGMENTS.

Filed yesterday; the first name being that of the debtor:

In New York County.

Big Six Candy Co., Inc.—Setter Bros. Co. $274.60
Beaver, Harry C., and Fred C. Colwell—Acme Graphite Lubricating Co. 387,039.45
Coulon, John P.—N. Y. Hotel Statler Co., Inc. 299.49
Charles, Theodore—M. Englander 347.60
Cygank, Louis F.—I. R. Silverberg et al. 223.40
Daniels, Chas. A. (Quaker City Rubber Co.)—L. Blitz, costs 126.16
Ford, George—D. Gilman 951.70
General Service Corp. and John Warren—L. H. Dos Passos et al. 921.08
Garvey, Wm. M., and Fidelity & Casualty Co. of N. Y. 1,000.00
Harle, Elfrida, or Mrs. James N. Harle Jr.—Grande Maison De Blanc, Inc. 1,332.40
Itow, Michio—D. Sherbe 274.39
Jackson, Julius—J. Schulman 142.57
Kotopoulas, George—G. Nicolaides, costs 106.38
Kraus, Jacob, and Paul Holt—A. Meyer 243.77
Liebling & Mendelsohn, Inc.—American Fur Dressing & Dyeing Co., Inc. 1,133.96
Levine, Henry—S. Fine ....[illegible]
Leon, Jeffers, Inc., and Leon Jeffers—D. Wasser 1,043.92
Mirsky, Leon M.—F. Willets 392.00
Marshall, Maude and Mabel—M. Pollack 2,780.72
Miller, Ida, and Lornie Nemeth (Royal Bakers)—Sugar Products Co. 210.52
Powers, Percy N.—J. N. Emley 411.08
Shaw, Alfred D. and Maud R.—W. Snyder 338.62
Stoff, David (Stoff Petticoat Co.)—N. Dorfman et al. 1,111.64
Solomon, Meyer—Dominion Paper Box Co., Inc. 195.20
Sawyer, Arthur H.—Hester Decorating Co. 819.90
Sawyer, Arthur H. and Herbert Lubin (Sawyer & Lubin)—Hester Decorating Co. 292.36
Thompson, Ellis—J. M. Sarner 202.05
Victory Sweater Co., Inc.—Textile Yarn Agency, Inc. 292.71
Wittenberg, David L.—Tournac Corp., costs 109.05
Wheeler, Marion J. A.—E. Ostler et al. 406.72
Whitehead, Hugh and Lena Messner—People &c. 500.00
Weltzer, Hyman—J. Weitzer 1,264.58
Zambelli, Barnes—J. Martorano 339.38

In Bronx County.

Ackerman, Harry—Yorkville Motor Co. Inc. 352.27
Adler, Jacob—Same 991.75
Blasenheim, Morris—Sinram Bros., Inc. 96.39
Cuperman, Samuel — Cramer Meyer Dreyer Co., Inc. 441.87
Daffner, Harry—Yorkville Motor Co., Inc. 66.08
Globe Floor Covering Co., Inc & Charles Holberman—A. Raymond admr. 3,766.04
Greenblatt, Mary—E. Whynman 45.41
Miller, Emil M.—M. Spivak 860.73
Quirk, John H.—Stephens Fuel Co., Inc. 226.02
Schorr, Saul—N. Marcus 87.08
Weber, William—Domestic Engineering Co. 676.04

SATISFIED JUDGMENTS.

The first name is that of the debtor; the second that of the creditor and date when judgment was filed:

In New York County.

Cozzens, Leonard, and Edgar L. Pierson—N. M. Roe; Dec. 20, 1917 ....$1,143.82
Hoolewag, Wm. R.—Carnegie Trust Co.; Feb. 16, 1918 ....16,827.18
Cordero, Harry E.—S. Cutler; Dec. 28, 1920 ....2,181.50
Abrams, Harry—S. S. Kaplan; Dec. 6, 1920 ....2,067.12
Holloway, Wm. E.—E. L. Richards et al.; June 24, 1915 ....1,124.56
Langhorst, Wm. B. Sonn Bros. Co.; June 9, 1913 ....200.00

In Bronx County.

Zimmer, Isidore—Street Coal Co., Inc.; Sept. 27, 1917 ....[illegible]

LOST AND FOUND.

LOST—In telephone booth in Altman's or vicinity of 45th St., a small black purse, containing small folding silver photo frame, monogram "F. M. K.," and $13 in bills; finder may keep money if purse is returned with pictures. F. M. Kendall, care Douglas Gibbons; 6 East 45th St.

LOST—Friday evening, at 9.15 o'clock, on Lexington Av., between 37th and 82d Sts., brown velvet handbag, containing about $30. Finder please return to Stratford House, 11 East 32d St.; $10 reward.

LOST—Letter containing considerable money; liberal reward. S. Moses, 102 West 71st.

$25 REWARD—No questions asked, for return of handbag and contents missing from Buick Sedan in front of Hotel Pennsylvania, 32d St. side, Saturday afternoon. R. J. Kramer, 279 5th Av. Telephone Madison Square 305.

Jewelry.

LOST—Diamond and platinum link bracelet, Friday night Belmont Theatre, Montmartre restaurant or vicinity; liberal reward; no questions asked. Phone Lenox 5839.

Other Lost and Found Advertisements Section 8, Page 11.

ARREST IN MARKS SWINDLE.

BOSTON, Jan. 15.—Another arrest was made today in connection with the investigation of dealings in German marks when Augustus Marks, a former policeman, surrendered himself at headquarters.

He is charged with larceny of $100 in cash through the sale of options on German marks to Jacob Silverman of Winthrop. The police say that he was connected with the Rothschild-Campbell Company, Ltd., formerly of this city and later of Worcester.

The Civil Service.

City.

The following eligible list for Axeman, Grade A, is announced: James A. Brennan, 92.50; Willard R. Draper, 90.90; Howard W. Mead, 87.60; Clarence W. Schultes, 87.20; Fred J. Ampter, 86.70; Alexander Morgan, 85.40; Avery V. Hinman, 83.30; Ellsworth B. Wilson, 79.90.

United States.

The commission announces an examination for lithographic transferrer, male desired, over 20 years of age, in the Hydrographic Office, Navy Department, Washington, at $1,000 a year, plus increase granted by Congress of $20 per month after one month's service. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on: Physical ability 40, training and experience 60. Applicants must have served an apprenticeship or the equivalent as lithographic transferrer. Classified employes who have reached the retirement age and have served fifteen years are entitled to retirement with an annuity.

Copper Mine Production Reduced.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 15.—Cerro de Pasco Mining Company's production of copper in December was 4,238,000 pounds, against 4,006,000 pounds in November. Arizona Copper Company, in December, produced 2,650,000 pounds, compared with 2,800,000 in November and 2,900,000 in December, 1919.

Wills for Probate.

FARGO, MORTIMER (Jan. 7). The will makes Kate Gerety, referred to as "My friend" and the devoted attendant of his deceased wife for many years prior to her death, a remainderman for one-sixth of the residue of his estate and directs that her remains be interred in the family plot in Woodlawn Cemetery. All of the contents of the decedent's residence at 48 East Eighty-ninth Street and other personal property, including the income from the estate, are bequeathed to Jane Elizabeth Fargo, an adopted daughter. On her death the principal is to be equally distributed between a sister, Maryette Fargo Wormly of Grand Rapids, Mich.; four nieces and nephews and Kate Gerety, whose present address is given as Cloonen, Ballyglass, County Mayo, Ireland. While the specific value of the estate is not given, the will refers to large holdings of decedent in securities of Great Britain and Ireland. The Guaranty Trust Company is executor.

MYGATT, SARAH MATILDA, of 130 East Sixty-seventh Street (Nov. 5 last). The will makes several bequests to relatives, including $5,000 to a cousin, Rita Van Valkenburgh of 15 East Tenth Street, and similar amounts to her friends, Robert Kelly Jr. of Duluth, Minn., and William H. Buckley of 141 Broadway, and a legacy of $1,000 to the New York Institute for the Blind at 412 Ninth Avenue. The residue is bequeathed to a son, Otis A., of 180 Boulevard Haussmann, Paris.

NEW INCORPORATIONS.

New York Charters.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 15.—Thirty new corporations, having an aggregate capitalization of $526,000, were chartered today. They include:

Outer Garment Co., Manhattan, make cloaks and suits, $20,000; F. E. Kowski, J. F. Wohlborn, H. Chaltyn, 1,184 43d St., Brooklyn.

George Crohn, Manhattan, textiles, $10,000; B. C. Shapiro, J. and G. Crohn, 8 West 92d St.

Houghton & Rungie Music Co., Olean, instruments, $10,000; J. V. and L. A. Houghton, H. P. Rungie, Olean.

Cincinnati Grand Opera House Corp., Manhattan, general amusement business, $30,000; C. W. Hobbs, F. M. Poast, J. P. Bickerton Jr., 104 West 70th St.

Walker Sporting Club, Manhattan, boxing exhibitions, &c., $10,000; C. F. and E. Evers, K. Cerny, 226 West 41st St.

Daten Manufacturing Co., Manhattan, textiles, $20,000; D. and R. L. Tanenbaum, L. Joseph, 277 Broadway.

Palmros Machinery Sales Corp., Syracuse, $10,000; J. M. Wall, G. A. and A. Palmros, Syracuse.

Reimers Electric Appliance Co., Manhattan, $60,000; D. Koppen, W. K. Tavender, A. E. Reimers, 513 West 50th St.

Baldrock Corp., Manhattan, construction, $25,000; H. E. Herrick, E. Schultze, C. H. May, 141 Broadway.

Yellow Cab Corp. of Rochester, $50,000; F. J. Korn, R. A. and M. Tilling, Rochester.

Lewit & Carbone Co., Manhattan, women's apparel, $30,000; T. Santangelo, J. Carbone, L. Lewit, 1,491 Sterling Place, Brooklyn.

Edward C. Miller & Son, Manhattan, metal products agent, $50,000; E. S. Lewis, R. H. McIntyre, W. E. Schiel, 258 Broadway.

Kronyte Mfg. Corp., Rochester, merchandise, 1,500 shares preferred stock $100 each, 5,250 common no par value, active capital $176,250; J. G. Palmer, T. B. Knowlton, C. I. Goessmann, Rochester.

Greene County Improvement Corp., Catskill, hotels, $5,000; J. Wagner, S. Kuku, M. Himmelstein, 1,343 East New York Av., Brooklyn.

Oceanic Dress Mfg. Co., Manhattan, $6,000; M. Levine, T. Grubin, S. Siegel, 4,150 Deremer Av., Bronx.

Alfred D. Beeken, Manhattan, stationers and printers, 250 shares preferred stock $100 each, 200 common no par value, active capital $35,000; J. W. Morrell, A. L. Hollinshead, A. D. Beeken, 94 Chambers St.

Hawkeye Inn, Hague, Warren County, $25,000; W. E. Gary, R. R. Bean, J. Bootland, Yonkers.

Blackfriar Corp., Phillipstown, Putnam Co., commission merchants, $5,000; F. C. Dale, F. M. Smith, W. J. Haight, Cold Spring.

Publicity Foundation, Manhattan, to further world peace, 1,000 shares preferred stock $100 each, 1,000 common no par value, active capital $105,000; H. W. Bible, E. Leffingwell, J. A. Durkin, 2,000 Grand Concourse.

No More Key Manufacturing Co., Manhattan, formed by consolidation of No More Key Manufacturing Co. and No More Key Sales Co., $100,000; V. Piccolotti, A. Carabillo, J. Fruhling, 320 East 5th St.

Acme Platinum Manufacturing Co., Manhattan, $80,000; M. Toplitzky, M. Green, A. Scher, 1,012 Simpson St., Bronx.

Housewares Co., Buffalo, furniture, &c., $30,000; M. R. Stevenson, J. Montana, J. Porcari, Buffalo.

Northwest Corner Nassau-Maiden Lane Corp., Manhattan, realty and builders, $10,000; F. Liebich, E. M. Foley, W. Cohen, 206 Broadway.

DISSOLUTIONS.

L. M. Boice Drug Co., Manhattan.
Mint Products Co., Manhattan.
Roth Den Dress Co., Bronx.

Delaware Charters.

Special to The New York Times.

DOVER, Jan. 15.—Charters filed:

Supercharged Engine Co. of America, manufacturer of machinery, $2,000,000; M. M. Lucey, M. B. Reese, L. S. Dorsey, Wilmington.

Exchange Export Corp. of America, $1,000,000; Elias Barlow, Orange, N. J.; Isadore Goldberg, Hoboken, N. J.; Jerome Harris, New York.

Nuway Stores Corp., chain of grocery stores, $1,000,000; Franklin L. Mettler, M. E. Mettler, P. M. Gilky, Wilmington.

Fowler Coal Mining Co., $500,000; T. C. Fowler, Bronxville, N. Y.; J. M. Townsend Jr., Pelham Manor, N. Y.; A. R. Steinecke, New York.

Mosgoll Corp., oil and gas, $300,000; Wilber A. McCoy, Pittsburgh; W. I. N. Lofland, Frank Jackson, Dover.

Franklin Composition Co., printers, $275,000; Henry B. Freedman, Harry C. Bundes, Edward A. Slosslein, Philadelphia.

J. V. Hughes & Co., manufacturing, $250,000; John J. Hughes, New Florence, Pa.; J. V. Hughes, R. S. Mearkle, Johnstown, Pa.

Everybodys, conduct chain of stores, $100,000; Stewart P. Foltz, Elmer H. Arris, Charles J. White, Newcastle, Pa.

Publicity in America, act as agent for individuals, $160,000; T. C. Cobee, C. B. Outten, S. L. Mackey, Wilmington.

Monroe Corrugated Box Co. of Del., manufacture paper, $100,000; A. W. Stitt, Willis Baldwin, Monroe, Mich.; T. L. Croteau, Wilmington.

Keystone Development Co., produce oil, $30,000; W. R. Hudspeth, J. H. McRacken, N. F. Hudspeth, Altoona, Pa.

NAME CHANGE.

Buxton Wilson to Buxton [illegible], Inc., Norfolk, Va.

Fire Record.

A. M.		Loss.
12:10	8 Av. and 25 St. (taxicab); Morris Altman	Not given
2:10	251 W. 112 St.; Solomon Bierleaur	Slight
4:30	216 W. 37 St.	Not given
8:30	508 Jackson Av.; Robert Wise	Slight
...	1 E. 150 St.; Yuccam Levine	Not given
P. M.
12:15	35 Stuyvesant St.; Sam Brown	Slight
12:20	1,495 Madison Av.; Sam Garbel	Slight
12:50	16-18 3 St.	Slight
1:35	82 Mulberry St.; Villus Bellone	Not given
1:25	147 Thompson St.; Glavinga Guisgina	Not given
2:05	130 E. 110 St.	Not given
2:15	144 Bleecker St.; Bialdi Mari	Not given
3:30	7 Av. and 20 St. (auto); A. Jall	Not given
3:55	48 1 St.; Fisherman Bros.	Not given
6:10	934 152 St.; Morris Lack	Not given
6:20	26 W. 136 St.; Julius Frapner	Not given
6:25	51 W. 28 St.; M. Ginsberg	Not given
7:40	89 W. 16 St.	Not given
7:45	70 E. 122 St.	Not given
8:00	101 E. 31 St.; Riverside Press Co.	Not given
9:05	65 Lenox Av.; Isaac Kleinman	Not given
9:30	153 9 Av.	Not given

Army Orders and Assignments.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The War Department published the following orders today:

Infantry.

Following are assigned to 63d: Lt. Col. Yates, H. E.; Majors, Bissell, H. H., and Musgrave, T. C.; Capts., Anderson, K. S.; Connolly, J. L. and Witcher, W. V. Jr.; 1st Lt. Lerch, A. L.; 2d Lt. Williams, F. R.

Following are assigned to 55th: Major French, J. C.; Capts., Estill, D. H., and Gilchrist, H. C.; First Lts., Blanton, W.; Brand, T. S.; Champney, A. S.; McRae, P. M.; Parkin, C. M.; Westfall, C. C., and Coghlan, J. J.

Hoey, Maj. W. P. Jr., to 28th.
Gerow, Maj. L. T., to office of Chief of Inf., this city.

Following are assigned to 64th: Capt. Rupert, A. K.; First Lts., Heineke, H. E.; Hollyer, W. A.; Holmes, T. R.; Kirk, R. J. Jr.; Loucks, E. T.; MacMullin, G. M.; Perret, M. J.; Porter, P. L.; Vevia, P. J., and Wolfe, L. B.

Following are assigned to 54th: Capts., Baldwin, A. H.; Miller, R. O., and Smith, G. H.; First Lts., Gorden, W. H.; Lewis, C. G.; Martin, C. A.; Perry, H. R. Jr.; Van Pelt, D. B.; Walthour, R. P. Jr., and Woolfley, F. A.

Edwards, Capt. P. S., to Camp Vail as off. in charge of the Radio Lab.

Following will join regiment indicated: Speer, Capt. C. E.; Mee, 2d Lt. V. D.; Harris, 2d Lt. J. W.; Kay, 2d Lt. W. L. Jr., and Porter, 2d Lt. H. D., to 20th Inf.
First Lts., Parsons, A. M.; Christenberry, C. W.; Curran, E. A. C., and Ellis, W. A., to 1st Inf.
Harvey, Capt. J. J.; Hirschfelder, 1st Lt. C. J.; Cochran, 1st Lt. J. H., and Kerr, 2d Lt. M. S., to 9th.
Silvestone, 1st Lt. H. J.; Strout, 1st Lt. E. P.; Van de Graaf, 1st Lt. W. T., and Harant, 2d Lt. L. J., to 23d.

Quartermaster Corps.

Following to Paris and report to Chief, Am. Graves Registration Svce., for duty: Capts.—Riordan, E. J.; Massie, L. B., and Fain, R. L.; First Lts.—Birdseye, M. B.; Maloney, B. L., and Joffee, I. H.; Second Lts.—Bland, G. C., and Harpole, K. S.
Hurst, 2d Lt. W. C., to Paris.

Medical Corps.

Beach, Maj. G. C., Jr., as member of promotion examining board appointed Aug. 4, vice Maj. W. T. Cade Jr., relieved.
Stinson, Maj. H. K., to Camp Pike.
Kimbrough, Capt. J. C., report to Cmdg. Gen. 8th Corps area, Ft. Houston, for duty.

Air Service.

McDonnell, Maj. J. C., to Walter Reed Hosp., sick.
Fitzmaurice, Maj. W. J., to Montgomery (Ala.) Avia. Repair Depot.

Miscellaneous.

Collier, Capt. L. B., M. R. C., report to 9th Corps area Cmdg. Gen., San Francisco, for duty.
Martin, 2d Lt. W. G., Engrs., hon. discharged.

Resignation.

Christian, 1st Lt. P. C., M. C.

Leaves.

Edison, Capt. C. G., A. S., 1 month's ext.
Dennison, 2d Lt. T., F. A., 20 days.

Naval Orders.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The Bureau of Navigation published the following orders today:

Beck, Cmdr. W. L., to duty on Asiatic Sta.
McSheehy, Lt. Cmdr. E. L., to Nav. Sta., Tutuila, Samoa.
Hupps, Lt. J. B., to receiving barracks, Hampton Roads.
Keene, Lt. W. P., to the Neptune.
Small, Lt. O. H., to command the Eagle 23.
Thompson, Lt. J. D., to training sta., San Francisco.
Wanner, Lt. R. F., to the Denver.

SHIPPING AND MAILS

THE TIDES.

	Sandy Hook A. M.	Sandy Hook P. M.	Governors Island A. M.	Governors Island P. M.	Hell Gate A. M.	Hell Gate P. M.
High water	0:02	12:07	[illegible]	12:14	2:07	2:30
Low water	6:20	6:33	6:48	7:02	8:21	8:45

THE SUN. Rises A. M. 7:18. Sets P. M. 4:54.

Incoming Steamships.

ARRIVED YESTERDAY.

Steamer.	From.	Sailed.
Adriatic	Southampton	Jan. 5
Leon XIII	Cadiz	Dec. 30
Old North State	London	Jan. 1
Songvard	Bergen	Dec. 31
Maravel	Trinidad	Jan. 3
Santa Tecla	Callao	Dec. 24
H. Luckenbach	Colon	Jan. 8
Modiste	Bermuda	Jan. 12
Admiral Cochrane	Cardiff	Jan. 23
Touraine	Havre	Jan. 4
Port Said Maru	Norfolk	Jan. 13

DUE TODAY.

Steamer.	From.	Sailed.
France	Havre	Jan. 8
Parima	Haiti	Jan. 5
Royal	Savona	Dec. 24
Siddons	Buenos Aires	Dec. 10
Romney	Rio Janeiro	Dec. 24
Communipaw	Portland, Eng.	Dec. 23
Highno	Santos	Dec. 22
Suez Maru	Port Said	Dec. 22
Lake Frohna	Bristol	Dec. 31
Harmod	Greenock	Jan. 1
City of Winchester	London	Jan. 1
Opequan	Bahia	Jan. 1
Loretta	Bizerta	Dec. 24
Homer City	Hamburg	Jan. 1
Quilpue	Colon	Jan. 8
Zeeland	Southampton	Jan. 7
Tolosa	Havana	Jan. 12
Ellira	Callao	Jan. 3

DUE TOMORROW.

Steamer.	From.	Sailed.
Imperator	Southampton	Jan. 9
New Rochelle	Havre	Jan. 2
Comus	New Orleans	Jan. 12
Gottland	Danzig	Dec. 30
Vedic	Liverpool	[illegible]
Allona	Rio Janeiro	[illegible]
Coamo	San Juan	Jan. 12
Fort Hamilton	Bermuda	Jan. 15
Belvedere	Trieste	Dec. 27

DUE TUESDAY.

Steamer.	From.	Sailed.
Rotterdam	Rotterdam	Jan. 8
Mongolia	Hamburg	Jan. 5
Frederik VIII	Copenhagen	Jan. 5
Jacques Cartier	Havre	Jan. 6
Sorland	Christiania	Jan. 3
City of Montgomery	Savannah	Jan. 15

Outgoing Steamships Carrying Mail

SAIL TOMORROW.

Steamer, Destination.	Mails Close.	Vessels Sail.	Carries Mail For
Riverside Bridge, Bergen	1:30 P.M.	3:00 P.M.	Bulgaria.
Javary, Turks Island	12:00 M.	3:00 P.M.	Turks Island, Dominican Republic.
W. M. Tupper, St. Thomas	12:00 M.	3:00 P.M.	West Indies.

SAIL TUESDAY.

Steamer, Destination.	Mails Close.	Vessels Sail.	Carries Mail For
Old North State, London	9:30 A.M.	12:00 M.	Great Britain, Europe.
Touraine, Havre	8:30 A.M.	12:00 M.	Europe, Turkey, Egypt, India, East Africa.
Pannonia, Piraeus	8:30 A.M.	12:00 M.	Greece.
Sta Marta, Cartagena	8:30 A.M.	10:00 A.M.	Jamaica, Colombia.
W. A. Luckenbach, Cristobal	8:30 A.M.	10:00 A.M.	Canal Zone, Panama, Salvador, &c.
Lady of Gaspe, St. John's	5:00 P.M.	——	Newfoundland (by rail to Boston).

Other Outgoing Steamships

Steamer & Destination.	Date.	Hour.
Juliana, Seville	Jan. 18	10:00 A.M.
Bellhaven, Rotterdam	Jan. 19	12:00 M.
Eastern Moon, Rotterdam	Jan. 20	12:00 M.
Bombadier, Antwerp	Jan. 20	10:00 A.M.
Langton Hall, Sydney	Jan. 20	12:00 M.
City of Hankow, Cape Town	Jan. 20	10:00 A.M.
Willdomines, London	Jan. 22	12:00 M.
City of Dunkirk, Kobe	Jan. 22	11:00 A.M.
Kasenga, Shanghai	Jan. 22	12:00 M.

By Wireless.

SS Imperator, incoming from Southampton, was signaled; due Jan. 17, forenoon. Cunard Line.

Foreign Ports—Arrivals and Departures

ARRIVED.

Steamer.	At	Date.
Porta Arolaa	Bilbao	Jan. 7
Dromore Castle	Cape Town	Jan. 11
Patrick Henry	Falmouth	Jan. 14
Kasama	Piraeus	Jan. 8
Patroclus	Singapore	Jan. 11
Schodack	Shanghai	Jan. 11
Arabian Prince	Port Natal	Jan. 12
Cabo Espartel	Cadiz	Jan. 13
Port Denison	Cape Town	Jan. 13
Cretic	St. Michaels	Jan. 14

SAILED.

Steamer.	From	Date.
Argentina	Trieste	Jan. 6
Stavangerfjord	Bergen	Jan. 7
Gaelic Prince	Singapore	Jan. 12
Laomedan	Hongkong	Jan. 12
Anthracite Bridge	Gibraltar	Jan. 14
Tennyson	Rio Janeiro	Jan. 9
Desla	Para	Jan. 13
Justin	Pernambuco	Jan. 14
Hutchinson	Falmouth	Jan. 14
Sloterdijk	Rotterdam	Jan. 13
Danzig (Pol.)	Danzig	Jan. 14

Transpacific Mails.

Connecting mails close at G. P. O. and City Hall Stations at 6 P. M. as follows:

Japan, Korea and Siberia, via Seattle	Toyohashi Maru	Jan. 17
Hawaii, Japan, Korea, China, Siberia, French Indochina and Netherlands East Indies (except Sumatra), via San Francisco	Korea Maru	Jan. 19
Hawaii, Samoan Islands, Australia and New Zealand, via San Francisco	Sonoma	Jan. 20

Pacific Mails.

Postmaster Patten announces that mails of the following dates—Melbourne, Dec. 21; Sydney, Dec. 21, and Honolulu, Jan. 4, which arrived per steamer Sonoma, were dispatched east from San Francisco Jan. 11 and are due in New York tomorrow. Also mails of the following dates—Mukden, Dec. 23; Kobe, Dec. 28, and Yokohama, Dec. 29, which arrived per steamer Fushimi, were despatched east from Seattle on Jan. 12, and are due in New York on the afternoon of Monday, Jan. 17.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The storm that was over the region of the Great Lakes Friday night passed rapidly eastward to the Canadian Maritime Provinces, and the storm that was then central over British Columbia was central Saturday night over North Dakota.

The pressure is rising rapidly in the Far Northwest, where decidedly colder weather has appeared. Much warmer weather prevails over the Plains States, the Rocky Mountain region and the West Gulf States, while the weather is somewhat colder in the Atlantic States.

There have been local snows within the last twenty-four hours in the Ohio Valley, the region of the Great Lakes, the interior of the Middle Atlantic States and over Montana, and there have been local rains in the Atlantic States and on the northern Pacific Coast.

In the New England States the weather will be partly cloudy and somewhat colder Sunday and unsettled, with probably snow, on Monday. In the Middle Atlantic States the weather will be cloudy and unsettled Sunday and Monday, with colder weather by Monday night. In the South Atlantic States the weather will be fair Sunday and Monday and in the East Gulf States, Tennessee and ... warmer Sunday and ... In the upper Ohio Valley and the Great Lakes the weather ... unsettled Sunday and Monday, with ... and colder weather Monday.

FORECAST FOR TODAY AND ...

Northern New England—Cloudy, somewhat colder Sunday; Monday ...

Southern New England, Eastern ... —Partly cloudy Sunday; Monday probably snow and colder.

New Jersey—Partly cloudy Sunday; unsettled, colder by Monday ...

Western New York—Cloudy Monday; probably local snows ... day.

The temperature ranged for the ... hours ended at 11 P. M., taken ... mometer at the local office of ... States Weather Bureau, is as ...

This thermometer is 414 feet above street level. The average temperature yesterday was 37; for the corresponding date last year it was 17; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years ... The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday 33; at 8 P. M. it was 33. Maximum temperature, 43 degrees at 12:05 A. M.; ... degrees at 9.30 P. M. Humidity, ... at 8 A. M.; 51 per cent. at 8 P. M. The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 29.66 inches; at 8 P. M. 29.84 inches.

AUCTIONS.

INSPECTION TO-MORROW (MONDAY)
Auction Sale of Importance
Entire Personal Property
SUMPTUOUS HOME FURNISHINGS
Rare Works of Art, Appraised Value $150,0...
Belonging to A Noted New York Family and Others in Interest (Names Withheld by Mutual Re...)
Together with Additional Estates.
Darling & Co., Louis Van Brink, Auc...
242 Fifth Avenue, 27th-28th Streets
SELL THURSDAY, 2 P. M., Also Friday and Sat...
Partial Summary Consists of—Real Bronzes—Sevres Tall Vases—French Clock Sets—Fine Guest Plates—Dinner Services—Several Exquisite C... containing rare curios. Carrara Statuary—Draperies (made to order) ...trollers—Paintings—Fine lot of Filet and Cluny Linens.
Steinway Parlor Grand Piano, (made to ord...)
Superb Furniture for the Dining—Bedroom—Living and Drawing Rooms—Napoleon Tables and Consoles—Twin Brass Beds—Large Dressing Cases—fonlers to match—Carved Mahogany Library Tables—Chairs to match—Painted Panels—Furniture for Chinese Rooms. Also 40 New Phonographs, Various Makes
By order G. G. Abdeni & Co., Importers
200 Oriental and Chinese Rugs (Large and S...)
CATALOGUES AT THE SALE.

May's Auction Galleries, Inc.
S. E. Cor. Broadway & 80th St.
Will Offer At
FORCED PUBLIC AUCTION
Wednesday, Jan. 19th and Following Days at 2 o'clock Each Afternoon
The Royal Furnishings and Works of Art
Property of Baron Merckens de Moerkerke (Brussel...)
Removed from the Palatial Mansion At 171 Field Point Road, (Greenwich, Conn.)
Consisting of Distinctive European Furniture, (Suites and Odd Pieces), ...ble and Bronze Statuary by Eminent Sculptors, Oriental R... —Gallery of Valuable Oil Paintings—Curios—Hangings, Cl... Clock Sets,—Laces,—Dinner Services,—Glassware, Etc.
Choice Examples of European Palace Vases, inclu... Pair Large Royal Sevres (Presented by King of Belgi...)
ALSO COMPLETE HOUSEFURNISHINGS
To Close the Estate of JEANETTE E. SHELBY, (Deceased) with additions
M. VAN BRINK, Auctioneer. Tel. Schuyle...
ON VIEW UNTIL HOUR OF SALE, with catalo...
"HAL" Twin Six Touring Car, To Be Sold Friday 3 P...

PLAZA ART and AUCTION ROOMS 5 and 7 East 59th Street.
EDWARD P. O'REILLY : AUCTIONEER EXTRAORDINARY DISPERSAL OF OBJECTS OF ART AND FIN...
FURNISHINGS
AT UNRESTRICTED PUBLIC SALE
By Orders of the Executors of the Estate of
JAMES N. WALLACE
Late President of the Central Union Trust Co. of New Yo...
WITH ADDITIONS
A noteworthy gathering of exceedingly Rare Bronzes, Fine Weaves of Ori... Rugs, Rare Tapestries, Living Room Suites in Beauvais, Needlework ... Velour, a pair of fine Chippendale Bookcases, Ormulu Mounted Desks, ... Tables, authentic Windsor Chairs, Early American and English Tables, De... tive Bronzes. A collection of 18th Century Glazed Chintzes. About 50 p... of fine Needlework, Rugs and other rare objects of interest. Diamond Jew...
Also a Collection of 25 Important Japanese Prints
Sale Days Wed., Thurs., Fri. & Sat. Afternoons, Jan. 19, 20, 21, 22 at 2 P. M. Each Day Exhibition from Monday, Jan. 17, until time of Sale.

ON VIEW TOMORROW & TUESDAY at the Galleries of
SMITH & JAFFE, Inc.
68 W. 45th St., bet. 5th & 6th Aves.
The Collateral for unpaid loans Consisting of DIAMONDS
WATCHES, CHAINS, RINGS, SILVERWARE, ETC.
By THE PROVIDENT LOAN SOCIETY OF NEW YORK
To Be Sold Wednesday, Jan. 19th, at 9:30 A. M.
HENRY A. HARTMAN AUCTIONEER.

ESTATES SALE
ON VIEW { SUNDAY, JAN... Tomorrow, JAN...
SAMUEL MARX, Au... SELLS BY PUBLIC ... Tuesday, Jan. 18, at ... AT SALESRO... 115-117 West 23r... BET. 6TH & 7TH ...
By order of Miss GEORGIA G... A LARGE COLLECTION ... ANTIQUE AND PERIO...
FURNITUR...
IN SUITES AND ODD PI... and Home Furnish...
Formerly Belonging to the ... NAT C. GOODWIN
Also for the Estates of ... Deceased, and others. Co... Mahogany and Ormolu Mount... Drawing Room Suite... Satin Damask Upholstered... of set used by Napoleon... Carved Antique Cabinets and T... Elaborate Silk Damask Uphol... ing Room Suite, 2 Grandfathe... 1 Victor Victrola, 1 Steck Pia... 1 Upright Piano, Oriental and ... Rugs and Runners, Draperies, ... Wearing Apparel, Stage Costu... Pictures, Books and many ot... too numerous to mention. Sale Under Direction of ... Auctioneer's Office, 115-117 W... N. Y. C. Tel. Watkins ...

Indispensable to the Well Informed.
A trustworthy, accurate, unbiased presentation of the chief events of international interest that have occurred the preceding thirty days in 50 different nations is indispensable to well informed men and women. This is what January Current History Magazine supplies. 192 pages, profusely illustrated. Try a copy. On news stands.—Advt.

Store Hours: 9 to 5:30

Sale : Period Phonograph : $129
A high grade phonograph, playing all makes of records. Period model, service also as a handsomely finished library table.
Music Salons: Eighth Floor
Open Evenings Till 9 o'Clock

GIMBEL BROTHERS
32nd STREET - BROADWAY - 33rd STREET NEW YORK CITY

A New Player Piano : $359
Brand new 88-note player, ready on our floor for instant delivery. And you have two whole years to pay.
Music Salons: Eighth Floor
Open Evenings Till 9 o'Clock

For Other Gimbel News See Section 2

$4,000,000 REDUCTION SALES
A COMPLETE RANGE OF NEW LOW PRICES

THE ENTIRE STOCK

Every Pair of High Shoes for Women and Misses

½ PRICE

5000 pairs of high button and lace boots—smart, fashionable—boots of quality and of fine character.

1100 PAIRS	2100 PAIRS	1800 PAIRS
Reduced to Exactly ½ Original Price,	Reduced to Exactly ½ Average Original Price,	All of famous Laird Schober & Co. make at Average ½ Price,
$6.00	$7.50	$9.00

GIMBELS WOMEN'S SHOE SHOP—Second Floor.

Caracul Wrap $289.00

This FUR Clearance

Offers Our Entire Stock at Deeper Reductions Than Ever Before

Many Prices Below Cost
Many Prices at Half

Every piece of fur in stock must go—we will not carry it over to next season. So prices go lower—and values go higher. The clever buyer will not wait until stocks are too depleted. Assortments are comprehensive now and values better than ever before.

A Few of the COAT Specials Are Listed

Marmot Coats, 36 inch, soft pelts	$89	Hudson Seal Coat, 45 inch, skunk	$379
French Seal Coats, 36 inch, self collar	95	Hudson Seal Wraps, 48 inch, choice skins	379
French Seal Coats, 36 inch, skunk collar	165	Moleskin Wraps, 46 inch, excellent skins	345
French Seal Wraps, 46 inch, deep over-capes	179	Moleskin Wraps, 48 inch, large over-cape	389
Australian Opossum Coats, 36 inch	195	Grey Squirrel Trotteur Coat	245
Natural Raccoon Coats, 36 inch, dark skins	245	Grey Squirrel Coat, 36 inch	425
Leopard Coats, 40 and 42 inch, skunk collars	225	Grey Squirrel Coat, 45 inch	455
Caracul Dolman, 45 inch, skunk collar	289	Grey Squirrel Wrap, 48 inch	495
Hudson Seal Dolman, 33 inch, fine pelts	169	Natural Mink Trotteur Coat	385
Hudson Seal Coats, 36 inch, self collar	225	Natural Mink Coat 36 inch	695
Hudson Seal Coat, 36 inch, beaver collar	268	Natural Mink Coat, 48 inch	1275
Hudson Seal Coat, 36 inch, skunk collar	295	Persian Lamb Coat, 36 inch	325
		Persian Lamb Coat, 48 inch	589

And Big Reductions on Small Pieces

Fox Scarfs	$35.00	Blue Fox Scarfs	$189.00	Hudson Seal Long Stoles	$69.00
Wolf Scarfs	29.50	Silver Fox Scarfs	279.00	Moleskin Long Stoles	79.00
Pointed Fox Scarfs	45.00	Mink Scarfs	25.00	Skunk Stoles, long	95.00
Stone Marten Scarfs	29.00	Skunk Scarfs	35.00	Dyed Skunk Muffs	15.00
Baum Marten Scarfs	39.50	Grey Squirrel Collars	45.00	Hudson Seal Muffs	16.50
Hudson Bay Sable Scarfs	49.50	Australian Opossum Collars	27.50	Fox Muffs	35.00
				Wolf Muffs	15.00

"Gimbels Furriers Since 1842" : Gimbels Fur Shop—Third Floor

Guaranteed C-L-O-C-K-S

In a Clearance 20% to 25% LESS

Mantel and boudoir clocks in many shapes and styles—but all with guaranteed movements—the New Haven and other equally dependable American makes.

All taken from stock and priced to bring you savings of 20% to 25%.

$25 Mahogany Mantel Clock, tambour shape. 17½x9½. 8-day movement.
$33 Mahogany Mantel Clock, tambour shape. 21x9. 8-day movement.
$27 Mahogany Mantel Clock, Gothic shape. 10½x8¾. 8-day movement.
$15 Mahogany Finish Mantel Clock, Gothic shape. 8¼x9½. 8-day movement.
$15 Mahogany Finish Mantel Clock, Cabinet design. 12½x9½. 8-day.
$3 Mahogany finish Boudoir Clock, Gothic shape. 1-day movement.
$7.50 Solid Mahogany Boudoir Clock, tambour shape. 8-day movement.

Prices Quoted Are the Prices You Pay

GIMBELS—Main Floor, Main Aisle.

RIBBONS

5¼ and 5¾ Inches Wide

39c A YARD

Priced at almost ½ Their Regular Prices

Thousands of yards of beautiful ribbons are offered at this very low price through a very special purchase—Ribbons for hair bows, for sashes, for fancy work, in plain colors, in plaids, in many charming floral designs, in a wonderfully complete range of colors.

Silk Moire Ribbons in plain colors
Silk Moire Ribbons with satin stripes
Plaid Silk Ribbons
And Silk Ribbons in floral designs.

GIMBELS RIBBON SHOP—Main Floor.

Clearance

Linens Less Than Replacement Cost

$11.25 PR.	75 Pairs Hemstitched Linen Sheets; 72x96 in. Pure Irish Linen.
$3.50 PR.	350 Prs. Pure Irish Linen Hemstitched Pillow Cases; 22½x36 inches.
$5.25 EA.	350 Pure Irish Linen Satin Damask Tablecloths; $5.25, $5.49, $6.50.
98c EA.	50 Dozen Pure Irish Linen Hemstitched Huck Face Towels. Kind that make charming gifts.
$6.50 EA.	Extra Heavy Pure Irish Linen Satin Damask Tablecloths: 70x70, $6.50; 70x88, $8.25; napkins, 22x22, $8.00 dozen.

GIMBELS LINEN SHOP—Second Floor

Women's English and Scotch Sports Stockings : All Wool

$1.39

Less Than Importer's Cost for Genuine Imported Wool Hose

Every pair perfect and stamped "pure wool" by the most reliable English and Scotch manufacturers. Complete size ranges in two of the favored modes of the moment——the wanted heather mixtures in shades of brown.

—black wool hose with silk embroidered clocks in blue, white or green.

And Pure Wool Hose for Youngsters

95c Imported from England and Scotland are these excellent stockings that may be rolled down and worn as socks. Black or navy blue. Every pair perfect—and pure wool.

GIMBELS HOSIERY SHOP—Main Floor.

New Colored Cotton Dress Goods for Early Spring

⅓ and ½ Less

Than Today's Regular Prices

28c A YARD — 32 Inch Woven Dress Ginghams
In beautiful range of colorings, plaids, broken plaids, checks, stripes and plain shades.

36 Inch Cambric Shirtings — 18c A YARD
A superior quality known as "80 squares fine count" in nice choice of stripes and colorings. In 2 to 10 yard lengths.

$1.00 A YARD — Silk and Cotton Shirtings
A very fine quality silk mixed shirtings, 32 inches wide; a wonderful value.

40 Inch Imported Organdies — 50c A YARD
A sheer smooth quality of imported organdie, in many delightful shades and colors.

at 18c a yd. Printed Voiles 38 inches wide, offering a wonderful assortment of smart and beautiful designs in many various colorings.

at 25c a yd. Imported Crepes
Those excellent Japanese crepes which are so artistic in colorings and so practical in washing and wearing qualities.

Also at 1-3 and 1-2 Less

32 Inch Dress Ginghams, Imported from Scotland.....48c a yd.
Imported Shirtings; stripes and cluster stripes.....48c a yd.
Imported Lingerie Batiste, a full 44 inches wide.....38c a yd.
Fine Quality Printed Voiles, 40 and 44 inches wide.....58c a yd.

Prices Quoted Are the Prices You Pay

GIMBELS WASH FABRIC SHOP—Second Floor.

2000 Yards of Crepe de Chine 39 and 40 Inches Wide

$1.65 A YARD

This is a beautiful heavy quality of crepe de chine. Always a favorite, this delightful fabric promises to surpass its own popularity in the fashions of the coming season. This price for a limited period only.

Light blue	Deep rose	Black	Lavender	Porcelain blue
Pink	Copenhagen blue	White	Brown	Neptune green
Flesh	Wedgwood blue	Light brown	Zinc grey	Rust
Maise		Silver grey	Navy blue	Tan
Ivory

GIMBELS SILK SHOP—Second Floor.

MEN! Every Sack Suit in Stock $35 and $50

January Clearance Events Bring This Phenomenal Offering of Our Finest Suits

Top price for our best suits $50. And truly splendid suits are $35. What an opportunity!

Famous labels tell of quality unfaltering and satisfaction unfailing. Look for the labels.

Lower priced suits are transferred to the Downstairs Store. Just these two prices on the Fourth Floor.

Brooklyn, Long Island and New Jersey Customers Direct to Gimbels via Tubes and Subways

The New York Times.

KRAMER SUMS UP FIRST 'DRY' YEAR

Prohibition Commissioner Believes Liquor Drinking Has Begun to Taper Off.

FEWER PERMITS SOUGHT

He Believes Sentiment Favorable to Law Enforcement Is Increasing.

PREDICTS END OF 'APPETITE'

Suppression of "Moonshining" and Prevention of Smuggling Chief Tasks in Future Years.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—As the first year of [illegible] prohibition ended tonight, Prohibition Commissioner Kramer declared the American people were rapidly recovering from their "hangover." He believes they have begun to taper off their liquor drinking. Although liquor, some of it good, but much of it bad, still [illegible] obtainable in large quantities, the head of the prohibition enforcement corps believes the first year's work has brought a large measure of success.

In the future the Commissioner said, enforcement of the law should become increasingly [illegible] while those who used to put their foot on the brass rail should gradually become reconciled to the saloon's [illegible].

"In our first year," said Mr. Kramer, "we have seen the private stocks absorbed like lakes in the desert. We have rapidly and prosecuted. We believe we have made life unpleasant for the bootleggers and other traffickers in whisky. It has been a difficult and sometimes a dangerous job, but those of us who have been on the job itself are changes for the better."

But there remains much to do, the commissioner declared. He told of whisky rings and combinations, and of how the bureau had gathered evidence and [illegible] a rebirth of the business [illegible] in some places. On the other hand, however, Mr. Kramer is convinced [illegible] there is an increasing [illegible] to prohibition which [illegible] doomed many bootleggers [illegible].

[illegible] Prohibition Bureau [illegible] seeking permits [illegible] in handling [illegible] of them. Mr. Kramer [illegible] permits would [illegible] them to [illegible] with the law. There [illegible] 60,000 permits in existence [illegible], but there will be [illegible] half as many [illegible] the bureau has been busy [illegible] "undesirables" for [illegible] the new list will be held to the [illegible] minimum, the commissioner [illegible].

Withdrawals Cut in Half.

During the first ten months of constitutional prohibition 35,540,176 gallons of distilled spirits were withdrawn from bonded warehouses. On this basis it was officially estimated that withdrawals for the year ending tonight would exceed 43,000,000 gallons. Such withdrawals are permitted for non-beverage purposes, and prohibition officials are unable to check directly on the amount which [illegible] diverted to beverage use. Mr. Kramer said, however, that large quantities are thus consumed, and it is one of the problems of the bureau to restrict [illegible] transfer.

Internal revenue records show that for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1919, the last full year before prohibition, withdrawals for all purposes aggregated 81,000,000 gallons. The records also show that withdrawals for non-beverage uses during the six months of that year averaged only about one-fourth of the amount taken out of bonded storage for drinking purposes.

One of the principal problems encountered in [illegible] enforcement work, Mr. Kramer said, was the variation in the points of view of Federal attorneys and courts. It has been difficult to obtain interpretations of the law that were similar, he continued, while the infliction of penalties likewise had varied. United States attorneys had differed as to the powers and duties of agents, and where there has not been a majority of citizens favoring prohibition Federal courts had dealt lightly with offenders.

Mr. Kramer believes, however, that the second year will show improvement in this. He said uniform plans of court procedure were certain to come and that as a result prosecutions would be better handled. Enforcement officials have struck a snag and continually are confronted with problems concerning the manufacture and sale of industrial alcohol. It had been a source of daily trouble for the agents, the Commissioner declared. Rules and regulations governing its production and handling have been promulgated from time to time, but in every instance, according to the bureau head, there comes a new flood of complaints. These always require a new determination of what is or what is not a product that can be used as a beverage.

"The bureau fully comprehends the importance of industrial alcohol," Mr. Kramer asserted. "It does not desire to hamper or hinder its legitimate use, but there are many persons who will drink any concoction that has a 'kick' that we just have to be strict."

Drive on Patent Medicines.

Mr. Kramer said many manufacturers of patent medicines refused to believe their product had become a popular prohibition beverage. They attributed the increase in sales to an awakening of the people to the formulas's medicinal value.

"But we know differently here," the Commissioner declared. "The alcohol and not the medical potion contained in those bottles is the reason for their popularity. So the 'kick' must be taken out of such preparations or they must be medicated to a point where the taste will not be pleasant. Our men have compelled manufacturers of some such medicines to correct their products already and the others will be taken care of as fast as we can get to them."

The consumption of patent medicines with a "kick" in them, however, has convinced enforcement officials, Mr. Kramer said, that the drinking done now is simply the satisfaction of the "hangover" appetite. He believes it is proof that social drinkings, the have-another-one-on-me kind of consumption, has definitely passed forever into oblivion.

"Of course," the Commissioner continued, "there is still the social drinking in the homes wherever there is a private supply. But the nightly party drinking is gone. I have heard men say they would take a drink now when they never thought of swallowing a drop while the saloons were all about them. The cause for that is found in the spirit of adventure, born in most Americans. It will continue to cause some trouble, rather indirectly, for a while, but it will gradually disappear."

Disappearance of the "appetite" of the steady drinker also is predicted by Mr. Kramer, who foresees in that connection practically the end of the bootlegger. He asserted that while there always would be some demand for "hard liquor," prohibition enforcement in a few years would have resolved itself into a simple problem of vigilance, a guarding against the production of moonshine and the patrolling of the border and coasts against smuggling.

Liquor smuggling, like the production of moonshine whisky, has developed into a business of high profits since the advent of prohibition. In fact, revenue officers assert that the value of liquor thus brought in exceeded the estimated worth of all other smuggled commodities.

Mr. Kramer said the enforcement agents' worst problem with respect to liquor "running" was in the Great Lakes area and along the St. Lawrence River section of the Canadian border. It has been difficult to curb and the end is not yet. The profits are increasing as the local supplies decrease and this condition, the Commissioner believes, means that greater effort at enforcement must be concentrated along borders of the country.

Port cities, especially along the Atlantic Coast, have given the bureau trouble, for foreign vessels are willing to help Americans obtain quantities of any kind of beverages no longer sold here. But a weeding out of the enforcement staff, the elimination of men who have not resisted the smuggling of liquor from foreign ships, is expected by officials to correct that condition eventually.

As for the moonshiner, Mr. Kramer stated that "we always will have some of him with us." Operating in the mountain fastness, his still will spring up again and again, but the head of the dry forces is optimistic. He declared the sentence had been read for the moonshiner, too, and that the combined forces of prohibition and internal revenue could keep on his trail as long as Congress authorized employment of men for that purpose.

First Ship Under Polish Flag Bringing 800 Emigrants Here

WARSAW, Jan. 14.—The steamer Danzig, the first to fly the flag of the Polish Republic, sailed from Danzig for the United States today with 800 emigrants.

This inaugurates the proposed regular service between Baltic ports and New York to transport the thousands who are awaiting passage.

TRADE WORLD ISSUE, SAYS VANDERLIP

Maintaining Its Balance More Important Than League of Nations, Banker Asserts.

Frank A. Vanderlip, speaking at the luncheon of the Radcliffe Club at the Hotel Astor yesterday, said that it would be better to build a railroad in China than to make futile efforts to save the 10,000,000 lives perishing there now through famine. He maintains that the balance of trade is the most important issue of the world today and that no League of Nations or any substitute for it could relieve present conditions.

"Congestion of population will always breed war," said Mr. Vanderlip. "It is because of congestion that all nations endeavor to branch out. That is why Austria is starving today. It is this same congestion that is costing the lives of millions in China. And when I say that I would rather build a railroad in China than save the 10,000,000 lives now being lost there, it is not from lack of sympathy for the situation there but because of a greater sympathy for the future generations. We must all be guided by intelligent self-interest—that is, interest for our people and an eagerness to progress, and a League of Nations or a similar document would not encourage such progress. We must have an incentive for progress, and competition with other nations is the greatest and in fact the only incentive in trade relations.

During the last seventy years the population of the world has increased 700,000,000. This increase of 1 per cent. a year is bound to bring about great economic problems. It has made it necessary for people to specialize and it has caused congestion in certain districts. In the case of China the population has increased so much more rapidly than the nation has progressed that they now find themselves in the deplorable condition of having millions of their people without food. Even if we could gather enough food for this vast number we could not get it to them in time to save their lives, for they have such inadequate means of transportation. Therefore, since we are unable to help these suffering people materially, it would be far wiser for us to centre our attention toward building railroads for them, thereby preventing a recurrence of such a condition and enabling the future generations to carry on trade with other countries."

Mr. Vanderlip predicted that women would dominate political thought and said that such groups of women would soon be the greatest instruments in bringing about "intelligent selfishness."

SPEEDS ITALIAN ENVOY.

King Victor Receives Ricci, Who Comes to Washington.

ROME, Jan. 15.—Rolando Ricci, the new Italian Ambassador to the United States, was received today by King Victor Emmanuel previous to the Ambassador's departure for America. The King expressed his entire confidence in the envoy's ability to fulfill his mission worthily and conferred upon him the Grand Cordon of the Crown of Italy.

Signor Ricci will sail from Genoa on the steamer Duca d'Aosta, together with his son Filippo, who fought in the war as captain of a trench mortar section, received two silver medals for valor and other decorations and was knighted on the battlefield. Marquis Tomasso Assereto, who will be Secretary of the Embassy, will sail on the same steamer.

West Australia Rail Strike Ends.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The strike that has paralyzed the whole railway system of West Australia for some time has been settled, says a dispatch to The London Times today. The men obtained an eight-hour day.

KENTUCKY FEARS MORE NIGHT RIDING

Revolt Against Low Prices Causes Apprehension of New Tobacco War.

FARMERS FACE BANKRUPTCY

Attempt to Limit Production This Year Will Meet Opposition From Many Growers.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 15.—Does Kentucky face another great tobacco war, such as marked the revolt at low prices some years ago? Many people who have studied the situation since the growers recently refused to accept bids offered by buyers for the great manufacturers, thereby forcing the closing of every important market in the State outside of Louisville, profess to see a possibility of such outbreaks.

For Kentucky's golden crop—tobacco—has proved mostly dross this year. The broad acres in the light burley belt, which in 1919 produced leaf which sold for more than $75,000,000, this year grew a crop for which are being offered the lowest prices in many years. The growers have rebelled against the prices, but so far they have been unable to help themselves, except to haul their tobacco back to their own barns from the various markets on which they offered it, or simply to leave it in the city warehouses.

A convention held at Lexington a few days ago voted to grow no tobacco in Kentucky, Indiana, Tennessee and Ohio for this year. The resolutions were adopted with a roar of applause. That night the word went out broadcast that there was to be no tobacco produced in the forty-two counties that make up the "white burley district."

But there are hundreds of farmers in every county in that same district who will not abide by the order of the Lexington or any other convention ordering them to not produce tobacco, according to general belief, and if an attempt is made by any organization or other means to block the production of a crop by these "independents" this year, an outbreak of night-riding is feared.

Meetings and conferences have been held in nearly every part of the burley district the last week by farmers who were anxious to do what they could to save themselves from bankruptcy and to take such action as would insure a fair price for the present crop. Warehousemen, business men and leading growers who have studied the situation believe that the only sane solution of all difficulties is to sell the present crop for what it will bring and raise a somewhat curtailed crop the coming season.

And despite all the meetings and conferences which have been held, the tobacco producers are just about where they started. They have heard each other attack the manufacturers; they have heard charges by the Seventh District Representative that the manufacturers are "in a conspiracy to steal the present crop"; they have hissed and hooted down Clarence Le Bus, who, as head of the Burley Society, led the successful fight for higher prices ten years ago and afterward; they have done everything except discuss the situation calmly and dispassionately, with a determination to make the best of a dangerous situation.

Hundreds Facing Bankruptcy.

Hundreds of farmers probably face bankruptcy unless their tobacco can be sold at a price which will meet their cost of production, which is placed at an average of 30 cents a pound. It is not believed that the manufacturers will pay this amount for much of the present crop.

Tobacco has, of course, been produced in Kentucky many years. During most of this time the landowner and his tenant produced their crops, sold them for what they could get, divided the proceeds and put up with the situation. Tenants lived little better than pigs in some sections.

Then came the first rumblings of a change. The farmers over the State began to organize a pool. The move started in western Kentucky and grew. Orders went out that tobacco growers must enter the pool and hold their crops until the prices were raised to a fair level. Thousands of farmers joined, but others refused.

When hundreds of producers refused to obey the order that no more tobacco be grown, Kentucky entered upon an era of lawlessness. The first work of the night riders was to scrape the tobacco fields at night and remove the canvas covers from the tender plants when the scraping was omitted. This action was usually accompanied by a warning signed "Night Riders."

Men who did not obey the commands of the night riders to join the pool and stop raising tobacco received "fair" warning, generally in the way of a bundle of switches and a bullet or two wrapped in paper or rags and thrown on their verandas at night.

How the Night Riders Operated.

When the farmer continued obdurate more stringent methods were adopted. In many cases those bundles of switches were used on the bare backs of men and women, who were dragged from their beds and, with only their thin night clothes covering them, were whipped until their bodies were a mass of cuts. Barns by the score were burned, some residences were destroyed and several murders committed.

The most damage at one time was done at Hopkinsville, where a band of armed night riders swooped on the city and set fire to warehouses, from which flames were soon shooting skyward. All the outlaws escaped.

While the outlawry was rampant throughout the tobacco district, it was in Western Kentucky that the most organized outbreaks occurred. Most of the "whitecap" acts were done there, and most of the fires took place in that State. But no part of the leaf district escaped. The smoke of burning barns might be seen in half a dozen widely separated counties within a week. The growers determined that the so-called "trust" should not force them to produce another crop at cost or below, and they adopted methods of violence to prevent others from producing a crop.

Gradually the pool plan gained until the 1908 crop was mostly pledged to it. The planters then cut the 1909 crop to such an extent that the manufacturers saw their way clear to paying a fair price. Then dissensions in the ranks of the earlier organization caused the fight to die out to some extent, and after a short time the price declined again.

Then the Burley Tobacco Society was organized, with Clarence LeBus of Cynthiana at its head. This society enlisted the most powerful groups of farmers in the State, and slowly but surely the price of tobacco they produced was forced upward. There was some trouble during this period and some more women and men were whipped, some more shots were fired and more devilry was done.

Finally the Burley Society "went over the top"—i. e., it forced a fair price all along the line. Since then the farmer has been, if not altogether in clover, fasting along the edges of a clover field. He has received a fair price for his leaf; he has lavished his money on his family, and the people generally have benefited. And now the grower faces the loss of it all.

Lad Who Fought for Belgium at Nine Declares America Is 'the Best for a Boy'

"Je suis Belge," answered Jacques Stefken of Liege to Judge Hoyt of the Children's Court yesterday morning. But as soon as an interpreter could be found Jacques Stefken changed his statement to the Court from "I am" to "I was a Belgian." Now he asserts that he is an American. And through the interpreter Judge Hoyt listened to a tale of adventure that demanded belief because it was beyond imagination.

Jacques went to war when he was nine. With his father and two uncles he went to the defense of Liege in August, 1914, not because Belgium sent children to war but because "every man in Liege, civilian or soldier, went, so I went with my father."

The lad's father and uncles were killed and Jacques went to Dusseldorf a prisoner of war. From there he went to Munich and was farmed out to drive horses for a lumberman. One night he escaped in a load of wood and, with another older prisoner, turned up some weeks later in Switzerland. How he did all this is not told, but that he did it was accepted by the Court as a fact.

For a time in 1916 and 1917 Jacques lived with one group of refugees and then with another until he drifted into Marseilles, where he shipped as a cabin boy on the steamship Shanghai, going thence to Liverpool, whence he sailed to China, taking in Australia, the East Indies and parts of Arabia en route.

"My father and mother are dead. I have no more home in Liege. I have seen many places and I am tired of seeing places. Everybody says that here is the best for a boy, and when my ship came to New York I left it to live in America." Thus Jacques's explanation was translated to the Court.

And it would appear that Jacques Stefken did not come to the wrong place for a homeless boy without father or mother, for Patrick O. Carney of the Catholic Big Brothers was in court, and until Jan. 22, or until a home is found for Jacques, the Big Brothers will confirm him in his belief that "here is the best for a boy."

AMERICANS PAY HIGH PASSPORT CHARGES

European Countries Tax Them the Equivalent of $10, the Rate Here.

LESS FOR OTHER TOURISTS

President Mitchell of Red Star Line Suggests Action by Chamber of Commerce.

According to Percy V. G. Mitchell, President of the Red Star Line and General Manager of the International Mercantile Marine Company in Belgium, who returns to Antwerp on Jan. 19 on the White Star liner Adriatic, the charge of $10 for an American visé on passports is not only a tax upon immigrants who have to pay the high rate of exchange, but also upon American business men abroad.

"Since the charge for a visé has been raised from $2 to $10," said Mr. Mitchell yesterday at the company's office, 9 Broadway, "the countries in Europe have retaliated by making Americans pay the same amount. They have arranged to base their charges for a visé on a sliding scale. For example, I have to pay 175 francs for my visé at the Belgian Consulate because I am an American, while an Englishman has only to pay 10 francs, which is a big difference when a man is accompanied by members of his family.

"Since the war Europe has been split up into a number of small countries, and each of them is charging Americans the equivalent of $10 in United States currency. A business man has to pass from one country to another to get anywhere, and in each case he has to pay heavily because the State Department in Washington, without any reason that I have been able to learn, has raised the fee for a visé to $10.

"The citizen of the United States has to pay $10 for his passport in the first place, and then to pay another $10 to return from abroad, and the same amount for the countries he visits on the Continent. Why the United States Chamber of Commerce has not taken up this question, which is so important to American business men traveling through Europe, I am at a loss to understand.

"In addition it will also interfere with tourist travel in the Summer, which had already decreased considerably through the increase in passenger fares made necessary by the high cost of operation of the steamships, increased wages, food, fuel, &c."

Mr. Mitchell said the Belgian Government was putting the peasants back on the land in Flanders, and in place of the small cottages with earthen floors which were demolished by the German guns they were erecting neat, small houses with tiled floors and modern sanitary conveniences. From what he had heard recently in Brussels before sailing for New York, the Government would not rebuild Nieuport, the former fashionable seashore resort, as it had been blasted to pieces by shells and bombs, the avenues approaching it being ruined.

Dixmude, where the severe fighting took place at the bridgehead on the Yser, was to a great extent demolished also, but the people had started to return there in the Summer of 1919 and build on the ruins of their former homes. The Belgian peasant loves his country and does not want to go abroad to live, Mr. Mitchell added.

WOMEN TO PICK STATE HEAD

Democratic Committee to Elect Successor to Mrs. Crosby as Chairman.

Notices have been sent out for a meeting of the New York State Democratic Women's Committee at the Hotel McAlpin on Jan. 26, at which a Chairman will be elected, it was learned yesterday. The committee has had no Chairman since the resignation of Mrs. John Sherwin Crosby, who supported the Republican ticket in the last campaign, the functions of the Chairman having been performed by Miss Elisabeth Marbury, who succeeded Mrs. Crosby as woman member of the Democratic National Committee from New York State.

The members of the committee are appointed by the respective men, county Chairmen and Assembly district leaders. Replies received at the headquarters of the committee, recently opened at 597 Fifth Avenue, were said to indicate a large attendance of up-State women at the meeting.

UNITE FOR WAR ON BLUE SUNDAY

New Yorkers Form New Society to Fight Restriction of Sabbath Recreation.

HEADED BY MARTIN VOGEL

Association Expressly Disclaims Any Concern With the Question of Prohibition.

Reasons for the formation of the Sunday Rights Association, whose avowed object is to combat the efforts now being made to provide a "blue law" Sunday for the country, were given yesterday to THE NEW YORK TIMES by an officer of the association. With Martin Vogel, former Assistant Treasurer of the United States, as Chairman, several prominent New Yorkers met at the Transportation Club last Thursday and founded the association, adopting a definite platform for the work planned.

This platform, after stating that the organization had no religious or political leanings and believed in the religious observance of Sunday, stated that it should be the organization's duty "to protect Sunday from such restrictive legislation as shall work against the customary enjoyment of Sunday as a day of rest and recreation by all the people of the United States."

In addition, the association recorded itself as prepared to fight every attempt to limit or abrogate Sunday recreation, and, finally, that it should "undertake to have stricken from the statute books of the various States of this country all Sunday legislation which improperly restricts personal liberty." Avoiding the chance of misunderstanding, the association declared it would "in no way whatever concern itself with the prohibition question."

This is the explanation for the formation of the society, as told by one of its officers:

"During the last three or four months there has been a growing movement toward the restriction of Sunday recreation, but this movement was not crystallized until recently. Its seriousness was not fully realized even here in New York until word came from Washington a month ago that $1,000,000 was to be spent during the next three years in safeguarding prohibition and assisting the blue laws.

"The most recent evidence of blue law activities is the first of a series of bills to be offered in the Tennessee Legislature. This bill was introduced less than ten days ago. If the bill becomes a law, it will forbid all train service in Tennessee on Sunday, all baseball and other sports would be banned, no newspapers could be published, and all stores would be closed, the only buying allowed being that called for by charity or necessity.

"It is only necessary to look at the Jefferson Market Court record for last Tuesday to realize how the blue law Sunday idea is spreading. A certain Harold Dworsky was arrested for working in his office at 24 West Thirty-seventh Street last Sunday. Richard B. Welsh, the policeman, explained to Magistrate Sweetser that he had arrested Mr. Dworsky for 'violating the blue Sunday laws; he had the lights lighted in his loft on Sunday night and he was writing.'

"Magistrate Sweetser discharged the case, as he held there had been no violation of the law. As the policeman's act was repudiated by his superior officer, there is no question that he acted in good faith, fully believing that the law was being broken by a man daring to work on his books on Sunday."

The association, with temporary headquarters at the Hotel Biltmore, plans to cover the entire United States and to protect Sunday wherever that day threatens to become "blue" through the agency of the various reform societies.

GET TWO FARES TOMORROW.

Flatbush Residents, Defeated in Court, Will Pay Ten Cents for Rides.

H. Hobart Porter, Vice President and General Manager of the Brooklyn City Railroad Company, announced yesterday that the company would begin collecting two fares on the Flatbush Avenue line at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Foster Avenue, the imaginary line dividing the old towns of Flatbush and Flatlands, will divided the two single-fare zones. On Friday the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court refused to grant a stay pending an appeal by the Public Service Commission to the Court of Appeals from the decision of the lower courts that the company had the right to charge a five-cent fare in each zone.

The Younger Generation

Are the morals of to-day worse or better than a decade ago? Are manners deteriorating?

Every generation criticises the one that is following it, but perhaps the attack is more violent today than formerly. The great war may have caused this. Anyway, the critics persist, and the youngsters defend themselves vigorously.

An entertaining article on the controversy will appear in

The New York Times Book Review and Magazine

NEXT SUNDAY.

Order from Your Newsdealer in Advance.

GULICK SEES PERIL IN EASTERN ENMITY

Not Advocating Asiatic Immigration, but Warns Against Arrogant Policy.

ELASTIC PROGRAM FAVORED

Congressman Valle Opposes Japanese Domination of California.

A national immigration policy that shall be scientific, patriotic, elastic, selective and distributive was advocated at a luncheon of the National Republican Club yesterday by Dr. Sidney L. Gulick, Secretary of the National Committee for Constructive Immigration Legislation. Other speakers were Representative William N. Valle, member of the House Committee on Immigration and Naturalization; Richard H. Waldo, General Manager of the Interracial Council, and Merton A. Sturges, Chief Naturalization Examiner of the United States Department of Labor.

Discussing the California question, Dr. Gulick, who has spent many years in the Asiatic countries, urged that the United States adopt no immigration policy which would result in the enmity of the "sleeping giant" in the East. He was not advocating Asiatic immigration, he said, but such a policy as could be applied to all people without discrimination, in such a way as the nations in the East would not regard as arrogant. The Government should admit at one time only so many persons as could be wholesomely transformed into American citizens within a given time.

Elastic Program Advocated.

A policy which might be desirable now might become a very undesirable one within a short space of time, Dr. Gulick said, in advocating an elastic national program. It should change with phases of economic depression and prosperity here, and be adjustable to our various needs and conditions; selective with reference to individuals, he thought, and not to particular ethnological groups, and distributive, so that no embarrassing concentration of alien born might occur.

"The bill for the temporary suspension of immigration which recently passed the House and which is now pending in the Senate is admittedly an emergency measure," Congressman Valle said, "though if it passes it will also serve as a useful warning to other countries that the United States is not to be regarded in the future as a dumping ground.

"The passage of the bill by the House was at once a recognition of our present danger and of our past neglect. Both of these are very real.

"The seed of radicalism often falls on fertile ground. The foreigner finds here more laws than he believed could exist. He is bewildered by their multitude and complexity. They forget that they came here to escape oppression and to better their condition. They ignore the fact that they are themselves at the moment urging their relatives to come for the same reasons. They would forget and ignore these things if we helped, then more."

Referring to Japanese Immigration, Congressman Valle said: "I believe those who have come have been in the main an economic benefit to those parts of the United States where they have settled. But it seems to be generally though not universally conceded that they are not a physically assimilable race. But whether the fact of physical unassimilability is actually demonstrable or not, physical, racial assimilation apparently is not desired by either race, and especially not by ours. Call it prejudice if you like, the fact remains.

Japanese in California.

"You could bring an array of arguments to show that if California, for instance, should become a Japanese country it would be a better country. I do not admit it, but I shall not stop to debate the question, for I regard it as entirely immaterial. The point is that it would not be our country. The fact that another race, by working longer hours, by working in greater detail, by living on less, could crowd the white man out is not, to my mind, any argument at all for permitting him to do so. The total number of Japanese in California is not large, less than 3 per cent.

"I contend that humanitarian reasons or reasons of international comity do not compel us to submit to such extinction. I contend that we need not fear war with any nation for exercising our right to determine whom we shall admit to residence here. If that is not the prerogative of an independent nation, then independent nations have ceased to exist as such."

To one who has seen the great undeveloped lands of the West the reply to the present immigration question is automatic, said Mr. Waldo. "The new consuming power of Europe's masses from toothbrushes to telephones, and cigarettes and motor cars, will make itself felt as financing methods are worked out. Increasingly the graduates of this great university will find opportunity beckoning from their native lands, Mr. Waldo pointed out, and increasingly we shall need to replace them with a larger freshman class.

Many Americans know nothing of the congested conditions in the Naturalization Court, Mr. Sturges said. The machinery is totally inadequate, causing great loss of time to the applicant who appears repeatedly without securing his papers. This condition, Mr. Waldo urged, should be corrected at once. Newcomers, he said, should be shown the respect and valuation that 100 per cent. Americans have for their own institutions.

PROTEST HIGH HIDE DUTY.

Tanners Say Increased Tariff Will Add $1 to Cost of Shoes.

The Tanners' Council yesterday sent the following telegram to its members:

"The Senate Finance Committee added 15 per cent. duty on hides to Emergency Tariff bill to be reported to the Senate Monday. Since 40 per cent. of the hides are imported about $15,000,000 will probably be added to importations and $25,000,000 to domestic hides, or approximately $40,000,000 to shoes and leather goods. Certainly the public wants no additional burden. Duty benefits hide speculators and junk dealers, not farmers. Wire your Senators and Congressmen early Monday to have item eliminated."

Officers of the council declared that the new duty would at least add $1 to the price of every pair of shoes.

New Woman M. C. Recalls A Tale of the Old "Wet" Days

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—An incident of "the good old days" was recalled today by Miss Alice Robertson, Representative-elect from Oklahoma. During a talk with newspaper men at the Capitol prohibition came up.

"Things are quite different now," said Miss Robertson. "When my great-grandfather was ordained for the ministry such a big crowd gathered for the ceremony that he had to open three barrels of whisky."

STEAMSHIP TO SAIL VIA SUEZ TO INDIA

New Liner City of Marseilles Will Start First Voyage From New York Jan. 22.

The new twin-screw steamship City of Marseilles, built early in the war, will leave on her first voyage from New York via the Suez Canal to Bombay under the flag of the America and India Line on Jan. 22, according to Norton, Lilly & Co., agents, at 26 Beaver Street. She has been equipped with the latest appliances for the comfort and safety of passengers and has excellent accommodation on her upper decks amidships for 175 in the first cabin and 50 in the second cabin aft.

The City of Marseilles was built for the Indian trade and has a special ventilating system for the hot weather usually met with in the Red Sea and the Indian Ocean. She goes direct to Port Said in eighteen days, and passengers can take the railroad there to Cairo or Jerusalem and Damascus. Like most of the liners in the Eastern trade, the steamship carries a native curry cook, who will initiate Americans into eating Indian dishes.

The vessel is owned by the City Line of Glasgow, which was founded forty-five years ago by George Smith after he had sold his famous fleet of green-painted clipper ships. Smith's iron rule was that the ships should be "teetotal," and no wines or liquors were sold to passengers. The crews did not believe in the prohibition ideas of the owner and were known at every port in India for their sprees when they went ashore. Years ago, after the death of the founder, when the Ellerman Line took over the controlling interest in the company, bars were opened on the steamships.

From Bombay the liner goes to Colombo and then to Calcutta, which was the destination of the vessels when the company was started.

The City of Marseilles is 10,000 gross tonnage, 470 feet long, 57 feet beam and has an average speed of 14 knots.

SAYS GERMANY IS CURED.

Dernburg Believes No War of Revenge Is Possible.

MILAN, Italy, Jan. 15.—"There is no possibility of Germany ever attempting a war of revenge, having been cured forever of her old militaristic spirit, Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, former German Minister of Finance, emphatically told the delegates at the closing session of the League of Nations Societies Conference here yesterday.

Dr. Constantin Dumba, former Austro-Hungarian Ambassador to the United States, in reviewing the economic situation of Austria, declared that not even a union with Germany could save Austria economically, but said he believed such a union was inevitable eventually. To this Dr. Dernburg replied that Germany could not help Austria economically at the present time, as she was too badly off herself.

The Bulgarian delegate to the conference insisted upon Bulgaria's need of an outlet to the Aegean. The delegates accredited by the Russian League of Nations Society were admitted to the conference simply as spectators, their organization not having been recognized officially.

COURT HOLDS "GENERAL."

Prosecutor Says de Clamcey Has a Long Criminal Record.

Philippe de Clamcey, who tried to convince the police that he had served as a General in the World War, was held without bail by Magistrate Morris, in the Tombs Court yesterday, on a charge of grand larceny. Lawrence Dinch, Secretary of the Underwood Computing Machine Company, charged that de Clamcey had given him a worthless check for $75.

Assistant District Attorney Peter L. F. Sabbatino informed the Magistrate that de Clamcey's criminal activities were of an international nature and extended over eighteen years. In 1903, according to Sabbatino, de Clamcey was sent to prison in England for fraudulent practices. He was convicted in New York City several years ago for the illegal practice of medicine. He was also convicted of perjury in this state, and of grand larceny in Boston. Mr. Sabbatino said the prisoner was wanted in Massachusetts for violating his parole.

The wife of de Clamcey, who professed to know nothing of his previous convictions, appeared in court with her sister. They refused to discuss his difficulty.

RUSSIAN CHILDREN HOME.

All but 168 of 700 Here Recently Are With Families in Petrograd.

Of the 700 Russian children who were in this city in September on their way around the world from Siberia to their homes in Russia, all but 168 were returned to their families in Petrograd before Christmas, according to a letter received yesterday by the Red Cross. This letter, dated Dec. 12 in Finland, says:

"Tomorrow we send our fifth train to the border, where the children will be delivered to a fur-hatted personage who officiates in the passage of people to and from Soviet Russia. The fifth train will take ninety-six children. The first, Nov. 10, took 139; the second, Nov. 18, 59; the third, Nov. 29, 221, and the fourth, Dec. 4, 64. The numbers are ground into my brain in special and permanent convolutions. We've also sent three parties to Esthonia and two to Latvia, and one boy has found his dad in Finland. We have delivered to date 510 and have 264 remaining. After tomorrow's train we will have just 96 less. We have also released over thirty non-American personnel, and altogether the colony has shrunk rapidly and decisively."

Red Cross workers found the parents of nine-tenths of the children.

Australia Has Record Harvest.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Australia has had a record harvest, says a dispatch from Sydney, N. S. W., to The Daily Telegraph today. New South Wales alone, it is estimated, has as a wheat crop of 55,000,000 bushels, of which 40,000,000 will be available for export, in addispatch states.

WICKERSHAM FEARS ATTACKS ON ALLI

Agrees With Admiral Sims Warning Against Danger of Hostile Propaganda.

ATTEMPTS TO SOW ENM

Without a Strong Navy We Lose Next War in a Week Sims Says.

FRENCH PEOPLE EULOGI

M. Casenave Says They Are Pa Highest Taxes in World and V Pay All War Debts.

Subtle influences are at work to rupt the alliance of friendship and mon interest which won the war, G W. Wickersham warned the membe the Allied Loyalty League at luncheon in the Hotel Biltmore ye day. The league has been formed the purpose of fostering allied frien and combating propaganda which ten incite international suspicion.

"Whether the peace of Versaill just or not, it is made," said Mr. W ersham. "Future developments adapt, will adjust. I do not believ people of the United States inten make a separate peace with Ger and ignore the peace made by allies. But subtle influences ar work to pull apart those joined in b and discordant voices are heard w but one spoke before."

Rear Admiral Sims also referre measured tones to the undercurren propaganda now at work against allied cause, and said:

"Failure to get along with our a means a certain amount of dar There are always pinpricks, but don't amount to much unless ther poison on the pins. The world c stand another war. The only sure b of peace is the spiritual one. If don't keep alive the spirit with w we fought the war we're going to into trouble. There must, above all a firm understanding between the I lish-speaking peoples."

Sims for a Strong Navy.

Admiral Sims spoke humorously o "tolerably sustained reputation for discretion," and warned that sea po must be maintained if the United St is to be victorious in another war. navy must be ready, he said, to f tion the "first crack out of the box

"If you ever get into trouble a and your navy is not ready you'll be feated not in a month, or two mon but in a week, and you'll have to something in the way of indemnity will make you pay attention to fleet in the future."

France has the right to expect Germany will make the same efforts is making to reconstruct the devast regions of France, Maurice Casen French High Commissioner, told league members.

"In spite of many handicaps, French are working hard and pay high taxes," he said. "They have constructed 75 per cent. of their lo It was a work in which they w helped by Germany, to be paid f the German indemnity. The Fre farmers and manufacturers have not ceived from Germany what they are titled to receive. They could have wa ed for it, they could have remained active. But instead they started work, borrowing from each other, rowing from the State.

French Paying Higher Taxes.

"They are paying higher taxes t any other people in the world. France the national income per ca is 3,200 francs and the national reve per capita is 574 francs, or 18 per c In Germany the national income is 3 marks and the national revenue capita is 474 marks, or 12 per cent.

"A great part of our Burden is to pay the help given us in the war, which we are more than grateful. W will be repaid. Anything said France not paying its debts is none and a lie."

George Wharton Pepper, a Philadelp lawyer; the Rev. William T. Mann Princess Cantacuzene and James M. B also spoke.

Among those at the luncheon were and Mrs. Robert G. Bacon, Mr. and George B. Baker, General and Oliver B. Bridgman, Mrs. Win Churchill, Robert Grier Cooke, Mr. Mrs. Howard Elliott, H. H. Flagler, Mrs. Frederick Guest, Mrs. Ch Hassam, Kyo Kumasaki, Mr. and Robert Livingston, Mr. and Mrs. Geo Gould, Herbert L. Satterlee, Rabbi seph Silverman, the Rev. Charles Slattery, Mrs. Cortlandt Van Rensselaer Mrs. Charles Elliott Warren and Frederick Whitridge.

YOUNG SCOT LIKES AMERIC

Glasgow Lad Carried a Small Sta of Liberty to This Country.

Andrew Payne, 14 years old, late his Majesty's schoolship Empress before that living in Glasgow, has c to America to be an American. mother lives in Detroit, and he left York for that city yesterday, after be the guest for a day and a night of Society for the Prevention of Cruelty Children.

Ten years ago, when his father d Andrew's mother came to America, le ing him in Glasgow with his gra parents. Just after the armistice signed his grandmother died, and drew signed as an apprentice seam An Andrew himself figured it, "I b must have a wee bit o' schoolin' if I b to make his fortune even in 'merica."

In addition to seamanship And Payne studied American history w on the schooship, and he even kept his study on his way over. His kit c tained, besides two very clean coll and one neat suit of clothes, a book titled "Washington and the Ameri Independence."

But his most treasured possession, one that he exhibited to all who wis to see it was a miniature reproduc of the Statue of Liberty. When Columbia, on which he was a passeng came up the harbor on Thursday mo ing Andrew was on the deck, as forward as he could get, and in hands he held his little statue.

"When you see a great green fig just like that statue," the secretary the schooship told him before he l "you can be absolutely sure that are in America," and when the s docked, and the agent from the C dren's Society met Andrew with a m sage from his mother, his only fear was that the customs officials might see little goddess and confiscate it.

The New York Times

"All the News That's Fit to Print."

Published Every Day in the Year by the New York Times Company.

ADOLPH S. OCHS, Publisher and President.
B. C. FRANK, Secretary.

OFFICES [TELEPHONE BRYANT 1000]
TIMES BUILDING.....Times Square
TIMES ANNEX.....424 St., w. of Broadway
DOWNTOWN.....7 Beekman Street
WALL STREET.....8 Rector Street
HARLEM.....2,189 Seventh Avenue
BROOKLYN.....2,914 Third Avenue
WASHINGTON HEIGHTS.....3,522 Broadway
WASHINGTON.....Albee Building
CHICAGO.....1202-1204 Tribune Building
ST. LOUIS.....613 Globe-Democrat Building
DETROIT.....701 Ford Building
SAN FRANCISCO.....742 Market Street
LONDON.....12 Salisbury Square, E. C.
PARIS.....Au Matin, 6 Boulevard Poissonnière

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

Two Cents a copy in Greater New York; Three Cents within 200 miles, Four Cents elsewhere. Sunday, Five Cents in Manhattan, Bronx and Brooklyn Ten Cents elsewhere.

By Mail postage paid.	One Year.	Six Mos.	One Mo.
*Daily and Sunday	$12.00	$6.00	$1.00
†Daily only	10.00	5.00	.85
Sunday only	4.00	2.25	.45
Sunday only, Canada	6.00	3.25	.55

*One week, 35c. †One week, 30c.

FOREIGN RATES

Daily and Sunday	$26.00	$13.30	$2.40
Daily only	17.40	8.70	1.45
Sunday only	9.75	5.12	.86

Binder, for Store Section, $2.50; Magazine, $1.50

AUXILIARY PUBLICATIONS

THE ANNALIST (Mondays), per year, $5; Canada, $5.50; other countries $6
Binder for 52 issues (one vol.), $1.50

THE NEW YORK TIMES BOOK REVIEW AND MAGAZINE (Weekly), per year, $1, Canada, $1.50; other countries $2.

THE TIMES MID WEEK PICTORIAL (Thursdays), one year $3, Canada, $4, other countries, $4.50.
Binder for 52 issues, $1.50

THE TIMES CURRENT HISTORY, Illustrated Monthly Magazine, one year, $4, Canada, $4.50 (foreign, $5). Per copy, 35c.
Entered as second class mail matter.

THE NEW YORK TIMES INDEX. Quarterly—Full Cloth, per copy, $2, per year, $8.

THE NEW YORK TIMES WAR VOLUMES—20 volumes in the set illustrated Cloth, $50; three-quarter leather, $100; full leather, $130—encyclopedic history European War

The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for republication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper, and also the local news of spontaneous origin published herein.
All rights of republication of all other matter herein are reserved.

NEW YORK, SUNDAY, JAN. 16, 1921.

CITY AND COUNTRY.

The census informs us that for the first time more than half of the population of the United States lives in the "cities," meaning towns over 2,500 population. The urban population is 54,318,082, and the rural 51,390,739. The cities are growing seven and one-half times faster than the rural districts. Those who are never so happy as when they are alarmed about something fear that the increasing population of the "cities," which may be taken to include the factory towns, makes it so much easier for the growing majority to supply the dwindling minority with consumable goods that there is danger of excess manufactures. On the other hand, they fear that the lack of farmers threatens increasing difficulty in producing food enough for all. The crucial year of trouble is fixed far ahead. In 1950 our population will be 194,208,566, and at about the same time all our fertile lands will be farmed, instead of about one-half, as now. Then the point of contact of the converging lines of population and diminishing capacity of the land will have been reached.

Somehow, the oftener this is predicted the less confidence we feel in it. It is nearly a score of years since we were told that we could not much longer export food at the rate of $571,000,000, the peak of 1901. But in 1915 we exported $600,000,000. The facts are not denied. But there are other factors than where people live. Despite the trend of country to city, the farmers continue to raise more cattle and more hogs. Between 1899 and 1919 there was an increase in yield of the three leading foodstuffs—corn, wheat and oats—from 44 to 48 bushels per inhabitant. The record is that the supply increases with the demand.

The trouble with the prophecies is that they leave out of the calculation factors of production possibly outranking both men and acres. We have often been reproached because our production per acre is less than that of foreign countries. We have been told that we mine our crops, exhausting the soil, instead of developing it by intensive cultivation and fertilization. This was because we had acres to spare at that stage of our economic development. Across the seas they lacked land and had a surplus of cheap labor. There is nothing to prevent us from surpassing them, and there are indications that we shall teach the world in agriculture as we have already taught it quantity production—that is, cheap goods along with dear labor.

Great progress has already been made in the substitution of machinery for muscle in raising food products. The harvester is an old story, but it is no longer necessary for six or seven men to follow each one to bind the sheaves. The self-binder released five of the seven. Still later in date were the planters and corn-shellers. The present novelty is the tractor, which supplies motive power for all uses, and does not eat food like horses, oxen and mules. The usual allowance of land to support a farm beast is five acres. Each animal displaced by a machine gives a gain for human food. If the men were not released from the farms, we could not have the factory products which make American standards of living the world's envy. If our factory workers raised their own food, we should have less of both foods and goods. Huge as our exports of farm products are, and greater as they may be, they neither do nor will satisfy demand until all human wants are met. Nor is it remembered that we are also importers of foods. Coffee, sugar, tea and other foreign products are commanded alike by the output of our farms and factories. The more we can produce the more we can spare, and the more we spare the more we can import.

Motor cars must be mentioned, as well as tractors. The tractors release the farm population from the heavy work of agriculture, and the cars might be thought to increase the city congestion. The contrary is the case. In the pre-mobile era men congested in the cities because it was hard to get to and from them. The cars enable the families to live where they wish, and lessen the necessity of living in town for society. The strongest factor of distribution has not yet been cited. The prices of foods and goods in their relation to each other will divide up the population between city and country more surely than the preferences of either farmers or factory workers. When goods are too cheap, more food will be produced. When foods are too dear more will be produced, up to that dim future when our population may equal per acre that of Belgium or China.

FATTENING THE TAXPAYER.

The proposal of a differential tax, higher on spent income than on saved income, has found some favor. It is among the suggestions of the National Industrial Conference Board. The Secretary of the Treasury explains the working of the plan in his annual report. It would reduce taxation, promote thrift and encourage the investment of income in taxable securities, thus checking the universal tendency to escape Federal income taxes by investing in tax-free State and municipal bonds—these are the virtues upon which the argument for the differential tax is based.

The plan is worth examining. How would it work as an incitement to thrift? Secretary HOUSTON assumes that the tax on saved income should never exceed 20 per cent. of that part of the income not spent; spent income would be taxed at present rates, running as high, it may be, as 40 per cent. Thus the Government will encourage saving and make taxable investments attractive, to the end that it may swell its future revenues. We may call it fattening the taxpayer. Suppose that out of an income of $100,000 a man saves $50,000. In pursuance of this remarkable fattening process the Government at once lays hands on 20 per cent. of the saving, diminishing the investment fund by $10,000. So we see that the true way to fatten a Christmas goose is to abstract every day one-fifth of his food allowance. But that is only a beginning. With the $40,000 left to him the taxpayer obligingly buys taxable securities, out of the return from which the Government will every year take 20 per cent., provided he does not spend that part of his income—in which case the tax would be perhaps 40 per cent. But why buy a 6 per cent. taxable security, yielding 4½ per cent. after taxes, when 5 per cent. non-taxables are to be had in abundance? From the taxpayer's point of view this fattening plan is not so very alluring.

Where are we to look for the moral, ethical or social justification of a tax system that puts a penalty upon the family virtues by higher taxes on the absolutely necessary expenditures? Government, with an eye to its own revenues, is content with an exaction of 20 per cent. upon money saved for buying taxable stocks and bonds. But upon the rent he pays for the house that shelters his wife and children the taxpayer gives up 40 per cent. to the Government. Upon the cost of the food that keeps them alive and the clothing that protects them from Winter's cold, another impost of 40 per cent. There is illness and a doctor's bill—40 per cent. He buys a house as a home for his aged mother—40 per cent. And he pays 40 per cent. upon the sum the Government has already taken from him in taxes on income of the preceding year. In all these cases the 40 per cent., or 30 per cent., or 25 per cent., or whatever the rate may be, is an addition to expenditure. Yet this plan is praised as a fatherly way to encourage saving.

Advocates of the differential tax make a plausible argument from their point of view—which is that the income taxes must and shall be preserved. They are forced to give over the excess profits taxes—the country demands that; they cling desperately to the surtaxes, making only the slight concession of this grotesque differential tax. They will not see that a 20 per cent. impost upon savings and 40 per cent. upon family maintenance costs, avowedly so laid, are not taxes that can be defended. Certainly they cannot be defended when in the sales tax a just, equitable and easily borne substitute is offered by practical men of business in place of the present destructive taxes we took from the hands of the professional experts in taxation. The differential plan has all the marks of having been "made in Germany." The State must by enactment force the helpless citizen to be thrifty. We are accustomed to believe that saving is a matter of individual resolve and habit. In any sound revision of the tax system, income taxes will be retained, certainly, for their entire removal is nowhere advocated. But the differential palliative now prescribed has far too much of the Kitchin flavor to be palatable.

OUR INVESTMENT.

In the high-hearted days of 1918 most of us came to believe that at last America and England and France and Italy understood each other, that real international friendship was not only possible but assured, that the unity which had been enforced by the German menace would endure in the future and put a new face on international relations. When the war ended and discord followed close on the heels of victory we were bitterly disillusioned; if the experience of those war years had not made international understanding possible, what could?

Nothing, perhaps; but perhaps we can attain a greater measure of international good-will without full understanding. At least, that seems to be the opinion of one who can speak with as much authority on this subject as any man in the world. Mr. PAUL CAMBON has just closed a career of twenty-two years as French Ambassador in London, which in many ways is without parallel in modern history. When he came, in 1898, England and France had been hanging on the verge of war over the miserable incident of Fashoda. His first duty was to straighten out the tangle of interest on the upper Nile; his last was connected with Anglo-French collaboration on the Rhine. He lived to see the natural enemies become the traditional friends, and then the loyal allies; and if there have been some bickerings of late, they seem to outsiders rather in the nature of exchanges of views over the breakfast table, which explode the tension of household quarrels without threatening any very serious consequences. In an interview in The London Times Mr. CAMBON observes:

> There have been moments of great difficulty; they have been overcome. There may again be moments of difficulty; they can and will also be overcome if our two nations believe what is best of each other, give each other the benefit of every doubt, suffer no individual shortcomings to blur the clearness of their perception that they need and supplement each other.
>
> That they will ever understand each other, save through their hearts, is perhaps too much to hope. They are too different and compensate too well each other's virtues and faults for that; but if, to use a business phrase, they can look upon the efforts and the sacrifices they have made in common, the triumphs they have shared, the great deeds jointly done, as a huge invested capital of good-will bearing compound interest, they will see what I mean.

All the nations that fought together in 1918 share in this investment of goodwill. The company has a paid-up capitalization of two hundred billion dollars and ten million lives. That is too great an investment to be lost—too great, above all, to be wantonly sacrificed to petty prejudices and momentary irritation. Understanding, Mr. CAMBON seems to think, is out of the question. But what man understands his partner, or his wife, or himself? There may be nations that understand themselves, but America is hardly one of them. Easier than understanding is a realization of the huge investment of lives, of money, of ideals that we have all thrown into the common stock. We cannot afford to lose it; for selfish interests if for no other we must see that it is not allowed to depreciate.

POOR RICHARD.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, America's patron saint of thrift—a very human saint he always was—preached the virtue of thrift at a time when the economies of his countrymen were at loose ends and they sorely needed precept and example. One hundred and thirty years after FRANKLIN'S death his teachings and philosophy are invoked to steady a people who have spent too much and too fast in a wasting war period and have lost their economic bearings. If the country is to be saved from disaster, everybody must practice thrift in the lean interval ahead, from the humblest citizen up through all gradations to the Government at Washington. A saving people will certainly not tolerate a spendthrift government.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN was the most useful as well as the most versatile American of his period. His career had so many facets that no faithful biographer has been able to write about him succinctly. JOHN BIGELOW packed FRANKLIN into three stout volumes, PARTON wrote a big book. FRANKLIN began upon himself bravely; he started the autobiography with zest, presently his interest slackened, and he stopped abruptly, leaving much to be told. He was too "many-sided" for his own facile pen. Happily, Thrift Week calls only for a picture of the frugal FRANKLIN in the busy times when he was printer, editor, publisher and dealer in any commodity by which he could turn an honest penny. Niggard he never was, as no philosopher is.

"It is a long story," said the Eastern Shore agriculturist, when asked by the inquisitive young man how he made fortune come to his door, "and while I am telling it we might as well save the "candle," which he put out. "Thank you," said the visitor, backing away, "I know it all now." FRANKLIN was not cut out of the same cloth. By nature he was generous, and the will to share his surplus never knew the extinguisher. His story of the "three great puffy rolls" which he bought upon the morning when he first set foot in Philadelphia, after running away from the Boston printing office, shows the true FRANKLIN. Up Market Street "as far as Fourth" he strolled, with a roll under each arm and one at his mouth, a comical figure in his poor clothes, exciting the amusement of the girl who became his wife, for she was lolling in her doorway when he passed by. Eating as he walked, FRANKLIN "went down Chestnut Street and part of Walnut Street," returning to the Market Street wharf, where he had disembarked; "and," he says, "being "filled with one of my rolls, I gave the "other two to a woman and her child "that came down the river in the boat "with us, and were waiting to go "farther." So it was with him all his life.

FRANKLIN was 26 when the first number of "Poor Richard's Almanac" came out. He had begun to publish The Pennsylvania Gazette, which was to be the foundation of his fortune. As every one knows, the almanac abounded in exhortations, in the form of maxims chiefly, to practice thrift. No parsimonious philosopher could have laid down the principle that "the use of money is all the advantage there is in having money." A reader who followed Richard's pithy advice could not help prospering, for mingled with its morality were shrewd business hints. It rather takes one's breath away to come upon the "Plan for saving one hundred thousand pounds" in the annual for 1758; but the philomath whom FRANKLIN had hired to prepare his almanac—that is to say himself—was addressing the people of "the Jerseys," whom lately he had been visiting. He heard great complaints for "want of money," and "leave to make more paper bills could not be obtained." Import half your usual stock of European, East Indian and Western commodities, he advised. And he goes on in a style that might be adapted in degree to present-day conditions, although it must be borne in mind that he was speaking of importations. The Jerseys were to wear old coats, and patch them if need were. "Remember," said Poor Richard Saunders, "a patch on your coat and "money in your pocket is better and "more creditable than a writ on your "back and no money to take it off." Give up buying chinaware, chintzes, India silk and other flimsies for a year, said he. Drink punch or wine but once a day, and "when you incline to drink rum, fill the glass half with water." In those days they were sturdy toss-pots. "Thus at the year's end there will be a "hundred thousand pounds more money "in your country" (the Jerseys), was the cheerful conclusion. Poor Richard's readers may have expected a deep financial plan with such an imposing headline, but thrift, thrift, thrift, was all the advice the philomath had to offer, and enough. All Poor Richard's counsel on the way to wealth was summed up in a preface to the 1758 almanac, where the maxims of the series were brought together. They are a genial array, for the philomath was never dull or dour. There one comes across such weighty sayings as "The eye of the master will do more work than both his hands" and "A fat kitchen makes a lean will," and such prudent lines as these:

> Vessels large may venture more,
> But little boats should keep near shore.

Who has not read Poor Richard on thrift and simple worldly wisdom? If any such there be, now is the appointed time to know how FRANKLIN acquired a fortune and could abandon money-making by the time he was 40. It seems incredible that many people anywhere have missed the appeal of the "clean old man, with white locks." Almost a hundred editions have been printed in English, fifty-six in French (one wonders whether FRANKLIN did not teach thrift to the French, among whom he lived so long, admired and honored), eleven in German and nine in Italian. There have also been translations into Spanish, Danish, Swedish, Welsh, Polish, Gaelic, Russian, Bohemian, Dutch, Catalan, Chinese and modern Greek. Poor Richard had to plead guilty to plagiarism, but he uniformly improved what he pilfered. Who has not heard of the admonition, "Don't give too much for the whistle"? FRANKLIN wrote the little story of an experience as a child, while he was representing his country in France, and everybody was delighted with the applications FRANKLIN made of the maxim. Turn the whistle into the automobile or any other luxury that might be spared, and the saying is as pat today as it ever was.

We are going to hear a good deal about FRANKLIN in Thrift Week, and we shall find him a modern, and always arresting, always entertaining, although he was born 215 years ago, four years before rugged SAM JOHNSON uttered his first cry at Lichfield. ADDISON'S "Spectator" was coming into fashion. When young FRANKLIN first went to London, sent on a bootless errand by that suave politician, Governor KEITH, POPE was writing his polished verses at Twickenham, DICK STEELE was haunting the London coffee houses, DEFOE was hackwriting, and SWIFT had not published "Gulliver's Travels." One wonders why THACKERAY never lectured on FRANKLIN.

TOO BIG FOR GENIUS.

Considerable discussion has been going on in France and England of the theory that a war is always followed by a great flowering of literary and artistic genius. The supposition is that dynamic energy is released and the imagination quickened. And there is a fine line of historical precedents to be adduced. Confining the matter to dramatic production, it was one of the generalizations of FERDINAND BRUNETIÈRE about the stage that all the great national outbursts of dramatic activity have come after wars—Greek tragedy after the Persian War, Shakespeare after the Armada, and so on.

Mr. A. B. WALKLEY has been playing with the subject in his customary humorous and acute fashion. He ventures to doubt the historic law. Many cases support it, but some violate it. Anyhow, the test is now upon us. We have come out of the most tremendous war known to man, in which nearly all the cultured nations exerted their utmost strength, but where are the sequent manifestations of genius? In the drama there has been a positive dearth. The German stage has simply marked time, or been a trifle more salacious than before. Paris has yielded nothing original and weighty. In Italy the chief dramatic writer has been living plays in Fiume, not writing them. All London, reports Mr. WALKLEY, is lamenting an absolute famine in the theatrical world. America is in little better case. It seems, so far, as if the war instead of stimulating dramatic energy, had "repressed and chilled it."

What would BRUNETIÈRE have said, wonders Mr. WALKLEY, "if he had lived to see his pet theory thus falsified"?

> Probably he would have invented a new one. He would have said that wars mustn't be too big to fit into a law devised only for the usual sizes. Also, he might have said, Wait and see. The war is only just over; give your young dramatists a little breathing time.

In all this nothing is said of the possibility that the reason genius does not blossom is that it has been killed off in the prolonged fighting. Something like that was asserted after our own Civil War, which notoriously was not followed by great literary achievements. "Do you ask me," once said MONCURE CONWAY, "why my generation has not done "more? The answer is that its brightest hopes lie buried on the banks of "the James River." To read the list of promising French artists killed in the war is enough to cause a sinking of the heart. Other nations must have lost many of their most promising talents. The War God is no respecter of genius.

Yet the advice is good to wait and see. There may be an intellectual recovery. Young writers and artists may in time draw the necessary longue haleine. Meanwhile, speculation about what is to come must remain peculiarly barren. An interviewer recently asked M. BERGSON to forecast the drama of the future. He replied: "If I could do that I'd write it."

QUOTATIONS IN CONGRESS.

Congressmen have the art of turning the driest detail of business into an occasion for the favor and prettiness of rhetoric and song. The House in Committee of the Whole was considering the Post Office Appropriation bill. The exact connection between that measure and the Battle of New Orleans is veiled from ordinary eyes. A Louisiana Representative saw and sees it, however, and the Congressional Record, that universal miscellany, was brightened the next day with his speech on "one of the most important events in the history of this "world." For how many years that hospitable publication has been enriched with purely extraneous eloquence calculated for home latitudes! Commemoration or eulogy brings out the full choir of Congressional orator-warblers. We have always prized them for their wealth of quotations. They seem to have practically the same group of favorite authors. On a day of set eulogies sometimes half a dozen speakers have adorned their pieces with the same "poetical gems," taken, one suspects, from some old "school speaker and declaimer" or from the standard collections of Mr. MCGUFFEY, and his brethren in the reading-book line.

If this good old custom has been lapsing into innocuous desuetude, our Pelican friend nobly revives it. All Congressmen are conservative in their literary notions. He is even more conservative, for he quotes Latin phrases thrice. Latin, other than law Latin, must be rarely used in Congress in these days. From the British Parliament the Labor members laughed it out years ago. In the old days of a "governing class," bred in the famous schools and universities, honorable members capped Latin verses at each other or recited passages from Cicero or Tacitus. How remote and impossible now seems that day in 1883 when Mr. GLADSTONE, speaking on the Bradlaugh case, quoted some lines from Lucretius on religion. Lord MORLEY brings back to us that scene, ancient and as of another world:

> The House, though but few, perhaps, recollected their Lucretius or had ever even read him, sat, as I well remember, with reverent stillness, hearkening from this born master of moving cadence and high sustained modulation, to the rise and long roll of the hexameter.

WENDELL PHILLIPS began a speech at a meeting called to denounce ANDREW JOHNSON with a quotation from Virgil: "They meet who have a cruel hatred or sharp fear of the tyrant." Would any audience, outside of Chautauqua, submit to a Latin quotation now? Mr. EVARTS used to entwine long excerpts from Cicero with his own complicated, interminable and yet perfectly clear sentences. The classical cultivation of many of the best lawyers and statesmen of that time is indicated by the well-known anecdote of RICHARD H. DANA. Visiting RUFUS CHOATE'S law office, he and some other barristers, falling into a constitutional argument, wanted to look at the original document. The search was vain. "As might have been expected in CHOATE'S office," said DANA, "three "Greek Testaments and no copy of the "Constitution." The Latinists have faded from public life. DANIEL S. DICKINSON, sometime a Senator from this State and long conspicuous as a lawyer and a Democrat, used to be called "Scripture DICKINSON." The Bible was his book of familiar quotations. It doesn't seem to be read too much in Congress nowadays. Our Louisianian quotes it once.

Among the poets he rambles exactly in the ancient Congressional way. GOLDSMITH'S "Ill fares the land to hastening "ills a prey, where wealth accumulates "and men decay," is never missing from the Congressional Record. We have heard it from Greenbackers, Grangers, Populists, Free Silverites, Single Taxers, Laborites. We had hardly hoped to see NOLL'S political economy at the Battle of New Orleans. Here are BAYARD TAYLOR'S "Bedouin Love Song" and KIPLING'S "Recessional" quoted wrong. Here is "The forest primeval" and a large slab of "Evangeline," in "unrivaled Homeric verse." Here is O'HARA'S "Bivouac of the Dead," a fine piece of rhetoric, rather in the manner of COLLINS. It never grows old. Possibly our Congressmen are to be congratulated on the substantial soundness of their taste. Still, one wonders why they never find something new; for here is, of course, "Full many a gem of purest ray serene." Full many a volume of that Record drear have we plodded through; and never a one in which that "poetical gem" wasn't frequently exhibited.

Sometimes we wonder if the quotations at Washington are not furnished by a Standardized Quotation Agency. Still, they are doubtless improving, give joy to the quoters, and, according to that oracle of truth, the Record, are received with [applause] or [great applause]. Were it not for these notices, one would suppose that these speeches with their poetical excursions were heard by nobody and printed for the benefit of the home district.

DR. FINLEY'S RETIREMENT.

Dr. JOHN H. FINLEY, who retires as Commissioner of Education at Albany and now joins the staff of THE TIMES, has labored with energy and success during his seven years' service to bring the State's department and system of education to a condition of high efficiency. To supervise the workings of a department or bureau at Albany, to see to it that the clockwork of an office operates in an orderly and methodical manner—that is easy. Dr. FINLEY has made it his personal business to inspect and direct the working of the school system in all its branches. His former secretary, Mr. ANDREW TEN EYCK, in a brief review of Dr. FINLEY'S administration of the department published in The Evening Post of yesterday, tells how he once discovered him "walking through the south "central section of the State incognito, "visiting country schools. He played "with the children, photographed them, "queried them about their homes and "their parents, asked them what they "had to eat in their dinner pails." The little country school was his special care. Mr. TEN EYCK tells further of his achievements in organization:

> Mr. FINLEY'S seven years at Albany have been a period of important educational progress for the State of New York. Education has become a matter of deeper State concern and vastly greater State support. Provision has been made in this period for promoting the health of the school children through medical inspection, physical training and health education; for the training of boys and girls up to 18 years of age who have left school to go to work; for wider agricultural and industrial training; for the consolidation of city school laws, for the encouragement of higher education through university scholarships; for the improvement and enrichment of teacher-training; for the better compensation of teachers and for their pensioning; for the raising of professional standards and for the special training of illiterate adults throughout the State. In the opinion of those who are competent to appraise, this work is an achievement that might well have required twenty years for consummation.

THE TIMES would not like to feel that in inviting Dr. FINLEY to another field of activity it has altogether deprived the State of his invaluable services. The knowledge and experience he has gained in practical service will still be put to public use. His interest in the educational system of the State will not be less; with counsel, advice and suggestion he will be in a position to promote and develop whatever is found to be good and sound in education. But it is of manifest importance that, in choosing the new Commissioner, the Board of Regents seek out a successor to Dr. FINLEY who will be able to continue to the best advantage of the State the work he has done so well.

WATER POWER ON INDIAN LANDS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Resentment is finding expression because of the discovery that the Federal Power act permits hydraulic developments in our national parks. Only about one in a thousand of us visits these parks in course of a year or longer and the fortunate one goes only for pleasure or recreation. For all that the resentment is justifiable, for surely these parks should be kept inviolate though only the favored few enjoy them. The unfortunate of today may be the fortunate of tomorrow. These are our parks. But in giving expression to that resentment only we should not feel ourselves to be a particularly righteous people. Who has heard any outcry against our seizing of Indian reservations for hydraulic developments? Yet the same Congress of ours which enacted the Federal Power law inserted a provision that Indian reservations might be so invaded. When it was proposed by Senator Nugent that a tribe should have a veto in the matter the amendment was handsomely adopted in the Senate. Later in conference on final passage that amendment was handsomely stricken out. Now these reservations are quite as much the lands of these tribes as the parks are ours, but there is an important difference to be noted. These reservations are not mere pleasure grounds for wandering Indians, but homelands where Indians must live, work and die. With justifiable selfishness we would preserve our pleasure parks for our children to come. All who feel that way should feel bound to insist that Congress, when amending the Power act for better protection of our parks, as Secretary Payne has advised, amend it also to extend decent respect for these sacred homelands of defenseless Indian tribes.

GEORGE P. DECKER.

Rochester, Jan. 14, 1921.

STRANGE ENCOUNTER.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Listen, all ye ornithological sages, weather wiseacres and prognosticators of mild Winters! On Jan. 1 I had occasion to visit a friend whose home is perched atop of a heaven-looking hill a little out from the town of Caldwell. It's a bleak section in Winter, swept by rigorous winds. I hunted over some of the wooded parts of the country last Fall and nearly lost myself in its tangled mazes.

The particular morning I speak of was a fine frosty one, with just enough snap in the air to keep one moving for comfort's sake. The woodland is thick with dogwood just to the east of my friend's property line, and the bright berries hang like coral festoons among the branches. When I drove into the yard at 10:30 my first welcome was: "Come and hear and see!" We walked a trifle back from the house toward the woods and stood silent—spellbound. From the neighboring thicket came a sound strangely foreign to the season. For a little I could hardly believe my ears. Among the dogwoods, with breasts cut to match their brilliant fruits, hundreds of robins were flitting about feeding and meanwhile sending out a wonderful chorus of song, some of the notes almost as beautiful and thrilling as the wonderful vesper song they give us at twilight in Summer.

I have sometimes seen stray and rather stupid-acting single birds in the woods during December, but this whole army of "left-overs" struck me as worth recording. I wonder if any other of your readers may have known of such a freak and if it is a safe chance to put my snow shovel back in the cellar.

RAY GREENWOOD.

Passaic, N. J., Jan. 10, 1921.

THE BUYERS' STRIKE.

High Rent as the Chief Obstacle to a Trade Revival.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In one column of today's issue the National Association of Manufacturers announces its plans to make a moving appeal to the public to "end its buying strike for the general good."

And in another column, on another page, is a short article quoting figures compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics to the effect that "the expenditures of the average American family for rent, fuel and light not only resisted but ran counter during the last months of 1920 to the general tendency toward a lower level of prices. * * * The figures cover expenditures by average families in eight cities: New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Baltimore, Cleveland, Detroit, Seattle. * * * In these cities the average cost of living at the beginning of the new year (1920) was 99.2 per cent. over the average cost in 1914, but at the close of the year it was 115.1 per cent."

There is an astonishing unanimity in ignoring, in all public or at least in all newspaper discussions, of the "strike of the buying public," this one fundamental reason for its existence. The strike was only in smallest measure a voluntary revolt against a passing phase of profiteering in certain articles of consumption. Unfortunately for some other matters, there is not yet that active measure of co-operation in the great public which will make a voluntary consumers' strike effective.

The buying strike, the involuntary buying strike, is still on and will be until the rent of living accommodations comes down. In all scientific budgets, compiled on study of expenditures for many circles covering many years, one-fourth of the monthly income is the limit that should be paid for rent, is in fact perilously near the "safety line" for those who do like to make both ends meet. And at the present moment in New York at least, and according to the Bureau of Statistics in a number of other cities as well, that limit is exceeded by the average householder. Those who have a predilection for decency in living quarters are paying one-third and sometimes more of the monthly income for house rent. Shelter, light, heat and food are necessaries. Intelligence will make saving in food possible even with regard to health. But when rent takes more than should be paid for it, the saving has to come out of other things that can be somehow achieved at less cost than before. * * * even if not as nicely. Men and women both like new clothes and good clothes and all the other things that lie outside the mere necessaries of living. But when the mere necessaries cost so much of the income available, these other things become dispensable luxuries.

There's a big economic lesson back of this, too. But there is no particular necessity to go into that now. These lines are merely the expression of a very general irritation, on the part of the buying public which understands, or at least feels the situation keenly, at being lectured by manufacturers who are not fortunate enough to be monopoly owners of the things the public must have.

G. I. COLBRON.

New York, Jan. 10, 1921.

VOTED AGAINST AN UNREAL LEAGUE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The repeated assertion that the voters of the country repudiated the Versailles Treaty and the League Covenant is at least open to question. What is indisputable is that the people cast an overwhelming vote against what they were told were the terms of the treaty by Republicans en bloc and some doubtful Democrats. Thousands, almost millions, had never read the treaty, but had read the vociferous denunciations from many quarters, and as the pro-League voice was weak, or at least not numerous at first, voters, especially the women, who are easily led to the side which they feel will win, followed the biggest noise. A representative voter of this district told me she voted for Harding because Wilson had guaranteed that the United States would keep the peace between France and Germany; that would mean sending our boys overseas again. I told her no such provisions were in the treaty and gave her a copy of THE TIMES containing the full text. She refused to accept this text, because Senator Ashurst had said something else.

Many votes were cast against the supposed League, and many did not and do not yet know what they voted for or against. If our spokesmen in Congress will only say that the people voted as they were told to vote by these very gentlemen they will come nearer stating the facts.

L. K. S.

Miami, Arizona, Jan. 6, 1921.

I HAVE A LITTLE CHILD.

I have a little child!—I, who have sorrowed
That life's chief blessing should have passed me by.
Suddenly, out of the blue of God's clear heaven,
I heard its cry.

Tuned to distress, my heart stood still, awaiting
Her who should soothe the babe to laugh instead.
But some one said, "We have no power to soothe it,
And she is dead!

"Besides the mother-hunger it is starving
For milk to nourish it, for bread to eat.
Cold are its little limbs so thinly covered,
Bare are its feet.

"Barren the land since war swept through and round it,
Empty the granaries till next year's prime.
And the Grim Reaper gathers his rich harvest
Before his time."

It cries for bread? My table here is laden.
Here's milk and bread—take this, and this, and this!
And pay? Ah, no, save on some glad tomorrow,
Its feet to kiss.

And if 'tis given me, through God's great bounty,
To thwart that Reaper for a little space,
To clothe the limbs, to bring back smiles and color
To the wan face,

May I not feel—though it be poor pretending—
A little of that mother-love divine,
And think, as tears once more give place to laughter,
The child is mine?

What matters it that one has missed the heaven
Of small head lying on one's breast?
Of slender body at one's tired knee leaning,
One's hand caressed?

Is it not much that he shall grow to manhood
Who else were numbered with the war's pale dead,
Simply because from plenteous store I offered
Of milk and bread?

To know that there is saved for great tomorrows
A man who may stand firm for truth and right,
May be the one to lead a groping people
Toward the light?

* * * * * * *

Somewhere in distant lands a child is happy.
And growing happier with its every breath.
My child, whom, through God's gracious bounty,
I saved from death.

E. A. WATSON HYDE.

RUSSIAN DEMOCRACY IS MOVING FCR UNITY

Significance of Paris Gathering of Members of the Dispersed Constituent Assembly.

MILITARY ACTION GIVEN UP

Movement More Likely to Be Along the Lines Indicated in the American Policy—What the Effect May Be.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Because of its probable bearing on the general Russian situation, keen interest is being manifested in Washington in the meeting which has just opened in Paris of approximately a hundred members of the last legally elected Constituent Assembly of Russia. This gathering of men, recognized as qualified to represent constructive Russian liberal elements, has been called on the initiative of a number of prominent members of the Russian Social Revolutionary Party such as Avksentieff, Kerensky, Minor and others.

This is the party which obtained an overwhelming majority of the vote in the Russian elections of 1917, and whose opposition and refusal to submit to Bolshevist domination resulted in the dispersion of the Constituent Assembly when it met shortly after the Bolshevist coup. Besides the Social Revolutionaries there were elected to that Assembly a number of the most prominent members of the so-called "Cadet Party"—the Constitutional Democratic Party—such as Miliukoff, Konovaloff, Vinaver and others. These also are to be represented in the Paris gathering.

The meeting, according to information here, has not been called in any partisan spirit. This was expressly stated in the official call. From the information now at hand it appears that it represents a genuine patriotic effort of Russian democratic elements of different shades of political opinion, from the liberal Cadet to the moderate Socialist, to unite, in the face of events in Russia, and create an active centre of national liberal elements capable of representing democratic Russia and acting as its spokesman. The very fact that such a gathering is being held at this time, wholly aside from its possible or probable results, is interpreted in Washington circles interested in the Russian cause as exhibiting a significant turn in the character of Russian politics.

Military Action a Failure.

For the last three years, in fact ever since the inception of the Russian revolution, the Russian struggle against the tyranny of the Soviets has assumed generally the form of an organized military contest. Centres of national movement were established in the shape of nationalist armies led in turn by Kolchak, Denikin, Yudenitch and Wrangel. The problem of combating and thwarting Bolshevism was regarded as primarily military and in the formation and organization of the armed forces all efforts were practically centred in Russia, while aid from foreign countries was made the essence of the relations between these Russian nationalist military organizations and the outside world.

The form of government which naturally corresponded to this trend in Russian anti-Bolshevist tactics was that of a military dictatorship. The succeeding military dictators were seemingly honest, strong and patriotic men possessing no personal motives or ambitions, sincere in their declarations as to the ultimate democratic aims of their movements, and in their determination—immediately after gaining success and overthrowing Bolshevist rule—to proceed to the election of a Constituent Assembly to which they would surrender their power.

But these movements failed. It is now recognized that the reason for their successive collapse was not so much military weakness as it was the inevitable political fallacies inherent in the very nature of any movements in the form of military dictatorships. As the outstanding feature of these movements was military action and all efforts were concentrated on the maintenance, upkeep and perfecting of the forces in the field, it was natural that the logic of events should bring the movements as a whole under the controlling influence of militaristic elements, some of which were inseparably connected with this or that form of restoration of the old régime.

Moreover, the militaristic character of the movements naturally led to practices quite foreign to the democratic standards officially announced by their leaders. All this invariably created an atmosphere of distrust among the Russian people, who, however much they were opposed to Bolshevism, became equally apprehensive of anything that might end in the restoration of the old political and social system of the Czars. The collapse of these movements, in the opinion of many observers, has therefore actually demonstrated the strength of a democratic spirit in Russia unswerving in its determination—of which the revolution of March, 1917, was an expression—to do away with any government imposed by a minority, and to realize the purpose of establishing in Russia a government of, by and for the people.

A New Rallying Point.

In the struggle, meantime, the precepts of the revolution of March, 1917, have been practically eclipsed. Consequently, the gathering at Paris of the liberal elements of the membership of the Constituent Assembly elected in 1917, and supposed to crown the efforts of the revolution by constituting a legislative body such as would reveal the very principle of the sovereignty of the people, is hailed in Washington as a signal that events, after all the confusion of three years of communistic experiment, at last are returning to the ideals of the first revolutionary phase.

This new Constituent Assembly as it is seen here is meeting in Paris with the conception that the period of organized armed struggle has passed and should not be revived. Both military movements deliberately formed within Russia, and foreign intervention are discarded. In fact, the threat of foreign intervention, according to information from Paris, is now regarded as the strongest influence which has held the Bolsheviki together, and men like Miliukoff, who, some time ago, were fervent supporters of military movements, now seem to have been convinced by circumstances of the futility of their former tactics and depend on the self-dependent action of Russian democracy for their country's salvation.

Won't Form a Government.

Apparently there is to be no attempt on the part of the Paris gathering to establish a government, or anything which would claim governmental authority. The understanding here is that, relying, in their hope for the regeneration of Russia, upon the progress of the interior movement, they expect that the liberation of Russia will come as the result of a process growing out of action by the people of Russia itself. However, the authority that these members of the Russian Constituent Assembly carry as agents elected by the people to serve in that body, and as men who for years were accepted leaders of democratic liberal political thought and action, invests the meeting with immense qualification in so far as representation of the national democratic Russia of the future is concerned.

The view held here is that the Paris assembly, or any permanent organ created by it, will be able at last to ... shevist Russia, reflecting the aspirations of the people and representing to the rest of the world the best that is in the Russian nation. It is expected that, particularly as concerns foreign settlements, the assembly will be able to voice the interests of Russia as a whole.

Especially important, in the opinion of some observers, may be its reaction on the laborite and liberal masses of Western Europe. During the armed struggle in Russia the sympathies of labor in Europe, it is now evident, were substantially with the Bolsheviki, quite regardless of the fact revealed in gatherings of most of the Socialist parties in Europe that the bulk of labor is opposed to the principles enunciated by the Third Internationale of Moscow. The armed struggle in Russia was interpreted as a contest between the Bolsheviki and reaction and the absence of a purely democratic Russia from the field caused liberal European opinion frequently to take sides against what its leaders thought were attempts at restoration and reaction.

The Effect in Europe.

Now that the Bolshevist movement, as such, will be counter-opposed by a Russian nationalist centre, the democratic faith and sincerity of which is beyond doubt, a substantial change in this attitude is looked for.

All these circumstances are especially interesting here because of their bearing upon the success of the American policy toward Russia as outlined in the famous Colby note of Aug. 10 last to the Italian Ambassador. It is regarded as premature at present to forecast what will be the practical outcome of this gathering of Russian Constituent Assemblymen, or even to predict whether natural differences and shades of opinion will be wholly superseded by a genuine effort at patriotic compromise sufficient to consolidate opinion around the formation of a strong and representative centre of spokesmanship for the Russian national democracy. But if this result is achieved, it is believed by friends of Russia that a considerable step forward will have been accomplished.

As Bolshevism Weakens.

In any event, however, the very fact of the holding of such an assembly is regarded here as proof of a new and different spirit in Russian anti-Bolshevist policies. That such new tendencies have a strong foundation in the trend of events within Russia is corroborated by interesting reports received here concerning the situation in Bolshevist Russia, the authenticity of which is beyond doubt—reports based on admissions by Nicolai Lenin himself printed in Bolshevist official organs. A speech was made by Lenin on Nov. 23 before a gathering of the Moscow Communist Party in which, with what seems to be full sincerity and candor, he exposed the very difficult situation his party has to face, and the problems that are forced upon it for consideration.

While this frankness is understood to be the only weapon left to Lenin to inspire his satellites with the enthusiasm of proselytism, to those who read it here it savors rather of despair.

"It is absurd," Lenin declared, "to think that the peasants have altered their attitude to the vital economic problems under the influence of our propaganda. So far, the peasants believe only in the old order, and consider it normal."

In the same address he spoke of the need of giving the peasants such economic benefits as might convert them to the Soviet system.

"If we fail to solve this task," he asserted, "no successes, no victories over the exploiters, no successful resistance to the international imperialists will be of any avail and a return to the old conditions will be inevitable. Theoretically there can be no two opinions on this question."

This admission of the failure of the communists to win the peasant class was followed by references to the internal opposition and friction developing within the Communist Party itself.

All this seems to observers here to indicate that events in Russia are approaching a stage where the stability of the communist power is seriously shaken. Under such conditions, therefore, the formation of a Russian democratic centre reflecting the interior popular movement is judged to be of significance and importance to the world at large.

FARM TRAINING IN MEXICO.

Dr. MacDougal Tells of Attempt to Organize Native Scientists.

The coming agricultural awakening in Mexico, the systematic attempt to organize all the scientific men of that country and the proposed establishment of agricultural colleges in various parts of the republic were recently discussed by Dr. D. T. MacDougal, Director of the Botanical Research Department of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, and recently elected General Secretary of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, with a NEW YORK TIMES representative. Dr. MacDougal considered the agricultural outlook in Mexico and the increase of interest in scientific agriculture most promising.

"The recently formed Cabinet of Obregon," said Dr. MacDougal, "is attempting seriously to organize all the scientific men of the country. Mexico can boast of a very fair number of scientific men, of not only national, but international, reputation in biology, astronomy, medical science and other branches. Many of these men were educated abroad, notably in France, but some also in England and in Germany.

"At a recent meeting of a branch of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, I represented the National Executive Committee at El Paso, also at Juarez. The Mexican Government sent a Federal representative, Señor Salaez, General Land Agent under the Secretary of Agriculture. Señor Salaez was accompanied by his private secretary. A series of conferences were held at El Paso and across the line.

"At these conferences preliminary recommendations were made to the Mexican Government as to the steps by which their scientific men might best form organizations and looking toward the co-operation of such possible societies with American organizations, a relation which would be heartily welcomed by the latter.

"In the course of our conferences, Señor Salaez and I visited the agricultural school conducted by the Escobar brothers, at Juarez, which is the only active agricultural school in the whole of Mexico. The principal of the school was absent, having been called to Mexico City to consult with the Secretary of Agriculture and with President Obregon himself, over plans for the foundation of an agricultural school in every State in the Republic of Mexico, a task which, it is understood, is to be undertaken immediately.

"I inquired of Señor Salaez for whom these schools were particularly designed—who would come to them? He replied that the schools were for the benefit of the peons, the Mexican peasants, who have got possession of small tracts of land and who have little knowledge of how they can make a living off ten, twelve or fifteen acres. These are mostly men, it was explained, who have been employed up to this time as laborers on great haciendas, and, who, when they obtain a piece of land, prove almost as helpless as children.

"These agricultural schools are to remedy this and to give the small land owner, the young man especially, training in how to make use of his own land."

The subject of agriculture in Mexico is a particularly fascinating one, the physical configuration of the country allowing it to boast of many temperatures and at least three distinct climates. There is the tierra caliente, or hot country, running from the seacoast inland and upward to a height of 3,000 feet with an average all-the-year temperature of from 80 to 88 degrees Fahrenheit.

The tierra templada, or temperate section, marked by an absence of both extreme humidity and severe frosts, is an agricultural paradise, where semi-tropical and tropical products flourish together, and wheat and sugar cane grow side by side. Here there is an average temperature all the year of from 73 to 77 degrees Fahrenheit.

Mexico's tierra fria or cold country runs from 6,500 feet above sea level to the snowline, which is 12,460 feet in the tropics."

A traveler has said of Mexico that plants will grow on the southern side of a mountain which has snow on the opposite side, and from the elevated peaks one may look down past the temperate to the torrid zone; from the frozen cone of some volcano to the warm waters of the Gulf, embracing in one view all that class of vegetation which thrives be-

AMSTERDAM BUREAU SENDS DEFI TO REDS

International Union Federation Wars Upon Propaganda Dividing Labor.

BAVARIANS HELD AT NARVA

Said to Have Been Taken From Train by Soviet Officials as Hostages.

Apparently determined to carry the war into the enemy's camp in its efforts to prevent the splitting up of the existing trade unions aimed at by the Communist Third Internationale, the Executive Committee of the International Federation of Trade Unions has sent a message from its Amsterdam headquarters to George Zinovieff, President of the Executive Committee of the Third Internationale, directing his attention to the resolution adopted at the London congress condemning the insults hurled at the moderate trade union movement, declaring that the congress did not believe that the Moscow body represented the Russian trade unionists and inviting these Russians to join the Amsterdam organization.

This message, which was signed by Leon Jouhaux, Yan Oudegeest and Edo Fimmen and was sent out shortly after the secret visit to the Amsterdam bureau of a delegation of Russian unionists reported in a special cablegram to THE NEW YORK TIMES on the authority of De Tribune, a Dutch Communist paper, was given as follows in the Dec. 21 issue of Het Volk, the Amsterdam Socialist organ:

"We send you herewith a copy of a resolution adopted by the congress of the International Federation of Trade Unions, held in London on Nov. 22-27. As you have probably seen in the press, this resolution was adopted by an overwhelming majority—only Italy and Norway declaring themselves against it. Therefore it indicates the position which we are to occupy toward your international.

"As you may clearly see, we are not inclined to circulate the slanderous charges published against us by your side without any contradiction by you, and we are prepared to continue to look after the interests of the nearly 30,000,000 workers affiliated with us in the same way as we have been doing thus far; that is, in the spirit in which the independent trade union movement ought to function for the liberation of the proletariat, without putting ourselves under the orders of a political party—as is the case with the so-called trade union international founded by you.

"In case you, or other members of the trade union movement represented by you, wish to know something more about our movement, through which you perhaps may become convinced that thus far you have done nothing but injure your own cause and that of the proletariat, then we are ready at all times to furnish you with this information, under the condition, however, that you shall treat us as we treat you, that is, that in every case good faith exists in the acceptance of our measures and that our mutual aim is only to be of use to the proletariat and to help it out of its painful condition.

"This basic principle alone can aid in bringing us to a proper understanding of each other's aims and, perhaps, also to the affiliation of the Russian trade union movement with our international.

"We trust that you will be willing to bring this resolution and this letter to the attention of your fellow directors of the Third Internationale."

Het Volk of Dec. 6 printed the text of messages sent to the Belgian Government by J. H. Thomas, President of the International Transport Workers' Federation, protesting against the prosecution in the Belgian courts of a number of railroad men who refused to handle munitions destined for the Poles during the Russo-Polish war last Summer, and demanding their release.

According to details of the compulsory loan law which went into effect in Poland on Nov. 17 found in the Berliner Tageblatt of Dec. 15, not only Polish citizens and corporations are obliged to subscribe, but also all foreigners or foreign concerns drawing revenue or possessing property in Poland. The obligation to subscribe begins with the ownership of property worth 100,000 Polish marks or the enjoyment of an income of 36,000 marks. Beginning with 2 per cent. of the property, the amount of the compulsory loan rises to 20 per cent. of 5,000,000 marks, which in the case of incomes the rate starts with 5 per cent. and rises to 35 when the income reaches 1,000,000 marks. Obligation to subscribe to the compulsory loan may be extinguished through the purchase of the same amount of the Polish 5 per cent. 45-year bonds of 1920. At present exchange rates, $1 will buy 600 Polish marks.

A Wolff Telegraph Bureau report of Dec. 22 told of the exchange at Stentsch of twenty-seven German citizens for Polish citizens held in Germany, in accordance with the German-Polish agreement regarding the exchange of prisoners. Some of the Germans had been interned at Dombie, near Cracow.

When a train carrying German prisoners of war back from Russia was about to reach the city of Narva it was stopped and sixty Bavarians were taken from it by the Soviet authorities, said a report reaching Munich on Dec. 18. The Bavarians were to be held as hostages because the food served in the camp of Russian prisoners in Erlangen, Bavaria, was reported to be poor and a Soviet Commissar had been insulted by a German officer.

Because of the lengthy stay in London of Leonid Krassin, the Russian trade envoy, his place as Commissar of Commerce and Traffic in the Soviet Government has been given to M. Yemkhanof, according to a Stockholm dispatch of Dec. 23 found in the Frankfurter Zeitung.

A Moscow report of Dec. 15 received in Berlin said that the Council of People's Commissars had ordered the mobilization of all metal workers, painters, upholsterers, engineers and technicians between the ages of 18 and 50 who during the last ten years had served not less than six months in Russia or abroad in airplane factories, or had worked on other material to be used in the air service.

Reports from Cairo received in Rome on Dec. 18 told of an intensification of Bolshevist propaganda in the Kingdom of the Hedjas. It was said that Arab papers, including the official Mecca organ, received in Cairo were filled with fiery appeals by Lenin to the Moslems and with long articles lauding Bolshevism and promising the deliverance of Arabia from the yoke of France.

The French Government has asked Czechoslovakia for the restoration of textile machinery carried away by the Germans and left in territory now forming part of the new republic, according to a Prague dispatch of Dec. 10 to the Berliner Tageblatt. It is said that France promises to support the Czechoslovak Government in claims for compensation against Germany, but that the Prague industrialists oppose the demand for the machinery.

Ex-King Nicholas of Montenegro has refused the annuity of 300,000 francs granted to him on Dec. 14 by the Cabinet of the Jugoslav Government, according to a statement made in Basle to a correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung on Dec. 22 by a former Montenegrin official.

Because the Finnish Government refuses to grant general amnesty to the Socialists imprisoned as a result of the abortive Red revolt of two years ago the eighty Socialist Deputies in the Parliament have begun to practise obstruction and are holding up the budget, says a Helsingfors dispatch printed in

GERMANY THANKS RELIEF WORKERS

President Ebert Sends Official Message of Appreciation of Foreign Help.

Warm appreciation of the relief work being done in Germany by representatives of welfare organizations in foreign countries was expressed by President Ebert in a message directed by Chancellor Fehrenbach on Dec. 23. The text of the note, which was transmitted to the offices of the organizations concerned, was given as follows by the Wolff Telegraph Bureau:

"Humanitarian circles abroad have been endeavoring for a long time to relieve the misery prevailing among large sections of our people by acts of charity. The countries occupying first place in this connection are our neighbors, Denmark, Finland, Holland, Norway, Sweden and Switzerland. The warm-hearted and careful reception given to the children of our people in those countries for months at a time during the past years offsets the grave dangers to which the rising generation has been exposed by the war and its accompanying phenomena, in a mental as well as a physical sense, and thus pursues an aim which goes far beyond the present day misery and is bound to be particularly appreciated by us Germans.

"Similar aims are served by the relief activities of the Quakers. They have supplemented their feeding of the school children with the same care for needy adults. And other circles of the population of the United States are displaying far-reaching relief activities in the form of gift packages and remittances of money. Substantial aid, promoted by warm sympathy, has also come from the South American nations. For instance, a committee of Chilean ladies recently placed 150,000 marks at the disposal of the wife of our Foreign Minister to aid our war orphans.

"The feeling of thankfulness for all this humanitarian help will never die out in the German people, struggling hard for its existence. I do not wish to let the Christmas holiday go by without sending far and wide the expression of this feeling, and I ask you, Mr. Chancellor, to transmit the hearty and enduring thanks of the German people to all the organizations concerned.

"EBERT.

"Berlin, Dec. 23, 1920."

Through a compromise between the governing Conservative parties and the Socialists an amendment to the National Sacrifice Tax law was passed by the Reichstag on Dec. 18, just before adjournment for the Christmas holidays, providing for the speeding up of the collections of the levy during the next year. Under the new arrangement, the exemption limit is raised 5,000 marks, but instead of being allowed to spread the payments of the tax over twenty-eight years, as was stipulated in the original law, property owners whose tax amounts to only 10 per cent. of their total holdings will have to pay it all before May 1, 1922. One-sixth must be paid by March 1, 1921, and another sixth by Nov. 1, 1921. In cases where the levy is more than 10 per cent. of the owner's property, the balance may be spread out in small annual payments. The German Nationalists were the only members who voted against the amendment. It is hoped that the speeding up of the tax levy will obviate the necessity for a compulsory loan, suggested by Rudolf Havenstein, President of the Reichsbank.

The Prussian Ministry of State has decided that in connection with the elections for the Prussian Landtag of Feb. 20, members of the various provincial and district legislative bodies are to be voted for. President Ebert, in an order made public in the German press on Dec. 18, has fixed Feb. 20 as the date for the bye elections to the Reichstag in the abbreviated Schleswig-Holstein district and the East Prussian district.

Material gains for the Communist Party and heavy losses for the Majority and Independent Socialists were registered in the election of the City Council of Chemnitz held Dec. 12, according to reports found in the German press. Of sixty Aldermen the Majority Socialists elected 25, compared with 34 in the old board, while the Communists won eight seats against two in the old body. The Independents lost the one seat they had before and their vote fell to 1,255. The Communist vote rose to 17,180 from 7,294 two years before, while the Majority Socialist vote dropped from 75,415 to 49,520. The German Nationalists elected fourteen Aldermen, the People's Party, ten, and the Democrats, three. The total vote of the bourgeois parties was 54,634.

According to data compiled by Dr. R. Kuczynski, Director of the Statistical Bureau of the Schoenberg district of Greater Berlin, found in the Leipziger Volkszeitung of Dec. 22, a single man could keep alive in Berlin during November by spending 153 marks per week. A couple needed 228 marks and a family of four 316, of which 136 marks went for food. These figures show an increase of about tenfold over the prewar prices and indicate that the present purchasing power of the mark in Berlin equals about 2 2-5 cents, as against the exchange rate of about 1 1-3 cents.

Attempts by the German communists to disrupt the trade union movement through the forming of "communist cells" within the unions and agitating for their affiliation with the Council of International Trade Unions of Moscow have met with several serious setbacks recently. In the election of the administrative board of the Metal Workers' Union in Greater Berlin, reported in the Freiheit of Dec. 22, the Reds were defeated by a vote of 31,458 to 30,063; at about the same time the General Committee of the General German Trade Union League passed a resolution reaffirming its adhesion to the moderate International Federation of Trade Unions of Amsterdam and warning its some 8,000,000 members against agitating for the Moscow program under pain of expulsion, and a few days before the Advisory Board of the German Clothing Workers' Association, by a vote of 34 to 3, expressed its confidence in the Amsterdam organization and condemned the Moscow tactics. On Dec. 21 it was reported in Berlin that the Executive Committee of the Third International, disregarding the protest of the Communist Party of Germany, had accepted the affiliation of the German Communist Labor Party, a small group of extremists who consider the Communist Party too tame, as a "sympathizing party," with a voice, but no vote on the committee.

Although the Austrian Government recently refused to extradite Dr. Max Levien, the communist chief who took a leading part in the short-lived Soviet Government of Bavaria in the Spring of 1919 and set him at liberty, a Munich dispatch of Dec. 22 to the Kölnische Zeitung said that the Bavarian authorities were still keeping a reward of 30,000 marks on his head.

Following the announcement by the School Board of Leipzig that when the schools reopened after the Christmas holidays religious instruction would not be given to children whose parents disapproved of it, the parents of more than 31,000 children informed the authorities of their opposition to such instruction, leaving only about 27,000 children to receive religious training, according to the

REVEALS RUSSIA HAS NOTHING TO EXPORT

Bolshevist Writer Tells of Famine in All Branches of Industrial and Personal Consumption.

EVEN FOODSTUFFS NEEDED

Esthonia Being Gradually Depleted to Feed Big Neighbor — Great Shortage of Paper Also.

The impossibility of any immediate resumption of foreign trade with Russia, because of Russia's inability to provide anything for export, is argued in an article on "Soviet Russia's Foreign Trade," published in The New Russia, a London weekly, and recently received in this country by the Princess Cantacuzene, granddaughter of President Grant.

An article by Bagaiev in the Ekonomicheskaia Zhizn is quoted as saying:

"At the present moment, when there is a famine in all branches of industrial and personal consumption, there can, as a rule, be no question of the existence of any surplus for export. We shall have to export what we are in great need of ourselves, merely for the purpose of getting something more indispensable in exchange. Every imported locomotive, every plow we get will have to be paid for literally with strips carved from the body of our national industries. Under these circumstances it would be wrong to spend either our gold, or, still more, our precious stocks of exportable commodities."

The last normal year as regards imports into Russia was 1917, and even then imports were mostly military, such as did not supply the needs of the population, says the writer in The New Russia. When the Bolsheviki came into power there was almost complete cessation of imports, and when civil war started in Finland even the few imports from Sweden ceased.

"Practically speaking, in 1918 there were no imports, except coal, which formed over 90 per cent. of the total. It was coal supplied to the Government, delayed on the way and which reached Russia after it was no longer needed. But, to make up for that, in 1918 there were animated negotiations between Sweden and Russia—not indeed with reference to imports, but to exports from Russia of money tokens and valuables—mostly in couriers' bags. Nineteen hundred and nineteen was the year of effective blockade.

Imports Smuggled from Germany.

"Foreign trade was resumed in 1920. At first there were merely chance imports, and then, on the conclusion of peace with Esthonia, imports became steadier. At the present moment the totals for 1919 can be reckoned up to July 31, but only through the Esthonian frontier. Yet there is no doubt that a great quantity of goods is imported from Germany of which no data are available, owing to their being smuggled.

"The distribution of the imports under the various groups is highly characteristic. Of course, the most curious thing is the large imports of foodstuffs, which so obviously refute the tales of the Bolsheviki about there being no need for them. It should likewise be borne in mind that these foodstuffs were brought from Esthonia, where there is no surplus of foodstuffs. Unfortunately there are no details for July, but the figures for June show that of the total 323,035 poods (a pood is about thirty-six pounds) of foodstuffs, 312,242 poods come under the head of potatoes, the staple product of Esthonia.

IMPORTS THROUGH ESTHONIAN FRONTIER IN 1920.

	June. Poods.	July. Poods.	Apr. 18-July 31. Poods.	Inc. in July.
Foodstuffs	52,630	81,1[illegible]4	904,925	52
Manufactured animal products	3,573	[illegible]2,805	46,378	1,096
Chemical products	33,843	45,830	797,773	36
Manufactured metals	149,817	89,5[illegible]	269,228	*40
Paper goods	89,887	90,9[illegible]7	194,025	5

*Decrease.

"Thus rich Russia has to feed at the expense of poor Esthonia. Moreover, correspondents from Reval have repeatedly written that it is apparent that Esthonia is being gradually devastated by the Bolsheviki.

"Another interesting point is the decrease in the imports of metal manufactures, which fell nearly 40 per cent. for July as compared with June. Does not this show that up to July Russia imported Esthonia's reserve stocks, and in July there was not enough to keep up the level of the imports for the preceding month?

"The enormous quantity of paper imports is also remarkable. The figures are especially significant when compared with the communiqué in the Petrograd Pravda for Sept. 8 to the effect that the consumption of paper for printing notes is 800 poods per diem, and that measures have been taken to buy paper of the best quality abroad."

Travelers who have recently returned from Riga have brought word of the great paper shortage in Russia, which recently compelled the Soviet Government to order that only 10,000-ruble notes be printed, notes which are worth 20 cents in American currency. Notes below this are not equal in value to the paper on which they are printed.

Export Data Mere Bluff.

"In connection with this," the writer continues, "the question arises—what is Russia exporting at present? Judging from the Bolshevist newspapers, there was a preliminary inventory of goods available for export, of which there were considerable stocks. Practically, however, the only commodities at the disposal of the Bolsheviki were gold and jewelry, &c., which were included in the inventory. And, indeed, we see in the statistics of transports through Narva, which by some chance happened to be published in one of the numbers of the Pravda, a mention of railway cars going toward Reval. Logically, this might have been surmised even without Bolshevist figures, because, of course, in an utterly ruined country there is at present no surplus, and the data of any so-called 'export stock' can only be a bluff.

"The absence of exports will be the chief stumbling block to the renewal of trade. It is true that in his article Bagaiev sees other obstacles besides this.

"'The only exportable commodity in Russia as a whole has been set aside by various commissariats, and, moreover, as the Commissariat for Foreign Trade had no proper machinery of trade, either central or local, the Government departments have been forced willy-nilly to have recourse to a system of petty trading.'

"'It is true that departmental separatism has disappeared, but there is still no common plan of action in the form of a practical business program, this being replaced by separate disconnected schemes. The fact of the importation from abroad of a large number of children's spades, pruning knives, &c., at a time when Russia is suffering from the great want of technical appliances is a good proof that the work of the Commissariat of Foreign Trade has been performed only casually.

"'Of course the absence of any plan is an obstacle, but even a proper plan could not do away with the inherent defect. So long as the Bolsheviki continue to pay exclusively in gold, the opening of the frontiers cannot attain its object, i. e., the renewal of economic life. What is the use of importing thousands of locomotives if the country has nothing to transport except soldiers?

"'So long as the Bolsheviki continue to think of conquering the world, no imports can help them, because it is only the productive forces of the country that are unlimited, and not the gold, which is required to pay for both for-

WEBSTER TREE NOMINATED.

Place for Wesley Oak Also Sought in Forestry Hall of Fame.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—In celebration of the birthday anniversary of Daniel Webster, the tree on which he as a youth hung his scythe, deciding to go to Dartmouth College, has received a place in the Hall of Fame for trees with a history. The nomination of the tree was made by Frank N. Hancock of Franklin, N. H., which, then known as Salisbury, was the birthplace of Webster on Jan. 18, 1782. Mr. Hancock has lived near the tree for sixty years. The path from that tree led Webster to Congress and to the office of Secretary of State.

Another nomination for the tree Hall of Fame announced by the American Forestry Association is the Wesley Oak on the Island of St. Simon, off the coast of Georgia. This tree was nominated by James R. Joy of New York City, editor of The Christian Advocate. John Wesley and his brother Charles arrived in America on Feb. 5, 1736. Charles Wesley served as Secretary to Governor Oglethorpe and went to the island to help lay out the town of Frederica. As there was no meeting place both Charles and John Wesley preached their first sermons on this continent beneath the Wesley Oak, which is still standing.

A great grandson of Dr. Samuel Johnson, the first President, in 1754, of King's College, now Columbia University, once owned the land between Stratford and Bridgeport, Conn., on which stands an oak nominated for a place in the Hall of Fame by Miss Helen Harrison of Bound Brook, N. J. According to experts this tree is 500 years old.

One hundred and fifteen years ago the Lewis and Clarke expedition camped beneath the Council Oak at Sioux City, Iowa, and held council with the Indians. This bur oak is nominated for the Hall of Fame by Mrs. Susie Brown of Marion, Iowa, whose data show the tree was 150 years old when Lewis and Clarke pitched camp beneath its shade.

Soil from every State in the Union and from each of the allied countries has been placed about the roots of a maple tree planted by the Daughters of the American Revolution at Arkadelphia, Ark., as a memorial to the men who answered their country's call in the World War. The tree is nominated for a place in the Hall of Fame by Mrs. Thomas Sloan, historian of the Arkadelphia Chapter of the D. A. R.

MOSQUE BUILT BY KAISER.

Relic of His Pretended Moslem Leadership in a German City.

WUENSDORF, Germany, Dec. 23 (Associated Press Correspondence).—A reminder of the time when the former Emperor William attempted to pose as a leader in the Moslem world remains here in the form of a Mohammedan mosque which was erected by the Kaiser in the first years of the World War. Eight hundred orthodox adherents of the teachings of the Koran regularly worship in it.

It is the only mosque in Germany, and William II. built it for the benefit of the Cossack and Kirghis Tartar war prisoners who were captured while serving with the Russians and French. An internment camp surrounds it. Under the law of the Koran the mosque must never be destroyed.

There has been considerable criticism of the former Emperor for having erected it and for the present Government for maintaining it. In reply the officials declare it is their duty to give the interned Tartars an opportunity to worship according to the dictates of their faith. They point out that destruction of the mosque would be a serious offense in the eyes of all Mohammedans.

GENERALS PRAISE ARMY SCHOOL WORK

Success of System Acknowledged and It Is Endorsed as Permanent Institution.

HARBORD CHANGES VIEWS

Former Chief of Staff of A. E. F. Now Believes in Educational, Vocational Plan.

Some weeks ago Secretary of War Newton D. Baker wrote for THE NEW YORK TIMES a description of the army schools now in operation, explaining their origin and outlining their scope. He has now made public reports from corps area and camp commanders, testifying to the success of the system, and indorsing it as a permanent institution.

Major General J. G. Harbord, former Chief of Staff of the American Expeditionary Forces and now in command of Camp Travis, Texas, writes as follows:

"On my return from France I looked on the new educational requirement in the service as one of those fleeting fads of which we have been so many times the victim in the thirty-one years I have worn the uniform. I have changed my views, and believe the educational and vocational work in the army to be eminently desirable.

"As an aid to recruiting since the war, the schools have proved the best inducement offered to our young men. The park bench was once the most fertile field for new men, but recruits to-day are generally youths of ambition who desire to better their positions, returning to civil life when they have received the sort of training they need.

"The increased mentality and contentment derived from the training," writes Major Gen. C. P. Summerall from Camp Dix, "enable the soldier to absorb his military work more effectively and make him a better American as well."

From the Ninth Corps area, San Francisco, Major Gen. Hunter Liggett gives the percentage of troops there who are receiving schooling as 24.59.

Brig. Gen. George Bell Jr., at the head of Camp Grant, Ill., declares that the school system "is producing wonderful results for the country and the army."

Major Gen. Robert L. Bullard, from Governors Island, reports that some 60 per cent. of the troops have asked for educational and vocational training. The recreation work for enlisted men, he writes, "makes them lead cleaner lives and establishes them higher in the opinion of civilians than at any time in my experience."

Similar testimony has come from the commander of the First Corps area, at Boston, Major Gen. David C. Shanks.

Purse Sent to Horton's Widow.

President Samuel S. Conover of the Fidelity International Trust Company sent $672 yesterday to Mrs. Floyd Horton, widow of the Police Lieutenant who sacrificed his life recently while performing his duty. The amount had been collected by the Fidelity International Trust Company from ninety contributors who desired to show their appreciation of Lieutenant Horton's heroism. The money will be used for a permanent memorial to Lieutenant Horton.

PNEUMONIA WARNIN ISSUED BY COPEL

Most Critical Part of Wint Here, He Says, Urging In dividual Care.

Because of the increase in pneu cases since the first of the year, I Commissioner Royal S. Copeland yesterday that he felt it his duty the attention of the public to the that we are now entering upon the critical part of the winter. The thirty days, he said, would be of crisis and upon individual care depend largely whether the mo rate from this disease would be f increased.

The 1920 influenza epidemic prac started its big climb on January reached its apex on February 1 the latter week there were 2,100 d The comparative figures for the fi days of January are:

	Influ.	Deaths	Pneu.
Jan., 1921	102	21	773
Jan., 1920	1,018	24	1,023

"Pneumonia is our most fata ease," said Dr. Copeland. "The ent weather is most conducive to velopment. In the influenza epi pneumonia was the secondary de ment and hundreds died from it. be noticed that the number of this year, 448, is only slightly belo total deaths for the same perio year. When it is considered tha year we had 250 more cases of monia reported than up to the p this year, it will be seen that th ease appears to be more fatal this

"I wish to warn the comm against undue exposure; wet fee indiscretions in eating and dri The next thirty days will be the c time as regards influenza and monia. If we can get the people o York City to take good care of selves for a month at least we may off a third visitation of epidemic.

"Both influenza and pneumoni hand conveyed and so it is a good cautionary measure to wash the several times a day. No one shou down to eat without using soap water on the hands and care shou taken with eating and cooking ut On returning home at the close o day let the first duty be to was hands and face, taking care to wa the nostrils. Attention to these rules may save many a life.

"I beg the owners of factorie heads of offices and those in cha cars to keep the windows open da night to insure proper venti There are many devices for breaki currents and no one has the rig occupy rooms to which the fresh side air has not free access."

ADVERTISEMENT.

AT ITS BES

The strongest compliment ever paid to

Scott's Emulsio

is the vain attempts a imitation. Those who take cod-liver oil at its best, take Scott's Emulsion—

Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J.

—ALSO MAKERS OF—

KI-MOIDS

(Tablets or Granules)

FOR INDIGESTION

ADVERTISEMENT.

ADVERTISEMENT.

PERSONAL—But Not Confidential

* * *

This Is Letter Number Fourteen of a Series Written to All of You About a Matter Which Is Vital to Your Success.

* * *

If you have missed any of the previous letters and would like to have copies I will mail them to you.

* * *

It is reasonable to assume that the readers of this Sunday newspaper also read the morning and evening newspapers that are printed the six working days of the week.

Therefore it is reasonable to assume that most of you have seen at least some of the Thirteen Letters previously printed. Only one of the series was printed in Sunday newspapers. That appeared Sunday, December 26, 1920.

* * *

This letter is printed in the Sunday newspapers to-day merely to remind you that this country starts to do to-morrow, in a practical way, what it should have been doing for the past 40 years at least.

* * *

It is a splendid idea to start NATIONAL THRIFT WEEK on the anniversary of Benjamin Franklin's birthday, which is to-morrow, Jan. 17.

* * *

You and I certainly realize that it is a wonderful thing for a man to so live his life that he builds something of value to future generations, as Benjamin Franklin did. He lived in a period when opportunities were far fewer than they are to-day—but, nevertheless, he found many ways to be of Great Service to his country and to himself.

* * *

One very Big Idea that Benjamin Franklin implanted in the minds of a great many people in his lifetime was that those who practiced Thrift would be better equipped to do their full duty as citizens.

* * *

This country to-day has fewer Thrifty citizens in proportion to population than it had from 1706 to 1790—the period of Benjamin Franklin's life—yet there is as much, if not a greater, need to-day to Practice Thrift than then.

Anybody who stops to think even a litt bit knows that Wilful Waste is the princip cause for the present conditions in th country.

* * *

The only remedy for the present and f the future is Thoughtful Thrift.

* * *

The reason for a NATIONAL THRIF WEEK is the general conviction that all the people must be taught the wisdom living within their incomes and alway keeping a surplus on hand.

* * *

Henry L. Doherty & Company, 60 Wa Street, for whom I am writing these Thri Letters, know that the country's safety a prosperity depend on the practice of Thri by all of the people.

Practically every executive in the Dohert organization, and most of its 20,000 worke employed in all sections of the country, a strong believers in the sane Practice Thrift.

The success of the organization is large due to Thoughtful Thrift.

* * *

The Doherty idea is simply to tell th people the advantages of being careful money matters and to show them how the may become owners of the safe securities the country.

They have worked out a plan which w enable you to buy bonds or preferred sto of small denominations in safe enterprise so that your small sums of money may safely invested.

They want to see the financial district i vaded by small investors who have ke away from it because they have alwa thought they were not wanted.

* * *

Write to or call on Henry L. Doherty Company, 60 Wall Street, who will be gl to advise you.

* * *

Letter No. 15 will appear in Wednesday newspapers.

* * *

Sincerely yours,
WILLIAM C. FREEMAN,
117 West 46th St., N. Y. City.

Copies of a LITTLE RED THRIFT BOOK issued by Henry L. Doherty & Company of 60 Wall St. (telephone 10060 Hanover), will be supplied in hundreds thousands lots without charge of any kind to employers, school teachers or organizations of any kind who w distribute them wisely and thriftily. Write, telephone or telegraph. Orders will be promptly filled.

Women's Gold-Filled

Bracelet Watches

Special, 10.50

20-year gold filled watches, fitted with 15 jewel lever movement and mounted on ribbon bracelet.

Main Floor

Saks & Company

Broadway at 34th Street — Specialists in Apparel

Pearl Necklaces

Very Specially Priced

At 3.95—Perfectly matched graduating pearls of soft lustre, in matinee length, finished with solid gold clasp.

Main Floor

Women's Handsome Georgette Crepe and Crepe de Chine

BLOUSES

in a specially prepared sale Monday

At 5.00

Delightful blouses for tailored and dress wear, made of Crepe de Chine in two pretty models—one with wide tucking in front and smart collar and cuffs—the other with fashionable roll collar, adorned with pearl buttons and tucks.

There is also a very charming over-blouse model of heavy Georgette Crepe, lavishly trimmed with exquisite Venice lace.

Third Floor

We Will Offer Monday in a Special Sale

Most Remarkable Values in Women's

Fashionable Wraps and Coats

—the prices are extremely low—

39.50 89.50

At 39.50

Regularly 69.50

A splendid collection of wraps, street and sports models, developed in luella cloth, silvertone, imported tweeds and English coatings, many with collars of natural raccoon and sealine furs, also self material.

At 58.00

Regularly 98.50

Fashionable wraps and coats produced in bolivia, frost glow, chamoistyne, and luella cloth, with collars of self material, Australian opossum, taupe nutria, mole and raccoon, many with fur cuffs to match. Handsomely silk lined.

At 75.00

Regularly 125.00

Stunning wrap coats and straight-line effects made of veldyne, bolivia, chamoistyne, and camel's hair, many with huge collars of raccoon, mole, Australian opossum and nutria. Silk lined.

At 89.50

Regularly 135.00 to 165.00

Wraps and coats of unusual distinction, fashioned of bolivia, chamoistyne, evora, and vel de cygne, trimmed with embroidery or collars of beaver, mole, squirrel, Australian and ringtail opossum. Silk lined.

Monday—A Special Presentation of Women's Sport Pumps and Oxfords —designed for tropical wear—

At 7.50

Several graceful models to choose from, developed in white buckskin and fine canvas, in all white, or white with tan or black leather trimmings. Full range of sizes. One style pictured.

Second Floor

Handsome Fur Coats

for Women and Misses

At the Season's Lowest Prices and lower than we expect them to be at any future time

Hudson Seal Coats in sports models made of choice quality skins. Regularly 345.00 . . Reduced to 195.00

Hudson Seal Coats in smart 36 inch model with self collar and cuffs. Regularly 395.00 . Reduced to 245.00

Hudson Seal Coats in 36 inch model with large collar and cuffs of skunk, beaver or self fur. Regularly 550.00. Reduced to 295.00

Hudson Seal Coats in 40 inch model with large skunk, beaver or self collar. Regularly 650.00. Reduced to 495.00

Hudson Seal Coats in 45 inch model with skunk or self collar and cuffs. Regularly 850.00 . . Reduced to 495.00

Handsome Mole Dolmans, full length model, made of choice quality skins. Regularly 650.00 . . Reduced to 375.00

Near Seal Coats with collars and cuffs of skunk or self fur. Regularly 185.00 to 285.00 . Reduced to 145.00

Near Seal Coats in sports model, smartly belted. Regularly 145.00 to 185.00 . . . . Reduced to 97.50

Natural Muskrat Coats, 36 inches long. Regularly 250.00. Reduced to 185.00

Marmot Coats, 36 inches long, with self collar and cuffs in taupe or kolinsky collar. Regularly 185.00. Reduced to 95.00

Brown Ponyskin Coats, 36 inches long, with large collars and cuffs of Australian opossum. Regularly 295.00 . . . . . Reduced to 145.00

Sixth Floor

Women's

Fur-Lined Gloves

Regularly 8.50

Special at 5.50

A warm, practical glove for street, sports and driving—made of sueded degrained capeskin, lined with soft fur. In all the desirable shades of grey.

Main Floor

Monday—A Special Sale of

Girls' Middy Blouses

At 1.50

For gym and school wear, these middies are just the thing—serviceably made of excellent quality Jean, in all white, or white with colored collars. Some finished with braid trimming and emblem on sleeves. Sizes 6 to 20 years.

Girls' Wool Skirts

Regularly 3.95 and 4.95

At 2.75

Very smart all wool skirts in navy blue and pretty Spring plaids. In box and side pleated effects, some with separate belts, others attached to bodice. Sizes 6 to 16 years.

Second Floor

250 Women's Smart Suits

in an important sale Monday

At Greatly Reduced Prices

At 25.00

Regularly 45.00

A variety of smartly tailored suits, suitable for present wear. Tailored with great care in materials that will give lasting service—silvertones and fine velours. All wanted shades. Sizes 34 to 44. Silk lined.

At 45.00

Regularly 75.00

A most exceptional collection of suits in tailored and fur-trimmed models. Tailored according to a very high standard in duvet de laine, English tweeds, velveteens, yalama and rayonier. Sizes 34 to 48½. Silk lined.

Fourth Floor

Very Distinctive in their Charming Simplicity

Women's

Spring Frocks

At 35.00

Frocks that display the newest features of Spring—circular tunics with gay flares, novel handkerchief tunics that combine the full overskirt effect with the slender silhouette.

Each seems prettier than the other—developed in crepe de chine in Copenhagen, cherry, black and navy. High lustre taffeta in brown, Copenhagen, navy and black. Sizes 34 to 44.

Fourth Floor

Misses' Fur Collared

Wraps and Coats

39.50

Regularly 49.50 to 65.00

At 39.50

Coats for sports and street wear, wraps for dressy occasions—carefully produced in luella, chamo, bolivia and polo mixtures, with collars of nutria, Australian and ringtail opossum, or large shawl collars of raccoon. Warmly lined and interlined.

At 59.50

Regularly 69.50 to 89.50

A collection of stunning models that are warm and cozy, besides being good looking. Developed in bolivia, vel de cygne, and chamo velour, beautifully trimmed with Scotch mole, taupe nutria, Australian opossum and squirrel. Silk lined and warmly interlined.

Second Floor

La Vida Corsets, Special 4.75

Regularly 8.00—Made of flesh-colored broche coutil, with medium top and straight hip-lines, suitable for almost every type of figure. Trimmed with lace and ribbon, heavy mercerized supporters attached.

Third Floor

Very New Are These

Frocks for Misses

—in a special presentation

At 39.50

Frocks that are altogether fascinating in their quaint styling—one model daintily fashioned of lustrous taffeta in black, navy, and brown; displaying a pointed bodice and new wide skirt festooned in ruffles.

The other model is made of Canton Crepe with youthful blouse waist, elaborately trimmed with long gold beads, gilt thread embroidery and contrasting color self fabric. Sizes 14 to 18 years.

In brown, navy and black combined with jade, rust, honey dew and silver grey.

Monday—An Exceptional Offering of

Women's

Worsted Sweaters

at a very low price

4.45

Smart tuxedo and coat models, made of all worsted in plain and fancy weaves. Trimmed with soft brushed wool collars and cuffs, pretty pockets, and tailored belts and long sashes. In all the fashionable colors.

Third Floor

A Sale of Women's

Knit Undergarments

Monday affords liberal price savings on knit union suits and bloomers of first quality

At 1.15

Women's combed cotton union suits with tailored top, low neck, no sleeves, ankle and knee length legs. Regular and extra sizes.

At 2.25

Women's wool and cotton union suits, ankle length, with low neck and no sleeves. Tailored or crochet top. Regular and extra sizes.

At 95c —Cotton bloomers — very carefully made—in pink and in white.

Main Floor

Monday—A Special Sale of

600 Boys' Wash Suits

At 4.00

Smart one and two-piece models that any boy will want to wear. Made of genuine Palmer linen in the much-wanted blue shade—a fabric heretofore shown only in suits selling from 5.95 to 7.50. Sizes 3 to 10 years.

Second Floor

Monday Only—On the 2nd Floor

Sale of Boys' Shirts

Reduced to 1.10

Neckband and collar-attached styles in a wide range of serviceable shirtings. The patterns are in neat vari-colored stripings. Sizes 12 and 14 neckbands.

FIRST NEW CABBAGE HERE FROM SOUTH

Wholesale Hog Prices Higher, Beef and Lamb Lower Last Week.

BUTTER SHOWS ADVANCE

Retailers Raise Prices Five Cents While Wholesale Figures Fall.

The first shipment of new crop cabbage arrived on the wholesale market last week from South Carolina. The prices of New York State cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, onions and potatoes declined. On Friday the best up-State white Danish cabbage sold for $20 to $22 a ton, while a few small sales were made at $25 a ton. Celery prices advanced 50 cents. The best State rough golden celery sold for $2.75 to $3 for a two-third crate on Friday.

"The fresh receipts of onions for the week were approximately 51 carloads," according to the weekly review of the State Division of Foods and Markets. "The market closed weak with prices slightly lower. The best yellow and red Orange County offerings sold mostly for $1 a hundred pound bag.

"Trading on the live poultry market was dull during the week. Prices advanced at the beginning of the week but declined on Friday. On that day heavy colored fowls sold for 33 to 35 cents a pound, chickens 27 to 30 cents a pound, Guinea hens sold for 50 to 60 cents a pair.

"The receipts of country dressed calves were in excess of the demand and prices declined on all grades during the week. On Friday fancy calves sold for 23 to 24 cents a pound; small, 15 to 16 cents a pound; medium grades, 17 to 21 cents a pound.

"Prices for bulls, cows, calves and lambs declined at the Sixtieth Street stockyards this week. Hog prices advanced 50 cents a hundred at the end of the week, while sheep prices reflected no change. On Friday choice bulls brought $7.15 to $7.75 a hundred. Light bulls sold at from $4 to $6. Fat cows sold on Friday for $6 to $7 a hundred. The best calves advanced $1 a hundred during the week, and on Friday sold for $16 to $17 a hundred.

"On Friday, State hennery white eggs sold for 79 to 82 cents a dozen, which was about 5 cents a dozen more than last week's prices. Other grades of State hennery whites showed slighter increases. Storage eggs, firsts, sold for 58 to 63 cents a dozen, storage seconds 59 to 61 cents a dozen, over last week's closing prices.

"Butter has declined somewhat since last Friday. This Friday extra to high score creamery butter sold for 51 to 52 cents a pound, last week at 55½ to 58 cents a pound. At that time fine fancy State dairy butter brought 48 to 53 cents a pound. On Friday at sold for 48 to 51 cents a pound."

The retail price of butter advanced during the week. Chain stores that had been selling butter as low as 57 cents a pound advanced to 61 cents a pound. Arrivals of butter from Denmark for the week approximated 1,000,000 pounds, causing the drop in wholesale prices.

The following comparison of prices at which perishables sold in the wholesale markets on Jan. 14 of this year and on the corresponding date of last year shows that all commodities are now lower:

	1921.	1920.
Apples, A No. 1, 2½ in. bu.	$4.00 @ $5.50	$6.50 @ $7.50
Cabbage, Danish, seed, white, ton	16.00 @ 22.00	120.00 @ 125.00
Carrots, 100 lbs.	.75 @ 1.15	4.00 @ 4.50
Onions, yellow, 50 pounds	1.00 @ 1.50	6.00 @ 6.75
Chickens, live lb.	.27 @ .30	.25 @ .33
Calves, country dressed, fancy, lb.	.23 @ .24	.29 @ .31
Bulls, lb.	.04 @ .07½	.05 @ .09½
Sheep, lb.	.02½@ .05½	.06 @ .10½
Butter, creamery, extra to high score, lb.	.51 @ .52	.62 @ .63
Eggs, nearby, fancy, dz.	.80 @ .82	.84 @ .86

According to the Federal Bureau of Markets the wholesale meat market continued very slow last week. Beef prices were from $16 to $18 a hundred pounds for steers and from $14 to $16 for cows. "The outstanding feature of the beef market all week has no doubt been the poor demand for chucks," the bureau review said. In Kosker beef there was a decline of a cent a pound in chucks and plates. Hinds and ribs have been in liberal supply with practically a steady market with prices around $20 to $22 a hundred. Veal declined 3 to 4 cents a pound; lamb 2 to 3 cents; mutton 1 to 2 cents, and pork loins 4 cents. The pork market was somewhat agitated this week," the Bureau says, "on account of the heavy run of hogs for two consecutive days in the history of the Chicago stock yards, or about 150,000 head for the two days."

RHALLIS HATES VENIZELOS.

He Has Also Been Lukewarm to Constantine at Times.

ATHENS, Dec. 20 (Associated Press Correspondence).—Demetrios Rhallis, the Greek Premier who succeeded Venizelos when the latter was defeated in the elections last Autumn, hates the sight of Venizelos and has by no means always been an admirer of Constantine, who now has returned to Greece as king.

Rhallis regards Venizelos as a political adventurer. This in part may be due to the fact that when Venizelos came from Crete to Athens and gained the political ascendency, Rhallis's reputation as a politician was somewhat damaged.

In his long political career, the new premier has generally been at loggerheads with the Crown. He often had disputes with the late King George and it was not until Constantine was dethroned by the Entente powers that Rhallis really regarded him seriously. This action of the Entente, however, converted Rhallis to become a supporter of Constantine's cause and, since 1918, he has been devoted to that ruler.

Rhallis is one of the most interesting characters in Greece. He is a polished statesman and is often referred to as a "dear old man." He is about 80.

His favorite pets are goats and fowls, which he owns in great numbers, and feeds with his own hands. When not in public office he practices his profession of the law. In his younger days he spent a considerable fortune in politics.

ROUT the RAT!

"War on rats asked by plague expert."—TIMES.

"A public disgrace to allow rats to remain in control."—SUN.

Get behind the movement to free our homes of the carriers of disease.

Let us make YOUR home SAFE. Our method is certain and inexpensive.

Out of Town Work Solicited

GUARANTEE EXTERMINATING COMPANY
500 FIFTH AVENUE at 42nd Street New York
Telephone Vanderbilt 8710-2717-8710-4130
GUARANTEED VERMIN EXTERMINATION

Store Closes at 5 P. M.

Lord & Taylor

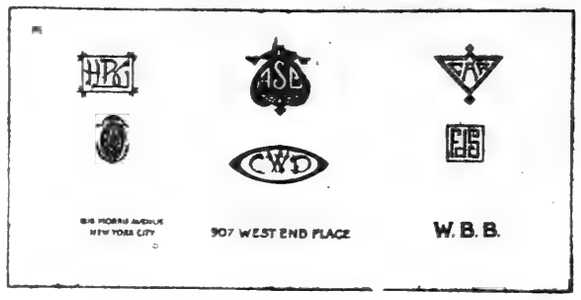
38th Street —FIFTH AVENUE— 39th Street

Engraving

Monogram and Address Dies

Writing paper of splendid quality. Hand cut steel dies. Stamping of finest workmanship. At prices far below normal.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday



An Important Event, of Interest to Business Men and Women, to the Debutante or Woman with Much Social Correspondence. Many other designs for selection.

GROUP I

Box of 48 sheets and envelopes of heavy white Vellum finish, letter size, or

Box of 36 sheets and 24 tissue lined envelopes—French size.

With die of block letters 3 or less, and stamping sheets in plain color..... $3.50
With address die of 18 or less block letters..... $4.00
With fancy monogram..... $4.50

GROUP II

Box of 100 single sheets and 75 envelopes, bond paper,

or

Box of 24 sheets, 24 tissue lined envelopes, 24 gilt edge correspondence cards, 24 plain envelopes.

With plain block die and stamping sheets..... $4.50
With address die..... $5.00
With fancy monogram die.. $5.50

GROUP III

Box of Royal bond—120 sheets—100 square opaque envelopes,

or

Box of 24 ragged edge sheets, 24 cards and 48 ragged edge tissue lined envelopes.

With plain block die..... $6.25
With address die..... $6.75
With fancy monogram..... $7.25

All Dies Become Customers' Property.

Ground Floor

PARK & TILFORD

Prices Adjusted to Meet Present Day Conditions--Merchandise of the Highest Quality at Lowest Possible Prices

THESE PRICES PREVAIL AT ALL OUR RETAIL STORES

Ripe Olives

The great benefit to be derived from this most nutritious and healthful food product was seriously impaired some two years ago through an accident in preparing the product. Our stock has come from the most reliable source of supply for the last twenty years. It is the same now as it has been during all that period.

	Doz.	Ea.
Ehmann's Extra large, select 15 oz. jars	5.35	.45
American Olive Co. Extra fancy 18 oz. tins	4.75	.40

Fruits, Dried

Apricots, Extra fancy Moorpark. Per lb.	.50
Pears, Jumbo Lake County. Per lb.	.48
Prunes, Calif. size, 20-30. Per lb.	.37
Raisins, Malaga Fancy, Detached Cluster 7 Crown. 1 lb. package	.47

Oil for Salad and Cooking

	Ea.
Ehmann Olive Oil, Calif. 1 gallon cans	3.25
Clark's Virgin Peanut Oil. ½ pint bottle	.25
Quart tins	.75
Mazola Oil Pint tins	.30

Salad Dressing

Park & Tilford Brand 8 oz. bottles	.34
16 oz. bottles	.62
32 oz. bottles	1.15

Teas and Coffees

	Per lb.	Per ½ lb.
Park & Tilford Favorita Coffee. 1 lb. package		.31
Java & Mocha Coffee. Per pound		.38
West End Tea
Ceylon, Ceylon & India, English Breakfast	.65	.35
Carnation Tea	Per lb.	Per ½ lb.
Ceylon, Ceylon & India, English Breakfast	.40	.21

Soups, Condensed

Park & Tilford Brand. White Bean, Beef Bouillon, Clam Bouillon, Cream Corn, Cream Potatoes, Mock Turtle, Mulligatawney, Oxtail, Green Pea, Yellow Pea, Vegetable, Tomato.

	Doz.	Ea.
No. 1 tins	1.15	.10

Vegetables, Domestic

	Doz.	Ea.
Beans, Lima, Little Quaker. No. 2 cans	3.15	.27
Corn, Fancy Maine Monmouth. No. 2 cans	2.00	.17
Peas, Fancy Sifted, Early June, Hart. No. 2 cans	2.65	.22

Soap

	Case.	Doz.
Park & Tilford White Foam Floating Soap. 100—10 oz. cakes	13.50	1.68
100— 6 oz. cakes	7.50	.94

Jams, Fruits, Etc.

	Doz.	Ea.
Jams. Miss North, Apricot, Grape, Plum, Pear, Peach, Prune, Quince, Pear and Quince. No. 1 tins	3.10	.26
Fruits, Fresh, Miss North, Cherries, White and Red, Greengages, Peaches, Pears, Pineapple, Raspberries. Quart jars	15.00	1.30
Marmalade Miss North, Orange. No. 1 tins,	3.10	.26
No. 2 tins,	4.10	.37
Honey, Miss North, 14 oz. jar	4.75	.41

Pate de Foie Gras, Doyen's

	Ea.
Petit Pots	.60
No. 15 Terrines	.85
No. 13 Terrines	1.25
No. 12 Terrines	1.40
No. 10 Terrines	1.95
No. 8 high Terrines	3.60

Puree, Truffled, Doyen's

	Doz.	Ea.
¼ oval tins (2-oz.)	3.60	.32

Fish, Canned

	Doz.	Ea.
Sardines, Norwegian, Brislings, Cape Special. 3¾ oz. tins	2.25	.20
Sardines, Portuguese Talisman, with bones. 13 oz. tins	4.40	.39
Salmon, Red Alaska Northland; tall cans.	4.20	.35
Salmon, Columbia River. 1s	5.60	.49
½s	3.60	.31

The exposition of quality merchandise in our largest and principal store, 26th Street and Fifth Avenue, is not equalled anywhere in the world, and in itself is well worth a visit.

Mail Orders promptly and carefully filled at the General Mail Order Department, 225 Fifth Avenue

A 20 VOLUME HISTORY OF THE GREAT WAR.

THE NEW YORK TIMES WAR VOLUMES are now complete, with cumlative index, gazetteer, 12,000 pages, 1,000 pages cartoons, 1,000 pages rotogravure etchings; three bindings; official records, reports, and richest literature. Narrative by eminent historians. Sold on easy payment plan. Free booklet on application to The New York Times War Volumes, Times Square, New York.

For Other Gimbel News See Section 1

GIMBEL BROTHERS

32nd STREET - BROADWAY - 33rd STREET NEW YORK CITY

Store Hours 9 to 5:30

$4,000,000 Reduction Sales

A COMPLETE NEW RANGE OF LOW PRICES

$59.50

S-A-L-E
Women's Wraps
$59.50

Bolivia, that best of fabrics, and Australian Opossum, that most popular of pelts, combine to make these smartly tailored wraps. Two cleverly conservative models (one pictured) that are available in either brown or blue.

And a Black Broadcloth coat of straight line with a generously large shawl collar of skunk opossum.

All these coats are lined with silk.

WOMEN'S COAT SHOP—Third Floor

$49.50

N-E-W
Women's Frocks
$49.50

New Crepe satins, canton crepes and taffetas—the three fabrics in which fashion molds her latest whims. And here offered in qualities far higher than the price would lead you to expect.

Charming Trimming Touches abound. The new "nail heads," clever cordings, shoe-polish ribbon, hand-embroidery; interesting combinations of color.

Blues, Browns and Black for the most part. All sizes from 34 to 44.

WOMEN'S DRESS SHOP—Third Floor.

The Details that Make for Perfection

Mesh Bags

A purse that always looks new — that never frays at the edges—a purse whose style is correct always. Sterling Mesh Bags are $33 to $85. Solid Gold Bags are $345 to $500. Green Gold Finish Bags, $8.50 to $98.00. Silver Plated Bags $10 to $50.

Stockings

—especially the lace stockings that look so well with trim footwear and a short skirt. A special group of finest hosiery in several patterns of lace effect have been reduced in price to meet the new lowered costs. All sizes in black only. With Federal tax, $5.25.

Handbags

Imported from France, an exquisite thing made of fine silk file and decorated in graceful design with very fine shot steel beads. It is quite the newest that Paris has to offer — and may be had in brown, navy blue, taupe or black, at prices which range from $15.75 to $37.75.

A Filet Collar

In the new Tuxedo style, of real hand made filet lace, charming for suit or gown. Very low priced at $1.50 each. The sets of collar and cuffs range in price from $3.50 to $8.00.

New Palm Beach Veil

That graceful veil which combines the soft protection of the chiffon motoring veil with the open mesh face veil. $5.00.

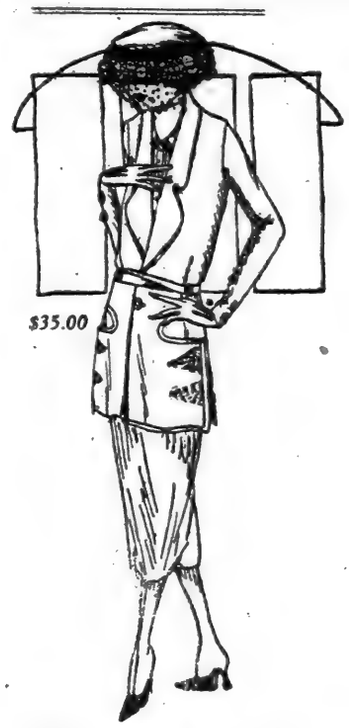
Umbrellas

of fine quality Union Taffeta, a durable and excellent mixture of silk and cotton, in a black silk case, with handles topped with colored Bakelite and rings or with silk cord loops. Very specially priced at $4.95.

Gloves

Long gloves — of course—with the new gown for which Paris decrees short sleeves. Finest French kid—Paris again—in a 12 button length that reaches the elbow. Sale priced at $4.95.

GIMBELS—Main Floor



$35.00

N-E-W
Women's Suits
$35

New suits that reveal an entirely refreshing novelty of detail, simplicity of styles and moderation of price. Navy or black serge of fine quality, hand finished.

Some Points of Interest—a new type of notched collar, coats shorter than last year, skirts still straight and slim, interesting cable stitching, well-applied braiding.

Lined with plain peau de cygne in tan, grey or navy. Sizes 34 to 46.

WOMEN'S SUIT SHOP—Third Floor

$39.75

N-E-W
Misses' Frocks
$39.75

Tight of waist and full of skirt; mediaeval of neckline and brief of sleeve—thus the frocks that Fashion plans for Miss 14 to 20.

Ruffles, Eyelet Embroidery
billowy sashes and nosegays and inserts of georgette combine to make 'em as gay as the first spring jonquil.

Canton Crepe; Satin; Georgette Taffeta—Navy, Black, Brown, $25.00 to $95.00

MISSES' OWN SHOP—Third Floor

Brooklyn, Long Island and New Jersey Customers Direct to Gimbels via Tubes and Subways.

AUTO SHOW ENDS SUCCESSFUL WEEK

Dealers Report Satisfactory Result in Actual Sales and Future Orders.

COUPE NOW IN HIGH FAVOR

Four-Seated Car In Increased Demand in Place of the Luxurious Limousine.

New York's twenty-first national show came to a successful close last night in the Grand Central Palace. There was no lack of interest right up to the final hour in the large number of open and closed car models displayed. In the closed car models, while the sedan is the popular type, having virtually displaced the luxurious limousine of a few years ago, one of the outstanding features of the week was the increasing interest shown in the coupé. A few seasons ago a three-passenger coupé was considered a roomy vehicle. As the result of improvements which have since been made a more ample carriage is now provided on practically the same length of wheel base, affording comfortable accommodations for four persons. It is not surprising, therefore, that the demand for motor coupés is steadily increasing.

The financial side of the recent show, as expressed in actual sales and orders for Spring deliveries, has been much greater than many of the sales managers had dared to hope for a few weeks ago. The unanimous verdict, as gathered from sales managers and other executives of the large motor companies was that the 1921 show has not only been a pronounced success in respect to attendance, but that it also indicated decidedly brighter times for the industry during the forthcoming months.

Samuel A. Miles, manager of the show for the National Automobile Chamber of commerce, said that the most sanguine expectations of those interested in its promotion had been realied.

Business Prospects Good.

"Business has responded splendidly," added Mr. Miles. "Thursday's paid attendance was within 500 of the best record day in the 1920 exhibition. Manufacturers and salesmen are going home confident of satisfactory business. Some good sales have been made and prospects for Spring selling are very favorable."

One of thhe officials of the Franklin Motor Car Company said that a careful survey among all of the Franklin distribution centres throughout the country for the month of December showed that a return of motor car buying had already set in. A total of 1,042 Franklin cars was sold in the United States in December and the best record in respect to population had come from New Haven where forty-three cars were sold during that month. In the south, where business has been dull, largely due to the depressed cotton market, many encouraging signs were found. Nashville, Atlanta and Charleston, S. C., being among the localities where better business conditions were observed.

Fred Nehrbas, Vice President and General Manager of the Premier Motor Corporation, in contrasting the trade depression of 1913 with that of 1920 said that the encouraging revival of buying activity which character ized 1914 would be duplicated in 1921.

"Almost overnight the automobile industry can be mobilized to begin the required program of production," said Mr. Nehrbas. "With the labor situation becoming well balanced and prices nearing their new levels, it will be comparatively easy for the industry to breach the gap caused by the recent dull period and prepare for rapid strides ahead."

One Car for Every 14 Citizens.

W. C. Sills, sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, cited the fact that in the last ten years motor car production has multiplied ten times. There are more than 7,500,000 motor vehicles in use in the United States today or one for about every fourteen persons.

"The value of the 1920 automobile output was more than two billion dollars," he said. "This represents only one year's collective investment in motor transportation. The dividends will be in the form of time and effort saved by the investors. The earning power of this saving will undoubtedly exceed the original two billion dollar investment. In this way the true value of motor cars may be realized."

A. G. Southworth, manager of the New York branch of the Buick Motor Company, said that in proof of the fact that people were still buying automobiles, the New York branch during the months of October, November and December had established a new record in the delivery of cars valued at nearly $5,000,000. In 1914, he added, this would have been regarded as an excellent business for the entire year.

Parts and accessory makers at the show also stated that the improved conditions among car manufacturers had been appreciably noticed in their business. While it is not customary for car manufacturers to place orders for materials during the show week, representatives of many accessory concerns said that there was a very satisfactory tendency on the part of the big companies to talk business.

Encouraged by the success of the New York national show, the representatives of the big Western factories left for home with a more optimistic view for commercial prosperity throughout the year than, in the majority of cases, they had brought to New York. Practically all of the companies who exhibited in the recent show will have their cars and latest models in the second national show of the year, to be held in Chicago during the week beginning Jan. 29. Samuel A. Miles and his working delegation from the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce left for Chicago immediately after the close of the show last night to make arrangements for the big Western motor exhibition.

THRIFT WEEK AT HAND.

Opens Tomorrow With Observance of Ben. Franklin's Birthday.

The New York City Thrift Committee will observe tomorrow the birthday of Benjamin Franklin, and appeal to the public on each day of the week to make some start toward saving, for old age and sickness. The days have been designated as follows:

Monday, Thrift or Bank Day; Tuesday, Budget Day; Wednesday, Life Insurance Day; Thursday, Own Your Own Home Day; Friday, Make a Will Day; Saturday, Pay Your Bills Promptly Day; Sunday, Share With Others Day.

Telling of the idea for the week, officials of the Y. M. C. A. wrote:

"This movement originated with the Y. M. C. A., but it has grown beyond that association and now has the endorsement and co-operation of the United States Treasury Department, Savings Division; the American Bankers' Association, the United States League of Building and Loan Associations, National Federation of Construction Industries, National Association of Real Estate Boards, General Federation of Women's Clubs, Y. W. C. A., Federation of Churches and a dozen or more other organizations of equal standing.

"In New York City nearly every organization of trade or business has joined in the movement under the Thrift Week Committee, of which Adolph Lewisohn is honorary Chairman and William Fellowes Morgan active Chairman. The local campaign will enlist the services of 750 committeemen, will revive the four-minute men and bring into service great many other volunteer workers.

"Probably at no time in the history of the United States has a movement for thrift been more necessary than at present. The nation is still suffering from the inflation which accompanied the war, and, while a readjustment seems to have begun, the people generally have not yet recovered from the 'comes easy-goes easy' habits which have held them for the last three years or more."

SAYS FISHERMEN NEED AID.

Fisheries Bureau Reports Decrease of 16,000,000 Pounds in Product.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Production and consumption of fishery products, stimulated and encouraged by Governmental and other agencies as a war measure, have shown a decided slump, according to the Bureau of Fisheries. A large under-consumption of fish, advancing prices of labor and materials and a curtailment in the export trade, the report says, have placed many fishermen in a serious situation.

As the majority of fishermen are small, individual producers who have devoted their lives to their calling, and have little or no training for a change of livelihood, the bureau says it is important that some measure of relief be afforded them. It is endeavoring to render the industry such aid as it can with the exceedingly limited funds at its disposal.

Production of fish in the first ten months of 1920 showed a falling off of more than 16,000,000 pounds, valued at $600,000, as compared with the same period of 1919, according to the bureau. Many of the large New England trawlers have been tied up for lack of proper markets and production of groupers on the Gulf coast has been reduced by lack of demand in American markets.

The 1920 pack of canned salmon, including Alaska, is about 3,500,000 cases less than in 1917, and includes 2,500,000 cases of cheaper grades, which it is reported are being offered for less than the cost of production and can be sold with profit by the retailer at a low price. Canners of sardines and the cheaper grades of tuna are confronted with similar difficulties.

EXHIBITIONS AND SALES AT THE ANDERSON GALLERIES
[MITCHELL KENNERLEY, PRESIDENT]
PARK AVENUE AND FIFTY-NINTH STREET
NEW YORK

ANNOUNCEMENT EXTRAORDINARY

AN EXHIBITION THAT WILL RESEMBLE A MUSEUM

AN UNIQUE COLLECTION OF GREEK AND ROMAN MARBLES, IMPORTANT GOTHIC SCULPTURES, PRIMITIVE PAINTINGS, CERAMICS, TAPESTRIES AND ANCIENT RUGS, INCLUDING TWO MONUMENTAL ALTARS AND A GREEK ICONOSTAS, COMING FROM HISTORICAL COLLECTIONS AND GATHERED IN ENGLAND, FRANCE, AUSTRIA, ITALY AND THE LEVANT BY A WELL-KNOWN EUROPEAN CONNOISSEUR.

THE COLLECTION CONTAINS WORKS OF ART FROM THE FOLLOWING FAMOUS EUROPEAN COLLECTIONS:

THE COLLECTION OF LORD FRANCIS PELHAM CLINTON HOPE, FORMERLY AT DORKING, ENGLAND.

THE COLLECTION OF LORD SWANSEA, WALES.

THE COLLECTION OF THE WELL-KNOWN CONNOISSEUR, M. ALPHONSE KANN, PARIS.

THE COLLECTION OF MR. H. SATZKA, LATE ARCHITECT OF THE AUSTRIAN GOVERNMENT, VIENNA.

THE COLLECTION OF THE LATE CESARE DETTI, ROME.

THE COLLECTION OF THE LATE SIR HUGH LANE.

THE COLLECTION OF SIR EDMUND BACKHOUSE, BART.

THE COLLECTION OF COMMENDATORE STETTINER, ROME.

THE COLLECTION OF HIS GRACE, THE DUKE OF HAMILTON, ETC., ETC.

THE ENTIRE COLLECTION OF 824 OBJECTS TO BE SOLD AT PUBLIC AUCTION, JANUARY TWENTY-SIXTH TO TWENTY-NINTH INCLUSIVE. THE PUBLIC EXHIBITION OF THE COLLECTION OPENS ON WEDNESDAY, JANUARY NINETEENTH.

Removal Sale

Only a few days left to obtain the BARGAINS we offer in this sale!

Furniture and Rugs

Now marked at much less than factory and mill cost.

This is not a sale of Furniture specially made and intended for a cut-price "sale."

10-piece	Dining Room Suite, formerly	$1300	NOW $725
10 "	" " " "	1100	NOW 650
10 "	" " " "	850	NOW 475
9 "	" " " "	650	NOW 370
9 "	" " " "	600	NOW 330
9 "	" " " "	550	NOW 275
4-piece	Bedroom Suite, formerly	775	NOW 400
4 "	" " "	400	NOW 200
6 "	" " "	1075	NOW 575
3 "	" " "	485	NOW 250
3-piece	Cane Back Living Room Suite	325	NOW 165
3 "	" " " "	375	NOW 185
3-piece	Overstuffed Living Room Suite	975	NOW 475
3 "	" " " "	650	NOW 325

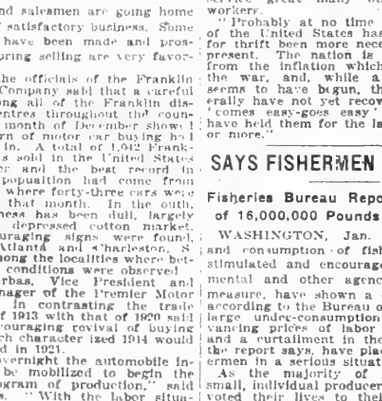
Odd Living Room and Reception

Chairs; were $35 to $175...NOW $15 to $75.

On February 1st we will be located in our new warerooms, 17-19 West 37th Street, with an entirely new line of furniture, fresh from the factory.

LENNON & COMPANY 153-157 WEST 23d STREET
Near 7th Avenue Subway

Hairdressing Salons



PERMANENT WAVING — SCALP TREATMENT
FACIAL MASSAGE — WATER WAVE
SHAMPOO — HAIR DYEING
MANICURING — HAIR DRESSING
MARCEL WAVING — STEAM WAVING
EYEBROW ARCHING

AND A COMPLETE SELECTION OF QUALITY HAIR GOODS

Telephone for an Appointment at Any Time—Fitzroy 1900

Ground Floor Balcony

Lord & Taylor

38th Street FIFTH AVENUE 39th Street

20% discount on all
IVY CORSETS for a limited time
Ivy Corset Shop
615 Fifth Avenue
between 49th and 50th Streets
Only Ivy Corset Shop in New York
Telephone Plaza 2193

Samuel Lorber & Co., Inc.
601 Fifth Avenue
Between 48th and 49th Streets

Absolutely Final Clearance Sale

ALL SUITS, DRESSES and WRAPS
$15 to $75
Formerly sold up to $200

All Hats Reduced to $5.00 and $10.00

Lord & Taylor

38th Street —FIFTH AVENUE— 39th Street

The Annual January Sale of Oriental Rugs

Importance is always attached to this Annual Sale, because it means every rug we own at a greatly reduced price. But the importance is even greater in this year 1921. Compare this year's prices with any you have seen in the past few years.

However, price is not the only important attraction. Connoisseurs who know genuine Orientals and the value of them are buying here and now. Their enthusiasm adds to our own assurance of the exceptional beauty of each rug and its exceptionally low price.

Room-Size Persian Rugs

Mahal	10.6x8.5	$350	Royal Bokhara	8.0x6.9	$525	Anatolian	13.8x10.8	$750
Arak	11.10x8.0	$345	Ghorevan	12.6x10.4	$595	Sarouk	12.10x11.0	$1350
Arak	12.0x8.8	$395	Tabriz	12.7x9.1	$595	Royal Bokhara	14.0x8.8	$875
Arak	11.8x9.8	$395	Sarouk	11.4x8.2	$750	Arak	14.0x9.10	$510
Arak	11.8x9.2	$410	Sarouk	12.0x8.9	$825	Arak	13.9x10.6	$525
Arak	12.9x10.0	$475	Sarouk	12.2x8.10	$885	Arak	10.8x9.7	$450
						Royal Bokhara	9.5x6.8	$495

Room-Size Chinese Rugs

6x9 feet	$195	13.6x11.2 feet	$395	12.2x9.0 feet	$395
10.6x7.0 feet	$195	14.6x11.10 feet	$475	11.6x10.0 feet	$310
10.0x8.0 feet	$225	14.9x10.3 feet	$600	12.9x10.0 feet	$335
11.0x8.0 feet	$295	15.4x10.0 feet	$650	12.0x9.0 feet	$295
12.0x9.0 feet	$275	16.6x10.3 feet	$695	12.0x9.0 feet	$345
11.8x9.0 feet	$295	17.9x10.0 feet	$725	12.1x9.2 feet	$345
				12.0x9.0 feet	$395

Miscellaneous Sizes & Designs

A Group of Rugs
4 to 5 feet wide by 8 to 11 feet long, from $125 to $165

Dozars
4 to 5 feet wide by 6 to 7 feet long
$85 to $95

Small Royal Bokharas
$115 $135 $150

Mosuls
About 3½x6½ feet
$55.00 and $79.50

A Large Group of Chinese Rugs
2½x4½ feet.....$47.50

Fifth Floor.

A Sale of Furniture
For Your Dining Room

Other Suites

10 piece Queen Anne Dining Room Suite of walnut or mahogany, with 72 inch buffet and oblong table, $525.00

10 piece Chippendale Dining Room Suite of walnut or mahogany, with 72 inch buffet and oblong table, $575.00

10 piece Queen Anne Walnut Dining Room Suite, $595.00

8 piece Queen Anne walnut Dining Room Suite, $415.00

On a recent buying trip in the West, our representative happened on one of those unexpected purchases which makes a Sale like this possible. He was able to procure a limited number of good designs in dining room furniture at a fraction of their original prices.

(Illustrated)—Chippendale Dining Room Suite, choice of mahogany or American walnut, $550.00

(Illustrated)—Queen Anne Dining Room Suite, mahogany or American walnut.....$495.00

Sixth Floor.

Other Suites

10 piece Heppelwhite Dining Room Suite, $445.00

10 piece Queen Anne walnut Dining Room Suite, $445.00

10 piece Heppelwhite Dining Room Suite, choice of walnut or mahogany, $495.00

10 piece Louis XVI. walnut Dining Room Suite, $495.00

57th St. Art Galleries, Inc.
33 West 57th St.
ALFRED F. GUSWELLER, Auctioneer.
Important Sale
at Public Auction
Tapestries and Textiles
Modern and antique Household Furniture and Works of Art removed from the Hotel Netherlands and Lincoln Storage.
Also
Magnificent Curtains and Upholstery Materials.
Sale days Thursday, Friday and Saturday, January 20, 21 and 22, at 2:30 each day

DIAMONDS WATCHES JEWELRY SILVERWARE
$1.00 or $2.50 Weekly
Ask for Book of Gems
JEWELRY WEARERS
of the Better Sort gather here—because Selection, Style and Stock Are Specialized.
Cash is accepted, but CREDIT freely given, on our Famous Terms.
$2.50 Weekly $5.00 Weekly $10.00 Weekly $25.00 Weekly
CASTLE CONFIDENTIAL CREDIT
1374 BROADWAY
TWO DOORS ABOVE 37th ST.
Open Daily till 6 P.M. Saturdays till 9 P.M.

OFFERS SAVING PLAN FOR CITY COLLEGES

Institute for Public Service Suggests Economical Changes in the Courses.

SHOULD RAISE STANDARD

Students Could Pay Back Part of Tuition Cost by Teaching or in Money Installments.

Instead of discontinuing City College, as it [illegible] College as tax supported institutions free to all residents of the city [illegible] last reducing their budget allowance, as proposed by the Board of Estimate, the Institute for Public Service, of which Julius H. Barnes is Chairman, and William H. Allen, Director, has suggested that the city officials explore the advisability of making changes among the student classes of [illegible] with a view to saving [illegible] suggestions were made [illegible] Changes and methods [illegible] with a [illegible] of students [illegible] the [illegible] centage of all who might go who do go to these colleges, the number of non-residents registered, the standards of scholarship required, the attempts made to fit the course of study to New York City's needs and to train for understanding of and citizenship in New York.

"That no student failing to show a high standard of scholarship, character and civic responsibility be continued at either college.

"That two methods be employed of assessing the 'unearned increment' of students out of their time or earnings after leaving college, I, having them pay back all or the greater part of their tuition cost by teaching year for year that they attend a free city college, or 2, exacting money payments in instalments.

"That if suggestions (2) and (3) are found feasible the city carry out this offer of higher education and provide the money by which any young person possessing the desire, character and intellectual ability to attend these colleges shall be loaned the financial ability for lack of which alone they are now denied higher education."

"The proposed investigation would not be expensive," said Mr. Allen. "The greater part of the information can be obtained by merely formulating questions and calling for men and women already on the city payroll to provide the answers. We believe that few steps which the Board of Estimate can take will yield greater returns in proportion to outlay than such a study as is here suggested. With facts before them taxpayers may want to double or quadruple the number of young people who benefit from these colleges or may wish in other ways to secure benefits for the entire city."

NOTABLE FORTHCOMING UNRESTRICTED ART AND LITERARY EVENTS

The American Art Galleries

Madison Square South, New York

ON FREE PUBLIC VIEW TO-MORROW (MONDAY)

AND CONTINUING UNTIL THE DATE OF THE SALE

VERY VALUABLE

OIL PAINTINGS

OF ARTISTIC DISTINCTION

Belonging To Estates and Private Owners

BARBIZON MASTERS AND CONTEMPORARIES

Corot (2 examples)	Fromentin	Troyon (3 examples)
Daubigny (2 examples)	Isabey (2 examples)	Van Marcke (3 examples)
Diaz (3 examples)	Jacque (4 examples)	Volfon (3 examples)
Dupre, Jules (2 examples)	Rousseau, Theodore

MODERN FRENCH SCHOOL

Bail	Dieterle	Pasini, A.
Boldini (2 examples)	Flameng	Robie
Bonheur, Rosa (2)	Gerome	Roybet (2 examples)
Bouguereau	Harpignies (3 examples)	Stevens, Alfred
Cazin (3 examples)	Lhermitte (2 examples)	Vibert (2 examples)
De Neuville	Meissonier	Worms, Jules
Detaille	Monchablon	Ziem

MODERN DUTCH MASTERS

Blommers	Israels (2 examples)	Neuhuys
De Haag	Mauve	Offermans

MODERN FOREIGN SCHOOLS

Clays	Jimenez	Nicol, E. (3 examples)
Constable	Jongkind	Rico (3 examples)
De Madrazo	Knaus (2 examples)	Schreyer (2 examples)
Domingo (2 examples)	Mettling	Thaulow

AMERICAN SCHOOL

Brown, J. G., N. A.	Dewing, T. W., N.A.	Loeb, N.A. (2 examples)
Coffin, W. A., N.A. (2)	Dougherty, Paul, N.A.	Van Boskerck
Crane, Bruce	Hawthorne, N.A.	Walker, H. N., N.A.
Dearth, N.A.	Hassam, Childe, N.A.	Weir, J. Alden, P.N.A.
Dessar, N.A.	Knight, D. R. (2)	Williams, Ballard (2)

OLD MASTERS

Brueghel ("Velvet")	Le Prince	Teniers
Canaletto	Metsu	Van Craesbeeck
Guardi	Molenaer	Van der Weele
Hobbema	Nefs	Van Ostade
Hoet	Potter, Paul	Watteau
Lancret	Steen, Jan	Wouverman

TO BE SOLD ON THURSDAY & FRIDAY EVENINGS OF THIS WEEK, JANUARY 20TH AND 21ST

In the Grand Ballroom of The Plaza Hotel

(Admission by Card, to be Had Free of the Managers).

Descriptive catalogue, profusely illustrated by fine halftone reproductions, will be mailed to applicants on receipt of One Dollar.

ALSO ON FREE VIEW TO-MORROW (MONDAY)

To be Sold on the Afternoons of To-morrow (Monday), Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week at 2 o'clock

The Very Important Collection of EARLY AMERICAN AND COLONIAL FURNITURE

INHERITED AND COLLECTED DURING THE PAST 20 YEARS, BY Mrs. William D. Bowie of Baltimore.

Illustrated Catalogue mailed on receipt of One Dollar.

To Be Sold on Friday Afternoon of this week

BY ORDER OF

Several Foreign and Domestic Private Owners

Beautiful Old TAPESTRIES

COMPRISING 20 VERY IMPORTANT EXAMPLES of French and Flemish Looms of the 16th and 17th Centuries.

And An Imposing Aubusson TAPESTRY CARPET

Of Beautiful Design and Coloring

Illustrated catalogue One Dollar

EXHIBITION BEGINNING WENDESDAY, JAN. 19TH

Continuing until time of Sale

LIBRARY SETS ENGLISH LITERATURE BOOKS ON ART AND FURNITURE

INCLUDING THE LITERARY PROPERTY OF THE LATE

MRS. FRANKLIN BARTLETT

OF NEW YORK

ALSO AN EXTENSIVE COLLECTION OF AMERICAN BOOKPLATES, INCLUDING AN ORIGINAL GEORGE WASHINGTON PLATE, GATHERED BY THE LATE

DR. HENRY C. ENO

UNRESTRICTED PUBLIC SALE ON MONDAY AND TUESDAY AFTERNOONS, JAN. 24 & 25

Catalogue mailed on receipt of 25 Cents.

ALSO

THE SPLENDID PRIVATE LIBRARY OF GEORGE W. THOMPSON

OF NEW YORK CITY

COMPRISING BEST EDITIONS OF THE WRITINGS OF ESTEEMED ENGLISH, FRENCH AND AMERICAN AUTHORS, INCLUDING:

Ainsworth; Burton; Arabian Nights, Original edition; Balzac; Bulwer; Byron; Carlyle; Clemens, Edition De-Luxe; Cooper; Dickens; Dumas; Emerson; Fiske; Freer; Gardiner; Harte; Hawthorne; Hood; Jesse; Kipling; Lever; Marryat; Meredith; Ruskin; Scott; Stockton; Swift; Thackeray; Trollope; Walpole; Wilde, and many others.

IN BINDINGS BY

Sangorski & Sutcliffe, Zaehnsdorf and Riviere

UNRESTRICTED PUBLIC SALE ON THE AFTERNOON AND EVENING OF TUESDAY, JAN. 25

Catalogue mailed on receipt of 50 Cents.

The Sales Will Be Conducted by Mr. THOMAS E. KIRBY and his assistants, MR. OTTO BERNET and MR. H. H. PARKE

AMERICAN ART ASSOCIATION, Managers

Madison Sq. South. Entrance 6 East 23d Street, New York.

The AEOLIAN COMPANY

In MANHATTAN, 29 West 42nd Street

In BROOKLYN 11 Flatbush Avenue ▼ In THE BRONX 367 E. 149th Street ▼ In FORDHAM 270 E. Fordham Road ▼ In NEWARK 895 Broad Street

"MUSIC has taken such an important part in our home life since our Vocalion came. Of course we always enjoyed music, more or less, but now — why Billy and I don't go out half as much as we used to — he says the Vocalion, and especially its Graduola, is the best anti-club and anti-cabaret argument he knows of.

"What is the Graduola? Oh, it is an attachment for controlling the expression. You can get the loveliest effects—effects you never heard before on a phonograph. The Vocalion is the only phonograph that has the Graduola and really it just doubles the pleasure to be derived from the music — it is so simple to operate and so fascinating.

"Last night Billy and Dad spent half an hour on one record — the 'Berceuse' from 'Jocelyn'—discussing which part should be played 'forte' and which 'piano.' After you study the records a bit you can obtain the most subtle and beautiful gradations of tone imaginable. Expressions of fleeting moods are possible to you such as the artists use when they sing or play for an audience, but which they cannot record for a phonograph.

"Actually I think the Vocalion is developing our musical taste, too. I had a much more intelligent idea of that 'Berceuse' after the discussion about it the other night. Such a half hour with the Graduola is like a half hour's lesson in Musical 'Appreciation.'

"Oh, yes, the Vocalion is complete without the Graduola. I've never heard such richness and power of tone in any other phonograph. It is perfect for dancing — so live and real the tones are, you never seem to tire. I told Billy the other day the Vocalion is the last thing in our home I'd be willing to part with."

The AEOLIAN-VOCALION

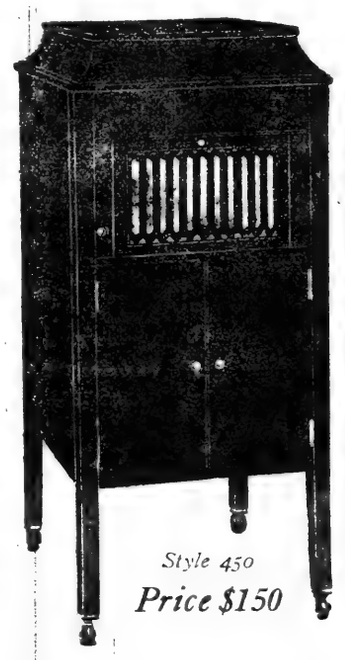
The Phonograph that You Can Play

The Aeolian-Vocalion is the phonograph that is made by the world's leading musical instrument manufacturers. It is, in itself, the strongest evidence that could be presented as to what years of experience in building musical instruments means.

Its tone quality—pure, distinctive, real—is obviously the result of experience in developing musical instrument tone.

Its cases—simple and gracious in design and gleaming with a soft and deep lustre—bespeak the workmanship accustomed to producing the costly and beautiful cases of fine pianos.

Its wonderful Graduola—the most interesting and important addition ever made to the phonograph—makes that instrument for the first time playable and hence immeasurably increases its musical value and fascination.



Style 450

Price $150

RECORD FAVORITES

OUR LITTLE FAMILY ALL HAVE THEIR ESPECIAL RECORDS

Billy's Are
Aloha and My Old Kentucky Home — May Peterson
Traumerei — Sasha Culbertson
In the Gloaming — John Charles Thomas
Cohen at the Telephone — Monroe Silver

Our Daughter Claims
Mah Curly Headed Baby — Florence Easton
Japanese Sandman — Crescent Trio
Just Like the House Jack Built — Harry A. Yerkes' Dance Orchestra
Tell Me, Little Gypsy — Arthur Burns

Billy Junior Claims
U. S. Field Artillery March — Aeolian Military Band
Whispering — Harry A. Yerkes' Dance Orchestra
Cuban Moon — Murray's Melody Men
Hop, Skip and Jump—Fox-Trot — Palace Trio
Cohen's New Automobile — Monroe Silver

I Am Devoted to
Ah, Moon of My Delight — Colin O'More
Massenet's "Elegie" — Maurice Dambois
My Heart at Thy Dear Voice—from Samson and Delilah — Marguerite D'Alvarez and Dvorak's Songs My Mother Taught Me — May Peterson

Vocalion Records Can Be Played on All Standard Phonographs

VOCALION PRICES

Conventional Models from $60—with Graduola from $150. Period Styles from $300.

Convenient Terms

Liberal Allowances on Other Phonographs Taken in Exchange

FINDS ATHLETICS CURE MANY ILLS

Dr. Aldinger Tells How Practical Exercise Is Applied in the Schools.

GAMES ARE ENCOURAGED

Pupils Taught to Train, Eat and Sleep Properly—Instruction Adapted to Child.

Dr. A. K. Aldinger, Director of Physical Training and Hygiene for the Board of Education, holds that most of the ills of the rising generation can be cured by athletic exercises judiciously provided.

"We are interested in the broad plan of giving these children physical education," said Dr. Aldinger in a talk about his work yesterday. "We are working through the gymnasium, recreational athletics, including morning inspection, the two-minute drill, the teaching of hygiene, these within the hours of 9 and 3 o'clock. In the afternoon we have the after-school athletic centres. We supervise and direct a broad program of intensive athletics, including baseball, football, basketball, soccer, tennis, skating and, in fact, any activities that can be carried on with our facilities.

"We try to teach practical health habits. Take the boy who goes in for athletics. He is influenced to train, to eat properly, to sleep sufficiently and under proper sleeping conditions—in other words, to live under the most hygienic conditions possible. Athletics apply the Hoot to this. The boys cannot compete successfully with other boys unless they do train. This serves as the most potent reason for training.

"Through our courses in hygiene we try to give the boy didactic instruction in hygienic habits. But it is a question of doing more than giving information. It is getting results by doing.

"The activities in behalf of the normal boy are supplemented by classes for the cripples, the blind, the deaf, and for cardiacs. We are interested, too, in the tuberculosis clinics, to which we apply specialized physical training and teaching of health habits.

"Each class in a school will organize a team for handball, basketball, or what not. A schedule is made up and during the after-school period it is carried out. The classes participate until a championship is arrived at. We get a representative team for the school. That team may play an adjacent school and may win the district championship. The district winners then will play the winners of any other district, then they may play a borough championship.

"Our chief problem is to get the boy who does not want to play. This type of boy may not take part in the after-school athletics for the reason that we are not giving the right plan. Or that he is interested in. Some boys, too, not interested in sports, are interested in vocational work. They long to make things. This type of boy will always find something to do, some activity which is really creative.

"The boy who does not wish to take part in athletics because of some quirk in his mental or physical make-up is distinctly uncommon, according to Dr. Aldinger.

"The physical training work within the hours of 9 to 3 is mandatory. The big effort is made in regard to the leisure time of the boys, to keep them off the street, out of mischief, and to provide activities that furnish an outlet for their energy and their natural instincts of pulling, pushing and throwing. These instincts are planted deep down in every boy, says Dr. Aldinger, but the boy soon ceases to be interested in throwing stones at basement windows if he can throw a good hard ball. One thing must be recognized—the boy will throw, with an emphasis on the will.

"Speaking of the intercity ice-skating competition scheduled to take place in Chicago early in February, Dr. Aldinger said: 'We have to stimulate an interest in skating. Chicago, too, is making a drive. Chicago has been the aggressor in this movement. It is hoped that this intercity competition will result in growing interest on the part of all schoolboys and others. The competition will be for elementary as well as high school boys, and, if weather conditions are favorable, we are hoping to use the Lewisohn Stadium. However, it may be necessary to have it indoors in one of the rinks.

"I would like to emphasize the fact that our work is so organized and graded that the expert has a chance to take part in athletic activities that are adapted to his physical development," said Dr. Aldinger. "He makes the representative team. The cripple child, the blind child and the deaf child is segregated and activities adapted to his physical condition are provided—the work runs the gamut from the strong to the weak.

"The first Public Schools Athletic League was introduced about fifteen years ago during Dr. Gulick's régime. As Director of Physical Training, he was one of the prime movers, with General Wingate and James E. Sullivan in this work; the important features of which have been found good enough to be copied in cities all the way to San Francisco, in the Philippines and in some other countries."

OBREGON WIRES GRATITUDE.

Thanks American Chamber of Commerce for Confidence in Him.

The New York group of the American Chamber of Commerce yesterday made public the following message from President Obregon of Mexico:

"With real satisfaction I have read the message which you have kindly transcribed for me through instructions from the honorable group of members of the American Chamber of Commerce at a meeting held at the Hotel Astor the night of the fifth, and hasten to avail myself of your good offices to transmit to those who signed said message my truest words of gratitude for their high conceptions about my country and the Government I have the honor to preside over, and most sincerely to the Honorable Judge Gerard, former Ambassador of the United States in Germany, for the work of equity and justice which he initiated.

"You may assure those gentlemen that I will use my best efforts in favor of the reconstruction of my country and to develop a good and true understanding between both republics that I am anxious to answer with acts the confidence which both my own countrymen and the people of your great country have placed in me as well as the other countries which have great interests in mexico. Most affectionately,

ALVARO OBREGON,
"President of the Republic."

Insect Powder From Dalmatia.

Consul K. S. Patton of Belgrade reports that the trade in insect powder and pyrethrum powder between the United States and Dalmatia was resumed early this year. The only shipments up to the present time to the United States have been to one American concern, and were invoiced at the consulates at Trieste and Belgrade. The total quantities invoiced for export amounted to 250 metric tons, valued at $228,227.

New Steel Works In China.

The Military Governor of Hupeh Province has filed with the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce plans for the erection of a large blast furnace at Huang-shih-kang port on the Yangtze River, a few miles below Hankow and Hanyang. These furnaces are intended to handle ores of the Hsiang-piahan iron mines in the vicinity, which are said to be of exceptional quality and capable of being worked into the highest grade of steel.

NOTE—The reductions indicated are offered in New York exclusively through our Two Stores

INDESTRUCTO

—TWO STORES—

330 FIFTH AVENUE——1347 BROADWAY

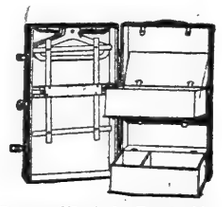
30% to 50% Reductions Pre-War Prices Lowered

—ONE WEEK ONLY—

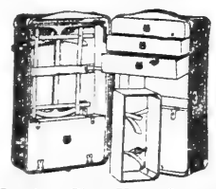
These slashing Indestructo Reductions offer an emphatic answer to those looking for Absolutely Rock-Bottom prices on the finest line of Nationally Advertised Luggage. We claim and will demonstrate that this sale is the season's sensational "come back" to a price level actually BELOW Pre-War Prices. These record-breaking prices must quickly clear our stocks, so quick action is necessary.

Full size Fibre Wardrobe Trunk made by Indestructo folks. Was $60.00. Now..... $36.67

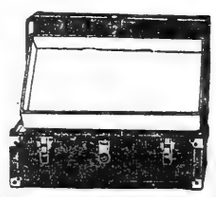
Full size, open top, round edge Fibre Wardrobe Trunk of Indestructo make. Was $75.00. Now..... $44.75



Steamer Wardrobe Trunk, fibre covered. Was $35. Now..... $22.75



Genuine Five Year Insured Indestructo Wardrobe Trunk. Large size, combination model. Contains every exclusive Indestructo feature. Was $120. Now.. $69.50



Steamer Trunk—fibre covered. 36 inch size. Was $25. Now... $12.75

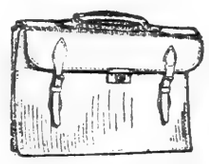
Fibre Dress Trunk. Two trays. All sizes. Was $30. Now..... $14.50

$100 Indestructo Wardrobe Trunks $59.75

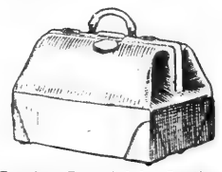
$135 Indestructo Wardrobe Trunks $77.50

$150 Indestructo Wardrobe Trunks $82.50

Genuine Cowhide Traveling Bags, sewn frame and sewn corners. 16 and 18 inch sizes. Were $15.00. Now..... $6.50



159 Sole Leather Brief Cases. Brown and Black. 14, 15 and 16 in. sizes. Values to $12. Now $4.95



Genuine Cowhide Leather Traveling Bags. Walrus grain, leather lined, sewn frames, hand stitched corners. 18 and 20 inch sizes. Were $22.50. Now..... $11.25

Proportionate Reductions Throughout Our Entire Stocks of Trunks, Bags, Suit Cases, Leather Goods, and Travellers' Accessories.

IMPORTANT—This 30% to 50% Reduction Sale of Indestructo Trunks, Bags, and Suit-cases is being made exclusively through our two New York Stores.

NOTE ADDRESSES CAREFULLY

INDESTRUCTO

LUGGAGE SHOPS

330 FIFTH AVENUE

between 32d and 33d Streets

1347 BROADWAY

at 36th Street

[During Sale, Broadway Store Open Until 11 P. M.]

Men's and Young Men's OVERCOATS

829 MARKED DOWN to the One Price of

$64.75

The Finest Imported and Domestic Great Ulsters—Travelling Ulsters—Town Ulsters—Ulsterettes—Silk Lined Chesterfields

104 - - Formerly Sold For - - $95
197 - - Formerly Sold For - - $100
93 - - Formerly Sold For - - $110
117 - - Formerly Sold For - - $115
163 - - Formerly Sold For - - $125
97 - - Formerly Sold For - - $135
58 - - Formerly Sold For - - $145

Sizes 34 to 46

350
Young Men's Overcoats

One and Two of a Kind Sizes 34 to 40 $23.75 Formerly $39.75 to $46.50

No C. O. D.'s, Returns or Exchanges

James McCreery & Co.

5th Avenue and 35th Street

Men's Clothes Shop—Second Floor

ADVERTISEMENT.

Danderine is "Beauty-Tonic"

Immediately after a "Danderine" massage, your hair seems to take on new life, lustre and beauty, appearing heavier and more plentiful, because each hair seems to fluff and thicken. Don't let your hair stay lifeless, colorless, plain or scraggly without effort. You, too, want lots of healthy hair, glistening with beauty. A 35-cent bottle of delightful "Danderine" freshens your scalp, checks dandruff and helps to prevent falling hair. This stimulating "beauty-tonic" assists in giving to thin, dull, fading hair that youthful brightness and abundant thickness. All Drug Counters sell "Danderine."

INCOME TAX PREPARATION

Complete, intensive, practical course of 15 sessions covering Federal and State taxes on income of individuals and corporations, on Tuesdays and Thursdays, at 8:15 P. M., beginning January 18th, conducted by:—

MAX ROLNIK, C. P. A.; Manager.
Tax Department, Leslie, Banks & Co., Chartered Accountants.

The course will include the following special lectures:

Feb. 24—MARK EISNER, LL. B.; former Collector of Internal Revenue, 3rd District, New York.

Mar. 1—E. E. ROSSMOORE, C.P.A.; former Chief of Consolidated Returns Section, Bureau of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C.

Mar. 3 and 8—I. SACK, LL. B.; former Assistant Director and Chief of Audit Division, New York State Income Tax Bureau.

Descriptive circular will be sent on request.

WALTON SCHOOL OF COMMERCE
Eighth Floor, 25 West 43rd Street
Telephone: Murray Hill 3631-2

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.

ANNUAL MEETING
of
THE CHURCH MISSION OF HELP
in Guild Hall, St. Thomas Church, Monday, January 17th, at 3:30 o'clock. Address by Rev. Charles N. Lathrop, Executive Secretary of Dept. of Christian Social Service, and the Rev. William T. Manning.

The Antique Furniture Exchange

6 East 33d Street, near 5th Avenue

Solid Mahogany Hand-carved Chippendale Chair $29.50

Arm chair to match, $38.50

WISH TO ANNOUNCE A SPECIAL REDUCTION SALE OF

Antiques and Artistic Reproductions

COMPLETE SUITES for all rooms
ODD PIECES of every description

Everything in our enormous stock Reduced Twenty to Fifty per cent.

Exceptional Opportunity for Bargains

Third National MARINE Exposition
GRAND CENTRAL PALACE
JANUARY 24 to 29, 1921

America's Achievements on the Sea—Marine Engineering, Ship Building Exhibits—Up To Date Inventions, Motion Pictures. Promenade Concerts by N. Y. C. Marine Band.

Open from 2 to 10.30 p.m. Admission 50cts

THE ONLY COMPLETE HISTORY OF THE WAR.

There are other histories of the great war—good ones. There is only one complete history of the war yet issued, a history that gives the full text of treaties, important orders, records and reports. The New York Times War Volumes do this. 3 bindings, 12,000 pages, 20 volumes. Free booklet sent on application to New York Times War Volumes, 1 Times Square, New York.

For Sale—Art Objects

Two small paintings by Diaz, period 1815, size 10x14 and 11x15, price $750 each. Also fine examples of American school, Carleton Wiggins, Walter N. Clark, Bogert, De Haven, Henry P. Smith, Bigue Crane and others from the art collection of Commodore J. Stuart Blackton, to be held on account of moving residence to London. Also Kermanshah rug, 10.10x18.7, value $2,250; Hamadan rug, 11.11x15.10, value $1,850, and others can be secured at half price. Seen by appointment only. Private buyers, no dealers. Almon C. Whiting. Phone Prospect 6385.

Fifty Nations' Affairs Told Truthfully

The affairs of 50 nations are truthfully told, without bias, in January CURRENT HISTORY MAGAZINE; the facts, no comment; outstanding events in the preceding 30 days; indispensable to the well informed; 192 pages, profusely illustrated. On news stands. Try a copy.

WINTER'S TALE FOR CHILDREN'S THEATRE

The Berkeley Version to Be Produced Here Under Kindergarten Auspices.

TO HELP THE CAUSE HERE

Thirty Kindergarten Schools in the Poorest Neighborhoods to Benefit From a Novel Presentation.

What promises to be a novel presentation will be made early in February at the Little Theatre, when Shakespeare's "The Winter's Tale" will be given as the third Children's Theatre production to be offered under the auspices of the New York Kindergarten Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Armfield's version of "The Winter's Tale," as given at the Berkeley Little Theatre in 1919 under the auspices of the Berkeley Theatre of Allied Arts, and as it will be presented here next February, is treated somewhat after the fashion of Greek drama. There is a flight of steps descending in the centre from an elevated platform down to the main stage, and a great deal of the action takes place on these steps. The play is largely arranged to suit these physical effects. The text is not changed, however, only cut. Early English and Italian music, including Scarlatti's "Ballet of Innocence," will be given. With few exceptions the cast will be selected from the Theatre Guild and the Washington Square Players. Miss Dorothy Johnston, however, is cast for Hermione, as in the recent performances.

The production is not specifically for children, as grownups are expected to form part of the audience, but it is especially planned in the interests of young people, who, according to the association members, demand grownup plots nowadays.

The idea of establishing a children's theatre here was born of the attempt of a small group of Kindergarten Association managers, who were also mothers, to find suitable theatrical entertainment for their youngsters one Christmas Day. It took root, and has already borne fruit in the form of last year's performances of "Alice in Wonderland," given by the association, in cooperation with Rachel Barton Butler, and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Browne's production presentation of "Midsummer Night's Dream."

It is hoped to organize a body of parents and educators to found a theatre on a permanent basis, a theatre which will give suitable performances for young people continuously or at very frequent intervals. The place occupied by the spoken drama cannot be filled by any substitute, and the hope for the preservation of the beauty and nobility of the language lies in great measure with the stage, in the opinion of some of the group who are fostering the movement. They further point out that the taste of the child is formed very young.

In a letter written by Gordon Craig from Italy to one of the Board of Managers of the association, he said: "I should not be disinclined to give six weeks or two months each year to creating and directing a marionette theatre for children in America, whereas to produce Shakespeare for grownups and impressionable persons I think I would not care to devote even six hours of my time." Which serves to indicate Gordon Craig's keen interest in the child audience.

"It is a case of forming their standards," said a member of the association recently. "Adults don't count—their minds are formed. But if we are going to do anything for the tastes of the children of the next generation, if we are not going to lose our interest in the preservation of the English language, we must give these children a higher standard. They must be interested in the language per se."

As set forth in a recent letter of A. M. Sidney, Secretary pro tem. of the New York Kindergarten Association, it supports twenty-six kindergartens in the poor neighborhoods of the city, having been established as far back as 1889 by a group of people interested in getting the young children off the streets. It confines its work to actual maintenance of these kindergartens in the most crowded and poverty-stricken neighborhoods of the city. It receives no support from the School Board of New York, although its kindergartens, says Mr. Chase, are supplemental to those maintained by the public schools.

Fifty children are taught in each kindergarten, under two teachers, women who have been well trained and who are graduates of first-rate training schools. The funds of the association, which will be benefited by the results of the Children's Theatre production, are expended on teachers' salaries and purchase of supplies and equipment. The association emphasizes the fact that every dollar turned in to the association goes toward the actual support of kindergartens.

George McAneny is the President of the New York Kindergarten Association; Mrs. Kate Douglas Riggs, Honorary Vice President; Mrs. J. N. Phelps Stokes, First Vice President; Lea McIlvaine Luquer, Second Vice President; Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Third Vice President; Samuel Sloan, Treasurer. A special committee formed from the officers and managers of the association includes Mrs. Michael M. Van Beuren, Mrs. William H. Moore, Mrs. George McAneny, Mrs. William C. Dickerman, Mrs. I. N. Phelps Stokes, Mrs. Theodore Stanfield, Miss Marie Louise Harrison, Mrs. J. Clifton Edgar; also, not of the association, Mrs. Willard Straight, Charles P. Howland and William K. Brice.

WOMEN VOTERS TO CONFER.

State League Arranges Two-Day Meeting in Albany.

Women's organizations throughout the State have been asked to send representatives to take part in a conference to be held in connection with the annual convention of the New York State League of Women Voters, which will be held at the Hotel Ten Eyck in Albany on Jan. 27 and 28. The conference will discuss matters of interest to women voters, including a proposed legislative program and the revival of the so-called welfare bills which failed to pass the last Legislature. Among the organizations which have signified an intention of sending representatives are the Women's Chirstian Temperance Union, the Young Women's Christian Association and the Consumer's League.

Governor Nathan L. Miller and Herbert Hoover will be the principal speakers at the dinner on the evening of Jan. 27. Mrs. Miller will open the discussion on child welfare at the afternoon session on the same day. Other speakers on this topic will include Miss Julia Lathrop, Chief of the Federal Children's Bureau, Dr. Henry L. K. Shaw, Chairman of the National Child Welfare Association, and Dr. Josephine Baker of the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the New York City Department of Health.

Speakers on the following day will include Mrs. Maud Schwartz of the New York Women's Church Union League on "Women in Industry," Dr. Helen W. Brown on "Social Hygiene" and Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw on "Food Supply." Miss Mary Garrett Hay, Chairman of the New York City League of Women Voters; Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany, Chairman of the Manhattan Borough League, and Mrs. F. Louis Slade, Regional Director, also will speak. Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, Chairman of the New York State League of Women Voters, will preside.

33 1-3%
OFF LIST PRICE
Of High Grade Automobiles

Manufacturer has guaranteed the present list prices until July 1 next.

Fully guaranteed by one of the soundest, oldest and best manufacturers in the industry.

There is direct factory representation in New York.

There is a thoroughly equipped Parts and Service Station centrally located in New York.

LATEST MODELS

Brand new — Fully guaranteed

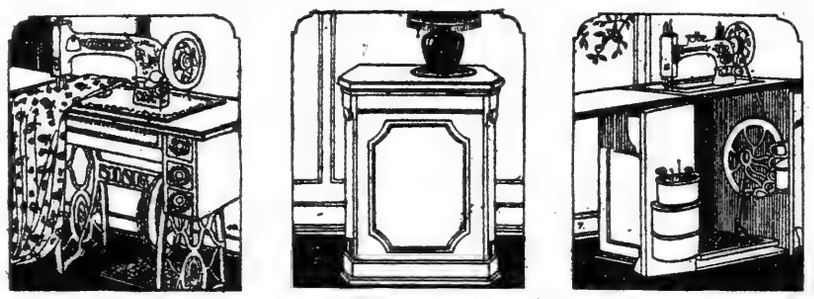
7-passenger Sedans — 7-passenger Touring
4-passenger Sedanets — 4-passenger Open

34x4 1-2 (oversize for 33x4) Non-skid Tires and Tubes
50% off List Price
New—Firsts. Manufactured by oldest tire manufacturer in America.

L. C. McELROY
3 East 38th Street. Tel. 4359 Vanderbilt.

BLOOMINGDALES
59TH TO 60TH—THIRD TO LEXINGTON—ONE BLOCK FROM PARK AVENUE



January Clearance Sale of
SEWING MACHINES
At Greatly Reduced Prices

All makes and styles of the best for you to choose from. These machines are floor samples, used for demonstration during the Holidays. They are all very light running and in perfect working order. Lessons will be given free of charge within reasonable travelling distance.

Terms as Low as $1.00 per Week

New Home $25
Box Top, American Walnut.

Faultless $35
Drop Head, dark oak finish.

Minnesota $35
Drop Head, oak finish.

Challenge $35
Drop Head, oak finish.

Domestic $18
Drop Head.

Singer $65
Drop Head, 7 drawer model, golden oak.

New Home $55
Drop Head, Birds Eye Maple, 7 drawer model.

New Home Cabinet $75
Golden oak stand.

Ideal $12
Box Top.

New Home $45
Drop Head, sycamore woodwork.

Ruby Cabinet $55
Golden oak stand.

Ruby $40
Drop Head, sycamore woodwork.

Portable Electric $50
New Home Model.

New Home $12
Box Top.

Hand Machines $15.00 to $39.50
A complete line of cabinet sewing machines in fancy woods also in this great January Clearance Sale.
Needles, Belts and Oils for all makes of Sewing Machines.

Bloomingdales—Main Floor

Infection
might have been prevented if Absorbine, Jr., had been applied when this "little accident" happened.

It cools and soothes, takes out the pain and congestion and helps the injured tissues to heal. And being a positive germicide it makes any infection quite impossible.

Invaluable also for all bruises, sprains, cuts, boils, insect bites and strains.

$1.25 a bottle at most druggists.

W. F. YOUNG, Inc., Springfield, Mass.

Absorbine, Jr.
THE ANTISEPTIC LINIMENT

Personnel Engineer

wanted in an industrial co-ordination company of national scope and reputation. Must be a man of wide business experience and broad outlook. He will have opportunity to become an official of the company.

Give full details of past experience and salary desired.

Address Personnel,
P. O. Box 853, City Hall Station, New York City.

Constantinople is in Christian Hands

After 700 years Constantinople is in Christian hands. The full text of the treaty accomplishing this is published, first time in America, in January CURRENT HISTORY MAGAZINE; 40 other features; 192 pages, profusely illustrated.
TRY A COPY.
ON NEWS STANDS.

Cowperthwait & Sons
3rd Ave. & 121st St.

The Easiest Way to Furnish Your Home

Why continue longing for a cosier home? Don't put off getting those beautiful home-furnishings that bring the "finishing-touches" to an attractive home.

All you have to do is to come to our big store and make your selection. Your charge account is waiting for you—small weekly or monthly payments.

These few coins that look so small in the palm of your hand will make your dreams come true.

With our Liberal Credit Plan your "Small Change" will make a Big Change in your home. It does away with the heartache of doing without the comforts you have wanted until you have saved enough to buy them.

Store Open
Saturday and Monday Evenings

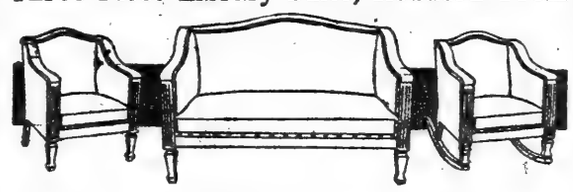
Cowperthwait & Sons

8-Piece Golden Oak Dining Room Suite
Reduced from $340 to $272!

Buffet is strongly built and at the back is a triple-plate mirror. China Closet is large and beautifully designed with fresco work. Table extends to six feet. Four straight Chairs and one Arm Chair complete this eight-piece Golden Oak Suite. Former price, $340; now only

$272.00
Payable $14 Monthly

Three-Piece Library Suite, Reduced From $132.50 to $92.50!



Regular price $132.50. Special price for limited time, $92.50. Divan, Rocker and Arm Chair, with heavy mahogany finished frames. Durably upholstered in Genuine Leather. Special,

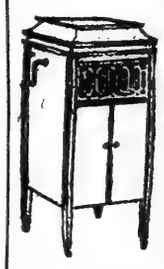
$92.50
(Payable $1.25 Weekly)

Our House-furnishing Dept. Is Always Full of Bargains

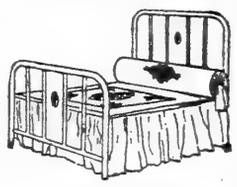
Special Dinner Sets
Remarkable values at our special prices—
100-piece sets (2 patterns) . $15.95
50-piece sets $8.00
(Many others to select from.)

Large Rug Dept.
Rugs, Carpets, Linoleum, Congoleum, and Matting—for every room of the house. Portiers and Curtains, and Hangings for every window and doorway. Low prices—large selection!

No Deposit
Pay Only $1.50 Weekly
"Reliable" Phonograph



Handsome $100 model "Reliable" Phonograph in mahogany, now will be put into your home for easy payments of only $1.50 a week; 44 inches high, 19 inches wide, 20 inches deep. Note beautiful design. Rich, deep tone. Plays all makes of records. Plush turntable. Made exclusively for our own customers. Equal in appearance and performance to machines selling for one-third more.



Ivory Bed
Beautiful Ivory Bed, 1 1-16 inch fillers. Note handsome panel effect. Full size. Special,

$24.75

20% OFF Blankets, Sheets and Pillow Cases

Cowperthwait's Liberal Credit Terms

25c	weekly on	$15 worth
75c	weekly on	$50 worth
$1.50	weekly on	$100 worth
$2.50	weekly on	$200 worth
$12.50	weekly on	$1,000 worth

Other Amounts in Proportion
Pay by the month if you wish.
No Extra Charges of Any Kind.
10% Off for Cash

Cowperthwait & Sons
"Oldest Furniture House in America"
3rd Ave. and 121st St.

OUR EASY-PAYMENT PLAN APPLIES EVERYWHERE WITHIN 150 MILES OF NEW YORK

S. BAUMANN & Co
NEW YORK CITY
Cor. 46TH ST. & 8TH AVE.

WE FURNISH APARTMENTS & HOMES ON WEEKLY OR MONTHLY PAYMENTS

Secretary in Golden or Fumed Oak as illustrated at $33.98

QUEEN ANNE PERIOD AMERICAN WALNUT DINING ROOM SUITE—Four Pieces, consisting of Buffet, Serving Table, Dining Table, 48 inches, 6-foot extension; China Closet, as illustrated, at $412.50

Fireside Rocker, upholstered in genuine leather, as illustrated, at. $72.50

January Columbia and Cortina Foreign Language Records on Sale.

QUEEN ANNE BEDROOM SUITE, in American Walnut. Consisting of DRESSER, CHIFFOROBE, TOILET TABLE and BED; four pieces as shown here, at $247.50

Sewing Machines, as illustrated, at. $57.50

ENGLANDER

Makes full size bed when open.

ENGLANDER DOUBLE DA-BED Complete with mattress and spring $39.75

THREE-PIECE LIVING ROOM SUITE, with WING CHAIR, upholstered in tapestry; indestructible springs in seats; three pieces, as illustrated. $253.50

Columbia Grafonolas from $82.50 up on our Easy Payment Plan.

SEWING MACHINES ON CREDIT UP TO $110.

MOTOR TRUCK DELIVERIES

Open Monday and Saturday Evenings

46TH STR. 750-752 EIGHTH AVE 8TH AVE NEW YORK

ALL GOODS MARKED IN PLAIN FIGURES

Copper Securities
AND
Conditions which underlie the copper industry.

Carefully reviewed in a special circular, also containing brief analysis of leading copper stocks.

Sent free upon request.

E. W. Wagner & Co.
Established 1887
Members { New York Stock Exchange / New York Cotton Exchange / Chicago Board of Trade
33 NEW STREET, NEW YORK
208 SO. LA SALLE STREET, CHICAGO
Branches { 14 East 44th St. / Mad. Av. & 42d St. / 26 Court St., Brooklyn

COCHRANE HARPER & CO.
111 Broadway NEW YORK — 60 State St. BOSTON

Invincible Oil Corporation
Latest circular on request.

WEEKLY LETTER
Giving current news and developments of INDEPENDENT & STANDARD OILS
Furnished upon request.

Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.
First Mortgage
20 Year 7% Bonds
Due February 1, 1941
Price at Market
To Yield About 7.20%
Circular on Request

COGGESHALL AND HICKS
Members New York Stock Exchange
128 BROADWAY
203 WEST 79TH STREET
NEW YORK

Our Market Letter
this week deals with the causes and meaning of periods of hesitancy in bull markets. A copy will be sent you on request.

McClave & Co.
Members { New York Stock Exchange / New York Cotton Exchange
67 Exchange Place, New York
Telephone 9810 Rector
UPTOWN OFFICE
Hotel Ansonia, 73d St. & B'way
Telephone 1615 Columbus

American Sugar Refining
An analysis of this company will be mailed to you upon request.
We also solicit inquiries regarding the general financial situation, and individual securities.

W. E. HUTTON & CO.
Established 1886
MEMBERS
New York Stock Exchange
New York Cotton Exchange
Chicago Board of Trade
Cincinnati Stock Exchange
60 Broadway, New York
Telephone Bowling Green 4140
FIRST NATIONAL BANK BLDG., CINCINNATI

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Irregular, With Gains Predominating—Deficit in Weekly Bank Statement.

Yesterday's week-end bank statements, which had been awaited with much interest because of the conflicting forces at work in last week's money markets, explained the recent reluctance of the New York banks to encourage rapid reduction of lending rates. The Associated Banks reported a deficit in reserves, the first since Nov. 27. The New York Federal Bank's reserve ratio, although it rose to the best figure since November, nevertheless remained some 3 per cent. below last September.

A deficit in New York bank reserves in January cannot be termed unprecedented. Such a deficit was reported on Jan. 10 last year, though it was followed the next week by a $34,000,000 surplus. But the position of the credit market a year ago was wholly abnormal. In previous years, both during and before the war, a continuous and rapid increase of the surplus during January was the almost invariable rule; it was so even in such tight-money years as 1907 and 1906. The explanation for Saturday's deficit was not expanding credit, for the private banks decreased their loans last week no less than $87,600,000. Their deficiency in reserves was caused by $17,300,000 reduction in reserve credits at the Federal Bank.

That reduction helped the Reserve Bank to improve its own position. The week's increase of its reserve ratio from 39 per cent. to 40% was accompanied not only by the reduction in reserve credits carried for private banks, but by $66,700,000 decrease in rediscounts and by retirement of $39,400,000 notes. This double process brings the New York Bank's rediscounts $181,000,000 below Nov. 5, the maximum of the year, and its note circulation $86,000,000 below the year's high level, reached on the same date. This leaves rediscounts at the lowest figure since July and circulation at the lowest since last February. Rediscounts secured by United States obligations had in fact been reduced by the end of last week to the lowest since Aug. 23, 1918, shows what has been achieved in the program of eliminating stationary credits, the admitted cornerstone of the after-war inflation. Nevertheless, both total rediscounts and total outstanding notes of the New York Reserve Bank are still substantially above what they were, even a year ago. Reduction of the Reserve system's discount rates is hardly probable until the process has gone further.

Yesterday's movement of prices on the Stock Exchange was again more or less irregular and net changes for the day included declines as well as advances. But the prevalent tendency was upward; at the close, there were numerous gains of a point or more. Despite numerous mid-week reactions, the past week's recovery in active stocks has generally ranged from 1 to 4 points, while in bonds the comparison again presents a long list of advances running in many issues as high as 2 to 6 per cent.

The foreign exchange market also shows many noteworthy recoveries for the week, with sterling in the lead. The rise in exchange on London of 10 cents during the past week and of 25 since December contrasts notably with the 25-cent decline of last January and taken along with the similarly altered movement of the other exchanges, is pretty good evidence of the money market's underlying condition.

MONEY.

SATURDAY, JAN. 15, 1921.

Call money on the Stock Exchange last week was 7 per cent. high, 6 low, until Wednesday afternoon when an outside, off the Exchange, market was created where some demand loans were made as low as 4 per cent. On Thursday, renewals were made at 6 per cent., the lowest since last November, and in the outside market 4½ per cent. ruled.

In the time money market both classes ranged 7@7½ per cent. in the early week, followed by a successive drop thereafter of one-half of 1 per cent. until at the close 6@6½ per cent. prevailed for fixed period money. These latter rates were the lowest reached since November, 1919. Coincident with the drop in call and time funds was the lowering of the rate for prime bankers' acceptances to the basis of 5⅛@5¾ per cent. for ninety-day bills. This is a full one-half of 1 per cent. from the rate quoted at the end of the previous week. Commercial paper brokers, however, report no change.

Call Loans.

	High	Low	Rul'g		High	Low	Rul'g
1921	7	6	6	1915	2½	1½	2¼
1920	18	6	12	1914	3	1¾	2¼
1919	5½	4	4½	1913	3	2½	2¾
1918	6	4	5¾	1912	2¾	2	2¼
1917	2½	1½	2	1911	4	2¼	3¼
1916	2	1¾	1¾	1910	6	3	5

Time Loans

Mixed collateral, 60 to 90 days......6 @6½
4, 5 and 6 months......6 @6½
All industrial collateral, 60-90 days..6 @6½
4, 5 and 6 months......6 @6½

Commercial Paper.

Best names, 3 to 6 months......7¾@8
Other names, 3 to 6 months......8 @8¼

Discount Rates, Federal Reserve Bank.

Commercial paper, 15 days, 7; 16 to 90 days......7
Liberty bonds and Victory notes, 15 days, 6; 16 to 90 days......6
Bankers' acceptances, 15 to 90 days..6

Open Market Rates.

Prime eligible acceptances, on call...5½
Eligible for rediscount with Reserve Bank, 60 to 90 days......5⅝@5¾
Non-member and private bankers, eligible, 60 to 90 days......6¼@6
Not eligible, 60 to 90 days......6 @7½

London Market.

Money in the London market was down ½ per cent. at 5 per cent.; short bills unchanged at 6¼@6⅜ per cent. and three months' bills unchanged at 6 11-16 per cent.

Gold bullion on London market was unchanged at 109s 8d per fine ounce. Mint parity, 35s.

Clearing House Exchanges.

Exchange of checks at the New York Clearing House, $761,381,733; balances, $62,925,607; Federal Reserve Bank's credit balance, $45,582,221; exchanges this day a year ago, $936,981,979.

Total exchange of checks for the week, for New York City, as reported by the Clearing House, was $4,330,768,385, compared with $5,571,205,368 the preceding week.

Total exchange of checks for the week, for the country as a whole, as reported by The Financial Chronicle, were $7,916,562,333, as compared with $9,657,221,861 the preceding week. Following is the comparison with exchange for the corresponding week in previous years:

1921	$7,916,562,333	1917	$5,845,532,510
1920	9,836,272,863	1916	4,546,074,115
1919	7,635,106,936	1915	3,109,890,903
1918	6,188,778,737	1914	3,696,893,192

MARKET AVERAGES.

STOCKS.
YESTERDAY'S RANGE.

	High.	Low.	Last.	Net Ch'ge.
25 railroads	55.20	54.92	55.14	+ .27
25 industrials	86.71	85.80	86.48	+ .84
50 stocks	71.00	70.36	70.81	+ .56

DAILY RANGE OF 50 STOCKS.

	High.	Low.	Last.	Net Ch'ge.
Jan. 14	70.77	69.61	70.25	+ .04
Jan. 13	71.90	70.03	70.21	−1.22
Jan. 12	72.06	70.69	71.43	+ .03
Jan. 11	72.38	70.58	71.40	+ .33
Jan. 10	71.51	68.85	71.07	+1.19
Jan. 8	70.59	69.62	69.88	− .53
Jan. 7	70.92	68.54	70.41	+1.26

MONTHLY RANGE OF 50 STOCKS.

Jan.	High.	Low.	Last.
*1921	72.38 Jan. 11	67.09 Jan. 5	70.81
1920	92.18 Jan. 5	82.53 Jan. 19	87.57
1919	74.99 Jan. 1	69.73 Jan. 21	71.15
1918	69.09 Jan. 31	64.12 Jan. 15	68.91
1917	90.46 Jan. 4	84.71 Jan. 31	88.21
1916	91.83 Jan. 3	84.47 Jan. 31	85.17

YEARLY RANGE OF 50 STOCKS.
Full Years.

	High.	Low.	Last.
1920	94.07 Apr. 8	62.72 Dec. 22	67.96
1919	99.59 Nov. 5	69.74 Jan. 21	89.60
1918	80.16 Nov. 12	64.12 Jan. 15	73.39
1917	90.46 Jan. 4	57.47 Dec. 20	65.89
1916	101.51 Nov. 20	80.91 Apr. 22	88.22

BONDS.
YESTERDAY'S CLOSE.

		Net Change Day.	Month.	Year.
40 issues	70.71	+ .07	+2.64	−1.19

DAILY RANGE OF 40 BONDS.

Jan. 14	70.64	+.06	Jan. 5	69.38	+.07
Jan. 13	70.58	+.18	Jan. 4	69.31	+.51
Jan. 12	70.40	+.08	Jan. 3	68.80	+.14
Jan. 11	70.32	+.42	Jan. 1	Holiday.
Jan. 10	69.90	+.06	Dec. 31	68.66	+.84
Jan. 8	69.84	+.19	Dec. 30	67.82	+.44
Jan. 7	69.65	+.10	Dec. 29	67.38	+.32
Jan. 6	69.55	+.17	Dec. 28	67.06	−.15

YEARLY RANGE OF 40 BONDS.

	High.	Low.	Last.
*1921	70.64 Jan. 14	68.90 Jan. 3	70.71
†1920	72.51 Jan. 10	71.90 Jan. 17	71.90
Full Years.
1920	73.14 Oct. 21	65.57 May 21	68.66
1919	79.05 June 2	71.05 Dec. 18	72.00
1918	82.36 Nov. 12	75.65 Sep. 27	78.78
1917	89.48 Jan. 20	74.24 Dec. 20	76.80

*To date. †To corresponding date last year.

Maturing British Loans.

On the basis of present exchange rates, it is calculated in London that the maturities of British Government foreign obligations during 1921 will be as follows:

Where Payable	Amt. in foreign currency	Amt. in sterling
United States	$206,986,000	£59,668,000
Canada	$100,000,000	24,155,000
Japan	50,000,000 yen	6,875,000
Sweden	12,500,000 krone	704,000
Total		£91,402,000
Equivalent in sterling at mint par.		70,719,000
Difference due to depreciation of sterling		£20,683,000

The calculation for the United States assumes that the option to repay the $28,590,000 twelve months' Japanese Government Treasury bills in the United States will be exercised.

Supply and Demand for Labor.

The fact that conditions in Chicago are apt to be sympathetic of the country's entire labor market gives interest to the results of an inquiry made at the end of November by the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank and reported in its year-end bulletin. The averages drawn from the replies to its questionnaire show that the labor market is supplied in excess of the demand. A decline of 10.3 per cent. from October this year shows the industrial effects of readjustment and falling prices. Compared with a year ago, the decline in number employed is 23.6 per cent. About three-fourths of plant capacity is operating, against 80.7 per cent. in October and 82.2 per cent. in November, 1919.

RAILROADS HARD UP FOR READY MONEY

Exhaustion of $300,000,000 Revolving Fund Results in Embarrassment.

The report of the Interstate Commerce Commission that the $300,000,000 revolving fund provided in the Transportation act for use during the transition period between Federal and private control is nearly exhausted has resulted in a good deal of speculation in railroad circles as to what steps will be taken to provide immediate financial relief for many of the carriers which are in need of money.

Through the ruling of the Controller of the Treasury, which automatically blocked the advance payment of funds on account of final settlements of standard return due the roads for the extended guarantee period, many railroad corporations now find themselves severely cramped for cash.

Many of them, on the assumption that payments would be made as they were made during the period of Federal control, saw a good opportunity to use some surplus cash in paying off the back pay which resulted from the last wage award by the Railroad Labor Board. When the Controller of the Treasury announced that payments on extended guarantee account could only be made when final agreements between the roads and the Government regarding settlement were reached, these carriers found themselves in unenviable position.

Bills have been introduced to amend that section of the Transportation act which has proved the stumbling block for advance payments, but no immediate relief for the roads is expected from this source, as the matter must be considered and passed upon by both houses and may meet with opposition and delay. Because of this it is the opinion in some quarters that the action which has been started in Washington by the railroads showing just what their position is may be a prelude to emergency legislation which will result in the production of the money which the roads must have.

It has even been suggested that a continuation of the revolving fund may be asked, but this is not meeting with particular approval. Conservatives are inclined to feel that with the termination of the extended guarantee period, Aug. 31, 1920, Government operation of the roads ceased and that legislation which will be a plea for further Governmental assistance will not be popular.

On the other hand there are those who champion the cause of the amendment of the Transportation act to make lawful the advance payments on the extended guarantee. These moneys are due the roads, they say, and it is only a technicality in the law that now stands in the way of such payment.

Changes in Silver Exports.

Up to the close of October in 1919 we had shipped $109,180,718 worth of silver to British India; in the same period of 1920 we exported to that destination only $223,211. On the other hand, our shipments of the period to Hongkong increased from $5,797,400 to $20,445,619 and to the rest of China from $39,351,245 to $59,241,013.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Irregular Movement of Rates, With General Tendency Upward—Canadian Still Higher.

With some irregularity, the general trend of exchange on European markets yesterday was upward. Sterling advanced ⅛ and closed ⅛ above Friday; the rate on Paris advanced 2 points and reacted 1; on Rome it declined 2 points and recovered 1. Berlin and Madrid recovered; Scandinavian exchange was a small fraction lower.

Canadian exchange rose sharply to 87.8 cents per Canadian dollar as against 87.3 Friday, 86.2 at the close of the preceding week and 83.9, the low level of December. Argentine rates recovered from 34½ to 34¾.

SATURDAY, JAN 15, 1921.

Range of Rates, Sight Exchange.

	High.	Low.	Final.	Friday's Final.
LONDON	3.73	3.72¼	3.72¾	3.72¾
PARIS	6.09½	6.07	6.09½	6.07¾
ROME	3.44	3.43	3.44	3.45
AMSTERDAM	32.95	32.80	32.85	32.85
BERLIN	1.51	1.49½	1.50½	1.47¾
MADRID	13.23	13.16	13.23	13.21

CLOSING RATES.

Parity of exchange is given as reported by the United States Mint, except in countries with a silver standard, where parity fluctuates with the price of silver.

Europe.

	Saturday.	Week Ago.	Year Ago.
STERLING—Par $4.86⅝ per sovereign.
Demand	3.72¾	3.63¾	3.68¾
Cables	3.73¾	3.64¼	3.69¾
Com., 60 days	3.67¾	3.58¾	3.64¾
Com., 90 days	3.65½	3.56¾	3.62½
FRANCE—Par 19.3 cents per franc.
Demand	6.08¾	5.94½	8.61
Cables	6.09	5.95¼	8.63
ITALY—Par 19.3 cents per lira.
Demand	3.44	3.47	7.33
Cables	3.45	3.48	7.34
BELGIUM—Par 19.3 cents per franc.
Demand	6.39	6.26	8.65
Cables	6.40	6.27	8.66
GERMANY—Par 23.8 cents per mark.
Demand	1.50½	1.39½	1.81
Cables	1.51	1.40	1.82
AUSTRIA—Par 20.3 cents per crown.
Demand	.20	.23½	.65
Cables	.21	.24	.66
CZECHOSLOVAKIA—Par 20.3 cents per crown.
Demand	1.21	1.15	1.65
Cables	1.21½	1.17	1.70
DENMARK—Par 26.8 cents per krone.
Demand	17.55	16.55	17.45
Cables	17.60	16.60	17.55
FINLAND—Par 19.3 cents per finmark.
Demand	2.80	2.80	3.80
Cables	2.85	2.85	3.90
GREECE—Par 19.3 cents per drachma.
Demand	7.30	7.42	14.80
Cables	7.35	7.47	14.88
HOLLAND—Par 40.2 cents per florin.
Demand	32.85	31.95	37.375
Cables	32.90	32.00	37.50
HUNGARY—Par 20.3 cents per crown.
Demand	.19	.17	....
Cables	.20	.18	....
JUGOSLAVIA—Par 20.3 cents per crown.
Demand	.69	.68	1.00
Cables	.70	.69	1.05
NORWAY—Par 26.8 cents per krone.
Demand	17.25	16.40	19.25
Cables	17.30	16.45	19.35
POLAND—Par 23.8 cents per mark.
Demand	.16	.17	.80
Cables	.17	.18	.81
RUMANIA—Par 19.3 cents per leu.
Demand	1.34	1.32½	2.20
Cables	1.35	1.33	2.25
SERBIA—Belgrade: Par 19.3 cents per franc.
Demand	2.73	2.75	4.70
Cables	2.74	2.80	4.75
SPAIN—Par 19.3 cents per peseta.
Demand	13.22	13.30	19.10
Cables	13.25	13.32	19.20
SWEDEN—Par 26.8 cents per krona.
Demand	21.90	20.95	20.60
Cables	21.95	21.00	20.70
SWITZERLAND—Par 19.3 cents per franc.
Demand	15.97	15.40	17.85
Cables	15.98	15.45	17.95
Far East.
CHINA—Cents per silver dollar for Hongkong; per tael for Shanghai and Peking.
Hongkong, demand	57.00	57.25	96.00
Hongkong, cables	57.10	57.25	97.00
Peking, demand	83.50	81.50	172.00
Shanghai, demand	77.00	75.00	160.00
Shanghai, cables	77.50	75.50	160.00
INDIA—Calcutta, cents per rupee, stabilized at one-tenth of a pound sterling.
Demand	29.00	27.75	43.75
Cables	29.25	28.00	44.00
PHILIPPINE ISLANDS—Manila; par 50 cents per silver peso.
Demand	46.00	46.00	49.00
Cables	46.25	46.25	49.25
JAVA—Par 40.2 cents per florin.
Demand	34.50	33.50	..
JAPAN—Par 49.8 cents per yen.
Demand	48.25	48.25	49.875
Cables	48.375	48.50	50.125
South America.
ARGENTINA—Par 42.44c per Arg. paper dol.
Demand	34.75	34.375	43.125
Cables	34.875	34.50	43.25
BRAZIL—Par 32.45 cents per paper milreis.
Demand	15.875	14.875	27.50
Cables	16.00	15.00	27.625
Canada.
MONTREAL—Par 100c per Canadian dollar.
Demand	87.8	86.2	92.8

Russian Currency.

Prices for pre-revolution Russian ruble notes were as follows: Par, 51.40 cents per ruble.

	Bid.	Asked.
100 ruble notes, per ruble	.45	.55
500 ruble notes, per ruble	.40	.45

THE REASSURING FACTS.

A Western Reserve Bank's View of the Economic Outlook.

Our resources, writes the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland in its year-end Business Review, "are greater than they have ever been before; we have ample capital for all legitimate enterprises; energy, skill, and brains in abundance. The markets of the world are open to us as never before; we are capable of commercial expansion to a degree not now dreamed of; the needs of a rapidly increasing population must be supplied; our possibilities, in fact, have never seemed greater. Back of all this we have a Gibraltar in our tried and tested banking system, the policies of which, while often unjustly condemned, are now bearing their fruit in a relative freedom from financial troubles when compared with those of other nations.

"The application to our business situation of the ancient Chinese proverb that things are never as good nor as bad as they seem' is most appropriate at this time. Most of the things we expect never happen. While at no time is business entirely free from difficulties in greater or less degree, yet there is never a situation so gloomy that hopeful signs may not be discerned.

"Only last Spring there was considerable apprehension of a shortage of food crops, but it did not materialize. On the contrary, we have produced one of the greatest agricultural yields in our history. During the Summer and early Fall months the voice of the calamity howler was heard predicting all sorts of business disaster, but these prophecies have not been borne out by the facts.

"We are still sailing the sea of readjustment, but the business ship has successfully weathered the storm thus far. The fact remains, however, that we are still on the sea and cannot leave the ship until we reach port. We believe that land is in sight, and that within a reasonable time we shall safely reach refuge in the harbor of stabilized business."

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Divergent Views.

There seems to be no uniformity of opinion in the word which commission houses are sending out at the present time. As against those letters which set forth opportunities on the long side of the market there are others which urge caution and altogether the display is confusing. Some advocate selling the industrials and buying rails, believing that the difficulties which beset the carriers at present are of only momentary weight. Once more the time has arrived when a halting market makes for variety in predictions. There seems to be general agreement, however, that the market is dominated by the professionals. One of the interesting questions in Wall Street relates to the return of public interest. Most of the buying, it is asserted, has been of the investment rather than the speculative variety, and this while it depletes floating supply hardly gives impetus to a sharp forward advance. There is a dominant belief that the public was rather badly scared by the display of not long ago and that many a day may pass before there is a restoration of confidence to the point of taking commitments on the long side with the eagerness that characterizes a bull market.

The New England Situation.

It has been rumored in the last few days that the Trunk Line and New England railroads are nearing an agreement regarding the division of through freight charges. But observers do not see in this a solution for the lifting of the New England roads out of an untenable situation. Should the New England roads get as much money from such rates as they have asked for, it is asserted that it would be insufficient to solve their problem and that still further revenues will be necessary. That the traffic will not bear any additional increase in freight rates is the consensus, but there are those who believe that the solution lies in the granting of a further advance in passenger rates. While the New England situation is not altogether promising, sentiment regarding it seems to be slowly improving.

The Wisconsin Case.

News that the State of Wisconsin had been the first to get to the Supreme Court with its intrastate-interstate railroad rate case was somewhat of a surprise, as it had been expected that the Illinois case would be the first to reach the final court. The Public Service Commission and the Attorney General of the State have filed an appeal from the decision of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Wisconsin under which the roads obtained an injunction restraining the State authorities from interfering with the Interstate Commerce Commission's order increasing State rates to the level of the interstate rates announced last August.

Real Contraction.

That the break in money rates was not something merely fleeting was demonstrated when yesterday's bank statements came out. At the Reserve Bank discounts of Government obligations for members were down to $393,522,220, the lowest they have been in several years; commercial paper rediscounts were off $26,253,000, to the lowest since Dec. 17, and bills bought in the open market were down $15,729,000, to the lowest since Nov. 26. Total earning assets at the Reserve Bank were the lowest in considerably more than a year and were, in fact, under $1,000,000,000 for the first time since Jan. 16, 1920, just a year ago, when they were $993,321,912.

Clearing House Loans.

In the statement of actual condition at the Clearing House loans were placed at $5,132,565,000, the lowest for any week since Sept. 11, last. As a matter of fact, only five times previously since the end of last June was the reported total less than yesterday's, and of those five times three were in a row last August, when business was slowing down here and money was going to the West. This display, in conjunction with the return of the Federal Reserve Bank, shows rather clearly why money was so much easier last week than in many preceding weeks.

Steel Prices.

The course of steel prices is being watched with a high degree of interest. In general it is safe to say that the levels of the independent manufacturers and that of the Steel Corporation coincide and it remains to be seen just what will be the next move. The independents are running at a decidedly low plane of operations and new business is not falling to their lot in sufficient quantity to assure that the present basis can be maintained. In this case it is possible that the independents may in certain instances try the method of shading prices below the Steel Corporation level in an endeavor to stimulate demand in their own particular case to the point of keeping organizations intact even though the percentage of profit is nil or small. So far as the steel men are concerned there is a belief that business will show decided signs of improvement by mid-year, in which case operations on the plan set forth might be of advantage. If the independents do cut prices it is a question whether the Steel Corporation will follow suit or whether an endeavor will be made to maintain current quotations. Judge Gary of the Steel Corporation has given no information recently as to what he thinks regarding steel prices.

The Railroad Repair Controversy.

While representatives of organized railroad labor have charged the managers of the carriers with waste in repair contracts which have been let out to shops outside of the railroad industry, as well as with collusion to break union labor in the United States, the Interstate Commerce Commission has announced that it will investigate the matter of repairs in outside shops. Railroad heads have characterized the attacks of the labor representatives as propaganda to discredit the remarkable transportation records the roads have made since they were returned to private operation and to becloud the issue of national agreements now before the United States Railroad Labor Board in Chicago. Commenting upon the attack, the current issue of The Railway Age says: "Its only efefct will be to inflame further the minds of the uninformed readers of the daily press who believe the misstatements regarding the Plumb plan and similar propaganda given out by the same organization."

Deficits.

Yesterday's deficit in the Clearing House statement of actual condition was, of course, the first for this year, but it was the tenth since the establishment of the Reserve system, the other nine having occurred last year. The dates of those deficits were: January 10, March 20, June 19, July 24 and 31, October 2 and 23, and November 6 and 27. The first three were a clear reflection of tax dates, but the others came from other causes. The largest deficit was $33,877,150, on Oct. 23.

E. H. Rollins & Sons
Established 1876
43 Exchange Place, New York
Boston Philadelphia Albany Buffalo Chicago San Francisco

Pacific Gas and Electric Co.
Earnings
(As officially reported twelve months ended November 30, 1920)

Gross earnings	$34,586,508
Net earnings	11,782,023
Interest charges	5,173,709
Surplus	$6,608,314

We recommend as an investment of exceptional merit the Twenty-Year 7% Bonds of this Company, one of the largest public utilities in the United States at 99 and interest, to yield about 7.10%
For complete details as to the properties, earnings, etc., of the company, send for Circular T-18

Combines Safety and High Return
Cities Service Company
Preferred Stock
Backed by large and growing equities. Dividend earned 4½ times over. 24,000 Holders of record indicates wide distribution, broad market and confidence of investors.
Returns, at present price, more than 9%
Price at market
Circular P-35 on request.
Henry L. Doherty & Company
Bond Department
60 Wall Street, New York

A First Mortgage BOND
Secured by property worth over three times amount of indebtedness—located in New York City. Earnings from this property are now at the rate of over eight times interest requirements.
Bonds are guaranteed by nationally known successful company.
Serial maturities one to ten years.
To Yield about 8.00%.
Write for Circular 830
Farson, Son & Co.
Members New York Stock Exchange
115 Broadway, New York

CANADIAN INVESTMENTS
AN authority estimates that Canadian exports for 1920 exceeded all previous records by $40,000,000.
These figures, coupled with the report that bank deposits in the Dominion are showing remarkable increases, should arouse enthusiasm among investors interested in Canadian Securities.
We have made a special study of Canadian Investments and will be pleased to make recommendations of issues which we think are attractive.
Inquiries are cordiall invited
BLODGETT HART & CO. INC
115 Broadway, New York
134 So. La Salle St. Chicago — 60 State St. Boston
974 Ellicott Sq. Buffalo — 246 Genesee St. Utica
Direct Private Wires

"The Market for 1921"
Featured in this issue of Securities Suggestions
Published Semi-monthly in the interests of large and small investors.
Free on request
Ask for T-1
R.C. MEGARGEL & Co.
27 Pine Street, New York

CONVENIENT BRANCH OFFICES IN MIDTOWN SECTION OF New York Stock Exchange Firms
STOCKS AND BONDS
BOUGHT FOR CASH OR ON CONSERVATIVE MARGIN
Crawford, Patton & Cannon
HOTEL ST. ANDREW, B'way at 72d
Main Office, 61 Broadway.
Wasserman Bros.
547 5TH AV., Cor. 45th
340 4TH AV., Bet. 18th and 19th Sts.
Main Office, 42 Broadway.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE TRANSACTIONS

SATURDAY, JAN. 15, 1921.

Day's Sales.	Friday.	Thursday.	A Year Ago.	Two Years Ago.
274,601	517,819	832,100	494,224	308,028

Year to Date.	Same Period 1920.	1919.	1918.
9,445,503	13,063,321	6,464,710	9,706,433

1920 High.	1920 Low.	Sales.	Stock and Dividend Rate.	First.	High.	Low.	Last.	Net Chge.	Closing Bid.	Closing Ask.
46	22	100	Adams Express	30¼	30¼	30¼	30¼	−2¼	30	33
88¾	24	400	Ajax Rubber (4)	34⅞	35	34⅞	35	+½	..	..
2⅜	⅝	100	Alaska Gold Mines	1	1	1	1	+ ..	⅞	1
62⅝	43¼	4,200	Allied Ch. & Dye	53	53½	52¾	53	−⅛	52⅞	53
92½	84¾	600	Allied C. & D. pf.	93½	93½	92¾	92¾	−¼	92½	93
53⅞	26¼	300	Allis-Chal. M. (4)	34⅝	35¼	34⅝	35¼	+¾	35	35½
92	67¾	100	Allis-C. M. pf. (7)	78¼	78¼	78¼	78¼	−¼	77¼	79
95	51	1,300	Am. Ag. Chem. (8)	60⅝	61	59	59½	−1⅛	59	60
103¾	32¾	800	Am. Beet S. (8)	45¼	45¼	44¾	45½	+1½	45½	46½
128⅝	45⅛	100	Am. Bosch M. (10)	51⅞	51⅞	51⅞	51⅞	+⅛	50⅞	51½
90	81½	100	Am.B.S. & F.pf. (7)	90	90	90	90	+2½	89	91
61¾	21¾	1,000	American Can	27	27¾	27	27¾	+½	27	27½
101	72¾	200	Amer. Can pf. (7)	85½	85¾	85½	85¾	+¾	85	86
147⅞	111	600	Am. C. & F. (12)	124	124⅞	124	124⅞	+2⅞	124¼	124½
54⅝	15½	100	Am. Cotton Oil	21½	21½	21½	21½	+1¼	21	22½
15¼	6⅝	100	Am. Drug. S. (80c)	7⅝	7⅝	7⅝	7⅝	+⅛	7⅝	7⅞
30⅝	5	200	Am. Hide & Leath.	8¾	8¾	8¾	8¾	..	8⅞	9
122	35	900	Am. H. & L. pf. (7)	45	45	44⅝	45	−⅛	45	45¾
119¼	30¼	2,300	Am. International	45¼	46¼	45⅛	46	−⅛	46	46¾
109¼	74	500	Am. Loco. (6)	83	83½	83	83½	+½	83½	83¾
73	64¾	100	Am. Radiator (4)	70½	70½	70½	70½	+½	70½	71
17¾	6⅛	1,600	Am. Safety Razor	8⅞	8⅞	8⅝	8⅝	−⅝	8⅝	8¾
30⅛	7⅝	100	Am. Ship & Com.	11	11	11	11	..	10½	11
72	29½	300	Am. Sm. & R. (4)	37⅛	37½	37	37½	+½	37⅜	37⅞
100¼	64½	100	Am.S. & R. pf. (7)	82	82	82	82	+⅛	82	84
50	26	100	Am. Steel F. (3)	30½	30½	30½	30½	..	30½	31
142⅝	82½	600	Am. Sugar Ref. (7)	92⅛	92½	92	92¾	+⅝	92¾	93
118½	97⅝	400	Am. Sug. R. pf. (7)	104	104	104	104	+3	103¼	105
106¾	65	300	Am. Sum. Tob. (10)	76¾	77	76¾	77	..	77	77½
100⅝	92½	300	Am. T. & T. (8)	99½	99½	99⅜	99⅜	−⅛	99½	99¾
283	104¼	100	Am. Tobacco (12)	116½	116½	116½	116½	..	116½	117½
310	110½	300	Am. T., Cl. B (12)	113⅝	114½	113⅝	114½	+½	114	114½
97¾	85¼	200	Am. Tob. pf. (6)	90½	90½	90½	90½	+1½	90½	91½
165½	55½	1,800	Am. Woolen (7)	67	69	67	69	+2⅞	68½	69
61⅞	28⅝	100	Am. Writ. P. pf	36	36	36	36	−1	36⅝	37
66¼	30	600	Anaconda Copper	37¼	37⅝	37¼	37⅝	+⅝	37½	37⅞
90⅝	76	1,100	A., T. & S. F. (6)	83	83	82⅞	83	..	82⅞	83
82	72	200	A.,T. & S. F. pf. (5)	79⅛	79¼	79⅛	79¼	−⅛	79	79¼
12¼	4¼	400	Atl., Birm. & At.	6⅛	6⅝	6⅛	6⅜	−⅜	6	6½
104¼	82	100	Atl. Coast Line (7)	85⅝	85⅝	85⅝	85⅝	+⅝	84	85
176½	71½	700	A., G. & W. I. (10)	71⅞	72¾	71⅞	72¾	+⅞	72	72½
75	42	100	A.,G. & W.I.pf. (5)	43½	43½	43½	43½	+⅞	42¾	44
24	8	200	Austin, Nichols	13	13	13	13	..	12¾	13
148¼	78	5,900	Baldwin Loco. (7)	91¼	91⅞	90⅝	91¾	+⅛	91½	91¾
48⅝	27⅞	2,400	Baltimore & Ohio	37	37	36¼	36½	−⅝	36¾	36⅞
32½	2	900	Bethlehem Motors	4	4	3⅝	3⅝	..	3⅝	3¾
96	47	100	Beth. Steel (5)	57¾	57¾	57¾	57¾	+1¼	55½	59
102½	48⅞	1,400	Beth. Steel,Cl. B(5)	59½	59¾	59	59½	+⅝	59½	59¾
114	50¼	200	Beth. Steel 8% pf.(8)	107½	107½	107½	107½	+⅝	104	105
17	9¼	200	Brook. Rapid Tran.	11⅜	11½	11⅜	11½	..	11⅜	11½
13⅛	5½	200	B. R. T. cfs. of dep.	7⅜	7½	7⅜	7½	+⅝	7	7⅝
8½	3½	100	Bruns. Ter. & Ry. S.	4½	4½	4½	4½	..	4	5
11½	3⅞	200	Butte Copper & Z.	5⅜	5⅜	5⅜	5⅜	..	5	5⅝
29⅛	8	200	Butte & Superior	12⅝	12⅝	12⅝	12⅝	+⅝	12½	12⅝
27¼	10	400	Butterick Co	18½	19	18½	19	+1½	19	20
28⅝	9½	300	Caddo Cent. O. & R.	15½	15¾	15½	15¾	−⅛	15¼	15½
85½	55½	200	Cal. Packing (6)	61½	61½	61½	61½	..	61¾	62
46	17⅞	600	Cal. Petroleum	29	29½	29	29	+½	28½	30
134	109⅝	500	Canadian Pac. (10)	116⅞	117⅝	116⅞	117⅝	+1⅝	117	117¼
104¾	30½	600	Central Leather Co.	39	39½	38⅞	38⅞	+⅞	38¾	39½
61⅞	24¼	200	Cerro de P. Cop. (4)	30½	30½	30½	30½	+⅞	30½	30¾
164⅛	59⅞	900	Chandler Motor (10)	68½	68½	68	68½	−¾	68	68½
70⅞	47	500	Ches. & Ohio (4)	61	61½	61	61½	+½	60¾	61
44⅞	21	400	Chi., M. & St. Paul	29	29½	29	29¼	+¾	29	29¼
60	36⅞	600	Chi., M. & St. P. pf.	44⅞	45½	44½	45½	+1	45	45½
91½	60	200	Chi. & Northw. (5)	69	69½	69	69½	+½	68½	69½
41⅛	21½	500	Chi., R. I. & Pac.	27¾	27⅞	27½	27⅞	..	27⅝	27⅞
84⅝	64	200	Do 7% pf. (7)	73½	73½	73½	73½	−¼	73	74
71⅞	54	200	Do 6% pf. (6)	63¼	63½	63	63	−1	63	63½
21¼	7⅝	1,100	Chile Copper	11¼	11½	11⅛	11¼	..	11½	11¾
41⅝	16⅝	1,000	Chino Copper	21⅝	22	21⅝	22	+⅛	21⅞	22
106	40⅛	100	Cluett-Peabody (6)	60	60	60	60	+1	60	65
44¼	22	200	Col. Fuel & Iron (3)	29	29	29	29	−1¼	28	30
67	50	300	Col. Gas & Elec. (5)	60	60	59¾	59¾	..	59¾	59⅞
65¼	9⅝	2,100	Colum. Grapho. (1)	10⅝	10⅝	10⅛	10¼	−⅛	10⅝	10¾
92⅝	52½	100	Col. Grapho. pf. (7)	57⅞	57⅞	57⅞	57⅞	+⅞	56	57½
93⅞	71¼	200	Con. Gas (7)	80¾	80¾	80⅝	80⅝	+⅝	80½	81
14½	3⅜	2,400	Continental Candy	4½	4½	4	4	−⅜	3⅞	4
105¾	61	1,300	Corn Prod. Ref. (6)	69½	70½	69½	70⅝	+1⅝	70⅝	70½
43⅝	24⅝	1,000	Cosden & Co. (2½)	31	31⅛	31	31	..	30⅞	31
278½	70	6,700	Crucible Steel (8)	94½	96½	94½	95½	+1½	95¼	96
59⅝	16½	100	Cuba Cane Sugar	22½	22½	22½	22½	−⅛	22	22½
60⅝	21½	300	Cuban Am. S. (4)	28⅝	28⅝	28⅝	28⅝	−⅛	28	28½
9	½	900	Denver & Rio G.	1½	1½	1½	1½	..	1⅛	1⅝
16⅝	⅝	600	Den. & Rio G. pf.	2⅛	2⅛	2⅛	2⅛	+⅛	2	2⅛
13	9¾	200	Dome Mines (1)	11⅝	11⅝	11⅝	11⅝	+⅛	11¾	12
26	5½	100	Emerson Brant. pf.	40	40	40	40	+4⅞	36	40
147	47	200	Endicott-John. (5)	58	58	58	58	+¾	58¼	58½
21⅝	9½	100	Erie	14⅜	14⅜	14⅜	14⅜	+¾	14¼	14½
30½	16¼	300	Erie 1st pf.	21	21	21	21	..	20¾	21
95	40	1,400	Famous Play.-Las.	51⅞	54	51¼	54	+2⅞	53¾	54
48	10	600	Fisk Rubber	14¼	14⅝	14¼	14⅝	+⅝	14⅜	14½
19½	1½	300	Gaston, Wm. & Wig	4⅞	5	4⅞	5	+⅛	4⅞	5
43	32½	2,600	General Asphalt	55	55⅝	54½	55⅝	+1	54⅝	55¼
79½	71	200	General Ch. pf. (6)	92	92	92	92	+8¾	85	..
75⅝	51	100	General Cigar (6)	60¼	60¼	60¼	60¼	..	60⅛	61
172	116½	3,600	General Elec. (8)	121½	123½	121½	123¼	+1⅝	123¼	123½
42	12¾	41,400	General Motors (1)	15⅛	15⅜	14⅝	14⅝	−⅝	14⅝	14¾
85¼	58⅝	200	Gen. M. 6% deb. (6)	69	69	69	69	−⅝	68	69¾
86⅝	27	400	Good. (B. F.) Co.(6)	41	42	41	42	+1	41½	42
91⅝	65¼	300	Great Nor. pf. (7)	76⅝	77	76⅝	76⅝	+⅝	76⅝	77
41⅞	24⅞	300	Gt.N.cfs. for O.P.(4)	29⅝	29½	29⅝	29½	+⅝	29¼	29⅝
116¼	55¾	200	Houston Oil	73	73	73	73	+⅝	73⅛	75
23¼	9½	300	Hupp Motor C. (1)	13⅛	13⅛	12⅞	12⅞	..	12¾	13
97¼	80⅝	200	Illinois Central (7)	89⅝	89⅝	89⅛	89⅝	..	89	90
56⅛	*56	1	Ill. Cen. I. I. (4)	60	60	60	60	..	59¼	60½
61⅝	28	600	Inspiration Copper	34¼	34½	34¼	34½	..	34⅝	34⅞
6⅛	3	100	Interboro Con.	4⅜	4⅜	4⅜	4⅜	+⅛	4	4½
17⅞	8⅝	100	Interboro Con. pf.	11½	11⅝	11½	11⅝	+⅛	11½	11⅝
88	40¼	100	Int. Agri. pf. (5)	53	53	53	53	−1⅛	52	55
51⅞	10¼	400	Int. Mer. Marine	14¼	15⅛	14¼	15	+¾	14¾	14⅞
111⅞	44	1,000	Int. Mer. Mar. pf.	54½	54⅞	54	54¼	−⅜	54¼	55¼
84	68	100	Int. M. T. 1st pf. (7)	75	75	75	75	−½	74	76
71	54⅞	600	Int. M. T. 2d pf. (7)	63	63⅞	63	63⅞	+⅞	63	63⅞
26⅝	11¾	100	Int. Nickel	15	15	15	15	..	15	15¼
91¾	38¼	2,600	Int. Paper	58¾	59⅝	58¾	59¼	+⅝	59¼	59⅝
110	85	100	Int. Paper pf. (6)	99	99	99	99	−1	92	101
79⅝	69	100	Int. P. pf. sta. (6)	73	73	73	73	+1	73	75
51⅝	27⅞	300	Iron Products	38½	40	38½	40	+2¼	38¾	39½
7⅝	4	2,200	Island Oil & Trans.	4⅝	4⅝	4½	4½	−⅛	4½	4⅝
21⅞	3	100	Jewel Tea	4⅝	4⅝	4⅝	4⅝	..	4½	4⅞
152⅞	25½	600	Kelly Sp. Tire (4)	46⅛	46¾	46⅛	46⅛	−⅝	46⅛	46¼

1920 High.	1920 Low.	Sales.	Stock and Dividend Rate.	First.	High.	Low.	Last.	Net Chge.	Closing Bid.	Closing Ask.
33¼	14⅛	500	Kennecott Cop. (2)	19⅝	19⅞	19⅝	19⅞	+⅛	19⅝	20
48⅞	5⅝	600	Keystone Tire & R.	10⅝	10⅝	10¼	10⅝	+⅜	10½	10⅞
91⅝	45	900	Lacka. Steel (6)	54⅞	55½	54½	55	+⅝	55	55¾
58⅞	39⅞	200	Lehigh Valley (3½)	54⅞	55	54⅞	55	..	54⅞	55½
36	14½	700	Loews Incorp. (2)	17	17	16⅞	16⅞	+⅛	17	17¼
28	9⅝	200	Loft Incorporated	12	12	12	12	+⅛	12	12½
70	25	200	Loose-Wiles Biscuit	32	32	32	32	+⅜	32	35
45	8	100	Mallinson & Co.	14¼	14¼	14¼	14¼	+1	13⅛	15
65⅝	38¼	100	Manhattan Elev. (7)	49⅝	49⅝	49⅝	49⅝	−⅝	49	49½
69	12	1,000	Marlin-Rockwell	18⅞	19	17	17	−⅞	16½	17
38	2	700	Maxwell Motors	6⅞	6¾	5⅝	5⅞	−⅞	5¾	6
3	⅜	1,000	M.M.2d pf.c of d sta	4	4	4	4	..	..	4¾
131½	65	100	May Dept. St. (8)	76	76	76	76	−⅛	76	78
222	148	6,100	Mex. Petroleum (12)	162	162½	160½	162	+⅛	161⅝	162¼
71⅝	10¼	6,800	Middle S. Oil (1.60)	13	13⅜	12⅞	13¼	..	13⅛	13¼
52⅝	29⅝	1,200	Midvale Steel (2)	31⅝	32	31⅝	32	−¾	31¾	32
21	8½	200	M. & St. L., new	11½	11½	11½	11½	..	11½	12¼
11	2½	400	Mo., Kan. & Texas	2⅞	2⅞	2⅞	2⅞	..	2⅞	3
33⅞	11½	200	Missouri Pacific	19⅝	19⅝	19⅝	19⅝	..	19⅝	20
55⅝	33⅝	500	Missouri Pacific pf.	39⅝	40	39¾	40	−⅜	39¾	40¼
40	12⅝	100	Montgomery Ward	19	19	19	19	+⅜	18	18¾
51	19⅞	100	Mullins Body (4)	25	25	25	25	..	25¼	25⅞
40	25½	1,600	National Acme (3½)	25	25½	24	24⅞	−⅛	24¼	24¾
125	96	200	Nat. Biscuit (7)	103	103⅛	103	103⅛	+1	103¼	104
102½	59¾	100	N. Cloak & S.pf.(7)	68	68	68	68	+6	68	71
12	2	100	Nat. Conduit & C.	4¼	4¼	4¼	4¼	..	4⅛	4½
16	5¼	100	Nat.R. of M. 1st pf	7	7	7	7	−1¾	6	12
8⅝	3½	200	Nat. R. of M. 2d pf	4½	4½	4½	4½	..	4½	4⅞
84¼	64¼	400	N. Y. Central (5)	73¼	73¾	73¼	73¾	+½	73½	73¾
37¼	15¼	3,500	N. Y., N. H. & H.	21⅝	22¼	21⅝	22¼	+⅞	22¼	22½
105¼	85	1,900	Norfolk & W. (7)	101¼	102⅝	101¼	102½	+1½	101⅞	102
95⅞	66⅝	2,200	Northern Pac. (7)	83⅞	84⅛	83⅞	84⅛	+⅜	83⅞	84½
10⅞	7⅞	1,000	Okla. P. & R. (40c)	3⅜	3⅜	3⅜	3⅜	..	3⅜	3⅝
28⅝	23	200	Orpheum Cir. (2)	28	28	28	28	+⅛	27⅝	28¼
41⅝	12	100	Otis Steel	15	15	15	15	−⅛	15⅜	15⅝
82	70	200	Otis Steel pf. (7)	85	85	85	85	+12⅞	72	101
65	42⅞	200	Owens Bottle (3)	51	51	51	51	..	51	52
41⅞	35	600	Pacific Oil w. i.	35⅝	35⅝	35⅝	35⅝	+⅛	35⅝	36
116⅝	69⅝	1,300	Pan A. P. & T. (6)	75	75⅝	75	75⅝	+⅝	75⅝	76
111⅝	64⅞	200	P A.P.& T.,Cl.B,(6)	69⅝	69⅝	69⅝	69⅝	+⅝	68⅞	69¾
44	37⅞	800	Penn. R. R. (3)	41⅝	41⅝	41⅝	41⅝	..	41⅝	41¾
36¼	6⅞	16,300	Penn. S'board Steel	15⅛	16⅜	15⅛	16⅜	+1⅜	16⅛	16¾
45	27	300	People's Gas, Chi.	34¼	35	34	35	+1	34⅝	35
42½	30¼	2,400	Philadelphio Co. (3)	32⅝	32½	32	32	−⅜	32	32½
82⅞	15	2,200	Pierce-Arrow	24⅞	24⅞	24	24	−⅛	23⅞	24
23⅛	9	800	Pierce Oil	10⅞	10⅞	10⅝	10⅝	..	10⅝	10⅞
98	72	300	Pierce Oil pf. (8)	76	76	75½	76	−1⅛	75½	77
72½	51¼	1,400	Pittsburgh Coal (5)	58	59¼	58	59	+⅛	59	59⅝
91½	83	400	Pitts. Coal pf. (6)	83⅞	86½	83⅞	86½	+3⅜	86½	88
39¼	21½	5,000	Pitts. & West Va.	30¼	31¼	30¼	31¼	+⅞	31⅛	31¼
68	52	100	Public Serv., N.J.(4)	54	54	54	54	−1	53	54⅞
124	95½	100	Pullman Co. (8)	108	108	108	108	+½	107¼	108½
120	40	1,100	Punta Aleg. Sug.(8)	47½	47½	47	47	−⅞	47	47½
42⅞	30	300	Pure Oil (4)	34⅞	35	34⅞	35	..	35	35½
22⅞	10	100	Ray Con. Cop. (1)	13⅛	13⅛	13⅛	13⅛	+⅝	13	13¼
103	64⅝	31,100	Reading (4)	87⅝	89½	87⅛	89	+1⅞	88⅞	89
61	32⅞	500	Reading 1st pf. (2)	51⅞	52⅝	51⅞	52⅝	+1⅛	52½	53
65	33⅞	1,300	Reading 2d pf. (2)	56⅝	57⅝	56⅝	57½	+1	57⅛	57⅝
124⅝	55⅞	3,900	Rep. Iron & St. (6)	69	70⅝	69	69⅝	+⅞	69⅝	69⅞
120⅝	49½	1,000	R. Dut.N.Y.sh.(5.20)	67¼	68	67¼	67¼	+⅝	67¼	67½
33⅞	15¼	400	St. Louis-San Fran.	22⅞	22⅞	22⅞	22⅞	−⅛	22¼	22⅞
40	11	400	St. Louis Southwest.	28½	28⅝	28½	28½	−⅝	28⅜	28⅝
21⅝	2½	900	Saxon Motor	4	4	3⅝	4	−⅛	3⅞	4¼
25½	2½	300	Santa Cecilia	4	4	3⅞	3⅞	−⅛	3⅝	4
20⅝	8⅛	100	Seaboard A. L. pf.	11⅛	11⅛	11⅛	11⅛	−⅛	11⅛	12
243	85½	1,100	Sears-Roebuck (18)	91⅜	92¼	91	92¼	+⅝	91½	92½
23⅛	14⅝	1,500	Seneca Copper	18⅝	19¼	18⅝	19¼	+⅝	19⅛	19½
48⅞	20	2,400	Sinclair Consol. Oil	23⅞	24	23⅞	23⅞	−⅛	23⅝	24
118⅞	88⅞	2,200	Southern Pacific (6)	98⅝	98⅞	98⅛	98⅞	+⅞	98⅞	99⅞
33¼	18	2,800	Southern Railway	23⅝	23⅞	23⅝	23⅞	+⅜	23⅜	23⅞
66⅞	50	100	Southern Ry. pf. (5)	58⅞	58⅞	58⅞	58⅞	+⅞	58¾	59
105⅝	100⅞	400	S. O., N. J., pf. (7)	108¼	108⅛	108	108⅛	−⅛	108	108½
51¼	24½	100	Stew. War. Sp. (4)	30⅞	30⅞	30⅞	30⅞	+⅝	30½	31
118⅞	22⅝	100	Strom. Carb. (2)	38	38	38	38	+⅝	37	38
126⅞	37⅞	5,700	Studebaker Co. (7)	51⅞	52⅝	51⅞	52	+⅞	51⅞	52
14	8¾	200	Submarine Boat (1)	9½	9½	9½	9¼	−⅛	9¼	9½
15⅝	6⅞	200	Tenn. Cop. & Chem.	8½	8½	8½	8½	..	8½	8¾
53⅝	40	2,300	Texas Co. (3)	43⅞	44⅛	43⅞	44	+⅜	44	44¼
47	14	200	Texas & Pacific	19	19	18½	18½	..	18½	19
53⅞	22	1,000	Tex. Pac. C.& O. (1)	28⅝	28⅞	28⅝	28⅞	+⅝	28½	28⅝
95½	46	300	Tobacco Prod. (6)	54⅞	55⅜	54⅞	55⅜	+1⅛	54¼	55⅜
38⅝	5⅝	1,200	Transcont. Oil	9⅝	10	9⅝	10	..	9⅞	10
127	61⅞	100	Union Bag & P. (8)	73	73	73	73	+1	72	73
38	9⅝	100	Union Oil	22⅞	22⅞	22⅞	22⅞	..	22¾	23
129½	110	400	Union Pacific (10)	120¼	120½	120	120	−⅛	120⅛	120⅝
148	91	100	United Drug (8)	103	103	103	103	..	101⅞	103
96⅛	45⅛	700	United Ret. Stores	54⅞	55⅞	54⅞	55⅛	+⅜	55⅜	55½
78⅝	15	2,500	U. S. Food Prod.	22⅞	24	22⅞	23¾	+⅞	23	24
116⅝	58⅞	500	U. S. Ind. Alco. (8)	67⅞	68⅛	67⅛	68⅛	+⅞	68⅛	69
69⅝	36	200	U. S. Realty & Imp.	48½	49	48½	49	+2	49½	50
143⅞	54⅞	1,800	U. S. Rubber (8)	66	66⅞	66	66⅞	+1	66⅞	67
115½	95⅞	300	U. S. Rub. 1st pf.(8)	102⅞	103	102⅞	103	+⅛	102⅞	103
109	76⅞	3,800	U. S. Steel (5)	82⅞	83¼	82⅞	83	+⅜	83	83¼
115⅞	104⅛	100	U. S. Steel pf. (7)	110	110	110	110	+⅛	109⅞	110
80⅝	44⅝	400	Utah Copper (6)	53	53⅞	53	53⅞	+⅞	53½	54⅞
97	28⅞	2,200	Vanadium Corp. (4)	37⅞	39	37⅞	38⅞	+1⅝	38	38¾
80¼	24⅞	100	Va.-Caro. Chem. (4)	36⅞	36⅞	36⅞	36⅞	−1⅞	36¼	38
21	5⅞	200	V. Vivaudou (1)	8	8⅜	8	8⅜	+⅝	7⅞	8¼
13	7	400	Wabash	8¼	8⅜	8⅛	8⅛	..	8⅛	8⅜
34⅞	17	100	Wabash pf., A	22	22	22	22	..	21⅞	22
40	20⅛	300	Western Pacific	27⅛	27⅛	27⅛	27⅛	−⅛	27⅛	27⅜
92⅝	80⅝	300	Western Union T.(7)	87⅝	87⅝	87⅝	87⅝	..	87	87½
55⅛	40	100	Westing. E. & M.(4)	44⅞	44⅞	44⅞	44⅞	+½	44¼	45
15⅝	8⅛	200	Wheel. & Lake Erie	10⅝	10⅝	10⅜	10⅜	−⅛	10⅜	10⅝
28	15	100	Wheel. & L. E. pf.	17⅞	17⅞	17⅞	17⅞	−⅛	17⅞	18⅜
25⅞	13⅞	500	White Oil	16	16	16	16	..	15⅞	16
82⅞	34⅞	700	Wilson & Co. (6)	43⅞	43⅝	43⅝	43⅞	+⅝	43⅞	45
32	5⅞	3,700	Willys-Overland	7⅞	8	7⅞	7⅞	+⅛	7⅞	7⅞
93	26	300	Willys-Overland pf	33⅞	33½	33⅞	33½	..	34	36
145	100	300	Woolworth Co. (8)	111⅞	111⅞	111	111	−1⅞	110	112½
95¼	35⅞	100	Worth. Pump (6)	45⅞	45⅞	45⅞	45⅞	−⅞	45¼	46⅞
			RIGHTS.
4¼	2⅞	9,500	General Electric	4	4⅝	4	4⅝	+½	4½	4⅝
..	..	4,100	Middle States Oil	⅝	½	⅝	½	..	..	..
26¼	20	4,600	Southern Pacific	20⅝	20⅝	20⅝	20⅝	+⅜	20⅝	20⅝
16	10	1,500	Tidewater Oil	11	11⅛	11	11⅛	..	11⅛	11⅛
			WARRANTS.
..	..	300	Texas Co	43	43	43	43	..	..	..

s & Sons
1878
, New York
ia Albany
San Francisco

Electric Co.

ported twelve ber 30, 1920)

$34,586,508
11,782,023
5,173,709
$6,608,314

n investment of Twenty-Year
ompany, one of es in the United

st, to yield 0% ils as to the s, etc., of the Circular T-15

h Return Company Stock and growing earned 4½
0 Holders of ide distribuand confi-

rice, more than arket request.

Doherty
pany artment
, New York

ortgage
ND
ty worth over of indebted-
New York
ng this prop-
rate of over requirements.
nteed by na-
cessful com-
ne to ten

ut 8.00%.

on&Co.
Exchange
New York

TMENTS estimates
n exports for all previous 000,000. oupled with ank deposits are showing ases, should sm among ed in Cana-pecial study stments and make rec-issues which active all invited

GETT
CO INC
New York
60 State St.
Boston
Jerome St.
Utica
e Wires

for 1921"
s issue of ities stions in the interests
investors.
quest

GEL & Co.
New York

NCH OFFICES
ECTION OF Exchange Firms
BONDS
ASH OR ON MARGIN n & Cannon
W. B'way at 72d
Broadway.
n Bros.
Cor. 45th
8th and 19th Sts.
Broadway.

LOSS CLAIMS CAUSE MANY TAX ERRORS

Revenue Bureau Explains Proper Items for Inclusion in Income Returns.

STATUTE PROVISIONS CLEAR

Deductions Allowed Only for Losses Actually Sustained Within the Return Year.

Deductions for losses have been the subject of numerous errors in income tax returns, according to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The mistakes have been errors of omission and commission. Claims have been made for losses to which the taxpayer is not entitled, and, in other cases, no claim has been made for a deductible loss, which, if included, would mean a substantial reduction in the tax.

The Bureau made public yesterday a statement on claims for losses, in which many instances are given to explain the interpretation of the income tax laws with regard to this point.

"By the law," said the statement, "deductions for losses must be confined to the following classes: Losses sustained in trade or business, losses sustained in transactions entered into for profit, though not connected with a trade or business, losses sustained of property not connected with trade or business if arising from fires, shipwreck, storms or other casualty, or from theft. To the extent any of the above losses are compensated for by insurance they are not deductible.

"The loss must have been actually sustained during the year for which it is claimed in the taxpayer's return.

"Claims for losses must conform closely to the wording of the statute. A loss sustained in the sale of an automobile purchased for personal use is not deductible, because it is not a transaction 'entered into for profit.' Many claims are made for losses sustained in the sale of property used by the taxpayer as a residence. Ordinarily, when a man buys a home and moves into it, he has no intention of selling. He does not 'enter into a transaction for profit,' and such a loss is not deductible.

"Owners of stocks and bonds cannot deduct from gross income amounts claimed as losses on account of the shrinkage in value of such securities through fluctuations of the market or otherwise. The foregoing applies only to owners and investors, and not to dealers in securities, who by a special rule are given the benefit of any shrinkage in the securities in which they deal.

"Losses in illegal transactions—poker playing, dice, horse racing or other forms of gambling—are not deductible, although gains in such transactions constitute taxable income and must be included in the return.

"Unpaid loans made to needy relatives or friends with little or no expectation that they would be returned are not deductible, but are regarded as gifts."

SUBSCRIPTION RIGHTS.

	Rights Expire.	Yesterday's Bid.	Yesterday's Ask.	Friday's Bid.
Corn Exchange Bank	Feb. 3	42½	44½	43
General Electric	Jan. 20	4½	4⅝	4
Home Insurance	Feb. 1	158	163	160
Lone Star Gas	Jan. 20	..	½	..
Mexican Eagle Oil	Jan. 31	8	10	8
Middle States Oil	Feb. 1	⅛	½	⅛
Nat Park Bank	Feb. 3	77	81	78
Shaw W W	...	15	18	15
Southern Pacific	Mar 1	20½	20¾	20¾
Swai & Finch	Mar. 1	..	½	..
Tidewater Oil	Jan. 19	11¼	11½	11
Trans Continen. Oil	Feb. 1	1-32	⅛	1-16

Our List of Seasoned Readily Marketable Long Term Bonds Contains
21 Railroad Issues
Yield: 6.10% to 8.15%
Maturity: 15 to 82 Years
18 Public Utility & Industrial Bonds
Yield: 6.05% to 7.55%
Maturity: 18 to 30 Years
All of these bonds are listed on the New York Stock Exchange
Ask for Circular T.H.M.
Investment Department
LYMAN D. SMITH & CO.
Members N.Y. Stock Exchange
34 Pine St. Tel. John 4100
Branch Office
527 Fifth Ave. Tel. Murray Hill 3700

We offer, subject to prior sale.
City of Prague
4% Tax Exempt Bonds for immediate deliverey of actual bonds
PRICE
$135 per Cz. K. 10,000
Descriptive circular upon application
R. M. BAUER & CO.
25 Broad Street, New York
Telephones: Broad 416-417-658

PARIS MARKET FIRM.

Further Recovery in French Government Bonds.

PARIS, Jan. 15.—Prices were firm on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 5 centimes higher at 58 francs; 5 per cent. loan, unchanged at 85 francs 20 centimes.

Exchange on London, unchanged at 61 francs 35 centimes per sovereign; American dollars were quoted at 16 francs 43½ centimes, against 16 francs 38 centimes yesterday.

Where Our Gold Went.

The Government's detailed statement regarding destination of our gold exports during the first ten months of 1920 shows that whereas in the corresponding period of 1919 we sent $27,920,000 to Spain and $4,016,019 to France, we shipped no gold whatever to either country during the period in 1920. On the other hand, whereas our gold export to Argentina in the same ten months of 1919 was $32,960,000, in 1920 it had risen to $89,993,000.

SHORT TERM NOTES.

Security	Rate.	Due.	Bid.	Ask.	Yld.
Am. Chicle	6	Oct. 21,'22	91	97½	..
Am. Chicle	6	Oct. 23,'25	80	95	..
Am. Chicle	6	Oct. 26,'27	80	90	..
Am. Cot. Oil	6	Sep. 2,'24	87	91	10.00
Am. T. & T.	6	Oct., 1922	96⅝	97	7.65
Am. T. & T.	6	Feb., 1924	94⅝	94⅞	7.95
Am. Th'd Co.	6	Dec., 1928	93	95	6.90
Am. Tobacco	7	Nov., 1921	100	100¼	6.70
Am. Tobacco	7	Nov., 1922	99⅝	100⅛	6.95
Am. Tobacco	7	Nov., 1923	99⅞	100¼	6.80
Anaconda Co.	6	Jan., 1929	93⅜	94¼	8.00
Anaconda Co.	7	Jan., 1929	92½	93	8.20
A. A. O., Ltd.	7½	Apr., 1925	100⅛	100⅜	7.30
Arm. & Co. c.	7	July 15,'30	97⅞	98¼	7.20
Beth. St. Cor.	7	July 15,'23	96⅞	97	8.33
Beth. St. Cor.	7	July 15,'22	97⅝	98⅛	8.25
Can. Pac. Ry.	6	Mar. 2,'24	94½	95	7.65
Cons. Gas Co. of N. Y.	8	Dec. 1921	99⅝	99⅞	8.10
Cudahy Pack.	7	July 15,'23	93	97	8.35
Fed. Sugar R.	6	Nov., 1924	88	92	9.40
Cent. Arg. R.	6	Feb., 1927	80	83	9.80
C., R. I. & P.	6	Feb., 1922	95	97	9.20
C. C. C. & St. L. Ry. Co.	6	July, 1929	89½	90½	7.50
The B. F. Goodrich Co. cv.	7	Apr., 1925	89½	90¼	9.70
Gulf Oil Corp.	6	July, 1921	99	99⅝	8.65
Gulf Oil Corp.	6	July, 1922	96	97½	7.80
Gulf Oil Corp.	6	July, 1923	95¼	97½	7.30
H. J. Heinz Co.	7	Dec. 1,'30	94½	95	7.80
Hocking Val.	6	Mar., 1924	91	93	8.35
Int. Rap. Tr.	7	Sep., 1921	67½	69	..
Kan. C. Ter.	6	Nov., 1923	94	96	7.50
Kennecott C.	7	Feb., 1930	93	94¼	7.90
Laclede Gas.	7	Feb., 1929	87	89	8.95
Lig. & Myers.	6	Dec., 1921	98⅝	99⅛	6.80
Nat C.&S.10-yr	8	1930	90	96	8.60
Penn. Co.	4½	June 15,'21	98⅝	99⅛	8.00
Phila Co.	6	Feb., 1922	94½	96	10.30
Proc. & G.	7	Mar., 1921	100	100⅛	6.50
Proc. & G.	7	Mar., 1922	99½	100⅛	6.80
Proc. & G.	7	Mar., 1923	100	100⅛	6.75
Pub. S. Corp. of N. J. cv.	7	Mar., 1922	84½	86	..
R.J.R'ylds T.	6	Aug., 1922	98	98½	7.10
Sears-Roebuck	7	Oct. 15,'21	98⅝	98⅞	8.20
Sears, R.& C.	7	Oct. 15,'22	96	96½	8.80
Sears, R & C.	7	Oct. 15,'23	96	96¼	8.25
Sinc. C. O. C.	7½	May 15,'25	89½	90	10.20
Solvay & Co.	8	Oct., 1927	101	102	7.55
Southern Ry.	6	Mar., 1922	96½	96⅝	8.40
S'west B. T.	7	Apr., 1925	94½	95½	8.20
St.P.Un.Dep. guaran.	5½	Dec. 15,'23	93¼	95	8.23
Stand. Oil Co. (Cal.)	7	Jan., 1931	101¼	101½	6.80
Swift & Co.	6	Aug. 15,'21	98⅝	99⅛	7.50
Swift & Co.	7	Oct. 15,'25	95⅜	96½	8.00
The Tex. Co.	7	Mar. 1,'23	99⅝	79⅝	7.60
West El. cv.	7	Apr., 1925	100	100½	6.90

SILVER BULLION.

Bar silver in London up ⅝d at 40⅝d per ounce. New York price for domestic bar silver unchanged at 99½c per ounce, the Mint price for "foreign" silver up ⅛c at 67¼c.

Range of prices for silver bullion this month:

	—Highest.—		—Lowest.—
London	42½d	Jan. 5	39½d	Jan. 10
New York	68⅝c	Jan. 6	65¼c	Jan. 10
Range for the year 1920:
London	89½d	Feb. 11	38⅞d	Dec. 10
New York	$1.37	Jan. 12	59¼c	Dec. 10

TRADING IN EUROPE

An English Bank's Recent Experiences in Lending Money to the Continent.

Some interesting light on the problems and prospects offered to banks of other countries for business with the nations of Continental Europe whose economic situation has been made so chaotic by the war, is thrown by a recent annual report of the British Overseas Bank. It reviews as follows its own experiences of the last year with Central and Eastern Europe: "Up to the present, although we have received many proposals from most varied quarters, we have refrained from establishing ourselves or acquiring interests in other disturbed areas in Central and Eastern Europe. At the same time, we have followed up each of these propositions with great care, and have, we hope, acquired experience that will stand us in good stead when the time for definite action arrives. The reasons for delay have varied with each country concerned.

"In Austria, for instance, the present situation is very unstable. Proposals have been made by the Reparation Commission for assistance to Austria over the next five years, which, if adopted, may enable the country to be self-supporting again by the end of that time. Should, however, the Allies refuse further assistance, it may be impossible to prevent the disintegration of Austria through the breaking away of its various provinces and their adhesion to one or other of the neighboring States, a process which may easily result in new wars in this region.

"This uncertainty as to Austria's future has a very close bearing on Czecho-slovakia; while, in addition, it still remains to be shown whether or not the Czech Government will be able to reconcile to its control the other races assigned to them by the treaty of peace. In Jugoslavia the outlook is perhaps more promising, as it is in the main an agricultural country, with powers of speedy recuperation; but until very recently the solution of its disputes with Italy and with Austria were by no means clear. I may say, however, that here, as in other parts of Central Europe, we have made temporary connections which have so far been fully satisfactory for our own needs and those of our clients."

Of Poland and Russia, the report remarks that it was decided to establish the first of its new posts in Warsaw. "From time immemorial," it continues, "the capital of Poland has been a great distributing centre, and although the coming of railways, constructed as they were from strategic rather than commercial motives, has to some extent interfered with her position, she still remains a city of great possibilities. There was, too, a further general factor influencing our decision. Poland has for many years been divided into spheres controlled by Russia, Germany, and Austria. As a result, one finds today a considerable diversity of outlook and feeling in different sections of Poland. While this makes the problems before the Polish Government extremely complicated and difficult, the previous trade relations of the Poles with these neighboring States give them a knowledge of these countries which is quite exceptional.

"In the case of Russia, we have received many propositions for trade with one or other of the various conflicting elements. Here, too, we have gained useful experience, but we have not felt justified as yet in entering upon actual business. At the same time, we have taken various steps to prepare ourselves to play our part in any ultimate development of the vast possibilities which Russia contains.

"With Germany," the report sets forth, "our relations have so far been satisfactory, and our sources of information with regard to conditions in that country have proved particularly valuable. We have followed developments there with close attention, and we have become increasingly convinced of the necessity of restoring normal economic conditions for the sake both of ourselves and still more so of our French neighbors, who are, paradoxically enough, suffering even more severely from the uncertainty of Germany's prospects."

Concerning Belgium it is stated that "this country forms a welcome relief to the gloomy note upon which reference to most parts of Europe is bound to be pitched. Of all European countries engaged in the war, the recovery of Belgium has been the most rapid. The main factor in this recovery, and the one that gives most hope for the future, has been the indomitable energy and capacity for work displayed by the Belgian people as a whole. No one who has visited Belgium recently can fail to have been struck by the vigor with which the whole country is working, and by the absence of that reaction from war strain which in almost every country, neutral as well as belligerent, has manifested itself in a slackening of effort among all classes and in an alarming increase in general unrest. There have been labor disputes in Belgium since the war, and they are not yet finished. But comparatively little time has been lost, and both sides have shown a remarkable tendency toward a reasonable settlement."

EARNINGS.

Railroad.

MISSOURI, KANSAS & TEXAS SYSTEM—

	1920.	1919.	1918.
Nov. gross	$6,900,224	$5,614,788	$5,084,652
Bal. aft. taxes	1,179,437	*184,717	965,733
Net oper. inc.	991,928	*372,618	870,230
11 mos. gross	65,950,243	56,450,842	49,080,121
Bal. aft. taxes	2,220,545	3,671,065	4,062,879
Net oper. inc.	483,257	2,509,967	3,662,288

*Deficit.

Public Utility.

SCHENECTADY RAILWAY CO.—

	1920.	1919.	Increase.
Dec. gross	$177,532	$158,583	$18,949
Net aft. taxes	17,577	22,113	*4,536
Tot. income	17,702	25,232	*7,530
Sur. aft. chgs.	5,158	12,788	*7,625
12 mos. gross	1,905,312	1,664,282	241,030
Net aft. taxes	181,273	193,274	*12,001
Tot. income	182,785	197,187	*14,402
Sur. aft. chgs.	32,850	45,703	*12,853

BOSTON CURB.

	Bid.	Asked.		Bid.	Asked.
Ariz Ext.	2	3	Iron Cap.	6¼	8
Ariz Silver	18	22	La Rose	25	32
Ariz T T.	5	7	Majestic	9	11
Black H.	15	18	Mex Met.	30	35
Bost Mon.	47	48	Midway M.	..	35
Calaveras	1	1⅛	Monarch	..	15
Chief Cons	2⅜	2⅝	Mut D T.	55	58
Crown R.	..	20	Nat L & Z.	..	2
Denbigh	14	15	Nixon	4	8
Eagle B B.	2	2½	Rainier	9	10
Eureka C.	46	47	Seven Met.	10	12
Fortuna	..	3	Silver R.	4	5
Gadsden	45	60	U V Ext.	27	27½
Homa	6	7	Yukon	1	1¼
Iron Blos.	15	20

DIVIDENDS DECLARED.

The following companies announced dividends during the last week:

Company.	Rate.	Period.	Payable.	Books Close.
STEAM RAILWAYS.
Hunt. B. Top Mt. pf.	75c	—	Feb. 15	Feb. 1
N., C. & St. L.	3½	S	Feb. 1	Jan. 22
STREET RAILWAYS.
Montreal Tram.	2½	Q	Jan. 29	Feb. 1
BANK STOCKS.
Grace (W. R.) & Co.	4	—	Feb. 2	Jan. 26
Pacific	2	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 24
Pacific	2	Ex.	Feb. 1	Jan. 24
FIRE INSURANCE.
Home	12½	—	On dem.	Dec. 31
INDUSTRIAL AND MISCELLANEOUS
Am. Brake Sh. & Fdy.	$1	Q	Mar. 31	*Mar. 18
Do pf.	1¾	Q	Mar. 31	*Mar. 18
A. D. T., N. J.	1	Q	Jan. 29	Jan. 15
Am. Glue pf.	4	—	Feb. 1	*Jan. 15
Am. Radiator	$1	Q	Mar. 31	*Mar. 15
Do pf.	1¾	Q	Feb. 15	Feb. 1
Atlas Powder	1½	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 20
Burns Bros.	2½	Q	Feb. 15	Feb. 1
Do pf.	1¾	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 21
Can. Conv.	1¾	Q	Feb. 15	Jan. 31
Col. Graph. F. pf.	2	Q	Feb. 1	*Jan. 20
Consol. Coal	1½	Q	Jan. 31	*Jan. 17
De Beers Mines	75c	—	Jan. 27	Jan. 25
Dodge St. P. pf.	1¾	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 21
Du Pont Chem. com. & pf.	20c	—	Feb. 5	Jan. 25
Durham Hos. pf.	1¾	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 20
Ed. Elec. Ill., Brockton	2½	Q	Feb. 1	*Jan. 15
Eisenlohr & Br.	1¼	Q	Feb. 15	Feb. 1
El. B. & S. pf.	1½	Q	Feb. 1	*Jan. 19
Elk Basin Pet.	12½c	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 20
Fairb'ks 1st pf.	2	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 20
Fall R. Gas W.	3	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 15
Fort Worth P. & L. pf.	1¾	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 21
General Cigar	1½	Q	Feb. 1	*Jan. 24
Gillette Safe. R.	$3	Q	Mar. 2	Jan. 31
Houston Oil pf.	3	—	Feb. 1	Jan. 21
Ill. N. Ut. pf.	1½	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 20
Kelsey Whl. pf.	1¾	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 21
Loft, Inc.	25c	Q	Mar. 31	Mar. 15
Lowell El. Lt.	2½	Q	Feb. 1	*Jan. 15
McElwain (W. H.) 1st pf.	1¾	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 15
Do 2d pf.	75c	—	Feb. 1	Jan. 15
Nash Motors	$10	—	Feb. 1	Jan. 20
Do pf.	1¾	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 20
Nat. Biscuit	1¾	Q	Apr. 15	Mar. 31
Do pf.	1¾	Q	Feb. 28	Feb. 14
New River pf.	1½	—	Feb. 1	Jan. 20
N. Y. & Hond. Rosario Min.	3	Q	Jan. 28	Jan. 18
Normal Oil	4½	Q	Jan. 25	Dec. 31
Pac. C. 1st pf.	1¼	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 22
Do 2d pf.	1	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 22
Penn. Traffic	$3	—	Feb. 1	Jan. 15
Penn. Traffic	$1	Ex.	Feb. 1	Jan. 15
Plant (T.G.) pf.	1¾	Q	Jan. 31	Jan. 17
Price Bros.	2	Ex.	Feb. 1	Jan. 15
Pub. S. Inv. pf.	1½	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 18
St. L. Fl. Mills	1½	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 20
St. L. Fl. Mills	1	Ex.	Feb. 1	Jan. 20
Do pf.	1¾	Q	Feb. 1	Jan. 20
Sears-Roebuck	‡2	Q	Feb. 1	....
Sinclair Oil pf.	2	Q	Feb. 28	Feb. 15
Submarine Boat	50c	S	Feb. 7	Jan. 22
Timken-D. Axle pf.	1¾	Q	Mar. 1	....
Un. Tank C. pf.	1¾	Q	Mar. 2	Feb. 5
Wilson & Co.	1¼	Stk	Mar. 1	Jan. 27
Woolworth (F. W.) Co.	2	Q	Mar. 1	Feb. 10

*Holders of record books do not close. ‡Payable in scrip.

We offer to Banks, Trust Companies and out-of-town dealers, our services in connection with the purchase or sale of any of the below-mentioned bonds. We shall be pleased to telegraph quotations upon request.

Arkansas Lt. & Pr. 6s 1945
American Light & Traction 6s 1925
Alabama Traction 5s 1962
American Gas & Electric. All Issues
American Cities Co. 6s 1919
Alabama Power Co. All Issues
Amer. Water & Elec. Coll. Tr. 5s 1934
Appalachian Power 5s 1941
American Thread 6s 1928
Aurora Elgin & Chicago. All Issues
Birmingham Rwy., Lt. & Pr. All Issues
Brazilian Trac. Light and Power 6s 1922
Boston Suburban Electric 4s
Buffalo General Elec. Co. All Issues
Burlington, Cedar Rapids & No. 5s 1940
Brooklyn Edison Co. 7s 1940
Cleveland Elec. Illum. All Issues
Consumer Power Co. (Mich.) All Issues
Cincinnati Gas & Electric 6s 1922
Commonwealth Edison Co. All Issues
Col. Newark & Ganesville. All Issues
Commonwealth Ry. & Lt. All Issues
Consolidated Trac. of N. J. 5s 1933
Consolidated Textile 7s 1923
Cincinnati Gas Transportation 5s 1933
Cities Service. All Issues
Columbus Pr. & Lt. 5s 1940
Connecticut Ry. & Ltg. 4½s 1951
Con. Cities Lt. Pr. & Trac. 5s 1962
Chic. Terre Haute & S. E. Inc. 5s 1960
Cleveland Akron & Columbus. All Issues
Duquesne Lighting 6s 1949
Denver City Tramway 5s 1933
Detroit City Gas 5s 1921-23
Detroit Edison 7s 1928-30
Denver Gas & Electric Co. All Issues
Detroit Edison Company. All Issues
Empire Gas & Fuel. All Issues
Empire Refining 6s 1927
E. St. Louis & Inter. Water. All Issues
Fonda, Johnstown & Gloversville 4½s 1952
Ft. Dodge, Des Moines & So. 5s 1938
General Gas & Electric Co. All Issues
Great Western Power Co. All Issues
General Phonograph 7s 1921-24
Great Northern Power 5s 1935
Grand Rapids & Indiana 2nd 4s 1936
Georgia Lt. Pr. & Ry. 5s 1941
Georgia Ry. & Pr. 5s 1954
Hydraulic Power Co. All Issues
International Traction (Buffalo) 4s
International Ry. 5s 1962
Kansas City Railway. All Issues
Kentucky Traction & Term. 5s 1951
Kanawha Valley Trac. 5s 1946
Kingston Gas & Electric 5s 1952
Laclede Gas Light. All Issues
Middlewest Utilities Co. All Issues
Michigan United Ry. 5s 1936
Mississippi River Pr. 5s 1951
Mason City & Ft. Dodge 4s 1955
Northern Ontario Lt. & Pr. 6s 1945
New Orleans Ry. & Lt. Co. All Issues
Niagara Falls Power Co. All Issues
Northwestern Pennsylvania R. R. 5s
No. Pacific St. P. Duluth Div. 4s 1996
New York Penn. & Ohio 4½s 1935
No. Ohio Tract. & Lt. 5s 1956
Northern States Power Co. All Issues
Ohio Cities Gas 7s 1921-25
Pacific Gas & Elec. All Issues
Pacific Lt. & Pr. 5s 1942
Pacific Pr. & Lt. 5s 1930
Portland Ry. Lt. & Pr. All Issues
Peoria & Pekin Union. All Issues
Ralston Purina 6s 1921-25
St. Paul Gas Light 5s 1944
St. L. Springfield & Peoria 5s 1939
Sayre Electric 5s 1947
Shawinigan Water & Pr. All Issues
Southern Indiana R. R. 4s 1951
Spart. Union & Col. R. R. 4s 1995
Southern Calif. Edison. All Issues
Standard Gas & Electric 6s 1926
Standard Gas & Electric 6s 1935
Standard Gas & Electric 7s 1921
Topeka Ry. & Lt. 5s 1933
Tri City Ry. & Lt. 5s 1923
Tri City Ry. & Lt. 5s 1930
Tennessee Power 5s 1962
Underg'd Elec. Rys. of Lond. All Issues
United Gas & Electric 6s 1945
United Light & Ry. 5s 1932
United Light & Ry. 6s 1926
United Light & Ry. 7s 1922
United Light & Ry. 8s 1930
United Light & Ry. 7s 1923
Virginia Ry. & Pr. 5s 1934
Waterloo, Cedar Falls & No. 5s 1940
West Penn. Power 5s 1946
West Penn. Power 6s 1958
West Penn. Power 6s 1924
West Penn. Power 7s 1946
Wisconsin Elec. Power 7½s 1945
Yosemite Valley R. R. 5s 1936

ERNEST SMITH & CO.
20 Broad Street, New York Tel. Rector 6157-8, 2558, 6852
Direct Private Wire Connections to Chicago, Detroit and Grand Rapids

BONDS ON STOCK EXCHANGE

SATURDAY, JAN. 15, 1921.

	1921.	1920.	1919.
Day's sales	$5,571,200	$7,728,000	$4,319,500
Year to date	155,452,250	197,736,150	153,590,500

GOVERNMENT WAR LOANS.

Sales $1,000.	Issue.	Open.	High.	Low.	Last.	Net Ch'ge.	Closing Bid.	Closing Asked.	Yield.
283	Liberty 3½s, 1932-'47	92.10	92.30	92.10	92.30	....	92.12	92.30	3.98
..	Liberty 1st 4s, 1932-'47	....	....	....	....	....	86.60	87.20	4.95
5	Liberty 2d 4s, 1927-'42	87.00	87.00	86.90	86.90	—.02	86.90	87.40	5.00
64	Liberty 1st conv. 4¼s, 1932-'47	87.68	87.68	87.40	87.60	+.18	87.40	87.70	5.15
527	Liberty 2d conv. 4¼s, 1927-'42	87.10	87.16	87.02	87.12	+.10	87.12	87.20	5.28
289	Liberty 3d conv. 4¼s, 1928	90.20	90.30	90.08	90.30	+.14	90.20	90.30	5.66
705	Liberty 4th 4¼s, 1933-'38	87.20	87.30	87.14	87.22	—.08	87.22	87.30	5.35
1	Liberty 4th 4¼s, 1933-'38, reg	87.00	87.00	87.00	87.00	....	....	....	....
700	Victory 4¾s, 1922-'23	97.26	97.28	97.22	97.24	—.02	97.20	97.22	5.85
241	Victory 3¾s, 1922-'23	97.26	97.26	97.20	97.20	—.06	97.20	97.22	4.90

Following sales are given in lots of $1,000:

Chinese Ry 5s 1....43; C of Berne 8s temp ctfs 9....96¾; City of Christiania 8s K L & Co ctfs 15....97⅝, 5....98; Cy of Paris 6s 4....96¼, 3....96⅛, 1....96½, 2....96⅜, 5....96⅛; C of Zurich 8s receipts 5....98, 2....97¾, 5....97⅛, 5....97¼, 2....97½; Dom Rep 5s 18....77; D of Canada 5½s 1921 4asf. 98¾; 5½s 1929 6....93⅝, 5....93, 1....92¾, 1....93⅛, 1....93; 5s 1931 1....88⅝; French Gov 8s 8....100⅛, 7....100, 7....100⅛, 68....100; Govt of Switzerland 8s temp rects 15....103⅝, 5....103⅛, 5....103⅜; Jap Govt 4½s sterling loan 5....77⅛; 2d series 1....77⅛; Jap Govt 4s sterling loan 5....58¾; Kgdm of Belgium 7½s receipts 1....98⅜, 2....98⅞, 2....98, 1....97; 6s 3....92, 2....92½, 2....92⅝; Rep of Cuba 4½s 2....83⅞; U Kgdm of Gt Brit & Ireld 5½s 1921 7....98¼, 1....98⅝, 3....98⅝; 5½s 1922 25....95⅜, 5....95⅝; 5½s 1929 6....89, 6....88⅞, 2....89, 2....88⅞, 11....88⅞, 72....88⅞, 129....89; 5½s 1937 9....86, 3....85⅞, 13....85⅞; U S of Mex 5s 1....41⅜, 9....41½, 5s30f....41½, 10....41⅝; N Y City 4½s 1964 25....98⅛, 1....98⅛; Ala Gt So 5s 2....82¼; Am Ag Chem conv 5s 3....89⅝; Am Sm & R temp 1st 5s 3....77⅞, 11....78; Am Tel & Tel col 4s 1....78½, 1....78⅝; col tr 5s 10....82, 1....81⅞, 1....81⅞.

conv 6s 2....96; Armour & Co 4½s 1....70; Atch T & S F gen 4s 5....78⅝, 5....78½, 3....78⅝, 10....78⅞, 5....79; adjustmt 4s stamped 5....72⅝; conv 4s 1960 10....78⅝; Calif-Ariz 1st & ref 4½s 5....83; Atl Coast L 1st 4s 2....79⅝; 7s 3....102; L & N col 4s 10....72; gen unif 4½s 2....76⅝; Atlan Fruit temp 7s 6....70, 2....69, 3....68; Atl & Dan 4s 1....70; B & O cv 4½s 10....70⅝, 5....71, 2....70⅝, 1....70½, 10....70; ref 5s 3....71, 4....71½, 4....71; 6s 2....92⅝, 1....93, 1....98⅝, 4....93, 1....92⅝, 1....93½, 1....92⅞, 5....93, 1....98½, 1....93½, 1....98⅛, 1....93½; P LE&WV 4s 3....65⅛, 3....65⅞; Tol-Cin div 4s 2....55½, 5....55; Bell Tel of Pa 7s, int rcts 4....101½, 6....101⅝, 3....102; Beth Steel 1st & ref 5s 2....81¼; Bush Ter Bdg gtd 5s 5....72¼, 8....73⅜; Can Nor 7s, int rcts 9....101, 3....101¼, 6....101, 1....101¼; CenPac gtd 4s 1....74¼, 1....74⅜, 1....74⅜; T S L 4s 3....71⅛; Ches & Ohio conv 4½s 2....76⅛, 5....76⅜, 2....76⅛; conv 5s 16....84; Chi & Alt 3s 1....45⅝; 3½s 2....38⅜; C,B&Q gen 4s 9....80⅝; joint 4s 12....97¼, 25....97⅜, 45....97⅜; registered 1....98⅜; Chi & E Ill gen 5s,GTrCo cfs 5....78; Chi Gt Wn 4s 2....58⅝, 15....58¾; 7s 5....100⅜.

gen 4s 2....78¾; Chi Rys 5s 1....58½; C, R I & P Ry ref 4s 8....68, 3s30f....67⅝, 20....68, 3....68¼, 1....68½, 1....68⅛, 1....68½, 8....68⅜; Chile Cop 7s 1....94⅝, 7....94⅝; col tr 6s 1....72½, 1....72⅝, 1....72; Chi, M & S P 4s, 1934 1....63, 1....63¾; cv 5s, Ser B 2....71½, 2....71½; 4s, 1925 10....77, 2....76⅝; conv 4½s 3....70, 1....70½, 1....70⅝, 15....70; ref 4½s 2....63⅝, 19....64, 5....64½, 10....64, 6....64⅜, 10....64½, 5....64; Chi Un Sta 6½s, int ctfs 2....105⅝, 3....105⅛, 1....105⅛; Col G & E 1st 5s 1....83½; C, C, C & S L ref & imp 6s 2....90, 1....90⅛, 8....90⅛; Cuba C Sug conv 7s 1....85, 5....85½; Del & Hud 1st & ref 4s 10....78⅝; Den & Rio G 1st & ref 5s 2....46⅛, 5....46, 2s60f....45⅛; Des Moines & Ft Dodge 1st gtd 4s 1....41; Det Unit Ry con 4½s 1....60, 2....59; Erie R R 1st con 4s 1....55⅛, 1....55⅛, 3....55⅛; 1st gen 4s 4....44⅛, 4....44⅞, 10....44⅛, 4....45, 5....44⅛; conv 4s series B 2....38⅜; series D 1....45½; Gen El deb 6s 9....100; deb 5s 1....89; Gr Bay & Wn deb ctfs B 2....7½; Gr Tr Ry 7s 1....101⅛, 1....101, 5....101⅜; Hudson & Man 1st & ref 5s series A 3....64⅛, 5....64⅝, 8....64⅛, 9....64; adj inc 5s 5....26⅛, 5....26⅛, 10....26⅛, 30....26⅛, 20....26⅛, 11....26⅛.

9....26⅝; Ill Cen 4s 1953 1....70½; Ill Steel 4½s 3....78⅝, 2....78⅝; Illinois Centrl temp 5½s 1....91⅛, 1....91⅛; Inter-Met 4½s 4....16, 2....17; ctfs of dep 13....14; Int Rap Tran 1st & ref 5s 10....50⅛, 5....50½, 29....50⅝, 10....51, 5....50⅝, 8....50⅞, 6....51, 24....51⅛, 10....50⅝, 1....51, 1....50⅝, 1....50⅝, 11....51½, 14....51½, 2....51, 16....51⅛, 42....51½, 6....51; Int Mer Mar s f 6s 16....81; Kan Cy Ft S & Mem 4s 38....66, 1....65⅞, 4....66⅛, 2....66, 1....66⅛; Kan Cy So 5s 1....73, 1....74⅛, 3....73⅛; 5s 2....55½, 1....55½, 8....55⅝; Lack Steel 5s 1923 2....93⅛; L S & M S 4s 1931 18....82, 3....82⅛; 1928 1....84, 9....83⅛; Lg Isl gen 4s 2....75; Lorll Co 5s 1....81⅛; L & Nash 7s 6....108⅛; S L div 6s 2....90⅛; Midvale Steel col tr 5s 2....77⅛, 4....73, 2....72⅛; Min & St Lou 1st & ref 4s 1....44; con 5s 2....70; Mo Kan & Tx 1st 4s 2....60⅛, 1....60⅝; 2d 4s ctfs of dep 20....40; Mo Pac, 1965 7....80; gen 4s 3....55⅛, 1....55⅛, 5....55⅛, 13....55⅛; 1st & ref 5s, 1923 1....88⅛; Mon Tramwys 1st ref 5s 2....69; Morris & Co sink fd 4½s 3....76; Morris & Es 1st & ref 3½s 1....70; N O Term 4s 14....65, 2....66; inc 5s 3....80; N Y Air Br 1st 6s 2....80; N Y Cent 7s int rcts 2....102½, 11....102⅝.

deb 6s 78....92, 100....92½, 4....92⅝, 4....92; gen 3½s 10....69; deb 4s, 1934 4....79; NY, Chi & SL 1st 4s 1....80⅛; deb 4s 2....73; NYG,EL,H&P col tr 5s 2....81⅝; N Y, N H & H conv deb 6s 2....72; non-cv deb 4s, 1956 1....49; N Y, O & W ref 4s 1....65; N Y Tel 4½s 3....78⅛, 1....77⅛; Norf & Wn con 4s 10....80, 8....79⅛; conv 6s 10....104⅛, 1....104⅛, 45....105; N W Bell Tel 7s, when issd 5....96⅞, 45....97⅛, 1....97⅛, 10....97⅛, 59....97⅛, 5....97⅛, 1....97⅛, 18....97⅛, 4....97⅜, 9....97⅛, 6....97⅛, 9....97⅛, 1....97⅛, 14.5....97⅛, 2....97⅜, 20....97⅛; Nor Pac 4s 45....77⅛; 3s 39....78; 10....55⅛; 3....56; 5....55⅛; N States Pow 1st & ref 5s 2....79⅛, 5....79; Ore & Cal 1st 5s 1....89⅛, 3....89⅛; Ore-W R & N 1st & ref 4s 15....72⅛; Penn R R con 4½s 10....90⅛; gen 4½s 1....81⅝, 2....81; gen 5s 1....91⅛; gold 7s 1....104⅛, 2....104⅛, 1....104, 10....104⅛, 10....104⅛; Readg gen 4s 14....81; RI,Ark&L 4½s 1....69, 1....69⅛, 5....69; StL, IrM & So gen 5s 2....88⅛; unif & ref 4s 1....72⅛; St L & San F pr ln 4s,SerA 1....62⅛, 1....62⅛, 8....62⅛, 5....62⅛, 1....62⅛; pr ln 5s,SerB 1....75⅛, 1....75⅛, 8....75⅛; pr ln 6s,SerC 8....88⅛, 3....88⅛; adj 6s 6....65⅛; 2....65⅛; inc 6s

5....49⅛, 10....49⅛, 5....49⅛, 14....49⅛; St L & S Wn 1st 4s 1....68, 2....68⅛; con 4s 2....64⅛; 1st Term 5s 13....66; St P & K Cy S L 1st 4½s 12....67⅛, 1....68; Seab Air Line gold 4s stamped 2....57; adj 5s 5....38; con 6s 1....53⅛, 2....53, 7....52⅛, 10....53; So Bell T & T 1st 5s 3....82; S Pac conv 4s 15....77⅛, 4....77⅛; ref 4s 2....77⅛, 4....77⅛; Southern Ry gen 4s 2....60, 2....60⅛, 1....60⅛; Third Av adj 5s 25....25⅛; Un Pac 1st 4s 5....83⅛, 6....83; conv 4s 1....83⅛, 2....83⅛, 1....83⅛, 1....83⅛; 1st & ref 4s 5....79⅛, 1....80; 6s 5....100⅛; Unit R F of San Fr 4s Un tr ctfs of dep 1....30, 10....30⅛, 5....30⅛; L S Realty & Imp 5s 1....81⅛; U S Rub 7½s 1....100⅛, 5....100⅛, 1....100⅛, 1....100⅛, 1....100⅛, 5....99⅛, 25....100⅛; 1st & ref 5s 1....78⅛, 1....78⅛, 3....78⅛, 1....78⅛; U S Steel Cp s f 5s 32....95, 5....95⅛, 1....95⅛; VicFuel 1st 5s 1....52; Va-Car Ch 5s 5....93; Va So Wn con 5s 1....61; Westn Md 4s 9....56; Westn Pac 5s 1....84, 5....84⅛; WestSh 4s reg 26....70; Westsh E & M temp 7s 5....97⅛, 2....97⅛, 1....97, 1....98, 3....97⅛, 1....97⅛, 1....97⅛, 3....97⅛, 6....98, 1....97⅛, 5....98⅛; Wilson & Co 1st 6s 5....98⅛, 1....99; conv s f 6s 5....94.

BID AND ASKED QUOTATIONS

FOREIGN ISSUES.

Closing quotations for Government and municipal bonds:

	Bid.	Asked.
City of Berne 8s	96¾	97
City of Christiania 8s	97¼	98
City of Zurich 8s	97½	98
Argentine 5s	67⅜	..
Belgium 6s, 1925	91½	92½
Belgium 7½s	98	98⅝
Dom. of Canada 5s, 1921	99⅝	..
Dom. of Canada 5½s, 1921	99	99¼
Dom. of Canada 5s, 1926	91	91¼
Dom. of Canada 5½s, 1929	92½	93
Dom. of Canada 5s, 1931	88	88⅛
Chinese Government 5s	42½	43
Republic of Cuba ext. 5s, 1944	77⅜	78⅛
Republic of Cuba ext. 5s, 1949	..	78
Republic of Cuba ext. 4½s, 1949	63	63⅞
Dominican Republic 5s	76⅝	77⅛
City of Lyons 6s	81⅛	84
City of Marseilles 6s	81⅛	84
City of Bordeaux 6s	81⅛	84
City of Copenhagen 5½s	75¼	75½
French Government 8s	100	100⅛
City of Paris 6s	96¼	96½
Government of Switzerland 8s	103¼	103⅜
Japanese 4½s	77⅛	77⅛
Japanese 4½s, second series	76⅞	77⅛
Japanese 4s	58⅜	58⅝
City of Tokio 5s	47	48
U. K. of Gt. B. & Ir. 5½s, 1921	98⅝	98⅞
Un. K. of Gt. Br. & Ir. 5½s, 1922	95⅝	95⅞
U. K. of Gt. B. & Ir. 5½s, 1929	88⅝	89
Un. K. of Gt. Br. & Ir. 5½s, 1937	85½	86
United States of Mexico 5s	41½	42
United States of Mexico 4s	30	31
Italy 6½s	80	81⅞

U. S. GOVERNMENT PRE-WAR LOANS.

Closing quotations for Government bonds:

	Bid.	Asked.		Bid.	Asked
2s, c, 1930	..	100	P I 4s, '34	81½	83
4s, c, 1925	..	104	P I 4s, '35	81⅛	..

Closing quotations for stocks in which there were no transactions:

	Bid.	Asked.		Bid.	Asked.		Bid.	Asked.		Bid.	Asked.
Ad Rumely	18⅝	19	Buff & S.	72	..	Fam P pf.	79	80	North Am.	51½	52½
Do pf.	51	55	Do pf.	45	50	Fairbanks	..	48	Nunnally	10⅜	11½
Air Red.	37	39⅝	Burns Bros	86	89	F M & S.	8	9	Nova S S.	31½	33⅛
Alaska Ju.	1¼	1⅛	Do pf.	105	115	Do pf.	25½	28	Ohio Body.	8¼	10
A A Cables	94	104	Bush Ter.	..	85	Fisher Bdy	85	90	Ohio F S.	45	50
All Realty	70	..	Cal Zinc	6¼	6⅜	Do pf.	98	102	Ont Min.	4⅜	5⅛
Am S 1st pf.	94½	..	Cal P pf.	71½	73	F'port Tex.	16	18	Otis Elev.	120⅜	125
Am Ag Ch pf.	82	83	Cal & Ar.	47	50	G A T C.	48	54	Do pf.	..	85
Am Bk N.	47	48	Can So.	38	45	Gen Chem	120	..	Owens Bot pf.	..	100
Do pf.	41½	44	Case Plow.	6	8	Gen Cig pf.	89⅜	95	Pac Coast.	20	30
Am B Sug pf.	74	80	Case (J I) pf.	81	85	Do d pf.	83	86	Do 1st pf	69	100
Am B S & Fdy	48	49	Cent L pf.	91	94	Gen A pf.	84	88½	Do 2d pf.	45	60
Am C & F pf.	110	..	C R R of N J.	201	210	Gen M pf.	69⅜	75	Pac Dev.	18	19
Am Cot Oil pf.	80	65	Certain-Td.	38	40	Do 7% pf	77½	80	F G & E.	47½	48
Am Exp.	126⅛	130	Do 1st pf	78⅜	85	G'drich pf.	78	79	Pac Mail.	16	17
Am Ice	43	44	Do 2d pf.	65	68	Granby C.	22½	22½	P T & Tel.	39	42
Do pf.	55	58	C, B & Q.	215	..	Gray & D.	12	12½	Par & B.	14½	14¾
Am La F Fire Eng.	9⅝	10	Chi & Al.	7¼	8½	Guan Sug.	14½	16½	Penney pf.	..	86
Am Lin.	53	54	C & A pf.	10	20	Greene-C.	20	23	Peo & E.	10½	12½
Do pf.	84	88	C & E Ill ctfs	5	7	G, M & N.	9	12	Pere Marq.	18⅛	18¾
Am Lo pf.	102¼	104½	Do pf cfs	5	7	Do pf.	23	25	Do pr pf.	52½	55
Am Rd pf.	102	..	Chi Gt W.	8¼	8⅝	Gulf S S.	30	33	Do pf.	35	45
Am M & G.	20⅜	21½	Do pf.	10	20	Do 1st pf	72½	..	Pett-Mull	34⅝	62⅝
Am Shipb.	..	80	C & N W pf.	105	..	Hartman	69	71½	Do 1st pf.	..	90
Am Sm pf. A	65	69	Chi Pn T.	66	69	Hask & B.	57	58	Pierce-A pf.	73	75
Am Snuff.	96	105	Chi, St P, M & Om.	61	64	Hyd Steel	19½	20	P Jones	30	50
Do pf.	80	85	Do pf.	90	95	Hendee	17	17⅛	Do pf.	70	73
Am St Fdy pf	85	88	C, C, C & St L	45	48½	Homestake	49⅜	50	Phillips P.	27⅝	29
Am S Tob pfs	85	90	Do pf.	55½	70	Indian Ref.	15	16¼	P Y & A pf	70	121
Am T & C.	47	55	Clu-P pf.	85	..	Do pf.	80	..	P, Ft W & C pf.	112	120
Am Wh pf	90	90⅛	Coca-Cola	23½	24	Indiahoma	6⅜	7	Pitts S pf.	81	85
Am Wl pf.	95	97	Col & So.	26½	28½	Int Agric.	11½	13	P & W Va pf.	73	75
Am Zinc	9	9½	Do 1st pf	48½	50	Do pf.	52	55	Pond C C.	13⅛	13½
Do pf.	32	40	Do 2d pf	40	46	Int Harv.	94	95	Pr Stl C.	85	87½
Ann Arbor	11⅝	..	Comp T R.	38	42	Do pf.	103½	..	Do pf.	97	102
Do pf.	20½	25	Con Cigar.	55	56	Int M Tr.	34	35	Rand M.	23	24¾
Assets R.	3	3½	Do pf.	72	75	Int N pf.	76½	83	R R Sec, I C stk c.	55	56
Asso D G.	26⅝	27½	Con Textile	19⅝	20	Int Salt	56⅛	70	Ry Stl Spr	84⅝	85
Do 1st pf	56	58⅝	Cont Can.	60	64⅛	Iowa Cent.	7	10	Do pf.	104	107
Do 2d pf.	50½	52½	Do pf.	94⅛	100	Inv Oil	22½	23	Rem Type.	30⅜	31
Assoc Oil	95	96	Cont Ins.	63½	67	Jol & Chi.	90	..	Do 1st pf	80	93
Atl Fruit	7¼	8¼	C P R pf.	102	104	Jewel Tea pf.	12	13½	Do 2d pf.	..	95
Atl Ref.	1,025	1,075	Crex Carp.	40	57	Jones B T.	15½	16	Rens & S.	100	105
Do pf.	107⅛	109	Cruc S pf.	87	93	K C, Ft S & M pf.	59¼	..	Rep I & S pf	93	95¾
Atlas T.	17	..	Cuba C S pf.	63¼	65	Kan C So.	19⅝	20¼	Repub Tr.	19½	20
Auto Sales	3½	5	C-Am Sug pf.	92	95	Do pf.	47	47⅛	R Rels.	8	9
Do pf.	20	22	De B M.	18	26	Kayser (J)	73	90	Do 1st pf.	..	64
Bald L pf.	98	100	Day Chem.	28	30	Do 1st pf	98	120	Rutland pf.	19	22
B & O pf.	51	52⅛	D & Co pf.	87	93	Kelly Sp T pf.	75	80	St Jos L.	12½	12¾
B'dall A.	34	41	Del & Hud.	101	102	Do 8% pf	85	90	St L & S F pf.	31	34
Do B.	32	33	D, L & W.	210	218	Kelsey Wh.	40	45	St L S W pf.	39½	41
Bar Leath.	24	37	Det Ed.	93	97	Do pf.	80	95	Savage A.	16	18
Do pf.	74	80	Det & Mac	45	..	K & D M.	6	12	Seab A L.	6¼	10⅛
Bat Min.	⅝	1	Do pf.	50	..	Do pf.	20	..	Sears-R pf	100	105
B'ch Cr'k.	32	..	Det U Ry.	..	90	Kress(S H)	75	80	Shat-Ariz.	6⅛	6¼
Beth S 7% pf.	91	94	Dul S Tra.	..	17	Lacl Gas.	38	42	Shell Tran.	42½	44¾
Booth Fish	4⅝	5⅛	D, S S & A	4½	5	L E & W.	13	15	S-S S & I.	52½	54
Do pf.	32	42	Do pf.	7½	8	Do pf.	25	29⅛	Do pf.	78	88
Bkn Ed.	90	98	Dur Hos'y.	29	30	L R & T.	17½	18⅛	So P R S.	84	100
Brown Sh.	35	40	Do pf.	88	95	Ligg & My.	142	145	Do pf.	85	105
Do pf.	80	..	Elk H Coal	17½	18	Do B.	140	147	S & T pf.	70⅝	80½
B, R & P.	62	75	Do pf.	39	40	Do pf.	102½	105	Stern B pf.	85	95
Do pf.	90	..	Em Brant.	9	11	L-W B 1st pf.	93¼	99	Stand Mill.	105	140
			E Kodak	525	..	Do 2d pf.	98	115	Do pf.	75	80
			Do pf.	100	103	Lorill'd Co	139	140⅝	S O, N J.	183	187
			Erie 2d pf.	14⅝	15½	Do pf.	103	112	Sup Oil	12½	12⅝
						Louis & N.	102	103	Sup Steel	44	45⅛
						Mah C x d.	350	700	Do 1st pf	93	98⅛
						M'kay Cos.	60	62	Temtor, A.	23⅛	25⅛
						Do pf.	57	57¼	T P L Tr.	208	310
						Man B'ch.	½	2¼	Third Ave.	12	13
						Mall'son pf	50	54	Tide W O.	163	170
						Man Sug.	70	80	Tob P pf.	83	92
						Do pf.	..	93	T Sq A S.	10⅝	10⅞
						Martin-P.	14½	16½	T, St L & W ctfs.	9	10½
						Math Alk.	15½	25	Do pf c.	17	20
						Max M 1st pf.	7½	11	Tran & W.	40	43
						Do ctfs s.	8¼	8⅛	T C R T.	38⅛	40⅝
						Do 2d pf.	1⅛	5	Do pfs.	..	95
						M Dep Sts pf	95	..	Und Type.	146	150
						Miami Cop.	18	18⅛	Do pf.	100	120
						Mich Cent.	90	100	U Pac pf.	66⅛	67⅛
						M, St P & S S M.	71	78	Un Alloy S	32	34
						Do pf.	90	94	U Cig Sts.	135	150
						Do leas l	58	59	Do pf.	102	106
						M, K & T pf.	4½	5	Un Drug 1st pf.	45⅛	46
						Mon Pow.	55	58	Unit Fruit.	205⅛	207⅜
						Do pf.	93	96	U Rys Inv.	9⅛	10
						Mor & Es.	63	..	Do pf.	19⅛	21
						Mull B pf.	74	..	U S C I P.	12⅛	13
						N, C & St L	102½	115	Do pf.	41	43⅛
						Nat Anil & Ch ct.	54	..	U S Exp.	6	7½
						Do pf ct.	92	93	U S Ind A pf.	95	97
						Nat B pf.	108	..	U S Smelt.	34⅛	34⅜
						Nat C & S.	33	36	Utah Sec.	9	10
						Nat Enam.	54	56	Va-Car Ch pf.	101	103
						Do pf.	90	95	Va I, C & Coke	86	90
						Nat Lead.	72	73	Va R & P.	..	45
						Do pf.	103	106	Weber & H	11¼	12
						Nev Con C	10⅝	11	Wah pf, B.	14⅝	17
						N O, T & Mex	63⅛	64⅝	W F Exp.	64	65
						N Y A B.	81	83	West Md.	10⅝	11⅛
						N Y, C & St L.	46½	47⅛	Do 2d pf.	18⅛	19
						Do 1st pf	56	68	W Pac pf.	70	70⅛
						Do 2d pf.	57	61	West A B.	96	96⅞
						N Y Dock.	22	23	W'wire Stl	17⅛	18⅛
						Do pf.	40⅝	45	White Mtr.	38	39
						N Y, L & West	78	90	Wilson pf.	80	90
						N Y, O & West	18¼	18⅞	Wis Cent.	34	38
						Norf So.	10½	12½	W'worth pf.	106	108
						N & W pf.	67	69½	Wor Pump pf, A.	70⅛	73
									Do pf B.	61⅛	63

ALL NEW YORK CLEARING HOUSE INSTITUTIONS

(AVERAGE FIGURES)

Week ended.	Loans.	Deposits.	Cash Reserve.
Jan. 15, 1921	$5,171,623,000	*$4,320,143,000	$558,913,000
Jan. 8, 1921	5,261,120,000	4,372,156,000	567,434,000
Dec. 31, 1920	5,261,067,000	4,230,200,000	545,885,000
Dec. 24, 1920	5,281,715,000	4,226,594,000	544,409,000
Dec. 18, 1920	5,235,041,000	4,310,033,000	565,497,000
Dec. 11, 1920	5,183,421,000	4,221,651,000	543,487,000
Dec. 4, 1920	5,206,880,000	4,270,048,000	543,030,000
Jan. 17, 1920	5,346,586,000	4,407,065,000	578,194,000
Jan. 10, 1920	5,366,606,000	4,425,525,000	583,617,000
Dec. 27, 1919	5,191,447,000	4,318,584,000	559,450,000
Dec. 20, 1919	5,171,509,000	4,420,585,000	592,169,000
Dec. 13, 1919	5,116,781,000	4,332,260,000	586,721,000
Dec. 6, 1919	5,144,337,000	4,334,087,000	597,945,000
Nov. 29, 1919	4,660,680,000	3,922,347,000	567,210,000
Last year's high	5,486,134,000	4,484,543,000	593,486,000
in week ended	Oct. 16.	Oct. 16.	June 19.
This year's low	5,094,477,000	4,221,651,000	533,369,000
in week ended	March 6.	Dec. 11.	Aug. 28.

*United States deposits deducted, $47,370,000.

"Stock Price Range from 1913 to 1920" is the title of a folder which we have just published which shows the Highest and Lowest Prices of Stock Exchange Stocks for the years 1913 to 1920, inclusive.
Ask for Folder
Max Hesslein & Co.
60 Broadway New York

Offer subject to prior sale for IMMEDIATE DELIVERY
Bremen 3s $10.75
Leipzig 4s 14.75
Heidelberg 4s 15.00
Solingen 4s 14.50
A. E. G. (German Genl. Electric) 4½s 16.75
Vienna 4½s 2.375
Vienna 5s 2.625
All other foreign Securities
E. H. Wolfes
212 Broadway, N. Y.
Tel. Cortlandt 2352-2374.

W. W. Lanahan & Co.
Investment Securities
Members { New York Stock Exchange. Baltimore Stock Exchange.
Calvert Building, Baltimore.
Telephone St. Paul 5775

BEFORE YOU BUY STOCKS
Call or Write for Our Investment Chart
A copyrighted form designed to aid the investor in determining the strong and weak points of a contemplated purchase. Ask for T.
I. D. NOLL & COMPANY
170 Broadway, New York

PLANNED INVESTMENTS
Consistent with a conservative policy of "Profitable Investing"
(Trade Mark Registered U. S. Pat. Off.)
Copy Free on Request.
A. HICKS LAWRENCE
50 Broad St., N. Y. Tel. Broad 3621

Recently compiled list of Popular Preferred Stocks
now ready for distribution.
Sent on Request for C-11.
HEYWOOD BROOKS & CO.
"Popular Preferred Stocks"
149 Broadway New York

MILLER & CO.
Members
New York Stock Exchange
EQUITABLE BLDG.
120 Broadway New York

Established 1900.
FRED'K F. MARQUAND
Member Consolidated Stock Exchange, N.Y.
56-58-60 Broad St., New York
STOCKS AND BONDS

We offer subject to prior sale and change in price
300,000 Kronen
Royal Bank of Bohemia
4% Bonds
@ $122.50 per 10,000 Kronen
Specialists in British, French, German and Austrian Bonds and all other Foreign Securities—Foreign Exchange
NEWMAN BROTHERS
115 Broadway, New York The Rookery, Chicago
Tel. Rector 8154-5-6-7-8-9 Tel. Harrison 8954-5-6-7-8

$200 CAN BUY
all the following
GOVERNMENT BONDS
$ 50 U. S. Liberty 2nd 4¼%
Fcs. 1000 French 4%
Marks 3000 German 3%
Lire 1000 Italian 5%
Ru. 3000 Russian 5½%
The present low rates of foreign exchange make it possible to buy all of these bonds for $200. Their value at maturity at normal rates of exchange is $2,092. The total income is now 4½%. As exchange rates advance, the income will also increase.
Orders for one or more blocks of these bonds may be wired at my expense.
Nehemiah Friedman
60 Beaver St. Bowling Green 1888

National Biscuit Co.
A complete analysis of the above stock is featured in current issue of our "Investment Service."
Copy free on request
Ask for No. 189
E. L. WITTMEYER & CO., Inc.
Investment Securities
66 Broadway New York

German Securities
F. B. Warren & Co.
15 Maiden Lane, New York
Tel. Cortlandt 7575.

GERMAN BONDS
Foreign Exchange
MEYEROWITZ & CO.
165 BROADWAY NEW YORK
Tel. Cortlandt 8311-12-13

A Good Investment
A business man can make no better investment of Five Dollars than in a subscription for The Annalist, which interprets the trend of business in concise, authoritative articles.
Analyses of trade movements throughout the world, prices of securities dealt in on the New York and other Exchanges, the situation in the money, steel, textile and other markets, barometers showing stock movements and the cost of living appear regularly.
Essentially a business magazine for business men and women, The Annalist is a splendid textbook for the student of financial affairs.
In this week's issue
OUT TOMORROW
Bankers Prepare for a Big Year in Foreign Financing.
The Threat of "Next War" Lies in the Dye Situation.
A Short Cut to Income and Excess Profits Taxation.
International Gold Settlement Fund Like Federal Reserve's.
THE ANNALIST
A Magazine of Finance, Commerce and Economics
Published Mondays
The New York Times Company
Times Square, New York
10c a copy at news stands. $5.00 a year by mail.

Philadelphia Rapid Transit

The current issue of our Market Review contains a comprehensive analysis of this well-known street railway company, which is now showing increased earnings operating under a higher rate of fare.

Midvale Steel

The strong position of this company is outlined in another article which gives in detail interesting information concerning Midvale's production, output and financial condition.

Among other stocks discussed are:

Swift & Company
Swift-International
Middle States Oil
Allis-Chalmers
American Can
Pullman Company

Sent on request for E-594.

HUGHES & DIER
Stocks—Bonds—Grain
Members { Philadelphia and Pittsburgh Stock Exchanges, Chicago Bd. of Trade, N. Y. Produce Exch.
42 New Street, New York
Telephone Broad 5140
509 Fifth Ave. Tel. Vanderbilt 9638
67 W. 125th St. Tel. Harlem 5651
Philadelphia Pittsburgh Cleveland

A THRIFT REMINDER

The movement to observe the week beginning with Benjamin Franklin's birthday, "Jan 17," as Thrift Week is arousing the interest of all thoughtful people.

We suggest that our Bi-Weekly market letter "Investment Survey," will prove valuable in selecting the right kind of investments.

Scott & Stump
Investment Securities
SPECIALISTS IN ODD LOTS
Stock Exch'ge Bldg. Philadelphia Locust 6480-5
40 Exchange Place New York Broad 1331-8

NEW HAVEN

Enjoys a practical monopoly of the New England railroad traffic—much talked about receivership rumors — an interesting analysis with a map — other worth while features in—

MARKET OPINION
Ask for a copy A-80

R. H. MacMASTERS & CO.
Members Consolidated Stock Exch. of N.Y.
82-84 Broad St. New York
Phone: Broad 6380 Entire First Floor
CHICAGO MILWAUKEE NEW HAVEN

Middle States Oil

A soundly established petroleum producing enterprise and a liberal dividend payer.

Special report reviewing company's progress, dividend record, present status, etc., together with estimate of current earnings, will be mailed free upon request.

Ask for No. T-430

KOHLER, BREMER & CO.
STOCKS—BONDS
MEMBERS CONSOLIDATED STOCK EXCHANGE of NY
32 BROADWAY NY TEL: BROAD 6910
HAMPTON HOTEL ALBANY, NY

STATISTICAL BOOK

contains statistics and information in condensed form on Stocks and Bonds listed on the leading exchanges in United States and Canada.

Gives ticker abbreviations of Stock Exchange issues.

Shows high and low prices for the entire year of 1920 on Stock Exchange and Curb Stocks and Bonds.

Valuable to investors for ready reference

Sent Gratis. Ask for T-116

MOSHER & WALLACE
STOCKS—BONDS—GRAIN
55 Broadway—New York
TELEPHONE WHITEHALL 1140-1-2-3
MEMBERS { New York Produce Exchange. Consolidated Stock Exchange of NY

How New York Became World's Financial Center

The first of a series of illuminating articles by J. George Frederick.

Send $3 for this and the next 12 issues.

The FINANCIAL WORLD
Published Every Monday
Dept. T, 29 Broadway, New York

ODD POINTS CLEARED IN INCOME TAX LAW

Clergyman Must Pay on Easter Offerings, but Christmas Checks Are Exempt.

COUNTY JUROR'S PAY TAXED

State Excludes From Its Levy Amounts Received for Personal Injuries.

Questions covering a variety of points relating to the administration of the New York State Income Tax law are answered in a statement issued yesterday by the New York State Income Tax Bureau. The questions and answers follow:

"Non-resident—In dealings in the New York Stock Exchange of a speculative nature I sustained heavy stock losses. Are these losses deductible in my non-resident return under the New York Income Tax law?

"A.—No. Neither income of a non-resident from stock transactions is taxable, nor losses sustained deductible.

"Teller—On Dec. 31, 1920, the bank for which I work credited me with $250 bonus, but because of the amount of labor involved the payment was not received by me until Jan. 3, 1921. Is this 1920 or 1921 income?

"A.—If the amount was actually credited to you and available on Dec. 31, 1920, you should include it in your return of income for that year. This does not alter the general rule that where bonuses to employes are not determined and credited until after the close of the year for which they are voted that they are income in the year of receipt.

"Clergyman—In my tax return, am I correctly informed that amounts received as Easter offerings must be included in my income and that personal checks received from members of my congregation at Christmas time, are not taxable?

"A—Yes, your understanding is correct in both instances.

"Juror—My brother during the year sat as a juror in the Federal District Court while I was a juror in the County Court. How do we treat the amounts received for this service?

"A—As your brother was paid directly by the Federal Government he is not required to include it in his income, but the amount which you received must be included in your income.

"English—I am a resident of Wales and during 1920 made $8,000 from concert recitals in New York City. Do I understand that the New York law taxes me as a non-resident upon this amount?

"A—Yes. These are payments for personal services and you are taxable on 1 per centum of the amount received in excess of your personal exemption.

"Painter—The owner of a dwelling in which I was working has settled with me for $500 an account of injuries received when the scaffold broke due to a defective cornice. Is this income to me?

"A—No. The law directly excludes from income amounts received as compensation for personal injuries.

"Doctor—Please steer me straight on the following matters: (1) Payment of $50 for subscriptions to professional publications; (2) purchase of new X-ray apparatus; (3) damages to bookcase by patient kicking in doors.

"A- (1) Such amounts are deductible; (2) these expenses are capital investments and not deductible; (3) cost of repairing property is deductible, as it was caused by a casualty.

"R. L. B.—Did the Federal decision in the case of stock dividends mean that investors are not required to include as income, dividends which they received on stock?

"A—No. The Federal decision which, under advice of the Attorney General, affected the policy of this bureau, means that only dividends which are declared in stock of a company when the corporation transfers amount from surplus or undivided profits accounts to capital account and distributes new or unissued stock among its stockholders pro rata, are excluded from income. Where dividends are paid in stock of corporations other than those declaring them or cash, they are taxable to the recipient, if a resident. If a non-resident, they are not taxable, unless derived from a business in which he is engaged in New York State."

COTTONPLANTERS'ATTITUDE

Possible Results of the Existing Situation.

Practically all of the cotton crop, reports the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, has been harvested, but reports show that little is being sold, the farmers in a large number of instances declining to sell at the low prices prevailing, which have been around 14.25 to 15.25 during the month. A considerable amount is being held on the farms, while the warehouses are said to be full of cotton.

Farmers give evidence of much discouragement because of the low prices of farm products and the continued high cost of many of the things a farmer must buy in order to continue operations. Some farmers claim they will be unable to make a crop next year because of this year's losses.

The low price of cotton seems to have stimulated the planting of Winter grains, and if the areas are not Winter-killed it appears as if next year's cotton acreage is already reduced. There is a movement on foot in which the Southern bankers, as well as farmers, are taking part, to effect a reduction of at least one-third in the acreage planted to cotton next year. It is felt that this movement will be more successful because some of the banks are reported to have intimated they will refuse credit to farmers who persist in planting full acreages in cotton for the 1921 season.

Tennessee reports indicate that there will be a considerable quantity of cotton left in the fields, as with present prices some farmers say they cannot afford to pay for the picking.

IN THE LABOR MARKET.

Changes of Ten Weeks in Position of Employers and Employes.

The Pennsylvania Department of Labor has issued the following report on conditions of employment in six large cities of that State. It gives the weekly statements, for ten weeks beginning with October, of the applications for work as against the applications for workers, and shows the period to have been strikingly marked by increase in the number of persons applying for work and decrease in the number of persons asked for by employers:

	Applying.	Asked For.
First week	3,095	9,220
Second week	3,410	9,242
Third week	3,082	8,874
Fourth week	4,288	7,811
Fifth week	2,676	6,751
November—
First week	3,587	6,914
Second week	2,517	5,482
Third week	3,476	5,522
Fourth week	3,491	5,256
December—
First week	4,655	5,134
Second week	5,880	4,519

On a percentage basis, the change from the opening of October to the middle of December was an increase of nearly 90 per cent. in applications for work and a decrease of more than 50 per cent. in requests of employers for workmen.

CHANGED COAL SITUATION.

A Chicago Estimate That Supply Now Exceeds Demand.

A careful survey of the fuel situation, as reported at the end of December by the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank, shows that the supply of coal for all consuming territories now exceeds the demand. "This," the report continues, "is the first time that this condition has existed, with the exception of the Spring months of 1919, in nearly four years. During the greater part of that four-year period there have been shortages either in all or certain sections of the country, due to insufficient facilities, Government priority of orders, zone regulations and other factors.

"In four years the number of operating mines increased from 6,500 to 10,000, with a producing capacity of 750,000 tons, an excess over consumption of about two hundred thousand tons. Now there are ample transportation facilities, it is claimed, for all of these mines. The consumption of coal has been materially decreased in consequence of the reduced operating time of industries generally."

Conditions in Italy.

The foreign trade of Italy, according to a report of this week from our Consular office at Rome, continues to be seriously affected by the rate of exchange on foreign markets. The report adds: "The market is reported active but unstable, and it is impossible to predict the future tendency with any degree of certainty. Bank rates remain unchanged, while bank loans are increasing. Inflation is reported to be rapidly on the increase, a result of an unchanged bank rate and an increasing amount of bank loans. Increasing unemployment, together with labor unrest and frequent strikes, characterises the labor situation." An increase in the cost of living is reported, apparently due, in part, to the inadequacy of railway equipment and to impairment of the railway plant, resulting in congestion of transportation.

ANNOUNCES NEW EXPLOSIVE

Atlas Company Produces One Unaffected by Cold or Heat.

The Atlas Powder Company of Philadelphia announces the successful production of a new type of economical explosive of high efficiency which is absolutely non-freezing. This is expected to prove of great importance in farming, construction work and mining and quarrying operations where cold weather blasting is necessary.

The new explosive cannot be affected by any temperature, according to extensive laboratory and field tests. Heat causes no deterioration. It has a high degree of safety because its qualities of stability prevent it from exploding prematurely, no ordinary blow or shake-up causing it to explode. The new explosive also eliminates the throbbing headaches induced in the workmen handling ordinary dynamite.

CURB TRANSACTIONS

SATURDAY, JAN. 15, 1921.

INDUSTRIALS.

Sales.		High.	Low.	Last.	Sales.		High.	Low.	Last.
100	Aut. Fuel S.	67¾	67¾	67¾	100	‡Max Chal,A	59	59	59
100	‡B.-Am. Ch.	4	4	4	1,500	‡ McC Mag..	9	8	9
200	‡B.-A. T. cp	12¾	12½	12¾	500	Perf Tire....	1⅛	1⅛	1⅛
100	‡Chi. Nipple	7¾	7¾	7¾	600	‡PrShC&RS.	⅞	⅞	⅞
1,200	‡D Mot, w i	14½	13	14½	800	‡Do pf....	1⅜	1⅛	1⅜
500	‡Em G & F.	86	84½	86	700	‡Radio Co....	1⅝	1⅝	1⅝
500	‡Emp T & S	18¾	18¼	18¾	1,000	‡Do pf....	2⅛	2⅛	2⅛
300	‡Farrell C..	20	19	19	400	‡RFyTP.Inc	5¾	5¾	5¾
200	‡Hav. Tob..	2¼	2¼	2¼	600	‡SwCo of A.	2⅝	2⅝	2⅝
100	‡Hav Tob pf	7½	7½	7½	1,200	‡Trian Film.	1/16	1/16	1/16
200	‡Int Cult pf	7	6⅞	7	400	‡Un Ret StC	8¾	8¾	8¾
200	‡Int ConRub	7¾	7¾	7¾	4,000	USShipCorp	1⅜	1⅛	1⅜
400	‡Kay Co G.	1⅛	1⅛	1⅛	1,800	U S SS Co..	1⅛	1⅛	1⅛
75	‡Leh V C S.	69	68	69	100	‡Wm Davies	33¾	33¾	33¾
500	‡Max Chal,B	17	16½	17

STANDARD OIL SUBSIDIARIES.

100	‡A A Oil....	19¾	19¾	19¾	500	‡S O Co Ind	73	72	72½

MISCELLANEOUS OIL STOCKS.

5,000	††Allied Oil.	17	16	17	1,000	‡Mountain P	9¼	9⅛	9¼
1,800	‡Boone Oil..	2	1⅞	2	5,600	Noble O & G	⅝	⅝	⅝
1,500	††B-Wyo Oil.	⅞	11/16	⅞	600	N A O & R	3¼	3	3¼
2,500	‡Carib Syndi	8⅝	8⅜	8½	500	O O & G new	2¾	2⅝	2⅝
1,800	‡Col Emeral	4	3¾	3⅞	600	‡Pennok Oil.	6¾	6⅛	6¾
1,200	‡Denny Oil..	1	⅞	⅞	800	‡Prod & Ref	5⅝	5½	5⅝
300	‡Elk Basin P	8½	8⅜	8½	400	‡Red Rock O	⅜	⅜	⅜
2,500	Engineers P	1⅛	1⅛	1⅛	500	‡Risk Tex Co	¼	¼	¼
1,000	Federal Oil.	2⅛	2	2⅛	100	‡Ry Con w i	14	14	14
2,500	‡Fensland O	14¾	14¼	14¾	1,000	‡Sapul Refg	5	5	5
400	‡Glenrock O	2¼	2	2¼	600	‡Set Prod Co	2¾	2⅝	2¾
4,800	‡Hudson Oil	⅛	1/16	⅛	1,000	‡Simms Pet.	8	7¾	7⅞
1,000	‡Internat. P.	17	16¾	17	1,000	Skelly Oil...	8¼	8⅛	8¼
400	‡Livings Pet	3⅝	3⅝	3⅝	4,200	‡Stanton Oil	5	5	5
300	Magna Oil..	3	2⅞	3	6,700	‡Tex O & L	⅜	11/32	⅜
300	‡Maracaib O	14¾	14	14¾	1,000	‡U Tex Pet..	⅜	⅜	⅜
200	‡Mex Eag O	24¼	24¼	24¼	800	‡Victoria Oil.	1	⅞	1
1,200	Mexico Oil..	1⅛	1⅛	1⅛	200	‡Vulcan Oil.	⅜	⅜	⅜
400	‡Mid Colum.	6	5⅞	6	100	‡Woodbrn O	1⅞	1⅞	1⅞
3,800	‡Midwes Tex	⅛	1/16	⅛

MINING STOCKS.

1,200	A-B Col M..	¼	3/16	¼	2,700	††Kewanas .	2½	3	2½
2,850	††Belcher E (a pros)..	5	5	5	2,500	††Knox Div.	9	8¼	9
4,000	††Belcher D (a pros)..	5	5	5	5,000	††Lone S C M	5¼	5	5¼
					1,000	††MacN Min.	18	18	18
700	Big Ledge..	⅛	⅛	⅛	2,500	††Marsh M..	8	7	7½
2,800	††Booth	4½	4	4½	800	‡Mother Cop	5¾	5½	5¾
110,000	†Bos & Mon	49	44	49	400	Nip Mines...	8¼	8	8¼
2,300	††Caledonia..	16	15	16	200	Ophir S M..	⅝	⅝	⅝
8,500	‡Can Silver.	24	22	22	400	Prince Con..	¼	¼	¼
3,600	††Cashboy ..	7	7	7		Rav V Cop..	1	1	1
375	Con Vir S...	4	3¾	4	1,000	Rex Con....	5	5	5
5,600	††Cortez Sil..	67	64	67	2,500	††Silver K D	2	2	2
3,500	Divide Ext (a pros)..	30	30	30	2,500	††Silver Pick	10½	10	10½
					2,500	‡S A G & P.	6¾	6¼	6¾
					400	Stand S-L....	1/16	1/16	1/16
1,500	El Sal Sil...	1/16	⅛	1/16	200	††Success M.	2	2	2
2,600	Emma Sil...	4	3½	4	1,500	‡Suther Div.	1½	1	1½
3,000	‡E C M Co..	47	46	47	800	‡Tal Silver..	1/16	1/16	1/16
1,900	††Eureka H.	1 13/16	1¾	1 13/16	280	‡Ton Belm't	1 1/16	1⅛	1⅛
3,300	‡Florence G.	19	17	19	1,220	‡Ton Divide.	1 3/16	1⅛	1 3/16
6,800	††Gold Z D..	23½	22½	23	450	Ton Ext.....	1 1/16	1⅛	1 1/16
2,500	††Gold Con..	7½	7	7	225	‡Ton Mining	1⅛	1 1/16	1⅛
3,500	††Gold Dev..	2	2	2	750	United East.	2 1/16	2⅝	2 1/16
500	††Gold M....	1	1	1	8,300	††U S C M..	8	8	8
5,100	††Har D M.	20	18	20	2,200	††Victory D (a pros)..	4½	4	4½
2,300	‡Hen Silver.	3	2¾	3	2,500	†W End Con	1 1/16	1 1/16	1 1/16
620	Hecla Min...	3 13/16	3¾	3¾	2,300	†W Caps M.	8½	8	8½
500	‡Iron Blos..	1/16	1/16	1/16	2,000	†W Cap E..	⅛	⅛	⅛
2,200	††Jim Butler	19	16	17	1,500	Wilbert Min	3	2	3
3,100	†Jumbo Ext.	6	5	6

BONDS.

Sales.		High.	Low.	Last.
10,000	‡Allied Packers 6s	58	57½	58
12,000	‡Am Tel & Tel 6s, 1922	96¾	96¾	96¾
2,000	‡Am Tel & Tel, 1924	95	95	95
1,000	‡Anaconda 6s	86⅝	86⅝	86⅝
14,000	‡Anaconda Copper 7s	94⅛	93⅞	94
15,000	‡Anglo-Am Oil 7½s	100⅝	100½	100½
2,000	‡Armour 7%	98	97⅞	97¾
10,000	‡Beth Steel 7%, 1935	96¼	96	96¼
25,000	‡Cerro de Pasco 8%	103	102½	102¾
150,000	‡Consol Gas 8s	99⅞	99⅝	99¾
15,000	‡Denmark 8s	99⅝	99⅝	99¾
6,000	‡Diamond Match 7%	102¼	102	102¼
10,000	‡Duquesne Light 6s	89¼	89½	89¼
15,000	‡Empire Gas & Fuel 8s	95¼	95	95¼
25,000	‡Galena Signal Oil 7%	93¾	93½	93¾
1,000	‡Govt of Sweden 6s	83¾	83¾	83¾
150,000	‡Grand Trunk 6½s, new	96⅝	96⅛	96⅛
20,000	‡Inter Rapid Tran 7s	68½	68	68½
25,000	‡Kingdom of Norway	100⅛	99⅞	100
10,000	‡Laclede Gas Light 7s	88½	88½	88½
5,000	‡Ohio Gas 7s, 1921	98¾	98¾	98¾
10,000	‡Ohio Cities Gas, 1922	96¾	96¾	96¾
10,000	‡Ohio Cities Gas, 1924	95	95	95
8,000	‡Sears-Roebuck 7s (1 yr)	98¾	98½	98¾
77,000	‡Sears-Roebuck scrip	96	93	95
50,000	Sinclair 7½%	90	89¾	90
10,000	‡Solvay & Cie 8s	102¼	101⅞	102
50,000	‡Stand Oil of Cal 7s	101⅛	101⅛	101⅛
15,000	‡Swift & Co 7s, 1925	96	96	96
5,000	‡Texas Co 7% notes	99⅛	99⅛	99⅛
1,000	‡Western Electric 7s	100	100	100

GERMAN BONDS.

Marks.		High.	Low.	Last.
100	Vienna 4s	2¼	2¼	2¼

†Sells cents per share. ‡Unlisted.

OUT-OF-TOWN EXCHANGES

BALTIMORE.

Stocks.

Sales.		High.	Low.	Last.	Sales.		High.	Low.	Last.
20	Con Coal...	85¼	85¼	85¼	15	Ter Sug pf.	6¾	6¾	6¾
5	Con Power..	90	90	90	160	Un Rwy....	12¼	12¼	12¼
15	M&Mist N B	25	25	25

Bonds.

$4,000	Con Pw 4½s	75¼	75¼	75¼	$4,000	Un Rwy inc	46¾	46¾	46¾

BOSTON.

Mining.

Sales		High.	Low.	Last.	Sales.		High.	Low.	Last.
150	Arcadian ...	3	3	3	5	Mohawk ...	6	6	6
10	Anaconda ...	37	37	37	25	New Corn'a.	16	16	16
10	Ariz Com'l..	8	8	8	95	Nipissing ...	8	8	8
2,275	Big Heart...	5⅝	5⅜	5½	50	North Butte.	11	11	11
5	Cal & Ariz..	48	48	48	25	Old Dom'n..	19¾	19¾	19¾
1	Cal & Hecla.245	245	245		10	Seneca	19	19	19
585	Carson	14	13¾	14	100	Sup & Bos..	1¾	1¾	1¾
287	Cape Range..	32	31½	32	100	Trinity	2¼	2	2¼
100	Davis-Daly .	7	6⅞	7	500	Tuolumne ..	56	56	56
15	Granby	23	23	23	12	U S Smel pf	43¼	43¼	43¼
2,000	Helvetia	2⅛	2⅛	2⅛	75	Utah Apex..	2⅞	2⅝	2⅞
25	Island Creek	49	49	49	25	Utah Metals.114	114	114
15	Isle Royale.	20	20	20	100	Winona	60	60	60
100	Keweenaw ..	1⅛	1⅛	1⅛	10	Wolverine ..	11½	11½	11½

Railroads.

26	Boston & A.126	126	126		10	Boston & M.	23½	23½	23½
110	Boston Elev.	62	62	62	250	N Y, N H...	22	22	22

Miscellaneous.

10	Am Ag pf...	85½	85½	85½	100	Island Oil...	4⅝	4⅝	4⅝
7	Amoskeag ..	80	80	80	275	J T Connor..	13½	13¼	13½
1	Do pf....	80	80	80	200	Libby	12½	12½	12½
200	Am Pneu...	2¼	2⅛	2¼	10	Loews	15¾	15¾	15¾
5	Am Sugar...	92	92	92	40	Mass Gas....	84	83	84
40	Do pf.....104½	104½	104½		5	McEl 1st pf.	90½	90½	90½
326	A T T.....	99⅝	99⅛	99⅝	15	Mergen'r ...110¾	110¾	110¾
50	Am Wool....	68¾	68¾	68¾	810	Nat Lead....	8¼	8⅛	8⅛
25	Do pf......	96	96	96	30	Net & T....	99½	99	99½
100	Bos Mex P..	80	80	80	80	Swift 104¾	104¼	104¾
20	Eastern Mfg	22½	22½	22½	5	Reece But...	14	14	14
100	Eastern S S.	16½	16½	16½	16	Swift Int....	28½	28½	28½
20	Edison 158	158	158		16	Uni Drug...103	103	103
100	Elder	16¼	16¼	16¼	25	Uni Fruit...206	206	206
5	Gen Electric.123½	123½	123½		20	Uni Shoe....	37½	37¼	37¼
30	Greenfield ..	12¾	12¾	12¾	10	Do pf......	24½	24½	24½
25	Int Cot M...	40	40	40	100	Ventura	17⅞	17¼	17⅞
10	Do pf......	83	83	83	16	Waldorf	18⅛	18⅛	18⅛
85	Int Cement..	23	23	20	15	Walworth ...	15¼	15¼	15¼
100	Int Prod pf.	27	27	27

Bonds.

$5,000	A G W 5s..	59½	59½	59½	$1,000	Carson 7s...	80	80	80
8,000	C J & S 5s..	79¾	79¾	79¾	1,000	Miss R P 5s.	77¾	77¾	77¾

CHICAGO.

Stocks.

Sales.		High.	Low.	Last.	Sales.		High.	Low.	Last.
60	Am Radia..	70½	70½	70½	50	Reo Motor..	21	21	21
240	Arm'r Leath	13½	13½	13½	50	Sears	91½	91½	91½
155	Armour pf..	92½	92	92½	440	Shaw	65	64	64
25	Beaverboard	40	40	40	100	Do rights..	17	17	17
50	Briscoe	15	15	15	200	Stewart-W..	30¾	30¼	30¾
25	Cudahy	62	62	62	25	Stand G pf.	34⅞	34⅞	34⅞
30	Com Edis'n.105	105	105		300	Swift Int...	29	28⅞	29
60	Hupp	12⅞	12⅞	12⅞	25	Swift & Co.104⅝	104⅝	104⅝
435	Libby-McN..	12¾	12½	12⅝	75	Thompson ..	31⅛	31	31
75	Mont Ward.	18⅞	18⅛	18⅛	40	Temtor P A.	24	24	24
100	Mitchell ...	7⅞	7⅞	7⅞	450	Un Carbide.	51⅝	51⅛	51⅝
4,500	Nat Leath..	8¾	8¾	8¾	275	Wahl	40	40	40

DETROIT.

Stocks.

Sales.		High.	Low.	Last.	Sales.		High.	Low.	Last.
175	Co Sug......	13	13	13	1,400	Packard ...	10¼	10¼	10¼
20	Det Edison.	96¾	96¾	96¾	125	Do pf....	75	75	75
50	Ford 242	242	242		225	Reo Motors.	20¾	20¾	20¾
725	Lin Motors.	20½	20	20½	50	Timken	30½	30½	30½
650	Mich Sug...	8¾	8¾	8¾

PHILADELPHIA.

Stocks.

Sales.		High.	Low.	Last	Sales.		High.	Low.	Last.
100	Alliance Ins.	19	19	19	108	Phil Elec....	22½	22⅛	22½
10	Am Gas.....	32	32	32	76	Do pf.....	27¼	27¼	27¼
5	Am Stores...	45¾	45¾	45¾	35	Phil I Wire.	51	51	51
127	Elec Storage	96½	95½	96½	650	Tono Belm't	1⅛	1⅛	1⅛
300	Gen Asp pf..	95¾	95¾	95¾	20	U Cos, N.J.166¾	165¾	165¾
6	Ins Co, N A	28¾	28¾	28¾	186	U G Imp....	30¾	30¼	30¾
46	Lehigh Nav.	68	67¾	67¾	61	Do pf.....	49⅞	49⅞	49⅞
263	Phila R T...	18	18	18	10	Union Trac.	30¾	30¾	30¾
2	Pa Salt Mfg	65½	65½	65½	80	York Ry pf..	30	30	30

Bond.

$9,000	Phil Elec 1st 5s	84¾	84¼	84¾

PITTSBURGH.

Stocks.

Sales.		High.	Low.	Last.	Sales.		High.	Low.	Last.
275	Am W G M.115	113	113¾		165	Mariand	3¾	3¼	3¼
210	Ark Gas	9¼	9⅛	9¼	50	Okla Gas...	30¾	30¼	30¾
16	Bank of Pgh	14	14	14	20	P Brew pf..	7⅞	7⅞	7⅞
100	Car L & Z..	4½	4½	4½	1,040	Pitts Jer....	3	2	3
50	Ind Brewing	2¼	2¼	2¼	375	Pitts O & G.	11½	11¼	11½
700	Kay Co Gas.	1⅛	1⅛	1⅛	20	Pitts P G...115¼	115¼	115¼
20	Lone S Gas.	25¼	25¼	25¼	55	West A B...	97	97	97
45	Mfrs L & H.	52	51¾	51¾

Bond.

$1,000	Pittsburgh Brewing 6s	69	69	69

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Sales.		High.	Low.	Last.	Sales.		High.	Low.	Last.
100	Ajax Rubber	35¾	35¾	35¾	400	Key T & R..	11¼	10¾	11¼
10	Allis Chalm.	34¼	34¼	34¼	50	Loew's Inc..	17	16⅞	16⅞
320	Allied Chem.	53⅛	52½	53	40	Loft C Co...	12¼	12¼	12¼
30	Am B Sugar	44⅛	44⅛	44⅛	70	Maxwell M..	6⅛	5⅞	5⅞
147	Amer Can...	27¼	27	27¼	910	Mexican Pet.162⅞	160⅞	162
50	Am H & L..	9	8⅞	9	90	Mid Steel....	32	31⅞	31⅞
70	Am H & L pf	45¼	44⅞	45¼	1,575	Middle S Oil	13¼	13	13
200	Am Int Corp	46	45	45¾	125	Mo Pacific..	20	19½	19½
95	Am Locom..	83¾	82¾	82¾	125	M Ward Co..	18¾	18⅛	18⅛
150	Am S R Cp	8¾	8¾	8¾	180	Nat C Cable	4⅝	4⅝	4⅝
70	Am S & Ref	37¾	36⅞	37¾	175	N Y, N H & H	22¼	21½	22
50	Am Sugar...	92¾	92¾	92¾	180	Norf & W..102⅞	101⅞	101⅞
90	Am Sum Tob	77¾	76¾	77¾	60	North Pac..	84	83¾	84
160	Am T & T..	99⅛	99⅛	99⅛	51	Otis Steel Co	15⅛	15⅛	15⅛
100	Am Woolen.	69¼	67	69¼	250	Pan Am....	76	74⅞	75⅞
70	Anac Copper	37¾	37	37⅞	140	Pennsylvania	41⅛	41⅛	41⅛
60	Atchison ...	83¼	83¼	83¼	1,460	Penn Steel..	16⅛	15⅞	16⅛
560	A, G & W I.	72¾	71⅞	72¼	90	Pierce-A	25	24⅞	24⅞
1,710	Baldwin Loc	91⅛	90⅛	91⅛	80	Phila Co	32¼	31⅞	32¼
335	B & O.......	37⅛	36⅞	36⅞	70	Pitts & W..	31¼	31	31¼
134	Beth Steel B.	59⅝	58⅝	59⅝	10	Punta A Sug	46⅜	46⅜	46⅜
30	Br R Tran.	11½	11½	11½	70	Ray Con....	13⅛	13⅛	13⅛
80	Butte & Sup	12¼	12¼	12¼	8,735	Reading	89¼	88	88⅞
30	Butte C & Z.	5¾	5½	5¾	210	Rep I & S..	70¾	69	69⅞
10	Canad Pac..116¾	116¾	116¾		50	Roy Dutch..	67¾	67¼	67⅞
30	Cer de P C..	30¾	30¾	30¾	20	Santa C Sug	4	4	4
70	Cen Leather	39¼	38⅞	39¼	140	Sax Motors.	4⅛	3⅞	3⅞
190	Chand Motor	68⅛	67⅞	68⅛	60	Seneca Cop..	19⅞	18⅞	19⅞
100	Ches & Ohio	61¼	61⅛	61¼	270	Sears-Roeb..	91	90⅞	91
110	C M & St Pl	29⅛	29	29⅛	95	Sinclair Oil.	24	23⅞	24
90	CM& St P pf	44¼	44¼	44¼	250	South Pac..	98⅞	98⅛	98⅞
260	C R I & P..	27¾	27⅛	27½	180	Do rights..	20⅞	20⅛	20⅞
90	Chile Copper	11¼	11⅛	11¼	255	South Ry...	24	23⅛	23⅞
480	Col Graph'ne	10⅝	10	10⅛	50	Stewart W..	30⅞	30⅞	30⅞
50	Cont Candy.	4⅝	4⅝	4⅝	40	Strom Carb.	38⅞	38	38
80	Corn Prodcts	70¼	69⅞	70¼	610	Studebaker..	52	51½	51⅞
50	Cosden & Co	31¼	30⅝	31¼	100	Sup Oil.....	23⅞	23⅞	23⅞
770	Crucible S..	96⅛	94⅛	95⅛	50	Tenn Cop....	8⅞	8⅞	8⅞
45	Endicott J..	58¼	57⅞	58¼	50	Texas Co....	44⅞	44	44⅞
50	Erie	14⅛	14⅛	14⅛	95	Tex & Pac..	19⅛	18⅞	19
60	Do 1st pf..	21	21	21	10	Tex Pac C O	28⅛	28⅛	28⅛
70	Famous Play	53⅛	52¼	53⅛	50	Tob Prod....	55⅛	55⅛	55⅛
140	Fisk T & R.	14	14	14	335	Transcon O.	10⅛	9⅞	9⅞
150	Gas W & W.	5	4⅞	4⅞	170	Union Pac..120⅛	119⅞	120
580	Gen Asphalt.	55¾	54¼	55¼	140	Un Food Pr.	23⅛	22⅞	23⅛
10	Gen Elec....123	123	123		250	U S Ind Alc.	60	60	60
2,993	Gen Motor.s.	15⅛	14¾	14⅞	20	U S Realty..	48⅛	48⅛	48⅛
90	Good Rubber	41¼	40⅞	41⅛	410	U S Rub....	67	65⅞	66⅞
80	Gt North pf.	77¼	77	77	980	U S Steel...	83⅛	82⅞	83⅛
50	Houston Oil.	73⅛	72¾	73⅛	40	Utah Cop....	53⅛	53⅛	53⅛
40	Hupp M C C	13	12⅞	13	810	Vanadium ..	39	37	39
70	Insp Copper.	34¾	34¼	34¾	50	Vivaudou ..	7⅞	7⅞	7⅞
40	Int M M pf.	54½	54¼	54½	180	White Oil...	16	15⅛	15⅛
610	Island Oil...	4⅝	4½	4⅝	10	West Elec...	44⅞	44⅞	44⅞
490	Int Paper...	60	58⅝	59⅛	360	Willys-Ov'l'd	7⅞	7⅞	7⅞
80	Int C Corp..	4⅝	4⅝	4⅝	80	Worth Pump	45⅞	45⅞	45⅞
90	Int C C pf..	11⅛	11⅛	11⅛
215	Kelly-S Tire	46⅛	46⅛	46⅛
175	Ken Copper.	20⅛	19⅞	20⅛

PUBLIC UTILITIES

Sales.		High.	Low.	Bid.	Asked.
670	Cities Service	246	242	245	250
920	Cities Service pf.	65½	65	65	65¼
877	Cities Service pf. B	6⅝	6¼	6¼	6⅝
2,728	Cities Service bk. shares	29¾	29⅝	29⅝	30⅛
$18,500	Cities Service deb. B	126	121	121	126
37,900	Cities Service deb. C	92	90	90	92
33,100	Cities Service deb. C	86	84	84	86
445	Empire Gas and Fuel pf..	84½	84	84	86

	Bid.	Asked.		Bid.	Asked.
Am Gas & Elec	95	98	Galveston-Hous Elec pf	67	70
Am Gas & Elec pf	86	38	Miss. River Pow	12½	14½
Am Light & Trac	78	82	Miss River Pow pf	66½	..
Am Light & Trac pf	74	77	Northern States Power	35	40
Am Power & Light	45	50	North States Pow pf	77	83
Am Power & Light pf	64	68	Northern Texas Elec	69	73
Am W W & Elec	2¼	..	Northern Tex Elec pf	67	70
Am W W & E 1st pf	41	43	Pacific Gas & Elec pf	79	80
Am W W & E partic	4½	6¼	Puget Sd Pow & Light	18	21
Appalachian Power	1	3	Puget Sd Pow & Lt pf	58	61
Appalachian Power pf	16	23	Republic Ry & Light	5	8
Carolina Pow & Light	25	30	Republic Ry & Lt pf	20	25
Colorado Power	10½	11½	Southern Cal Edison	86½	87½
Colorado Power pf	75	81	Southern Cal Edison pf	93	98
Columbus Electric pf	53	57	Stand Gas & Elec	12	14
Com Power, Ry & Lt	14	16	Stand Gas & Elec pf	34	36
Com Pow, Ry & Lt pf	35	36½	Tampa Electric	105	110
Conn Power pf	72	..	Tenn Ry, Lt & Power	1	1¼
Eastern Texas Electric	68	..	Tenn Ry, Lt & Pow pf	4	5
Eastern Texas Elec pf	67	70	United Light & Rys	20	25
El Paso Electric	84	88	United Light & Rys pf	56	58
Federal Light & Trac	5	8	Western Power	19	21
Federal Light & Tr pf	40	45	Western Power pf	61	63
Galveston-Houston Elec	30	..

Bonds.

	Bid.	Asked.		Bid.	Asked.
Am W W & E con 5s	53	54	Nor States Pow 6s, '26	78	83
Appalachian 1st 5s, '41	63	70	Seattle Elec 5s, '29	78	80
Com Power 5s, '83	73	..	Stand Gas & El 6s, '35	66	71
Dallas Electric 5s, '22	100	..	Stand Gas & El 7s, '21	94	99
East Tex Elec 5s, '42	73	..	Standard Gas 6s, '26	81	85
Empire Gas & E 6s, '24	84	86	Utah Securities	80	83
Midwest Utilities 6s, '25	80	84	W States G & E 5s, '41	74	79
Miss River Pow 5s, '51	76⅞	77½	*Ex dividend.
Nor States Pow 5s, '41	77	81

STANDARD OIL STOCKS

	Yesterday Bid.	Yesterday Ask.	Friday Bid.		Yesterday Bid.	Yesterday Ask.	Friday Bid.
Anglo-Am Oil, Ltd.	19¾	20	19½	Penn-Mex Fuel	35	38	35
Atlantic Lobos Oil.	24	28	24	Prairie Oil & Gas	470	480	470
Do pf	70	90	70	Prairie Pipe Line	197	202	197
Borne-Scrymser	390	410	390	Solar Refining	375	385	375
Buckeye Pipe Line	85	88	85	Southern Pipe L	112	115	112
Chesebrough Mfg	175	190	175	South Penn Oil	245	253	245
Do pf	102	106	102	S W Pa Pipe Lines	70	74	70
Continental Oil	112	117	110	Stand Oil of Cal	313	317	313
Crescent Pipe Line	30	34	30	Stand Oil of Ind, $25 par	72¾	72¾	72½
Cumberland P L	125	135	125	Stand Oil of Kan	575	600	575
Eureka Pipe Line	97	100	97	Stand Oil of Ky	415	430	415
Galena Signal Oil	49	51	49	Stand Oil of Neb	390	410	390
Do pf, new	94	99	94	Stand Oil of N Y	347	350	347
Do pf, old	93	98	93	Stand Oil of Ohio	390	400	390
Illinois Pipe Line	165	170	165	Do pf	107	110	107
Imperial Oil, Ltd.	95	98	95	Swan & Finch	35	50	35
Indiana Pipe Line	86	89	86	Union Tank Car	113	117	113
Int Pet Co, Ltd	16¾	17¼	16½	Do pf	96	100	96
National Transit	28	30	28	Vacuum Oil	295	305	295
New York Transit	160	165	160	Washington Oil	30	35	30
Northern Pipe L	96	100	96
Ohio Oil	285	290	287

NEW YORK CITY BONDS

	Yesterday Bid.	Yesterday Ask.	Friday Bid		Yesterday Bid.	Yesterday Ask.	Friday Bid
4¼s July, 1967	93	93¾	93	3½s Nov., 1954	75½	76½	75¼
4½s June, 1965	93	93¾	93	3½s Nov., 1955	73½	76½	75½
4½s Mar., 1963	93	93¾	93	The following are quoted on a percentage basis:
4½s Nov., 1957	93	93¾	93	4¼s 1924-1932	5.75	5.00	5.75
4½s May, 1957	93	93¾	93	4¼s 1921-1923	6.00	5.25	6.00
4¼s Apr., 1966	87¾	88½	87¾	4½s 1921-1923	6.00	5.25	6.00
4¼s Mar., 1964	87¾	88½	87¾	4½s 1924-1931	5.75	5.00	5.75
4¼s Mar., 1962	87¾	88½	87¾	3½s 1931-1939	5.40	5.00	5.40
4¼s Sept., 1960	87¾	88½	87¾	3½s 1950-1953	5.10	4.90	5.10
4¼s Mar., 1960-30	87¾	88½	87¾	3½s 1924-1930	5.75	5.10	5.75
4s May, 1965	83¾	84¾	83¾	3½s 1921-1923	6.50	5.50	6.50
4s Nov., 1958	83¾	84¾	83¾	3½s 1940-1949	5.15	4.95	5.15
4s Nov., 1957	83¾	84¾	83¾	3s 1940-1952	5.35	5.00	5.35
4s Nov., 1956	83¼	84¼	83¼	3s 1926-1930	5.75	5.00	5.75
4s Nov., 1955	83¼	84¼	83¼	3s 1921-1925	6.50	5.25	6.50
4s Nov., 1936	87	89½	87
3½s May, 1954	75½	76½	75½

TOBACCO STOCKS

	Yesterday Bid.	Yesterday Ask.	Friday Bid.		Yesterday Bid.	Yesterday Ask.	Friday Bid.
Am Cigar	88	*88	84	Do scrip	73	83	73
Do pf.	78	84	78	RJReynolds,A,new.	81	87	81
Am Tobacco scrip.	99	102	99	Do B, new	34	37	35
Geo W Helme	147	155	145	Do pf.	99	101	99
Do pf.	88	93	88	United Leaf Tob.	[illegible]	[illegible]	140
MacA & Forbes	105	110	104	Do pf.	95	98	95
Do pf.	78	83	77	Weyman-Bruton	150	158	150
J B Young	97	110	97	Do pf	85	93	88
Do pf	85	95	87	*Ex dividend.
Porto Rico-Am	85	95	85

SUGAR STOCKS

	Yesterday Bid.	Yesterday Ask.	Friday Bid.		Yesterday Bid.	Yesterday Ask.	Friday Bid.
Caracas Sugar	37	45	35	Great Western	240	265	245
Central Aguirre	68	72	68	Do pf	105	110	105
Central Sugar	6	10	5	Holly	32	35	32
Do pf	25	35	30	Do pf	82	88	80
Fajardo	84	88	84	Nat Sugar Ref.	124	129	120
Federal Sugar	95	102	95	Santa Cecelia	30	40	30
Do pf.	95	105	95	Savannah	10	30	10
Godchaux	20	25	20	Do pf	47	55	45
Do pf.	70	75	70	West India	85	93	85

MISCELLANEOUS STOCKS

	Yesterday Bid.	Yesterday Ask.	Friday Bid		Yesterday Bid.	Yesterday Ask.	Friday Bid.
Am Brass	175	185	175	Hercules	175	183	178
Am Chicle	25	28	25	Do 1st pf.	93	96	93
Do pf	64	67	64	Illinois Traction	9	14	9
Am Cyanamid	27	30	27	Do pf.	50	55	50
Do pf	50	55	50	Ingersoll-Rand	155	165	155
Amal Leather	12	20	10	Do pf	92	97	92
Do pf	30	68	30	Merck	..	79	..
Am Light & Trac..	82	84	82	Merrimac Chem.	73	75	73
Do pf.	74	79	74	New Jersey Zinc	130	155	130
Atlas Powder	125	132	125	Niles-Bem't-Pond	70	75	70
Do pf	76	78	76	Do pf.	..	90	..
Babcock & Wilcox	106	109	106	Northern Securities	75	85	75
Borden & Co.	94	96	94	Royal Bak Powder	105	110	105
Do pf	85	88	86	Do pf.	81	83	81
Childs Co	77	82	77	Scovill Mfg	300	330	300
Do pf.	88	92	88	Singer Mfg. new	90	92	90
Crocker-Wheeler	90	95	90	Stand Screw Co	210	230	210
Draper Corp	128½	..	126	Van Raalte	17	22	17
Du Pont	157	162	157	Do pf	57	65	57
Do pf	76	78	76	Valvo Oil 1st cv pf	97	100	97
Gil Safety Razor	136	138	134½

Channel Chemical Co.

Class A Shares

To Yield Over

9%

With Further Possibilities

THIS Company does a world-wide business in the manufacture and sale of O-Cedar, the demand for which, during the past twelve years, good times and bad, has shown a constant increase. Annual profits have averaged over 40% on outstanding capital. These shares receive a regular dividend of $6.00, netting the investor, at the present selling price, over 9%, and in addition have further possibilities through extra dividends, which may be declared from time to time. The purchase of these shares is a timely investment. The Company is benefited rather than injured by declining prices in raw materials; the management estimates profits for 1921 of over One Million Dollars. Write for descriptive circular covering all details, including history of the Company, financial statement, earnings' record, terms, etc.

F. A. Brewer & Co.
Investment Securities
208 South La Salle Street
Chicago, Illinois

The Time Is Right For Buying

The price cutting campaign has been carried far enough. Very little inflation, if any, is left in the general level of prices. It is time for a general buying movement to set in if the vigorous industrial life of the country is to be sustained.

The advisability of buying applies particularly to the stock market where selling has been carried to excess and price declines have been carried to such extremes that there is especial incentive for buying.

We have just compiled a special article on the changing price trend, and shall be pleased to send copy upon request.

Address Dept. T-37. No obligation in writing.

CHARLES H. CLARKSON & CO.
66 Broadway.—New York.
TELEPHONES: RECTOR 4663-4

Retail Stores

Our "Trading Suggestions" this week contains latest information on the above stock as well as several other listed issues.

We will be pleased to place your name on our mailing list to receive a copy regularly.

Execution of less than 100 share orders our specialty.

If you cannot call, send for circular A-219.

Wilson & Chardon
Members Consolidated Stock Exchange of New York
62 Broadway New York
Telephone Whitehall 1964

Five Successful Methods of Operating in the Stock Market

Methods of successful traders explained, with suggestions for their use by large and small operators. Nine meaty chapters. Forty-eight pages illustrated by graphs. Written by an expert. Second and enlarged edition now on press. Copy sent free on request for M-11.

SEXSMITH & CO.
Investment Securities
107 Liberty Street New York
Telephones: Rector 3894-5-6-7

DIVIDENDS.

CROCKER-WHEELER COMPANY.

Ampere, New Jersey, January 12, 1921.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of Crocker-Wheeler Company held January 12th, the regularly quarterly dividends of 1¾% on the Preferred Stock and 2% on the Common Stock for the quarter ending December 31st, 1920, were declared, payable January 15th, 1921, to stockholders of record at the close of business January 4th.

A dividend in Common Stock to the Common Stockholders of record at the close of business January 4th, 1921, amounting to 10% of their Common Stock, was also declared, payable January 18th, 1921.

R. LANG, Secretary.

IF you own stocks or bonds or intend buying them, it would be to your advantage to write us at once giving full particulars and asking any questions.

¶ Our Statistical Expert will then write you fully and advise what, in his judgment, is the best course to pursue. Our Statistical Reports and Suggestions are absolutely unbiased, as we do not handle promotions. All information is treated in the strictest confidence.

¶ Our January letter, Bond List and Booklet of Securities are now ready for free distribution and will be sent to those interested who apply by letter.

Visit Our Boardroom.

HARRY A. COCHRANE & CO.
Members—The Curb, Stock & Bond Market of N. Y.
67 Exchange Place, New York
Phones Rector 8335, 9167

A Survey of the Stock Market Situation

WITH the view of selecting those stocks having the most promising outlook we have prepared a survey which features in detail the leading companies of all the principal industries.

In all cases vital statistics are given and the subjects discussed from every phase of the situation. Among the 104 prominent stocks treated are:

Amer. Car & Fdy.	General Asphalt	Reading Company
Am. Hide & Leath.	General Motors	Royal Dutch
Am. International	Goodrich Rubber	St. Louis & S. W.
Amer. Sumatra	Int. Mer. Marine	Sears, Roebuck
Amer. Woolen	Int. Paper	Simms Petroleum
Anaconda Copper	Int. Petroleum	Sinclair Cons.
Atchison T. & S. F.	Invincible Oil	Southern Pacific
At. Gulf & W. I.	Kelly Springfield	Studebaker
Bald. Locomotive	Loew's, Inc.	Texas Company
Bethlehem Steel	Mex. Petroleum	Tobacco Products
California Packing	Montgom'ry Ward	United Ret. Stores
Carib Syndicate	N. Y. N. H. & Hart.	United Ret. Candy
Chandler Motors	Northern Pacific	U. S. Food Prod'ts
Corn Products	Pan-Amer. Pet.	U. S. Rubber
Crucible Steel	Pierce Arrow	U. S. Steel
Famous Players	Pure Oil	White Oil

Copy sent without obligation. Ask for No. X-30.

M. S. WOLFE & Co.
ESTABLISHED 1906
41 BROAD STREET, NEW YORK
Phone: Broad 25

"I'm Convinced"

said a conservative investor yesterday after making a careful investigation of

Lyons Petroleum

"The Premier Oil Purchase for 1921."
A Remarkable Record—Has Stood Every Test.

Lyons Petroleum unquestionably ranks as one of the foremost and best of the younger Independent Oils, having already stabilized its income and enlarged its developments to a point where it becomes An Attractive Purchase Indicating Large Profits.

Dividends now being paid at the rate of 8% per annum; Earnings exceeding 60% on stock outstanding; Surplus now available for Extra Dividends in accordance with avowed policy of the Board of Directors.

Balance Sheet (by Haskins & Sells) available on request.

Circular T41 Will Surely Interest You. May We Send It?

WEED, EDWARDS & CO., Inc.
Equitable Trust Building,
347 Madison Ave., New York. Tel. Vanderbilt 8426.

Hart Oil Corporation

An established oil enterprise incorporated May 22, 1919, under strict Blue Sky Laws of Texas. Operated under personal management of Hart family.

Earnings now at rate of over 80% on outstanding Class A Stock based on settled production. A substantial portion of this revenue is derived from 9,000 acres being developed without cost by several prominent companies.

An Activ Development Campaign now under way is expected to greatly increase earnings.

Price $2 Per Share. To Net 12%.
Dividends payable Monthly.
We believe purchase at this price will show satisfactory results to investors.
For Bank References and Particulars Write Dept. Q.
HART OIL CORP., 123 Liberty St., N. Y. Tel. Rector 9613

TRANSMISSION OF MONEY to all foreign countries. Interest bearing and check accounts opened in principal Banks of Europe. Collections of out-of-town Bank Books, Checks, Certificates of Deposit and Coupons. Stocks and Bonds Bought and Sold.
Invest in Foreign Exchange
Opportunity for large profits at present depreciated levels. A small sum may start you on the path of success.
ASK US—WE TELL YOU HOW
Steamship tickets to and from all parts of the world. Passports procured. Free information in all matters.
I. HERZ, Banker
Under Supervision of New York State Banking Department.
224 West 34th Street
Telephone Longacre 2730.

ARE YOU
Considering Reorganizing or New Management?
Experienced Executive
Possessing unusual ability for organization and management, wishes to make new connection. Address Z 2278 Times Annex.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE
We will make a very attractive OFFER to those interested in foreign exchange. Get our free booklet, "European Real Estate as a Safe Investment—with Opportunities for Large Profits." Write today to Simmer, G. P. O. Box 172, New York.

SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS.
FOR YEARS WE HAVE PAID
6% TO SAVERS
on our Systematic Savings Plan. Our 31st year. Under N. Y. State Banking supervision. Descriptive Booklet on Request.
BANKERS LOAN & INVESTMENT CO.
A Savings and Loan Association
Dept. M, 63 WALL STREET, N. Y.

AUTOMOBILE DISTRIBUTOR'S BUSINESS FOR SALE.
I HAVE AN OPTION TO BUY ESTABLISHED, PROFITABLE BUSINESS; CAR VERY WELL KNOWN; I AM MANAGER OF THE BUSINESS; WILL INVEST SOME OF MY MONEY IN IT; NEED $75,000; MADE $50,000 IN 1920; DON'T ANSWER UNLESS YOU ARE SERIOUS. Z 27 TIMES.

$1000 Nets $120 Yearly
$500 Nets $60 Yearly
$100 Nets $12 Yearly

Other Sums Yield Proportionate Results Invested In

HART OIL

[illegible] mailed [illegible] to stockholders.

Why We Recommend This Security:

Established Company
No Funded Debt
Valuable Properties
Earnings Many Times Dividend Requirements
Active Development Campaign
Honest and Capable Management

[illegible]

L. A. HUGHES & CO.
Authorized Representatives.
10 B[illegible] [illegible]o'k
Tel. Rector 2858.

The INVESTOR'S GUIDE

Publishes this week complete and analytical reports of the leading stocks of the year, past activities and future outlook, important to every investor and trader, including the best

Rails Oils
Industrials

Sent free on request
Ask for F-26

RUSSELL SECURITIES CORPORATION
116 Nassau Street, New York

January 1921

Investors Pocket Manual

contains latest statistical information, also high and low prices for the entire year of 1920 on all issues listed on the New York Stock Exchange, Chicago Stock Exchange New York Curb and the other leading exchanges throughout the United States.

Copy mailed free upon request
Ask for T-53

S·S RUSKAY & Co.
ESTABLISHED 1877
Members Consolidated Stock Exch. of N.Y.
20 BROAD ST. NEW YORK
Phones Rector 7001-7009

TO NET 9.89%

Trusteed Equipment Notes

Secured by a first mortgage on equipment worth three times the amount of issue.

Maturing in 30 days to one year.

In amounts of $200 and up.

Descriptive circular on request

J. E. THOMSON & CO., Inc.
126 Liberty St. New York

$5,000 Policy Costs $69.70
PENN MUTUAL LIFE
Age 40. Dividends reduce this cost after first year, organized 1847, assets 200 millions. Write for specimen policy at your age. Joseph A. Edwards, Gen'l Agt., 32 Court St., Brooklyn. Phone Main 4446.

CASH AVAILABLE for Accounts Receivable

LEVISON & COMPANY
141 5th Ave. Bankers Cor. 21st St.

MONEY ADVANCED
on Notes, Commercial Accounts, Assignments of Rents, Negotiable Storage Receipts and other Collaterals. ROYAL COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Private Bankers, 95 Nassau St.

Reward of $100

Reward of $100 for information leading to arrest and conviction of any one who may have obtained money under false pretenses through a misleading or fraudulent advertisement in The New York Times.

A NEW SORT OF PERIODICAL.
This magazine gives the perspective from which the full truth of a great international event can be perceived. CURRENT HISTORY MAGAZINE gives the unbiased facts without comment of great happenings in the preceding 30 days in 50 nations. 192 pages, profusely illustrated. On news stands.—Advt.

COTTON MOVES UP 29 TO 57 POINTS

News From South, New England and Abroad Encourages Bull Trading.

Yesterday's short session in the cotton market was productive of a sharp advance, which, in two instalments, carried prices up as much as 57 points for January and 29 to 32 points for the rest of the list. Trading was active, considering the fact that it was Saturday, and the demand seemed to be pretty general. News for the day was almost entirely good.

In the South the demand for spots picked up considerably. On Friday afternoon, according to yesterday's early reports, there had been a brisk business done and prices had moved forward fairly well. The tone of about all of the Southern markets was firm and there seemed to be a good deal of optimism down there, if one might judge from the buying orders which came in yesterday.

Then, in the New England trade, there also was a much better feeling. The week-end statistics were bullish in the extreme and indicated that the slowing down of December had been almost totally overcome. Even the few cabled advices which were received spoke of a better trade situation on the other side, and, all in all, the ring here had more bullish news than it had received in a long time.

The forward movement was in two distinct parts. At the opening prices were not greatly changed, but they started to move up almost immediately until there were gains of 20 to 25 points. The market hesitated for a short time at those levels, but in the last half hour it picked up again and scored further advances, closing virtually at the top.

The following shows the statistical position of cotton figured by the Financial Chronicle:

	ThisWk. Bales.	LastWk. Bales.	LastYr. Bales.
Port receipts	124,468	127,152	209,074
Since Aug. 1	3,683,836	3,559,368	4,235,761
Port stocks	1,433,747	1,420,537	1,442,063
Inter. receipts	148,877	156,267	175,902
Since Aug. 1	4,236,550	4,176,447	4,622,414
Inter. shipments	148,713	147,229	205,705
Inter. stocks	1,743,905	1,743,741	1,318,693
Am't br't into sight	208,476	221,253	283,230
Since Aug. 1	6,533,460	6,324,984	7,218,432
Nor. spnr takings	49,572	67,139	50,364
Since Aug. 1	887,197	837,025	1,562,436
South. consumpt'n	48,000	48,000	73,000
Since Aug. 1	1,454,000	1,446,000	1,607,000
Exp. to Gt. Brit.	31,194	22,678	137,437
Since Aug. 1	998,094	966,049	1,781,013
Exp. to France	210	16,461	19,971
Since Aug. 1	359,705	359,495	352,558
Exp. to Continent	65,752	99,231	112,266
Since Aug. 1	1,275,736	1,208,541	1,239,261
Total week's exp.	95,156	137,430	269,674
T'l exp. since Aug. 1	2,633,535	2,534,085	3,372,840
World's vis. sup.	6,563,741	6,559,264	6,015,437
Of which Am.	4,829,741	4,843,264	4,674,437
Liverpool stocks	1,057,000	1,340,000	905,000
Continental stocks	563,000	515,000	435,000
New York stocks	35,088	27,835	60,254
New Orleans stks.	459,621	446,026	474,505
On shipb'd, w'tg. cl'g.	182,458	173,802	290,228

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.
Jan.	17.10	17.65	17.10	17.65	17.08
Mar.	15.92	16.26	15.92	16.22@16.26	15.92
May	15.95	16.25	15.95	16.23@16.25	15.91
July	16.15	16.40	16.05	16.33@16.40	16.04
Oct.	16.20	16.40	16.16	16.40	16.08

The local market for spot cotton was steady, up 25 points to 17.90c for middling upland; sales nil.

Chile Authorizes £5,000,000 Loan.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 14.—Authorization was given to the President of Chile under a bill adopted by the Senate here today to contract a loan of £5,000,000 in behalf of the State railways. The measure already has passed the Chamber of Deputies and now goes to the Council of State, where its approval virtually is assured.

Our Gold Importations.

The increase of $254,000,000 in our gold imports during the first ten months of 1920, as compared with the similar period of 1919, was, in the most part, due to the increase of $240,000,000 in imports from England, of $20,191,000 in imports from Hongkong, and of $40,068,000 in imports from France. The receipts of gold from all three markets were connected with the redemption of the Anglo-French loan.

China and the Silver Market.

Business in the silver market, as reported by one of the London bullion houses, "has been done daily on a considerable scale, mostly against operations in China exchange. It is not reasonable to imagine that China is in actual want of silver. About ten million ounces are on the way there, and the stock already in Shanghai is abnormally heavy. A year or so back a scarcity of silver was felt in the interior. This state of affairs does not exist today. The relation of China to silver is vital to the future of the metal."

England and the Wool Market.

Reporting on the foreign commercial situation, our London consulate states that "in view of the fall in prices, the general impression in woolen circles of the United Kingdom is that forced realization of the Government stock at an early date is impracticable; that the effect of such realization would be extremely serious derangement of the woolen trade in the United Kingdom itself."

STOCK EXCHANGE NEWS.

Memberships Transferred—Owen F. Roberts to A. Edward Ells, Eyer & Co., 45 Pine Street; Henry Feuchtwanger to Edwin D. Morgan Jr., at Richard Whitney & Co., 14 Wall Street.

Memberships Posted for Transfer—Robert P. Gregar (deceased) to Henry D. Meyerdirk; sponsors, Frank E. Lapham, August Neddermeyer; Elias C. Benedict (deceased) to Bert V. Smith; sponsors, C. LeRoy Hendrickson, Howard Froelick; Rudolph Necser to Andrew J. Tierney; sponsors, J. Hartley Mellick, Stuart Scott.

Dissolution of Partnerships—On Dec. 31, 1920, E. M. Hamlin & Co.; on Jan. 13, 1921, William A. Read & Co.

New Partnerships—Eyer & Co., Jan. 13, 1921, 45 Pine Street, George A. Eyer, A. Edward Ells; E. M. Hamlin & Co., Jan. 3, 1921, Boston, Mass., Edward M. Hamlin, Russell E. Hamlin, Willard B. Hamlin, Alexander M. Berger, Thomas W. Pelham Jr.; Dillon, Read & Co., Jan. 13, 1921, Nassau and Cedar Streets, Clarence Dillon, Roland L. Taylor, Joseph H. Seaman, John W. Hornor Jr., James Dean, R. W. Martin, William A. Phillips, W. A. L. Fiske, William A. Read Jr., E. J. Bermingham.

Changes in Firms—McCornick & Fagan, Addison W. Kelly, admitted; Paine, Webber & Co., L. Brooks Leavitt, admitted; Parkinson & Burr, Richard Austin, general partner becomes special partner; Schirmer, Atherton & Co., Sp., Frank A. Schirmer, admitted.

Branch Offices—Curtis & Sanger, San Francisco, Cal., discontinued; Curtis & Sanger, Los Angeles, Cal., discontinued; E. F. Hutton & Co. (new), Palm Beach, Fla. (Royal Poinciana), M. W. Maltby, manager; McClure, Jones & Reed, Altoona, Pa., discontinued; Salomon Bros. & Hutzler (new), Philadelphia, Pa., Rudolf Smutny, manager.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Public National Bank announced the appointment of Edward L. Lichtman and Harry I. Arrow as assistant cashiers.

Clark, Dodge & Co. have issued a statement outlining the trend of bond prices as indicated by the decline in commodity prices.

Walter W. Taylor and Diedrich R. Abbes have formed a new firm under the name of Taylor, Abbes & Co., Incorporated.

J. S. Bache & Co. and Tripp & Andrews are offering $227,000 City of Goldsboro (N. C.) 6 per cent. street improvement bonds to yield 6.25 per cent.

Salomon Brothers & Hutzler are recommending the purchase of Oregon & California Railroad first mortgage 5s at present prices to yield about 7 per cent.

Cecil P. Young has gone into business under his own name to deal in bonds and will make his office with Robert P. Marshall & Co.

GERMAN BANK STATEMENT.

Large Decrease in Outstanding Notes for the First Week in January.

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—The statement of the Imperial Bank of Germany for the week ended Jan. 7, shows the following changes, in marks:

Total coin and bullion	increased	620,000
Gold	decreased	2,000
Treasury notes	decreased	1,829,665,000
Notes of other banks	increased	300,000
Bills discounted	decreased	8,137,563,000
Investments	decreased	3,911,000
Other securities	decreased	803,267,000
Notes in circulation	decreased	828,622,000
Deposits	decreased	9,817,471,000
Other liabilities	decreased	125,256,000

Gold holdings and outstanding note circulation of the bank compare as follows with the corresponding week of 1920 and 1919, in thousands of marks:

	1921.	1920.	1919.
Gold	1,001,634	1,088,917	2,260,180
Circulation	67,916,378	35,632,983	22,336,810

The Reichstag's gold stood at 1,722,758,000 marks when the war broke out. The highest point reached by the bank's gold reserve since the war began was 2,550,240,000 marks on Nov. 15, 1918, since when it has been steadily depleted by payment for imported foodstuffs. In July of 1914 the note circulation was 1,890,893,000 marks; the figure of Dec. 31, 1920, 68,745,000,000 marks, was the highest ever reached.

MEETINGS ANNOUNCED.

	Books Close.	Books Open.	Date of Meeting.
Air Reduc. Co.	Feb. 11	After Mtg.	Feb. 16
Am. Can Co.	Jan. 19	......	Feb. 8
Am. C. of A. Co.	Feb. 4	Feb. 25	Feb. 24
Am. Linseed	Feb. 8	......	Mar. 1
Am. Sm. Sec. Co. pf A stpd	Feb. 1	Mar. 1	......
Atl. Fruit Co.	Jan. 7	After Mtg.	Jan. 17
Autosales, tem.	Jan. 20	......	Feb. 10
Bald. Lo. Wks.	Jan. 22	......	Mar. 3
Barnsd. tem. A	Jan. 15	......	Jan. 25
C., B. & Q. R.R.	Dec. 20	Jan. 21	Jan. 20
Cen. Coal & C.	Dec. 31	......	Feb. 2
Com., N. B. of	......	......	Jan. 11
Cons. Gas, N.Y.	Jan. 15	Jan. 25	Jan. 24
Cont'l Ins. Co.	Jan. 21	Feb. 2	Feb. 1
Corn Exch. Bk.	......	......	Jan. 18
Det. Unit. Ry.	Jan. 6	Feb. 2	Feb. 1
Dul. Sup. Trac.	Jan. 5	......	Jan. 26
Endicott-J. Cor.	Mar. 5	......	Mar. 7
Habirshaw El. C.	Jan. 19	Feb. 9	Feb. 8
Indiahoma Ref.	Jan. 10	Jan. 21	Jan. 20
Int. Agri. Corp.	Jan. 19	......	Jan. 25
Laclede Gas Lt. Co. of St. L.	Jan. 15	Feb. 16	Feb. 15
Leh. Val. R.R.	Nov. 18	......	Jan. 18
Loft, Inc., temp.	Feb. 15	......	Mar. 16
Mallinson, H. R. & Co., Inc.	Jan. 11	......	Feb. 1
Manati Sug. Co.	Jan. 18	......	Jan. 19
Manhat. Shirt	Jan. 8	......	Jan. 24
Mid. St. Oil	Feb. 18	......	Mar. 22
N., C. & St. L.	Jan. 12	......	Apr. 12
Nat. Bisc't Co.	Jan. 19	......	Feb. 9
N. En. & St. Co.	Jan. 26	Feb. 16	Feb. 15
N.Y.C. R.R. Co.	Jan. 3	Jan. 27	Jan. 26
Nor. Cen. Ry. Co.	Dec. 24	......	Feb. 24
Orph. Cir. Inc.	Jan. 14	......	Feb. 8
Penn. R. R. Co.	Jan. 21	......	Mar. 8
Penn. R. R. Co.	Jan. 21	......	Mar. 22
Peo. G. L. & C.	Jan. 31	Feb. 11	Feb. 10
Peoria & E. Ry.	Jan. 20	Feb. 10	Feb. 9
Rep. St., temp.	Jan. 21	......	Feb. 1
Saxon Mot. Car	Jan. 21	......	Feb. 8
Seneca Copr. Cor.	Jan. 21	......	Feb. 8
Sixth Av. R.R.	Jan. 7	Jan. 19	Jan. 18
So. Pacific Co.	Mar. 22	Apr. 7	Apr. 6
Stu. St. Corp.	Feb. 14	Feb. 22	Feb. 21
Times Sq. Auto Supply, temp.	Feb. 11	......	Feb. 14
Transue & Wms. Stl. Forg'g.	Jan. 10	......	Feb. 1
Twin City R. T.	Jan. 5	......	Jan. 25
Unit. Fruit Co.	Feb. 16	Mar. 10	Mar. 9
Un. Ry. of S.L.	Jan. 7	Jan. 10	Feb. 8
Un. Ry. of St.L.	Feb. 3	Feb. 9	Feb. 8

FOR RIGHTS.

	Books Close.	Books Open.	Set'm't Day.	Priv'ge Expires.
Corn Ex. B.	Dec. 28	......	Jan. 18	Feb. 3
Gen. Elec.	Dec. 8	Dec. 20	Dec. 30	Jan. 20
Mid. St. Oil	Jan. 18	......	Jan. 27	Feb. 1
Nat. Pk. B.	Jan. 18	......	......	Jan. 29
So. Pa...	Jan. 14	......	Feb. 8	Mar. 1
Tide W. O.	Dec. 16	......	Jan. 4	Jan. 19

DUE BILLS.

The following stocks carry due bills—So. Pacific Co., from Jan. 14 until further notice; United Fruit Co., from Dec. 20 until Jan. 17.

EQUIPMENT BONDS.

Quoted on a Percentage Basis.

Name—	Maturity.	Rate.	Bid.	Ask.
Atlantic Coast L.	1922-'36	6½	6.90	6.40
Baltimore & Ohio	1920-'27	4½	7.50	6.75
Bethlehem Steel	1920-'30	7	7.62	7.00
B., R. & Pitts.	1921-'33	4½@5-6	7.12	6.40
Canadian Pacific	1920-'32	4½@6	7.25	6.40
Ches. & Ohio	1921-'35	6½	6.85	6.40
Chicago & N. W.	1920-'23	4½	7.00	6.40
Chi., R. I. & P.	1920-'27	4½@5	7.75	7.00
C., St. L. & N. O.	1920-'24	5	7.37	6.50
C., C., C. & St. L.	1920-'29	5 @6	7.12	6.50
Del. & Hudson	1922	4½	7.50	6.75
Erie Railroad	1920-'27	4½@5	8.25	7.25
Grace Steamship	1920-'34	6	8.00	7.25
Illinois Central	1920-'27	4½@5	7.00	6.40
Illinois Central	1925-'35	7	6.85	6.40
Int. Prod. S'ship	1920-'26	7	8.30	7.50
Louis. & Nash.	1920-'2[illegible]	5	7.10	6.40
Michigan Central	1920-'32	5 @6	7.00	6.40
Minn. & St. Louis	1920-'27	5 @6	7.50	6.70
Mo., Kan. & T.	1920-'24	5	8.25	7.25
New York Cen.	1920-'32	4½@5	7.25	6.40
New York Cen.	1921-'35	7	7.12	6.40
Norf. & West.	1920-'24	4½	7.00	6.40
Northern Pacific	1921-'30	7	7.05	6.40
N. Y., N. H. & H.	1920-'29	4½@5-6	8.25	7.25
Pac. Fruit Exp.	1925-'35	7	6.90	6.40
Pa. Gen. Freight	1920-'23	4 @4½	7.00	6.40
Pitts. & L. Erie	1921-'35	6½	7.00	6.40
Reading Co.	1920-'27	4½	7.10	6.40
Seaboard Air L.	1920-'27	4½@5-6	8.25	7.25
Sinclair Refining	1920-'21	6	8.25	7.25
Southern Pacific	1920-'25	4½	7.10	6.40
Southern Pacific	1924-'35	7	6.87	6.40
Southern Ry.	1920-'26	4½@5	7.50	6.62
Union Pacific	1924-'35	7	6.85	6.40
Virginian Ry.	1920-'30	6	7.35	6.62
White Oil Corp.	1921-'23	6	8.50	7.50

COMMODITY PRICES.

Declines Outnumber Gains Made in Yesterday's Markets—Metals and Provisions Unchanged.

There were more price recessions made in yesterday's wholesale markets than advances. In the grains, wheat declined 4½ cents, corn 2⅝ cents and oats 1¼ cents per bushel, with flour, Minnesota, unchanged. Coffee dropped ⅛ of a cent per pound, with sugar unchanged, but eggs advanced 1 cent per dozen and butter 1 cent per pound.

There were no changes in either the provision or metals.

In the textiles, spot cotton was 25 cents per hundred pounds up from the previous close, with printcloths unchanged.

Following are the cash prices for the principal commodities in the wholesale market at the close of business Saturday, a week before and a year ago:

	Jan. 15, 1921.	Jan. 8, 1921.	Jan. 15, 1920.
FOODSTUFFS:
Wheat, No. 2 red	$2.04½	$2.02½	$2.50
Corn, No. 2 yellow	.90⅝	.94	1.66
Oats, No. 2 white	.58½	.60	.98
Flour, Minn., patent	10.50	9.75	16.00
Coffee, No. 7 Rio	.06⅝	.06½	.16¼
Sugar, granulated	.07⅝	.07⅝	.15
Butter, cream, 91 score	.52	.53½	.62
Eggs, fresh-gathered firsts, per dozen	.77	.68	.73
Lard, prime	13.75	13.50	23.50
Pork, mess	29.00	30.00	46.50
Beef, family	26.00	26.00	25.50
METALS:
Iron, 2X, Phila.	33.00	33.00	44.10
Steel billets, Pitts.	43.50	43.50	48.00
Lead	5.12½	4.90	8.75
Copper	13.00	13.00	19.50
Tin	37.00	38.00	63.50
TEXTILES:
Cotton, mid. upland	17.90	17.10	39.25
Printcloths	.05⅝	.05½	.13½

Highest and lowest prices for the year 1920. In the subjoined table, No. 2 red Winter wheat is quoted. No. 1 Spring went to $3.50 per bushel on Jan. 7:

	—Highest.—		—Lowest.—
Wheat	$2.60	Jan. 7	$1.79	Nov. 27
Corn	2.31⅛	May 15	.94½	Nov. 27
Oats	1.50	May 7	.60	Nov. 22
Flour	16.25	Jan. 7	9.00	Dec. 1
Coffee	.16⅝	Jan. 11	.06⅛	Dec. 22
Sugar	.23	July 12	.08	Dec. 17
Butter	.77	Apr. 24	.51½	Dec. 4
Eggs	.89	Dec. 10	.42½	Mar. 12
Lard	23.50	Jan. 9	13.55	Dec. 20
Pork	47.00	Jan. 2	29.50	Dec. 21
Beef	28.00	Oct. 19	20.00	May 12
Iron	53.51	Aug. 31	33.00	Dec. 23
Steel	65.00	July 23	43.00	Jan. 2
Lead	9.50	Mar. 15	4.50	Dec. 22
Tin	65.25	Jan. 11	32.00	Dec. 14
Copper	19.50	Jan. 5	12.50	Dec. 28
Cotton	43.75	July 22	14.50	Dec. 22
Printcloths	.16¾	Apr. 13	.05½	Nov. 30

MISCELLANEOUS MARKETS.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The cottonseed oil market closed 13@19 points net lower.

	High.	Low.	Close.	Closing Bid.
Spot	..	..	..	8.50
January	..	..	..	8.50
February	..	..	..	8.50
March	8.80	8.75	8.75	8.74
April	..	..	..	8.78
May	9.27	9.15	9.17	9.16
June	..	..	..	9.16
July	9.60	9.45	9.48	9.47
August	..	..	..	9.50

Total sales, 5,100.

COFFEE.

The coffee market was irregular.

	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.	Last Year.
March	6.55	6.37	6.37	6.60	16.06
May	7.00	7.80	7.81	7.02	16.25
July	7.40	7.14	7.24	7.45	16.45
Sept.	7.75	7.59	7.59	7.80	16.23

SUGAR.

The raw sugar market was irregular.

	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.
February	4.63	4.63	4.63	4.65
March	4.70	4.69	4.70	4.70
May	4.73	4.75	4.75	4.79
July	4.98	4.89	4.98	4.90

PRODUCE MARKETS.

BUTTER—Receipts yesterday, 13,181 packages. Leading grades of fresh creamery, tone at close more or less unsettled. Considerable New Zealand has come in, quality represented as fine. Creamery, higher than extras, pound, 52½@53c; extras, 92 score, 51½@52c; firsts, 90 to 91 score, 47@51c; firsts, 88 to 89 score, 43@46c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 35@41c; lower grades, 32@34c; unsalted, higher than extras, 55½@56c; extras, 54½@55c; firsts, 44@53c; seconds, 35@42c; held or storage, high scoring, 50½@51c; extras, 49@50c; firsts, 42½@48c; seconds, 34@40c; lower grades, 28@32c; State dairy tubs, finest, 50@51c; good to prime, 42@49c; common to fair, 30@40c; ladles, current make, firsts, 26@28c; seconds, 22@23c; lower grades, 20@21c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 21½@22c; No. 2, 20c; lower grades, 15@19c.

EGGS—Receipts yesterday, 8,734 cases. Market firm, with close clearance of fresh stock, except whites, of which there was a moderat supply, at unchanged prices. Western and Southern mixed cars closed firm. Storage wanted at full recent quotations. Fresh gathered, extras, dozen, 80c; extra firsts, 78@79c; firsts, 76@77c; seconds, 70@75c; refrigerator firsts, 64@65c; seconds, 61@63c. State, Pennsylvania and nearby Western hennery whites, extras, 81@82c; extra firsts, 79@80c; firsts, 77@78c; gathered whites, firsts to extra firsts, 77@80c; under grades, 73@76c; pullets, 70@72c; Pacific Coast whites, extras, 82c; extra firsts, 79@80c; firsts, 77@78c; other Western and Southern, gathered whites, 76@79c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby Western, hennery browns, extra, 81c; gathered brown and mixed colors, graded extras, 80c; firsts to extra firsts, 76@79c.

NEW YORK FEDERAL RESERVE BANK.

STATEMENT AT CLOSE OF BUSINESS, JAN. 14, 1921.

RESOURCES.

	Last Week.	Prev. Week.	Year Ago.
Gold and gold certificates	$136,019,091.61	$133,794,000	$124,643,000
Gold settlement fund, Fed. Reserve Board	17,678,317.10	27,623,000	94,198,000
Gold with foreign agencies	1,211,100.00	1,211,000	44,158,000
Total gold held by bank	$154,908,508.71	$162,628,000	$262,999,000
Gold with Federal Reserve agent	238,063,430.89	238,868,000	284,286,000
Gold redemption fund	39,000,000.00	39,000,000	25,000,000
Total gold reserves	$431,971,939.60	$440,496,000	$572,285,000
Legal tender notes, silver, &c.	150,127,970.35	147,164,000	45,638,000
Total reserves	$582,099,909.95	$587,660,000	$617,923,000
Bills discounted: Secured by Government war obligations: For members	393,522,220.89	433,962,000	499,304,000
Less rediscounts for other F. R. banks	....	....	79,500,000
	$393,522,220.89	$433,962,000	$419,804,000
All other: For members	413,051,978.75	439,305,000	288,505,000
	$413,051,978.75	$439,305,000	$288,505,000
Bills bought in open market	87,173,706.38	102,903,000	212,296,000
Total bills on hand	$893,747,906.02	$976,170,000	$920,605,000
United States Government bonds	1,256,800.00	1,257,000	1,457,000
United States Victory notes	....	....	50,000
United States certificates of indebtedness	74,756,000.00	59,671,000	71,211,000
Total earning assets	$969,760,705.02	$1,037,098,000	$993,323,000
Bank premises	4,092,534.80	4,092,000	3,094,000
Five per cent. redemption fund against Federal Reserve Bank notes	2,779,510.00	2,774,000	2,832,000
Uncollected items and other deductions from gross deposits	151,622,567.58	141,188,000	268,237,000
All other resources	1,894,187.60	1,723,000	1,137,000
Total resources	$1,712,249,514.95	$1,774,535,000	$1,886,546,000

LIABILITIES.

	Last Week.	Prev. Week.	Year Ago.
Capital paid in	$26,338,550.00	$26,376,000	$22,393,000
Surplus	56,414,456.04	56,415,000	45,082,000
Government deposits	417,032.44	10,217,000	309,000
Due to members—reserve account	677,402,441.38	695,948,000	767,364,000
Deferred availability items	92,946,791.18	90,857,000	181,978,000
Other deposits, including foreign Government credits	12,803,532.89	11,763,000	50,112,000
Total gross deposits	$783,569,817.89	$808,780,000	$999,763,000
Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation	800,121,480.00	839,625,000	757,906,000
Federal Reserve Bank notes in circulation—net liability	38,180,200.00	36,831,000	52,068,000
All other liabilities	7,625,011.02	6,508,000	9,334,000
Total liabilities	$1,712,249,514.95	$1,774,535,000	$1,886,546,000
Ratio of total reserves to deposit and Federal Reserve note liabilities combined	40.6%	39.0%	41.4%
Ratio of reserves to net deposits after deducting 40 per cent. gold reserves against F. R. notes in circulation	41.5%	37.7%	....
Contingent liability on bills purchased for foreign correspondents	$6,079,450.79	$6,061,662.99	....

BANK DEPARTMENT SUMMARY.

STATE BANKS AND TRUST COMPANIES NOT INCLUDED IN CLEARING HOUSE.

Loans and investments	$598,430,400	+ $546,600
Gold	7,629,000	+ 29,700
Currency and bank notes	19,297,100	— 693,100
Deposits with Federal Reserve Bank of New York	52,567,600	— 961,900
Total deposits	642,062,000	—6,240,800
*Net deposits	593,266,400	—1,512,400
Reserve on deposits	118,993,100	—3,761,300
Percentage of reserve, 22.1.

RESERVE.

	State B'ks.	P. C.	Trust Cos.	P. C.
Cash	$26,773,200	17.55	$52,660,500	13.70
Deposits in banks and trust companies	9,488,400	6.22	30,071,000	7.83
Total	$36,261,600	23.77	$82,731,500	21.32

*Deposits, eliminating amounts due from Reserve depositaries and from other banks and trust companies in New York City and United States deposits.

NEW YORK ASSOCIATED BANKS.

STATEMENT AT CLOSE OF BUSINESS JAN. 15, 1921.

ACTUAL CONDITION, CHANGES FOR THE WEEK.

Excess reserve	Dec.	$11,203,920
Loans	Dec.	87,632,000
Net demand deposits	Dec.	47,304,000
Net time deposits	Inc.	7,522,000
Cash in vault, Federal Reserve members	Dec.	8,975,000
Reserve in Federal Reserve Bank, member banks	Dec.	17,361,000
Reserve in own vaults, State banks and trust companies	Inc.	17,000
Reserve in other depositories, State banks and trust companies	Inc.	237,000
Circulation	Dec.	182,000

ACTUAL CONDITION, ALL MEMBERS.

	1921.	1920.	1919.
Loans	$5,132,565,000	$5,320,088,000	$4,805,045,000
*Demand deposits	4,017,445,000	4,240,904,000	3,960,733,000
Time deposits	274,771,000	263,428,000	144,860,000
Circulation	34,525,000	37,550,000	36,040,000
Cash in vault, Federal Reserve members	88,773,000	111,026,000	101,936,000
Reserve in Fed. Res. Bank, mem. banks	511,737,000	574,780,000	568,624,000
Res. in other depos., banks & trust cos.	9,779,000	11,749,000	11,334,000
Cash in vault, State banks and trust cos.	9,404,000	11,271,000	10,862,000
Aggregate reserve	$530,920,000	$597,800,000	$590,820,000
Reserve required	532,992,390	563,572,190	524,181,460
Excess reserve	†$2,072,390	$34,227,810	$66,638,550

*Government deposits of $38,011,000 deducted. Last week such deposits were $54,973,000. †Deficit.

AVERAGE CONDITION, CHANGES FOR THE WEEK.

Excess reserve	Dec.	$656,260
Loans	Dec.	90,506,000
Net demand deposits	Dec.	62,957,000
Net time deposits	Dec.	10,944,000
Cash in vault, Federal Reserve members	Dec.	1,200,000
Reserve in Federal Reserve Bank, member banks	Dec.	8,920,000
Reserve in own vaults, State banks and trust companies	Inc.	20,000
Reserve in other depositories, State banks and trust companies	Inc.	379,000
Circulation	Dec.	120,000

AVERAGE CONDITION, ALL MEMBERS.

	1921.	1920.	1919.
Loans	$5,171,623,000	$5,346,586,000	$4,755,963,000
*Demand deposits	4,045,376,000	4,145,295,000	3,957,268,000
Time deposits	274,767,000	261,770,000	142,154,000
Circulation	34,652,000	37,342,000	36,023,000
Cash in vault, Federal Reserve members	95,603,000	117,933,000	107,229,000
Reserve in Fed. Res. Bank, mem. banks	540,225,000	555,239,000	552,613,000
Res. in other depos., banks & trust cos.	9,415,000	11,403,000	10,381,000
Cash in vault, State banks and trust cos.	9,273,000	11,532,000	10,825,000
Aggregate reserve	$558,913,000	$578,194,000	$573,819,000
Reserve required	536,569,950	551,152,250	523,559,550
Excess reserve	$22,343,050	$27,041,750	$50,259,450

*Government deposits of $47,370,000 deducted. Last week such deposits were $73,833,000.

INDIVIDUAL BANK RETURNS.

AVERAGE FIGURES WEEK ENDED JAN. 15, 1921.

BANKS AND TRUST COMPANIES MEMBERS OF FEDERAL RESERVE BANK.

	Loans, Discount, Investments, &c.	Cash in Vault.	Reserve with Legal Depositories.	Net Demand Deposits.	Time Deposits.
Bank of N. Y., N.B.A.	$44,805,000	$762,000	$4,228,000	$31,057,000	$2,575,000
Bank of Manhat'n Co.	127,021,000	3,788,000	14,452,000	107,128,000	12,101,000
Mech. & Metals Nat.	203,440,000	8,944,000	20,440,000	152,894,000	2,922,000
Bank of America	60,349,000	2,652,000	7,322,000	53,907,000	1,187,000
National City Bank	566,279,000	9,203,000	57,851,000	(a)547,097,000	55,150,000
Chemical National	132,783,000	2,085,000	14,575,000	109,973,000	1,614,000
Atlantic National	18,030,000	456,000	2,125,000	16,099,000	527,000
Nat. Butch. & Drov.	4,564,000	112,000	678,000	4,552,000	72,000
Amer. Exch. National	122,583,000	1,780,000	12,297,000	90,094,000	3,924,000
Nat. Bank of Com.	375,600,000	3,311,000	34,824,000	259,446,000	3,532,000
Pacific	21,312,000	1,732,000	3,423,000	24,325,000	226,000
Chat. & Phenix Nat.	119,757,000	5,334,000	14,233,000	104,133,000	14,313,000
Hanover National	117,910,000	3,257,000	19,270,000	114,849,000	....
Metropolitan	36,931,000	2,319,000	7,979,000	43,059,000	4,000
Corn Exchange	151,513,000	7,741,000	25,842,000	154,152,000	13,346,000
Import. & Trad. Nat.	41,527,000	807,000	3,881,000	29,650,000	26,000
National Park	196,172,000	1,554,000	19,382,000	149,474,000	1,862,000
East River National	11,499,000	416,000	1,773,000	11,187,000	1,015,000
Second National	23,381,000	985,000	2,903,000	19,839,000	90,000
First National	317,838,000	1,119,000	22,851,000	174,707,000	4,066,000
Irving National	189,032,000	7,889,000	24,415,000	185,098,000	1,770,000
N. Y. County Nat.	13,769,000	1,207,000	1,668,000	13,568,000	879,000
Continental	7,289,000	124,000	960,000	6,096,000	100,000
Chase National	356,486,000	6,329,000	36,886,000	271,960,000	11,495,000
Fifth Avenue	20,256,000	1,059,000	3,150,000	20,983,000	....
Commercial Exch.	8,455,000	517,000	1,671,000	8,840,000	....
Commonwealth	8,761,000	538,000	1,413,000	9,520,000	....
Garfield National	15,896,000	752,000	2,508,000	16,320,000	31,000
Fifth National	12,099,000	350,000	2,119,000	13,358,000	357,000
Seaboard National	48,383,000	1,200,000	6,673,000	49,104,000	893,000
Liberty National	93,014,000	692,000	8,760,000	66,288,000	2,215,000
Coal & Iron National	18,323,000	789,000	1,794,000	12,939,000	287,000
Union Exch. National	19,027,000	454,000	2,875,000	20,665,000	323,000
Brooklyn Trust	36,746,000	790,000	3,941,000	29,225,000	4,914,000
Bankers Trust	272,324,000	1,103,000	28,497,000	(b)216,442,000	10,253,000
U. S. Mtg. & Trust	62,057,000	842,000	6,634,000	50,187,000	10,017,000
Guaranty Trust	518,428,000	2,844,000	46,268,000	(c)459,305,000	32,064,000
Fidelity-Inter. Trust	18,149,000	514,000	2,403,000	18,340,000	643,000
Columbia Trust	79,332,000	1,315,000	9,917,000	75,632,000	3,906,000
Peoples Trust	33,483,000	1,311,000	3,508,000	33,271,000	1,154,000
New York Trust	86,816,000	541,000	8,856,000	67,741,000	1,623,000
Lincoln Trust	23,502,000	566,000	3,405,000	23,685,000	481,000
Metropolitan Trust	32,033,000	643,000	3,404,000	25,661,000	1,130,000
Nassau Nat., B'klyn.	16,598,000	408,000	1,430,000	14,071,000	496,000
Farm. Loan & Trust	119,846,000	1,597,000	14,276,000	(d)119,587,000	15,127,000
Columbia	23,362,000	855,000	3,267,000	24,684,000	124,000
Equitable Trust	176,543,000	2,017,000	19,102,000	(e)163,753,000	11,919,000
Total	$5,003,307,000	$95,603,000	$540,225,000	*$3,943,863,000	$230,956,000
STATE BANKS NOT MEMBERS OF FEDERAL RESERVE BANK.
Greenwich	$18,409,000	$2,911,000	$2,288,000	$19,691,000	$50,000
Bowery	5,844,000	716,000	348,000	5,801,000	....
State	73,377,000	3,412,000	2,296,000	31,579,000	42,646,000
Total	$97,630,000	$7,039,000	$4,932,000	$57,071,000	$42,696,000
TRUST COMPANIES NOT MEMBERS OF FEDERAL RESERVE BANK.
Title Guar. & Trust	$46,064,000	$1,255,000	$3,061,000	$28,472,000	$920,000
Lawyers Title & Tr.	24,622,000	979,000	1,422,000	15,970,000	195,000
Total	$70,686,000	$2,234,000	$4,483,000	$44,442,000	$1,115,000
Grand total	5,171,623,000	104,876,000	549,640,000	†4,045,376,000	274,767,000

Includes deposits in foreign branches not included in footings: (a) $116,550,000, (b) $7,562,000, (c) $109,648,000 (d) $18,589,000, (e) $20,363,000.

Balances carried in banks in foreign countries as reserve for such deposits: (a) $49,204,000, (b) $767,000, (c) $13,291,000, (d) $2,143,000, (e) $4,105,000.

*Deposits in foreign branches not included.

†United States deposits deducted, $47,370,000.

SUPPLEMENTARY BANK AND TRUST COMPANIES

FOR THE WEEK ENDED WITH CLOSING OF BUSINESS SATURDAY, JAN. 15, 1921.

Figures Compiled from Special Reports to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

INSTITUTIONS CLEARING THROUGH MEMBERS.

NATIONAL AND STATE BANKS—Average Figures.

	Loans.	Gold.	Other Cash Including Bk. Notes.	Res. Dep. N. Y. and Elsewhere.	With Other Banks and Trust Cos.	Gross Deposits.
MANHATTAN—
Battery Park Nat.	$11,850,300	$10,000	$265,800	$1,649,700	$748,100	$12,555,000
Colonial	15,708,000	300,000	1,860,000	1,777,000	......	18,379,000
Grace & Co. (W. R.)	4,049,047	10,541	17,699	457,387	1,079,671	4,067,477
Mutual	10,555,000	1,000	824,000	1,929,000	......	12,992,000
New Netherland	7,406,000	4,000	246,000	2,026,000	60,000	8,515,000
Washington Heights	8,339,000	129,000	381,000	224,000	......	3,689,000
Yorkville	14,869,000	18,000	579,000	1,609,000	......	16,673,000
BROOKLYN—
First National	10,581,200	6,900	296,700	991,600	791,200	11,082,900
Mechanics	29,509,700	78,400	2,588,000	7,889,200	11,700	38,445,000
North Side	6,422,300	3,287	279,500	900,249	......	7,464,400
JERSEY CITY, N. J.—
First National	8,729,000	106,000	481,000	2,527,000	62,000	11,097,000

TRUST COMPANIES—Average Figures.

	Loans.	Cash.	Reserve Dep. N. Y. and Elsewhere.	Dep. with Other Banks & Trust Cos.	Gross Deposits.
BROOKLYN—
Hamilton	$8,873,000	$710,000	$394,000	......	$8,676,000
BAYONNE, N. J.—
Mechanics	8,552,614	558,863	1,195,798	$256,514	10,261,991

INSTITUTIONS NOT IN THE CLEARING HOUSE.

NATIONAL AND STATE BANKS—Average Figures.

	Loans.	Gold.	Other Cash Including Bk. Notes.	Res. Dep. N. Y. and Elsewhere.	With Other Banks and Trust Cos.	Gross Deposits.
MANHATTAN—
Bank of Cuba	$819,831	$80,000	$22,420	$25,292	......	$711,789
Bank of United States	26,102,700	4,500	816,200	3,017,800	$2,995,100	31,685,900
Broadway Central	2,819,100	97,500	245,950	368,350	20,400	3,220,250
Bronx Borough	3,660,489	1,200	151,383	293,773	......	3,974,327
Bryant Park Bank	2,354,800	61,800	217,700	285,200	......	2,596,500
Chelsea Exch. Bank	7,473,000	......	694,000	842,000	3,000	6,776,000
Cosmopolitan	2,689,900	......	108,800	372,900	3,000	3,028,300
Europe (Bank of)	5,255,570	82,000	603,360	454,600	......	6,177,861
Gotham National	11,460,000	......	316,000	1,753,000	65,000	10,256,000
Harriman National	29,181,000	42,000	863,000	3,290,000	888,000	28,687,000
Public National	66,772,000	7,000	1,342,000	4,920,000	4,786,000	73,383,000
Twenty-third Ward	5,480,500	106,300	447,200	697,000	12,500	6,587,200
BROOKLYN—
Bank of Coney Island	2,587,500	21,200	671,000	59,100	......	2,952,300
Homestead	2,913,400	236,400	182,400	246,400	......	3,348,700
Montauk	2,573,000	15,000	195,000	215,000	......	2,900,000
Municipal	1,456,600	3,600	116,600	220,900	32,600	1,690,000
Peoples National	4,603,300	2,200	199,700	495,000	114,200	5,375,300
JERSEY CITY, N. J.—
Hudson County	5,054,800	28,000	254,000	1,155,000	64,000	5,561,000
HOBOKEN, N. J.—
First National	11,223,900	8,600	388,900	978,800	18,100	11,312,300
Second National	8,992,889	6,269	214,797	362,541	352,786	9,118,696

TRUST COMPANIES—Average Figures.

	Loans.	Cash.	Reserve Dep. N. Y. and Elsewhere.	Dep. with Other Banks & Trust Cos.	Gross Deposits.
MANHATTAN—
American	$11,429,765	$1,099,059	$1,090,606	$187,807	$11,914,810
Central-Union	183,991,000	*28,893,000	5,587,000	1,630,000	192,426,000
Commercial	7,530,000	652,000	357,000	310,000	8,064,000
Empire	40,036,400	*2,776,200	6,630,300	2,446,500	48,701,900
Fulton	7,427,500	*1,331,300	1,044,000	......	8,681,400
Hudson	6,623,900	543,600	1,305,700	234,600	7,602,000
Mercantile	15,858,000	120,000	1,899,000	720,000	7,458,000
N. Y. Life Ins. & Trust	26,864,800	1,046,500	1,148,500	......	25,622,900
United States	59,160,339	5,450,000	7,969,840	......	56,357,671
BROOKLYN—
Kings County	22,826,151	1,782,970	2,017,207	......	23,721,211
Manufacturers	26,071,900	1,467,100	6,871,700	32,900	31,357,900

*Includes amount with Federal Reserve Bank as follows: Central-Union $23,205,000, Empire $1,083,000 and Fulton $1,220,300.

AGGREGATE TRUST COMPANIES' DEPOSITS.

The following figures of Clearing House trust companies include items not included in the net deposits as reported to the Clearing House:

Trust Companies.	Deposits.	Trust Companies.	Deposits.
Bankers	$266,377,000	Metropolitan	$30,181,100
Brooklyn	36,582,000	New York	74,612,000
Columbia	86,781,000	Peoples	37,167,200
Equitable	199,172,000	Title Guarantee	32,811,700
Farmers	151,484,577	United States Mortgage	66,823,000
Fidelity-International	20,389,000
Guaranty	584,736,000	Total	$1,631,074,177
Lawyers Title	17,458,300	Change	—$6,917,632
Lincoln	27,899,300

Money to Loan

on all classes of high grade income-producing properties in New York City and immediate vicinity, in amounts of $500,000 and upwards.

Building Loans
Industrial Loans

The Home of Safety
AMERICAN
BOND & MORTGAGE COMPANY
American Bond & Mortgage Building
127 North Dearborn Street Chicago, Illinois

Large Company with assets 6 to 1 desires to realize on various Notes Receivable on hand which it has accumulated; any amount up to $100,000. This is two-name paper; is widely distributed; of small denominations and falls due within four months. Liberal commissions will be paid for placing this paper. Immediate action is desired. Address

T 103 Times.

HAVE YOU A REAL SALES AGENCY
In Maryland, District of Columbia and Virginia.

We wish to arrange that a live and valued Branch and Assistant Sales Manager, employed by us for twenty years, obtains the Sales Agencies for two or three Representative and Reputable Manufacturers of Paints, Oils, Packings, Beltings, Automotive Hardware Tools or Accessories, or similar industrial products.

This man is desirous of making a change because of no reason reflecting ther than benefit to himself. We are anxious to see that he makes connections such as he deserves.

Address SALES MANAGER,
Pittsburgh Oil Refg. Corp., Baltimore, Md. or V 989 Times Downtown.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS. MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

The State Bank

374-378 GRAND STREET.

New York, January 14th, 1921.

At the Annual Meeting of the stockholders of this bank, held on January 11th 1921, the following named gentlemen were elected Directors for the ensuing year:

Oscar L. Richard	Michael Tuch
Lucius N. Littauer	Robert S. Dennison
Harold C. Richard	Albert I. Voorhis
Sol Wexler	Walter L. Burckett
Robert H. Mainzer	John Kneisel
Wilbur L. Ball	William B. Roth
Morris H. Mann	Harry W. Vogel

Charles A. Smith

At a meeting of the Board of Directors, held this day, the following Officers were unanimously re-elected:

Harold C. Richard, President
Albert I. Voorhis, Vice President and the following officers were re-appointed:

VICE PRESIDENTS: Walter L. Burckett, John Kneisel, William B. Roth, Charles A. Smith and Harry W. Vogel.

CASHIER: John Kneisel.

ASSISTANT CASHIERS: Frank A. Pappi, Charles C. Schnecko, Paul Muller, Clarence E. James, Edward W. Rasp, Philip L. Tuchman and Arthur J. Van Pelt.

AUDITOR: Chester Woodworth.

MANAGER FOREIGN DEPARTMENT: Maxwell M. Teicher.

The following new appointments were also made:

ASSISTANT CASHIERS: J. V. D. Garretson, Walter J. Gilpin.

JOHN KNEISEL, Cashier.

CONSOLIDATED GAS COMPANY OF NEW YORK
130 EAST 15TH STREET
January 3, 1921.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of this Company for the election of Trustees to serve during the ensuing year will be held at this office Monday, January 24, 1921. Polls will be open from 12 M. to 1 P. M. Transfer books will close Saturday, January 15, 1921, at 12 M. and reopen Tuesday, January 25, 1921.

H. M. BRUNDAGE, Secretary.

FINANCIAL NOTICES.

Southern Pacific Railroad Company
First Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to the provisions of Section 10, Article Fourth, of the mortgage and deed of trust executed by this Company to The Equitable Trust Company of New York, as Trustee, dated January 3d, 1905, to secure its First Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds, this Company has set apart out of the net income derived by it from the lines of railroad subject to the lien of said mortgage and deed of trust the sum of $12,009 in the year 1920, in trust to be used to redeem said bonds, and that bonds will be redeemed therewith. Bids are hereby invited for the surrender of such bonds at prices to be named by the bidders to the amount of $12,062.58 in the sinking fund. Such bids should be presented to this Company at its office, 165 Broadway, in the City of New York, on or before the first day of March, 1921, at 12 o'clock noon, and should be endorsed "Bids for the surrender of Southern Pacific Railroad Company's First Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds."

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD CO.,
By G. L. KING, Secretary.
Dated January 4, 1921.

NOTICE OF LIQUIDATION OF THE NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE OF TOLEDO, OHIO.

The National Bank of Commerce, of Toledo, Ohio, located in the city of Toledo, Lucas County, Ohio, is closing its affairs. All noteholders and other creditors of the association are therefore hereby notified to present their notes and claims for payment.

W. L. LAMB, Cashier,
The National Bank of Commerce, of Toledo, Ohio.
December 31st, 1920.

THE CENTRAL NATIONAL BANK OF ST. LOUIS, located at Broadway and Olive Street, in the City of St. Louis and State of Missouri, is closing its affairs. All noteholders and other creditors of the association are therefore hereby notified to present their notes and other claims for payment.

T. E. NEWCOMER, Cashier.
Dated Dec. 31, 1920.

THE
PUBLIC NATIONAL BANK OF NEW YORK

New York, January 13th, 1921.

At the annual meeting of the shareholders of this bank held January 11th, 1921, the following were elected Directors for the ensuing year:

JOSEPH J. BACH
CHARLES H. BALDWIN
JOHN C. EISLE
H. P. GOLDSCHMIDT
MICHAEL HOLLANDER
WALTER E. MEYER
HENRY L. MOSES
ALFRED S. ROSSIN
EDWARD S. ROTHCHILD
JACOB SPERBER
WILLIAM B. WALKER

At the regular meeting of the Board of Directors held this day the following officers were unanimously elected:

EDWARD S. ROTHCHILD, President.
JOSEPH J. BACH, Vice-President.
The following were appointed officers:
CHARLES H. BALDWIN, Cashier.
WILLIAM J. BROWN, Asst. Cashier.
LEO B. PULLMAN, Asst. Cashier.
SAMUEL BERGSON, Asst. Cashier.
WALTER G. FERENS, Asst. Cashier.
IRVING LEVY, Asst. Cashier.
IRA S. ATKINS, Asst. Cashier.
E. SOUTHALL, Asst. Cashier.
ABRAHAM S. BERNSTEIN, Asst. Cashier.
GEORGE J. KLEIN, Asst. Cashier.
EDWARD L. LICHTMAN, Asst. Cashier.
HARRY I. ARROW, Asst. Cashier.

CHARLES H. BALDWIN, Cashier.

Metropolitan Trust Company of the City of New York.

The annual meeting of the Stockholders of this Company for the election of ten Directors will be held at the office of the Company, 60 Wall Street, at 12 o'clock noon, on the nineteenth day of January, 1921. The stock transfer books will be closed at 3 P. M., January 7th, and reopened at 10 A. M., January 20th, 1921.

GEORGE N. HARTMANN, Secretary.

New York, January 7th, 1921.

Is Capital Required?

Partners in going concerns requiring capital should consult the Business Opportunities advertisements in The New York Times.—Advt.

It is the purpose of The New York Times to keep its Business Opportunities columns free from all possible doubtful and questionable advertisements, thus saving the time and money of its readers.

Business Opportunities

Advertising rate Fifteen Cents per word.

A careful investigation is made of all Business Opportunity advertisements open to question. The Times welcomes information from readers as to any suspected offer.

CAPITAL TO INVEST.

WILL FINANCE
manufacturers, merchants and selling agents on their accounts and notes receivable in amounts up to $25,000 on our non-notification plan, interviews invited; confidential.
TRADERS' FINANCE CORPORATION,
Room 1812, 43 Exchange Pl., N. Y. C.
Phone Hanover 2657.

WE FINANCE
manufacturers and jobbers on their accounts receivable on a non-notification basis; relationship confidential as with your own bank.
CREDIT DISCOUNT TRUST,
432 Fourth Avenue.
Phone Madison Square 6190.

YOUNG MAN, about 30 years old, Christian, is looking for opportunity to become interested with services in established business; manufacturing staple line preferred; speculative ventures or promotions not considered; give sufficient information for intelligent consideration, including amount of capital required, location, age and nature of business in answer. H 512 Times Downtown.

I WILL INVEST UP TO $60,000 AND MY SERVICES IN AN ESTABLISHED CONSERVATIVE BUSINESS, NO INTEREST IN FABRIC OR WEARING APPAREL BUSINESS. REPLIES HELD CONFIDENTIAL. S 167 TIMES.

I WOULD invest $5,000 and upward with experience and A1 credit, in association with an active, successful man in trading in oils, have surplus choice office space in Hudson Terminal. Address Merchant, Box 462, City Hall Station.

WANTED, MANUFACTURING BUSINESS, located within reasonable distance of New York which makes tools or metal goods for which is constant demand and business capable further development; give particulars. Bonafide. Z 2241 Times Annex.

ACTIVE concern will invest $10,000 or more with manufacturer to associate and outfit up ... a product of merit; only business of repute will be considered. Write or call Central Mercantile Co., 350 Broadway. N 3.

ARE you in need of cash? We discount your accounts receivable, advance moneys on merchandise, buy notes and trade acceptances. Nassau Finance Co., 5 Beekman St.

$25,000 to invest in established manufacturing ... allied trades; 15 years business experience; will take active part; business must bear rigid investigation. B 155 Times.

IN ... corporation with competent services to ... contracts and complete them, or ... build up a business, please ... history and details for immediate consideration. A 78 Times.

CHRISTIAN, 37, wide business experience, will invest moderate capital and services, going business, particulars. A 1077 Times Harlem.

YOUNG MAN, active and ambitious with about $10,000 to invest seeks favorable opportunity with established commercial concern; state full particulars. H 115 Times.

WILL discount accounts receivable without notification, advance money on merchandise, machinery, buy notes and trade acceptances. A 85 Times.

CORPORATIONS ORGANIZED.
preliminaries financed, on a contingent basis, assist raising capital; moderate amounts. A P. O. Box 83, Times Square.

I WANT to buy a wholesale office supplies and stationery business, one well established with active office accounts. L 178 Times.

WANTED, good paying garage; must stand fullest investigation; give full particulars, no agents. G 510 Times.

HAVE up to $2,000 to invest with services; what have you? must stand investigation. A1 references given. Z 2276 Times Annex.

HAVE $10,000 to invest in a going business; must stand strictest investigation. A 504 Times.

EXPERIENCED business man will invest $2,000 cash in established business; particulars. L 159 Times.

WANTED—CIGAR STAND IN DOWNTOWN OFFICE BUILDING; NO AGENTS. F 804 TIMES DOWNTOWN.

$10,000-$25,000 to invest, with services; established enterprise, controlling interest desired. Room 505, 103 Park Av.

MIDDLE-AGED, thorough office man wants equal partnership, will invest $5,000. A 89 Times.

WILL invest $30,000 to $50,000 as active partner in well-established manufacturing concern. Box 10.59 Times, 2 Rector St.

$5,000 WITH SERVICES by Christian, middle aged, any business. A 532 Times.

ACTIVE partner invest $10,000 to $25,000, what have you. A 83 Times.

$25,000 to $100,000, established firm, services and funds for expansion. A 84 Times.

SMALL manufacturing business wanted. Letters with particulars, E. S., 3,525 B'way.

CASH FOR MERCHANDISE LOTS.
SPRING 6769.

CORPORATIONS with good statement assisted financially. L 819 Times Downtown.

CAPITAL WANTED.

PARTNER WANTED.
Established dress jobbing concern will consider partner with $10,000 to take care of mail-order department. Z 2236 Times Annex.

WANTED—Office manager or salesman to invest $5,000 to $10,000 in an established retail and wholesale manufacturing business; splendid opportunity for right man; can give best commercial references. P 510 Times.

DOCTOR within commuting distance requires married couple that can make a small investment and manage sanitarium. Albert Thompson, Jamaica Estates, Jamaica, L. I.

CAPABLE young man of good character, able to invest $5,000 to $10,000, can make advantageous connection with sound and highly profitable manufacturing business. L 829 Times Downtown.

ESTABLISHED wholesale clothing firm wants partner with $10,000 to $15,000 to enlarge business, good opportunity right party. K 953 Times Downtown.

$30,000 BUYS controlling interest growing manufacturing business engaged in world trade; essential, meritorious specialty sold at large profit. S 76 Times.

MANUFACTURING company wants $15,000 additional capital to expand profitable business; active partner preferred. L 161 Times.

LOAN $50,000 WANTED FOR NINE MONTHS; AMPLE COLLATERAL; BEST BANK REFERENCES; LIBERAL PREMIUM. ADDRESS P 513 TIMES.

I NEED active partner with $12,000 to $18,000 to manufacture and sell patented specialty of international demand; large returns. S 133 Times.

SALESMAN having established out-of-town jobbing trade in shirts with small capital to have interest in business. Box 306, 1,152 Myrtle Av., Brooklyn.

CAPITAL $10,000.
Partner wanted to join a young, growing, established manufacturer of women's wearing apparel. Write L. E., 1214 Wilson Bldg.

WANTED, partner, to invest $5,000, increase equipment, good, paying passenger bus line; suburban. A 518 Times.

PARTNER, knowledge multigraph business, wanted to devote time and invest small capital. Alden, Cortlandt 4445.

$10,000 REQUIRED for interest in a high-class restaurant; money fully secured; excellent opportunity. K 973 Times Downtown.

WANTED—Partner with $5,000; manufacturing article used by all mechanics; no stock proposition considered. G 381 Times.

$50,000 wanted to develop large import business on exclusive agency basis. J 644 ...

CAPITAL WANTED.

AN OLD ESTABLISHED AND WELL KNOWN MANUFACTURING CUTLERY FIRM DESIRES TO NEGOTIATE WITH AN A1 SALESMAN TO TAKE A PARTNERSHIP INTEREST IN ONE OF THEIR SUBSIDIARY FACTORIES (MANUFACTURERS OF RAZORS AND NAIL FILES.) $10,000 CAPITAL REQUIRED; THE CAPITAL IS REQUIRED ONLY SO THAT THE APPLICANT WILL HAVE A FINANCIAL INTEREST IN THE CONCERN; HE MUST, HOWEVER, POSSESS UNQUESTIONABLE SELLING ABILITY AND ASSUME THE ENTIRE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE SELLING END OF THE BUSINESS; THE FACTORY IS PERFECTLY ESTABLISHED AND ORGANIZED AND WELL KNOWN IN THE TRADE, MANUFACTURING A LARGE AND HIGH-CLASS STANDARD LINE; AN UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY. E A 122 TIMES.

A LONG established and ably managed fertilizer company is now expanding, increasing as well its national distribution on package and tablet goods.
In addition to agency contracts the company holds an exclusive long-term contract on an unusually efficient fertilizer base.
The company wants an experienced man who will stay on the job and supervise the increased production.
As an evidence of good faith he will need to invest $6,000; this will be protected by an equity far in excess of that sum, and by either preferred or common stock, or both; he will receive a good salary and a fair portion of the profits.
Every phase is open to strictest investigation and responsible parties only need apply.
Ultimate income is limited only by faithful hard work and co-operation. Plant is located in a city of 40,000, adjacent to New York. Room 20, 214 West 34th St., New York.

DRESS MANUFACTURER.

WELL KNOWN TO THE BEST TRADE, DESIRES CONNECTION WITH SELLING ORGANIZATION WITH CAPITAL TO FINANCE A BUSINESS OF HALF A MILLION. SPRING LINE READY AND BOOKING ORDERS RIGHT NOW. WILL CONSIDER CLOAK AND SUIT OR SKIRT MAN WHO WANTS DRESS DEPARTMENT. H 130 TIMES.

FINANCING.
DO YOU REQUIRE CAPITAL?
We will consider the organization, promotion and financing of any COMPANY, PATENT, or DEAL, possessing the necessary merits to justify the capital.
Have at our command, a large selling organization covering New York and New England territory and will consider the raising of an amount up to $1,000,000.
Only facts and figures need be submitted and will be treated in confidence. Address P 505 Times.

EXTRAORDINARY opportunity for man or group of men who can furnish from one to two million dollars to join partnership as limited partners, or as working and managing partners, or as department managers; must be of good standing and able to make a substantial cash investment. Address First Class, W 653 Times Downtown.

$5,000 SALARY
and interest in a going business for a man with the proper qualifications; one who has had experience in directing the efforts of salesmen calling on the retail trade; the business consists of distributing established brand of foodstuffs; in order to insure full co-operation, applicant must be in a position to invest $10,000. W 660 Times Downtown.

PARTNER with $50,000 to $75,000 wanted by New York branch of old-established London import and export merchants with important and widespread eastern connections; gentlemen with knowledge of the produce market preferred, although not absolutely necessary; principals only. Z 2191 Times Annex.

INVENTION—Would like to put on the market; for that purpose I want a partner who is willing to put $30,000 into the business at half interest, my invention is an automatic window washing machine; washes window inside and outside at the same time; every home a user. Address J. Martin, 1,338 Oakley Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.

PARTNER, active or otherwise, by manufacturer of drug and department store article, well advertised and distributed, with $5,000 and more to invest in concern; if active must be live sales manager; if otherwise, must be man with unquestionable bank references. A 1067 Times Harlem.

PARTY wanted with $5,000 to $15,000 for State, county or city representative for manufacturer of greatest product of its kind made, protected by patent; highest references furnished; exclusive rights given; active or silent investor; large yearly returns assured, besides liberal salary if active. E 403 Times.

CORPORATION forming, controlling production and sale of electric illuminating device, desires correspondence and investigation of a broad visioned person to participate actively or inactively in parent company; market created and production contracted for. P 515 Times.

ELECTRICAL contracting firm, well established, requires services of young college man to learn details and eventually take charge of a department of the business, to help care for increased business resulting from right man's efforts; must invest $20,000. E 306 Times.

$5,000 will purchase interest in two going concerns about to merge into one corporation; fully equipped pattern and experimental shop; established trade; orders on hand; excellent downtown location; two marketable products covered by patents. L 800 Times Downtown.

MANUFACTURERS of essential specialty sold to hardware store and automobile supply dealers, have openings for sales managers in various States, who are able to invest $1,000 and up in merchandise. W 571 Times.

WILL offer controlling interest of established Pennsylvania fire brick concern to experienced fire brick man capable of managing business; must be honest, ambitious and willing to assume heavy responsibilities; a difficult proposition, but compensation ultimate ownership; give complete references. Confidential, Z 2312 Times Annex.

ESTABLISHED and successful export company having valuable exclusive agencies for farm tractors which give entire satisfaction, desire more capital in order to enlarge their field of operation; principals only. E 397 Times.

POPULAR cigar salesman and capable manufacturer desire to start own factory, making popular priced cigars under very favorable conditions; need capital and competent office man; $15,000 to $25,000 required. P 514 Times.

I OWN valuable patent on articles in field where millions are being made; am manufacturing in limited way, but proposition is worthy of large organization; am open for proposition; might sell outright. Attractive, Box 10 Times.

WOULD YOU INVEST YOUR MONEY in a conservative going concern? WE ARE ABLE TO SHOW: Eight years of successful operation, a record of profits, a good dividend. S. W. MERRITT CO., 133d St., 12th Av.

CAPITALISTS or promoters who are interested in the erection of apartment, hotel, industrial and mercantile buildings, for investment or speculation, can learn much to their advantage by addressing Builder, A 563 Times.

CORPORATION having large contract for sale of approved automobile accessory, use now compulsory, desires salesmen owning automobile to sell stock on drawing account and commission. Auto, Z 2248 Times Annex.

PARTNER wanted to take charge of plant manufacturing toys and marble statuary doing active business; $7,000 required; will stand strict investigation. Z 2262 Times Annex.

$50,000 TO $100,000 wanted by export and import concern with offices in Hamburg and Shanghai, and very valuable assets, building, &c.; President just returned from trip to Europe; an interview will convince you of the great opportunities. W 632 Times Downtown.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY for manufacturer in light sheet metal line, or manufacture and sell a well-demanded and tested article, patent rights pending, or a man with first-class selling ability and some capital wanted. 470 Cedarhurst, L. I.

PRINCIPAL.
Sole owner of profitable and established electric pneumatic business desires finances for increasing production. P 725 Times Downtown.

MANAGER for small Park Av. apartment hotel with dining room de lux; a person who can take full charge and make investment. Apply 3.. West ... Av.

CAPITAL WANTED.

SALES DIRECTOR WITH THOROUGH KNOWLEDGE OF MECHANICAL LINES IS WANTED TO TAKE CHARGE OF NEW IMPORTING DEPARTMENT. HE SHOULD BE CONVERSANT WITH NATIONAL ADVERTISING AND BE ABLE TO INVEST $25,000. G. P. CHANCE & CO., INC., 25 BEAVER STREET.

ASSISTANT MANAGER WANTED.
Woman, for tea room, recently opened in one of the most fashionable sections of New York; must possess refinement and a social standing, if possible; business experience unnecessary; salary commensurate with ability; an investment of $3,000 is required and will assure the person qualifying an ample portion of the profits; an opportunity; give particulars in first letter. Z 2330 Times Annex.

RAPIDLY GROWING
MERCANTILE MAIL ORDER HOUSE REQUIRES
SERVICES AND CAPITAL.
We are looking for a man with executive ability who can devote all or part time and is in a position to invest $75,000 in an established running business with unlimited possibilities; only principals who can stand thorough investigation will be considered. M. K., 475 Times Downtown.

BUSINESS CONNECTIONS WANTED.

CONTROLLING STOCK woodworking plant catering to best stores in New York and country, old-established, sound and solvent, will sell for $10,000. K 939 Times Downtown.

TEXTILE EXPERT
where sewing machines are used; will take charge of production output and help finance, only out of town plant considered. D A 121 Times.

MERCHANT having New York office and large and good connections with continental Europe desires buying and selling agency in raw materials or finished products. H 807 Times Downtown.

EXPORT EXECUTIVE, leaving for Cuba to adjust accounts, will handle similar business for manufacturers or exporters on proportion of expense basis. K 828 Times Downtown.

FIRST-CLASS SALESMAN, WITH CENTRALLY LOCATED OFFICE, WILL CONSIDER BUSINESS PROPOSITION FROM REPUTABLE CONCERN SEEKING REPRESENTATION GREATER NEW YORK AND VICINITY. A 79 TIMES.

MACHINE work wanted: shop has exceptional equipment for manufacturing machinery or parts, large and small; let us quote on your work. Peyser-Hansen Machine Co., Mount Vernon, N. Y.

INVENTOR-DESIGNER automatic machinery wishes connection with reliable concern; salary expected only when ability is made known by actual practice. K 832 Times Downtown.

WANTED, manufacturers' agency of steel barrels, drums or tanks by one who commands large trade in the Eastern territory; I am also the owner of important barrel patents. L 131 Times.

2 UNIVERSITY men with broad selling experience, locating in Japan, to establish American products in the Orient, are open for connections; highest references. H 427 Times.

KNITTED FABRICS MANUFACTURERS. Selling organization of high standing, with a following among outer and undergarment manufacturers (cutting-up trades) and jobbers, are open for accounts on a strictly commission basis. Z 2304 Times Annex.

YOUNG DRUGGIST will represent reputable firm in California; references; will invest few thousand dollars if necessary. B 88 Times.

PARTNER WANTED—$3,000 will buy half interest in old-established cutlery and repair shop; experience preferred, but not essential. Inquire Grossman, 17 West 42d St.

TIMES SQUARE section; restaurant privilege in 300-room house to let, either straight rental or percentage basis. Mr. Woodman, Room 723, 522 5th Av., between 12-2.

YOUNG technical university graduate, engineering and business experience, desires connection as representative, preferably technical line. J 632 Times Downtown.

MACHINE SHOP is looking for manufacturing proposition, tool, die, instrument and experimental work; will design, develop and finance new ideas. Community Machine & Tool Works, 122 Centre St.

TWO young men, with well located office in New York City, are open to a reasonable business proposition; replies strictly confidential; best references. A 61 Times.

REPRESENTATIVE, aged 26, possessing sales and business ability, invites correspondence which might result in him representing some legitimate proposition in Detroit, Mich., territory. Z 2281 Times Annex.

METAL STAMPING AND DIES.
For prompt deliveries and reasonable prices call or write Accurate Tool and Die Works, Inc., 350 West 25th St.

A prominent retailer of men's wear has active store, exceptionally good outlet; what can you offer? High grade. S. Y., 257 Times Downtown.

IN my gray iron foundry we make castings on molding machines at low costs; foundry 20 miles from New York. Z 2263 Times Annex.

LADIES' handbag concern, reputable, well known, desires partner capable of handling manufacturing end; ability prime consideration. M. O., 635 Times Downtown.

PARTNER by New York advertising novelty firm; unusual opportunity for active man; capital secondary consideration. Room 416, 68 Hudson St., Hoboken, N. J.

SALES AGENCY—French manufacturer perfumes, hair restorer, barbers' supplies, wants first-class house as exclusive agents. A 433 Times.

COMPOSITOR, A1, with small capital, purchase interest in profitable printing plant; strict Christian firm. J 643 Times Downtown.

SALESMAN and executive leaving for Pacific Coast March 1 would represent reliable manufacturer; best references. Z 22.2 Times Annex.

TWO live, experienced salesmen, maintaining own office, familiar with drug, department store trades, seek connection. A 1001 Times Harlem.

15 YEARS' experience; collections, accounts, claims any kind, everywhere. Contingent, 145 West 45th (904).

INVENTOR of a hand signal for automobiles, motorcycles and traffic police, in search of a partner with capital. P. O. Box 388, Far Rockaway.

SAN FRANCISCO sales representative wants good lines for Pacific Coast; commission; no novelties; am in city now and can call. P 518 Times.

MACHINE DESIGNER and industrial engineer of wide experience offers services. Edward Roberts, 48 East 41st.

BRITISH firm in Japan wishes to open connection for import of Japanese goods. H 88 Times.

SALES ENGINEER would like represent high grade account mechanical line; Chicago territory. M 80 Times.

REAL ESTATE partner wanted, active, experienced, start realty, insurance. G 162 Times.

BUSINESS man visiting Porto Rico offers services; any capacity. Z 2290 Times Annex.

YOUNG MAN can invest few thousand dollars with services; reply with details. A 68 Times.

MAN, highest character, connect with reliable general store, thriving town. A 98 Times.

YOUNG MAN, executive, sales, purchasing experience auto line; limited capital to invest with services. B 1048 Times Harlem.

GOING to Cuba; will consider manufacturer's representations and transact legitimate business. D 313 Times.

SALES EXECUTIVE, established office, open for line of merit only. M 169 Times.

BUSINESS CONNECTIONS.

SPLENDID opportunity for four men to act as distributors of a very fast-selling line; sales to be made to department stores, hardware and house furnishing merchants, druggists, grocers and jobbers; exclusive territorial rights to Manhattan, Brooklyn (including Long Island), Bronx and Westchester and Northern New Jersey; other territories also available; only those able to direct and maintain an aggressive sales campaign will be considered; line sold very rapidly in New York even during the past sixty days, when buying in most lines was at a standstill; there is an unlimited field for the product, enhanced by a constant reorder feature; merchandise retails for 35c to $2; profits are ample; principals address in confidence, giving qualifications, &c. G 368 Times.

MANUFACTURERS.
No State in the Union can offer such inducements as Maine for reliable manufacturers, in the way of cheap power, fine shipping facilities; ideal labor conditions, excellent schools and churches, and very low taxes; and the people of Maine are ready to offer assistance to any reliable manufacturers who will consider locating their business in the State.
If you will consider change of location, or desire to build up a new industry, it will be to your advantage to write at once for particulars to L. J. COBURN, State Chamber of Commerce, Room 405, 97 Exchange St., Portland, Maine.

WE OFFER LIVE MEN VISITING THE AUTOMOBILE TRADE AND STEAM SPECIALTY HOUSES A BONA FIDE PROPOSITION TO HANDLE OUR PRODUCT ENTIRELY OR AS A SIDE LINE; WE MANUFACTURE AN AUTO NECESSITY THAT IS NOT HANDICAPPED BY COMPETITION AND WILL GIVE HUSTLERS AN OPPORTUNITY TO MAKE REAL MONEY AND ESTABLISH A PERMANENT BUSINESS OF THEIR OWN. WRITE OR CALL, AMERICAN TEKSAG PRODUCTS CO., INC., 393-399 NO. RAILROAD AV., MOUNT VERNON, N. Y.

MIDDLE AGED BUSINESS MAN WITH EXPERIENCE, EXECUTIVE ABILITY AND HIGHEST REFERENCES, DESIRES TO BUY AN INTEREST IN A SOUND, ESTABLISHED BUSINESS; ACTIVE OR AS SILENT PARTNER; NO AGENTS. E 368 TIMES.

PARTNER—Wanted, a partner in an established candy factory making a general line; I am a practical candy man and have established a good business; I desire an active partner, good executive with real selling ability and able to make a moderate investment of $15,000 to $25,000; no brokers need answer. S 978 Times Downtown.

BOSTON REPRESENTATIVE WANTS A CONNECTION
with manufacturer or producer of high-grade specialties for New England district, either on commission or agency contract; successful executive, experience in export-import and accounting; very good references, commercial and banks. Z 2291 Times Annex.

A COMPANY with an exceptional record, and whose earnings exceed half a million dollars, desires brokers and salesmen located out of town, who can successfully handle their dividend paying security; company will bear strictest investigation. For information and particulars write A. H., 143 Times Downtown.

WE will put you into business without any investment; all that is necessary is an acquaintance with the purchasing mediums of the paints and oils departments of railroads; present our oil and its efficiency and price will get you orders on which we will divide profits. New York Vegetable Oil Products Co., Inc., 77 Furman St., Bklyn.

SAN FRANCISCO firm, with sales organization, desires several additional lines other than wearing apparel or textiles, on commission basis, for Pacific Coast; representative now in New York; bank and business references offered and required. L 154 Times.

WANTED, by a New York corporation, a man with or without services, that can make a substantial investment and can influence capital; directorship open; plenty of work on hand; this is a going company and not a dream; good opportunity for a real man. P 506 Times.

OPPORTUNITY—Controlling interest in corporation manufacturing metal products; now building our own factory; one-half of purchase price to apply to business; $150,000 required; principals only; present management will remain; expansion and business necessitates additional capital. P 507 Times.

WILL offer controling interest of established Pennsylvania fire brick concern to experienced fire brick man capable of managing business; must be honest, ambitious and willing to assume heavy responsibilities; a difficult proposition, but compensation ultimate ownership; give complete references. Confidential, Z 2313 Times Annex.

CLEVELAND accounts wanted; live wire executive, 2 years with Ohio's largest retail store, also N. Y. experience, wants to arrange with several legitimate concerns to represent them; commission or salary. L 106 Times.

DRY GOODS MERCHANT, WITH THOROUGH KNOWLEDGE OF THE INDUSTRY, ALSO POSSESSING ORGANIZING AND EXECUTIVE ABILITY, IS OPEN FOR POSITION OF MERIT. S 877 TIMES DOWNTOWN.

MANUFACTURING and sales organization covering the United States, established for ten years, wishes to add exclusive line of hardware to be sold to the jobbing trade; will buy goods outright and advance money if necessary for enlarging the proposition. Address Y 2490 Times Annex.

PLATING SHOP, operated as a service department in large Brooklyn concern, has surplus facilities available to manufacturer who wishes to contract for silver, nickel, brass, copper and bronze plating, repairing and tinning; motor truck delivery and direct rail connection; quality work at reasonable prices. Z 2235 Times Annex.

LOS ANGELES resident with executive ability, 20 years selling experience, capable of organizing high-class salesforce, would like to represent large Eastern manufacturers in Southern California; best references. Samuel Reidsma, 1,110 So. Lake St., Los Angeles, Calif.

TELL ME what you want a machine to do; I can design the simplest mechanism to meet your requirements, at very reasonable rates; absolutely confidential; further information on request. J. W. Berwick, 52 West Sidney Av., Mount Vernon, N. Y.

IMPORT EXECUTIVE.
American, 35, recently returned extensive purchasing trip Central Europe, excellent connections several exclusive agencies; thorough knowledge imports, exports, knowing Spanish, German; desires proper connection. L 807 Times Downtown.

CHINA—JAPAN—GEORGE P. PATTISON, MANY YEARS BUYER A. A. VANTINE COMPANY, LEAVES FOR FAR EAST FEBRUARY 1ST. WILL ACCEPT BUYING COMMISSIONS FOR CHINESE AND JAPANESE MERCHANDISE. PHONE STUYVESANT 7207 FOR APPOINTMENT.

LET US DO YOUR MANUFACTURING.
We have a modern, equipped plant for all kinds of metal stampings, japanning, nickel-plating, wire forming, &c., it will pay you to communicate with us at once. P. O. Box 285, Mount Vernon, N. Y.

WANTED—TO GET IN TOUCH WITH RELIABLE STOCK BROKERAGE FIRM TO HANDLE $500,000 STOCK ISSUE, MONEYS TO BE USED IN OPENING CHAIN OF QUICK LUNCH PLACES SIMILAR TO ONES NOW OPERATED SUCCESSFULLY BY ADVERTISER. P 503 TIMES.

CONTRACT manufacturing, mechanical, electrical, technical appliances; Japanning, stamping, plating, assembly and machine shop departments; also arrange national sales distribution if desired. K 941 Times Downtown.

OUR ART DEPT. DEVELOPS IDEAS!
We so construct your advertisements, booklets, form letters, circulars, &c., that they are bound to produce business.
STERNFIELD, GODLEY & LEWIS, INC.,
154 Nassau St. Tel. Beekman 341, 6222, 5626.

A RELIABLE Minnesota corporation wants a distributor for New York State and several other Eastern States on one of the most practical auto accessories made; retails for only $8, with unlimited possibilities. H 157 Times.

AGENCIES Wanted—Live wire sales agency with efficient sales force will represent reliable manufacturers of any line in Philadelphia, Eastern Pennsylvania, and Southern New Jersey. Delmont Sales & Service Co., 23d and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa.

MECHANICAL EXPERT, practical mechanic, desires connection with manufacturer; design, developing, automatic or labor-saving machinery, or with inventor developing inventions. Z 2269 Times Annex.

BUSINESS CONNECTIONS.

WE are interested in having some plant located near New York equipped to manufacture steel lockers and shelving; consult with us for the purpose of manufacturing this material in large quantities; our connection with Western plant for some years is objectionable because of high freight rates, and are open for an attractive proposition from some reputable plant. V 612 Times Downtown.

MODERN PLANT, operated by capable organization on a "success through service" basis, with excellent transportation facilities, located in centre of Jersey City, equipped with highly organized laboratory, engineering and designing department, pattern shop, foundry and well managed metal and woodworking production branches, would be interested in handling manufacturing program on established product; serving as Eastern assembly and shipping branch; or the development of new products to a commercial stage. M 65 Times.

A GENTLEMAN OF EXPERIENCE, MANAGERIAL, BUYING AND SELLING, EXTENSIVE ACQUAINTANCE AMONG MANUFACTURERS AND BUYERS OF HIGHEST CLASS IN FOOTWEAR, BOTH LEATHER AND RUBBER, SEEKS CONNECTION COMMENSURATE WITH HIS STATUS AND ABILITY; INTERVIEW WILL EASILY ESTABLISH HIS CLAIMS. ADDRESS G. P. S., UNION LEAGUE CLUB.

FOR SALE.

HAS YOUR BUSINESS MADE FROM $6,000 TO $12,000 NET YEARLY? HERE'S ONE THAT HAS!

Sell an absolute necessity; no charge accounts; no delivery expense. Bake and sell bread, rolls, pies, cakes, the Electrik-Maid way, every one who eats is a customer. We furnish all equipment and information. We put you into a clean-cut, interesting business. Exclusive territory of course.

WRITE OR WIRE TODAY

for full details. See the many Electrik-Maid Bake Shops now operating. Our doughnut proposition—a money maker for the man with very limited means. Act now before somebody else selects the territory you're figuring on.

ELECTRIK-MAID BAKE SHOPS,
Dakota Bldg. St. Paul, Minn.

ENTIRE PLANT, consisting of milling machines, lathes, shapers, grinders, drill presses, power presses, electric motors, gas furnace. Automatic Machine Co., 37 Frankfort St.

FURNISHED HOUSE, West 70's—17 fine rooms, three baths, parquet, electricity; three years' straight lease; $400 monthly profit; $4,000 required.
WINTERS, 125 WEST 43D.

FOR SALE—Modern equipped health institution, enjoying lucrative patronage; ideally located in select residential section of New York. V 972 Times Downtown.

WONDERFUL opportunity for active man with $5,000; purchase interest established food product factory; experience unnecessary; owners have other business. L 152 Times.

GARAGE, Manhattan, restricted residential section, just opened; capacity 200 cars; now 110; highest rates; no elevators; for rent; security only. Exchange, 135 Delancey St.

GARAGE, ten-year lease, two-story concrete building for sale, price $7,500; location, Brooklyn, near Manhattan Bridge. Address Garage, care Jacobson, 226 Flatbush Av.

FOR SALE—Account old age, up-to-date bottling plant in New York, with many customers and profitable beverage; no curiosity seekers need apply. P 506 Times.

LADIES' clothes shop, Times Square; rent $166 month; long lease; receipts over $3,000 monthly; large stock; $3,500 required. Crowe, Times Building.

HOTEL—All year furnished hotel, 40 rooms; city water, electricity; garage; fine auto and tea room trade. Shaw, Box 777, Stamford, Conn.

FURNISHED, 16-room house, West 72d, electricity, 4 years straight lease; large income; $6,000 required; several others. Cusack, 176 West 72d.

HOTELS, all sizes, at seashore, mountains, Florida and city; furnished or unfurnished; sell or lease; moderate prices. J. Friedman, 206 West 42d.

WILL dispose of my commercial stationery store at surprisingly low figure; good business, splendidly located in large office building. L 135 Times.

GARAGE—(Fireproof); one of the best in New Rochelle, fully equipped and doing large, profitable business. O'Connor, 249 Huguenot St. Tel 594 New Rochelle.

PHONOGRAPH SHOP—Unusual opportunity to purchase established phonograph shop in busy section of Harlem; act quick; no brokers. A 1095 Times Harlem.

LACKING capital, will sacrifice my patent rights for $1,500 to mechanically inclined party organizing corporation. E 1264 Times Bronx.

FOR SALE—Cloak and suit store in the busiest section of Troy, N. Y. Inquire M. Weisberg, 53 Congress St.

FOR Sale—Retail ladies' furnishings store, busiest shopping district city; rent $4,000; owner must sell; lease 3 years. S 17 Times.

EXCELLENT moving picture theatre location in Philadelphia; long lease. A 485 Times.

COMMERCIAL SCHOOL, old established, large income; sacrifice $5,000 account death owner. Crowe, Times Building.

RESTAURANT - DELICATESSEN, upper Broadway; weekly receipts $2,000. Namos, 1,416 Broadway. Bryant 5306.

ESTABLISHED businessman will consider partner with $10,000 and services; welcome investigation. J 659 Times Downtown.

ASBURY PARK hotel, 70 rooms; furnished; ocean front, corner; $45,000, part cash; estate. L 804 Times Downtown.

MACHINE SHOP, fully equipped, is in a position to handle additional work; estimate furnished. E 1262 Times Bronx.

ESTABLISHED jobbing house, handling kimonos and shirt waists; must sell; going California. A 116 Times.

FOR SALE—Tea room, equipped, doing good business; near Lord & Taylor. L 126 Times.

FACTORY with machinery of ten cent articles; established trade; can be bought for little money. A 112 Times.

GARAGES in the 100s, on Broadway, capacity 175, filled; disagreement of partners; will sacrifice; no brokers. M. N., 17 Times.

TEN-YEAR lease, new motion picture theatre, Jersey, draws to 12,000; very reasonable; good proposition. H 155 Times.

750,000,000 FEET of Oregon yellow fir and spruce, $1.35 per M for quick sale. Write Box 142, Hood River, Ore.; no better timber.

TWO connecting houses, West 70s; 26 rooms, 9 baths, electricity, 4 years straight lease; $7,000 required. Cusack, 176 W. 72d.

JEWELRY STORE, specializing in buying pawn tickets and diamonds; long lease; reasonable to quick buyer. S 120 Times.

ESTABLISHED LAUNDRY IN GOOD SUBURB; UP-TO-DATE EQUIPMENT; WILL SELL CHEAP. B 160 TIMES.

GARAGE for sale; filled with cars; west side location; long lease; $5,000 cash required; principal only. Write Box A. H., 110 Times.

MULTIGRAPH—Old-established business for sale; large number active accounts; sell reasonable; good terms. T. R., 311 Times.

DOUGHNUT SHOP, lively business, will sell immediately. Garden Shoppe, 586 4th Av.

WONDERFUL GARAGE OPPORTUNITIES. Will deal with principals only. Plaza 0274.

FOR SALE.

ESTABLISHED garage in the 60's; 15,000 square feet; has 95 cars; 9 year lease; gross rental $15,000; $10,000 cash required; profits $1,200 to $1,400 monthly; unusual opportunity.

Established garage for sale in the 70's; 55,000 square feet; filled; cars average $45; 14 year lease; rental about 40 cents square foot; $45,000 cash necessary; great bargain.

New garage for lease; 100x100; 2 stories; in the 50's, near 1st Av.; rental $16,000 gross; 1 year security; will be ready March 1.

Principals only. Interboro Realty, 1,457 Broadway (42d).

MONEY making department store, doing one price cash business, almost $300,000 annually, only 7 departments, sales show substantial increase annually and in every month of 1920; could be greatly increased account large territory served; leading store thriving Wisconsin city, 10,000; will lease or sell building; owner manager entering different field. Reply, giving references, Z 2298 Times Annex.

FOR SALE—A manufacturing business, combination rolling shutter and awning, are made of wood and metal, used in Summer as an awning and in Winter as a storm-proof shutter; rolling doors; are fully covered with patent rights, including a first-class rolling fly screen; this business and patents can be had at a bargain. Apply to Conrad Bauer, 315 Hays Av., Mt. Oliver, Pa.

HIGHLY profitable import business for sale, owing to illness of partner and other business interests which prevent our paying proper attention; we have a large stock of finest European novelties, art goods and fancy goods which have recently arrived and which are in great demand; strictest investigation invited; capital required $10,000; will also turn over profitable foreign agencies to buyer. A 94 Times.

FLOUR ON CREDIT.
We are prepared to offer flour F. A. S. or C. I. F. European ports for direct shipment from mill on credit terms of three and six months on approved security; sales made in names of selling mills.
EASTERN SELLING ASSOCIATES, INC.,
2-4 Stone Street.

$10,000 BUYS 10,000 Tip Top milk bottle covers and 200,000 handles included; a big market waiting in every hardware store, department store, specialty store and retail milk place in the country; patent runs 12 years; stock ready to be taken over; quick action necessary; no agents. Address Zimmerman, 5 Columbus Circle, New York.

LADIES GOWN SHOP, ESTABLISHED FOR YEARS, A1 BROADWAY CORNER; WILL SELL LEASE AND FIXTURES; BEAUTIFULLY FITTED UP; READY FOR SPRING BUSINESS; PRESENT OWNER DOING $85,000 ANNUALLY; AT A SACRIFICE; PRICE $5,000; ACT QUICKLY. M 94 TIMES.

TIRE FACTORY, equipped to produce 150 tires daily; boiler and heater presses sufficient to cure 500; three acres ground, six buildings, partly connected; located on Boston & Albany Railroad, Massachusetts; Connecticut River electric power; low price, easy terms; your big opportunity; act quickly. L 839 Times Downtown.

FOR SALE OR EXCHANGE—Well located Summer hotel; gateway to the Adirondacks; near Saratoga Springs; good condition; beautiful location. H. L. Reed, Hotel Empire, New York City.

MOTION picture theatre up-State city, population 300,000, formerly running dramatic stock; great bargain at $8,500 cash; very reasonable rental; capacity 1,500 seats; newly redecorated and equipped with new machines. Phone Columbus 6595, or write M 72 Times.

MAGNIFICENT THEATRE BUILDING located in fine city in Central New York; theatre capacity over 3,000 people; stores and offices; original cost over three hundred thousand dollars; could not be replaced for double that amount; you can buy it right just now. G. B., 137 Times.

GARAGES
FOR SALE AND LEASE,
MANHATTAN, BRONX, BROOKLYN.
LARGE AND SMALL PROPOSITIONS.
BIG SELECTION, INVESTIGATION INVITED.
S. STEINGUT & SON,
1,393 BROADWAY (Entrance 38th).

SUMMER HOTEL FOR SALE.
Lake Hopatcong, N. J. Finest location on lake; 60 rooms, excellently furnished and equipped throughout; good money maker. Price, 602 West 184th. Telephone Wadsworth 4353.

FOR SALE—Old established molding and planing mill, facing on two streets, fully equipped, now running, located in growing section of Hudson County; 20 minutes by truck from New York City; bargain for quick buyer; reasonable terms. Room 1,415, 141 Broadway, New York.

DRESS plant for sale; 20 machines, cutting table, cutting machine, fixtures, partitions; reasonable. Duchess Dress & Costume Co., 41 West 25th.

BUILDERS—Owners of nearby New Jersey suburban development offer to builders opportunity to obtain lots on easy terms where small suburban houses are in great demand. Address B. X., Box 836 Times Downtown.

GARAGE, MANHATTAN.
Old established; 300 cars now; 21 years' lease; fireproof; large income; $20,000 cash; exceptional opportunity; others, 25 to 300 car capacity, $2,000 upward. Crowe, Times Building.

DRUG STORE—Good location, prominent avenue, near Grand Central Terminal; moneymaker for seventy years; cash requirement $12,000. If genuinely interested in good store and have the cash, address G 354 Times.

FOR SALE—Good family shoe store, corner, including up-to-date fixtures, stock, $12,000; best location, main street, town of 75,000 population, Jersey State; long lease; no auctioneers. Z 2234 Times Annex.

HOTEL, 75th, 90 rooms, beautifully furnished; profits over $40,000 yearly; $50,000 required, including property; retiring; others, 60, 80, 125 rooms, $15,000 upward required. Crowe, Times Building.

RESTAURANT AND HOTEL, on boardwalk, at Long Beach; entire property, including $40,000 worth of equipment, $125,000; cash, $25,000. J. Clarence Davies, 32 Nassau St. John 1171.

$10,000 BUYS entire ownership manufacturing corporation, commercial production, excellent prospects; must sell on account of other interests; only principals apply. Room 311, 1,161 Broadway, N. Y. City.

CIGAR STAND IN LARGEST BILLIARD AND RESTAURANT ON BROADWAY; ALSO CANDY PRIVILEGES; EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY; PRICE $3,000. ROOM 1808, 220 WEST 42D.

RIALTO BUSINESS EXCHANGE, INC.,
220 WEST 42D, ROOM 1,807.
Theatres, garages, billiard parlors, dance halls, restaurants, cigar stands; partners secured for all kinds of business.

DENTAL OFFICE, modern building, Times Square; perfect light; 2 operating rooms, laboratory, waiting room; modern equipment; $5,000; wonderful opportunity. Dentist, A 568 Times.

$7,000 buys established paint and cement specialty manufacturing business, unlimited; complete running factory; easily learned; large, immediate profits. H 151 Times.

MISCELLANEOUS.

GREAT FUTURE FOR BUSINESSMEN.

CAPITAL WANTED OR CONNECTIONS WITH WHOLESALE DEALERS TO DEPARTMENT STORES; I AM HERE IN RELATION TO ENLARGING DEPARTMENT STORE IN AMSTERDAM, HOLLAND.
Z 2342 TIMES ANNEX.

WANTED—One Singer buttonhole machine. Write full particulars as to condition, age and price. K. C., 317 Times.

ROOSEVELT FILMS.
Buying all kinds of Roosevelt motion pictures, large or small, American or European. Particulars, &c., to Box 1, Station J, New York.

PARLOR floor and store if preferred; reasonable rent. Mme. Therese, 74 West 47th St. Phone 5904 Bryant.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HOTEL—Would like to lease a better class Summer hotel at Atlantic City; about 50 rooms; long season. O. E. S., General Delivery, New Haven, Conn.

WANTED to purchase or lease a small manufacturing plant in the metal working line in some small town within fifty miles of this city; the site must have plenty of room for expansion of buildings. Z 2310 Times Annex.

PART STORE to let, around 72d Street and Broadway; suitable for gowns, millinery, corsetier, art embroidery or cleaners. Z 2293 Times Annex.

MOTION PICTURE THEATRE.
nearby Jersey, 850 seats, 1,400 airdome; moneymaker; will sacrifice amount retail stores; price $20,000. E F 126 Times.

WILL buy small established printing business, preferably in lower Manhattan. A 527 Times.

SPACE to rent in ladies' specialty shop, B'way and 145th St. section, for silks, trimmings or infants' wear. 3,525 B'way.

BUSINESS LOANS.

FACTORY with facilities for efficient production to manufacture yearly output of several hundred printing presses; press sells for around $3,000; must secure contract with plant having inclination and ability to give quantity production; write fully. Z 2284 Times Annex.

If you have the ability to increase your sales,
but have not the capital,
WE CAN FURNISH FUNDS
to assist you.
W 138 Times.

MANUFACTURERS AND MERCHANTS FINANCED BY CASH ADVANCES ON OUTSTANDING ACCOUNTS AND TRADE ACCEPTANCES AT LOWEST RATES. CAPITAL, 317 TIMES.

DISCOUNTS, loans on machinery, merchandise, rents, shipments, accounts, marketable collateral acceptances, notes bought. Koehler, 45 West 34th, Suite 1200. Call 12 to 2.

LOANS on machinery, autos, trucks, printing plants, laundries, goods in warehouse, confidential, quick action; any amount. L 153 Times.

MONEY to loan on merchandise and collateral securities, from $1,000 and up. D. J. Faour & Bros, bankers, 85 Washington St., N. Y. C. Phone Bowling Green 9374.

MONEY ADVANCED, in large or small amounts, on accounts receivable, trade acceptances, other good security. B 38 Times.

CASH quickly on notes, open accounts, machinery; confidence. L 104 Times.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

GO AFTER OUT-OF-TOWN BUSINESS.
$12.00 Places Your Ad Before
7,500,000 Readers.
Your 24-word Agents, Salesmen or Help Wanted ad. inserted one time in entire list, $12; each additional six words, $3.
Your 24-word Financial, Business Opportunity, Real Estate or For Sale ad. inserted one time in entire list, $14.40, each additional six words, $3.60.
Chicago Tribune (or New York Times)
Buffalo Courier — Philadelphia Inquirer
Pittsburgh Dispatch — St. Louis Post-Dispatch
Indianapolis Star — Cincinnati Enquirer
Denver News — Kansas City Journal
San Francisco Chronicle
ARKENBERG SPECIAL AGENCY,
703 World Building. Phone 2252 Beekman.
Chicago Office, 1,124 Lytton Building.
Bulletin Listing 605 Newspapers, also Special Financial List, MAILED FREE.

PATENTS—Over 75 years' practice; all communications strictly confidential; handbook on patents free on request; special facilities for office consultations. Munn & Co., patent attorneys, 615 Woolworth Building, New York.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

FASTEST PRINTERS ON EARTH
EQUIPPED WITH AUTOMATIC PRESSES
OUR SPECIAL,
500 Cards,
500 Billheads, — All for
500 20 lb. Bond Letterheads. — $9.75.
500 Envelopes.
Delivered to all parts of the U. S. Large runs solicited.
SUBURBAN PRINTERY, 1,835 Park Av., Harlem 8877. New York City.

PATENTS—Write for our illustrated Guide Book and EVIDENCE OF CONCEPTION BLANK. Send model of sketch and description for our free opinion of its patentable nature; HIGHEST REFERENCES; PROMPT SERVICE; REASONABLE TERMS. VICTOR J. EVANS & CO., 1,007 Woolworth Building, New York City. Phone Barclay 6171. Main Office, 857 9th, Washington, D. C.

HOW TO SELL YOUR STOCK
QUICKLY AT LITTLE EXPENSE.
Numerous clients have raised thousands of dollars in a single week through my "Directway" Stock Selling Campaigns. I'll write your stock prospectus, follow-up investment letters, furnish names of investors and plan whole or part of your campaign; established reputation; 25th year. Rosenblum, Advertising Expert, 1,482 Broadway (42d). Bryant 2653.

PATENTS PROCURED — TRADE MARKS registered—A comprehensive, experienced, prompt service for the protection and development of your idea; full information, advice and form "To Record Your Invention" free on request.
RICHARD B. OWEN,
T 2276 Woolworth Bldg. Phone Barclay 7394.

PATENTS—Write for our illustrated Guide Book and EVIDENCE of CONCEPTION BLANK. Send model of sketch and description for our free opinion of its patentable nature; HIGHEST REFERENCES; PROMPT SERVICE; REASONABLE TERMS. VICTOR J. EVANS & CO., 1007 Woolworth Building, New York City. Phone Barclay 6171. Main Office, 857 9th, Washington, D. C.

ADVERTISING construction on practical common sense; a specialist of 25 years experience will sell ideas, suggestions, essays, poems, slogans, engravings, printing, or time, by hour for consultation; anything that's fit to print; investment vs. expense. Will Ames, 130 West 24th St., New York. Telephone Chelsea 971.

PATENTS AND TRADE MARKS
FETHERSTONHAUGH & COMPANY
the old established firm, 217 Broadway, New York; also Washington and Canada
Home and foreign practice

MANUFACTURERS ENGINEERING CO., 1,133 Broadway, New York, develops inventions efficiently; patent drawings prepared, designing, experimenting, yearly contracts for plant supervising; moderate rates. Phone Chelsea 5935.

LABELS "by the mile," 25c, 1,000 up. 250 elegantly printed bond letterheads, $1.50; samples sent; circulars, folders, booklets, certificates; everything low. Call's "On Time" Printing, 390 6th Av. Gramercy 1910.

PATENTS—TRADE-MARKS
Before disclosing your invention record it as priority evidence; personal and efficient service by an Engineer and Registered Patent Lawyer. Maxwell E. Sparrow, 21 Park Row, New York.

INVENTORS — Protect yourselves, record ideas before exposing to any one, even to me or other attorneys. Paul M. Klein, Consulting Engineer, Registered Patent Attorney, 21 Park Row, New York.

DON'T go ahead with your stock selling campaign until you get my proposition which includes printing and mailing on 5% commission basis. HYDE, 311 5th Av.

ACCOUNTANT EXPERT, books audited, financial statements, tax reports. Miss Archer, 360 East 151st.

INSTRUCTION.

Other Instruction Advertisements, Section 7, Page 7.

Surveying As A Career For Your Son

Give your son an opportunity to become a professional man. Health and happiness as well as success are enjoyed by those that follow the out-of-doors career of Civil Engineering. This Society trains a man in a short time at moderate cost. No time wasted on unessentials. The System is—"Out-of-doors training for an Outdoors profession."

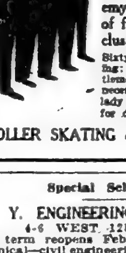
For particulars interview the Engineer-in-Charge.

Day and Evening Courses.
Offices open until 9 P. M.
CATALOGUE ON REQUEST

The PAN-AMERICAN Engineering Society
Phone Chelsea 2633 — 39 W. 17th St. New York City

THE DANCING CARNIVAL

66th STREET near BROADWAY
IN THE ST. NICHOLAS RINK



Dancing every afternoon and evening from 2:30 P. M. to 12:30

Ladies, join our afternoon parties. For health and exercise dancing is recommended by all doctors. We furnish individual instructors, both lady and gentleman.

The healthiest and best ventilated dancing academy in the United States; 75,000 square feet of floor space. The entire building devoted exclusively to dancing, billiards and roller skating.

Sixty musicians rendering continuous music. No waiting; come any time; no intermission; 200 lady and gentlemen instructors teaching all the latest steps. Not necessary to take lessons. If you know how to dance, lady floor manager will introduce you to suitable partner for dancing. CORNELIUS FELLOWES, Manager.

ROLLER SKATING on ground floor. DANCING on second floor.

Special Schools.

N. Y. ENGINEERING INSTITUTE
4-6 WEST 125TH ST.
New term reopens February second. All mechanical—civil engineering branches taught. Instruction college grade, high school education unessential, high school studies pertaining engineering are included. Special surveying, drafting, tool-designing courses.

MACHINIST'S TRADE
taught practically. Lathe, blueprints, $35; Toolmaking, $30. Registration this week. Call personally.

FREE CLASS in Public Speaking, Parliamentary Law and Memory Training, Wednesdays at 10:30 A. M., Studio 133, Carnegie Hall. Woman's Culture Club.

MACHINIST'S TRADE
taught practically.—Lathe, blueprints; $35; two payments. Call SCHOOL, 4 W. 125th.

Foreign Language Schools.

French in six months by conversational method taught by a French lady graduate best school in Paris. Write to Mademoiselle Cornevaux, 136 West 79th.

DISTINGUISHED teacher instructs English, French, Italian, German, Russian; unsurpassed method. Miss Armond, 1,037 Madison Avenue (79th). Lenox 1267.

FRENCH LESSONS—Young lady, graduate Paris University. 432 West 116th, Apartment 9.

Mlles. Blanchard—French course; highest recommendations. 54 East 59th St. Plaza 8873.

Teacher, French, wanted for French conversational lessons. M 77 Times.

Swimming.

LEARN TO SWIM, DIVE
AND SAVE LIFE.
MARY BEATON, R. L. S. S.
Exclusive Pool. Scientific System.
1 West 67th St., corner Central Park.
Tel. Columbus 4204.

AMUSEMENTS

Other Amusement Advertisements, Section 6, Pages 2, 3 and 4.

BROOKLYN.

Brooklyn Academy of Music
ONE EVENING PERFORMANCE
Sat., Feb. 5th
TONY SARG'S
Marionettes in RIP VAN WINKLE
Seats at Box Office Now or by Mail.

BROOKLYN ACADEMY OF MUSIC
THIS AFTERNOON AT 3:00.
KUBELIK
TICKETS $1.00 TO $2.50 AT BOX OFFICE

The Merchant's Point of View

THAT there has been a turn in the tide of general mercantile business is a fair inference to be drawn from the happenings of the first fortnight of the year. Sales both at wholesale and retail are making more of a showing, and these are most pronounced where price reductions are most striking. Plenty of buyers from out of town have been in the city during the week just past, and they have been here to get goods. More of them, and especially of the jobbers, will be here this week. Spring buying has been long delayed, shelves need replenishing, and broken lots need filling up in stores all over the country. There is the urge to buy for immediate needs for both men's and women's wear, although the last named branch commands most attention. Clearance sales in all the large business centres are in progress to prepare the way for new offerings, and the aim apparently is that the price for the latter shall be low enough to stimulate trade to a brisker movement than has been the case. This is causing some shopping around here on the part of buyers, who have found a disposition by some sellers to raise prices at the first sign of an increased demand for any particular article. Action of this kind on the part of these sellers is not calculated to help business. After a continued demand on any broad scale, an increase in price would be quite natural. But attempts to force things at the outset are likely to cause buyers to continue on the hand-to-mouth basis, which has been so much the custom of late to the detriment of all concerned.

Attitude of the Buyers.

A notable sign of the revival of demand is furnished in the distinctive advertising which THE TIMES prints from day to day in its business pages. These columns of classified announcements afford a very good guide to market conditions. The distinctive feature recently has been in the great preponderance of goods wanted as against those offered for sale. In this respect it is in marked contrast with the conditions prevailing only a month or two ago, when a constantly declining market forced many holders of merchandise to part with them on the best terms they could get. Judging from the indications appearing at present, it would seem as though there were a real scarcity of certain fabrics, or else a fancied one, existing in first hands, and that buyers were hoping to secure the same from second hands or intermediates. That was the course customary in the recent past, and it then resulted in buyers obtaining goods at concessions from what producers were asking. It applied for a time not only to [illegible] but also to finished garments [illegible], and now, however, the garment manufacturers have made it a point to restrict their output to the quantity they have orders for or are reasonably sure of selling, and no great surplus, if any, of such articles are likely. This may account for a certain eagerness shown to secure them. But that the usual store goods are less plentiful or are held more strongly has been made apparent, especially in the cases where the big stores have announced themselves ready to take for cash large and varied stocks. The responses to such appeals have been rather disappointing, due possibly to the fact that the goods were wanted "at a price."

Don't Want to Stand Losses.

A familiar atmosphere is that surrounding the Ways and Means Committee at Washington, where what are politely called hearings are being had on the tariff. It is also somewhat musty, having done service in the days of Payne and Aldrich, Dingley and McKinley, to go back no further. Seriatim, as their respective industries are called, appear the horde of mendicants asking for a raiment of increased duties to protect them from the chill blast of competition from without. The beneficiaries wish to write the tariff schedules as they were in the habit of doing until 1913. No one appears, or is asked to appear, to represent the interests of the general public, a body which is supposed to exist merely for the exploitation of certain privileged producers. In the statements made in behalf of the Emergency Tariff bill, it is frankly confessed that certain farming interests are in danger of meeting with losses because of the deflation of prices unless the latter can in some way be upheld by Congressional action. Such action would result, if anything at all did result, in making the people of the country pay more for their food and clothing. But if the farming contingent is to be saved from loss caused by the lowering of prices, why should not business men in general also be thus benefited, or be at least repaid for the losses they have been obliged to take? It is a poor rule that only works one way.

A Bunch of Tariff Suggestions.

When it comes to the suggestions advanced for the complete tariff revision, there is shown the usual jumble of having duties so arranged as to be prohibitive of imports and at the same time to provide revenue from goods not allowed to come into this country. There seems to have developed, also, a series of opposing views among the high tariff advocates on the question of what should be the basis of value for computing duties. One proposition gravely submitted to the committee was that foreign values of goods should be ignored entirely and that "domestic value be taken as the basis for calculating ad valorem rates or for any rates that are in any way regulated by the value of the imported article." The reason given for this was because the depreciation of various foreign currencies made quotations in them worthless. As against this, however, it was argued that domestic prices varied very materially in different parts of this country, making it impossible to use them as a standard, and also that a number of the imports had no counterparts which were produced here. Considerable support was shown in favor of a proposition to have duties vary according to the rate of exchange from day to day, the percentage of depreciation from normal being added to the amount of customs tax. This would make a fine muddle. It would have no relevancy to the difference in the labor cost between this and other countries and would, in many instances, enable the domestic manufacturers to fix prices here to suit themselves. But, as this is the theory on which the tariff framers are going, it may for that reason commend itself.

Here Is Where Labor Comes In.

In the resort to the old bag of tricks, one that is being gravely brought out again is the difference in wages paid in this country and others. Although the fallacy of using this as an argument has been repeatedly demonstrated, it is expected to serve the purpose once more. It is assumed that the productiveness of workers is the same in every country, which is, of course, untrue. The only rule which squares with the truth is that the true labor cost is the cost per unit of production, be it a yard, a pound or a ton. In this country the mass production of standardized products and the greater use of automatic machinery have brought down this labor cost below that which prevails in many countries where the actual daily or weekly wage is much less. This may be demonstrated before the Committee on Ways and Means in the matter of the production of woolens, should the Textile Workers' Union succeed in having the inquiry they are seeking. The makers of woolens do not show up in a good light as seekers for tariff bounties. While the war was on, and they had a monopoly of the domestic market, they squeezed every dollar of profit possible out of the public. Their earnings were large enough to enable them, in most instances, to repay every dollar of capital put into their plants on an honest valuation. If they are enabled to get a high enough tariff to shut out foreign imports effectively, they will duplicate what they did. Their attitude toward their workers is shown by two characteristic announcements made at the same time. The first was that the principal factor in the industry had made a net profit of $6,000,000 in the first ten months of the present year, despite cancellations and poor business. The other was that of a reduction in wages of 22½ per cent. to the employes from now on. Such tender solicitude for the workers is really touching—or is it a "touch?"

Factors in Cotton and Cotton Goods.

Various reasons have been given for the hardening of cotton prices in the last fortnight. One of them is the greater domestic demand caused by the renewed operation of the mills and the certainty that such demand must continue. Another is the belief that, somehow or another, foreign countries needing cotton will find a way of getting it. That the low record figure for the year has been reached is the general belief, as is also the probability that advances will be the rule henceforth. This is helped by the fact that holders in the growing districts seem to be able to avoid sacrificing what they have. Before long planters will have to determine what course to pursue for next season, and it by no means follows that the plan to restrict the acreage by one-half will materialize. Curious calculations continue to be put out showing how hard is the lot of the cotton planter. In one of these published during the week it was figured that a crop of 36 bales grown on 200 acres cost to produce at the rate of 32 2-3 cents per pound. This was by a tenant farmer. Manifestly, it would not pay under any circumstances to grow only 90 pounds of cotton to the acre, and the farmer's duty should be to grow something else. The Department of Agriculture has recently shown that much money is lost by using seed which will not germinate, and it has been proved, time and again, that there is usually no selection of seed so as to produce the better grades of cotton.

In the goods market the last week has exhibited considerable activity. Advantage has been taken of the drastic cuts in the prices of colored and finished fabrics to such an extent that, where advances have not resulted, there have been withdrawals of lines from sale. Gray goods have responded to the advances so made, and the sales of them at advancing levels have been a marked feature. Declines in knit goods and hosiery to make them more attractive to buyers have occurred. The present week and next will show what effect these will have.

Wool, Woolens and Clothing.

Not much relief in the wool situation is apparent from the results of the auction sales held in London and in Australia during the last week. Where an upset price was fixed the bidding languished except for special qualities and, consequently, the percentage of withdrawals was large. This amounted, at times, to 80 per cent. of the offerings. Americans bid for choice crossbreds in Australia. In free offerings in London the prices for merinos were from 15 to 20 per cent. below recent levels. The British Government is anxious to get rid of its vast holdings, and, it was announced yesterday, had decided to accept the proposition to turn them over to a company representing the Australian growers. The wool will be sold as promptly as market conditions permit. It will be interesting to watch how this scheme works out. The odds are against its success. There is so much wool available that it will take years to dispose of it. Meanwhile the expense of carrying the stocks will add to their cost. But, temporarily, the plan may have the effect of raising the price of wool. The woolen mills in this country are gradually getting to work again, although the demand for Spring fabrics is quite light. The market continues to await with patience the announcements for next Fall's goods. The only certainty about these is that the prices will show a marked reduction from last season. The manufacturing clothiers do not seem to be worried much over their labor troubles. One reason for this is that they will have little difficulty in filling their Spring orders because of the light demand. Somewhat of a drive seems apparent in certain lines of dress goods like tricotines, which is providing work for the mills producing such fabrics.

THE WEEK'S FUR AUCTION.

Pelts Valued at About $3,000,000 Will Be Put Up for Sale.

After an interval of nine months, during which the fur markets of the world underwent a pronounced readjustment, the holding of important sales of raw pelts will be resumed here tomorrow in the Masonic Hall, Sixth Avenue and Twenty-third Street. The occasion will be the sixth annual Winter auction of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, which will begin at 9:30 A. M. and continue throughout the week.

Because of the unsettled condition of the trade during the past several months the prices obtained for the furs put under the hammer will be followed with more than the usual interest, for they will represent the first definite market bases on which the trade has had to work for a long time. Compared with those paid by buyers at the Winter auction of 1920, the prices of the coming week are expected to show marked recessions, as at that sale the peak of the boom was reached.

The skins to be offered at the sale, which are valued at about $3,000,000, are said by experienced fur men to make up one of the best-balanced collections ever put on the auctioneer's block here. The offerings of fancy furs are particularly well regarded by the prospective buyers who have examined them at the warehouse of the corporation. The blue foxes and the Persian lambs are among the "bright spots" of the entire collection.

A new departure at this auction will be the selling for the first time of skins in other than the raw state. This offering consists of 330 dressed and dyed Alaska seals, which will be sold tomorrow. Other furs to come under the hammer of Auctioneer J. Gordon Noakes on the opening day will be wolverine, fisher, Russian sable, beaver, lynx, wildcat, otter, marten and muskrat. The collection of the last named includes about 250,000 browns, about 41,000 Southern skins and 5,613 blacks.

Tuesday will be fox day at the sale, and, except for kolinsky and civet cat, the entire day will be given over to them. Among the fox offerings will be 424 "crosses" and 142 "silvers." Wednesday's selling will be done on badger, red fox, Persian lamb, chinchilla, leopard and skunk. Stone and baum marten, mink and marmot will be the outstanding skins for sale on Thursday.

Among other things, there will be sold on Friday about forty-two tons of Australian and New Zealand rabbit skins. Additional furs from the antipodes will also be put up on that day, as will several varieties of Chinese skins. Wolf and opossum will be the last articles to come under the hammer on Friday. Bear, fitch, mole, nutria, ermine, raccoon and squirrel will be the offerings on the last day of the sale. The collection of mole, which numerically is the largest in the entire sale, totals 473,809.

RAW SILK MARKETS.

More Activity Noted, With Prices Either Firm or Advancing.

The Japanese raw silk market has been more active during the last week, with prices unchanged on the basis of 1,500 yen for Sinshiu No. 1. The Silk Syndicate, according to cables received in this city by A. P. Villa & Bros., Inc., has purchased an additional 4,000 bales, bringing its holdings to date up to 15,000. Another purchase is contemplated this month. The visible stock at Yokohama is estimated at about 55,000 bales.

The Canton market continues active, and prices have again advanced, owing to the large demand there for all kinds of silks. Shanghai is also advancing in sympathy with the other markets, and a large business in China steam filatures has been transacted, both in high and medium grades. The better grades are getting quite scarce there, and reelers are advancing their prices almost daily.

The Italian market is very firm at the last prices quoted. Both American and European buyers are active there, and the reelers are well engaged for February and March. In the local market business continues to broaden, and more mills are starting up. Manufacturers report buyers more numerous, and also that they are placing orders for forward deliveries. As stocks of raw silks are very low in this market, it is expected that during next month there will be quite a scarcity if present conditions continue.

GIVING CREDIT STANDING.

Exchange of Information for Waist and Dress Industries.

Plans which will give members of the Associated Dress Industries of America and of the United Waist League of America access to the credit standings of 30,000 retailers of those garments from coast to coast have been completed by an interchange agreement which has just been entered into by the credit checking bureaus of the two organizations. In connection with the compilation of the necessary records the assistance of thousands of banks has been obtained. Because of this not only is the experience of manufacturers located in distant parts of the country available to local members, and vice versa, but also the information on which the merchants' home town banks extend accommodations.

"Through this comprehensive checking data," David N. Mosessohn, executive secretary of the Associated Dress Industries of America, said yesterday, "the risk attendant upon granting credits is materially reduced. This naturally is reflected in lower wholesale prices to the retailers, as well as in lower selling prices to consumers."

Large Sale of Surplus Goods.

The surplus goods to be sold through the Merchandise Clearing Division, according to a statement from the Bush Terminal Sales Building, will amount to several millions of dollars at prices ranging from 40 to 60 per cent. below quotations before readjustment. The sale opens on Feb 1, on the tenth floor of the building. Included in the offerings will be women's ready-to-wear, men's furnishings, knit goods, toilet articles, perfumes, jewelry and silverware, and other merchandise suitable for department and specialty stores.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The McKittrick-Huron Company, Inc., 104 to 112 East Twenty-fifth Street, importers and converters of English, French and Swiss wash fabrics and dress goods, have engaged I. G. Prince to cover the cutting-up trades.

The New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation will shortly be situated in new quarters in the building at 550-552 West Thirty-sixth Street, between Tenth and Eleventh Avenues. For the past five years the corporation has been located at 48 to 52 Great Jones Street.

ATTEMPTS TO MAKE A CONTRACT STICK

Doubt That the Time Has Come to Make Forms That Will Satisfy Both Sides.

The present is no time for either sellers or buyers to get together by themselves for the drawing up of new contract forms, according to Lew Hahn, managing director of the National Retail Dry Goods Association. Too much ill-feeling has been created on both sides, he believes, to make possible full justice or equity. He explained that a workable contract will result only from the co-operative consideration of both parties, with such compromises as will produce an instrument calculated to safeguard the interests of all concerned. Such co-operation will be proposed at the coming convention of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, and he said the matter would also come before the National Council of Retail Associations in the near future.

"The present feeling on contracts," said Mr. Hahn, "is very intense and, though some ill-advised action is being taken in many quarters, there seems to be at least one good idea behind all the agitation. It is that the time has come to do something about making a contract binding. At present it seems to be a case of making the contract binding on the customer without recognizing so much his equal right to demand that the contract be binding also on the seller. I naturally look for the time when both the rights of the customer as well as those of the seller will be safeguarded by the contract and when the conditions imposed will fall equally on the shoulders of both parties to a transaction. Such a result, however, will not come from the present manner of meeting the problem.

"As I said, there is one good thing about the present contract agitation and the criticism leveled at cancellations. It has focused attention on the extent of contract violation and ought to lead to a general house cleaning. Merchants and wholesalers will agree, I am sure, that no one has been the gainer by these practices. One season it is the buyer who has the upper hand and disregards his orders, causing loss to the wholesaler or manufacturer. The next season it is the seller's turn, and there is just as much contract violation. In this see-saw there is no positive profit to either party, because an advantage one year or month is wiped out by a reversal of conditions the next season. When the peak of such practice was reached last year, both buyer and seller came to realize, I think, how profitless the whole arrangement was, and both are now determined to effect a change.

"It is scarcely necessary to repeat the case for the retailer who is accused of unjustified cancellation. The retailer simply answers such a charge by stating he was compelled to order goods far in excess of his requirements through the false representations of salesmen and others in more responsible positions. A salesman would advise placing an order for double the usual amount so as to make sure of delivery of the half which was needed. Another salesman would come along with the information that the competing house was not able to ship goods, and an order therefore ought to be placed with him. Then, with a rush, all these goods were delivered, and order books were searched to reveal back orders that could also be filled. This misrepresentation is what the retailer cites as his excuse for cancellation, and he also describes the loose way contracts were considered when the market belonged to the seller. He charges that goods were shipped to spot buyers, willing to pay more for them than the concern to which they rightfully belonged.

"This is merely a summary of the case of the retailer, but it indicates there is something to be said on both sides. It also shows that, whenever the market has gone one way or the other in the past, either buyer or seller has taken advantage of the situation. The chief cause lies in the manner in which contracts have been formulated. Recently I was present at the meeting of a manufacturers' association devoted to drawing up a plan to prevent cancellations. Several measures were proposed which would have immediately drawn the disapproval of the stores. I explained the feeling which would be aroused and succeeded in getting the manufacturers to reconsider their action. The fact is that no group of manufacturers or wholesalers can sit down together at the present time and draw up contract regulations in an unprejudiced manner. Their grievances are too fresh in their minds to allow them to suggest equitable arrangements. Past contracts have been studied for weaknesses and, without consulting the interests of customers, new clauses substituted or inserted in order to provide an ironclad agreement all in favor of the seller.

"This desire to impose more difficult terms on the buyer is quite general at the present time. The following contract will serve as a good example. Even a quick glance at the provisions will show how much it lets the buyer in for and how few are the rights it concedes the customers. The terms set down are as follows:

"We accept your order of ...... for goods to be manufactured for you and to be delivered to you through us, as agents for the manufacturers.

"This order is accepted subject to any and all accidents or delays occurring in the manufacture or transportation of the goods covered by this order or any part thereof, particularly, but not limited to any delays arising because of damage to mill, machinery or stock, shortage of raw material, lack of power, or sufficient labor at fair or commercial rates, or any circumstances beyond the reasonable control of the manufacturers or their agents.

"The prices are understood to be payable in gold or its equivalent.

"You shall examine the goods immediately upon their arrival, and shall notify us of any errors or defects. We shall have the right to replace within a reasonable time any goods that are defective. Any claim for shortage, damage, defects or claims of any kind shall not be considered or allowed after the goods are cut, or if they are not in the condition in which they were shipped, nor after the date of the delivery of the goods. Allowance will not be made for normal manufacturing defects.

"Delay in the delivery of any instalment shall not relieve you from the balance of the contract, and you must, at our option, accept and pay for late or partial deliveries.

"This order is subject to the approval of our credit department at the time of delivery, and we reserve the right at all times to fix the limit of your credit, and may at any time, upon mailing to you a notice to that effect, decline to make any deliveries except for cash.

"The delivery to a railroad or other carrier shall constitute delivery.

"We are forwarding to you an original and copy of this order. Please sign and return the original to us and keep the duplicate for your records. We cannot consider the order until we receive from you a signed acceptance!

"There is scarcely a clause in that contract to which a merchant could not offer a perfectly sound objection, ranging from the first which describes the seller's position as merely that of an agent to the last demand for a signed contract for the impossible terms enumerated. The only suggestion I have to make to a member who receives such a contract is simply to tear it up and send in his order on his own blank. The merchant's order form may prove just as unacceptable but, at least between the two forms, some compromise may be effected which will cover the rights of both parties. Such compromises are the only means at present toward reaching an equitable arrangement in cases of the sort. It will not do for both parties to take action separately. They must confer on a suitable contract form. The hope of saving future losses through contract violation rests on mutual action. The merchant who is trying to do the right thing would be more than satisfied to reach some new and more satisfactory way of doing business, because he realizes that conditions in the past have placed him at a disadvantage with the unscrupulous retailer who did not abide by his contracts. In the same way, the responsible manufacturer ought to realize that the operations of a dishonest competitor hurt him."

Odds and Ends of Foreign Trade

Chile's Paper Money.

A cablegram received from Ambassador Shea at Santiago, Chile, states that the Chilean Congress passed a law postponing the conversion of paper money until Dec. 31, 1921.

Japanese Piece Goods Exports.

An increase is noted in the export of Japanese piece goods, particularly in the case of gray shirtings and white cotton cloth. The output in September, 1920, of piece goods amounted to 62,662,000 yards, of which 61,794,000 yards were exported.

Legalizing Bulgarian Invoices.

The Bulgarian Legation at Washington announces that the Bulgarian Government in its desire to facilitate commercial relations between Bulgaria and the United States has decided to recognize invoices legalized by an American Chamber of Commerce, or by the municipal government of the locality from which the goods are shipped.

Rumanians Buying Clothing.

Consul Charles E. Allen, in a recent communication from Constantinople, notes that Rumanian buyers have made considerable purchases of clothing, reported to be intended for Bessarabia, Bukovina, Dobrudja and Transylvania. This relieved the market somewhat, but there is a large quantity of clothing and dry goods in stock, which has a tendency to decrease in price.

New Break-of-Gauge Device.

The Australian Feneral Government's experts have advised the early trial of a newly invented break-of-gauge device to demonstrate its practicability. The essential feature of the invention is that wheels, which slide on the axles, operate automatically so that they can adapt themselves to a change of gauge. The device can be applied to existing rolling stock at an expense estimated to be 25 per cent. above that of the ordinary undercarriage.

Chance for Shoes in India.

According to Consul Dawson, boots and shoes are imported into the Madras Presidency to the number of about 15,000 pairs annually. These are purchased chiefly by the European residents, though the natives, with recent increased prosperity, are wearing shoes to a much greater extent. Consul Dawson believes this trade is capable of considerable expansion through the efforts of a representative in the field to introduce the goods and arrange for shipments.

Trade Conditions in Burma.

Trade Commissioner Batchelder writes encouragingly regarding trade prospects in Burma, stating that the business men, bankers and Government authorities, realizing the general business depression, are endeavoring to take intelligent measures to ameliorate conditions by restricting credits and production, extending aid when desirable and not dumping large stocks on the market. As a result it now appears that existing stocks will be absorbed in time by the normal demand and that business will start up on a former footing, free from war inflation.

India's Marks Act.

In spite of repeated warnings some American exporters to British India still seem to ignore the provisions for marking country of origin as prescribed by the Merchandise Marks act of British India. In connection with a recent shipment of dry goods by an American firm, the Collector of Customs found fourteen items that were not marked according to law and imposed a total fine of 540 rupees. Most of the items bore descriptions in the English language which were not accompanied by the name of the country of origin. In several cases involving fabrics, the fine was imposed for failure to stamp the yardage. In the case of hosiery, it was ruled by the customs authority that the country of origin must be stated, not only on the box label but also on the bands.

British Dyes Act in Effect.

The British Dyestuffs act, prohibiting the imports of dyestuffs, went into operation yesterday. Henceforth all such importations and those of certain intermediates will be subject to license, with a preference to colonial products.

Moratorium in Paraguay.

According to a dispatch transmitted by the American Vice Consul at Asuncion, Paraguay, the Government of Paraguay has extended the general moratorium to April 11, 1921. The moratorium for the Banco Mercantil, has been extended to May 16, 1921.

Hindus Buying American Goods.

Although the drop in silver makes it necessary to pay more rupees for American goods at dollar prices than formerly, and the low British pound operates as a protective tariff against American goods, they are popular in India and Burma, some Hindus paying higher prices for American goods than for British. There are said to be more Hindus in Rangoon than Burmese, and most of the merchants are Hindus.

Shrinkage in Rubber Hose.

Vice Consul Moomaw reports: "It has been stated that rubber hose shrinks in the long journey from the United States to India on account of being coiled—e. g., a hose 60 feet in length will shrink about 4 feet. The local buyers will not take shrunk hose, and the market for American hose is handicapped on this account, as some American manufacturers will not make allowance for the shrinkage."

Polish Cotton Mills Working.

Information comes from Consul L. J. Keena, at Lodz, Poland, to the effect that many buyers have arrived from Galicia and are purchasing large quantities of white cotton products. The factories are running well, and some are even introducing three shifts. Also, many purchasers from Hungary have arrived and are placing large orders. It is expected that Hungary will become a steady market for Lodz textiles.

Germans Going to Japan.

German residents in Japan are reported as steadily increasing in number, now almost double that of pre-war days. Most of them are employed in firms and factories as engineers, and it is stated that nearly a hundred applications for positions in Japan have been received from German engineers and experts. The imports of toys, chemicals and dyestuffs from Germany during the first ten months of 1920 amounted to $1,000,000.

Stocks in Constantinople.

Advices from Constantinople state that a company has been organized for the purpose of disposing of the large stocks now lying at Constantinople at the best possible prices. The company is said to be organizing agencies throughout neighboring markets, which will also negotiate retail sales. Full approval has been given the company by the authorities as being the best possible means of reducing the cost of living. It is also said to have the full support of the banks as a trustworthy concern capable of handling merchandise which must be released.

Brazil's Tariff Preference.

According to a cablegram from Ambassador E. V. Morgan, Rio de Janeiro, the Brazilian Congress adjourned Dec. 31, 1920, to reassemble May 1, 1921. The President was authorized in the budget to grant the usual preferential reductions on certain American goods. The reductions provided are 30 per cent. on wheat flour and 20 per cent. on condensed milk, manufactures of rubber, paints and colors, except writing inks, refrigerators, clocks, pianos, scales, windmills, cement, corsets, dried fruit, school furniture, writing desks, typewriters and varnish.

HOSIERY PRICES CUT.

The Reduction Announced Yesterday by the Durham Mills.

Price reductions ranging from 12½ per cent. on the higher-priced lines to 22½ per cent. on the cheaper ones, compared with a list issued under date of Nov. 8, 1920, are contained in a price list sent to the jobbing trade of the country yesterday by the Durham Hosiery Mills. The figures given are those at which the goods are sold to the retail trade by the jobbers, and are subject to trade discounts to the latter. This is the list, the figures indicating the price per dozen:

TO RETAIL AT 15 CENTS A PAIR.

Amazon	$1.35
*Red Riding Hood	1.35
Tar Heel	1.35

*Children's hose. The price is based on size 7, and rises 5 cents a dozen on each larger size. On each smaller size the price drops 5 cents a dozen.

TO RETAIL AT 20 CENTS.

Shoo-Fly	$1.80
Regimental	1.85
Bo-Peep	1.80

TO RETAIL AT 25 CENTS.

Ox Hide	1.90
Bull Durham	2.10
Diplomat	2.10
Clubman	2.25
Juliana	2.10
Miss Nancy	2.15
Gloriana	2.10
*Rover Lad	2.15
*Polly Prim	2.2[illegible]

*Children's hose, based on size 7. Larger sizes are 5 cents a dozen higher; the smaller ones 5 cents a dozen less.

TO RETAIL AT 35 CENTS.

1700 GS/1	$3.00
Kitty Hawk	2.85
Queen Nan, ½ dozen boxes	2.85
Victory, Out-Size	2.75
Big Sister, Out-Size	3.00
Lady Jane, ½ dozen boxes	3.00
*Pathfinder	2.40
†Snowbird	2.75
†Alpine	2.85
†Frostana	2.85
†Arctic Maid	3.00
†Snowbound, O. S.	3.00

*Children's hose, based on size 7. The rise in this case is 7½ cents a dozen. The fall is 5 cents.

†Women's fleece-lined hose.

TO RETAIL AT 50 CENTS.

Cavalier	$3.85
Carr-Lisle	4.00
Lady Ware	4.00
Lady Durham	4.10
Miss Laura	4.25
Carrolina O. S.	4.10
*Romona	3.75
Claremont	4.10

*Children's hose, based on size 7. The rise is 10 cents a dozen; the fall 5 cents.

To retail at 65 to 75 cents a pair is offered the Rosemary brand, the jobbing price of which is $5.75 a dozen. Priced at $6.75 a dozen is the Promenade brand, for retailing at 85 cents a pair. The Phoebe brand is offered at $9 a dozen for retailing at $1 to $1.10. The highest-priced hose on the list, called Penelope, is priced at $16.50 a dozen and will retail at $2 a pair. All of the new prices become effective at once.

Commenting on the improved condition of the market yesterday, J. S. Carr, head of the Durham Hosiery Mills, said that the mills' sales for the past week had been greater than for the previous three months. He further asserted that this increase in business indicated that the turn has come in the domestic hosiery market as well as in other lines of dry goods.

DEALINGS IN GRAY GOODS.

Buying Took a Spurt Yesterday, With a Rather Wide Range.

Buying of gray goods in this market took a spurt again yesterday, with the result that the largest Saturday business in some time was put through. Most of the business done called for deliveries during this month and next, although a number of shipments will run up to April 1. In the printcloths there were large sales of 39-inch 68-72s at 9⅝ cents. Eastern 38½-inch 64-60s brought 8⅝ cents, with most sellers now asking 9 cents for them. The same thing was true of Southern goods of the same construction at 8⅝ and 8¾ cents, respectively. For 38½-inch 64-56s buyers paid 8⅝ cents, and they also took 60-48s in that width at 7½ cents.

Among the business in sheetings that was done during the day were sales of 48-square, four-yard goods at 8¼ cents. Five-yard sheetings brought 7⅝ cents, and 6⅝ cents was paid for 5.50s. Good sized trading in the clothing specialties continued, among this business being further transactions in 39-inch 64-104, 4.20-yard, sateens at 14 cents.

PRICES IN PORTUGAL.

Increases in Those of Coal, Wood and Various Foodstuffs.

The fact that Portugal must draw upon outside sources for its supply of fuel and most of the clothing and foodstuffs used by its people is believed by Vice Consul J. L. Pinkerton of Lisbon to be one of the chief reasons for the recent rapid rise in commodity prices. The decline in Portuguese exchange upon foreign centres has also contributed to the prevailing high prices, as well as labor disturbances resulting from the increase of commodity prices over wages.

Using the price in 1914 as the base 100, it is noted that the index number for October, 1920, of foodstuffs, is 866. Flour, meat, potatoes and sugar show the greatest increases in this class of commodities. Of all the various classes of commodities fuel shows the greatest increase, the index number for October being 1,805, as compared with the 100 of 1914.

Of the various items in this class coal, with an index number of 4,038, shows the greatest increase, and cordwood, having an index of 2,833, stands second. The rise in clothing is practically the same as that of foodstuffs, the index number being 848, and of the items of this class shoes show the greatest rise in price, the index figure being nearly 1,100, as compared with the 100 for 1914.

Precious Stones of Australia.

Almost every known gem is mined in Australia, reports Mr. William A. Dunlap, clerk at the American Consulate at Sydney, but New South Wales leads all other States in the variety and value of precious stones produced. The black opal is said to be Australia's most beautiful gem, and it is claimed that Lightning Ridge, New South Wales, is the only part of the world known to produce it. The black opal has increased in value 300 per cent. in the last two years, the best quality bringing from £6 to £8 a carat. The stone ranges in size from 1 to 100 carats. Other stones of commercial importance found in Australia are the pearl, sapphire, diamond, emerald, ruby, topaz and the turquoise. Of less value, but of great beauty and brilliance, are the peridot, zircon, tourmaline and the aquamarine, which are found in New South Wales.

Wholesale Only

COOKED BEEF 10c lb.

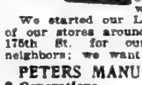
2-Lb. Tins U. S. Army Beef, 20c; Equal to 4-5 Lbs. Raw Beef. Supply Limited. Sale ends when stock is sold. No future lots.

PETERS BUILDING, Park Ave., cor. E. 175th St. (Bronx), is the New York City home of

REIGNSKIN
The Finest White Cloth in the World for Shoes

For the Florida, California, Pinehurst and Hot Springs trade these new White Brogues with Black Patent Leather Trimmings are fine, new fashions.

Ladies will find these new style White Shoes very suitable for the Country Club, Mountains and Seashore.



We hope they will look for our REIGNSKIN Trade Mark in the shoes, because our White Egyptian REIGNSKIN Shoe Cloth is one of the finest in the world.

We started our Little Food Shop in one of our stores around the corner at 403 E. 175th St. for our employees, tenants, neighbors; we want to be good neighbors.

PETERS MANUFACTURING CO.,
5 Generations. New York—Boston

HOW TO ORDER MILLINERY.

Suggestions Made to Dealers by the Jobbers' Association.

As prompter deliveries and more satisfactory selections are made possible when an order is written plainly and given correctly, a pamphlet of suggestions is being distributed by the Millinery Jobbers' Association describing the things to remember when making out an order. Many of the rules are applicable to orders for other articles than millinery, while others deal specifically with this item. The general rules are as follows:

Always date your order.

Always give shipping instructions.

Always sign your firm name, or, if incorporated, the name of the corporation. If your store is known as "The Style Shop" or "The Specialty Shop," &c., and is not incorporated under that name, avoid using it in ordering from the wholesaler.

Put only one item on a line, and give as much information as possible regarding color, quality, style and price of merchandise desired.

Do not write any message on your order. Use a separate sheet of paper if you are addressing the credit or bookkeeping department, or are asking any other information.

Be sure to enclose samples or price tickets.

In taking up orders for millinery, the following details are emphasized:

Always designate the color and, if possible, the shade desired. Of course, you must designate the color, but there are so many shades of colors, like green, brown, blue, &c., that to merely indicate the color does not give very much information. It is, therefore, necessary to designate the exact shade to be sure of being understood.

Always designate the price, or the range of prices. There is a vast range of prices in all branches of millinery. Unless you indicate in some way what price articles you want, the order filler has nothing to guide him, and may send you high-priced goods when you want low-priced ones, or vice versa.

The order suggestions then describe the care that must be taken in attaching the sample or ticket to the communication, so as to avoid loss in opening. In ordering trimmings a full description should be given and a second choice named when possible. In ordering hats, which is a general term, customers are urged to specify whether untrimmed shapes, ready-to-wear, banded or trimmed hats are wanted. Frames should not be confused with untrimmed shapes, and the frame should be designated as buckram, rice net or wire.

Import Licenses Not Needed.

Information has been received from the Italian Embassy in Washington to the effect that the Italian customs authorities have been instructed to admit portable houses and galvanized iron and steel sheets without an import license.

BUYERS' WANTS.
Fifteen cents per word each insertion.

DRESSES Wanted—Popular priced Spring models from $16.50 to $25 only. Call between 10 and 1 tomorrow, the J. L. Hudson Co., 225 5th Av.

SUITS Wanted—300 gents' suits; Spring line from manufacturer that will consign stock to us. Z 2341 Times Annex.

TAFFETAS Wanted—Navies and browns, 200 pieces; spot cash. S. Phillips & Son, 14 East 32d. Longacre 3414.

TRICOTINES Wanted—6086, 5781, 817, or similar; for cash. Jacobs & Krawitz. Chelsea 8296.

Contracts Wanted.

WANTED—Work on commission; complete plant of box-looms. Address E. T., Silk Co., 62 Ryle Av., Paterson, N. J. Phone 1072.

OFFERINGS TO BUYERS.
Fifteen cents per word each insertion.

ARMY and NAVY GOODS—Sweaters, hosiery, underwear, to close out. Simon-Kahn, 911 Broadway.

COATS—Children's, juniors', ladies' fur-trimmed; close out. Edelson & Hand, 14 West 22d.

GOWNS—Women's flannelette, $7.50 dozen; children's, $5.50; also women's muslin underwear; jobs to close. Simon-Kahn, 911 Broadway.

HOSIERY—English woolen half hose; shipment on way; samples can be seen at this office; very attractive prices. Gargoyle Textile Corporation, 52 Broadway.

HOSIERY—Women's heather stockings, $2.50, $6.50 and $8 dozen; men's, $2.25 and $4.50 dozen. Simon-Kahn, 911 Broadway.

PANTS—Boys' knickerbockers, sizes 8 to 18, fancy cashmere, $5.50 dozen. Simon-Kahn, 911 Broadway.

SHIRTS—Silks, silk stripes, madras, percales. Call 496 Broadway, 2d floor, between 10 and 12.

UNDERWEAR—Shipment of Duofold Underwear for sale at most attractive prices. Gargoyle Textile Corporation, 52 Broadway.

Allied Industries.

FOR SALE—A Singer 81-1 overlock machine, practically new; a bargain. M. & L. Radin, 21 Waverly Place.

WANTED TO BUY—One Singer buttonhole machine; write full particulars as to condition, age and price. K. C., 817 Times.

Help Wanted.

UMBRELLA SALESMEN—Well known umbrella manufacturers want live, experienced road and city salesmen; only experienced umbrella men of high calibre need apply; good proposition; confidential. Z 2323 Times Annex.

SALESMAN—New educational advertising service exclusively for banks; never before offered; traveling required; commission basis, no advance, but a drawing account against commissions; state experience. W 320 Times.

SALESMEN—Men's underwear manufacturer, nainsook, has opening for two high grade men to sell retailers in case lots at mill prices; exceptional opportunity; commission. W 806 Times Downtown.

Wholesale Only

SECURE THE FINEST
Blankets and Motor Rugs

Direct from the English Makers

"EMPIRE" Motor and Steamer Rugs

"HOMELAND" Blankets— The World's Finest

You can now obtain the most exclusive lines of blankets and motor and steamer rugs in the world without crossing the ocean.

"EMPIRE" Motor and Steamer Rugs, pure wool, rich in pattern and coloring, enjoy an international reputation for quality. Single or double face—ends fringed or sewn. "HOMELAND" Blankets are equally superior. One, the "Sidoni," is the world's finest—100% pure camel's hair.

These two aristocratic lines may now be seen in the showroom of the American Selling Agent and orders placed direct at current London prices.

Prices quoted in sterling

LEOPOLD FRANK
1 & 2 Addle Street, London, England

EDGAR B. WALTERS
American Sales Agent
Bartholdi Building, 23rd St. and Broadway, N. Y. C.

Salesmen-Opportunity

Thoroughly experienced in selling Merchants and Department Store Buyers any of the following lines:

Women's Wear, Knit Goods
Men's Furnishings, Piece Goods
Infants' Wear, Jewelry
Fancy Goods, Housefurnishings
Notions.

Salary and commission basis. Applicants must have had successful Wholesale Selling Experience with representative houses. Apply to

Merchandise Clearing Division
LESTER J. RICH, Mgr.
10th Floor
Bush Terminal Sales Building
130 West 42nd Street, N. Y.

Wholesale Only

JOBBERS ! !

We will sell our recently imported line of finest Art Goods, Novelties and Fancy Goods at 50% off regular list.

This line contains Jewelry, Bronzes, Ceramics, Leather Goods, Paintings, Feather and Hand Painted Fans and many other items.

If interested address Box A 93 Times.

FOLLOW SUIT!

Manufacturers who turn their book accounts into cash via my methods are prospering. They do business on cash and enjoy privileges, prerogatives, profits and peace of mind unknown to credit-seeking concerns.

Investigate my reasonable terms and prompt, reliable, confidential methods. Tel. Watkins 2250.

UNIVERSAL DISCOUNT CO.
100 Fifth Avenue, New York.
After Feb. 1, 1921, Columbia Trust Building, 5th Ave. & 34th St.

POLISH HOME LOVE SHOWN IN FLIGHT

American Relief Worker Tells of Touching Incidents as Bolsheviki Advanced.

RED GERANIUM TREASURED

Mother Saves Daughter's Trousseau at Expense of All Other Possessions.

The love of the Poles for their homes is brought out by Mrs. W. Parmer Fuller, who was inspector for the American Relief Administration in Poland, in describing the flight of the refugees before the Bolshevist advance. In telling of the peculiar treasures the Poles carried with them in their flight Mrs. Fuller says:

"The Poles all love flowers and I can still see in my mind's eye one family trudging into safety with a bright red geranium, the one thing they had saved. Another family group brought in their red plush chair. Probably it had old associations and they were reluctant to part with it.

"It was very touching to see these people. Famine has leveled all classes. Professors, artists and musicians are just as bad off as the peasants. None has anything. The children are wholly dependent upon the A. R. A. European Children's Fund kitchens for their food. Last year the A. R. A. fed 1,400,000. The work must be kept up this year or these children will starve.

"Home ties are very strong in Poland. Very touching to me was the woman who saved her daughter's trousseau at the expense of everything else they possessed. They were coarse linen garments such as no girl in America would consider a trousseau, but they represented to this mother and this girl all the romance of costly things. They had been bought at great sacrifice in order that the girl might look back on her marriage as a regular wedding just as any girl would want to do."

Mrs. Fuller said that the love of the niceties of life was characteristic of the Polish people.

"In the eastern district, where not a home is left standing, where the people live in dugouts, sometimes ten families in one, every dugout we visited for relief purposes was found filled with the wild lilacs that were blooming in the fields then. How they could retain their feeling for beautiful things when they were starving was a mystery to us."

Reliable Automobile Information

Regarding the Rebuilt Car Dept. of the Studebaker Corp. of America

1,700 Broadway, Cor. 54th Street,

New York City

We do NOT buy cars for cash, speculate or sell Used Cars for a profit

Our Rebuilt Car Department is conducted only as a convenience to the new car buyer who is willing to dispose of his old car at the proper depreciation, rather than sell to the average Used Car Dealer, or dicker with a private party for a big price.

All used cars offered for sale by us, therefore, cost us approximately what a Used Car Dealer pays cash, and his profit we give to you by selling at a lower price, or putting the difference in honest repairs.

This Week Only—EXTREME REDUCTIONS—This Week Only

SEDAN: This little 1919 Studebaker 5 passenger sedan was taken in part payment for a new big 7 passenger Studebaker. We have re-conditioned this sedan like new, and it is indeed a beautiful and economical ALL-YEAR car. Priced $1,200.00 under new car list. This week only.

NASH: Small 1919 five passenger, touring, used very little, and looks brand new. Equipment includes 5 wire wheels, bumper, etc. Extreme reduction price $1,075. This week only.

ECONOMICAL FAMILY CAR: A beautiful 1919 Studebaker touring, equipped with two extra auxiliary chairs, accommodating 7 passengers. Refinished a Brewster green body with black fenders and trim; genuine hand buffed leather upholstery that shows absolutely no wear; top like new, and motor and all moving parts overhauled. This factory re-conditioned car offers every advantage of a brand new car at a substantial reduction.

MOON: This 1919 five-passenger touring looks like $3,000.00—runs like $1,500.00 and can be bought for $875.00. Refinished and equipped with white wire wheels. Quick action is needed to get this bargain.

BRAND NEW: Driven only 2,100 miles, this late 1920 Studebaker Big Six touring offers a prospective new car buyer an unusual opportunity to secure a new car at a used car valuation.

MAXWELL: Late 1920 touring in exceptional condition, $575.

LIMOUSINE: This 1919 Studebaker Bix Six limousine is a very beautiful custom-built job, and built especially for one of the Directors of the Studebaker Corporation of America. If you or one of your friends want a chauffeur-driven enclosed car, this re-conditioned like new limousine offers exceptional value. Priced $1,450.00 below new car list.

ROADSTER: $575.00 buys this very popular 3 passenger Studebaker model, thoroughly overhauled and refinished a dark blue body with black fenders and trim. You could not duplicate this car elsewhere for $700.00.

ALL STUDEBAKER MODELS ARE SOLD WITH OUR STANDARD STUDEBAKER FACTORY GUARANTEE.

If you would get a BARGAIN, and the car of your choice—BUY NOW, before the Spring rush. Our present stock includes about 50 other cars of various makes and models which are just as attractive, and we are confident that you will be interested in one of them.

You will be welcome whether you buy or not. Keep in mind that this list changes from day to day, and if you wish to be sure of seeing the car in which you are interested, do not delay your visit. We are open from 9:00 A. M. to 9:30 P. M.

Studebaker Rebuilt Car Department,
1,700 Broadway,
Corner 54th Street, N. Y. C.

In the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York—in Bankruptcy

RECEIVER'S SALE

THE ENTIRE STOCK of FURNITURE of

Frank Ridgeway Smith

114 W. 39th St., New York will be placed on sale

Monday, Jan. 17

AT VERY ATTRACTIVE PRICES

Dining Room, Bedroom and Living Room Furniture of the Finest Quality make up this stock, also numerous single pieces. The stock is not large and cannot last long.

Sale by order of

Clifford G. Ludvigh
Receiver in Bankruptcy for Frank Ridgeway Smith

Hays, Hershfield & Wolf, Attorneys for Receiver.
115 Broadway, Manhattan, New York City.

BLOOMINGDALES

59TH TO 60TH STREET—THIRD TO LEXINGTON AVENUE — ONE BLOCK FROM PARK AVENUE

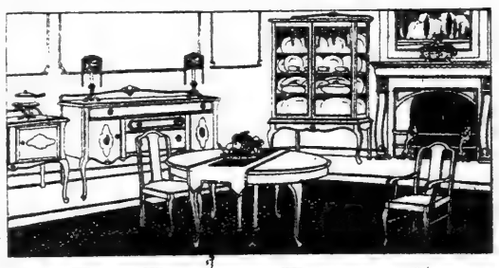
Extraordinary Reductions—Savings up to 50% in

Our Mid-Winter Sale of Furniture

For the rest of this month and February we are staging the greatest sale our Furniture department has ever known. Prices were already low—now they are phenomenally low. And it is hardly needful to emphasize the welcome fact that even at these drastic reductions Quality has been maintained.

Every piece of furniture in this Sale is worthy of going into your home, for long and pleasing service.

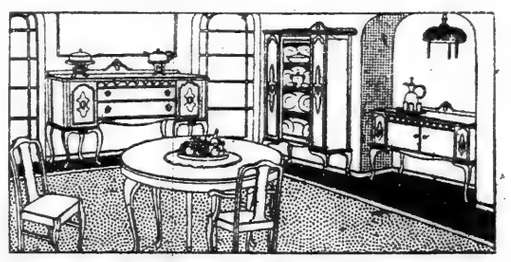
What you buy now will be held for future delivery, should you so desire. But buy now—prices are at absolute rock-bottom!



10 Pc. Dining Room Suite Reduced to $295.00

This Suite is of Queen Anne design and made by one of the foremost Western manufacturers. Finished in American Walnut, has large and spacious Buffet, also China Closet and Enclosed Serving Table, also has 48 in. round Dining Room Table. Complete with five American Walnut Side Chairs and large Arm Chair. Pieces purchased separately if desired.

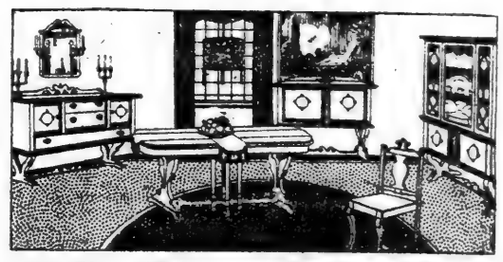
Buffet	$84.00	Dining Table	$68.00
China Closet	53.25	Chairs (each)	7.50
Serving Table	39.75	Arm Chair	12.50



10 Pc. Dining Room Suite Reduced to $450.00

Suite (as illustrated) made by one of the foremost Western manufacturers. It has a 5 ft. 6 in. Buffet, large China Closet with wood panels on the sides, enclosed Serving Table, and 48 in. round Dining Table, five Side Chairs and one Arm Chair of genuine Spanish Leather Seats. Pieces can be purchased separately if desired as follows:

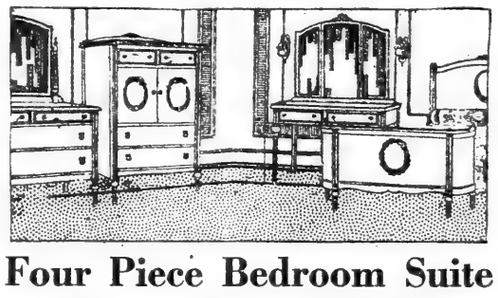
Buffet	$165.00	Dining Table	$88.00
China Closet	88.00	Chairs (each)	9.00
Server	50.00	Arm Chair	14.00



10 Pc. Dining Room Suite Reduced to $495.00

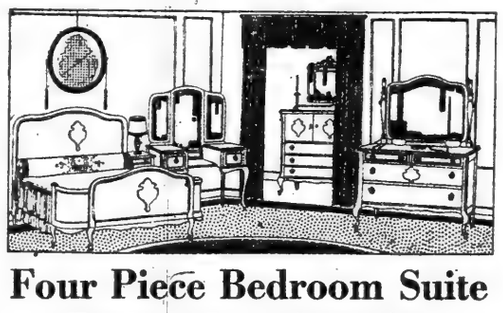
American Walnut Suite of Italian Renaissance style, richly carved and excellently finished, dust proof construction throughout. Buffet is 66 ins. long, China Closet measures 42 ins., large enclosed Serving Table and oblong Dining Table, five Side Chairs and one Arm Chair upholstered in genuine leather.

This is a particularly luxurious suite for the modern apartment. It has richness without being cumbersome, and it is distinguished without losing its quality of livableness.



Four Piece Bedroom Suite Reduced to $229.00

Suite (as illustrated) is of beautiful Louis XVI. design, finished in American Walnut and Mahogany. The construction is of the highest workmanship; each piece is dustproof throughout. Dresser has 24x30 Mirror, 34 in. Chifforobe, triplicate Mirror Dressing Table and full size Bed. Pieces purchased separately if desired.



Four Piece Bedroom Suite Reduced to $295.00

It is beautifully finished in American Walnut, has 48 in. Dresser, 42 in. Chifforobe, semi-Vanity Dressing Table and full size Bow End Bed. This Suite is fitted with Mahogany Drawer bottoms and is of the best construction possible. Only a limited number of these Suites in this great sale. Pieces can be purchased separately if desired.

Four Piece Bedroom Suite Reduced to $495.00

Colonial in feeling, but highly original in adaptation is the bedroom suite illustrated, the desgn of which is exclusive with Bloomingdales in Greater New York. Beautiful texture and graining of the fine American Walnut. This suite may also be had in mahogany or grey enamel. Pieces may be purchased separately.

3 Piece Living Room Suite Reduced to $189.00

Suite (as illustrated) beautifully finished in a rich brown mahogany, complete with two beautiful round sunburst pillows and large roll. This Suite has the Marshall Loose Cushions, and is covered in an assortment of Velours, Damasks and Tapestries. Sofa is 6 ft. 7 in. long. Note the beautiful Wing Chair and large Commodious Arm Chair.

3 Piece Living Room Suite Reduced to $199.00

Suite (as illustrated) of Queen Anne Design, fitted with the Marshall Loose Spring Seats, 6 ft. 6 in. Sofa, beautiful High Back Wing Chair and Commodious Arm Chair. An assortment of Velours, Damasks and Tapestries. Each piece is covered all over with the same material. Pieces can be purchased separately.

Sofa...$81.50 Arm Chair...$60.00 Wing Chair,...$57.50

3 Piece Living Room Suite Reduced to $232.50

Suite (as illustrated), ball feet, 7 ft. Sofa, Marshall Loose Cushion Seats, pillow arms on Sofa and pillow arms on Arm Chair and High Back Wing Chair. Covered in your choice of Tapestries. Each piece is covered all over with the same material. Pieces sold separately if desired.

Sofa...$106.50, Arm Chair...$66.00, Wing Chair...$60.00.

Bloomingdales—Fourth Floor.

Rugs & Linoleums-Many Priced Below Cost

Below cost—that is why women who recognize extraordinary value bought rugs and linoleums for present and even future use. And the low prices are why it is eminently worth while for you to attend this sale.

Seamless Artloom Almeda Wilton Rugs : $69.00

Size 9x12. You will be amazed at how the high-lustred silk nap of these rugs reproduces the look of their high priced derivatives imported from the Orient. They are woven in one piece, and the curiously beautiful designs have the savor of Chinese or of Turkish artistry.

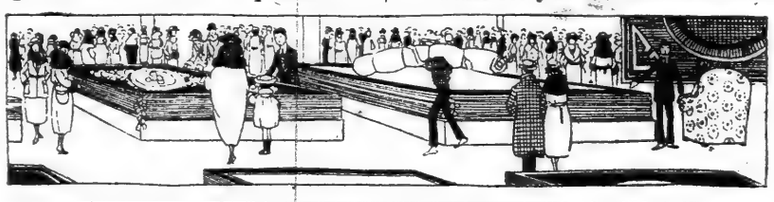
Sanfords Famous Seamless Axminster Rugs

Known wherever carpets are known for their satisfactory quality. They copy faithfully the ancient designs of Oriental rug weavers.

9 x 12,	$55.00	6 x 9,	$25.00
8.3 x 10.6,	$50.00	36 x 72,	$7.50

Royal Wilton Rugs $72.50

8.3x10.6. Karadi and Balbeck grade. The Chinese motives are worked out on backgrounds of old rose, blue, ivory or taupe.



Alexander Smiths Axminster Rugs $29.50

Size 9x12. Pleasing conventional designs, allover and medallion, and many colors and combinations of colors.

Gold Seal Congoleum 55c yd.

Every yard is guaranteed by the manufacturer. A great variety of parquetry and tile patterns.

Heavy Cork Linoleum 79c Sq. Yd.

Heavy grade, printed on a cork foundation backed by burlap. Inlaid tile or hardwood patterns.

Smith Carlton Axminster Rugs : $47.50

Size 9x12. Woven in one piece. Shown in all the latest designs and colorings.

All Wool Velvet Rugs Seamless : $39.50

Size 9x12. They look right anywhere in the house. Persian and Oriental designs and colors.

Best Grade Wilton Rugs

Famous American weaves; to the discriminating the names attached, Royal Kashan, Herati and Karnak, mean the maximum of quality and wear. Color harmonies may be had to harmonize with almost any decorative adjuncts. Theres a good variety of Oriental patterns, and the rich silky nap approaches the genuine lustre of the imported rug.

Sizes: 9 x 12,	$105.00	4.6 x 7.6,	$39.00
8.3 x 10.6,	$93.00	36 x 63,	$18.00
6 x 9,	$69.00	27 x 84,	$10.75

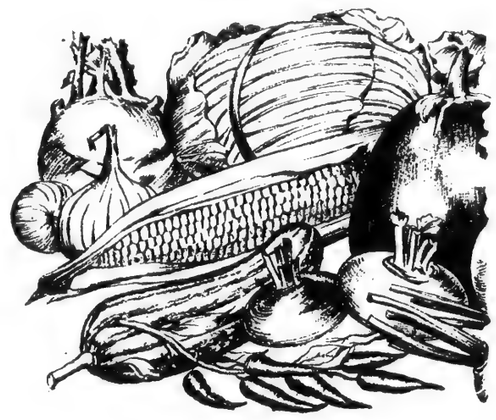
Bloomingdales—Third Floor.

ADVERTISEMENT.

Produce

Food costs today are nearly double those of 1914, but there has been little or no increase in the cost of your home garden. The air and the rain and the sunshine are just as free to everyone today as in 1914, and the results are just as big.

If your income has increased in proportion to the general rise in prices, you can get the full benefit of the increase by continuing to produce your summer's food yourself. If it has not, you have a double reason for a garden of your own.



Produce

Make your 1921 garden a better garden by giving it better attention and better seeds. We can help you to both; our full experience of seventy-five years is at your service in every way. The name "Henderson" on a packet of seeds means that everything we have learned in all those years has been done to make them the best that can be produced. Start your garden right with Henderson's Tested Seeds and follow our instructions for bigger yields.

Produce

Our Diamond Jubilee Catalogue, "Everything for the Garden," is the finest we have as yet issued. It is really a book—168 pages—a beautifully embossed cover in colors; eight pages in three colors; a full hundred new process color half-tones and over a thousand half-tones direct from photographs. It is the last word in garden help.

Produce

To demonstrate the superiority of Henderson's Tested Seeds we have made up a Henderson Collection, consisting of one packet each of the following six great specialties:

Ponderosa Tomato
Big Boston Lettuce
White Tipped Scarlet Radish
Henderson's Invincible Asters
Henderson's Brilliant Mixture Poppies
Spencer Mammoth Waved Sweet Peas

As a special introductory feature, we make the following unusual offer: Write for the Diamond Jubilee Catalogue, enclosing 10c for mailing, and without extra charge we will send you this remarkable "Henderson's Specialty Collection" with full cultural directions.

Every Empty Envelope Counts as Cash

This collection is enclosed in a coupon envelope which, when emptied and returned, will be accepted as 25c cash payment on any order for seeds, plants or bulbs amounting to one dollar or over. Make this year a "better garden" year.

Peter Henderson & Co.
35-37 Cortlandt St., New York City

Peter Henderson & Co.,
35-37 Cortlandt St., New York City

I enclose herewith 10c for which send catalogue and "Henderson's Specialty Collection" with complete cultural directions, as advertised in New York Times.

.....

.....

.....

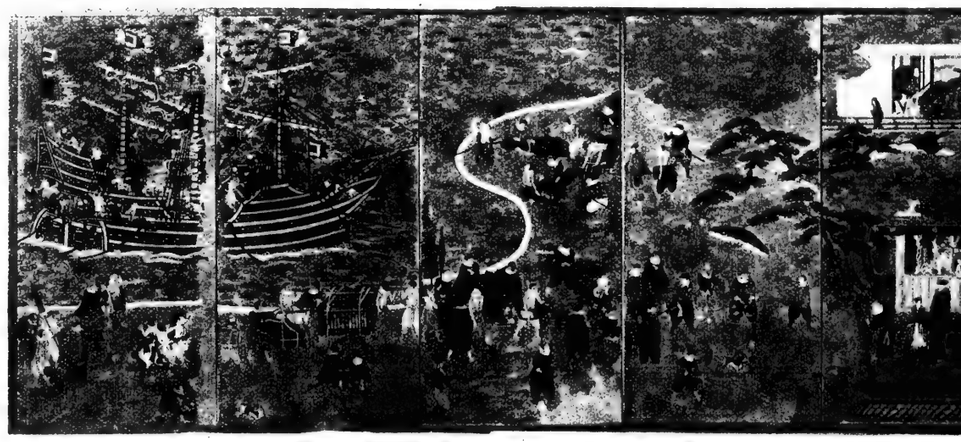
ADVERTISEMENT.

The New York Ti
Book Review and Maga

SUNDAY, JANUARY 16, 1921 THIRTY-TWO PAGES

(Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.)

OUR JAPANESE QUEST



Arrival of Southern Foreigners, Portuguese or Spaniards, in Japan, as Shown on a Folding Sc

By ALBERT BUSHNELL HART,
Professor of Government at Harvard University.

WHAT is all this hullabaloo about hostile feeling between the United States and Japan? Can two countries be found with a longer record of international friendship? For half a century Japan has welcomed Americans, while the United States has been a land of pilgrimage for Japanese. The two countries have also been bound together by eight successive commercial treaties, and the United States in 1894 was the first nation to accept Japan as a full member of the family of nations.

The policies and interests of the two lands are not naturally antagonistic. By the Root-Takahira note of 1908 and the Lansing-Ishii note of 1917 we admit Japan's Asiatic Monroe Doctrine. There is no unassigned territory that both nations covet, except the island of Yap, around which just now rages a tea-potential tempest. Neither nation needs to interfere with the trade of the other except in open commercial competition. The Pacific offers abundant opportunities for both these great maritime powers.

Nevertheless, there has never been a time of such uneasy and hostile feeling between the two nations. It all goes back to the question of the right of the people of one country to settle in the territory of another, translated by Japan in the Peace Conference of Paris into the phrase "equality of races." That claim is positively denied by the action of the State of California. That denial arouses and threatens to embitter Japan. Is it a just claim? Would it be good for the United States of America to allow it?

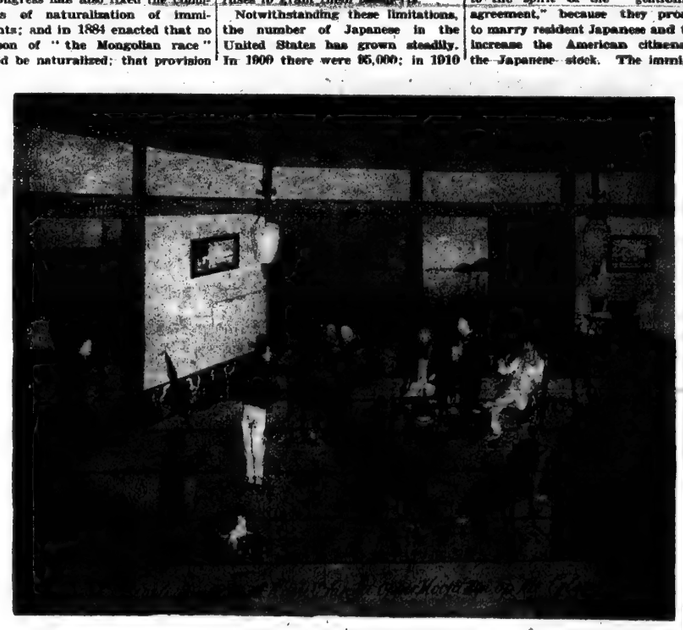
The Federal form of our Government makes possible this singular triangular difficulty in which the desires of Japan and the Pacific States collide, and the Federal Government acts as a sort of umpire. The legal and international difficulty is, after all, simple. The President and Senate of the United States, by treaties with Japan and China, long secured and assured mutual freedom of movement of persons from one country to another, as travelers or as immigrants. Congress has by statute limited, and later prohibited, the immigration of Chinese, except the four privileged classes of merchants, travelers, diplomats and students.

Congress has also fixed the conditions of naturalization of immigrants; and in 1884 enacted that no person of "the Mongolian race" could be naturalized; that provision has been applied both to Japanese and Chinese. On the other hand, under the Fourteenth Amendment, the children of Orientals, if born in the United States, are full citizens of the United States and the State in which they reside. By the "gentlemen's agreement" in 1908, which was recognized by the Treaty of 1911 as reasonable, Japanese immigration of laborers is checked so long as the Japanese Government refuses to grant them passports.

Notwithstanding these limitations, the number of Japanese in the United States has grown steadily. In 1900 there were 85,000; in 1910 there were 153,000. California c tained 10,000 in 1900, 14,000 in 1 and 70,000 in 1920, besides ab 120,000 of the Japanese race in Hawaiian Islands. This increas due in part to smuggling in Japan immigrants, still more to the c with which "students" turn t attention to farming and the ind tries. Another source is the th sands of "picture brides," that Japanese women admitted contr to the spirit of the "gentlem agreement," because they prov to marry resident Japanese and t increase the American citizens the Japanese stock. The immi



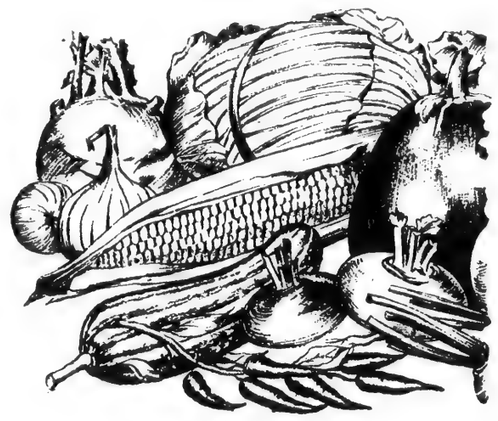
Dutch in Nagasaki.
Painted by a Japanese Artist, Kei-ga Kawara.

ADVERTISEMENT.

Produce

Food costs today are nearly double those of 1914, but there has been little or no increase in the cost of your home garden. The air and the rain and the sunshine are just as free to everyone today as in 1914, and the results are just as big.

If your income has increased in proportion to the general rise in prices, you can get the full benefit of the increase by continuing to produce your summer's food yourself. If it has not, you have a double reason for a garden of your own.



Produce

Make your 1921 garden a better garden by giving it better attention and better seeds. We can help you to both; our full experience of seventy-five years is at your service in every way. The name "Henderson" on a packet of seeds means that everything we have learned in all those years has been done to make them the best that can be produced. Start your garden right with Henderson's Tested Seeds and follow our instructions for bigger yields.

Produce

Our Diamond Jubilee Catalogue, "Everything for the Garden," is the finest we have as yet issued. It is really a book—168 pages—a beautifully embossed cover in colors; eight pages in three colors; a full hundred new process color half-tones and over a thousand half-tones direct from photographs. It is the last word in garden help.

Produce

To demonstrate the superiority of Henderson's Tested Seeds we have made up a Henderson Collection, consisting of one packet each of the following six great specialties:

Ponderosa Tomato
Big Boston Lettuce
White Tipped Scarlet Radish
Henderson's Invincible Asters
Henderson's Brilliant Mixture Poppies
Spencer Mammoth Waved Sweet Peas

As a special introductory feature, we make the following unusual offer: Write for the Diamond Jubilee Catalogue, enclosing 10c for mailing, and without extra charge we will send you this remarkable "Henderson's Specialty Collection" with full cultural directions.

Every Empty Envelope Counts as Cash

This collection is enclosed in a coupon envelope which, when emptied and returned, will be accepted as 25c cash payment on any order for seeds, plants or bulbs amounting to one dollar or over. Make this year a "better garden" year.

Peter Henderson & Co.
35-37 Cortlandt St., New York City

Peter Henderson & Co.,
35-37 Cortlandt St., New York City

I enclose herewith 10c for which send catalogue and "Henderson's Specialty Collection" with complete cultural directions, as advertised in New York Times.

.....

.....

.....

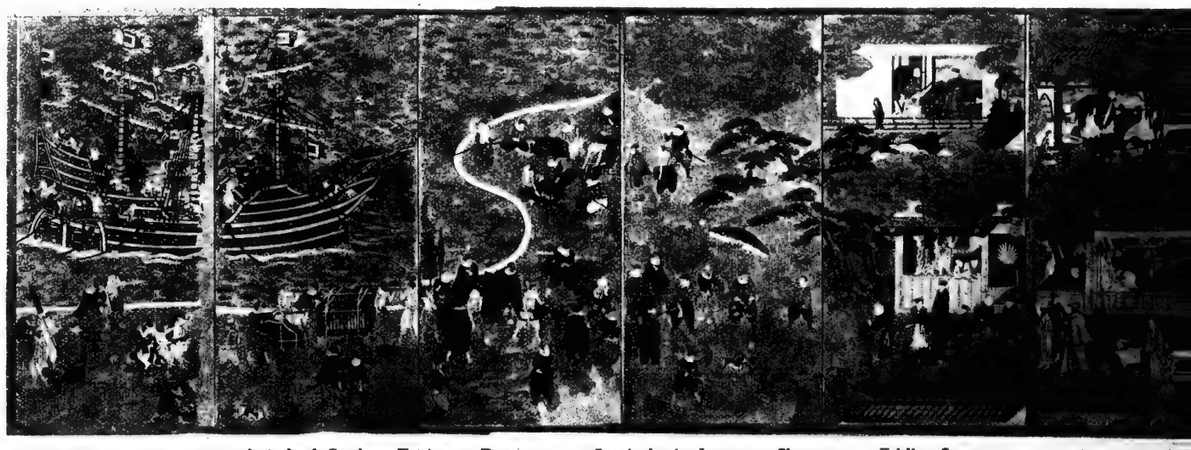
ADVERTISEMENT.

The New York Times
Book Review and Magazine

SUNDAY, JANUARY 16, 1921 THIRTY-TWO PAGES

(Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.)

OUR JAPANESE QUESTION



Arrival of Southern Foreigners, Portuguese or Spaniards, in Japan, as Shown on a Folding Screen.

By ALBERT BUSHNELL HART,
Professor of Government at Harvard University.

WHAT is all this hullabaloo about hostile feeling between the United States and Japan? Can two countries be found with a longer record of international friendship? For half a century Japan has welcomed Americans, while the United States has been a land of pilgrimage for Japanese. The two countries have also been bound together by eight successive commercial treaties, and the United States in 1894 was the first nation to accept Japan as a full member of the family of nations.

The policies and interests of the two lands are not naturally antagonistic. By the Root-Takahira note of 1908 and the Lansing-Ishii note of 1917 we admit Japan's Asiatic Monroe Doctrine. There is no unassigned territory that both nations covet, except the island of Yap, around which just now rages a teapotential tempest. Neither nation needs to interfere with the trade of the other except in open commercial competition. The Pacific offers abundant opportunities for both these great maritime powers.

Nevertheless, there has never been a time of such uneasy and hostile feeling between the two nations. It all goes back to the question of the right of the people of one country to settle in the territory of another, translated by Japan in the Peace Conference of Paris into the phrase "equality of races." That claim is positively denied by the action of the State of California. That denial arouses and threatens to embitter Japan. Is it a just claim? Would it be good for the United States of America to allow it?

The Federal form of our Government makes possible this singular triangular difficulty in which the desires of Japan and the Pacific States collide, and the Federal Government acts as a sort of umpire. The legal and international difficulty is, after all, simple. The President and Senate of the United States, by treaties with Japan and China, long secured and assured mutual freedom of movement of persons from one country to another, as travelers or as immigrants. Congress has by statute limited, and later prohibited, the immigration of Chinese, except the four privileged classes of merchants, travelers, diplomats and students.

Congress has also fixed the conditions of naturalization of immigrants; and in 1884 enacted that no person of "the Mongolian race" could be naturalized; that provision has been applied both to Japanese and Chinese. On the other hand, under the Fourteenth Amendment, the children of Orientals, if born in the United States, are full citizens of the United States and the State in which they reside. By the "gentlemen's agreement" in 1908, which was recognized by the Treaty of 1911 as reasonable, Japanese immigration of laborers is checked so long as the Japanese Government refuses to grant them passports.

Notwithstanding these limitations, the number of Japanese in the United States has grown steadily. In 1900 there were 85,000; in 1910 there were 153,000. California contained 10,000 in 1900, 14,000 in 1910 and 70,000 in 1920, besides about 120,000 of the Japanese race in the Hawaiian Islands. This increase is due in part to smuggling in Japanese immigrants, still more to the ease with which "students" turn their attention to farming and the industries. Another source is the thousands of "picture brides," that is, Japanese women admitted contrary to the spirit of the "gentlemen's agreement," because they promise to marry resident Japanese and thus increase the American citizens of the Japanese stock. The immigration authorities of the United States are directly responsible for this method of increasing the future Japanese population.

At this point comes in the ...ity of the States. They can ...vent the admission of any ...cepted by the United States ...ment, and cannot exclude ... or woman from the suffrage ground; but they can ... aliens the privilege of hold... or of taking part in corpo... certain kinds. This right ... exercised in many States ... aliens is general. Cali... statute, and also by a recent ...endum, has prohibited alien... not capable of becoming ... (that is, in effect, Chinese ... anese) from holding land ... through forms of trust. ... State may legally thus dis... between aliens is next yet ... the courts, though there ... cedents.

Here then is the case in a ... The National Government ... Chinese immigration but ... ese. It restricts Japanese ... tion by a roundabout and ... method which allows those ... sift through. The Pacific ... powerless to shut these p... but are alarmed at their ... ment of lands, as an evidence ... tention to form a permanent ... ment. The Japanese Go... dislikes any restriction, and ... protests against treatment ... ese which is not precisely ... as that of other immigrants.

This legal side of the q... the lesser part. The ... the United States to shut ... grants for any reason the ... good to Congress has been ... ercised and cannot be dou... though it arouses another ... hostility. The Coast States ... like to see all Oriental im... shut off, and the Japanese ... ment desires no current ... tion which carries people ... away from the overnight ...

(Continued on page ...)

Dutch in Nagasaki.
Painted by a Japanese Artist, Kei-ga Kawara.

THE NEW YORK TIMES BOOK REVIEW AND MAGAZINE, JANUARY 16, 1921

Harvard and Yale Rivals in Literature

Connecticut Hall, Yale University.

A Review by BRANDER MATTHEWS.

AND NEW; SUNDRY PAPERS. Charles H. Grandgent. Cambridge: Harvard University Press. 1920. 317 pp. $3.50.

CONNECTICUT WITS, AND OTHER ESSAYS. By Henry A. Beers. New Haven: Yale University Press. 1920. 201 pp. $2.25.

HE Clarendon Press of Oxford and the Cambridge University Press at the sister institution have had long and honorable ers; they have had their own ting offices; and they have had own sources of income which le them to undertake publica- not likely to be remunerative therefore not likely to tempt a lishing house whose prosperity, sarily, depends on a quick turn- These British presses have a stimulus to the productive olarship of Great Britain, and have issued many works of on- value. The Clarendon Press bore the immense expense of "New English Dictionary"; and also now the owner of the "Dic- ary of National Biography." uly within the past half-century t that true universities have come o being here in the United States, ne of them being the result of a w evolution from undergraduate lleges, as was the case with Har- d and Yale, Princeton and Co- mbia, and some of them being ated deliberately, as was the case th Johns Hopkins and Chicago. ill the true university had been tablished in America, with its e-building graduate students, in- ired and guided by scholars who re themselves advancing the undaries of knowledge, there was need for the university press. nless I am in error, the earliest of r university presses to function e that of Johns Hopkins, suc- eded in the course of time by that Chicago. Then, one after another, lumbia and Yale, Harvard and rinceton followed the example set their younger sisters. Several of ese newly founded presses are al- ady liberally endowed; and more an one has its own printing plant, itably housed. That at Princeton, r example, was due to the liberality Mr. Charles Scribner.

In the nature of things, most of e books which are now issuing m our American university esses are works of scholarship, the sult of devoted research in his- y, in philosophy, in sociology and science generally. Yet now and ain our university presses have ndescended to the less austere rms of literature, to the essay, to iticism and even to poetry. Some- nes these excursions into what ed to be known as belles lettres e the work of men not connected th the university whose press uches for them. But, more often an not, the authors for whom the ess of a university publishes are embers of the Faculty of the in- titution. Only those whose atten- on has been called to it are likely be aware that the American pro- fessor has been taking to authorship far more often than was the case in days gone by.

Fifty years ago, when I was an undergraduate in Columbia College, the Faculty consisted of eight men, all of them scholars, and only one of them had published a book; whereas today a goodly proportion of the two or three hundred professors of Columbia University have each of them half a dozen books to his credit. These books are contributions to almost every department of knowledge, scholarly works for the most part, and yet not meant for scholars alone, but for the main body of intelligent readers. There is rarely a number of the Modern Language Review—a British quarterly—which does not contain criticisms of three or four books written by teachers in American universities. The productivity of our instructors seems to be more abundant nowadays than that of the instructors of Great Britain. I say seems, because the disproportion is perhaps more apparent than real, since the British universities rarely have more than a single professor in any subject, while an American university may have a dozen or a score. Even in France the holders of the more important chairs are only rarely prolific; and when a graduate of the Normal School takes to Literature he is more likely than not to give up teaching, as did Taine and About, Sarcey and Lemaitre.

View of Harvard Yard in 1795.

The two volumes which are the occasion for this rambling introduction are collections of essays more or less literary in topic. One is by a Harvard man, Professor Grandgent, and it is published by the Harvard University Press. The other is by a Yale man, Professor Beers, and it is published by the Yale University Press. The two books have this in common, that neither of them appears to be a reworking of college lectures. Rather are they the results of their author's interest in themes other than those upon which they have had to lecture. They are not the products, but rather the by-products, of professional activity; and they are none the less readable for that and none the less interesting. The sundry papers they contain have been written because their writers had something to say, which they thought it worth while to say and not merely because they felt that they ought to say something.

Probably more than one of our ultra-progressive and ultra-young liberals will not care to listen to the words of wisdom which fall from the lips of either professor; and they may even be moved to dismiss into outer darkness writings which will seem to them insufficiently up-to-date, old-fashioned in manner and old-fogy in matter. It may be admitted at once that these two scholars are frankly conservative in their opinions, upholders of the tradition, not carried away by the swirling currents of the moment, and holding fast to ancient landmarks. Professor Grandgent, for example, is so obviously a standpatter as to declare that "there are only two new features in the vers libre movement; one is its typography, the other is the tremendous cackle raised over it." And Professor Beers reports himself as saying many years ago that Walt Whitman "may be the poet of democracy, but he is not the poet of the American people," being, in fact, only "the idol of a literary cult."

This is as it should be. Our universities have it as their essential duty to be loyal to the inherited traditions, to the masters consecrated by the ages. There is no danger that the young men and maidens whom they undertake to educate will be deprived of access to all the very latest novelties of creation and of criticism. These new things will be found abundantly and superabundantly on every newsstand and even in the college reading rooms and the university libraries.

In his defense of the old Professor Grandgent is more aggressive than Professor Beers. The first of his papers, "Nor Yet the New," may be recommended to the ultra-progressive and the excessively young. They may not relish it; but it will do them good. Professor Grandgent is even bold enough to have a good word for the Victorian Age, "the special butt of their scorn":

> In the rich vocabulary of their terms of obloquy,—"Victorian" is the very worst. It designates self-complacency, cant, hypocrisy, convention—not the convention of revolt, of course, but the convention of decency. Quite vainly would one plead that the Age of Victoria, rated according to genius, bids fair to take rank with the age of Pericles, Augustus, Elizabeth, and Louis XIV.; that future generations may possibly regard the time of Thackeray, Dickens, George Eliot, George Meredith, Thomas Hardy, of Browning and Tennyson, of Arnold and Newman, of Mill and Darwin, and Huxley and Spencer and Kelvin and Lister as rather a hard one to match in the annals of letters and science. * * * Indeed, if I mistake not, I have never come across a convention more hidebound than this same convention of revolt. (p. 6).

A little later in the same address Professor Grandgent dismisses what may be called the Program of the Revolters:

> Marriage, of course, is doomed. So is work. None of the new ideal heroes are salt-earners; they are too busy with self-expression and self-development and self-analysis. The more one thinks of it, the more evident it becomes that all their interests begin with "self"; they are addicted to every "self"-compound except self-support. What is to become of us when we shall all have adopted the new mode of existence I cannot imagine. When all are parasites, what or whom are we to live on" (p. 7)

One more quotation imposes itself:

> As we turn from the pages of an imagist volume, we seem to be idly watching a procession of pretty soap-bubbles, rising one after another, light, graceful, glittering, iridescent, to live an hour, maybe for an instant, and then fade into the atmosphere without leaving a trace. In truth nothing definite is bequeathed to the memory. Our only picture, on closing the book, is the generic image of the bubble, the bright, fragile, aqueous film momentarily vivified by a gentle breath of fetid air. (p. 15).

These must suffice as examples of Professor Grandgent's style. He has the courage of his convictions. It remains only to be noted that among his other papers are three on education the "Dark Age," "School" and "Is Modern Language Teaching a Failure?" There are three on linguistic topics, "Fashion and the Broad A," the "Dog's Letter" (i. e., the letter R) and "New England Pronunciation." And the remaining paper is one of his pungent annual addresses as President of the Simplified Spelling Board, on "Numeric Reform in Nescoubia"—an address to be recommended to the osteocephalic protesters that the spelling of Shakspere was good enough for them

As has already been noted, Professor Beers is less combative than Professor Grandgent; he is more placid, more leisurely; and his themes are more literary. He talks to us about the art of letter-writing and about Emerson's journals, about the centenary of Thackeray and the tercentenary of Milton, about the poetry of the Cavaliers and the contemporaries of Shakspere. And the two essays which I have read with the most pleasure and the most profit have to do with the American branch of English literature. One is on James Whitcomb Riley, with whom Professor Beers deals sympathetically and appreciatively. It is welcome that a professor of English literature, competent to discuss Shakspere and Milton, should also be ready to protest against the assumption that because Riley was "popular" in every sense of the word—he was therefore negligible.

Riley followed the bent of his genius and gave himself just the kind of training that fitted him to do his work. He never had any regular education, adopted no trade or profession. * * * His muse was a truant, and he was a runaway school boy who kept the heart of a boy into manhood and old age, which is one definition of a genius. * * * Creative work, when one is in the mood, is more a pleasure than a toil; and Riley worked hard at his verse-making. For he was a most conscientious artist; all these poems of his, seemingly so easy, natural and spontaneous, were the result of labor, though of labor joyously borne. How fine his art was perhaps only those can fully appreciate who have tried their own hands at making verses (p. 57).

The other American paper is that on the "Connecticut Wits" which gives the title to the volume, and which is a definite contribution to the history of American literature. Himself a Connecticut man, Professor Beers is free from the ancestor-worship which is so often evident in the writings of Masschusetts men about other Massachusetts men. He does justice to John Trumbull, now remembered only (or at least mainly) by a couplet of his once famous "McFingal":

> No man e'er felt the halter draw
> With good opinion of the law.

He weighs in the impartial scale Timothy Dwight and Theodore Dwight, Lemuel Hopkins and Joel Barlow, and while he has no high opinion of the "Columbiad," he is hearty in praise of the less ambitious "Hasty Pudding," one of the most felicitous examples of familiar verse.

Since it is a part of the whole duty of a reviewer to pick holes, I may note that Professor Beers is in error when he tells us that when John Gilbert played Sir Anthony Absolute at Wallack's, Mrs. Gilbert appeared as Mrs. Malaprop. It was Madame Ponisi who then prided herself on her nice arrangement of epitaphs; and Mrs. Gilbert was never in the Wallack company and never, so far as I recall, essayed the part of Mrs. Malaprop. And I may add that it is not now "one of the puzzles of Sheridan's biography where he got the money to pay for Drury Lane Theatre." That puzzle was solved more than thirty years ago by Sheridan's first American editor, as Professor Beers will discover if he looks again into Fraser Rae's brilliant biography of the author of the "Rivals."

Latest Books

History and Biography

COLE. By Juliette Arlen. 8vo. New York: Privately printed by the author.

Traces the careers of various "Cole patriots" in English history from the year 200 to 1920.

OLD VILLAGE LIFE. By E. H. Dutchfield. 12mo. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co. $2.50.

Surveys country activities from early times in England.

AMERICA IN BATTLE. By Colonel James A. Moss and Colonel Harry S. Howland. 12mo. Menasha, Wis.: The George Banta Publishing Company.

An illustrated handbook and guide to the American battlefields in France and Belgium.

Essays

THE THEATRE, THE DRAMA, THE GIRLS. By George Jean Nathan. 8vo. New York: Alfred Knopf. $2.50.

Fifth in a series of Mr. Nathan's books on "The Contemporary Theatre."

EL PORVENIR DE LA AMERICA ESPANOLA. Par Manuel Ugarte. 12mo. Madrid: Cardenal Cisneros.

A study of the future of Spanish-America.

Art

LUSTRE POTTERY. By Lady Evans. Palio. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co. $20.

A book on the history, manufacture, technique and the comparative artistic worth of Persian, Egyptian, Mesopotamian and Spanish specimens of lustre pottery. The book is illustrated with twenty-four full-page plates.

DESIGN AND TRADITION. By Amor Penn. 8vo. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. $10.

A short account of the principles and historical development of architecture and the applied arts.

A HANDBOOK OF INDIAN ART. By E. B. Havell. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co. $10.

A profusely illustrated account of the architecture, sculpture and painting of India.

THE AESTHETIC ATTITUDE. By Herbert S. Langfeld. 8vo. New York: Harcourt, Brace & Howe.

Aims to define aesthetics in terms of experience.

MODERN MOVEMENTS IN PAINTING. By Charles Merriott. 8vo. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. $7.50.

Profusely illustrated account of some of the new schools of painting.

Religion

BERGSON AND HIS PHILOSOPHY. By J. Alexander Gunn. 12mo. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co. $2.50.

An epitome of the Bergsonian system. There is an introduction by Professor Alexander Mair of the Department of Philosophy in the University of Liverpool.

THE SECRET OF HAPPINESS. By Edmond Holmes. 8vo. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co. $5.

Shows that "salvation" comes through growth.

Fiction

THE HEADLAND. By C. A. Dawson-Scott. 12mo. New York: Alfred Knopf. $2.50.

The scenes of the novel are on the coast of England.

THE ORANGE YELLOW DIAMOND. By J. S. Fletcher. 12mo. New York: Alfred Knopf. $2.

A detective story.

THE MASTERFUL RIDER. By Zane Grey. 12mo. New York: Harper & Brothers. $2.

An adventure story of the Western plains and mountains.

JENNY ESSENDEN. By Anthony Pryde. 12mo. New York: The Robert M. McBride Company. $2.

"A romance of the other woman."

THE HOUSE IN DORMER FOREST. By Mary Webb. 12mo. New York: The George H. Doran Company.

A novel of contemporary life.

Juvenile

PEGGY'S TWINS. By Mrs. H. C. Cradock. 8vo. New York: The Macmillan Company.

Illustrated story for very young readers.

Travel and Description

CALIFORNIA TRAILS. By Trowbridge Hall. 8vo. New York: The Macmillan Company. $5.

An illustrated guide to the old missions of Southern California.

FATHER ALLAN'S ISLAND. By Amy Murray. 8vo. New York: Harcourt, Brace & Howe.

An account of the folk-tales, religious faith, the folk music of the tiny island at the northernmost tip of Scotland. There is an introduction by Padraic Colum.

NATIONAL COSTUMES OF THE SLAVIC PEOPLES. Compiled by the Bureau of Pageantry and the Drama. Oblong 8vo. New York: The Woman's Press. $1.

A profusely illustrated account, with brief descriptions of Slavic customs, of the various holidays and festivals of the Slavic peoples.

New Editions

THE CORDS OF VANITY. By James Branch Cabell. 12mo. New York: Robert M. McBride & Co. $2.

Revised edition with an introduction by Wilson Follett.

THE WORLD ALMANAC AND ENCYCLOPEDIA. 12mo. New York: The Press Publishing Company. 50 cents.

A new annual edition for 1921.

Miscellaneous

FOUNDATIONS OF FEMINISM. By Arrom Barnett. 12mo. New York: The Robert M. McBride Company. $2.50.

Aims to show that many of the arguments advanced in favor of feminism are not only fallacious but weakening to the cause.

AN EXPLORER IN THE AIR SERVICE. By Hiram Bingham. 8vo. New Haven: Yale University Press. $10.

An account telling how aviators are trained.

MERCHANDISING STUDIES OF THE STATES. By Archer Wall Douglas. 12mo. New York: The Ronald Press Company.

Describes their resources and development.

LESSONS IN MECHANICS; LESSONS IN ELECTRICITY AND MAGNETISM; LESSONS IN HEAT. By William S. Franklin and Barry MacNutt. 8vo. Bethlehem, Pa.: Franklin & Charles. Three volumes.

Textbooks in elementary physics.

A NATURALIST ON LAKE VICTORIA. By G. D. Hale Carpenter. 8vo. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co. $10.

The author, who is a fellow of the Linnean, Entomological and Zoological Societies of London, was sent to the region of Lake Victoria by the Tropical Diseases Committee of the Royal Society to investigate the life of the tse-tse fly, which has recently caused great mortality from sleeping sickness in Uganda. The present volume gives an account of his experiences, together with numerous illustrations and color maps.

THE SOCIAL DISEASES. By Dr. J. Hericourt. 12mo. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co. $2.50.

A handbook of information giving advice and indicating remedies in regard to the four great scourges of humanity. The book is translated from the French by Bernard Miall.

MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES IN AMERICA. By Malcolm Kelr. 12mo. New York: The Ronald Press Company. $5.

A study of the development of such industries in this country as iron, steel, cotton, wool and leather in relation to economic conditions.

JEWISH SCIENCE. By Alfred G. Moses. 12mo. New Orleans: Searcy & Pfaff. $5.00.

An applied psychology of Judaism.

HOW TO KEEP INVENTION RECORDS. By Harry A. Toulmin Jr. 12mo. New York: D. Appleton & Co. $2.

Tells how to protect one's interests in industrial property of every sort.

THE ELEMENTS OF ELECTRO-TECHNICS. By A. P. Young. 12mo. New York: Isaac Pitman & Sons. $3.40.

Illustrated account of the fundamental principles of the electrical industry.

HOME FARM POWER AND LIGHTING. 12mo. Cincinnati: American Automobile Digest.

A handbook on the installation, use and repair of the internal combustion engine.

United States Takes Lead

(Continued from Page 15)

emphasis upon our banking requirements.

Before two individuals can successfully do business they must possess a certain amount of accurate information regarding each other. This is equally true of nations, and, as Mr. Collins points out, it is a factor from which we suffered greatly in our South American enterprises before the war. We certainly had a false conception of South Americans, but they had an equally ridiculous idea of us. We had no direct news service to South America, and as a result they were dependent for their information regarding us on the news that the European services chose to send them. They were fed with choice fragments culled carefully from our yellowest press, and the resulting impression may be better imagined than described.

Despite this disturbing paragraph, Mr. Collins offers some encouraging information. The situation is steadily improving. When the war came to us, the United States found it advisable to spread a little information down below regarding our national character and our war aims. This effort bore fruit, and now two large American news agencies are keeping South America supplied with daily information regarding her northern neighbors. The movies also, despite their melodramatic characters, are contributing their bit to the work of education; so it may be justly hoped that before long the established opinion regarding our country may be overcome. Reciprocity is in order, and it is time that our average citizen ceased thinking of South America as a land of palm trees and explosive revolutions.

On the subject of investment in South America, Mr. Collins voices a word of warning. It is desirable that we should put money into South America for the sake of future trade, but at present there is a great dearth of reliable financial information on South American investments. The British capital that was invested in Latin America before the war yielded only 5 per cent., which is not a very tempting return to the American business man. Then, too, Europe was always an excellent market for South American gold bricks, and now that European demand for this commodity is diminishing as the result of experience, we must take care that we are not elected to succeed to the consumer's place. There is going to be a splendid opportunity for investors who wish to send their dollars to South America to work, as soon as our bond houses have educated themselves on the subject, and in turn have educated the public. But the time is not yet ripe.

Any one who wrote on South American trade without mentioning the future of Germany in that field would be guilty of a serious sin of omission. There is a belief in certain quarters that the overseas trade of Germany is crippled beyond repair for many years to come, but this belief is notable for its optimism rather than for its far-sightedness. On this matter Mr. Collins speaks definitely, and we can do no better than to quote two paragraphs of his which are commendable for their wisdom.

> Germany was third in South American business at the beginning of the war, and it is inconceivable that she should not ultimately "come back" there. She had an ideal system of marketing, with personal contracts, service and liberal credits at the Latin-American customer's end, and an organization at home that made whatever the customer wanted, no matter how peculiar, or how trifling the quantity, and shipped it so that freight, customs duty and other expenses were ingeniously kept down to the minimum. She had shortcomings. Little German capital was invested in Latin America. Bribery and dishonesty were used to advantage in holding business—the bribery of customs officials and the use of false invoices, for instance. As we know how her trade was subordinate to her imperialistic schemes. But the German selling and banking organization is still strong in Latin America. Germany's need for export trade is more desperate than that of any other country.
>
> The German is facing the facts, handling other nations' goods without prejudice to keep his trade machinery intact until German goods are available, and working harder than ever. He has his characteristic national products, as the British and the Americans have theirs, and in those lines will, to use a British saying, "take a bit of beating."

ADVERTISEMENTS.

Important
The Interesting Free Booklet is for Adults only—it will not be sent to children.

He Will Give You Real Command of English

Your use of English proclaims you to the world. What you say tells what you are. Your language largely determines your place among successful men.

The greater your vocabulary, the greater your power of expression and influence upon your fellowmen.

Commence now—let Grenville Kleiser teach you through his Mail Course in Practical English, how to Enlarge Your Stock of Words—

Use the Right Word in the Right Place—
Write Tactful, Forceful Letters; Distinctive Advertisements, Stories, Sermons, Essays, etc.
Win Promotion and More Pay—
Become an Engaging Conversationalist—
Be a Man of Culture, Power, and Influence in Your Community.

It will take only some of your spare moments at home; no repellent grammar study; each lesson as clear as daylight, and inspiring to the highest degree.

Most of your thinking is done in words. It is impossible to think in words which you do not possess. Your thought must suffer for the words you lack. A limited vocabulary means limited thought, limited authority, and limited power.

The idea, plan, or proposal which COMPELS attention is expressed in precise, convincing language—language persuasive, forceful, and gleaming with just the suggestion you're trying to "drive home."

The average man of to-day can add largely to his efficiency, influence, and income if he will give a few minutes each day to Grenville Kleiser's fascinating Mail Course in Practical English.

BOOTH TARKINGTON, Distinguished Novelist: "Your course is almost painfully needed by many professional writers and speakers. A student who intelligently follows your course will know what he is talking about when he talks or when he writes. His audience will certainly know, because he will talk well, no matter what his subject."

IRVIN S. COBB, War Correspondent, Novelist, Lecturer: "Any man who helps English-speaking people to a better knowledge of practical English deserves praise and has mine."

JOHN BURROUGHS, famous Naturalist and Writer: "I see valuable and helpful hints in these lessons. Any young man or woman who has an undeveloped literary talent ought to profit greatly by this Course."

FREE

"How to Become a Master of English"

This Booklet is absolutely free. It teems with information on English, and Mr. Kleiser's new, commonsense method of teaching it. You will find it of great interest and value. Send the coupon and get it free. No agent will call upon you.

Funk & Wagnalls Company
Publishers of the Famous "New Standard Dictionary"
354-360 Fourth Ave., New York City

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY
354-360 Fourth Avenue, New York

Gentlemen—Send me by mail, free of charge or obligation, the booklet "How to Become a Master of English," together with full particulars of the Grenville Kleiser Course in Practical English and Mental Efficiency.

N. Y. T. Mag. 1-16-21

Name .....

Local Address ..... Street and No. or R. F. D.

Post-Office .....

Date ..... State .....

Jewish Science
Psychology of Health, Joy and Success as Applied Psychology of Judaism
By Rabbi A. G. Moses
Price $3.00. Order from Rabbi A. G. Moses, The Temple, Mobile, Ala.
First book to present spiritual science from Jewish standpoint.

AUTOGRAPHS
If interested, send 2c. stamp for Catalogue No. 140, containing titles of Autograph Letters and Documents:—Washington, Lincoln, Grant, Roosevelt, Napoleon, Bismarck, Von Moltke, Scott, Dickens, Thackeray, Meredith, Stevenson, etc.
Goodspeed's Book Shop, Boston, Mass.

NEIGHBORHOOD BOOK SHOP
435 PARK AVENUE-NEW YORK

ADVERTISEMENT.

30 World's Greatest Masterpieces $2.98 FOR ALL

Bound in Limp Redcroft

A revolution in publishing! Think of it! Thirty wonderful little volumes bound in beautiful Limp Redcroft for only $2.98. 30 of the greatest books ever written! This means exactly what it says! $2.98 for ALL THIRTY—not for ONE—NOT A FIRST PAYMENT—but $2.98 for the entire set of 30 pocket volumes and there are no further payments! Each book complete—NOT EXTRACTS. Each volume printed in clear, readable type, on excellent book paper, and bound in wonderful limp Redcroft. Over FOUR MILLION VOLUMES HAVE BEEN SOLD WITHOUT ADVERTISING. Here is the most remarkable opportunity you have ever had to become familiar with the works of the world's greatest authors. You cannot help but become more interesting, more charming, better satisfied with yourself after reading these great works of all time.

READ WHAT PEOPLE SAY

"A few days ago I ordered a set of your Redcroft bound masterpieces. The books were delivered promptly and were very satisfactory, and I take pleasure in mailing you under separate cover order for a second set. Other friends have seen the work and ordered copies.

"I would like to say that in my entire collection of books there is no set that appeals to me so strongly as the Little Leather Library. The very convenient size together with the fact that every one is a literary treasure within itself makes them very desirable."
MILLARD F. BROWN,
Stern Mohron, Va.

"Your Little Leather Library is at hand and I take great pleasure in telling you that I consider it one of the greatest bargains of my life."
LESTER J. WARD,
Vermilion, S. D.

"I received my 'Little Leather Library' several days ago. I am more than pleased with the books, for they are much better than I expected for the price. I cannot understand how, in these times of high prices, you can print them so cheaply. I asked my brother to guess what my books cost, and he guessed $15."
(Miss) MAUDE HOLEY,
Melbourne, Ark.

"Books received and also your kindly suggestions for the reading of same. Am well pleased with them and congratulate you that the most renowned muckraker can not accuse you of profiteering, for you give both quality and quantity for the money."
H. H. Danford,
Athens, Ohio.

"I wish to order a third set of the Leather Library of thirty volumes. Have already received my own set and ordered a second for a friend. My husband took several of the little volumes in his pocket on a recent journey and found them most pleasant and profitable traveling companions."
(Mrs.) Beth C. Allanson, Waukon, Iowa.

"The thirty volumes of the Little Leather Library came Saturday, and I am pleased. I have most of them in my library, but I can take a volume about with me, and now and then I can give a volume to my friends. It seems to me that you are doing a great work in publishing these little classics."
Dr. T. J. Taylor,
Warrenton, N. C.

30 DAYS TRIAL Send No Money MAIL COUPON

Just mail coupon. See the books. If not better than you thought, return them at our expense and you will not be out one penny. These are the wonderful Redcroft edition of the Little Leather Library books which are so convenient in size. You can carry one in your pocket wherever you go. World's greatest authors, including Kipling, De Maupassant, George Washington, W. L. Gilbert, Coleridge, Tennyson, Longfellow, Stevenson, Oscar Wilde, Edgar Allan Poe, Shakespeare, G. Bernard Shaw, Dickens, Lincoln, Irving, Conan Doyle, Emerson, Thoreau, Burns, Browning and others.

Read these wonderful books for a month. Then, if not pleased, send them back and lose no money. Think of buying 30 wonderful Redcroft books for only $2.98. Send these books to friends instead of greeting cards. Read and re-read them yourself. World's great masterpieces. Every cultured person must know these authors' works.

Tear Out the Coupon NOW

Send no money now. Mail coupon and we will send the entire 30 volumes at once. Simply pay postman $2.98 plus postage, and examine the books for 30 days. We positively guarantee REFUND AT ONCE if you are not more than pleased. This low price made possible by printing in enormous quantities. But you must order at once to be sure of immediate delivery, as we have only a few sets on hand now and it takes from two to four weeks to reprint. At this price of $2.98 they will be cleaned out quickly. Mail coupon at once.

Little Leather Library Corporation
Dept. 270, 44 East 23d Street New York

LITTLE LEATHER LIBRARY CORPN.,
Dept. 270,
44 E. 23d St., New York

Please send me the 30 volumes of the world's great masterpieces, bound in limp Redcroft. I will pay the postman $2.98 plus postage; but if I am not satisfied I will mail books back at your expense within 30 days and you are to refund my money at once. It is understood that there are no further payments.

Name.....

Address.....

.....

(Outside U. S. Price $3.98 cash with order)

From Reign of Terror to a New York Farm

Madame Tallien Theresia Cabarrus.

Marquise de la Tour du Pin.

RECOLLECTIONS OF THE REVOLUTION AND THE EMPIRE. From the French of the "Journal d'une Femme de Cinquante Ans." By la Marquise de la Tour du Pin. Edited and translated by Walter Geer. With fifteen photogravure illustrations. New York: Brentano's.

In Bordeaux rules Tallien . . . the bloody Pike and Nightcap bearing supreme sway; the Guillotine coining money. Bristly, fox-haired Tallien, once Able Editor, still young in years, is now become most gloomy, potent; a Pluto on Earth, and has the keys of Tartarus. One remarks, however, that a certain Senhorina Cabarrus, or call her rather Senhora and wedded not yet widowed Dame de Fontenay, grown beautiful woman, daughter of Cabarrus, the Spanish merchant, has softened the red bristly countenance; pleading for herself and friends; and prevailing. The keys of Tartarus, or any kind of power, are something to a woman; gloomy Pluto himself is not insensible to love. Like a new Proserpine, she, by this red gloomy Dis, is gathered; and, they say, softens his stone heart a little.—Carlyle's "French Revolution."

THE last act of mercy of this "red gloomy Dis" in his proconsulship at Bordeaux was to connive at the escape of Mme. de la Tour du Pin, the author of the book under review, and her family. Even before they had escaped he was on his way from Bordeaux to Paris, there to become the leader of the movement which overthrew Robespierre and unintentionally destroyed the Reign of Terror. But his "new Proserpine," afterward to become famous as the Mme. Tallien of the Napoleonic régime, stayed behind at Bordeaux to save them still and ship them off from the shadow of the guillotine to America. The next time they met Mme. Tallien was the Queen of Napoleon's Court and Mme. de la Tour du Pin about to become a shining member of it.

In 1820 the woman thus rescued began to write her memoirs, not for publication but for the amusement of her youngest son. She kept writing them at intervals for thirty-three years, one of the intervals amounting to ten years, and death overtook her in 1853, when she had reached the year 1815. They were handed down from son to son, and never published until 1906, when they appeared in Paris. Now they appear in an English translation.

The writer was one of the twelve Dames du Palais at the Court of Marie Antoinette, a practical farmer in New York State in Washington's Administration, a friend of Josephine and member of her Court, and a member of the Court of Louis XVIII. when the Bourbon Court was set up again. She was of the highest society under the Old Régime, and knew Biron, who had been a notable in the days of the Grand Monarch. She was in the castle at Versailles during the "Insurrection of Women." She lay hidden in the house of a pretended Jacobin during the Reign of Terror until the future Mme. Tallien stole her away to an American ship. Introduced by General Philip Schuyler, she became a star in Alexander Hamilton's set in New York, but most of the time preferred to work at her farm at Albany under the same conditions as any other farmer's wife. Summoned to France in the days of the Directory, she found the skies so dark that she went to England, and there remained until Napoleon's rise, when she returned to France and joined his Court. Though she was always a Bonapartist at heart, her former high station among Marie Antoinette's ladies gave her entrée and precedence when the Bourbon King came back. She was the daughter of General Arthur Dillon, who, like her husband's father, died on the scaffold while she was in America.

When she emerged from her hiding place at Bordeaux, her husband being hidden in a farmhouse not far from that city, and threw herself on the mercy of the future Mme. Tallien, then Mme. de Fontenay; she was greeted with warmth by "Our Lady of Mercy," who told her, "You will be safe here as soon as he knows you are the object of my interest." She writes:

Mme. de Fontenay was then not more than 20 years of age. (Mme. de la Tour du Pin herself was 24.) A more beautiful human being had never issued from the hands of the Creator. She was a perfect woman. All her features bore the imprint of the most regular and artistic perfection. Her hair, black as ebony, seemed made of the finest silk, and nothing detracted from the brilliance of her complexion, which was clear as ivory. An enchanting smile displayed the most admirable teeth. . . . You could not help feeling sad when you thought that so much youth, beauty, grace and spirit was abandoned the death warrant of many innocent persons.

As a matter of fact, Bordeaux under Tallien got off easier than most of the cities ruled by revolutionary proconsuls. Thanks to "Our Lady of Thermidor," as she was also called, because it was she who drove Tallien to raise the standard of revolt against Robespierre, the total of executions in Bordeaux was only 301. As for Carlyle's "bristly fox-haired Tallien," this is how he appeared to Mme. de la Tour du Pin:

Before me I saw a man of 25 or 26, with a fine face which he endeavored to render severe. A mass of blond curls escaped from all sides under a large military hat covered with varnished cloth and surmounted by a tricolored plume. He was dressed in a long, tight overcoat of coarse blue cloth, over which hung a sabre by a shoulder belt, which was crossed by a long silk scarf.

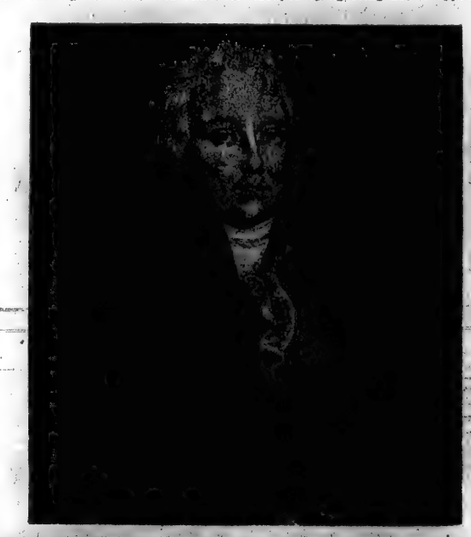
Tallien was not disposed to spare her, because she was the daughter of General Dillon and the daughter-in-law of de la Tour du Pin. Mme. de Fontenay brought him to terms by threatening to see him no longer. But though our heroine was always full of gratitude to Mme. Tallien, she mercilessly put down such things as this:

"You have there a pretty watch," said Mme. de Fontenay. "Yes," Tallien replied. "It is one of the new watches of Breguet, and is worth from seven to eight thousand francs. Would you like to have it?" he added, in offering it to her. "Ah! merci!" she said, as if he had offered her a flower, and, taking the watch, she put it in her bag. This incident caused me a profound disgust, for it was the act of a corrupted courtesan.

He got the required passports for her, but was recalled to Paris so suddenly that he did not have time to visé them. Mme. de Fontenay was in tears over the prospect, almost the certainty, that Tallien's remaining colleague would refuse his visé. Alexandre, Tallien's secretary, hit on the expedient of slipping the paper in among a number of others and presenting the batch to this man, Ysabeau, at a moment when his time was taken up with other things. Ysabeau signed them without looking at them, and Mme. de Fontenay bade them good-bye. But she kept Mme. de la Tour du Pin to be spectator of a curious scene. Taking her into her bedroom, she found Fontenay, the legal husband of the woman who ruled Tallien and who really started the rebellion against Robespierre. Then followed this:

From a drawer she took out a handkerchief and laid it upon the table. Then, opening a handsome jewel case, she took out a collection of diamonds of the greatest magnificence and threw them upon the handkerchief pell-mell. When she had thus emptied all the drawers of the jewel box, without leaving the least thing, she tied up the ends of the handkerchief and handed it to M. de Fontenay with these words: "Prenez tout." And he, indeed, took all and went out without opening his mouth. I showed my great surprise, and she replied to my thought by saying: "He had given me a part; the rest came from my mother. He also is leaving tomorrow for America."

She does not mention, but history relates, that Fontenay, who had been condemned to the guillotine, escaped by agreeing not to oppose a divorce to be obtained by his wife so that she might marry Tallien.



Prince de Talleyrand-Perigord.

General Arthur Dillon, Father of Marquise de la Tour du Pin.

To balance the account of these immoralities among the revolutionists, it should be mentioned that she gives a more repulsive picture of the morals of the Old Régime, and that, though she was brought up in the house of an Archbishop, the incidents of which she was a witness as a child of 10 "should have debased my mind, perverted and corrupted my heart, and destroyed in me every idea of morality and religion." "The only person," she adds, "who saved me from these bad influences and encouraged the thoughts of virtue in my heart was a maid who could neither read nor write. She was a young peasant, by the name of Marguerite, from the neighborhood of Compiègne." At Court, when she was older, things were much worse. "At that time the ladies of high society were marked by the audacity with which they made a parade of their love affairs. These intrigues were almost as soon as formed, and they were durable they acqu sort of consideration." An mentions so many, in the co her story, that it sounds like eral rule.

After a month at Boston the started for Albany, and on th at Northampton, her husban her of the death of her father eral Dillon. He had learned a ton that Dillon had been death on the guillotine. She their stopping at a house whi reached "the second degree ilization, having sashes and pa glass," and says:

At the end of the dinner wh took together, the master house rose, removed his cap with a respectful air, presc these words: "We will drin health of our beloved Presi You would not then (1794) found a cabin, no matter how it was in the depths of the w where this act of love for the Washington did not terminate meal. Sometimes there was added a toast to the "Marquis de Lafayette, who had left a loved name in the United Stat

At Albany General Schuyler ed her with, "Now I shall h sixth daughter." The Schuyle the family of Van Rensselae Patroon, became their best fr She and her husband bought a four miles from Albany, and became prosperous in their oc cupation. One day she was i yard, with a hatchet in her cutting the bone of a leg of m which she was preparing to p the spit for dinner, when she a loud voice behind her saying: ne peut embrocher un gigot plus de majesté." She turne beheld Talleyrand, who had co Albany to visit Schuyler and been sent over to invite her t ner. She said she would go t leyrand would come back nex and eat the leg of mutton.

When they came to Schu house" the good General w the stoop," waving his hand shouting, "Come quickly, quickly. There is great news France!" He had newspapers nouncing the Revolution of Th dor, begun by Tallien after re spurring by his imperiled mi and ended by the guillotini Robespierre and his associates incident that must have bee peated many times in France that news came occurred that ning in Schuyler sitting recent

M. de Talleyrand was rele especially that his sister-i Mme. Archambault de Perigord escaped, when, later in the ove having taken up from the thi paper which he thought he had he found her name among the ble list of victims executed fo of Thermidor, that very mo during the session in which Robespierre was denounced. The sa her death painfully affected hi

Talleyrand appears throughou story, often befriending her an husband in remarkable ways this applies especially to the leonic and Restoration periods. tells one astonishing story o having broken into Morris's the evening before his failur forcing him to give up Mme. Tour du Pin's bonds, Talle having got wind of what w come next day. Yet in summin up she says:

I sincerely regretted to fin many reasons for not holding h esteem, but I could not avoid f ting my disagreeable recolle when I had passed an hour in t ing to him. As he had n valts himself, by singular ha he had a horror of that whic evil in others. (Not as unco a trait as Mme. de la Tour d though it.) To listen to a w knowing him, you would h lieved that he was a worthy m

It is much to be regretted Mme. de la Tour du Pin did n long enough to tell the full st 1815. Her husband was one of legislators who voted for Ney' viction, but, trifling with the sciences, recommended him to w This attempt to shift the burd Louis XVIII.'s shoulders seems adays to be an additional a upon them.

Rumania and the Reds

JUDE RADFORD WARREN.

Rumania is sending notes to Moscow objecting to the concentration of Bolshevist troops on her northern frontier, it is the first time in the last twelve months that she has asked the Bolsheviki what they meant by it. Ever since Bessarabia was assured to Rumania, in 1919, through an agreement signed by Great Britain, France and Italy, the Rumanian Government has known that the Reds would try to get the territory back. They knew that vague threats would grow into certainty, that tentative efforts at retrieving Bessarabia, would probably end in a military crisis. Probably the Rumanian Government thinks the clash has not yet arrived, since King Ferdinand is said to have called out the classes of 1913, 1914 and 1915 and militarized the railroads.

It is held that the Rumanians are mere theorists, great talkers, that Rumania's thing a long time before they get down to action. But in the months they have taken action on the danger of a Bolshevist invasion. Without talking loud, clear tones of its attitude the Government has set out four things: First, to keep Rumania as far as may be the risk of Bolshevism or extreme radicalism from the industrial and peasant population; second, to more or less isolate the soldiers, so that they may not be infected by whatever germs of internal Bolshevism may be in the rounds; third, to take the soldiers recruited in Bessarabia from Bessarabia, make them associated with their new Rumanian-Transylvanian brethren and have them as good a time as possible; fourth, which follows from the third, to prevent any rapprochement between possible Bolsheviki at home and Bolsheviki on the frontier of Russia. They have also kept the greatest number of picked troops on the frontier to repel possible invasion.

The danger of any Bolshevist movement among the peasants is negligible. Soon after the armistice, when there seemed a danger that the peasants might revolt and join the ranks of the Reds, the King offered to part with a large share of his private estates to the people. Other landowners followed his example. The result is that already some of the peasants have their own land, and most of the rest are expecting to have it. They are contented. Among the working people there is a certain amount of discontent, a certain number of strikes, a certain amount of political agitation. I was in Galatz when there was a strike of the employees, who wanted to have a share in the management of the restaurants. They paraded the red flag and sang a national song, while the factory public could not even get a lunch. The waiters were not back and young boys and girls were serving in their stead. I was in Galatz arrest when there was a strike of the post office employes, which lasted a month. I am told that it ended because the employes who had been setting aside part of their salary for a building for recreation found it was being made into offices. For a month no one got any mail from the Americans and the British Army, and that only because some American Y. M. C. A. men, who are not believed by the Rumanians, were allowed to go into the post office and ferret out their own mail. Some sort of readjustment was made and the men returned at a slightly higher wage.

There have also been strikes in Jassy and that small factory, but as before they have not lasted long. There have been meetings in which equal strong socialistic talk has been made. I was told that there were about sixty thousand people with radical leanings in Bucharest. But no one can be sure of figures in these days. So far as I could learn, whatever radicalism or Bolshevism there is in Rumania is not likely in any way to disrupt the kingdom.

But the Rumanians are taking no chances so far as their soldiers are concerned. They appear to believe, just now, that a country's strength is the strength and loyalty of her fighting men. The soldiers have no liberty whatever outside of their barracks area. When they come for recreation to the American Y. M. C. A. huts, they are marched to the American games which they love, especially because of the human and comradely attitude of the American instructors; they are marched after that to the cinema; then to an hour in the reading and writing room. The American Y. M. C. A. officials have insisted that the soldiers are to have full liberty within the Y. M. C. A. huts. If a man wants to drink a cup of tea instead of going to the cinema, he is to take his choice. Their idea is that these Y. M. C. A. recreational huts are for recreation, to make the men forget their militarization, and play for a bit.

It was while visiting a Y. M. C. A. hut in a military barracks that I had the opportunity of seeing how strictly disciplined the Rumanian troops are. They are drilled constantly and given detail duty so as to keep them fit. A large number of them were sent off to work on the land during the late Summer and Autumn. Their officers hold them up strictly to a daily standard of efficiency. Their food is soup twice a day, with meat in it every day except Wednesday and Friday; bread, and perhaps a dish of prunes, and coffee. On this fare they do their barracks duty. When they are in the front line, they are given "cornwillie" and sometimes other meat. The attitude of the officer toward the private has softened a good deal of late months. This may be in part because, since the Bessarabian soldiers are given especially good treatment, it is considered necessary to give equal treatment to the Rumanians. Not so long since in Constanza, by a military order, the officers and privates of certain regiments ate together in the same mess hall. But I am told that the officers had one sort of food and the privates another; so I do not know how effective the flutter in democracy was.

It was in this same Y. M. C. A. hut in Bucharest that I had my first sight of the Bessarabian troops, fine, soldierly men. Like all the other Rumanian troops, they wore uniforms of all colors—German, French, khaki; I even saw some fawn-colored garments that reminded me of the Bolshevist uniforms I had seen in Baku. But it appeared to me that the Bessarabians were less weary, less in a rut than the Rumanian soldiers proper. They have, of course, not been so long in service. They entered into the Y. M. C. A. activities with a little more activity than the older Rumanian soldiers. The Rumanian Government is doing all it can to put these Bessarabians on brotherly terms with the Rumanians. From time to time they are marched to see this and that sight in Bucharest. It is intended that they shall give a good account to their friends in Bessarabia when they go back. It was rather fun to watch them in a tug-of-war with their Rumanian brothers. Their officers told me they were contented with their lot.

One of these officers is a Russian who had got away from the Bolsheviki just in time.

"All these Bessarabian troops are loyal to Rumania," he said. "I suppose, like any soldiers nowadays, they would rather go home than fight or stand ready to fight. But even those who are not keen on any country, who are all for themselves, know that if they were a part of Russia they would be doing some pretty hard fighting and suffering from privations that they do not have with Rumania. Personally I should not be afraid to let my men go up as border troops. I know they would never fraternize with the Bolsheviki or embrace Bolshevism. Naturally, the Rumanian Government puts soldiers on the frontier who are old experienced fighters and firm believers in the right Rumania has to the northern territory.

"Since you are an American," continued this officer, "I wish you would thank the United States for the great good the Y. M. C. A. has done to the Rumanian troops and, indeed, to the whole country. Over and over again Rumanian high officers have spoken of the way the morale of the troops has improved since the Y. M. C. A. has provided them with games, and newspapers, and cheap hot tea, and a warm place to stay, and moving pictures to look at, and concerts to listen to. They are good soldiers and deserve the recreation, but Rumania was not able to provide it."

"But, more than that, the Y. M. C. A. is doing a work that is going to build for the future of Rumanian athletic education—civilians as well as soldiers. The head of the Y. M. C. A. athletic work, in conjunction with Colonel Badelescu, head of the physical and moral education of the army, has put a bill through Parliament setting up a national program of athletic education. The army had already a definite program of physical education, but this bill adds to the program, including the mass games that the American soldiers like so thoroughly. The new recruits, as perhaps you know, are being trained in the new scheme. The Y. M. C. A. has organized athletic schools to train the officers, who will go back to their regiments and train the men according to the Y. M. C. A. American program. The Y. M. C. A. is also supplying the athletic equipment to the regiments. But this bill also provides for education in schools and colleges and other educational institutions and in clubs.

"All this is going to help Rumania greatly. Like the Rumanian officers, I feel very grateful to the American Y. M. C. A., which is helping another country in time of need. The Y. W. C. A. is also helping the young women. Like other countries, we have our problems here, and it is warming to the heart to have American friends like these young men and women."

The day after I met this officer I had an interview with the Minister of War, General Roscano, who praised highly the work that the American Y. M. C. A. is doing in helping the morale of the Rumanian soldiers. Wherever I went in foreign lands where the Y. M. C. A. was operating I heard it heartily praised, but nowhere more enthusiastically than in Rumania, where the lives of the soldiers, due to this barrack sequestration, would be pretty dull if it were not for the American-supplied relaxation.

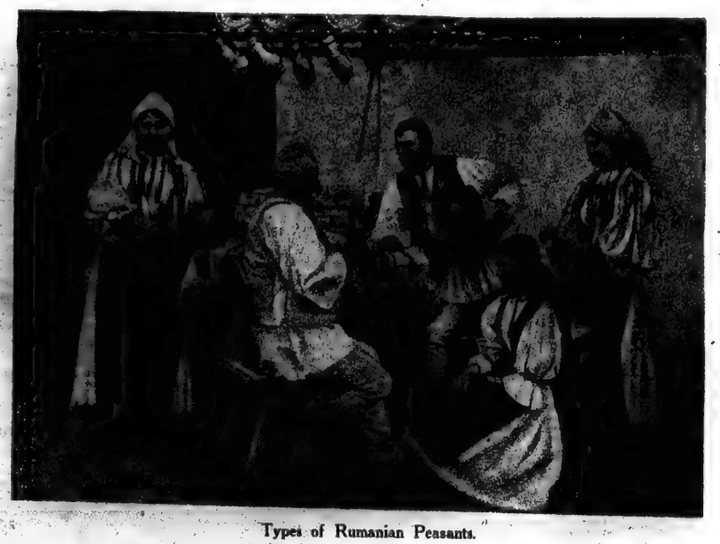
General Roscano went on to say that he thought his soldiers were the finest in the world, simple, honest, faithful, not highly intelligent always, but to be relied on in any emergency. He smiled at any reference to the danger of Bolshevism.

"Rumania has her troubles," he said, "and her dangers, but Bolshevism is no real danger here, either internally or from the outside. Nor do I expect it to become a danger."

I found that there had been a good deal of propaganda sown among the Rumanians as to their rights in the Bassarabian territory. People had been told how the Russians, in order to justify their dream of conquering Constantinople, and unifying the Slavs in one empire, decreed, by means of a ukase, that the Rumanians were Slavs! As the Rumanians are very proud of their descent from Latin colonists of the first century, they have not set much store by this ukase. Many of the least educated of the Rumanians, who could not tell you anything of the general history or geography of their country, know that Bessarabia is bounded on the east by the Dniester, on the west by the Pruth, and on the south by the Black Sea. They know that this horn-shaped territory has been called "the Cornucopia," not only on account of its shape, but on account of its riches.

Fortified by carefully distributed information, the people of Rumania will tell you that Bessarabia was a part of Moldavia up to 1812, when the Turks, acting contrary to all treaties and agreements, gave it over to the Russians as the result of an unhappy war. They will tell you that the little River Pruth, so small in Summer that it can be waded across, has been a barrier between

(Continued on Page 13)



Types of Rumanian Peasants.

Rumanian Children at One of the American Red Cross Relief Stations in Bucharest.

Times Wide World Photos.

Books and Authors

SIR PHILIP GIBBS has just assumed the editorship of the English Review of Reviews, the magazine established by the late W. T. Stead. The first number issued under his direction appeared yesterday. It contained articles by Lord Robert Cecil, G. K. Chesterton, Professor Gilbert Murray, Admiral Kerr, John Masefield and H. G. Wells. Sir Philip states that he will not change the general character of the Review, but will endeavor to conduct it on even broader and more liberal lines than it has hitherto followed.

Gordon Craig, the "insurgent" producer, is going to visit America this year as the guest of George Jean Nathan. In Mr. Nathan's "The Theatre, the Drama, the Girls," just published by Alfred A. Knopf, there is a chapter on the movies headed "The Deaf and Dumb Menace," in which the well-known critic of things theatrical makes some remarks which are said to have caused considerable trepidation in the ranks of the film magnates.

John Drinkwater is returning to America for another visit. He has engaged his passage on a vessel which sails the 19th of this month. Since his return to England Mr. Drinkwater has completed two plays, one about Mary Queen of Scots and the other about Oliver Cromwell. Commenting on these plays in a letter written from London St. John Ervine recently said: "It would not astonish me to find that both these plays are produced in America before they are produced in England."

The extent to which the English language is being read throughout the world is indicated by the statement made by the Houghton Mifflin Company, in that firm's answer to a questionnaire sent it by the State Department of Labor and Industry, to the effect that it was exporting books to more than twenty foreign countries.

Gilbert K. Chesterton is scheduled to deliver his initial lecture in this country at the Times Square Theatre this evening. His subject will be "The Ignorance of the Educated." This will be followed by "Shall We Abolish the Inevitable?" and "The Perils of Health," on Jan. 21 and 23 respectively. After filling his New York engagements, Mr. Chesterton will visit the principal cities of the United States and Canada.

Louise Closser Hale, author of "An American's London," a sympathetic picture of the English metropolis in wartime, recently published by Harper & Brothers, is playing the part of Mrs. Bett in the dramatization of Zona Gale's novel, "Miss Lulu Bett."

Walt Whitman's fame among the French will doubtless be further increased by a course on his personality and works being offered at the current session of the Sorbonne by Professor Charles Cestre, the distinguished critic, who was the first graduate student of the University of Paris to continue his studies in an American university. One of the theses for the doctor's degree which is now being prepared at the University of Paris, and which will later appear in book form, is "War and the Struggle for Life in Whitman's Poetry."

A dramatization of Alice Duer Miller's novel, "The Charm School" (Harper & Brothers), which ran for some months in New York, opened a week or so ago at the Comedy Theatre in London.

The Print-Collector's Quarterly, which flourished in this country for seven years under the editorship of Fitzroy Carrington, of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, but was obliged to suspend publication in 1917 on account of the war, is to be revived, with London as its new head quarters. Mr. Campbell Dodgson, the Keeper of Prints and Drawings at the British Museum, is to be the new editor, with Mr. Carrington continuing as American editor. J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd., are the publishers of the magazine.

Each guest at a dinner recently given to George Ade by the Lotos Club of this city received a portfolio containing a handsome portrait of the author of "Fables in Slang," decorated around its borders with an arabesque of scenes from Mr. Ade's works.

Eugene Field's volume of verse and prose, "Culture's Garland," was published while the author was running his column, "Sharps and Flats," in a Chicago newspaper. That the volume did not pay the author well for his work is shown by the fact that in 1891 Field took two friends to luncheon, and when the modest check for the meal was handed him, remarked, "What a coincidence! I had payment today on last year's sale of 'Culture's Garland,' and to a cent the amount was the same as that of this check."

According to the scenario reader of one of the large photoplay corporations, manuscripts purporting to have been written by the ouija board are submitted to him in great numbers. One of the most remarkable instances of such spiritualistic activity occurred when Washington Irving Bishop, the psychic barber in Wisconsin as a medium to transmit O. Henry's "Gift of the Magi" for immediate production. Omar Khayyam submitted one scenario through the planchette and Shakespeare submitted two.

Collectors of Joseph Conrad first editions have recently discovered that there were two "first editions" of "Chance," one of them real and the other a "fake." In investigating the origin of these two editions, the editor of The Bookman's Journal and Print Collector ran across an interesting story: "Chance" was published by Methuen, presumably in 1914, yet some copies of a 1913 edition by the same firm exist. A representative of the house of Methuen stated that the issue of the first edition, so far as his firm is concerned, is 1914. The book was set up in 1913, but through some delay was not printed until early in 1914, when a new title page, with the changed date, was used. Those issued with the date 1913 were put out through error. The official file copy, preserved by the publisher for reference purposes, bears the earlier date. So does the British Museum copy. The enterprising perpetrator of the fraud, knowing of the few copies issued with the 1913 title page, had this page made in facsimile and inserted in copies of the 1914 issue. To further strengthen the deception, he had a duplicate of the publisher's review stamp made and stamped on the spurious first issues. It is credibly stated that there are about fifty bona fide copies of this issue in existence, but of the "faked" issue the number is believed to be greater.

G. P. Putnam's Sons will publish this month a series of critical studies of noteworthy Englishmen, which has already been issued in London under the title of "Mirrors of Downing Street," by "A Gentleman with a Duster." Let's have your guess as to the author: A. G. Gardiner? The irrepressible Mr. Wells? Gilbert K. Chesterton? Who?

In the Dec. 19 issue of THE NEW YORK TIMES BOOK REVIEW AND MAGAZINE the price of Stephen Leacock's "Winsome Winnie and Other New Nonsense Novels," published by the John Lane Company, was given as $1.50. This figure was taken from the Lane catalogue, which was printed before the book itself came from the press. A letter from the publishers states that the price of the book is $1.75, and explains that the price given in the catalogue was premature.

The latest news bulletin of the Italy America Society, which has its headquarters at 23 West Forty-third Street, contains a bibliography of one hundred worth-while books on all phases of Italian history, achievement and culture. A still more extensive bibliography will be issued later, and a special Dante bibliography will be issued in connection with the Dante commemoration this year. At a dinner of the British-Italian League, held recently in London, Sir Rennell Rod, formerly British Ambassador in Rome, announced that Arthur Serena, who had endowed the Italian professorships at Oxford, Cambridge, Manchester and Birmingham, with a view to making Italian literature better known in Great Britain, was devoting 1,000,000 lire to the founding of similar professorships in Italy for the study of English literature.

The old theatrical superstition about the box office receipts being reduced if a play is issued in book form while still being played on the boards is more or less upset by the prosperous tour now being enjoyed by "The Famous Mrs. Fair." George H. Doran has published James Forbes's play in book form, with an introduction by Walter Prichard Eaton, and reports that the sales of the book have been exceptionally large in the cities in which the play is being acted. The same publisher has also brought out Mr. Forbes's "The Chorus Lady" and "The Show Shop" in book form.

Einstein is learning the English language in anticipation of delivering lectures here this Spring.

D. Appleton & Co. will this week issue General von Bernhardi's "The War of the Future," a detailed and comprehensive exposition of tactics in modern warfare, written "in the light of the lessons of the recent World War."

Gilbert Cannan is roaming without any fixed itinerary from port to port, "for to see, for to admire and for to be old this world so wide." He is writing a series of "Letters from a Distance," for The Freeman, in which he sets down his impressions of the places he is visiting. Two of the first letters are from Paris and one from Port Said, "that bit of the East and bit of the West, bit of the worst and bit of the best, at the end of the world's end." The last word from Mr. Cannan stated that he was en route for Bombay.

Under the list of "Latest Books" printed in these columns on Jan. 2 James Harvey Robinson's name was given as the author of "The Battle of the Books," published by B. W. Huebsch. Mr. Robinson wrote an introduction to the volume, which is the work of Anne Elizabeth Burlingame.

Houghton Mifflin Company announces the publication this Spring of "Legends: Tales of People," a collection of poems by Miss Amy Lowell. The same firm published Miss Lowell's first book of poems, "A Dome of Many-Colored Glass," in 1912. It has now taken over the publication of the six volumes of poetry and criticism written by the same author since then.

James Norman Hall, author of "Lafayette Flying Corps," which is published by the Houghton Mifflin Company, is taking a lengthy vacation in the South Sea Islands.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

When Brann Discovered the Shame of the World

Society was shocked at his merciless exposures. The guilty, branded with their infamy, hung their heads in dishonor. They cried out to stop him—they invoked the powers of earth to silence him. Alone he defied the world. Was he master of the passions of men that he could cause with hatred and hypnotize with love? What was this strange magic that held hundreds of thousands spellbound? Why did one man give his own life to take the life of Brann, the Iconoclast?

He Attacked Every Fake and Fraud

He tore off the sham draperies of Virtue—snatched away the purple cloak of Hypocrisy—threw aside the mock mantle of Modesty—laid bare the blinding nakedness of Truth. With the fury of an avenging angel he hurled himself upon every fake and fraud of Christendom. With a boldness that outraged convention he struck terror to the hearts of the timid, blasted the lives of the guilty, revealed the shame of the great and mighty, the rich, the titled, the powerful.

Brann, the Iconoclast

The World Blushed For Shame

No influence was strong enough to encompass Brann's downfall. For he wielded the power of words. He wove a pattern of words, and it breathed with life, shone with beauty, scintillated with satire. At his touch cold type kindled into fire, glowed with the red heat of wrath, blinded with the white flare of passion. With the genius of his pen he ruled the emotions of men, played upon the heartstrings of humanity. Under his inspiration his pen became an instrument of destruction that wrought the crashing havoc of a cyclone—again it became as a scourge of scorpions that flayed to the raw—or again it was a gleaming rapier that pierced swiftly, cleanly fatally. He made the world blush for shame.

3 Wonderful Volumes Brann, the Iconoclast

Whatever your creed, your politics, your station in life, you MUST know Brann, the Iconoclast. Read what he has written. Let him take your mind out of the rut, put new vigor into your thinking and jostle your brain out of the commonplace. Feel the spell of his wonderful mind—learn his wizardry of words—study his mastery of language. You may be shocked—probably you will be startled—but as you read you will be made to THINK—your mind will come out of its lethargy and you will learn to express YOUR thoughts in speech and writing.

The most remarkable of Brann's writings have been collected and published in three volumes by his friends. Over 107,000 people already claim Brann a big asset to their life and library. 448 sets of 3 volumes are all that now remain.

SEND NO MONEY

Do not send a penny now. Just mail the coupon, or a letter or postal card with the 3 volumes containing over 1,500 pages in all, will be sent at once. Simply pay the postman $4.98, plus postage, when you receive the books. If not entirely satisfied, return the books and every penny you paid will be refunded at once. Brann was an image smasher. He fought and died for righteousness, religion and truth. He was as daring, as outspoken as he was brilliant. Read what fearless leaders of thought have to say about Brann. Send for another Brann to-day, to attack and be attacked, to be reviled, to be praised, to be condemned, corruption, vice, hypocrisy to be exposed, to be hated and feared by fakers and frauds. Brann will bring a new, startling literature into your life. Mail the coupon now. Don't delay. Do it before you turn another page. Do it before the letter now within the reach of your hand is lost. Do it before the letter now within the reach of your hand is lost.

THE STARR PUBLISHERS, INC.
Dept. 505
120 East 25th Street
New York.

Please send me the three volumes of Brann, the Iconoclast. I will pay the postman $4.98, plus postage, on arrival. It is understood that I may return the books and you will refund my money if I am not more than pleased after five days reading.

Name .....
Address .....
Occupation .....
References .....

JENNY ESSENDEN

A romance of the other woman
by
ANTHONY PRYDE

A brilliant new novel of today by the author of "Marqueray's Duel." (Now in its 4th printing.)

All Bookstores. $2 net.

Robert M. McBride & Co., Publishers, New York

Democracy and the Human Equation

By ALLEYNE IRELAND To be published Jan. 16

A study of representative government as created by human beings; administered by and for human beings; dependent for quality and permanency on the human elements which are its body.

We sincerely believe that if American voters assimilate the ideas in this book political efficiency and the standard of national life will be measurably improved. In this faith it is issued.

Your bookseller will procure it for you on publication.

E. P. DUTTON & COMPANY, 681 5th Ave., New York

With Modern Argonauts

(Continued from Page 27)

the Litchfield hills whence he came, but away from which he had never ventured twenty miles until he joined the gold rush. The companionship of his educated "Pard" was probably as big a factor as the free life itself in bringing Jackson out of his chrysalis. But we must not overlook the evidence of the latter part of the diary. It becomes a love romance, pure and simple, telling poetically and with poignant directness of the currents that brought together this hard-headed Yankee and a Frenchwoman whom he first saw dealing twenty-one in a mining town. From his first meeting with her the prosaic facts of his existence are given with less and less detail in his diary. Idyllic passages are more frequent. He sees everything with the eyes of a poet. He begins to note all beautiful things, whether they be of the outer or of the spiritual world. It is in his pictures of his life with Anderson that the awakening of his soul shows itself in most idyllic form. The sheer simplicity and sincerity of his entries give the diary a new literary quality, despite the occasional crudenesses of his language. One quotation must suffice as an illustration:

> Pard and I sat out under the old pine tonight for the last time—we will be busy tomorrow getting our traps into town—and neither one of us was in the best of spirits, although as far as we can see there is nothing but happiness ahead of us. The moonbeams shimmered down through the pine needles, the frogs croaked in the creek, a coyote barked up on the hill, the echo of the hoot of an owl drifted up from the trail. We have listened to the same sounds every night for years; but somehow this evening it seemed as if they were all saying "Good-by."

And so we reluctantly leave them with their pipes aglow, with the hope that the reader of this review will want to make their more intimate acquaintance for himself. Just one more remark before setting down "The Diary of a Forty-niner." Its fine large print makes the reading of the book an effortless pleasure.

The extremely intimate tone of Jackson's diary, which leaves the reader with the feeling that he has listened to the most romantic chapters from a man's ungarnished story of his life does not pervade "The Glamour of Prospecting" as it does the unique book which Mr. Canfield has so ably edited. Lieutenant Cornell's pages by no means lack the warmth of human interest; they are simply less personal than the other unusually confidential record. The impression of the book is rather more like that of a chatty volume of travel reminiscences. The author has a keen sense of humor and an equally marked facility in description. And his experiences furnish him ample opportunity to give full play to both of these powers.

Lieutenant Cornell probably endured greater hardships and faced more menacing dangers than the author of the diary. He trekked thousands of miles over incandescent sands, weathered howling sand storms at the fag ends of creation and survived incredibly dangerous encounters with leopards, baboons, scorpions, puff adders and other creatures that threatened his life. Hardly ever during his prospecting trips was he out of danger from death by thirst. He makes so light of his perils that the reader's attention is likely to be diverted to his descriptions of the African Bushmen, the animals and birds of Gordonia and Namaqualand and of the country itself.

Probably the most impressive of the author's many striking scenic descriptions is that in which he pictures the Great Falls of the Orange River. The author asserts (P. 190) that these falls, which were discovered in 1824, are "higher than the Victoria Falls, and more than double the height of Niagara."

> Merging from a rift in the labyrinth of granite, we stood suddenly on the edge of a profound chasm, over the farther lip of which a few hundred yards upstream, the huge, muddy volume of the Orange was hurtling in one stupendous spout. The scene was absolutely terrifying, for the dark precipice, smooth as though chiseled, and dank and slippery with the incessant spray, fell sheer away from our very feet, and where it did not actually overhang, offered no foothold even for a baboon, whilst clouds of spray drove round us, and the solid rock trembled with the monstrous music of the fall. * * *
>
> Impressive they are, but the impression they leave is of terror rather than of pleasure, of awe rather than of beauty. * * * On all sides there is nothing but rivers shattered rock, sheer precipice and giant buttress, a nightmare of barrenness, of desolation so appalling that one might well be standing in some other planet, some dead world from which all sign of life had long since vanished.

The final chapter of Lieutenant Cornell's book tells of the violation by the Germans, at the outbreak of the war, of British territory. The author happened to be at Nakob, a garrison on the boundary between English and German territory. The German garrison at Nakob numbered some two hundred troops; the English numbered five. The anxiety of these five men while awaiting the relief that never came is graphically depicted by the author.

"The Glamour of Prospecting" is generously illustrated throughout with photographs. At the back of the book is a large map of the country written about in the text which proves of value to the reader unfamiliar with the geography of Africa who wishes to follow the narrative intelligently.

Book Talk From Paris

PARIS, Dec. 28.

KERENSKY, who is now living in Paris, is engaged on the writing of his memoirs. It is said that he intends to make a full revelation of all that happened in Russia in the course of the revolutionary movement that first threw him to the heights of power and then cast him down and out.

Amy Lowell's volume on "Recent Tendencies in American Poetry" has been translated into French and is soon to be brought out by a Paris publisher. French interest in the current poetical movement in America is very keen and there is much desire to know more about it.

Miss Florence Heywood, who has guided so many American students and visitors through the bewildering riches of the art treasures of Paris, is revising her work, "The Important Pictures of the Louvre," which has been out of print during the war years. The new edition will be published in the Spring, appearing simultaneously in Paris, London and New York.

Retail prices of books in France have leaped even higher than they have in the United States. In America the price of the average sized book has not quite doubled, but in Paris it has almost trebled. The ordinary price before the war of 3½ francs is now 10 francs.

President Wilson's five-volume "History of the United States" is being translated into French. The first volume of the translation has appeared and the others are to follow in due time.

New translations of some of Walt Whitman's poems have been made by a group of the younger French poets, including André Gide, Valery Larbaud, Louis Fabulet, Jules Lafforgue, Francis Vielé Griffin—who is an American by birth but French by adoption—Jean Schlumberger and Gustave Kahn. After appearing month by month in La Nouvelle Revue Française they have just been published in book form under the imprint of that periodical.

Margot Asquith's

Startling Autobiography

Daily in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle

Beginning January 16

Manpower

By LINCOLN C. ANDREWS

An invaluable book for those in whose hands the success of the Nation lies—the men who direct the work of others. It deals with efficiency—not of method, but of spirit. Every factory or department manager should read it.

$2.00. If not on sale in your bookstore, it can be had from

E. P. Dutton & Co., 681 5th Av., N. Y.

The Master Letter Writer

INCLUDING THE

500 Master Business Letters

BY AD-MAN DAVISON

Highest-Paid Letter Writer in the World

48-PAGE BOOKLET SENT FREE

Address Desk 114

Opportunity Press, 681 5th Av., N. Y.

Brentano's

NEW YORK

5th Ave at 27th St

Booksellers to the World

Mail-Telephone-Cable-Telegraph

ALL BOOKS IN ALL LANGUAGES

WILKE PIPES For Real Pipe Smokers

PURE MAPLE

NO BREAKING-IN SMELL LEAVES FROM THE FIRST PUFF A SECRET PROCESS OF CURING THE BRIAR ROOT THE WOOD PORES OPEN TO ABSORB THE MOISTURE NO PAINT—COLOR LINES FREE—SCRATCH—YES, AND REPAIR, TOO!

MAIL ORDERS GIVEN PROMPT ATTENTION

WILKE PIPE SHOP (FOR BRIAR) 297 BROADWAY (CORNER READE ST., N. Y.)

By Martin Andersen Nexo

DITTE GIRL ALIVE!

Author of "Pelle, the Conqueror," &c.

Price $2.00

HENRY HOLT & COMPANY

BOOKS BOUGHT

Entire Libraries or Single Volumes. Highest prices paid. Representative will call. Cash paid and books removed promptly.

Henry Malkan, Inc.

42 Broadway Phone Bread 3800

BOOKS BOUGHT

ESPECIALLY SETS.

HIGHEST PRICES!

HIMEBAUGH & BROWNE

471 FIFTH AVE. at 38th ST. NEW YORK

CLEARANCE SALE

FOR ONE WEEK ONLY

Of New and Old BOOKS on all subjects

Also Fine Sets

15% Reduction on all previous marked prices.

FRIEDMANS', 53 W. 47th St., N. Y.

BOOK EXCHANGE

Further rates a word. No advertisement accepted for less than cost of twelve words.

SCHULTE'S JANUARY PRE-INVENTORY Sale, 25% discount for cash. Prior to stock-taking February 1st we offer during entire month of January our entire stock WITHOUT RESERVATION AT SPECIAL DISCOUNT OF 20% FOR CASH FROM OUR ALREADY LOW MARKED PRICES. Schulte's bargain sales are bona fide. Money promptly refunded on unsatisfactory purchases. Following are with discount already deducted. French Classical Romances, 20 vols., $12. International Library of Famous Literature, 20 vols., half morocco, $20. Universal Classics, 20 vols., ½ morocco, $30. Historians' History of World, original and best edition, 25 vols., ½ morocco, $10. Murray's History of Rome, large paper illustrated library edition, over 3,000 engravings, 16 vols., ½ morocco, $16. Stoddard's Lectures, 15 vols., ¾ morocco, $20. Maupassant, 17 vols., $10. Ibsen, 11 vols., $12. Alexander Hamilton Institute Modern Business, latest edition, 24 flexible vols., $44. Popular Science Library, 15 vols., $8. Darwin, 15 vols., ½ morocco, $16. Macaulay's Complete Works, Essays, Biographies, Histories, $24; limited edition, 12 vols., ½ morocco, $30. Luther Burbank's Complete Works, 12 vols., latest edition, $31.20. Bancroft's History United States, 9 vols., $6. George Sand's Novels, 20 vols., $24. Champlin-Perkins Cyclopedia Painters and Paintings, over 2,000 illustrations, 4 vols., $8.80. Poe, limited edition, 17 vols., ½ morocco, $38. Smollet, 12 vols., ½ morocco, $14.40. Charles Reade, 13 vols., ½ morocco, $22. Muhlbach, large paper limited edition, 20 vols., $32. Great Events by Famous Historians, limited edition, full embossed leather, 20 vols., $32. Numerous other bargains. New catalogue mailed. Schulte's Bookstore (House of Many Thousand Book Bargains), 80 & 82 Fourth Ave. (near 10th).

BOOKS SEARCHED FOR AND FOUND.—If you want some particular book very badly, for which you have searched and searched in vain, let us find it for you. No charges of any kind for our services. H. S. Nichols, Inc., Booksellers, The English Bookshops, 338 Fifth Avenue and 17 East 33d Street, New York City. (Established 1886).

I SPECIALIZE IN BINDING UP BACK volumes of the National Geographic Magazine. Full library buckram, $1.50; in ½ morocco, $2. Prospects on application. Missing numbers supplied, also complete back volumes. H. Kaufman, Library Bookbinder, 306 East 59th St., N. Y. C. Phone Plaza 5798.

ORIENTALIA — EVERYTHING ASIAN, including books on Ceramics, Painting, Sculpture, Oriental Rugs, Handicrafts, Folklore, Philosophy, Religion, Languages, Travel, etc. Also Prints and Manuscripts. Write us of your wants Orientalia, 22 East 60th St., New York.

SPOT CASH PAID FOR SINGLE BOOKS and complete libraries; will call anywhere; immediate removal. Stammer's Bookstore, 61 4th Ave. (opposite Wanamaker's), New York. Phone Stuyvesant 2448.

HIGHEST PRICES PAID FOR LARGE or small collections of books of every conceivable subject. Will call everywhere; spot cash and prompt removal. City Book Shop, 102 E. 13th St. Stuyvesant 4318.

HIGHEST PRICES PAID FOR LAW LIbraries, rare books, sets, statutes of all States, Christian Science literature. Send list. Central Book Co. 93 Nassau St., New York.

FULL VALUE PAID FOR LARGE OR small collections of sets of misc. books. Estimates cheerfully furnished. Madison Book Store, 61 E. 59th St., N. Y. Tel. Plaza 7391.

AUTOGRAPH LETTERS OF CELEbrated people bought and sold. Patrick F. Madigan, 8 West 47th St., N. Y. "The Autograph Bulletin" mailed free. Phone 0193 Bryant.

FOR OUT-OF-PRINT BOOKS AND SPEcial Subjects, phone, call or write; Stammer's Bookstore, 61 4th Ave. (opposite Wanamaker's), New York. Phone Stuyvesant 2448.

PRIVATE SALE. 601 WEST 156TH ST., Apt. 67. Tel. 3230 Audubon. Memoirs, Biography, Letters. Travel and Adventure. General Literature. Catalogues on request; specify subject. John Gallotti.

AUTOGRAPH LETTERS OF FAMOUS People Bought and Sold. W. R. Benjamin, 1476 Broadway, N. Y., Pub. "The Collector." 41 year. Sample free.

OLD LAW BOOKS WANTED—BUSIness established twenty years. Send list or brief description. C. S. Hook, Weymouth Apts., Atlantic City, N. J.

FOR THE BOOK LOVER—RARE BOOKS, first editions. Books now out of print. Latest catalogue sent on request. C. Gerhardt, 25 West 42d St., New York.

FINE LIBRARY OF IRISH BOOKS Just received. Davis' Bookstore, 36 Vesey Street.

WILL PURCHASE FINE SETS AND rare books. Guy Stonestreet, 507 5th Av., N. Y.

BOOKS AND AUTOGRAPHS—CATAlogues free. R. Atkinson, 183 Peckham Rye, London, S. E. 22, England.

OUT-OF-PRINT BOOKS FURNISHED. Catalogues issued. E. R. Robinson, 410 River St., Troy, N. Y.

DAVIS BARGAINS: LORD BEACON Lights of History, 15 vols. half morocco, $30.00 Thackeray, 22 vols. Smith & Elder, $25.00; O. Henry, 12 vols. half morocco, $16.80. Poe, 10 vols., $8.00 Mrs. Jamieson, 10 vols., half calf, $11.00; Sterne 6 vols., half morocco, $11.00; De Quincy, 22 vols., $8.00; Dickens, 30 vols., limited edition, $7.50. Strickland's Queens of England, 5 vols., half calf, $7.50. Every Man's Encyclopedia, 12 vols., half morocco, $10.00; Smollett, 6 vols., half morocco, $12.00; George Eliot, 21 vols. Edinb. Edition, $20.00; Lover, 6 vols., half morocco, $12.00; 20th Century History of the United States, by Ellis, 8 vols., half morocco, $8.00; Alexander Hamilton Modern Business, 24 vols., flexible morocco, $40.00; Burton's Arabian Nights, Unabridged, 17 vols., $32.50; Balzac, 32 vols., Barrie's Edition, $27.50; Bulwer-Lytton, 31 vols., limited Knebsworth edition, $27.50; Knight's Gallery of Steel Portraits, 7 vols., half morocco, $8.00; Shakespeare, 3 vols., half sheep, $2.00. Catalogue ready. Davis' Bookstore, 36 Vesey, near Church.

THIDS & EROS, INC., A CORPORAtion dealing in old and rare books, autographs, &c., are the largest buyers and distributors of old books in this country. We are in the market to buy for spot cash books in large or small quantities and entire private libraries. We especially want limited sets, de luxe editions and late encyclopedias. Autographs also bought. The advantages accrued to the seller of books in dealing with a large concern are obvious. Thids & Eros, Inc., 34 Barclay St., New York. Tel. 9062 Cortlandt.

G. E. STECHERT & CO., 151 W. 25TH St. Agents for Universities, Colleges, Public Libraries. Just received several hundred English novels of last century; first editions in three volumes. Catalogues in preparation: No. 38, valuable books on miscellaneous subjects, 39, Political Science; 40, sets of periodicals; 41, Natural Sciences. Stock of over 200,000 volumes, periodicals and books, new, second hand, foreign, domestic. Libraries bought.

BOOKS BOUGHT—WE BUY ALL KINDS of books. Highest prices paid for private libraries or any small collections of books. Estimates given. Calls made anywhere. Prompt removals. For information, write, call or phone Bargain Book Store, 80 4th Av., near 11th St. Stuyvesant 4318.

CHOICE, SCARCE AND UNUSUAL books greatly reduced prices. Just received an importation of finely bound books from England, including Cruikshankiana and Dickensiana. Catalogue sent free on request. Harry E. Marks, 116 Nassau St., New York City.

LIBRARIES PURCHASED—ABSOLUTEly Highest Prices paid for small collections and complete libraries. Specially wanted: Art Works, Opera Scores, Scientific Works, Jewish, New International and Catholic Encyclopedias. Davis' Bookstore, 36 Vesey, Cortlandt 4804.

LIBRARIES BOUGHT FOR CASH—Highest prices for large and small collections. Will call anywhere and remove promptly. Schwab & Bee, 22 Union Square, Room 1111-1112. Telephone Stuyvesant 4849.

FIRST EDITIONS, CHOICE SETS, FINE bindings, and numerous curious items of interest. Send for catalogues or come in "A Shop You Will Like to Visit." The Aldus Book Shop, 50 Lexington Ave., N. Y. C.

FRIEDMANS' SPECIAL OFFER: SPEcial for one week only. All books are reduced 15% from our previous prices. Books bought in any quantity. Friedmans', 53 West 47th St., New York.

CALENDARS, ILLUSTRATED BY DUlac. Different designs. Limited number, $1.00 each. Drama Catalogue just issued. Gotham Book Mart, 128 West 45th St. Bryant 6062.

ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA, Cambridge size, wanted. Write price and description. Frank C. Brown, Durham, N. C.

BOOKS ON PEDIGREES, GENEALOGY and heraldry. Every Anglo-Saxon and Celtic name. Chas. A. O'Connor, 21 Spruce St., New York.

GERMAN BOOKS—LARGE, WELL-SElected stock. Beyer's Bookshop, 207 Fulton St., opposite Terminal, upstairs

YOUNG'S BOOK EXCHANGE, THE Mecca of Negro History and Literature. George Young, 135 W. 135th St., New York.

NEW BARGAIN CATALOGUE READY. Send upon request. Charles W. Clark Co., 123 West 23rd Street.

BACK NUMBERS OF MAGAZINES TO be had at Abrahams Bookstore, 145 4th Av.

WANTED: COSTUME AND ART BOOKS. Conder's Bookstore, 31 West 15th St.

STIKEMAN & CO. BOOKBINDERS, Established 1887. Fine bindings of every description; restoring, inlays, solander and other cases for rare books, MSS., &c. 114 West 32nd St.

COIN COLLECTIONS BOUGHT AND sold. Elder Co., 21 West 35th St., New York.

BOOKS BOUGHT

Small Collections and Complete Libraries. Liberal Prices Paid. Calls made anywhere. Specially Wanted: New International Encyclopedias, Sets of Twain, Kipling, Stevenson, Jewish Encyclopedias and Art Works.

DAVIS' BOOKSTORE

36 Vesey St. Cortlandt 4804

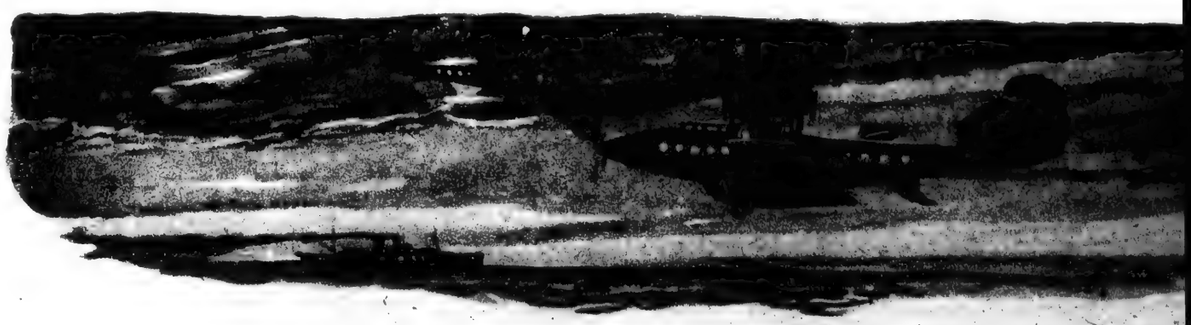
AN OUTSTANDING NOVEL among the books of the past year.

LEE WILSON DODD'S

Book of Susan

Should be on your list of books for early enjoyment. $2.00. If not in your local bookstore, this book can be had from

E. P. Dutton & Co., 681 5th Av., N. Y.



Twenty Months of Commercial Aeronautics

By EARL N. FINDLEY,
Late Captain Air Service, U. S. A.

AERONAUTICAL delirium tremens, a war and post-war aberration, is passing. Aircraft is now a bona fide, if still infant, agency for the extension of transportation and communication in time of peace, supplementing railroads, ships and motor vehicles. On the mere basis of common sense, civil or commercial aeronautics in a country having the continental extent of the United States should predominate over military aeronautics as 100 to 1. One year ago the exact reverse was true. Today the ratio is about 50-50. To make it 100 to 1 the Banker, with a capital B, must participate. Will he? Undoubtedly he must in time. But he naturally looks for facts as the solid basis of his investment. He should be told the difficulties to be overcome. Bankers are the true romanticists, but they are not romancers.

When a person or corporation approaches a banker for capital to engage in commercial aeronautics he or it must be fortified with data on every phase of the art and industry. The financier may, properly enough, want to know, for instance, how many private airplanes are already and actually carrying passengers about in this country on business or upon joy rides for hire? Have they made any money? And how many of these passengers and joy riders have been killed since the war?

Again, he may ask: What are the actual figures relating to our air mail service? How many persons are employed, especially pilots? How many machines are used, how many miles have they flown, what are the routes and how much mail has been carried? How many machines are employed in forest fire patrol? In surveying by aerial photography? What other activities of a similar sort are adapted to the uses of aircraft, and how many airplanes and blimps are practical or paying in service? Are new machines being built, and how many? What is the capacity of these new types? What are the peculiarities of their design? And lastly, Are any passenger routes in this country doing a regular business on schedule, in the fashion followed by the Paris-London air express? If so, what equipment are they using, how much business are they doing, and are they making any money?

There is no constituted authority in this country having legal cognisance of commercial aeronautics. The thing is of a wild nature, as it were, in the eye of the law. No bureau or organization has collected data in a form to make it possible to copy from well-tabulated records the replies to these perfectly proper inquiries. However, the writer has combed the country during the last several weeks for information to meet some of them, and in the process of collecting those particular facts and figures other material has been found. Taken altogether, they give a fair idea of the present status of commercial aeronautics. Many different sources were consulted, and it is believed that the data here given are as accurate as it is possible to obtain at this writing, in view of the absence of a statistical clearing house. The facts concerning the Air Mail Service are, of course, taken from the records of the Post Office Department at Washington.

It may be well to enumerate the activities to which aircraft have been adapted in this country, because in that way can be shown at a glance the range of usefulness and the versatility of operation of commercial aircraft in general. It should be remembered that in the first six months following the war, the period of demobilization of military and naval forces in this country, we had no commercial aeronautics. So the period considered in this article embraces about twenty months.

During that time aircraft in the United States have been used for carrying express matter and freight, for commuting, for sightseeing, as aerial taxis, for surveying oilfields, for political campaigning, carrying payrolls, searching for fish, seals and cattle; for mail carrying, reconnoissance surveying, laying out highways, photographic mapping and ranching; for making motion pictures, giving exhibitions at fairs and expositions, surveying fires, surveying for reports on real estate; for reports on city property, triangulating Government lands, advertising, carrying samples of minerals; for emergency medical work, as aerial ambulances; for delivery of perishable goods, as boundary patrols; in carrying furs, silk and newspapers; for plantation inspection, life guard patrol along the coast, delivering mail at sea, bombing ice jams, searching for lost vessels, and enough more purposes to make this paragraph look like a catalogue of the industries of the United States.

Weather being one of the most important factors in aeronautics, with respect to operation, and the Government having no bureau, well organized or otherwise, to spread broadcast the particular meteorological information required for air navigation, activities in commercial aeronautics have developed along the lines of least resistance. Consequently, various sections of the country have employed aviation for commercial purposes in lines which the weather peculiarities of the vicinity would permit. Thus the Pacific Coast has developed passenger carrying on long-distance routes beyond any other section of the country, except the southeastern corner, where mail carrying and passenger carrying are going on between Florida and nearby States and the islands of the Caribbean Sea.

The Middle West has taken to commuting, express carrying and advertising. The great plains and the South as far as Texas have developed farm, wheat field and ranch patrols. The Eastern coast of the country, particularly New England, has been rather slow in using commercial aviation, because of the exceptional means of transportation otherwise provided, particularly automobiles on excellent roads. Flying throughout the country is limited more or less by the lack of landing fields, but stunt flying and sightseeing have been going on pretty much everywhere.

It must be understood that no reasonable advocate claims for aviation a position as competitor of the railroads. It is in reality supplementary thereto. Aviation is a more flexible agency for transportation than railroads. Trains can run only on tracks, while airplanes go anywhere they can find landing fields. The amount of money expended on one transcontinental system of railroads, including terminals, trackage and right-of-way costs, would build landing field in every town in the United States.

The aeronautical industry is handicapped at present by the use of planes primarily designed for military or naval purposes and merely adapted to commercial use. It is unfair to base profits on the carrying capacity of aircraft so designed. Nevertheless, inasmuch as but few aircraft designed specially for commercial use are in commission, the figures given in this article are based on the actual operating figures of the cost of service. The showing they make is modified by the type of aircraft in use, and as soon as the equipment now in use is replaced by that designed exclusively for commercial purposes, efficiency should be increased many fold and the profits augmented accordingly.

Considering, then, the many handicaps, it is rather astonishing to learn that there are ninety-two aircraft companies operating in the United States. This count does not include private ownership of planes by wealthy individuals, who are merely following a bent for flying gained, perhaps, during the war while they served in the Army or Navy air forces. Nearly twice as many concerns are engaged in manufacturing aircraft, the materials that go into such manufacture and accessories necessary for the machines, their pilots and passengers. All this represents an investment, exclusive of the Army and Navy air services and the Air Mail Service, which are governmental organizations, of a sum exceeding forty millions of dollars. From the best sources available it is estimated that not less than 300,000 passengers have been carried, and the total mileage made by commercial machines exceeds 14,000,000 for the twenty months. Exclusive of governmental activities, the number of deaths reported, including fourteen deaths of bystanders, is thirty-six. Most of these occurred in exhibition and stunt flying; twelve deaths only being directly due to faulty mechanism.

It will thus be seen that only ten deaths have resulted from legitimate commercial flying, covering 14,000,000 miles and 180,000 hours in the air, or one death for each 1,400,000 miles and 160,000 hours of flight. This record puts to shame that of automobile traffic, when in the City of Washington in the last fiscal year seventy persons have been killed outright by automobiles. In case of the ten persons killed in regularly scheduled traffic, it is claimed that weather conditions were responsible. This means that planes have been caught in storms and that had governmental agencies been available to furnish reliable information of the meteorological conditions ahead of the fliers, the loss of life might have been nothing at all. Nevertheless, the figure of thirty-six deaths stands. The number of planes in use in commercial aviation is approximately 2,200, with another 500 privately owned, these last being used occasionally by men who wish to keep in close touch with aeronautics as sport.

To the question whether any real money has been made in commercial aeronautics, it is almost impossible to give an answer which covers exact data of profits by all operators. Some of the companies have not been in business long enough to make a report. In the case of planes used for forest patrol, ranch work and similar activities, the profits are indirect. In these instances overhead charges have been reduced and work which ordinarily would have taken months to complete has been performed in a few days.

It is, however, a fact that companies engaged in freight and passenger traffic over established lines have made money. One company, operating in Washington, Idaho and Oregon, was so successful with its first equipment that the number of planes has been quadrupled on its lines, and it is planned to increase the number of its lines in the coming season. Isolated instances have been reported where manufacturers and business men, by hurried trips in aircraft, have saved or earned large sums of money.

For instance, a certain lumberman left Milwaukee one afternoon for Duluth, and by being present the next morning at a conference was able to close a contract which made him a profit of $250,000. He says it was because of the speed with which the airplane took him to Duluth that the profit went to him and not to a rival. Certain oil operators in Oklahoma and Texas have made similar statements, freely admitting that the high speed of aircraft has been a factor in their operations, resulting in the absorption of the first cost of the craft many times over, sometimes in a single transaction.

The Air Mail Service, with its complete data, furnishes a reliable index of costs as compared with railroad carrying. The figures of the Post Office Department put the annual cost of operating a 1,500-pound mail carrying airplane one daily round trip between New York and Chicago at $400,000; while the same service, using the railroad facilities between the same cities, costs $500,000 a year, a direct saving of $100,000 a year in favor of the airplane.

In considering the transportation of mails it should be understood that the Government does not contract with the railroads on the basis of a space mile rate. Thus a mail car 60 feet long costs the Government 33⅓ cents mile hauled, even if only a single letter is carried, and a 30-foot car costs 18½ cents a mile for each mile hauled over the rails. Moreover the law does not allow the Government to pay in excess of the above rates for aerial mail service, and had it not been possible to carry mail cheaper by air the Air Mail Service would never have be

The difference is that the are paid for the size of t gardless of the contents, planes always carry capa

Air routes can be estab maintained throughout th at a cost much less than for railroad routes. Autho that railroad systems c
$100,000 a mile, including and trackage, while the air route, with its term equipment, does not exce mile. It takes long perio to build railroads; the inst landing fields, supplies munications consumes a that valuable commodity.
Army Air Service made transcontinental air test year, involving large numb planes, the fields, supplies munications were ready i thirty days after the given.

Speed of installation an operation are in favor o planes. The Air Mail Se
the Washington-Philade
York route during the twel from May 15, 1918, to May gives as the overhead cost tion 28 cents an airplane operating cost 20 cents a mile, and the maintenan cents an airplane mile.
load carried during this p 160 pounds a mile, the being six-tenths of a cent mile.

During the first year of starting with May 15, 191 tal cost of operation was with a loss of planes amo
$4,061, the entire cost be
861. The revenue amo amounted to: Revenue, savings, $2,264; a total
064, leaving a surplus o
the total mileage flown b
255 and the amount car
021 pounds of first-c
The second year, en
May 15, 1920, the amounted to 408,064. A ing a consolidated mail operations of the Air Mail from July 1, 1919, to Jul shows the entire perfor
the service in sufficient indicate the reliability transportation when prop ployed. During the second y postal airplane mail cover mileage of 466,864, and tra 538,734 pounds of mail, an average percentage o
ance, including flights
under the most adverse co
87 per cent. for the entire
New York-Washington r ated daily with an efficie
90 per cent. Its success the extensions since mad ested in the authorizing gress of a daily reasonable service for 1920 across th from New York to San
This route went into oper
15, 1920.

The Winter of 1919-1
most severe for many ti
the air mail operated advancing the mail from the the time from twelve to six

(Continued on Page

Mary, by Any Other Name

"And she hit me many times with aforementioned piece of wood with two handles, and then she began to throw at poor me many things which can be found in a kitchen, and she called me many and bad names."

MAJOR ST. P. RUDINGER, Former Military Person, Retired.

This is one of a series of stories of Chinese life contributed from time to time by Major Rudinger to this paper.

KAO-A, tah lao-yah, tsao-a—many times ten thousand respectful greetings, O wise scholar of the Law! And may the Dragon of Prosperity descend on the gables of the house of the Wise One and abide there for a thousand years of uninterrupted happiness, and may he always remain to be the adviser and protector of the Weak and Unfortunate Ones!

Yes, Extremely enlightened scholar of the classics, small and insignificant me is in very great distress, indeed and full of sorrow and grief. * * * *

Yes, yes, the nature of woman is very evil indeed. And a woman's more poison in her heart than the green snake has in her mouth, as the great philosopher Sun. * * * Verily, verily, a woman has set my wronged insignificant me, a mere woman, and this is very ill indeed, for did I not try to her to recover the most wonderful and expensive belongings of hers that had been stolen by Chow Tse the thief and murderer and liar? Chow Tsu Chee, who, as I have been informed by absolutely reliable sources, is a descendant of long-tailed monkeys with the heads of fish. Chow Tsu Chee, who is a man who does evil deeds, who * * * The August Personage wishes to know why ugly and humble me is complaining and who is the person who caused all the distress?

Ah, ai yah—very badly has she treated me—me who tried to help her and who testified on her behalf against Chow the thief, and she has repaid my body with bruises and has thrown me out of her house and has dismissed me from her service and she has failed to pay to me the wages due to me for my work as 'number one' boi—ai yah, the Scholar of ten thousand heavenly virtues knows what has been said by Sun, the great philosopher of a thousand years ago, that woman has more poison in her heart than the green snake has. * * * Ai, ai yah, she is even worse than Chow Tsu Chee, the robber and thief, whose mother, as it is widely known, was * * *

The Exalted One says that he is very busy and that small me should hurry in telling his story, so that the powerful One can help more quickly? Hai, hai, well and good. The wisdom of Mercifulness surely has descended upon the Friend of Princes and he will help insignificant me to recover the wages due to me and more money for compensation for the bruises and all the other illtreatment? Then small me will proceed without further delay and will tell the story how the white woman has ill-treated him very seriously, because he tried to help her loyalty, as was his duty as her servant. Does the Exalted One know what says the classic: 'Be loyal to the person whose rice thou dost eat'?

And in spite of my loyalty the foreign woman has thrown me out of her house and has bruised my body by applying to my back a piece of wood, shaped like a column and with two handles at the ends so that it can be used for many and useful purposes in the kitchen, and she has refused to pay me my wages! Verily, verily, woman has more poison in her heart than * * *

Ai-yah! Why is the Tremendously Pompous One in such a very great hurry? Does he not know what says the classic: 'The t repose in the bosom of heaven, while hurry cometh from heaven, while hurry cometh from hell,' besides being very bad for the liver?

Poor and insignificant me was employed by Ma Lee shing-tse yutong yatse ihan as a house-boi; yes, exalted One, as a 'number one' servant, being in charge of everything in the house and responsible therefor.

"The Pride of Eastern and Western Universities says there is no foreign woman living in Shanghai who goes by the name of 'Mary-walks-like-a-Duck,' and he says that there is no such name in the foreign languages?

"Hai, hai, the Noble Foreign Literate has been so very busy studying important things, on which depend not only the welfare of this city but of ten thousand other countries and nations, that he has forgotten to remember that we Chinese must give foreigners special names in Chinese language, because their foreign names are very hard to remember and still more hard to pronounce. And, therefore, we give the foreigners special names, carefully selecting them according to their suitableness, thus enabling anybody to remember the looks of the foreign man or the woman to whom the name has been given. * * *

"Poor me was 'number one' boi in the house of * * * little me cannot remember the name but here is a card on which is printed the foreign name of 'Mary-who-walks-like-a-Duck' and which she uses when she goes to the houses of her friends to make visits of friendly spirit.

"Yes, August One, the name reads 'Frau Marie Friederike Kloessenfresser,' and she and her husband came from Teh-Guo, from Germany, and her husband is a merchant who has a hong in Kiang-Se Loo, the Kiangse Road, where he sells dyes to give beautiful colors to any garment and in any shade. And the dyes are made in Teh-Guo and they are wrapped in packages made of red paper, which is very auspicious, red being the color of Luck—and inside there is another piece of red paper on which is printed in Chinese language in addition to the 'chop'—the trade mark—an announcement saying that everybody who buys and uses these dyes will have ten thousand years of Luck and Prosperity, because the maker of the dyes in Teh-Guo had paid a very large amount of money to the chief of all the priests in Germany for sacrifices and prayers for Good Luck for all the people who buy these dyes. And he is selling very many of these dyes and making much money, for, everybody likes to buy goods which have been prepared under such auspicious conditions and which are wrapped into paper of the color of Good Luck.

"And the wife of this merchant hired small me for a 'number one' boi when she arrived at Shanghai. And one day she called me into her room and spake to me thus: 'Go thou and find thou a good man to wash my linen and one who does not destroy it. And do so quickly!'

"And small me went to see Liu Foo Piao, who is a native of Woo-Sieh, the same town small me had been born in. Liu Foo Piao is a laundryman who has a small house with a laundry kitchen in Wei-hai-Wei Loo, which is the street where all the laundrymen of Shanghai have their places of business, and after rendering friendly greetings spake to him thus: 'How much cumshaw—commission—will thou pay in addition to washing my laundry without receiving pay therefor, if I induce my foreign masters to let thee do their laundry work?'

"And Liu, who was working at a table, preparing laundry for the final ironing, emptied his mouth of the water which he keeps in it to squirt it on the linen, through his narrowed lips, for the purpose of moistening before the hot iron is applied, scratched his head and spake thus after having done some cogitation: 'I will give thee the fiftieth part of the money they will pay me for my work and I will wash thy own laundry without demanding money therefor.'

"Whereupon I called Liu a miser and a chief of robbers and extortioners, saying that one-fiftieth part of the money was but small pay and not sufficient, and that I would go and speak to many other laundrymen who were willing to give me more cumshaw. And after we had watched the sun for many hours and had made much oration, Liu agreed to pay to me a cumshaw of one-tenth of the money paid to him by the foreign people, my masters, and, besides, wash my own laundry free of charge.

"And after he had solemnly made the promise to abide by his word, I made him put on his i-fu, his long coat, which is worn on occasions of state, and we went into the street and, mounting a wom-pah-tsah, we told the coolie to pull us to the house of my masters, which is situated in the Kah Teh Loo, the Carter-Road. This after Liu had agreed to pay the fare. And we arrived there very late because the wom-pah-tsah-coolie demanded seven tungbe—copper cents—while Liu offered three, saying that the coolie had not run very fast and that the wom-pah-tsah smelled somewhat second-rate. Finally they agreed and Liu paid to the coolie five tungbes, one of which was counterfeit, but the coolie did not notice it.

"And Ma Lee received us, and very fearful she was to behold, for she is very big, looking like one of the strong men who wrestle and who receive much money therefor. And her face is very red and broad, for she drinks much pee-giu—the beer—and she has eyes which look like those of a fish, and her hair is very yellow, almost white, and she had pulled it toward the back of her head, similarly as do the dja-hurs far up north in the country of Mongolia, where the people are very wild and drink tea with melted butter in it.

"And she looked at both of us with a very severe expression on her face and with a very strong voice she asked Liu how much he demanded for the month to wash her linen. Whereupon Liu, after having made respectful greetings, said that he wanted 10 silver yuans—dollars of China—and I supported him, saying that Liu was a very expert laundryman and the best in the trade. But Ma Lee said that she would not pay more than 5 yuans per month and Liu agreed. And she bade us to begone and we walked over to my room in the servants' quarters, where we sat down to drink tobacco smoke.

"'Hai, hai,' spake Liu, scratching his ear, 'very, very difficult is it to pronounce the name of this woman who is your mistress. I cannot call her Ma Lee in my books, and I cannot give her this mark, because I have already very many Marys — Mary-who-is-ug'y, Mary-who-gets drunk, Mary-who-has-a-red-haired-lover. * * * I must give her a special name. Which one shall it be?'

"And we made much cogitation and drank more tobacco smoke when we beheld Mary coming out of her house and walking toward the street to get a wom-pah-tsah there. And she walked very heavily, because of her great weight, and on the wooden floor of the veranda it made a noise similar to that one made by the great and large guns when the tah-paoping's—the artillery—go to war, marching through the streets.

"And she swayed while she walked and she swung her big body in a manner very odd to behold for the person who looked at her from behind. And Liu spat out the melonseed he was chewing and spake thus: 'Verily, verily, I will give this woman a name which will fit her, for doesn't she walk like a fat duck from Tsinanfu? I will enter her in my books as Ma Lee shing-tse yutung yatse ihan—as Mary-who-walks-like-a-Duck—and will mark her laundry accordingly, thus preventing any mistakes when it comes to the sorting of the laundry.'

"And after he had rendered thankful greetings for the business I had helped him to secure, he stuck his fan into the collar behind his neck, after having carefully folded it—the fan being a very handsome one, having been made of black paper with many beautiful proverbs painted on it with golden ink, and costing no less than thirty-two tungbe—and we drank the cup of tea which precedes parting, and he bowed to me and left for his house, while small me went to see Chang, the house-coolie, who had wanted to borrow from me three yuans, * * * promising a good rate of interest.

"The Exalted One does not know Chow Tsu Chee? Chow, the thief and robber and gambler? Chow is too lazy to work continuously and prefers to loaf and to gamble and to sponge on his friends. He hangs around their places of business, and whenever there is a chance for him to make some money easily he does it. Only sometimes he works as a boi for foreign people who just have arrived at Shanghai, and who do not know anybody who could tell them what a chief of scamps this Chow is.

"And one morning, when Liu came into his workroom, he found that the laundry belonging to Mary-who-walks-like-a-Duck was missing. And he made great outcry, and summoned his family and his helpers, and they made much cogitation and searching, but the laundry could not be found, although it was all ready for delivery.

"And Liu went to the Shim-poh-kuan, the Chief of the Police, and with him came his two wives and his eight children and all his helpers, and they all made great obeisance and much ululation and outcry and weeping, saying that Liu's face would be lost if the laundry which had been entrusted to his care by the foreign people would not be recovered, and that it would cost much money to replace it. And Liu gave the Shim-poh-kuan a description of the laundry, and one of the officials wrote down every word Liu spake. And the Chief of the Police promised his assistance, and they made again much obeisance and thankful greetings and returned to their house.

"And the Shim-poh-kuan sent out ten thousand clever spies and they caught Chow Tsu Chee in Honan-Loo, the Honan Road, where he tried to sell a packet containing the laundry of foreign women. And he was taken to the jail-house and before the Judge.

"And Liu was told by the policemen that he had to come to the Judge to testify there and that he should bring along with him those people who could bear witness that the laundry had been stolen from him.

"And Liu and small me and Mary went to the Judge. And Liu looked at the laundry-marks and said that the things had been stolen from his house. But Chow, the thief, who is very glib, began to cry, saying that this was not true, but that the laundry had been given to him by a foreign woman who had been living at the Ka Lee Hotel, where he had been employed, and that the woman had gone to Mei-Guo, to America, in a big ship only two days ago.

"But the Judge asked the official of the court who stands by, to read the laundry marks, and the official read them and said that the name read: 'Mary-who-walks-like-a-Duck.'

"And the Judge made a face like a water-devil, rolling his eyes very fearfully and showed his teeth and blew up his cheeks. And he stood up and left the room through a small door behind his seat and he walked very quickly, and Mary looked very wild and spake many words in a foreign language which sounded as if coming from the bottom of a deep barrel, and she stamped with her feet, very fearfully to behold.

"And the Judge came back, and his face was very red, and he did not lift his eyes, but looked steadily at a big law-book which was lying on his table, and he coughed and spake to Mary, saying if she were indeed 'Mary-who-walks-like-a-Duck,' and if she acknowledged this to be her name, then he would give her the garments and put Chow in the jail-house; but if she said that original Government. The offense in the eyes of Japan is that the Japanese should be put in an inferior position because supposed to be a menace to the morals and welfare of the United States.

(Continued on Page 17)

Our Japanese Question

(Continued from Page 1)

The Japanese are a proud people, who have much to be proud of. Their civilization began near a thousand years before that of our north European ancestors. They have set up a modern nation which successfully measured itself against Russia. No one who associates with educated Japanese can doubt their high intellectual qualities. The immigrants are of various types, some desirable and some a load on the community. The pro-Japanese books of Gulick and others upset their own apple cart; for they paint such a picture of the domestic and agricultural virtues of the Japanese as to constitute an argument that it would be a good thing for California and the United States if our population were all Japanese. On the contrary, the near neighbors are apt intensely to dislike the Japanese, perhaps in some cases because they are such thrifty and successful rivals.

Leave all that out of account. The real issue is not that of the goodness or badness of the Japanese, but of the permanent effect of bringing in an additional permanent race element. If the Japanese were all that their fondest admirers claim for them, that would only make the matter worse; for their coming would mean the creation of a new community, which by its extraordinary virtues and talents is bound eventually to take possession of State Governments. We must never forget that twenty-one years hence every Japanese child born in this country, who lives that long, will be a citizen and a voter.

The bottom reason for opposing Japanese immigration as well as facilities for permanently settling those who are already here on the land, is that it means a race group which will indefinitely be different from the rest of the community. To this the Japanese answer is always that we are encouraging such race groups all over the United States. They point to the Russian Hebrew settlement in New York, the Bohemians in Cleveland and Chicago, the Poles in Detroit, the Irish in Boston, the Germans in Cincinnati.

If those groups were permanent the argument would be unanswerable. Our immigration, however, has always proceeded upon the theory that the children or at least the grandchildren of immigrants would be conscious of no race but the American. Take the Scandinavians. They are now scattered through many States, and fifty years hence will be nearly merged in the general population. A permanent Jewish population of 800,000 in New York City, speaking mostly Yiddish, a permanent Hungarian quarter in Uniontown would be a menace to both State and nation. In spite of the differences of religion, of race and of imported languages, there is a reasonable expectation that most of these elements will in time fuse into one American race.

The great exception to this hope is the negro race, in which even the considerable fusion that has gone on fails to break up the separation; for the simple reason that the mixed bloods are distinguishable, to the sixteenth or even thirty-second degree. Without any discussion of the moral or intellectual character of the two races, it is a fact that all persons in the United States having negro blood are now combined into one group recognizable by its color, and therefore likely to remain indefinitely separate.

The same thing must happen with any Oriental race settling down in large numbers anywhere in the United States. All descendants of Japanese, whether of pure strain or mixtures, must still be recognized and classed as Japanese; and therefore must inevitably be drawn together as a separate group, perhaps a separate community. Whether superior, equal or inferior to their neighbors, they are bound to be separate. Not because of their physical characteristics, but because those characteristics reveal the numbers, the distribution and the probable combination of those who possess them.

Upon this race problem the history of the United States casts an electrical illumination; for this is only one of several difficult race problems, none of which is anywhere near equilibrium. The first is that of the 300,000 American Indians. If they were physically indistinguishable from their neighbors, the race separation would quickly come to an end. They live mostly in communities by themselves and show little disposition to scatter through the country. Notwithstanding the presence of numerous white people among them, there is no likelihood of a thorough race mixture which would extinguish the present separate group.

The second great race problem relates to the negro, and was brought upon this country by the greed and cruelty of the people of all the English colonies. They denied their own traditions and the laws of their home country, by forcibly causing the immigration of a race of unwilling slaves. The immediate result was a terrible wrench to American principles of free government, then bitter sectional rivalry, later the Civil War, and at present an unsettled race question which terribly interferes with the prosperity of the Southern States and the tranquillity of the whole Union.

The introduction of this century-long race question might have been prevented by a true idea of the interest of the European settlers. Slave immigration was defended on the same basis as Oriental immigration today. It was said to be impossible to open up the country and develop the natural resources except by cheap and "dependable" labor. Ergo, America must have slaves. Ergo, now it must have unassimilable Orientals. Our fathers ate sour grapes; must we also set the teeth of our children on edge?

A third incursion of a separate race is now going on steadily in the Southwest through the continuous and dangerous importation of great numbers of Mexicans, in defiance of the immigration laws, though with the unofficial sanction of the Department of Labor. These people are substantially all Indians, or half-breeds of a low type, speaking a foreign language and living by themselves in shacks and large cities, by the thousands. Our children's children will be afflicted by this admittance of a race element outside the circle of American spirit and forever distinguishable by their color. We can stop that process if we will. While it lasts we are throwing away our strongest argument against Oriental immigration.

The Japanese have more capacity to Americanize than some of the three present separate races; but that does not take away the danger of admitting large numbers of any Oriental race, who are certain to gather together in country settlements or city sections by themselves. Many of them prefer to live together. Others are forced to join in these settlements by the hostile sentiment of the rest of the community. The same race distinction is bound to be set up on both sides, just as in the case of the Indian, negro and Mexican.

This is not the result simply of a color prejudice. Brown is as honorable as pink. The average Japanese is well set up in person, keen in business affairs. You may find in a Japanese as wise and trustworthy a friend as in an Englishman or an Italian. Caucasian and Japanese children may go to the same schools, and, as they grow up, vote at the same polls. Yet in the long run race consciousness will show itself wherever the race distinction is visible. It will extend into politics and Government. If the Japanese get the majority, they will look on other races as separate, and therefore inferior. Or else a like prejudice on the other side will keep the Japanese down.

Granted everything that may be said in favor of the quickness and alertness of the Japanese, their readiness to acquire English, their interest in their families, their capacities to take part in a free government—we still cannot get away from the inexorable facts of the situation. The country may read the future in the light of the present condition of the Hawaiian Islands. That beautiful group, nearest of the Pacific islands to our shores, enjoying the climate of heaven and the volcanic scenery of the infernal regions, is at this moment an orientalized country in which the descendants of born Americans are in a relatively small and declining minority.

The old royal government allowed the sugar growers to bring in first Chinese and then Japanese coolies, who were practically bondmen during their term of service. When that expired, many of them remained in the islands, where labor was always wanted. The Republic encouraged the coming of the Japanese and also of some Koreans. The Government of the United States, while rigorously excluding Chinese from the islands, has admitted the "picture brides" and has also allowed 12,000 Filipinos to be brought in.

What is the result? Out of about 200,000 people, nearly one-half are Japanese, including a large number of children born on the soil and therefore citizens and future voters. The native Hawaiian race is going down hill to extinction. The Americans and Europeans, altogether, are not over 20,000, but they are in large part the capitalists, professional people and directors of the plantations and industrials. There are at present no fierce race hatreds, but it is as clear as noonday that within a few years the Japanese, with their rapid growth of population, aided by the picture bride system, will have a majority of the voters in the islands. They will then elect a majority of the members of the territorial Assembly. They will demand the appointment of a Governor of Japanese extraction. They will be masters of those islands.

Among the Japanese there is a strong racial organization, apparently engineered by the Consuls of the Japanese Empire and the priests of the Buddhist and Shinto temples, for in those islands there are more temples of the Japanese faiths than churches of the Christian religion. The Japanese Government keeps track of the growing young men and expects them at 16 years of age to be enrolled on official Japanese lists. The Japanese like the islands, because they are much better off than the same people could possibly be in Japan; but the road back home is not allowed to be closed for lack of weeding by the Japanese Government.

If the Japanese are allowed to come to the United States at will, or in any considerable number, the eventual fate of California, Oregon and Washington will be the same as Hawaii. But for the barriers put up against the Chinese, forty years ago, there would now be from two to five million of them on the Coast. Unrestricted Japanese immigration would easily bring a million within ten years, and the more industrious, thrifty and capable they proved to be, the more likely they would be to control the Government. To receive a large body of resident foreigners incapable of naturalization under the laws is practically a denial of the principle of free government; and in any case their children will become the governors.

To keep alive the present mutual suspicion between Japan and America is not only unwise but unnecessary. California would quiet down if assured against further Japanese immigration. Japan will be satisfied if the humiliating discrimination between Japanese aliens and other aliens ceases. The plain, easy and adequate solution is a treaty between the United States and Japan under which laborers shall be forbidden to emigrate in either direction.

How long would the Japanese Government endure it if 70,000, or even 700, American farmers were to settle down in Japan, build American houses, continue the English language, wear their home clothes and proceed to compete successfully with the native rice growers? Two hundred and fifty years ago they expelled all foreigners. The last thing that Japan desires or would permit is the free and unrestricted immigration of other races into their empire.

Therefore such a provision as it suggested ought to, and would, satisfy their pride because based on a reciprocal principle. It leaves the present freedom of entry on both sides to the four categories of merchants, diplomats, travelers and students. It is a valuable assertion of the sovereign right of Japan to deal with any insidious immigration which might tend to sap the authority of the Japanese race in their own land. It is a principle which might well be adopted by Australia and New Zealand, which have the same problems as ours. It relieves the United States from a new race group to be made permanent by differences of physical structure.

Unless this controversy is settled soon and settled peaceably, it will, sooner or later, be settled in blood, for it strikes at the principles of national existence and the safety of American civilization.

New York's Own

HISTORY OF THE 107TH INFANTRY. Compiled by Gerald F. Jacobson. Edited by Harry Thompson Mitchell and Leslie W. Kolland. New York: De Vinne Press. $5.

THE first complete history yet to be published of any of the regiments of the 27th Division, "New York's Own," is that of the 107th Infantry, U. S. A., the World War outgrowth of the old 7th Regiment. It is a pretentious volume of 600 pages containing detailed intimate accounts of the camp and battlefield activities of the combat unit that played so important a part in the smashing of the Hindenburg line and in other notable engagements.

To the families whose hearts trailed in the wake of this famous old regiment, this history is a vast treasure house of word, camera and pen-and-ink picturization of glorious exploits and heart-stirring reminiscences. There are chapters from the pens of the several Colonels who led the regiment at various times, by Chaplains and by lowly "bucks" who did the real tossing of the "wild black dice of the iron game."

The book is generously illustrated with official maps and aerial photographs of the ground over which the regiment fought and bled, and by innumerable photographs and drawings that depict regimental scenes from the days of Camp Wadsworth to the sterner times of Mount Kemmel, Le Catelet, Busigny, Vaux-Andigny and St. Souplet.

Arranged in attractive layouts covering some fifty pages are pictures of all the officers and staff non-commissioned officers of the 107th. There are also a number of pages devoted to the citation of the many men who were singled out and decorated or mentioned in orders for deeds of bravery in action, as well as rosters giving the names and war records of every member of the regiment.

"What is whispered in the ear is heard miles away."

The Wisdom of The Chinese

Selected and Edited by Brian Brown

Foreword by Ly Hoi Sang

Selections from Confucius, Mencius, Lao-Tse, Yang Chu, Chuang Tzu, and many other Chinese poets and sages.

$2.50 at all bookstores.

Publishers BRENTANO'S New York

CRIME PREVENTION

By

ARTHUR WOODS

Profitable Reading for Every Citizen."

$1 Net; by Mail, $1.10

PRINCETON UNIVERSITY PRESS

Princeton, N. J.

Established Literary Agency For Sale

An established, successful literary agency for the sale of fiction has suddenly been thrown on the market because of the development by the owner of other interests.

A man or woman combining literary taste, salesmanship and ability for systematic management could continue this business and greatly enlarge it. Earnings have been upwards of $5,000 per year and could be greatly increased. Price $2,000.

This business enjoys a high prestige and will only be sold to some one who can give best assurance of ability to carry it on successfully.

Box 185, General Post Office, New York City

Blasco Ibanez

the great Spanish writer who made so deep an impression upon America that no American should fail to read at least one of his books, is author of

Enemies of Women

The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse

Mare Nostrum (Our Sea)

The Shadow of the Cathedral

Blood and Sand

La Bodega

Woman Triumphant

Each, $2.15, Or

Mexico in Revolution

Price $3.00.

These books, if not on sale in your book store, can be had from E. P. Dutton & Co., 681 5th Av., N.Y.

THE JESTER

The funniest magazine in the world.

The deeper your knowledge the greater the humor.

Send for free prospectus and LAUGH.

Jester Publishing Co.,

Box 1200 Omaha, Neb.

Queries and Answers

Communications for these columns should be addressed to the Editor of Queries and Answers, New York TIMES. They should be written on one side of the paper only, and must contain the name and address of the writer as an evidence of good faith. Owing to the great demands on the columns, only queries of particular interest will be printed.

QUERIES

Eskimos Rescued

MAINE—Nearly a half century ago a party of Eskimo fish-catchers went adrift on a field of ice upon a perilous voyage southward; were discovered and rescued; were taken aboard a United States vessel and taken to a convenient port, and thence to Washington, as of necessity wards of the Government till return to their homes could be effected. During the Summer season, needing a cooler latitude they were domiciled a while in Maine. The occurrence was in 1874 or 1875. Their story entered the current newspapers and a narrative was published in one magazine. Reference to any one of these sources for the facts is desired.

"Well We Remember"

L. F. L.—After the Civil War Russia sent a squadron on a visit to the United States. On that occasion a poem was published, of which I remember only these words: "For well we remember who was our friend When all the world was our foe." Could you, or any of your readers, give the poem in full, stating by whom it was made?

"Though Death Destroy"

L. A. C.—I am anxious to find out who wrote the following verse:

I believe in human kindness
Large among the sons of men,
Nobler far in willing blindness
Than in censure's keenest ken.
I believe in self-denial,
In its secret throb of joy,
In the love that lives through trial,
Dying not, though death destroy.

"The Lord Had a Job"

L. A. C.—Can any one tell me who wrote the poem of which the following is a verse and where it can be found:

The Lord had a job for me, but I had so much to do
I said, "You get somebody else, or wait till I get through."
I don't know how the Lord came out, but He seemed to get along—
But I felt kind of sneaking-like—knowed I'd done God wrong.

"Thinks I to Myself"

S. M. L.—I have a small volume in my possession, published in 1814 by William Fessenden, Brattleboro, Vt., entitled "Thinks I to Myself." Can any of your readers give me the author's name?

"And Not in Thee"

F. J. FORT—May I ask whether any of your readers can give the following poem in full, together with the name of poem and author:

If there had anywhere appeared in space
A place of refuge where to flee,
My soul had found a refuge in that place,
And not in Thee.

"I Know of a Land"

L. A. COMPTON—Can any one place the following verse for me:

I know of a land that knows a lord
That is neither brave nor true;
And I know of a sword, a sword, a sword,
That can cut a chain in two.
Its edge is keen, its blade is broad;
I know of a sword, a sword, a sword,
That can cut a chain in two.

"That Slow Door"

E. E. J.—I would like to know the author of this quotation and in what book it occurs:

That slow door, that opening, lets in to let out no more.

"How Big Was Alexander?"

R. B. H.—Can some one tell me where I can find poem, perhaps printed sixty years ago, where a child says:

How big was Alexander, Pa,
That people called him great?

"What Is Life?"

S. W. CRADDOCK—Can any one give the complete poem which includes:

What is life when wanting love?
Night without a morning.
* * * * *
Nature's gay adorning.

Who Knows Peggy O'Neil?

O. F. W.—I am very anxious to re-read a book, written, I think, when Van Buren was President. The heroine's name was Peggy O'Neil. I cannot remember the name of the book or the author. The closing page speaks of "a little scar among the wrinkles on his hand, made by Peggy O'Neil."

"The Neighbors"

I. M. M.—Could any one help me in identifying the author of this poem and in what book I could find it:

Said the house-wife to her neighbor,
"Who had come to have some tea,
'Do you really, really, really
'Really like to visit me?'"
And the very honest neighbor,
Who was in a kindly mood,
Answered slowly, "Not so very;
But you know I like the food."

"Greatly the People"

R. M. R.—Can any one give me, or tell me the author of the poem in which the following lines occur, and where they can be found:

Greatly the people worshiped, but none guessed
The meaning that these words but half expressed.
Until a learned clerk who sat noondays,
With downcast eyes was passing on his way,
Observed the spot and marked it well,
Where on the shadow of the finger fell.
And coming back at midnight delved and found
A secret passage leading underground.

ANSWERS

"Quite English, You Know"

HARRY LEE, Paterson, N. J.—The song inquired for by "E. M." in your issue of Dec. 26, entitled "Quite English, You Know," was sung by Fred Leslie of the London Gaiety Theatre, in the musical burlesque, "Monte Christo Jr.," produced in New York more than twenty years ago. Sir Henry Irving, the English tragedian, was touring this country at the same period, and his unusual style and mannerisms were the subject of much public discussion. Leslie, who was a great impersonator, saw the chance and gave a perfect imitation of his eminent fellow-countryman, and the song was used to illustrate the act.

"A Song of Trust"

ELEANOR R. RAY, Plattsville, Pa.—In your issue of Dec. 26 "Constant Reader" asks for a poem the title of which is "A Song of Trust," by Gertrude B. Curtis. It appeared in The Advance. The first stanza begins:

I cannot always see the way that leads to heights above;
I sometimes quite forget He leads me on with hands or love.

The line quoted in paper was from the second of the four stanzas.

"Hopagog's One Leg"

TEMPLE BAILEY, Webster Groves, Mo.—"Hopagog's One Leg," inquired for by "S. P. W." in your issue of Dec. 26, was published in some magazine called Little Folks about 1871. It should be, I think, in either Volume 40 or 41.

"C. W. T.," New York, thinks it was published later, probably in the late '70s.

Tennyson's "Night"

M. S. CHAPPEL, Washington, D. C.—The lines quoted by B. V. Imbrie in your issue of Dec. 26 are from Tennyson's sonnet "Night." It may be found in any collected edition of his works.

This query was answered also by Nancy Byrd Turner, Boston, Mass.

"One Day's List"

MADELINE ELWOOD, Rockville Springs, N. Y., in your issue of Dec. 26 "E. H." inquires concerning the poem "We Who Remain." The author's title is "One Day's List." Dr. Ford Madox Hueffer, it being a list of three officers and 250 other ranks of his regiment who were killed in action. It begins thus:

My dears,
The rain drips down on Rouen Town,
The leaves drip down
And so the mud
Turns orange brown.

The closing verse addressing the dead, is as follows:

But we who remain will grow old,
We shall know the cold
Of cheerless
Winter and the ruby of Autumn and the sting
Of poverty, of love despised and of disgraces
And sorrow showing stained and aging faces,
And the long ranges of comfortless years
And the long gamut of human fears.
But for you, it shall be for ever Spring,
And only you shall be forever fearless
And only you shall have white
Breast, lock-limbs,
And only you, while the water lily swims,
Shall walk along pathways, thro' the stillness
Of your West
You who went West,
And only you on silvery twilight pillows
Shall take your rest
In the soft, sweet glooms
Of twilight rooms.

"For Sale or Rent"

NANCY BYRD TURNER, Boston—The lines quoted by "L. H. B." in your issue of Dec. 26 are from my poem "For Sale or Rent." It reads as follows:

Discarded, branded, set for show,
It shrinks a little from the street
Where all day long the traders meet
And all day long the buyers go;
Where on an hour's or on late
Some restless seeker, bargain-bent,
Will touch the gray, reluctant gate
And read, "For Sale or Rent."

The curve of last year's lonely nest
Waits for the glad returning wings;
Shoreward, for port, a kind wave brings
The empty shell upon its breast
But this, that hardened souls, must bide
The stranger's pleasure: marked "A Home"—

Yea, pledged to fling its portals wide
When stranger-feet shall come.

And oh, so old! It almost seems
As though there flitted, shadow-wise
Across the windows' shuttered eyes
Sweet faces fashioned out of dreams.
As though, did one but know the call,
A sudden lifted word would bring
Glad children round the corner wall,
Answering, rollicking.

What if it be not tenantless?
What if the gentle people stay
In some immortal guise alway
Among the rooms they used to bless?
Then, for the remnant of its age,
Not they who take nor they who lease
May touch the perfect heritage
Of its abiding peace.

"The Proud Miss MacBride"

HARVEY HUSTED, White Plains, N. Y.—"H. S." will find "The Proud Miss MacBride," which he inquires for in your issue of Dec. 26 in the collection written by John G. Saxe and published by Houghton Mifflin Company. There are thirty-eight verses with a moral. It may also be found in "The Library of Choice Literature," edited by A. R. Spofford and Charles Gibbon, Volume V., page 209.

Others who answered this query were Moses H. Levinson, Geneva Hardy, E. N. P., Lucile C. Lee, George Gratz, Frances R. Hays, Seymour C. Swanson, J. R. Johnston and Mary Hall Pell of New York; David Crosby, Baltimore, Md.; C. F. E., Rutherford, N. J.; Horace R. Scully, Pittsburgh, Pa.; William M. Strengham, Yonkers, N. Y.; George Francis Greene, Cranford, N. J.; R. Vincent Imbrie, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Frances Manning, Albany, N. Y.

"The Diver"

H. R. HUMPHRIES, New York—Answering the query of "F. D. S." in your issue of Dec. 26 I enclose a copy of "The Diver." It was written by G. Douglas Thompson and set to music by Edward J. Loder:

In the caverns deep o' the ocean cold
The diver is seeking a treasure of gold.
Risking his life for the spoil of the wreck,
Taking riches from the dead on her deck!
And fearful and sights to the diver must be
Walking alone in the depths of the sea!

He is now on the surface she's gasping
Its for breath!
So pale that he wants but the stillness of death
To look like some he has left on the floor
Silent and cold 'neath the troubling waves,
How fearful such sights to the diver must be
Walking alone in the depths of the sea!

And mammon's the master and man is the slave
Toiling for wealth on the brink of the grave,
Leaving a world of sunlight and sound
For night-like gloom and a silence profound,
And fearful the death of the diver must be Sleeping alone in the depths of the sea!

"The Man of Morn"

ALICE C. VOORHIS, Bennington, Vt.—"The Man of Morn," inquired for by "F. W. C." in your issue of Dec. 26, appeared some time ago in The Baltimore Sun. They can doubtless supply the complete poem. The first two stanzas are:

The Man of Morn came down the way
With laughter in his eyes of light.
He saw the world a-sunny day.
He helped the world forget the night.

He took the cure and took the grief,
And fled with them and cast them out,
And brought the world a new belief
And sang and rang a battle shout.

The Man of Morn was good to see
Because of smiles that decked his face.
He broke men's gyves and set them free
And made the world a sunnier place.

He grasped the shadow, rolled it back
And put the vision in men's hearts
And lifted them off off the rack
And swept old sorrow from the marts.

"Friendship"

JAMES T. ROGERS, Binghamton, N. Y.—Answering the query of "A. C. R." in your issue of Dec. 26, I think what is desired is probably the lines on "Friendship," the authorship of which is attributed to Daniel Webster. They can be found in Bryant's "Family Library of Poetry and Song," edition of 1880, page 112.

This query was answered also by W. G. Peterkin, Parkersburg, W. Va.; Thomas E. Barr, Apple Creek, Ohio, and J. H. Miller, New York.

"Life-Sculpture"

FRANCIS MANNING, Albany, N. Y.—The poem beginning "Chisel in Hand," as inquired for by "C. A. M." in your issue of Dec. 26, is by the late William Croswell Doane, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Albany, entitled "Life-Sculpture," and can be found in his book, "Rhymes from Time to Time."

It is as follows:

LIFE-SCULPTURE.

Chisel in hand stood a sculptor boy
With his marble block before him,
And his face lit up with a smile of joy
As an angel dream passed o'er him.
He carved the dream on that shapeless stone
With many a sharp incision:
With heaven's own light the sculpture shone—
He had caught that angel vision.

Sculptors of life are we, as we stand
With our lives uncarved before us,
Waiting the time when at God's command
Our life dream shall pass o'er us;
If we carve it then on the yielding stone
With many a sharp incision,
Its heavenly beauty shall be our own,
Our lives, that angel vision.

Others who answered this query were uele. L. Whitlock, Louis J. Naftalison, L. H. Keilam and Henry M. Congdon, New York; Mrs. Margaret J. Taylor, Frankfort, Ky.; Mrs. Charles W. J. Parker, New Britain, Conn.; J. J. Frater, Shreveport, La.; Jane C. Hunter, Chicago, Ill.; Elizabeth L. Kelly, Fredericksburg, Va.; Charles Henry Lathrop, Albany, N. Y.; Louise W. Hobby, Boston, Mass.; Mrs. Jennie J. Campiz, Roanoke, Va.; Mrs. Ella S. Poor, Morristown, N. J.; R. M. Rumer, West Hoboken, N. J.; Emma C. Jarvis, Cooperstown, N. Y.

Keeping Fit

MASSAGE AND EXERCISES COMBINED, A Permanent Physical Culture Course for Men, Women and Children. Illustrated. By Albrecht Jensen. New York: Printed by Brooks & Porter.

THERE are any number of persons who devote a few minutes a day to the practice of some system of physical exercise with excellent results; others go regularly to masseurs and have their exercise administered to them at little trouble but considerable expense. The vast majority of those, however, who really need some sort of training to keep in trim are persons who keep telling themselves that they know they ought to go through setting-up exercises or something every morning, and that they honestly mean to start—some day.

Albrecht Jensen of New York has written a book that should appeal to all three classes. In it he describes a novel method of self-administered scientific massage movements combined with exercises, so that the benefits of both may be obtained simultaneously.

What the author describes in the book is a new system of the characteristic essentials of gymnastic and Indian Yogis concentration exercises combined with scientific massage movements and deep breathing exercises. These are made plain with eighty-six illustrations.

The author was formerly a medical student at McGill University in Montreal, and was also formerly in charge of the medical massage clinics at the Polyclinic and other hospitals in this city.

His book, which contains ninety-two pages, and was published by himself, contains letters from two prominent New York physicians highly commending his system of exercises. They are Dr. William Sharpe, attending neurologist and surgeon to the Polyclinic Hospital, and Dr. Edward Leland Kellogg, Chief Clinician at the Polyclinic.

Kaleema was a star of those heroic, wildly absurd, magnificently human little theatrical companies that play only the small towns; and this novel is her love story, and the story also of the other unforgettable men, women and children of her companies. It is as inevitable as the asbestos curtain, as lovable and laughable as the gentle and gallant Kaleema herself.

An Amazing Story of the Stage

KALEEMA
By Marion McClelland

All Bookstores. $2.00.

THE CENTURY CO.

Books Bought

Highest prices paid for large or small collections of good books, autographs and entire libraries

Especially Wanted:
11th Edition Encyclopaedia Britannica and other nice sets

Our representatives call anywhere without charge.

Spot cash. Prompt removals at our expense.

Write, call or phone

Thoms & Eron
INCORPORATED
34 Barclay St., New York
Tel. 8062 Cortlandt
Largest buyers of sets and old books.

The vital problem of the Housing Famine
AND HOW TO END IT is fully discussed in a triangular debate between JOHN J. MURPHY of the Tenement House Commission
EDITH ELMER WOOD
an authority on housing, and
FREDERICK L. ACKERMAN architect and student of planning.
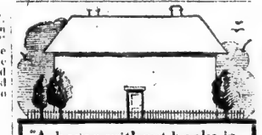
Each presents a different viewpoint, advocates a preferred solution and voices objections to the others offered.
We publish this book because we believe it of vital interest to every home in this city.
$2.50. If not obtainable in your bookstore, it can be had from
E. P. Dutton & Co., 681 5th Av., N. Y.



"A home without books is like a house without windows"
HIMEBAUGH & BROWNE
New York's Most Convenient Book Shop
471 FIFTH AVE. OPP. LIBRARY.
If you cannot come to our store send for our catalog

DO YOU KNOW WHAT IT'S LIKE TO STARVE?
Read the great novel
HUNGER
by Knut Hamsun WINNER OF THE NOBEL PRIZE FOR 1920
"This book burns like acid—a terrible book. The award of the Nobel Prize to Hamsun advertises the book, but it would win its way on merit alone."—Philadelphia North American.
$2.50 net at all bookstores

Japan or "Main Street"

A Review by
GERTRUDE ATHERTON

SEED OF THE SUN. By Walter Lyon Clowe. 12mo, pp. New York: Doubleday, Page & Co.

WALLACE IRWIN has written so continuously and with such uniform originality—for the last eighteen years that it is doubtful if one reader in a thousand has taken note of his many and abrupt transitions. He can hardly be said to have "developed" in the usual sense; he has merely shed one skin and put on another of a different texture and hue, done a number of things equally well during this brief period, while other writers, no less admirable, perhaps, but far less versatile, were pegging away at perfection in one line.

In 1902 he wrote "The Love Sonnets of a Hoodlum" and "The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayam Jr." and was hailed as a satirical but rollicking funmaker. Then he went on to New York, and for a year or two turned out daily, and with no apparent effort, topical verse, often witty, sometimes wise, and always dashing and individual. People made bets as to how long he could keep it up, especially as he turned out "Fairy Tales Up to Now" and another book meanwhile. Then, overnight, he turned himself into a Japanese schoolboy, and kept that up for several years, to the delight of millions and with the same apparent lack of effort, until he tired of it himself and buried his Jap as abysmally, and perhaps as profanely, as Bret Harte buried his Heathen Chinee. People who had followed the playful divagations of the young genius concluded that at last he had written himself out and thought it a pity he had not developed later and more temperately.

But before their speculations had time to grow cold he burst forth as a short story writer—furthermore, a short story writer of a versatility as striking as the multifarious ramifications of the fundamental gift. There was hardly a subject he did not handle: ghosts, murder, politics, mystery, love, society, small town, big town, the South, the North, the East, the West, old age and youth; everything, in short, except sex, of which he seems to fight shy; and all done with equal dash, thoroughness and Wallace Irwinism. Whether one liked all or few of these stories, one was obliged to admit that the subtlest anonymity would not have concealed the authorship.

This went on for several years, with every evidence that he had found his stride as well as his permanent high source of income.

Then, without even a preliminary gesture, off he flew on another tangent. Irwin suddenly became a writer of whimsical novelettes. One of these, "Venus in the East," I thought one of the funniest satires on New York that had been written, ingenious, interesting, penetrating. The other two, "The Blooming Angel" and "Trimmed in Red," I did not like at all. The first was so light I couldn't keep my mind on it, and the last, intended for satire, degenerated almost at once into caricature, and not very clever caricature at that. But what I thought was of little consequence. The public "ate it alive," as the elegant saying is, and I believe that the magazine competition for his work became fiercer than ever and his prices soared to the loftiest altitude known.

I did not give him up; there was no evidence of staleness in this work; I merely made up my mind to read him no more until he wearied of the trivial himself and changed his toy balloon for an airship. I knew that a fresh flight might be expected any moment; but although many of his short stories had been serious, I was hardly prepared just yet for the long, serious novel.

This, however, is what has happened. "Seed of the Sun" is a very serious novel indeed, and one that might have been expected from any of several of our more thoughtful authors but hardly from Wallace Irwin, who, in spite of serious, even tragic, lapses, gave one the impression of eternal youth gamboling on the pleasant slopes of the American Parnassus.

There is plenty of humor, and strictly transpacific humor, in "Seed of the Sun," minus satire, and just enough fun. Moreover, it is written with his immitable light touch and quaint turns, which disguise the fact that he has never taken the pains to become a polished writer, but uses careless Americanese when pure English would be more effective and detract nothing from his originality.

However, these are non-congenital defects, and easily remedied. The book itself is an extremely important one, for it deals with the momentous subject of the Japanese invasion of California, the "peaceful penetration" of a race that is dominantly virile, cleverer by far than the average American, cunning, obsessed with patriotism for Japan, breeds faster than germs, makes its women work in the fields until the very hour of confinement, and puts the children at outdoor tasks as soon as they are able to toddle, who drive the white man from the neighborhood, not only because the two races are utterly antagonistic, but because no self-respecting white man can compete with a race that not only works its women and children half to death but the men themselves doing twice the number of hours that any human being was ever intended to work. Otherwise, why live? They represent the opposite extreme from the idle and vicious class who think five hours a day is a man's work, and look forward to the millennium of complete idleness. The people in the rest of the United States who have no sympathy with the alarm of California over a menace both genuine and abominable, should read and ponder not only upon "Seed of the Sun," but Sinclair Lewis's "Main Street." If this book is typical of a million other small towns in the United States—and we are assured that it is—then we are a people not only of an indescribable commonness and vulgarity, but so lacking in even the most ordinary mental processes, so silly, inconsequential, unindividual and petty, that we are in imminent danger of falling a prey not only to any clever determined nation, but to the internal destructive agencies that are known at the moment by the picturesque title of Bolsheviki. It would be a good idea for the Lord's Day Alliance to take these Main Street towns in hand and inject brains, manners and decent English by main force. If they succeeded, their new futile aspirations would in a measure be realized; for if people had something worth while to think about and talk about they would not be running around doing nothing on Sunday, would even go to church if there were sermons worth listening to, and would demand moving pictures of such a high grade that the Rev. Dr. Bowlby himself would feel they were no desecration to the blessed Sabbath. (Not religious pictures, not by a long sight, but pictures that appealed to the higher intelligence instead of the lowest.) I have always said that the trouble with the great American people is not lack of morals but lack of brains.

However, although I should like to see "Main Street" printed in a twenty-five-cent edition and scattered by the million, it is no derogation to its cleverness and educational quality to say that "Seed of the Sun" is a far bigger book; and of equal importance to the United States at large. The scene is laid in California, but the problem is American, if the few thinking people we possess can be made to see it. Moreover, it does not pound interminably on one note; it has, in spite of its central vital theme the infinite variety of its author. It has the charm of the born, not made, writer of fiction, and above all it has that integral humor which alone gives proportion.

The story, for the most part, is laid in Little Japan, a region west of the capital of California in the fertile Sacramento Valley, so densely populated by this prolific alien race that a white man feels an outcast, and is in daily danger of stepping on the swarming brats and being haled into court for murder. The heroine, a young New York widow, has inherited a farm in this neighborhood, and, filled with enthusiasm for a race whose aristocrats she had known when in Japan and under the most favorable circumstances, goes with her sister and two children to make it her home and extract a living from its prunes. The story is concerned with the machinations of the Japanese National Fruit and Energy Land Company to ruin her and force her to sell out; as this piece of land is the "keystone of the arch" of the vast tract that Japan means to have for its faithful subjects—the first tract, that is to say.

I am free to admit that if I had written this book I should have been "not under the collar" all the time and sprinkled fire and brimstone. But, then, I am a Californian born, and full of race prejudice besides. Wallace Irwin sojourned in California only long enough to love and leave it, and therefore is able to write about this tremendous question in a mood of serene detachment. He came out here recently, remained for a year and studied the question from all sides. He apparently knows how the Japs feel as well as the natives, he is always sane, lucid, informative and convincing. He might be a whole mutiee sifting evidence. He succeeds in convincing you beginning that he is on the the Japs, and you growl a accompaniment for some time spite of the fact that, by also admirable craftsmanship he up to the inevitable conclusion feel that personally he is troubled by any spasms of mo dignation and is interested in ing but getting at the trut presenting it through the med a sympathetic story. Thi course, is by far the more ef method; and the solution tha come to any just and thou mind is that, taking into con tion the fact that we were so inally careless and short-sigh to permit thousands of this r slink into our midst and progeny like pollen, it is onl to leave them there; but th must forbid (and enforce the any one of them, whether born or not, to own another land or intermarry with any white races. Then the tim come when they will either b stop breeding or emigrate to starvation.

It would be impossible for writer to have selected a illustrative characters more There in the old Eastern aunt typifies the optimistic and humanitarianism of millions sort, who admires the Japan cause they are clever and ing ous, and would welcome the picturesque and useful trimmi the American race. Her niec heroine, Anna Bly, is almost until she learns the truth ba experience. Then there is th rasan, rotten fruit of a ma between a Japanese and an ican—consummated in broad Boston, where race prejudice esteemed—and who tells Anna the secret of the Japanese doo wed with the white races is to row their big bodies, as they borrowed and assimilated all mental achievements. The officer, Footridge, with his ab knowledge of the race and his scorn. Dand Lemcy, the farmer (made hero) who has le his lesson at first hand; Bar zumi, abler than any Am character in the book, ruthles for himself, but for his heaven Mikado, and likable in spite designs and his devilish inge The poor little Japanese Mr parson and his wife, striving fo ter things, but helpless in the The vulgar Americanized Ok Otisukis—oh, infinitely more than any almost pure Japa Shimbu, Anna's partner, who tool of the Energy Company in ing the farm, and an ene scamp himself, his spouse wi vorced because she had drifte old age—thirty-four—without her share in peopling Little his second wife and picture tured over by a false photogr dainty little thing turned out labor in the fields the day rives in July; and Helmbolt American go-between, highly tool of the Energy Company makes Tsumi appear a saint, because the Japanese is a good and loyal at least to his own ra

I am not going to give any the story with its many and exciting incidents, or spoil the vivid exotic bits of descrip Bly (heart of Little Japan), Delta country of the Sacra Valley, the romance, the beau fertility of the country, or the scenes of Japan's little under by mutilating them to fit the tions of this article. The b there for all to read and enjo if they want nothing more t exciting story.

If it fails of its purpose, drift into the huge spider's w Japan is weaving for us, it are hopelessly entangled, the is—"Main Street."

"The answer is—Main Street."

Making Paper in the Canadian Forest

A MODERN industrial community in a stepping-off place at the edge of the Canadian woods, a place where the most progressive American and English labor ideas rub shoulders with French-Canadian tradition, convention and religion; an attractively constructed little city where the parish priest is the industrial leader and adviser, where the labor union has been supplanted by a stronger union of cooperation between the men in the offices and the men in the mills, where labor union wages and hours of labor are not only met but anticipated and in many instances exceeded; an isolated corner of the Continent, in a word, where the best of the New World and the best of the Old World have been mingled into contentment, industrial progress and community happiness—that is Grand' Mère on the St. Maurice River in Canada. That is Grand' Mère, the home of some eight thousand French Canadians whose lives revolve about the plant of the Laurentide paper mills.

Grand' Mère is a uniquely interesting place.

For a number of years the Laurentide Company had been planning to expand its work by adding two new papermaking machines. These machines are huge affairs which require a vast outlay of money. The signing of a contract to supply THE NEW YORK TIMES with news print for a period of five years clinched the matter. The paper company decided to build. Decision did not, however, mean quick action. It could not. Investigation showed that orders for machines which had been submitted as far back as 1914 by other companies had not been filled, owing to the fact that machine-building companies in England, Canada and the United States had been held back in filling their contracts by the coming of the war. They could make no promises of delivery.

The company up in the Canadian woods wanted the machines to begin filling its new contract. It found a way. The engineers were set to work on plans and blueprints. These were submitted to a bridge constructing company in Canada, with the question whether it could build machinery to the specifications turned in. The answer was "Yes." For the first time in the history of both bridge and paper machine making companies, it is asserted, an organization whose purpose it was to span rivers turned its force to building machines that would turn woodpulp into paper. The work was started a year ago. On Jan. 5 of this year the first roll of paper for THE NEW YORK TIMES, manufactured on the new machines, traveled down the three hundred and fifty foot length of the monster by the papermakers.

Installation of the new machines was for the past year been an all-absorbing topic among the men in the Laurentide shops. Conjecture ran rampant as to when work would be started on them, how fast they could be made to go, and, what was most important, who would be assigned to run them. Personal feeling, personal rivalry and emulation ran high. Rumor had it that the best men among the old mechanics would be assigned to the places of honor. Other reports had it that the English and Canadian boys, graduated from technical colleges and stationed at Grand' Mère for the purpose of learning the business, would receive the positions of trust and of glory.

The day of beginning work on the huge pulp eaters grew nearer and nearer. The French Canadian, though a steady worker and a stable worker, is also a temperamental worker. The suspense was too much for him. He grew more and more impatient. He wanted to know for certain whose was the hand that was going to make the wheels go round on the powerful new instruments. It was as important to his peace of mind as the welfare of his soul. He went to Father Lafleche, the priest.

Now, Father Lafleche holds the unique position of industrial leader of the community. To him each French-Canadian worker told what was fretting him, saying it would be wrong and unfair and unkind to keep the old mechanics away from the giants which, it was said, could work the magic of papermaking at almost twice the speed of the old machines. Father Lafleche knows his people. What's more, he was as interested in the adventure of the new enterprise as the men, and he, too, is a French Canadian, an artist and a workman down to his finger tips.

"I will see," he said, after listening to the conflicting rumors. "I will see. Go back to your work tomorrow. Do your duty as always. I will go and find out."

The men departed to their homes. The priest went to George Chahoon Jr., President of the company and guiding spirit of the plant as well as of the community. He told Mr. Chahoon what was on the workmen's mind, told him of the hurt to their pride and vanity it would be to keep them from operating the new machines. Mr. Chahoon understood. Understanding, according to the men who work with him, is his long suit. The matter was so arranged as to divide the workers equally between the young English boys who were interested in the efficiency of papermaking and the old French-Canadian mechanics who were interested as artists are in the guiding of some thing that would create in more beautiful fashion than the older contrivances could.

When the day came on which the first roll of paper was made on the new machine, it was a French-Canadian boy who stood watching the long sheet as it turned on its roller. Frederic A. Sabbaton, a Director of the company, stood near by. He felt the boy watching him from out the corner of his eyes. Finally he turned to him.

"How goes it?" he asked, calling the youth by his first name. There are eighteen hundred men employed in the shops. The large majority of them are known by their first names to the men who stand at the head of the industry.

The boy's eyes lit up. "She is beautiful!" he answered. "Beautiful! So smooth and soft and quick. It is six hundred and fifty feet a minute now, they say. But wait. It will be one thousand feet a minute when she gets used to it. She is beautiful!"

Six hundred and fifty feet a minute is the rate of travel of the woodpulp or stock as it enters one end of the machine as a kind of watery mush and comes out at the other end as finished paper. Six hundred and fifty feet is the maximum rate at which most papermaking machines are operating today. The ideal to which every workman looks forward is to get a machine which will go at the rate of one thousand feet or more. The new machines have been built with that aim in view.

Grand' Mère, which is French for "grandmother," is at the end of a little railway line that branches off from the road to Quebec at a place called Three Rivers. The conductor calls it Trois Rivières. It is a little more than an hour away from Grand' Mère. Yet there are many men and their families at Grand' Mère who have never taken the adventure of going all the way down to the little junction. Three Rivers, one might say, is to them what London is to the English Canadian. It is a familiar name, it is a place where some of their friends live, but it is too far away to be considered for a visit. A trip to Shawinigan Falls, a townlet nine miles below Grand' Mère, is as far as most of them venture to go. That may help give an idea of the type of people who live and work and play at Grand' Mère.

When one sees these people coming into town on a train, one witnesses a scene such as could be found in no sober community in the United States. This does not mean the French Canadian is a brawler or a roughneck. Quite the contrary. He is the most peaceable individual there is. It is this very contentment and peace which expresses itself on the trains and on the sleighs which meet him at the station. He sings. So do his companions. So do his children. And those who do not sing look on in smiling satisfaction.

There is nothing sad and melancholy about his song. There is nothing sad and melancholy about his words. It is not a French version of the Song of the Volga. It is the natural outburst of well being and satisfaction of the man who is at no odds with the world and his fellowmen. No American workman ever sings that way. He can't, for several reasons. First of all, he rarely is as well satisfied with his lot as these men are; second, he rarely has as good cause to be, and third, he is an American, which means that, even if he would, he could not express himself in this fashion.

Laurentide Inn is the place to which all newcomers are taken. It is an attractive, rambling, low standing gray stone house, with red gables and turrets. It was originally built by the company to take care of the young women working in the offices of the plant, but today it serves the all-around purpose of a guest house. Employes may live there, their friends may be put up there, all newcomers to town are sent there in the manner that a pilgrim is directed to a church.

To the traveler coming out of the wide snow-covered plains, it is the first call back to civilization. The rooms are steam heated, and there is hot running water in each. The inn is run by a woman who was asked to come for the purpose from California. She is an expert in the work, as are the numbers of other heads of departments who have been called up to the paper plant from all over the United States and from England.

The housing at Grand' Mère is one of the features of the place. Unlike the houses in most industrial towns, the homes of the men in the plant offices and shops were put up not for utility only. They are good to look at and "different." They have not been poured out of one mold or pattern. Each is distinctive and individual. If it were not for the huge woodpile that has been gathered for the Winter's supply of pulp, and the company's smoke stacks and outhouses, the observer might easily imagine himself in an exclusive section of Long Island rather than in a town built on the edge of the lumbering region.

It was decided to inaugurate a life extension system for the employes. One of the best men of the Life Extension Institute in New York was sent up to Grand' Mère to start the work. Before he was permitted to go ahead with the plan, he was told the history and peculiarities of the men. It was appreciated that this was something new for the French Canadian of the backwoods and that, therefore, he might steer clear of it.

Up to the present five hundred men have been examined. Not one of them was forced to go. The purpose and the plan of the examination were explained to them by their foremen and by Father Lafleche. Appointments were made for each man, although it was made clear that there was no compulsion about meeting them. A small minority showed a disinclination to appear for examination. Nothing was done to urge them to go. It is expected, however, that before long they will ask for another appointment, inasmuch as Father Lafleche is just as anxious as is the company to build a hospital for the men in the plant and their families. The life extension work is the beginning of that.

There are other things which show this same spirit of co-operation with rather than domination over the men. The plant has put up a library, an assembly hall, a gymnasium, a welfare house which serves both as clinic for mothers and babies and a home for the visiting nurses of the community. There is no compulsion about attendance at any of these places. They are open to all who care to use them.

A plant paper, run by a graduate of the Columbia University School of Journalism, printed in English and French, is another feature of the town. So is the golf club, whose membership consists of plant officials as well as mechanics and papermakers.

Hardly anything is done at the plant without the knowledge and approval of Father Lafleche. He acts as adviser and arbitrator. The men in charge of the plant trust him no less than do his parishioners. It was he who turned the paper mill from characters, principally by Nancy, which insure a joyful experience from cover to cover.

House of a Member of the Laurentide Company.

There have been many dry, matter-of-fact descriptions of the everyday life of nurses in hospitals, but none that give the vivid impression here conveyed. That the author knows intimately the routine of a well-ordered hospital is proved beyond question. What will strike with surprise most of those who read her story is that she can render so attractive such a sad occupation as "taking care of sick people," to quote a sentence that appears more than once in the volume. There are some queer patients, who do their part in awakening a curious interest. Among them are an elderly unmarried woman whom Nancy calls the "Duchess" and describes as a "vulture," but who is not so bad when one comes to know her, and Andy MacNamara, another well-defined character.

It is only at long intervals that so pleasing a book is produced with such a sombre background as a hospital must be, no matter how cheerful its rooms, surroundings and attachés. When one reads this novel, nursing seems one of the most attractive callings a girl could desire. Surely this is proof enough of the fascination of Miss Sterrett's literary style.

TOWER OF LONDON

THE WATCH-DOG OF THE CROWN A Romance of the Tower of London. By John Knipe. New York: The John Lane Company.

SINCE the working days of Harrison Ainsworth, Scott and Bulwer-Lytton, many British writers have woven novels about such episodes in English history as appealed to their dramatic instinct. In most of these novels the Tower of London has figured more or less prominently, and it is safe to say that the picture of the grim old stronghold on the banks of the Thames, sturdily maintaining its medieval dignity amid the roaring modern life around it, has seldom failed to give new interest to the chapter in which it appeared. In this novel of Mr. Knipe's we are in the reign of the frail young Edward VI., when the air was thick with intrigue and the thud of the headsman's axe was a frequent sound on Tower Hill. The Princess Elizabeth, afterward Queen of England, seems to have been the centre of plotting at that time, and her friends as well as enemies kept close watch on her movements, as well as on those of her entourage. Sir Henry Talbot, Lieutenant of the Tower, known as "The Watch-Dog of the Crown," on account of his incorruptible fealty, hears of a conspiracy on the part of the dashing courtier, Lord Seymour, to kill the King and place Mary on the throne. At first Talbot does not know who are concerned with Seymour in the plot, but suspicion turns toward the beautiful young and seemingly innocent Lady Frances Grey. It is Sir Angus Ruthven, who had been Captain of the Bodyguard to King James of Scotland, who unwittingly brought the lovely Lady Frances into the matter, with the result of numerous complications, all of which tend to make a live, romantic story.

Curious interest is lent to the book through its being told severally by the characters themselves—Angus Ruthven, Talbot, and so on—so that the reader learns the point of view of the various participants, besides intimately witnessing incidents which it would be difficult to present in any other way. There can be no question that the author has well fortified himself with historical facts, and that he knows the Tower, inside and out, better than is vouchsafed to the ordinary visitor, who can go only where he is told, and who loses much of the lore which is so valuable to the novelist. That he has a delightful style one who does not know him may learn in the very first paragraph:

> The Privy Garden was gay and sweet with early roses and clove-pinks. We were served at a small table nigh the sunny river. Bees hummed in the lavender bushes, and butterflies, scarlet, blue and bronze, glistened in the light. A big beech shaded our heads. We sat with our backs turned to the old stone-gray palace.

In other passages, where the action becomes quick, violent, even tragic, he is equally master of the ready phrase and compelling verb. These are in scenes in the Tower of the good old-fashioned melodramatic kind, and the skill of the writer is well shown in them, for he makes them convincing when a slight slip would leave them quavering in a mud-pool of bombast.

Historic fact and romantic fiction are marvelously interwoven in this clever book, and the result is a well-rounded, fascinating bit of work, for which we are grateful to the Tower of London as well as to the writer who has shown such deftness in handling material that, after all, would offer possibilities only to the true artist.

MR. PRESTON'S DAUGHTER

MR. PRESTON'S DAUGHTER. By Thomas Cobb. New York: John Lane Company.

AS a picture of what may be called a Brixton and Clapham Road phase of London life this novel by an English writer who seems to have a knack of turning out commonplace stories of mild interest is fairly acceptable. The principal character, a girl who has a "past" of the usual sordid sort, is a Mrs. Maynard, employed in a Government office during the late war. The man who has caused her to slip from the path of respectability just once is a soldier whom the girl had met in a hospital. Her baby dies, and, as she does not feel the weight of her sinning to any great extent, she rollicks pleasantly through the pages of the book until she meets again with the parent of her dead baby and is duly married to him, thus restoring her to the ranks of "honest" young women. Meanwhile she has met, quite unconventionally, a Captain Godfrey Raymond, who has lost his left arm in Flanders and has a clerical position in the War Department. She makes such a dead set at him that it embarrasses him with the girl he really wants to marry. Then there is another twist to the plot, which eventually brings the parentage of Mrs. Maynard to light where it was not expected. Essa, which is the first name of the girl, is such a cheerful, irresponsible kind of person that the reader likes her. True, she gives the impression of being somewhat draggletailed by wandering about in the mud and drizzle of the vile season they call "Winter" in London. But that is not her fault and must not be held against her.

The author has a fluent, pleasing style, and he knows his London thoroughly. The opening scene, in which Essa meets the Captain while both are watching an official feed the sea-lions in the Zoological Gardens in Regent's Park, is as convincing as, for example, the Savoy at the evening dinner hour, Whitehall and the London "lodgings" which figure in more than one chapter. Captain Raymond is a fine young British officer—the sort with which many Americans became familiar during the war—and the casual references to war conditions in the British capital are the more effective because they seem to come in without premeditation. A book that can be commended to that large class which buys a novel because the purchaser wants "something to read." As mere entertainment it will not be a disappointment.

THE FLYING BO'SUN

THE FLYING BO'SUN. By Arthur Mason. New York: Henry Holt & Co.

THE literary output of such men as Masefield, Conrad, Tomlinson and McFee—all former sailors now become exquisite depicters of seagoing life—is largely responsible for the recent wide popularity of tales of the sea. These men, it may be granted, have captured in their books something of the magic, the heaving spirit of the green waste of waters in all the latter's variegated moods and nuances. It may be questioned, however, whether sailormen by and large would stamp with their approval the psychological truth-telling of "Lord Jim," "Dauber" or "Casuals of the Sea," to name only those books that are best known to the general reading public. And the reason is not far to seek. It is because these books are more concerned with the human soul, and the effect of the sea upon the human soul, than with the externality of hurricanes or gales.

"The Flying Bo'sun" is at the opposite pole from these. Both in the matter of theme and handling, it betrays a close cousinship, rather, to the vivid romances of Morgan Robertson, wherein the action is, so to speak, kinetic rather than psychological.

But certainly Mr. Mason is hugermugger with the sea; a salty flavor clings about his book which in the main is couched in the terse but pungent dialect of the simple-spoken men who eke out long, monotonous watches on sailing ships. In spite of the undoubted accuracy of Mr. Mason's idiom, however, the discriminating layman, in the opinion of the present reviewer, is likely to find less of the authentic or communicable essence of the sea in "The Flying B'sun" than in the spiritual reaction of Masefield, Conrad, Tomlinson and McFee.

On the other hand, Mr. Mason has candidly based his narrative on sailor legend and superstition—as old as the Ancient Mariner or the Flying Dutchman—and a goodly number of readers are bound to be held enthralled by the psychic adventures which befall the graceful Wampa, skimming like a white bird over Southern waters.

THE TRUMPETER SWAN

THE TRUMPETER SWAN. By Temple Bailey. Illustrated by Alice Barber Stephens. Philadelphia: The Penn Publishing Company.

THERE is a certain technique in love stories of the simple, old-fashioned kind which only one author out of ten or so manages to acquire satisfactorily. The tendency is to make them too sugary, or, on the other hand, hard and unsympathetic—at least, from the point of view of those who enjoy this type of fiction. Miss Bailey has written a number of tender romances, and in all has shown a discernment which, with a skillful mode of expression, has won for her an ever-widening clientele. Her readers will like this new book. The love passages are wholesome, strike the note of sincerity, and therefore cannot but be acceptable, while her presentation of various phases of modern American life among what are usually called "nice" people indicate a habit of observation which is three-fourths pure instinct.

That the people in this book are generally nice, besides being of Virginia and New England, which is usually a recommendation in stories, may be counted on when it is known that the hero is a fine, manly young fellow—who has been to France and is sorry that he returned "without a scratch," although he carries on his coat a decoration for valor—named Randy Paine, while another is Major Prime, who also has been "over there" and walks with a crutch. Then there is the affectionate, good-hearted, impulsive Becky, who suffers the wrong man to kiss her once, but gets back to the right one at last, and sundry other personages more or less agreeable. Even this "wrong" man, the well-to-do George Dalton, whom Becky calls "Georgie-Porgie," because, like his namesake in the nursery rhyme, he "kissed a girl and made her cry," is not a bad fellow. He isn't good enough for Becky—but, then, no one is, if you come to that; but you don't hate him at any part of the story. In fact, there is no one in the book had enough to deserve such a sentiment from anybody. The whole affair is a pleasant interchange of innocuous remarks, with just enough dramatic action occasionally to give an excuse for calling it a novel. Which is another way of saying that the lover of light reading is sure of a delightful two or three evenings when he—or, more probably, she—settles down with "The Trumpeter Swan."

PHENOMENA OF MATERIALISATION
By BARON VON SCHRENCK-NOTZING
Practising Physican in Munich. With 226 Illustrations.

Sir ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE writing in Hearst's Magazine, January, 1921, of the famous experiments made by Dr. Schrenck-Notzing and his collaborators, said: "The results are, in my opinion, the most notable of any investigation which has ever been recorded."

Dr. GELEY of Paris declared in regard to them: "I will not merely say there is no fraud. I will say that there has not been the possibility of fraud."

The experiments recorded in this book with scientific clarity and definiteness are so significant that they may alter your entire conception of the relations of thought and matter.

$15.00. If not on sale in your local bookstore, it can be had from

E. P. DUTTON & COMPANY, 681 Fifth Av., NEW YORK

Heaven and Hell
An account of things heard and seen there
By Emanuel Swedenborg

Swedenborg makes a reasonable claim to have been admitted into the spiritual world while his physical body remained alive and active in this world, and has recorded his experience in a way that is convincing.

This book of 432 pages will be sent prepaid to any address on receipt of 25 cents. Also any of the following works by Swedenborg will be sent, prepaid, for 25 cents each:

DIVINE PROVIDENCE 329 pp.
THE FOUR DOCTRINES 335 pp.
DIVINE LOVE AND WISDOM 318 pp.

The books are printed in large type on good paper, and are substantially bound in stiff paper covers.

The American Swedenborg Printing and Publishing Society
Room 720, 5 W. 20th St., New York

On Reconstruction and the new economics

America and the New Era
Edited by ELISHA M. FRIEDMAN.
An all-around discussion by experts of the post-war conditions and necessary measures for future safety and the conservation of human resources. $6.00

International Commerce and Reconstruction
By ELISHA M. FRIEDMAN
"A compact and admirable summary of recent developments in governmental policies with regard to international trade."—Pol. Sci. Quarterly. $2.00

Economic Statesmanship
By J. ELLIS BARKER.
Author of "Modern Germany," "The Foundations of Germany," etc. A discussion of great industrial and financial problems arising out of the war. $7.00

Economics
By JAMES CUNNISON.
A modern, logical, scientific simplification of the questions raised by the existence of wealth in a community to-day. $2.00

Patriotism and Popular Education
By HENRY ARTHUR JONES.
Acute running comment on the influences which educate. $4.00

The Case for Capitalism
By HARTLEY WITHERS.
Author of "The Meaning of Money," etc. $2.50

Manpower
By LINCOLN C. ANDREWS.
A book for those who, directing the work of others, hold the Nation's success in their hands. $2.00

The Making of To-morrow
By HAYES ROBBINS.
Indicate the starting points for any constructive outlook toward better industrial and social relations. $2.00

Wealth
By A. W. KIRKALDY.
A lucid, popular analysis of the functions of Nature, Man and Capital in the production of wealth. $2.25

How It All Fits Together
By LEONARD ALSTON, Litt.D.
An introduction to the way the world plays the game of life. $1.50

If these books are not on sale in your bookstore, they can be had from

E. P. Dutton & Co., 681 5th Ave., N.Y.

"It comes as flamingly from the heart of a woman as Thomas Carlyle's 'The French Revolution' came from the heart of a man." So says the London Graphic of "The Happy Highways," by Storm Jameson. It is a powerful love story as frank and colorful as a Gauguin painting.

A Hit of the English Season

THE HAPPY HIGHWAYS
By Storm Jameson

All Bookstores. $2.00.

THE CENTURY CO.

"BUY A BOOK A WEEK"
BEGIN WITH ONE BY Leonard Merrick

Conrad in Quest of His Youth
The House of Lynch
The Actor-Manager
The Position of Peggy Harper
Cynthia
The Man Who Understood Women
The Worldlings
When Love Flies Out o' the Window
While Paris Laughed

Each $1.90

These books, if not on sale in your bookstore, can be had from

E. P. Dutton & Co., 681 5th Av., N.Y.

EVERY BOOK of NEW AND POPULAR
FICTION
You only read them once!
Save money, and rent
THE BOOK YOU WANT—WHEN YOU WANT IT
The only library in the world giving prompt service of new titles. The books are fresh—clean—inviting. You are your own librarian, as we supply any book of new and popular fiction requested. Start and stop as you please. Pay a small rental fee while book is in your possession.

WOMRATH'S LIBRARY
15 East 125th Street
21 West 49th Street
642 Madison Ave.
976 Madison Ave. (Near 76th St.)
1020 Madison Ave. (Near 82d St.)
2 Rector Street—Arcade U. S. Express Bldg.
200 Madison Ave. (Corner 41st St.)
Grand Central Terminal (Near Reader's Rest.)
2101 Broadway (Near 73d Street)
Hotel Bonta, 94th Street & Broadway
2792 Broadway (Near 108th Street)
3488 Broadway (Near 143d Street)
Henry Malkan, Inc., 42 Broadway
15 S. 18th St., Philadelphia, Pa.
16 W. Saratoga Street, Baltimore, Md.
1416 F Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.
Utica: J. A. Roberts & Co.
New Haven: Shartenberg & Robinson Co.

GILBERT CANNAN
novelist, philosopher, satirist, translator of "Jean Christophe" and author of "Windmills," is wandering planlessly around the globe. His LETTERS from a DISTANCE embody reflections on his travels and on the civilization he has shaken off. They appear (beginning January 19th) in The Freeman
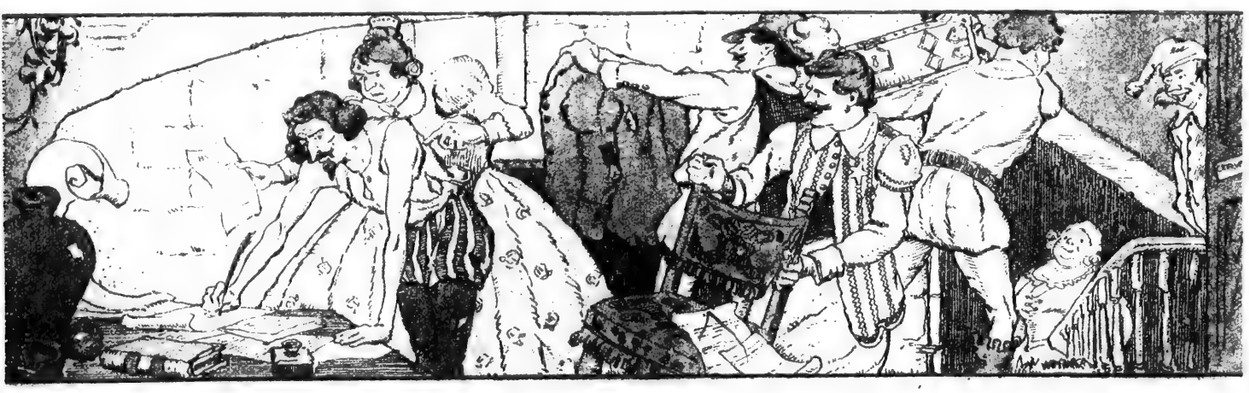
the weekly that is being read by everybody who is anybody. 15c. at news stands or at 116 W. 13th St., New York.

THE BAILIFFS ARRIVE AS CERVANTES WRITES "FINIS" TO "DON QUIXOTE"



Latest Works of Fiction

THE MYSTERIOUS RIDER. By Zane Grey. Illustrated. Harper & Bros. $2.

THAT a novel by ane Grey will have its scene laid in the wide spaces of the West has become to the habitual reader of fiction as much a matter of course as that a girl and a horse shall figure prominently in the cast of characters of his, as of every cowboy story. His new novel, "The Mysterious Rider," does not disappoint any of these expectations—the Western ranch, the hard-riding cowboys, the beautiful girl and that love of Nature which lifts this author's books above the average story of their type—all appear in due course. This time the trouble centres about White Sides Ranch, the home and part of the widespread property of old Bill Bellounds, a fine, sturdy, generous-hearted pioneer, rich in lands and cattle, though not in cash. A man greatly trusted and greatly liked, it was quite natural that when a party of miners, some seventeen years before the story opens, found a baby girl alone and asleep among the columbines, they should carry her straight to Bill Bellounds. Unable to discover anything about her, except that she was in all probability the only survivor of a prairie schooner whose other occupants had been killed or captured by Indians, Bill Bellounds named her Columbine, brought her up as his own daughter, sent her to school in Denver, and was in every way the kindest of fathers to her—until he resolved to sacrifice her to his one great weakness.

That weakness of Bill Bellounds was his blind worship of his one and only son, Jack, an utterly worthless individual, with the ugliest and meanest of tempers, whom the cowboys had nicknamed "Buster Jack." Bill Bellounds had made one desperate effort to reform his son, the results of which had been to render that miserable youth worse instead of better, and now he pinned all his hopes to the influence of Columbine, who had grown to be a lovely girl of 19. She must marry Jack, and thereby redeem him. Jack was in love with her, and the doting father persuaded himself into the belief that this love would and would work miracles. Columbine, on her part, was not the least bit in love with Jack—far from it. She disliked him, and she loved Wilson Moore, a cowboy with admirable qualities, who adored her. But Columbine was quite as thoroughly a slave to duty as was that famous Frederick who by accident was apprenticed to a pirate instead of to a pilot, and she felt it to be her duty to comply with any demands made upon her by her adopted father. It was then that there entered upon the scene a certain little man who was known far and wide as "Hell-Bent Wade," the hero and thus ex machina of the story, as well as "The Mysterious Rider" of the title.

His was a strange and a terrible history. For years he had wandered from place to place, trying to expiate the one great wrong he had committed. He resolved to save Columbine from Buster Jack, and though the difficulties confronting him were many and there seemed to be no possible way of surmounting them, surmount them he did, and bought the happiness of Columbine and her young lover—at a price. He is the central figure in the book, a man hounded and haunted by remorse, a man who seemed to be accursed, doomed to bring tragedy wherever he might go, in spite of his generosity and his readiness to sacrifice himself for others. "His had been the spirit of a man fighting the dark places; his had been the ruthless hand against all evil, terrible to destroy," as Columbine finally realized. Gentleness and sympathy were his, too, and a great love for the flowers and birds and trees which were often and for long his only companions.

There is, of course, plenty of fighting in the book, both with fists and with firearms, but its notable passages are those in which the author describes the Western country he knows and loves so well. "The hour was sunset, with the golden rays and shadows streaking ahead of him down the rolling sage hills, all rosy and gray with rich, strange softness." The period covered by the story is long enough to bring in all four seasons of the year, so we see the country in the early Autumn, when, as Columbine rode over the hills, "Purple haze began to thicken in the timbered notches. Gray foothills, round and billowy, rolled down from the higher country. They were smooth, sweeping, with long, velvety slopes and isolated patches of aspens that blazed in Autumn gold"; and in the Winter, when "a beautiful, glistening white mantle covered valley and slope and mountain"; in the Spring, when, "soft and fresh of color, the gray old sage slopes came out from under their Winter mantle"; and at last in the full glory of the Summertime, when, after a night spent in self-conflict beneath "the pale stars," something died in Hell-Bent Wade, but left triumphant his unquenchable idealism.

PSYCHIC HEROES

THE INITIATE. Some Impressions of a Great Soul. By His Pupil. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co. $2.50

THE GREAT DEMONSTRATION. By Katharine Metcalf Roof. New York: D. Appleton & Co. $2.

AN author who hides his identity, writing about an equally unknown man, is necessarily much at a disadvantage when he endeavors to make his offering interesting. The abstract seldom has the appeal of the concrete, and this applies especially to a work in which the basic subject is more or less misty and involved. The "Great Soul" reverently introduced in "The Initiate" is called "Juston Moreward Haig" for convenience, but we are carefully informed that the name is fictitious, while at the same time the character is faithfully conveyed. The author seems to be overwhelmed by the wonderful wisdom, as well as psychic gifts, of his idol, Moreward, but there will be conflicting opinions as to whether the latter proves himself more than a rather banal person by anything he says or does in this volume. He has a dreadful capacity for uttering platitudes and his wisdom is habitually of the cut-and-dried pattern. And how he does love to preach! When we meet him first, in a London drawing room, he is holding forth didactically to "three ladies," who are listening enthusiastically, as to words of extraordinary wisdom. "A certain point of view," he is saying, "is a prophylactic against all sorrow, and to acquire the right point of view is the object of all mature thinking." Then he advances the theory, neither new nor suggestive of superhuman wisdom, that pain is merely an illusion, and that if one has enough philosophy he will not allow himself to be disturbed by anything usually regarded as unpleasant. This may be taken as a sample of the general quality of the contents of the book, although in the second part, under the caption "The Circuitous Journey," it seeks a new locale.

It is a narrative supposed to have been written by Moreward himself, "through" the person who calls himself the "Pupil" of the "Great Soul" when the latter was thousands of miles away. It deals with a rich man, Antonius by name, who lived long ago in a distant mountainous country. The style is more or less that of the Oriental story teller, and it cannot be truthfully said that it is a happy one in this instance. The chapters devoted to "The Circuitous Journey" are among the dullest in the volume. Either the "Great Soul" was not so great as the author thinks or the latter has failed to project that soul with the effectiveness it deserves.

"The Great Demonstration" is a chatty story about the insignificant doings and sayings of a group of very ordinary folk, mostly young, in New York and its vicinity, which never rises entirely above the commonplace, but which makes entertaining reading because the author has a pleasant, if not elevated, literary style. Lucretia Dale, who is studying art in New York, lives in one of those brownstone mausoleums in West Fifty-seventh Street transmogrified into "studios," which have something of the flavor of Greenwich Village but are mere boarding houses, after all. She has been brought up in the country and has two lovers as an inheritance of that state of existence. Both young men have known her from childhood. One of them is Roger Lessing. He is of German descent and his education has been largely acquired in the land of his ancestors. He has always been a student of the occult and talks much and learnedly about mahatmas, the astral body, swamis, thought transference, and so forth. His psychic researches have resulted in his learning how to project his astral body, so that he appears to Lucretia when his physical body is far away. Besides, he fills her heart with a desire for him and she feels that she must accept him as her husband. At least, so it appears in a cloudy sort of way. Whatever the reason, psychical or otherwise, she does accept him, while Terry Endicott, her other suitor, whom she really loves, is in France, where she believes he has been killed. But Terry comes back very much alive and wants Lucretia. As she also wants Terry, but is encumbered with a husband already, it looks for the moment like an impasse. But Roger dies under rather terrifying conditions and there is prospective happiness for Lucretia, after all.

It cannot be said that the psychic element in this novel is either interesting or convincing, and since apparently it is the purpose of the author to carry away the imagination of the reader with a startling application of certain mystic theories which in these days have become ordinary tea table talk, the failure to do this effectively makes it impossible to avoid a feeling of disappointment in considering the book as a whole. On the other hand, the sketches of daily existence in the "studio" are amusing and the general atmosphere of the story is pleasing. But the character drawing is anything but strong, and what dignity there might be through the exploitation of a serious theme is lost in the prevalent note of frivolity and not particularly original humor.

SAMUEL LYLE

SAMUEL LYLE, CRIMINOLOGIST. By Arthur Crabb. Illustrated by S. C. Coll. New York: The Century Company. $1.90.

THIS is a collection of eleven mystery stories, in which is reproduced the life of the well-to-do in and around the City of Alden. Unlike so many mystery stories, the author does not emphasize the sordid and brutal, but relies, rather, for his thrills upon clean-cut and ingenious plot-weavings. The Sherlock Holmes of these stories is Samuel Lyle, a simple, kind-hearted, elderly bachelor, the ablest criminal lawyer in Alden. "He was a huge man, awkward as a man could be, and so homely that he was fascinating. * * * There was about him a subtle suggestion of force, of keenness of mind and of honor." It was he who found the solution of every mystery; at least he convinced his jurors that his clients were wrongfully accused. It cannot be denied, however, that Samuel Lyle was considerable of a bluffer; furthermore, his love of the dramatic cropped out continually. As he explained privately to the District Attorney while defending a man charged with murder: "It's my dog-gone craving for melodrama that makes me do these things. I can't get along without fool exhibitions such as we have today. Other men have the drink mania or drugs; I have the theatrical, tragical craving."

Speaking of witnesses who fill up the gaps in their memory with their own inventions, he asserted that "the narrative he has pieced together becomes the truth and nothing but the truth; he cannot tell, himself, how much of his tale is fact and how much fancy; he forgets entirely his inventions and becomes a liar of purest ray serene." Holding the spotlight in each of these tales, Samuel Lyle is decidedly an interesting character. "Arthur Crabb," we are told, is the pen-name of the author, "who has just arrived." Whoever he may be, he is to be congratulated upon his skill in fabricating plots, his familiarity with court procedure and the use of technical material generally. It would be a fair presumption that the author is a member of the bar had he not in the Parker case fallen into the error of giving the counsel for the defense the last argument rather than the District Attorney—an error into which almost every lay author falls when he undertakes to describe a court trial. Perhaps this lapse was intended to throw us off the scent. We expect to hear more of Samuel Lyle, criminologist.

NANCY

NANCY GOES TO TOWN. By Frances R. Sterrett. New York: D. Appleton & Co. $2.

NANCY YATES, the daughter of a deceased country doctor, determines to be a hospital nurse and marry some wealthy patient, whom she thinks of as "Prince Moneybags." Since her father's death she has been living with her aunt and uncle, the latter a newspaper owner in the small town of Mifflin. Uncle Ben advises her to stay in Mifflin and become a "newspaper girl," but Nancy, having had two years in college, is overcome with the glamour of nursing in a hospital. The upshot of it is that she goes to a hospital to be trained for a nurse. There she meets a handsome young doctor, of rather saturnine disposition, but sterling throughout, who is not her idea of a "Prince Moneybags." Whether or not they eventually marry the reader must find out in the book itself. The description of hospital life from the point of view of a lively girl, with quick wit and a keen sense of humor, is capital. It is about all there is to the book, for that matter. But it is all one asks, for it bubbles over with bright action, with a running fire of comment by the various General View of a Logging Camp in Winter.

Philip Charland, Explorer of Timberlands.

Nearer View of a Logging Camp.

a shoe shop into a non-union shop. That was twelve years ago. It was at that time that he became a fixture as the industrial leader of the community. The Grand' Mère workers were unionized in the International Papermakers' Union. The Laurentide Company was making paper under contract for a larger paper company. The union got into a dispute with the latter and called a strike. Inasmuch as the Laurentide Company was working for them, the local union Chairman threatened to call out the workers of Grand' Mère. Mr. Chahoon got in touch with the leader of the International Union and started negotiations for warding off the strike in his plant. He was assured by him that the mills at Grand' Mère would be allowed to operate. A few days later, nevertheless, the local Chairman called out the workers. They left the shops. The mills were idle for a week. The union would not arbitrate with the Laurentide Company until it had settled its dispute and assured its supremacy over the company for which the former was working on contract.

Seeing that the mill was slated for an indeterminate period of idleness, Mr. Chahoon went to Father Lafleche and told him what had happened. That night Father Lafleche called a meeting of the workers, and asked them whether they were satisfied in remaining idle. The answer was unanimously "No." He asked them whether they had any grievance against the company. Again the answer was "No." He asked them whether they would be willing to go back to the plant as non-union workers, retaining, however, their union wages and union hours. The answer was "Yes." That same night Father Lafleche called up Mr. Chahoon, and gave him this succinct message:

"You cannot open up the mills tomorrow because tomorrow is a holiday and we have holy devotions for twenty-four hours. You can open up the mill the morning after." The plant was opened and since that day has never been shut down. There has been no strike throughout this entire period. The men, according to the agreement made with Father Lafleche and Mr. Chahoon, receive union wages and work union hours. In not a few instances their wages are even higher than that given to men holding the same positions in other mills.

This curé, with the unique position of industrial leader and mediator, was found to be the type of man such as exists today in hamlets in France. He is a big, kindly-looking, kindly speaking man, with nothing at heart but the welfare of his people. He is simple in aspect and manner. There is a gentleness about him which belies the hidden strength which is his. He told the story of his coming to Grand' Mère. Therein, perhaps, lies the powerful influence he has over his people.

"I came to Grand' Mère," he said, "twenty years ago. There were no houses like these at the time; there were no mills, no plants. Nothing. Just woods, the river, the rapids and some people. Not as much as today, not half as much. That time I had to be more than priest to my people. I had to be father, farmer, carpenter, doctor, builder, toiler, everything. They needed counsel of every kind. They had nobody to help them. They came to me. I helped them as best I could.

"The mill came. The people left their farms. They went to work in the mills. They prospered, they suffered. But always they came to me. I advised them, I helped them. Maybe it was not so wise, but it was wiser than they could do alone.

"I was not against the union then. So long as the men worked in the shops, were happy, took care of their families, I had nothing against the union. But eight years later, when I saw the men called out through no fault of the company, when I saw them walk the streets without work, getting into trouble and mischief because they had no work, letting their families suffer because they had no work; when I knew that my men had no cause of complaint against conditions or people in the company, when I saw the fine things and the fine feelings of the men who ran the company, who helped care for my people when they were sick, who made them happy when they were well, then I said, 'This is not justice.' That was not justice.

"Remarques, I am not against the union where the union is needed. By that I mean that I am not against the union where the owners of the industry abuse the privileges they have. Where the worker is ill-treated, where his hours are long and his wages poor, where work means everything and the man and his spirit mean nothing, where there is not the feeling that the man in the mill is a brother to the man who runs the mill and is not a poorer thing, an inferior thing—there, I say, we need a union. We need a union to assure the worker a fair chance of happiness. I repeat, that there I am not against the union in such a place.

"Remarques, the union had nothing to offer my people which the mill did not give them. There was only one thing, or maybe two things, the union could do. It could take the dues from the men to support an organizer whose duty it was to make trouble; they could repay my people for those dues by making them remain idle when they had much better be at work. No. The union is not needed here.

"Do not think that I was against this union and that I would be for another, remarques. Some years ago there was organized in Canada a Catholic union for Catholic workers. They came here to Grand' Mère to organise my people. They hired a hall and called a meeting. They pasted a notice on the Town Hall telling my people in French that a union of Catholic workers was to be organized in Grand' Mère. My people came to me. They told me about it.

"The same night that the meeting of the Catholic union was called I called a meeting at the church. I spoke to my people. 'Do you need a union?' I asked them. 'Are you not happy at the Laurentide? Is there anything you lack? Do you need others to plead for you with Mr. Chahoon, with Mr. Sabbaton, with anybody else who is in charge? Can you not enter their office when you will and ask for help? Do you not get the same wages and more that the union workers get? Are you not happy in having me—settle your problems without bitter feeling, without hatred, without—what you call it—animosity?' I spoke to my people thus. 'What is the answer?' I say. 'No union.' 'Very well,' I say. 'Now we will go to the union meeting.'

"We go. All the men in the mill. I go at the head. We take our places in the hall. The speaker comes on the platform. He speaks a long time. He tells the men about the strength of organizing, of collective bargaining. Everything that every union organizer says. He talks long. He finishes. I get up. 'Is that all you have to say, gentlemen?' I ask them. 'That is all.' 'Well,' I say, 'I have nothing to say except this one thing. Gentlemen, we are happy in Laurentide. We are contented. We have no trouble. We need no help. Good night, gentlemen.' I stand up. I go out. My men, they come after me. The meeting is over. The union goes home.

"They stay home. They never molest us again. We need no outside help here. We have some trouble in the mills, maybe. The men come to me. I go to Mr. Chahoon. I kneel to no man; Mr. Chahoon kneels to no man. I understand he is interested in the happiness of the worker; he understands I am interested in the happiness of my people; we talk things over kindly, amiably. He understands me; I understand him. I give in; he gives in; we compromise, we agree. Sometimes it is easier than others, but always we agree."

Mr. Chahoon, whose name was on the lips of all the people, the men in the shops as well as the men in the offices, was not in Grand' Mère at the time of the writer's visit. He was met in Montreal.

"Why this industrial development?" he was asked. "What prompted it? Was it a conscious effort to build something different or did it develop naturally? And how?"

Mr. Chahoon smiled.

"Why? I don't know that there is a why. Not a definitely formulated one. Or maybe there is. It had always been my idea that if a man wanted to direct or manage an organization, his place was in the city or town where that organization was growing. That was the only way to insure its growth. Running a plant in a godforsaken hole, with conditions of a kind in which no human being should be allowed to live, and keeping a sales office or manufacturing office in New York or Montreal with plate-glass windows and all the conveniences, never struck me the right way. The place for the man who is invested with the duty of building up an industrial centre is right in that centre.

"The first thing to do was to make the place habitable for the people who had come up with me, engineers, directors and operating managers. I couldn't do that without making the place habitable for those who were already there, the workers. It wasn't altruism. It was selfishness. I wanted to be happy. I knew I couldn't be happy if people who were building up the industry with me weren't happy."

Immigration Problems in Recent Fiction

"The immigrants came in their hundred thousands."

fiction throw any light on disturbing problem of the migrant, of whether or not should be kept out of our nd how he is to be "Amer-
If he does enter the United
The question of the advisshutting out immigration
r is one of the big topics the attention of Congress.
earings that are being held bill have brought out a opinions. There has been discussion of how to make ricans out of those already till the war came very few ought anything about it and grants came in their hun-sands from all the corners
rld and were dumped down machinery of our industrial like so much coal for the up of our productive enerthey could earn enough get on a little in the world rn enough from their surs to become Americans, they a part of our civilization.
they remained mere huer for our roaring industrial Whatever happened, Amer-the older stock were indif-
the results and accepted elements in our civilization ally and as casually as they immense unassimilated re-
Very, very few of them
d themselves in the least e lives, the fortunes, the alities of the immigrants or their influence upon the on that indifference and the e out of which it grew form rest indictment to be made the American people in their st of the question of immi-
Some of the immigrants of years have written with bit-of this indifference and the superiority by which it was anied. Doubtless it was ue to the fact that very few mericans of older stock were into contact with these new-and, as always, ignorance
lowed by misunderstanding dlessness and the absence of ation. But also, and here is these older Americans have grievously against not only ple whom their civilization rited into the country but inst their country itself, they made no effort, they did not even desire, to mend their ignorance. A great many of them, of course, came into so little contact with the people who were pouring in that they had no opportunity to learn about their lives and characters, their aims and sorrows and joys, the impressions they were getting from the new country to which they had come with high hopes, how they were being affected by it, whether or not they were being absorbed into it, what kind of influence they were likely to have upon it.

The same thing is true today that was true in the twenty years before the war, when so many powerful influences, due to the enormous immigration, were being loosed upon the nation for good and evil. Comparatively few people can get intimate, first-hand knowledge of the kind that everybody ought to have about our immigrant population. More people want it nowadays than formerly bestowed a thought upon it, more people are beginning to feel their responsibility in the matter and to cast about them for some means of discharging at least a little of it. And right there is where a great possibility opens before American fiction writers who are equipped for its exploration. They can picture these alien people with intimacy and vital life-likeness and thereby give such knowledge of them as thousands of Americans can get in no other way. And it is a field so full of drama and of all the elements that go to make the best and the most vital of fiction that there is hardly to be found in the whole country a theme more inviting. But if such fiction is to have any interest, any value of any sort, it must be written by authors who have themselves been a part of the life they portray, whose hearts and souls and minds are so soaked with it that they cannot fail to make their picture true.

There begins to be a promise that such a phase of fictional literature, very much worth while artistically and very much needed for its sociological value, is about to be developed. Among the novels of the last few months New York's Jewish quarter, for instance, has twice been portrayed with intimate knowledge and masterly touch. Sholom Asch, a famous author among the readers of his own race, who writes only in Yiddish, and who knows the lives and souls of his people of the New York Ghetto with intimate and thoroughgoing knowledge, has made in "Uncle Moses" (E. P. Dutton & Co.), translated by Isaac Goldberg, an arresting interpretation and a picture that throbs with life and color of the Jewish quarter of New York City. It is a life and a quarter so sufficient unto itself, so hemmed in and defended from outside influence by its racial and religious barriers that perhaps it is less influenced by the aims and the ideals of the country than any other immigrant group. But even among them the author shows American influences trickling in and modifying their attitude toward the world, their very natures. Its account of how the successful head of a sweated industry from a Polish village brought over the whole village and put them to work in his sweat shops and of what happened to them afterward will give to those who read it such intimate information about the Polish Jew section of our swarming immigrants as they could not possibly get in any other way. So, also, Bertha Pearl's "Sarah and Her Daughter" (Thomas Seltzer) carries a vivid and thrilling picture of the life of a Jewish woman and her growing daughter in the lower east side of New York, their adventures in marriage and in industry and the working out in their natures of the influence of their new environment that, to the American reader who has previously known little or nothing about that life, is like the brilliant illumination from the inside of a dark room.

Perhaps the most interesting and useful of these recent novels of immigrating group life is Lida C. Schem's "The Hyphen" (E. P. Dutton & Co.), because it deals with that greatest of all our immigrant problems, the German community. We all know how appalling that problem, and its related one of the response of German blood to German propaganda, suddenly became when we entered the World War. And the action of the German societies during the campaign last Fall showed that we still have that problem with us, the problem of a racial group determined to hold itself together and, instead of amalgamating with the life of the country, use its power for the benefit of the nation from which it came. Americans have been deeply perplexed by this problem and they will hardly be able to solve it until they become better acquainted with the psychological factors that make the German in America and the German-American what they are.

Miss Schem's two-volume novel makes an exhaustive study of all phases and varieties of Germanism in the United States, from the downright traitor to the ardent and loyal American citizen. It is especially interesting to those who are concerned about the Americanization of immigrants, because it shows so clearly what the reactions of the newcomers are to the influences which begin to surround them almost as soon as they set foot in their new country. Here, for instance, is a passage describing how one of the characters gets her first impression of the permeating spirit of America. She is Frau Hauser, born in Germany, where she had been a woman of some means and social position, who had come to America for a reason which forms an important part of the novel's plot, and had become an American citizen and a lover of the country. Looking back over her first contacts with the new life, she recalls and describes to another character what she calls "the silliest, most trivial little episode imaginable that first opened my eyes to the sterling democracy of American life." Miss Schem thus paraphrases her little account:

> She had, shortly after taking up her sojourn in Anasquoit, met her washerwoman in the street. The woman stopped her to inquire after Guido's health. Frau Ursula, who at that time was still permeated with the spirit of caste, was surprised and annoyed by the woman's audacity. For a moment she was tempted to walk around the woman, who had blocked her progress, and, ignoring her, leave her unanswered. Her sound, common sense, and perhaps her kindheartedness, triumphed over these atavistic prejudices. She saw from the woman's manner that no disrespect was intended. She was neither servile nor insolent. She was just one human being feeling human interest and compassion in another human being, and inquiring about him of a third human being. In Germany, not only would the woman not have dared to address her mistress on the street, but the latter would not have dared to address her help. And so, through a haphazard meeting on the street with a woman in a menial position there was visualized for Frau Ursula the human sing democracy of America.

Among the characters in the long story, which fills two volumes, are some who had been revolutionists in Germany in the abortive uprising of 1848 and had fled to the United States, where they had become the most enthusiastic of Americans, without losing their interest in their native land and their desire that the better side of her people should triumph and make of her an idealistic democracy. Among them is a fine old physician who exclaims to Frau Hauser:

> Ethnologists tell us that the skulls of children born of alien parents on this soil differ radically from the skulls of their parents. What causes this? A different soil? A different climate? A different atmosphere? * * * Hitherto I always believed that nativity on a new soil was an important factor. I believe that some subtle virtue inhered in American soil. I did indeed. But your boy upsets that theory. * * * Nativity or transplantation, whatever it is, I believe, Frau Hauser, that there is some medicinal quality in American air, or in American soil, which changes men and women for the better. By that I do not mean a physical tonic, but a spiritual one. * * * Forgive me my little homily, but I'm a fanatic in my passion for our country. There's not another like it. It's unique, supreme, unmatchable. It is everything to everybody. And it's my religion.

The canvas of the long story swarms with people, nearly all of them carrying in their veins some proportion of German blood and being more or less representative of the importance of the hyphen in American citizenship. But Miss Schem is both subtle and sincere in her appreciation of its infinite gradations and her portrayal of how they work out in everyday life and how they responded to the call of Germany during the World War. The book is well named "The Hyphen," for it is such a study as no one else has given to the causes, the existence, the activities, the significance of that unique factor in American citizenship. She takes it in all its phases and shows the influence upon it of sentiment, of intellectual perception, of material purpose. The reading of the novel will bring home to many an American, who perhaps prides himself on that much vaunted "100 per cent." quality, the suspicion that perhaps he has not always been as true as he thought he was to the ideals in which he believes. Nobody can read it without getting a clearer understanding of why there are hyphens in American citizenship, nor without feeling the desire born anew within him to help get rid of all of them. And perhaps also the conviction will steal from its pages into his mind that the best help he can give toward that consummation will be always to be himself the kind of an American he thinks everybody else ought to be, the kind that translates into the actions of every day the democratic creed of America.

Men and Steel

MEN AND STEEL. By Mary Heaton Vorse. New York: Boni & Liveright. $2.

THE mental processes of the foreign radical in the United States are not so difficult to understand, after all. Seeing the hard side of life, and that only, and having no opportunity to get at the existence of any viewpoint, he forms an ideal picture of government, which is that it is instituted to oppress him. In the old country he learned that kings, nobles and priests combined to grind him down. Emigrating, he does not change the idea, particularly as hitherto nothing worth mentioning has been done to connect it, and he sees government only in the form of his boss and, if he goes on strike, the policeman. All that is necessary is to destroy this government and let good men have power, and everything will be made right. In countries where this is accepted the results do not bear out his expectations; Russia is no happier than under the Czar. The new governors of Russia, too, have discovered that there were things in the minds of their factory owners and railroad managers besides the mere desire to tyrannize fiendishly over the masses, and, it is reported, have been obliged to call some of them back in order to avoid bankruptcy. In the actual possession of power they have learned to their surprise that oppressing the poor is at worst only one of the things that railroad managers and mine owners do, and that the other things have got to be done by skilled minds.

Here in the United States the unskilled Slovak has not had to learn these things. It is troubling to have him express his ignorance in strikes and riots, but, as long as we haven't yet learned the way to Americanize him in the right way, it behooves us to be gentle with his mistakes until we do. It is difficult, though, to extend this charity to the native-born and educated American, who at least has opportunities to know better and yet talks in the same way the unlettered Slovak does. It is perhaps for this reason that aroused citizens of I. W. W.-ridden towns, or vigilance committees who feel that they must relieve their feelings by hanging somebody, do not as a rule hang Slovaks. Their ropes droop in their hands as they approach the pathetically ignorant Pole or Serb. It is at the sight of the nominal American, chattering glibly of a government instituted by Washington, Hamilton, Jefferson, Franklin, Pinckney and Madison, and maintained down to the days of Roosevelt and Wilson for the sole purpose of grinding the faces of the poor, that their faces harden and the ropes grow taut again in their hands. It is the fundamental denial of the American idea, babbling out of American mouths in the English language to confirm the foreigner in his delusion, that makes for a lawless militarism of the moment.

Of this "American" class is Mary Heaton Vorse, who in "Men and Steel" goes over the story of the steel strike. She does it, not exactly in the English language, but in the most approved magazine language, the diction of the photoplay, the style which makes so many blurb-writers exclaim on the jacket of a book that Shakespeare was an amateur beside this master of language. She is not proud, let us do her that justice, of being an American; she flaunts her shame by using the word as a word of contempt. She has managed to saturate herself so completely in the poor Slovak striker's point of view that she has become wholly a Slovak, thinking the Slovak thought and writing it out in Magazinish. She speaks of "the Americans" over and over again in precisely the same way in which we would speak of "the Germans" or "the Russians" if we had uncomplimentary things to say about those nations.

As Mrs. Vorse is a novelist, those acquainted with her writings may expect this to be a novel, but it is not. It is an account of the strike somewhat more radical than Mr. Foster's, and evidently the product of a mind considerably influenced by I. W. W. or Bolshevist teachings. To this conclusion one is led by the sneering contempt with which she speaks of all efforts at compromise between capital and labor, of all welfare measures, and indeed of everything short of "freedom." Everything is eliminated except the installation of the proletariat in the seat of government, as in Russia. Though she does not mention or declare in favor of this solution, the process of elimination leads necessarily to it as her remedy. It is the Bolshevist or I. W. W. remedy—the dictatorship of the proletariat.

Done seriously, in almost any language, this belief compels serious attention; but done in Magazinish it makes a curious combination of manner and matter. The story, as she tells it, is equally curious; one feels that one is reading, not exactly "Hamlet" with Hamlet out, but "The Comedy of Errors" with Dromio of Syracuse left out. The United States Steel Company, which has hitherto forbidden its men to organize, grants them the privilege. Organized, they strike; but, so far as we are informed by Mrs. Vorse, they stay in their houses and do nothing. There is an exception to that rule; when they want to go somewhere they go to Foster's office, but this only for the purpose of relieving their feelings by conversation. Here there is much boisterous laughter and good-fellowship. For the rest, the strikers stay indoors.

Nevertheless, the Cossacks come. It is the name by which these housekeeping Darbys and Joans describe the Pennsylvania State Constabulary. A reign of terror ensues. Without the smallest provocation, two Cossacks ride up and down a quiet street, smashing up the population if they didn't get off their front stoops and go indoors. Mrs. Vorse can speak with relative calmness when she has to allude to the tyrant Gary or the unspeakable governments of Pennsylvania and of the United States, or even of the detested Americans, one of whom, she bitterly says, was named O'Rourke; but she bears an intense hatred of the Cossacks, and cannot speak of them without violence.

The Cossacks were the only people who were at all active, except Foster, of whose activities we learn nothing, except that he saw everybody who came to his headquarters and received and sent a great many telegrams. The strikers stayed indoors and the capitalists didn't do anything. But the newspapers stopped printing things about the strike, and that gave people all over the country the idea that it was over. So the strikers went back to work, the wretched Americans leading. Some of them did not get their jobs back, and Mrs. Vorse dwells on this with that real sense of injury which Stevenson has so perfectly delineated in the case of Zero, the hero of "The Dynamiter." It will be remembered that Zero justified the use of bombs on the ground that it was warfare, but was justly indignant when the Government fought back by arresting the bombers. Only one side has the right of warfare, according to the best radical output of today. It is right for the laborer to make war (and what else is a strike?), but wrong for the capitalists to use his own weapons in return. So the book closes, with the approved magazine touch—a woman sitting on a doorstep with a child in her arms. True, she did not do or say anything, but "she seemed to say" the things appropriate to the closing of the book on the right key.

At the beginning of Chapter II. there is a really powerful bit of writing, which may or may not have been due to the reading of Archibald Lampman's much more powerful poem, "The City of the End of Things." The end of things in this fine poem was a city in which only machinery lived; man had gone. Mrs. Vorse uses the same idea, except that man has not quite gone; you catch glimpses of him here and there about the place. She writes this with power and beauty; and there are other pieces of really good writing in the book. The rest too frequently tends toward the bathos of film captions and magazine stories. The story she tells is not only improbable, but she puts her own opinions and feelings into the mouths of her Slovaks with a ruthless roughness. Where they do not speak as she would have them she makes them think her thoughts.

She compares President Wilson's conference in 1916 to King Canuto's experiment with the waves. His mistake, it seems, was in calling old men to the conference. This looks bad, but later on we get an idea of what Mrs. Vorse believes an "old man" to be, when she speaks of a magnificent laborer of 53 or 56. Why even the screen managers will admit that man in his fifties is in the prime of life. Perhaps she draws the line that separates age from middle age at 45. In another place she speaks of the local secretaries. They were "getting gray, old trade unionists." "In their forties, most of them." Perhaps 35 instead of 45 would be the right figure. But she tells of the great deeds these gray or graying secretaries of 40 performed, so perhaps the President was not such an ass, after all.

"Sweeter old people I never saw, none who looked more innocent or more defenseless than Steve and his wife." "Gary"—she personifies tyranny in that name—must have been in a panic when he called out the Cossacks to bang the innocent and defenseless strikers over their heads. It seems to add something to Gary's infamy that he, or his associates, installed clubs, schools, sanitation, and such things; she relates these cunning tricks of theirs with a scorn that bites deep. Doubtless, though she does not say, these deeds may have had something to do with the attitude of that pusillanimous race, "the Americans." No believing reader of this high-colored piece of propaganda can do otherwise than abjure that hated race. Still one can pass them by with pity and contempt; but for Gary and the Cossacks nothing but a short shrift or none. Even for Gary there is no such fury of hate as for the Cossacks, which shows that Mrs. Vorse may have Girondin traits, after all.

THE SHIP "TYRE"

THE SHIP "TYRE." By Wilfred H. Schoff. New York: Longmans, Green & Co.

THIS book, by Mr. Schoff, who is Secretary of the Philadelphia Commercial Museum, is the elaboration of a paper read before the American Oriental Society and can, of course, be most fully appreciated only by an Orientalist. But for the general reader either of Scripture or of history his explanation of the doom of "the ship Tyre" in the Twenty-seventh Chapter of Ezekiel, and of the "King of Tyre" in the chapter following, will be of considerable interest. Ezekiel, a Babylonian captive, for prudential reasons used Tyre as a symbol for Babylon, whose forthcoming doom he predicted; his prophecy parallels Isaiah's denunciation of Nineveh under the symbol of Babylon, and provided much of the material and imagery for the author of Revelations, who similarly prophesied the doom of Rome, again using Babylon as a symbol.

The account of the equipment and cargo of the ship Tyre given by Ezekiel is of great value for our knowledge of commerce in the sixth and seventh centuries B. C., but the author shows that the particular articles cited all look back to the furnishings of the temple or to the treasures of the Kings who had formerly reigned in Jerusalem. Thus, for the hearers of Ezekiel it had a powerful effect in raising up memories of past glories, while the modern reader finds in it much light not only on the trade of the period but on the arrangement and fittings of the Tabernacle and the successive temples.

JUST PUBLISHED
THE NEXT CORNER
By KATE JORDAN
Elsie Maury's Letter to Her Husband
"June——, 1914, ——, El Miradero
This is going to hurt you, Robert, and I am deeply sorry—but it is inevitable. You see I am writing from the lodge in the Cantabrians. You know that it belongs to the young Marqués de Burgos, but perhaps you don't realize that he is the Don Arturo I sometimes spoke of in my letters. He has loved me a long time. Tonight I decided to remain with him because I came to see that if I gave him up and went back to you I would be too unhappy to live."
Fate intervenes to save Elsie Maury, and a situation fresh in fiction thus arises.
There are many dramatic scenes in
THE NEXT CORNER
By KATE JORDAN
Author of AGAINST THE WINDS
'Against the Winds" was pronounced by the critics "One of the Best American Novels of 1919." THE NEXT CORNER is even better!
$2.00 net. At all Booksellers.
LITTLE, BROWN & COMPANY, Publishers, Boston

Standard Practice in Personnel Work
By Eugene J. Benge
How to get the workmen you need; and after getting them, how to train them, keep happy and contented with their work—sooner or later you will face these problems. Mr. Benge tells how others have solved them, satisfactorily. 280 pages full of practical suggestions. $3.00
Let us send it to you on ten days' approval. Ask for it on your letterhead.
THE H. W. WILSON COMPANY
955 University Avenue New York City

THE TRUMPETER SWAN
By Temple Bailey
Author of "The Tin Soldier," etc.
An Old-Fashioned Love Story of Today
At All Bookstores—$2.00
THE PENN PUBLISHING COMPANY PHILADELPHIA

TO BE PUBLISHED NOT LATER THAN FEB. 1
The Principles of Freedom
By TERENCE MacSWINEY
The ordinary reader would take up this piece of work under a mis conception, probably imagining that the author intended to discuss the universal principles of freedom considered as an abstract ideal. On the contrary, what the author means by "freedom" is the political independence of Ireland from the rest of the British Empire, and the whole book deals exclusively with that subject and exclusively from the viewpoint of the author's fellow-irreconcilables in Ireland.
Your bookseller can procure it for you on publication.
E. P. DUTTON & CO., Publishers, 681 5th Av., New York

THE BOOK OF NEW YORK
by Robert Shackleton
Author of "The Book of Philadelphia," "Boston," "Chicago"
A history of the city and a guide book, but written in such a chatty and anecdotal manner as to be as interesting as a novel.
At All Bookstores—$3.50
THE PENN PUBLISHING COMPANY PHILADELPHIA

With Modern Argonauts

THE DIARY OF A FORTY-NINER. Edited by C. L. Canfield. Boston: The Houghton Mifflin Company. $3.50.

THE GLAMOUR OF PROSPECTING. By F. C. Cornell. With twenty-four pages of photographic illustrations and a map. New York: The Frederick A Stokes Company. $6.

Lure of gold, and lure of lands, and lure of the Southern Sea—
What is the guerdon we both must pay, what is the toll to be?
Never a price if down in our hearts lingers the old-time thrill,
Faith of the boy in the power o' dream—faith is with us still:
Seeking the gold we find the dream, and seeking the dream the gold,
For that is the way that we said 'twould be, when we knew we could never grow old.'
EDMUND LEAMY.

OF all the get-rich-quick promises which have lured venturesome souls, some—from the days of Columbus, who sought a shorter route to the fabled wealth of the Indies, down to the days of Ponzi—have beckoned and beguiled men more persistently than those made by Mother Earth.

"In my waste places," she challenges, "in my 'lands that God forgot,' lie treasures untold, yours for the taking, high-hearted followers of the unbroken trail—if you can but find them and then win back to civilization." There has never been a dearth of adventurers eager to respond to this siren challenge. Sometimes they have found the gold or gems they sought. More often they have failed. Many times the search for the Golden Fleece has cost these modern Jasons their lives; but those who have survived have always returned from the quest richer—if not in pocket, at least in memories of hardships and dangers shared and conquered, richer, too, from the close communion with Nature that is one of the greatest rewards of those who follow the seductive gleam of new Montezumas and Bonanzas, new Eldorados.

"Something hid behind the ranges! Go and look behind the ranges!" commanded Kipling. Two men who have obeyed that call, who have known the glamour of a life spent in the wilds, with the sand or the pine needles for a couch and the stars for their ceiling, have written, for the entertainment of those "who sit beside their hearths and dream their lives away," absorbing records of the adventures they encountered in their quest for Nature's hidden hordes.

One of these men, the author of "The Diary of a Forty-Niner," was in the California gold rush of seventy years ago when half a continent went "clean mad for the muck called gold." The other, whose account of his explorations into unmapped parts of South Africa in search of diamonds, emeralds, copper and gold is entitled "The Glamour of Prospecting," spent years wandering over the Kalahari Desert, across rocky wildernesses and unexplored mountains in Namaqualand, Bushmanland and other regions as unfamiliar to New Yorkers as the fastnesses of wildest Philadelphia.

Both books are romances of fact, more permanently satisfying than the best fiction of adventure. And both authors picture conditions that have gone forever. (Since Mr. Cornell wrote "The Glamour of Prospecting" the war has brought many of the wildest spots described by him within easy reach of the casual traveler. As a result of General Botha's campaign in German Southwest Africa, the Union Jack now floats over a huge tract of country between the lower Orange River and the South Atlantic; and many new railroad lines have come into being, linking Cape Town with the farthest extremities of the conquered territory.) The chief difference between the two volumes lies in the fact that Mr. Cornell writes about lands and people little known to the average American reader, while Mr. Canfield writes of a part of our country familiar to us, the unfamiliar portions of his vivid picture being merely the result of the alteration in living conditions in California between '49 and 1920.

"The Diary of a Forty-Niner" has an interesting history of its own as a publication. The volume was originally brought out in San Francisco, just before the earthquake. Soon after publication the plates and many of the copies in existence were destroyed. Since then single copies have sold at high prices. In his preface Mr. Canfield explains that there lately came into his possession a stout leather bound book of some three hundred pages, obviously the diary of one Alfred T. Jackson, a pioneer miner, who cabined and worked on Rock Creek, Nevada County, Cal. It contained a jumble of accounts and records of happenings and incidents in its author's life, ranging from notations on the cost of provisions and supplies to notes on the doings of mining chums and neighbors. In the lapse of fifty years since it had been written the ink had faded and turned yellow, many of the lines were barely legible, and a dozen of the first leaves of the book had been torn away. The remainder was intact. It is this authentic, unadorned chronicle of the placer mining days of the foothills, told in simple and, at times, ungrammatical sentences, yet vivid and convincing in the absence of conscious literary endeavor, that the editor passes on to the readers of his fascinating book. Mr. Canfield adds that the many incidents and happenings so simply noted have been verified, both by local tradition and the testimony of "old timers" still living. (The original date of the preface to the book was 1906.)

Alfred T. Jackson, according to the inscription of the inside front cover of his diary, came from Norfolk, Litchfield County, Conn. That he must have been among the earliest of those fearless argonauts who ventured into the California foothills is argued by the date of the first entry in his personal record—May 19, 1850. He lived the unharnessed life of the old, wide-open days before the law came into the California gold country—those days of flaunting success and sordid failure when "men bulked big" and life ran large, when a rich vein made a prospector a millionaire in a day and the faro table made him a pauper in a night. Never have there been more picturesque times in the history of America, and never have they been more vividly portrayed than in this diary of a man who lived where living was as dramatic and colorful as in any romance written. In a sense, the book is a unique contribution to American history. The period which it describes has had no parallel, and no historian unless we include the fiction of Bret Harte and his imitators. And according to Mr. Canfield, who is by way of being something of an old-timer himself, Bret Harte should be ruled out as a historian:

"The present generation is content to adopt Bret Harte's tales as veracious chronicles of life in the foothills and mining camps of the 'Fifties,' yet every old pioneer knows that his types were exaggerated, the miners' dialect impossible and unknown; but he illumined his pages with genius, he caught the atmosphere, and neither protest nor denial is sufficient to remove the belief that he was writing real history. * * * We have had a surfeit of the stoic gambler, uncouth miner, draggle-tailed courtesans and impossible school mistresses. These were inventions touched, distorted and illuminated by Bret Harte's genius."

Certainly none of these lay figures appear in their familiar rôles in Jackson's picture of the free, careless life that vanished forever even before the golden harvest had been gathered from creek, gulch and ravine. But what a life the argonauts did live in those pine-clothed hills, close to paganism, laughing scornfully at the shackles of the civilization they had left behind in "The States."

I guess we stopped at forty cabins on the way; never failed to get an invitation to grub, never were allowed to pay a cent, and I want to put it down right here that bigger hearted, more generous, or more hospitable men than there are in these mountains never lived on earth. * * * We don't ask what a man is worth or how much he has got. The only question is, Is he a good fellow? * * * This is a great country for everybody minding his own business. * * * If there is one thing above another that prevails, it is the good fellowship among us all. If a man is taken sick, is hurt, or in bad luck, there is not one of us that is not ready to nurse him or put our hands into our pockets if necessary. We don't ask who he is, where he came from, or what is his religion. On the other hand, men are coming and going all the time. You may have known a man for a year, then you miss him, see a stranger at his cabin, and ask what has become of the old occupant, and the answer will be, "Oh, he has made his pile and gone back to the States," or, "His claim petered out and he's off prospecting." * * * And then you forget him.

Of course, all things were not as golden as this passage would suggest. The unsettled conditions had their other side, as witness the following entry:

The mountains are full of miners tramping around from one section to another, wandering over the country, men leaving with their piles or hunting better diggings, and there are numerous hold-ups and murders on the trails that become known only when somebody runs across the bodies. As we are all strangers to each other outside of our immediate neighborhoods, the identity of the murdered man is rarely discovered and but little interest is taken in apprehending the murderers.

Wealth and Arcady have ever been enemies. Besides the road agents, bad men, saloons and gamblers there were claim jumpers, claims that did not pay after much back-breaking toil and other curses mixed with the many blessings of the miners' lives.

Greatest of the blessings were the unmatchable friendships between men who "cabined together" through good luck and bad. To "cabin together" in the "fifties" signified an interdependent relationship between man and man that is not found today outside of the trenches, a relationship intimate, more self-sacrificing than that of brothers, a love that forgave the irascibility resulting from toil, exposure and fatigue, that rose superior even to the soul-trying test of the repetitions of sour bread and a scorching of the bean-pot.

And what rollicking larks Jackson describes, not always innocent—liquor often flowed too freely—but never unwholesome. The Forty-Niners at play were like colts unbroke, and as naïve in their fun as schoolboys. Imagine, if you can, half a hundred husky men holding a mock funeral over the remains of Thanksgiving turkey and getting such huge enjoyment out of their own sheer nonsense that their woodland home rang and echoed with their merriment. Or try to picture the population of a town fêting a jackass that vanquished a bear in a battle staged between them in an improvised stockade.

A procession was formed, the animal in the lead, and we all tramped back to town, shouting, singing and banging away with pistols. When we reached Caldwell's store (which is now Nevada City), the place went mad. The crowd would drive the burro into a saloon, insist on pledging him for drinks, then redeem him by taking up a collection for the bill, and repeat at the next saloon. The town was in for a grand drunk, but I soon got tired of it and rode home.

(When the author of the diary left the Litchfield hills he promised his mother not to drink, and according to his written record he never broke his word.)

Joyous holiday making such as that just described typifies as well as anything could the ingenuous spirit of the Forty-niners.

The early entries in Jackson's diary show that he was unmistakably homesick, particularly for Hetty North, "the girl he left behind him." Then he and Anderson, an educated fellow from Syracuse, cast their lot together, and from that time onward Jackson's homesickness is steadily supplanted by a growing love for the new land and the freer life. In describing this man, whom he almost invariably refers to throughout his book simply as "Pard," the diarist writes: "I know he went through college and hung out his shingle as a lawyer. He can recite poetry by the yard and quote from all sorts of books." The editor of the diary adds the information that "Pard," who appears in the diary under his assumed name of Anderson, later "stood among the foremost at the San Francisco bar and high in the councils of State."

One of the most fascinating features of this remarkable document is the diarist's self-revelation of his evolution from a Puritanical New Englander, bound and shackled with the prejudices of generations, narrow and limited in his views and opinions, unsophisticated in his experiences, into a broad-minded man whose mental growth is miraculously stimulated by the freedom of his environment and associations. He becomes tolerant of his fellows and convinced of the existence of a worthwhile world beyond the horizon of

(Continued on Page 28)

The Huge Nests of the "Social Birds." These Birds, Although Only the Size of Sparrows, Build in Colonies and the Nests Are Often So Huge That the Limbs Break With Their Weight.

"The Glamor of Prospecting."

Dogs Dying of Thirst on the Great Salt Pan, Southern Kalahari.

"The Glamor of Prospecting."

Title Page of the First Issue of Franklin's General Magazine.

Bookish Ben Franklin

The First American Cartoon Drawn by Franklin and Published in The Pennsylvania Gazette.

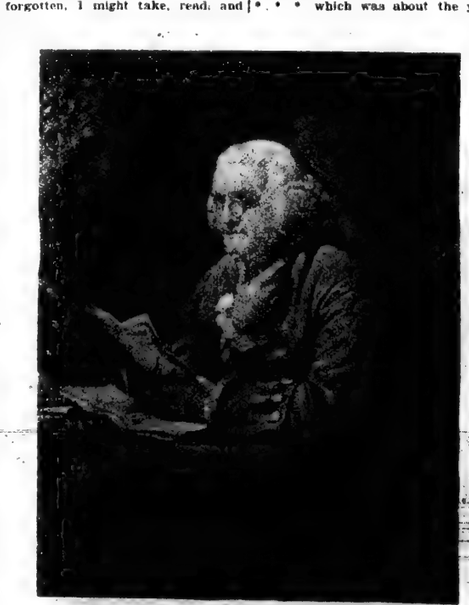
By ANA DON DICKINSON, Librarian of the University of Pennsylvania.

TOMORROW (Jan. 17) is Franklin's birthday. Two hundred and fifteen years ago Josiah Franklin, the Boston soap-boiler, thanked God for the birth of his fifteenth child and called his name Benjamin. At 15 years of age 'Prentice Ben slipped under the office door his first contribution to his elder brother's newspaper. So it is just 200 years since Franklin began his literary career.

These dates are fresh in my mind because I have just been studying and arranging what is probably the greatest collection in existence of Franklin's literary remains—the Curtis collection of Franklin imprints, recently presented to the library of the University of Pennsylvania by the Curtis Publishing Company, publishers of The Saturday Evening Post, the lineal descendant of that stalwart Colonial newspaper, The Pennsylvania Gazette, founded by Franklin in 1729. It is fitting that this great collection should find a permanent home in the institution of learning which Franklin founded nearly 200 years ago.

Throughout all but the first two or three of the eighty-four years of his life, Franklin used books constantly and lived with them on terms of the closest intimacy. Through nearly all of these eighty years he was in some way instrumental in producing books. He has told us that he learned to read at a very early age. In fact, he could not remember when he could not read. As a small boy he found but meagre fare in his father's library. He tells us: "My father's library consisted in books of polemic divinity, most of which I read, and have since often regretted that at a time when I had such a thirst for knowledge more proper books had not fallen in my way."

One wonders what would have been the result if he had had access to the well-arranged collections of books which our free public libraries offer today to the children of the poorest immigrant. Very likely the issue would have been the same, for your true bibliophage will contrive to extract nourishment from the merest husks of literary fodder. Moreover, he remarks, "Plutarch's 'Lives' there was, in which I read abundantly, and I still think that time spent to great advantage. There was also a book of De Foe's called an 'Essay on Projects' and another of Dr. Mather's called 'Essays to Do Good,' which perhaps gave me a turn of thinking that had an influence on some of the principal future events of my life." Seventy years after reading the last named book, Franklin wrote the author's son, "I have always set a greater value on the character of a doer of good, than on any other kind of reputation; and if I have been, as you seem to think, a useful citizen, the public owes the advantage of it to that book."



The Old Philosopher in His Library.

The Martin Portrait of Franklin.

return any of his books. This I esteemed a great advantage, and I made as much use of it as I could." Doubtless this demonstration of the advantages of a circulating library had much to do with his founding of the Library Company in Philadelphia three years later.

We find innumerable book-adventures and book-incidents in his life, so constant and continuous were his bookish associations. He was named for an uncle, who used to shower pious and pedantic counsel upon his namesake. This uncle was something of a bibliophile and many years after his death Franklin was reminded of this fact when he was representing the Colonies in England. "Yesterday," he writes to a relative, "a very odd incident happened, which I must mention to you, as it related to your grandfather. A person that deals in old books, of whom I sometimes buy, acquainted me that he had a curious collection of pamphlets bound in eight volumes folio, and twenty-four volumes quarto and octavo, which, he thought, from the subject, I might like to have, and that he would sell them cheap. I desired to see them and he brought them to me. On examining, I found that they contained all the principal pamphlets and papers on public affairs that had been printed here from the Restoration down to 1715.

"In one of the blank leaves at the beginning of each volume the collector had written the titles of the pieces contained in it, and the prices they cost him. Also notes in the margins of many of the pieces; and the collector, I find from the handwriting and various other circumstances, was * * * my uncle Benjamin. Wherefore, I the more readily agreed to buy them. I suppose he parted with them when he left England and came to Boston * * * which was about the year 1710 or 1717, more than fifty years since. In whose hands they have been all this time I know not. The oddity is that the bookseller, who could suspect nothing of any relation between me and the collector, should happen to make the offer of them to me."

Another noteworthy instance of how books and bookishness were woven into the fabric of his life is quoted in his "Autobiography," when he relates how once, with his customary shrewdness and understanding of human nature, he changed an enemy into a friend: "Having heard that he had in his library a certain very scarce and curious book, I wrote a note to him, expressing my desire of perusing that book, and requesting he would do me the favor of lending it to me for a few days. He sent it immediately, and I returned it in about a week with another note expressing strongly my sense of the favor. When we next met * * * he spoke to me (which he had never done before) and with great civility, and he ever after manifested a readiness to serve me on all occasions, so that we became great friends, and our friendship continued to his death." Was there ever a book lover that would not have been won over by a ruse so subtly flattering?

During his first sojourn in London, while a journeyman printer, Franklin's young blood ran hot in his veins. He led rather a gay life in those days after his day's work was over. But he welcomed the opportunity to turn over a new leaf and return to sober Philadelphia after eighteen months abroad. The return voyage afforded time for serious reflection, as is evidenced by the title page of a private devotional book prepared shortly after his return. The original manuscript of this little work—"Articles of Belief and Acts of Religion"—is in the archives of the State Department.

Among the advertisements in the Pennsylvania Gazette are many savory tidbits for the antiquarian gourmet. One exhibits the accomplished editor and canny business manager in the rôle of bill collector. Was ever a dun more winningly phrased? Another advertisement is that of the "Widow Read"—Franklin's mother-in-law. After her husband's death she came to live with her dutiful and thrifty son-in-law, who straightway accorded to her the courtesy of his advertising columns and doubtless enabled her to build up a tidy little business over the counter of his shop in her "Ointment for the Itch."

The first number of Franklin's ill-fated General Magazine appeared in January, 1741. It is comforting to common mortals to reflect that even Franklin was indiscreet at times and talked too freely about his plans. As in the case of his projected newspaper, so here a rival printer got wind of his bright idea and forestalled him. The first number of Bradford's American Magazine appeared just three days before Franklin's General Magazine, and thus to the latter of the distinction of being the first American monthly periodical. Both babes, however, are said to have been brought forth untimely and neither completed the first year of its existence.

Franklin was a true bookman if ever there was one. He read books, wrote books, compiled books, printed books, published books and sold books. The appended panying title page shows him in congenial rôle of bookseller.

An anonymous pamphlet, written and published by Franklin in 1732, concerns the myriads of Penn's "sons very nearly. The author has described its genesis in the following words: "Having acquired some little reputation by projecting the Public Library in 1732, and obtaining the subscriptions by which it was established, and by projecting and promoting with success, some other schemes of utility, in which I was encouraged to hazard an odd project, that of a Public Education for our Youth. Before I went abroad to procure subscriptions I thought proper to prepare the minds of the people by a pamphlet, which I printed and distributed with the newspapers gratis; the title was 'Proposals Relating to the Education of Youth in Pennsylvania.'"

From this small beginning arose the university in Philadelphia, which in its present day registration of 3,000 students.

Everybody knows that the various Franklin was the originator of many things. But few realize that he was the first American cartoonist. His "Join or Die," the familiar sketch of a chopped-up serpent, with each section representing one of the Colonies, was entirely the work of Franklin. Even the cutting of the type-metal was done by his own hands. This first newspaper cartoon appeared in the Pennsylvania Gazette, May 9, 1754, and was a device for urging united action upon the Colonies at the outbreak of the French and Indian War. It may be noted also that he engraved a map of the Siege of Louisburg and published it in The Gazette. It is said to have been the earliest attempt at illustrating news.

We must pass by Poor Richard's Almanac and a hundred and one other less widely known literary enterprises of this indefatigable genius and note only two more works, though striking, have received little attention.

Like many of us today, Franklin was no church-goer, but firmly believed in the desirability of people's attendance at public worship. In the goodness of his heart, however, he was desirous of rendering the Church of England's burial service less onerous to the bereaved. So, while representing the Colonies in England, he proceeded to abridge the Book of Common Prayer! He was assisted in the task by an English crony, the once notorious Lord De Spencer.

The whole episode reminds one of the day when, as a small boy, he suggested to his astonished parents that much time and trouble might be saved if grace were said before the whole family pork-barrel was once.

The pretended issue of The Boston Independent Chronicle was the product of his private press at Passy, France, while he was American envoy at the Court of Louis XVI. It was intended for wide circulation in England and aimed at arousing sympathy for the American cause by some of whom really were being slaughtered by Indians in the pay of the English. It contained an account of the capture of a quantity of colonists' scalps, and was published by advertisements cunningly

(Continued on Page 17)

ALL Persons indebted to Benj Franklin, Printer of this Paper, are defired to fend in their refpective Payments: (Thofe Subscribers for the News excepted, from whom a Twelve-Month's Pay is not yet due).

Gentlemen, it is but a little to each of you, though it will be a conſiderable Sum to me; and lying in many hands wide from each other, (according to the Nature of our Buſineſs) it is highly inconvenient and ſcarce practical for me to call upon every One; I ſhall therefore think myſelf particularly obliged, and take it very kind of thoſe, who are mindful to ſend or bring it in without further Notice.

An Advertisement That Appeared in The Pennsylvania Gazette. to the Land of the Original Ape Man

FITZHUGH LEE
INNIGERODE.
merican Museum of Nat-
History will, within a days, start its Third tic Expedition, the larg-ind ever undertaken, into nknown, or, at best, little ons of Central Asia. The is expeditions into the stery, under the direction
e institution, were limited o zoology and repared to carry on such esearch as will the present into the fields of palaeon-chaeology and anthro-

ad of the party of scien-who will shortly start for ich is to be the headquarexpedition, will be Roy Andrews, a member of the aff of the American Mu-atural History and Assotor of Mammals of the emisphere. Mr. Andrews previous expeditions into ets and almost forbidding is therefore well equipped rate and distinct units will

Camp on the Edge of the Forest North of Urga. Skins Hung Out to Dry.

Photos American Museum of Natural History.

Flowers in a Valley in Northern Mongolia.

d in this third invasion of of Asia. Three units will by palaeontologists; two will operate in widely sepations of Central Asia and will operate in Northern e archaeologist, one anist and one geologist each a unit for research in each lds respectively. Andrews other distinguished zoolo-be in charge of four units, and one other will make a living animals, the third e himself to the study of reptiles and the fourth will te his efforts upon the ird life.
's himself will be the nerve all activities and will be l charge of all ten units, in to his study and labor in his en field.
what he considered the ntials for the success of the n, Mr. Andrews answered: and money. The present
n will be gone for a period ars, and the estimated cost inese will be in the neigh-of $500,000. There are e possibilities of new knowl-
I think our most cherished to discover traces of the ient man. Such an achieveuld give us a clearer vision volopment of the race from st beginnings down to the
It is generally admitted by s that the centre of dispersal of the human race was Central Asia, the scene of our proposed activities."

Pointing to large map on the wall, Mr. Andrews continued:

"This vast territory of Mongolia, Western China and Tibet has undergone many and great changes within, say, the last two million years. Originally the region was a vast forest and the Himalaya Mountains were not the great and high mountains that they are today. Climatic changes, due to the gradual raising of these vast areas, brought about the inevitable changes in life, both animal and vegetable. The one vast forest was transformed into widely separated islands of forest in which the apes found themselves cut off. As this process of the lessening of the forest area, due to increased elevation and the consequent diminution of moisture and warmth continued, the apes thus cut off found it necessary to seek the ground for their sustenance. On the ground the ape was practically defenseless and therefore the creatures banded together for mutual protection.

"From this purely defensive attitude they gradually progressed to one of offense, rendered necessary by their requirements of life. Slowly they learned the use of their front legs, not as legs but as arms. It was a process of evolution. It was necessary to devise some means of protection, and with these arms and hands they began to throw stones and to use clubs. The continued, through very gradual, change from forest land into the high, and to a great extent arid, plateau caused the migrations. As other animals, driven by the changes being wrought, sought other fields, they were followed by the earliest ape-man in search of food and fur.

"The course of these migrations can be traced with a very fair degree of accuracy. Wave after wave of these ape-men moved west. Others moved northeast toward the Peninsula of Kamchatka, and eventually crossed over to America in the vicinity of Bering Straits and in due time became the American Indians. Asia and America were connected by a neck of land at this time. The facial resemblance between the Mongolians and American Indians of today is a very striking one.

"For many centuries man and ape were one and the same. Together they migrated. It cannot be determined with any great degree of accuracy when or where the split occurred, but that there was a branching out from the common trunk is certain. One branch moved southwest and crossed into Africa, and are today the gorillas, chimpanzees and orang-utans of that continent. The other branch, migrating westward, were the forebears of the barbarians that surged into Europe thousands of years later. It is perhaps a hundred to one chance that we will not find the traces of these beginnings of man, but it is easily within the realm of the possible."

"We will accomplish, however," Mr. Andrews continued, "our mission of collecting and preserving a great quantity of material—animal, bird and reptile—for the proposed Hall of Asiatic Life which the city will add to the Museum for the accommodation of the collection. For this collection it is our purpose to have groups appear in a setting distinctive of the native haunts of the different specimens, and it will therefore be necessary to study carefully the habits and surroundings of all specimens taken."

Mr. Andrews, owing to his past experience and his thorough knowledge of much of the country which this expedition will cover, will have the most complete paraphernalia and equipment ever carried on a similar trip. Few people have any conception of the painstaking preparations that must be made for an undertaking in such a remote and inaccessible portion of the world. Fewer still can begin to appreciate the indomitable power of will and patience required of the men who compose the party.

A man lacking experience and knowledge concerning such an enterprise as this immediately conjures up visions of thrilling adventure. The uninitiated see only the glamour of strange sights; unknown and unwritten-about people in the mountain and desert-locked places of the world. They do not see the drudgeries, the fatigues, the privations and the disappointments that must be met and overcome. It would seem that a handful of Americans journeying without guards through a country infested with brigands—as is practically the case through all this vast area—must surely meet adventure; not once, but many times. Here, however, is what the head of the expedition says on this point:

"I agree with my friend Stefansson, who says that adventure on a mission of exploration and research is the mark of incompetence. We could have daily advantures undoubtedly, so might you here in New York, but they are unnecessary and we never anticipate a thing of this kind. I certainly do not look for any unusual danger or adventure before we reach the borders of Tibet, and even there we probably will have none. I feel that there is no greater danger on an expedition of this kind than I would be subjected to in New York—certainly at this time."

Then he added a little dreamily, "The life insurance companies take a different view, however. Our chief protection against brigands and the like consists in the simple fact that we carry with us little or nothing that these brigands want. We do not carry money. Our rifles and revolvers are little temptation for them because they would have no source of replenishing their ammunition supply. They want rifles, but only Chinese army rifles for which they can easily obtain ammunition. They do not care for our food. They realize that in attacking us they would run considerable risk and gain little at best, consequently they let us alone."

The question of transportation for such an expedition is in itself a large problem. Practically every known method will come into use. The party will, of course, travel as far as is possible by modern methods of conveyance. The equipment to be taken contains several high-grade auto trucks. These will be of great advantage in some reaches of this unprecedented journey—especially in penetrating the Desert of Gobi and in sections of the high plateau country. In certain localities the explorers must fall back upon camels, yaks, horses or asses, and at times it will be impossible to advance except on foot.

To a question regarding the payment for the service of the coolies, cargadores, caravans, people, &c., when no funds are carried, Mr. Andrews replied that payment would be made at regular intervals and at designated places—arrangements being made to have the funds meet them. The laborers will be paid in advance, perhaps three months, perhaps a month, depending upon circumstances. Desertion and acts of violence are not to be expected from any natives accompanying the expedition by virtue of the fact that every one of them has been vouched for by responsible parties or firms in Peking or elsewhere, before they are accepted. These natives, however, will not be armed, and every American member of the party will be.

No expedition of this nature would be complete without adequate arrangements to have everything of interest photographically recorded. An expert photographer and moving-picture man will be kept continually busy making a pictoral record of the expedition.

This photographic record alone will be of tremendous interest and value. Nor is the expedition to be denied the honor of recording for the first time and for all men the marvelous coloring of these remote places. Mrs. Andrews, who has given much time and diligent study to color photography and who accompanied her husband on the last expedition, will be a member of this third party and will devote herself exclusively to this comparatively new art of color photography.

In Urga, Capital of Mongolia. A Young and an Elderly Woman, Showing the Close Approximation of the Type to That of the American Indian.

Commercial Aeronautics

(Continued from Page 5)

over train time, had the trains arrived on schedule. In fact, the train schedules between New York and Chicago were notoriously bad during the Winter season. Economically, during the second year the air mail signally justified itself as a flying proposition. Not only were the costs of operation far below what was originally anticipated, but the operation of the service between Washington and New York brought direct saving to the Government at the rate of $42,500 a year, and the service between New York and Chicago a direct saving at a rate in excess of $100,000 a year. This shows that when first-class mail is considered—mail which requires distribution on the trains—the air mail can carry, when large quantities are to be dispatched, more cheaply than the distributing cars on trains.

Second Assistant Postmaster General Otto Praeger makes the following statement:

"Of all of the complex transportation problems, the matter of mail transportation is the most complicated. In the case of the air mail, for instance, the route from New York to Washington is not for the purpose of advancing mail over train service from New York City to the City of Washington, but to insure the delivery of New England mail in the City of Washington in the afternoon instead of the following morning if it had come by train. This mail reaches New York early in the morning by the night trains from New England and in two and a half hours flying time is set down in Washington. The result is that it is all delivered by the afternoon carriers. Flying from Washington to New York, however, there is a great gain in the receipt of letters in New York City from the entire South. Mail worked to carriers on trains is taken from the trains in Washington and delivered in New York City early that afternoon. Had the mail continued to New York by train it would not have reached there until after all carrier deliveries had ended, and the letters would have been delivered the following day.

"In the movement of mail by airplane from New York to Chicago, the mail that is taken out of New York early in the morning for Chicago is not for the patrons of the Chicago office, but for the States of the West and the Middle West. This mail is taken off the plane at Cleveland and placed on board a train bound for Chicago, which insures catching earlier connections at Chicago for the West and Middle West. Such mail is almost invariably advanced sixteen hours to the persons addressed. At Cleveland the mail is taken off the train which left New York City at 5:30 o'clock the afternoon before—a train which would have reached Chicago too late for carrier deliveries—and is carried by airplane into Chicago in time to catch all of the carrier deliveries that afternoon in that city. The result is that the mail is delivered to the people of Chicago on the afternoon instead of the following morning. By this arrangement 800 pounds of mail a day, or more than 30,000 letters, are expedited about sixteen hours in deliveries to the patrons; whereas if only Chicago city mail had been taken out of New York only 400 pounds of mail could have been expedited. It means an expedition of 30,000 letters sixteen hours, rather than the expedition of 15,000 letters from twenty to twenty-four hours."

Another table gives a monthly report of operations and maintenance in elaborate detail, and persons contemplating the operation of aircraft passenger or freight service will find therein the answer for practically every question concerning maintenance and operating expenses, divided into overhead, flying and maintenance. Appended to the table is a list and types of the planes operated. At the present time the Post Office Department has thirty-five regular planes, thirteen reserve planes and four try-out planes for establishing the qualifications of fliers—a total of fifty-two planes. To operate these planes there are thirty-eight regular pilots, eleven reserve pilots and three ferry pilots, a total of fifty-two pilots. A third table gives the station and number of ground personnel for the month of July, 1920, which fluctuates slightly from month to month, but is sufficiently accurate to give the number now employed. The ships in service, with their pilots, are allocated as follows:

Route.	Regular Planes.	Regular Pilots.	Reserve Planes.	Reserve Pilots.
New York—Washington	4	1	3	1
New York—Cleveland	4	1	4	2
Cleveland—Chicago	3	1	4	1
Chicago—St. Louis	4	1	3	1
Chicago—Minneapolis	4	2	4	1
Chicago—Omaha	4	1	4	1
Omaha—Salt Lake	6	3	8	2
Salt Lake—S. Francisco	6	3	8	2

With respect to the saving of time of the air mail over railway mail service in expediting letter mail over long runs, it may be stated that the savings in matters of time and cost of distribution arise from the fact that airplane trips are made at an average speed of eighty miles an hour or better, while the average speed of the fastest mail and passenger trains is forty miles an hour or less.

The following comparative table of possible air mail and train service, compiled by the Post Office Department, will illustrate this point:

From	To	Scheduled Time of Mail Trains in 1918 and 1919. H.M.	Possible Time by Air 1913, 1919. H.M.	Mail. H.M.
Boston	Detroit	18:10	21:55	8:20
Boston	Chicago	25:50	27:00	8:45
Boston	New York	5:36	6:50	3:00
New York	Chicago	23:50	24:20	9:30
New York	Omaha	34:20	38:30	15:20
New York	Minn'polis	35:42	36:54	13:30
New York	St. Louis	23:55	28:45	12:05
New York	Jack'ville	27:35	20:22	11:54
New York	Seattle	83:15	90:00	31:54
New York	Portland	84:30	90:30	32:51
New York	S. Fran'co	86:40	90:30	35:00
Wash'ton	Jack'ville	22:00	24:40	8:56
Wash'ton	N. Orleans	35:30	36:30	12:51
Wash'ton	Chicago	21:00	22:10	8:11
Wash'ton	St. Louis	23:35	27:55	9:30
Chicago	Minn'polis	10:17	11:24	4:48
Chicago	Omaha	11:20	12:45	5:30
St. Louis	Kan. City	7:10	7:23	3:06
St. Louis	Ft. Worth	24:00	20:10	7:25
St. Louis	Omaha	12:14	13:26	4:42

Post Office officials say that the number of deaths since the inauguration of the Air Mail Service is eight. These deaths were largely due to the facts that the aeronautical industry had not produced planes designed specifically for mail carrying, that a number of the planes were remodeled war ships, and that flying has been conducted regardless of weather, and in a number of planes under test—all contributing to the likelihood of serious and fatal accidents. In connection with this the following paragraph from the Office of Information of the Post Office Department is of interest:

"The Air Mail has developed a staff of excellent aeronautical mechanics, the result of whose work is seen by the records of some of its pilots. One notable instance was that of a pilot who in eight months made 106 trips with but a single forced landing, due to mechanical trouble. On the Chicago-Cleveland Division in 1919, 205 consecutive trips of 325 miles each were made without a forced landing for any cause whatever. The Air Mail has come to New York from Washington and from Chicago in gales and snowstorms which tied up harbor shipping. It has arrived in Cleveland and in Chicago when it was the only means of transportation operative. During the tornado that passed over Ohio and Illinois in the Spring of 1920, in which 103 persons were killed and the buildings in cities and villages wrecked, the Air Mail made its flight through that storm and arrived safely with the mail in Chicago."

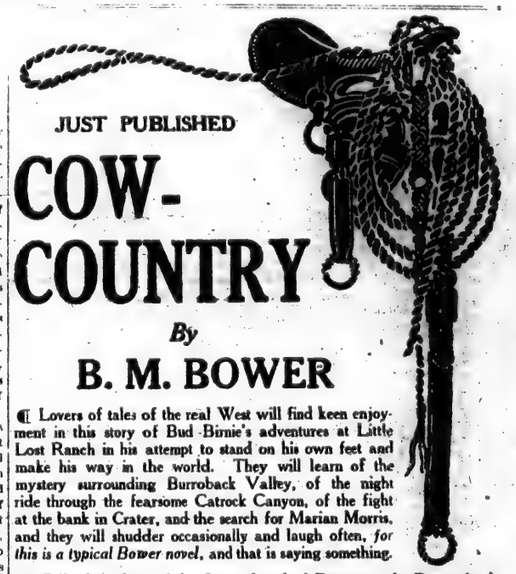
Fatalities in the Railway Mail Service have been considerable. In making up trains mail cars are placed near the engine, and when accidents occur such are most likely to be demolished. When the Post Office Department receives for operation planes specifically designed for the job; planes structurally stable enough to withstand unusual weather, and supplied with motive power of proved reliability and with multiple power units, the element of danger should be reduced to a minimum. It cannot be too emphatically stated with few exceptions that the equipment now in use in commercial aviation, including the air mail, was designed for war service. Taken altogether the Air Mail Service has demonstrated that commercial aeronautics is a valuable asset to transportation. It promises large returns financially, and its safety is comparable to any other method of traveling now in use.

In the United States and Canada the number of planes in use in forest fire patrol and in surveying by aerial photography is about fifty, although there is no continuous year-around service in these two departments of commercial aviation at the present time. Interested parties declare, however, that next year when radio facilities are available forest patrols will be continuous in the Dominion of Canada and the Northwest. Aerial photography, while employed by numerous real estate and lumbering concerns, has been for the major part a governmental activity. It has included mapping sections in Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, a complete coastal survey of Haiti and San Domingo, and some areas on the Pacific Coast. Its usefulness is apparent, and will undoubtedly expand as facilities are increased and perfected for such work.

At the present time aircraft are not being manufactured in this country in quantity. However, all-metal planes with a carrying capacity in addition to the pilot of from three to twenty people are being made, and some of these craft are in operation. Large seaplanes or airboats carrying from ten to twenty passengers are also being built, and are in operation, for example, in the air passenger mail line from Florida to Cuba. Blimps, or small dirigibles, are in operation on the Pacific Coast between Los Angeles and San Francisco, and various concerns are now designing and building craft intended particularly for passenger and express or light freight carrying. These are being built on order by concerns now in operation to replace the war machines as fast as they wear out, and to inaugurate new lines.

These planes cost from $3,000 for the sport types—single-passenger planes—to $65,000 for ten to twenty passenger carrying craft, and $100,000 for special airboats with multiple power plants. All-metal planes carrying from five to nine passengers in addition to the pilot cost from $35,000 to $60,000.

At the present moment there are before Congress two bills of like tenor for the establishment of a Bureau of Aeronautics within the Department of Commerce in charge of a Commissioner of Air Navigation whose duties will comprise the licensing of aircraft pilots and airdromes, the designation of flying routes, co-operation with the States and municipalities in the laying out of landing fields, and in general the promotion of all matters looking to the advancement of commercial aviation. This is the rising sun of hope for all people interested in commercial aeronautics in this country. Proper legal restrictions to safeguard the public and its property against wildcat promotions and loosely controlled operation, and at the same time for the protection of those who travel by air, is an essential preliminary to the expansion of commercial aviation. Once stabilized by law and regulated by co-operative assistance from the Government in the same way that shipping is assisted by fighthouses, buoys and the Coast Guard service, the banker can have no further excuse for withholding the funds which are indispensable to the upbuilding of the industry.



JUST PUBLISHED

COW-COUNTRY

By

B. M. BOWER

¶ Lovers of tales of the real West will find keen enjoyment in this story of Bud Birnie's adventures at Little Lost Ranch in his attempt to stand on his own feet and make his way in the world. They will learn of the mystery surrounding Burroback Valley, of the night ride through the fearsome Catrock Canyon, of the fight at the bank in Crater, and the search for Marian Morris, and they will shudder occasionally and laugh often, for this is a typical Bower novel, and that is saying something.

¶ Full of the lure of the Sunset Land of Romance, the Bower books are different, because you find in them not only the splendid sweep of the plains and mountain ranges, the glory of the sunset, the rugged strength and resourcefulness of the men who ride and shoot, but also a gay and rollicking humor as typical of the West as all the other characteristics which lovers of Western novels like to find. That is why "Cow-Country," like the other Bower books, will be so popular.

$1.75 net. At all Booksellers

LITTLE, BROWN & COMPANY, Publishers, Boston

AN ENGLISH WIFE IN BERLIN

By EVELYN, Princess BLÜCHER

A HEALING BOOK—EXTRAORDINARILY APPEALING

The Chicago Tribune says:

"It relates more effectively than many histories do the brave triumphant gayety of Berlin in the early victorious days of the war; the weakening morale of the people as the times grew evil; there is a vivid unstudied picture of the revolution . . . and sorrow for the good and brave men who have sacrificed so much for false ideals and at the sight of a great country crumbling into ruins."

The New York Evening Post says:

"Informal, racy of the moment, lively in mingling of personal incident with political happening, it reflects with unconscious dramatic quality the development of the German catastrophe and the aftermath of disaster."

The Chicago Evening Post says:

"It is in a class by itself—unequaled in fairness and accuracy."

The Boston Herald says:

"No more informing book has come out of Germany since the war."

The World calls it

"Unique among books of wartime experience and of an interest and value entitling it to a permanent place in literature."

$6.00. If not obtainable in your bookstore, it can be had from

E. P. DUTTON & COMPANY, 681 5th Av., New York

Hamilton Wright Mabie, Literary Journalist

THE LIFE AND LETTERS OF HAMILTON W. MABIE. By Edwin W. Morse. New York: Dodd, Mead & Co. $2.50.

THIS biography of a man who in his capacities of editor, lecturer and author, devoted five decades to public-spirited endeavor, furnishes one more proof of the fact that the interest attaching to the record of any individual's life often varies in inverse ratio to the sum of his good works.

At the time of his death four years ago, Hamilton W. Mabie had the respect and admiration of many thousands of men and women throughout this country, and even abroad. To these thousands Mr. Morse's summing up of the achievements of the late associate editor of the Outlook will be welcome; but readers who enjoy biographies for their story value, independently of any particular interest in the man written about, will probably be more entertained by a record of the careers of less admirable men—such, for example, as P. T. Barnum, Jesse James or "Al" Jennings.

If it is true that we love our friends for their faults and weaknesses rather than for their strength and virtues, it is equally true that those qualities which command respect for a man during his lifetime seldom recommend his biography to the general reader. That a life of service to the highest ideals of citizenship is worthy of admiration, he who reads as he rides between home and office, office and home, will readily accede; but he will add in the same breath the observation that a narrative of such a life is apt to lack the dramatic quality necessary to hold his attention. Did not Shakespeare suggest something of this same truth when he had Marc Antony exclaim, "The evil that men do lives after them; the good is oft interred with their bones"?

The reviewer does not mean to suggest that Mr. Morse's volume is dull, but it is far from exciting. The subject of it led an uneventful life, in the sense that there were few dramatic happenings in his life. His days were rather an orderly progression in which banquets, lectures, literary and journalistic work and social betterment activities figured prominently. There were numerous trips to Europe and one to Japan (where Mr. Mabie was sent by the Carnegie Endowment as an unofficial ambassador of peace to lecture on American life and ideals); there were friendships with many prominent men of letters, and, for the rest, there were the quiet duties of semi-religious editing and of a happy home life. Such activities may fill a man's life with years not lacking in color; but the chronicle of them resembles the actuality as the dew resembles the rain.

"The Life and Letters of Hamilton W. Mabie" is a labor of love. It is all that is implied by the familiar heading "Life and Letters." It might have been termed with equal accuracy, "The Life, Letters and Lectures of and so-forth." We recall one time when we were sick and had a craving for figs. The doctor didn't think they would be good for us, so with disarming diplomacy he denied them to us by saying we could eat one—if we first counted the number of seeds in it. In the present volume the letters and lectures are like the seeds in that fig. There's an appalling amount of them to be picked over in consideration of the eventual reward (providing the reader has no great curiosity about Mr. Mabie per se). For one thing, anecdotes—the greatest pleasure of biographies—are extremely scarce—perhaps less than half a dozen good ones in the entire 337 pages of the volume. The passages in which the author quotes Mr. Mabie's opinions on Japanese immigration will be read with close attention by any one interested in that question. Equal enjoyment is to be gained from Mr. Mabie's descriptions, as quoted from his letters, of the spell cast over him by the beauty of Capri or of his private audience with the Emperor of Japan; but these pleasures are to be gained only at the price of reading pages and pages of eulogy of Mr. Mabie, paeans both written and verbal, gathered by the author from letters to and about his hero and from speeches made at many dinners and meetings of societies or clubs of which Mr. Mabie was a member, or, more often, an officer.

One of the most interesting of the letters quoted in the book is one written to Mr. Morse by William Dean Howells, in which the distinguished novelist said:

> The inclosed letter [from Mabie to Howells] refers to a story of Shaker life which Mabie gave me and which I used as a novelette called "The Day of Their Wedding." I have always been very grateful to him for that story.

In explanation of Mr. Howells's indebtedness to Mabie for the story referred to, Mr. Morse comments:

> Mabie had no gift for fiction as a vehicle for conveying his ideas to the public, and he made only one or two attempts in that direction. He was able, however, in at least one instance, to pass on to a distinguished contemporary the idea for a story that proved in the hands of this master of the art to be practicable.

Another peep behind the scenes of a literary workshop is afforded by the following letter from Kate Douglas Wiggin (Mrs. Riggs) to Mr. Mabie:

> I am sending you a different kind of a book this time! After three Penelopes and the Goose Girl I determined to forsake the first person singular; though apparently my public wants this and nothing else, if we can judge by their impassioned appeals to take Penelope anywhere, so long as she goes somewhere!
>
> I intend, however, to be no stress of my pen, such as it is, and not allow it to govern me entirely. So I broke away from the enticing ease of Penelope and wrote "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm." I do hope you will like her, for it doesn't seem really worth while to write a book that you don't like! (This seems simple, but it is really quite subtle and nice!) * * *
>
> It is a nice book, but the trouble is that it has to be read quite through to get the whole effect of the quiet little life-picture. Of course now that you are no longer simply a man, an essayist and an editor, but a reviewer, nobody can hope for this treatment.

When the appearance of Mrs. Wharton's novel, "The House of Mirth," led Mabie to write to her, praising the book, the author of "The Age of Innocence" replied, thanking him for his appreciation of her work, closing her letter with the remark, "If you could measure the width of the gulf that I always see between what I aim at and what I accomplish, you would understand what help you have given me in finding time to write these few lines."

That a sense of humor was one of the traits of Mr Mabie's character, although there is little trace of it in his writings, is evidenced by a story he was fond of telling "on" himself about one time when he was the guest of Andrew Carnegie at Skibo Castle, in Scotland, and spent a morning on the ironmaster's private links. A grizzled old retainer of the Laird of Skibo, who had witnessed many hard-fought battles between expert players on the same greens, was assigned as a companion of Mr. Mabie's round. Knowing what a poor player he was, Mr. Mabie, having finished his game, asked the old Scot, "I suppose you never saw anybody play a worse game of golf than that?" To which query the honest veteran gravely replied, "No, sir, I never did."

On another occasion Mr. Mabie gained the sympathetic attention of a hall full of Vassar girls by opening his address with, "You will all understand me, I think, when I assure you it would be much more enjoyable for me to talk to one girl for six hours than to talk to six hundred girls for one hour." "Almost thou persuadest us to be a Christian," Mr. Mabie!

The readiness of Mr. Mabie's wit as a public speaker showed itself again at a banquet at the Aldine Club, at which Hopkinson Smith was the guest of the evening and Mr. Mabie was toastmaster. Mr. Smith had a lightweight chair, on which he squirmed around considerably during the presentation speech, with the result that the frail piece of furniture gave way and its occupant crashed to the floor. When the good-natured laughter had subsided, Mr. Mabie plagidly concluded, "And now, Mr. Smith will again take the floor."

Mr. Morse's biography of Hamilton W. Mabie follows the time-honored chronological sequence from before-the-cradle to after-the-grave.

Hamilton W. Mabie.

The noted editor's ancestry, boyhood and youth supply the material for the opening chapter. The following two chapters are devoted to a narrative of his activities and friendships during his student days at Williams College. Then comes an account of his unsuccessful struggles to establish himself in the practice of law. According to the descriptive "jacket" on the book, Mr. Morse tells for the first time the circumstances that led Mr. Mabie to give up this profession to become an editor. One of the factors that evidently hastened Mr. Mabie's escape from his uncongenial legal work was the fact that his office window was within tantalizingly easy view of the editorial rooms of a daily newspaper. When he should have been looking into law books, Mr. Mabie passed hours gazing wistfully across a court into the realm toward which his love of reading drew him so strongly. Many years later he confessed that during the days when he was trying to be a lawyer he was reading more poetry than he was law.

Mabie's first journalistic job was on the staff of the Christian Union, which changed its name to the Outlook fourteen years after he joined it in 1879. His duties consisted in writing and editing a department of church news, including personal ministerial items, at that time a usual feature of church papers. Mabie's progress to positions of greater importance on the magazine with which he was so long connected was not rapid, but it was continuous. The first advance began when he was given an occasional book to review. Then came a chance at editorial writing and at infrequent articles. He also contributed a few stories for children. He became an adviser whose judgment could be trusted in passing on manuscripts offered for publication, especially those of a literary character. His promotion to the post of associate editor, with Dr. Lyman Abbott as editor, came to him considerably less than five years after he began work on the paper. From that time on, Mr. Mabie won wider and wider recognition, developing finally into the man of affairs whose achievements Mr. Morse has admirably reviewed in "The Life and Letters of Hamilton W. Mabie."

Southern Women in Wartimes

WOMEN OF THE SOUTH IN WARTIMES. Compiled by Matthew Page Andrews. Illustrated. Baltimore: The Norman, Remington Company.

ONE of the brightest pages in the history of our country is that on which is written the noble epic of the devotion to their cause, the unselfishness and the courage displayed by the women of the South during the Civil War. In "Women of the South in Wartimes" Matthew Page Andrews has expanded this glorious page into a book packed with romantic stories representative of the gallant achievements of a heroic people.

Unique among the many personal narratives in the book is the chapter devoted to the war experiences in New York City of Mrs. Algernon Sydney Sullivan. Most of the women whose adventures are chronicled in other chapters were always within easy reach of Southern sympathizers, even when within the Federal lines. (One of the most arresting things in the book, by the way, is the apparent ease with which these women of influence could obtain passes to go through the lines in either direction.) In New York Mrs. Sullivan's position was more difficult. Before her marriage she was Miss Mary Mildred Hammond of Virginia, and she openly declared her affection for the South. Her situation was not made easier when her husband, retained by the Confederate Government as counsel for the crew of a Confederate schooner on trial in New York for piracy, was himself imprisoned on a charge of disloyalty. During the two months before he was released and vindicated Mrs. Sullivan and her young son were alone in a hostile city. Yet even during that period she did not relax her efforts to make easier the lives of Confederate prisoners. Throughout the war her work for these captured soldiers from her homeland and to relieve the suffering of her stricken people was unceasing. She was determined to do nothing without the full assent and knowledge of the Federal Government. To obtain any help from the authorities in her work of mercy she had first to convince them of her loyalty, a task calling for the most delicate tact in view of her husband's imprisonment and her own frank acknowledgment of Southern ties. Space limits permit only the barest résumé of how much she achieved in face of these obstacles. She was allowed to establish a soup kitchen at the Government Hospital at David's Island (in Long Island Sound), where Confederate prisoners were confined. And she also succeeded in obtaining passes to visit prisoners elsewhere and bring them what comfort she could.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan had terrifying experiences with crazed mobs during the notorious "Draft Riots" of 1863. In November of the same year Mrs. Sullivan made a daring trip through the Union lines into the war-ridden Shenandoah Valley, facing countless dangers on the way.

When the war was over she was one of the founders of the New York Ladies' Southern Relief Society, an organization which raised more than $20,000 to relieve the suffering of the South. Mrs. Sullivan, now 83 years old, still lives in her adopted home of New York, where she has devoted her life to charitable and public-spirited endeavor.

Men and women who during the World War endured wheatless, meatless or sugarless days with a consciousness of self-denial will not be so proud of their sacrifices when they read of the deprivations smilingly faced by their Southern sisters during 1861-65. During the Civil War salt, for example, had to be obtained in the Confederacy by boiling sea water or by getting it out of the dirt taken from under the flooring of smokehouses. Ashes of corncobs were used in place of cooking soda, and persimmon seeds served for buttons. Houses were lighted with grease collected in pans, with rags for wicks. Cooking utensils were at a premium, and the loss of a needle was a real catastrophe.

As for the "terrible prices" of today, compare them with some of the Confederate prices in 1862: Milk, $4 a quart; coffee, $4 a pound; tea, $18 to $20 a pound; butter, $1.50 to $2 a pound; muslin, $6 to $8 a yard, and wheat, $4.50 a bushel. These figures are quoted as the ones prevailing on Nov. 29, 1862. They are taken from the diary of Mrs. Judith Brockenbrough McGuire, wife of a minister and a lady of the Confederacy. Excerpts from this same diary supply three of the most absorbing chapters in "Women of the South in Wartimes." In one entry Mrs. McGuire gives an account of a clergyman who, in his temporary capacity of Captain of artillery, issued his commands to his gunners in the following reverent manner: "The Lord have mercy upon their souls—fire!"

Municipal Summer Camps of the West

A TWO WEEKS' Summer vacation, meals, lodging and transportation included, for $11!

Think of it! Two weeks in the California Sierras beside an ice-cold stream teeming with trout and shaded by alder, willow and cedar! Two weeks in which to explore trails, wade creeks and breathe fresh, crisp air sifted through mile upon mile of virgin forests of pine and fir; where nature, most efficient of nurses and most wholesome of medicines—surest of cures for the hot, tired, weary, run down or mentally discouraged of city dwellers—reigns supreme.

Fourteen perfect days! And fourteen wonderful evenings! Evenings in which to sit, when the day's work or play is done, through the long twilight, listening drowsily to broken bits of talk, to the sigh of the wind in the pines, to the murmur of the nearby stream; watching the purple shadows creep up, ever up, till they blot the last faint glow from crest of lone peak and distant mountain range; counting the stars as they appear one by one, till all heaven is a twinkling, blinking firmament; relaxing—imperceptibly and yet utterly—till dreamland calls.

Two weeks, with transportation included, amidst such surroundings for the price of two days, minus transportation, at a "Summer resort"!

Where? At any one of the several municipal camps now established by the more thoughtful and progressive of California cities. Oakland has one; Sacramento has one. San Diego has the site, soon to be developed, and Los Angeles, pioneer in the West of this movement for civic betterment, has two.

Each camp is in a national forest, which means that no investment in real estate is necessary. For the United States, through the Forest Service, issues term permits, without charge, for the land. More additional ground is reserved whenever necessary to provide for future growth and development. A most considerate landlord, surely. And consistent, too, for in adopting this practice the Government is but carrying out a policy of making the National Forests recreation grounds for the nation.

In every camp the equipment is simple and remarkably inexpensive. Permanent buildings are few and are confined, in most instances, to kitchen, open air dining room and assembly hall. Small cabins, built as time and funds permit, never entirely replace the more popular tent (with wooden platform) as sleeping quarters. A swimming pool is always an essential. Sometimes it is artificial and of the concrete variety, as at Camp Seeley, first of Los Angeles' municipal camp ventures. Then, again, it is a natural pool, or even a series of pools like the two, one shallow and one deep, that proved so popular first with the Girl Scouts of Modesto, and last year with people of Oakland. Thus much can be done with a limited city budget; a distinct advantage in days such as these.

And always, wherever camp is located, are mountains and forests to rest the eye, pure air and running water to soothe the overwrought nerves, and plentiful opportunity both for rest and healthy exercise. These, with good wholesome food well cooked, are for the city resident and taxpayer, the Boy Scout or "newsie," man, woman or child, either singly or in family parties, for the rich, for those in comfortable circumstances or for the poor.

These, and one thing more. For in these camps every person must give a short time each day to work. Tents and cabins must be put to rights and vegetable gardens tended, dishes washed and dried, tables set, and other camp duties performed. Such tasks are assigned, and each camper contributes one hour daily. In this way, and in this way only, is so inexpensive an outing provided.

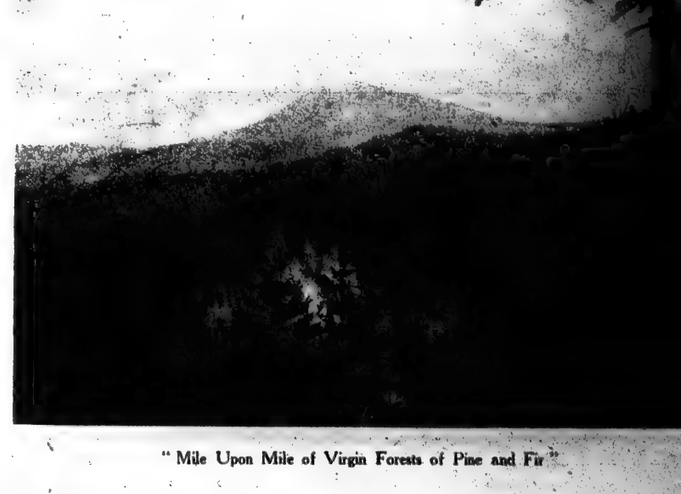
Provided for all who register in time, that is. For these camps are exceedingly popular; so popular in fact that Oakland's lists, opened first to shop girls on a Monday morning, were completely filled by the following evening. And Sacramento's camp, established at Sayles Flat, in the Eldorado National Forest, not far from Lake Tahoe, and directly beside the historic Lincoln Highway, accommodated in its first season more than six hundred of her city's residents.

It requires both good and careful management to care properly for so many people. And it takes real ability to plan so that boys, girls, adults and families as a whole may enjoy a real, inexpensive, profitable vacation in the mountains; a vacation where rest, recreation, pleasure and renewed health and happiness may be got as sure returns upon the capital invested.

To Los Angeles goes the credit for pioneering in this work of the West. And at Camp Seeley, 75 miles east of the city and 4,500 feet above sea level in the San Bernardino range, Angeles National Forest, both girls and families, the latter including children, get their two weeks' outing for from $5 to $11. Eight periods of thirteen days each are provided, and dates are so arranged that, if desired, a six-day outing, at prices running from $2.50 to $7.65, may be substituted for the longer period. The lower price is for young children, the higher for adults. And these prices include transportation both ways—easy and comfortable transportation by a combination of electric trains and automobile stage lines.

Camp Radford, second of Los Angeles' camps, caters principally to boys and men, although here, too, special periods are set apart both for families and for girls and women. Other camps of other cities are run in much the same way.

They are managed, these camps, by the various City Playground Commissions. They are becoming more and more popular each year, and each year additional equipment and new recreational facilities are added. "A municipal activity that pays, both financially and otherwise. Our books show a respectable cash balance each year and our citizens, both old and young, rich and poor, have a renewed interest in life, in the conduct of their business and in civic



"Mile Upon Mile of Virgin Forests of Pine and Fir"

Los Angeles Municipal Camp

Rumania and the Reds

(Continued from Page 4)

the Russians and the Rumanians, like to the Chinese wall. That the Russians, knowing well the loyalty of the Moldavian Rumanians, colonized Bessarabia, and also deported large bodies of Rumanians. Russians, Germans and Bulgarians were superimposed on Bessarabia, but the Rumanian character of the country was not destroyed. In 1856, at a time when, according to a member of the Russian staff, the Rumanian population of Bessarabia numbered 75 per cent., as a result of the Crimean war, the southern part of the province was given back to the Rumanians. But in 1878, after another of these Russo-Turkish wars that seem so brief in the retrospect, but which have dire consequences for the pawns, Bessarabia once more became Russian.

According to the Rumanians, about two millions of the inhabitants of Bessarabia, or two-thirds of the population, are Rumanians. A third million, they say, is composed of two or three hundred thousand Jews, two or three hundred thousand Ukranians, and the rest Bulgarians and Germans and eight other nationalities. The most compact group is formed by the Ukrainians in the north of the provinces, around Hotin. The Ukrainians whom I met in Poland said that they are not going to yield their claim to a part of Bessarabia. I have heard Rumanians say that the claims of Ukrainia can be peaceably settled—whatever that may mean.

The villages in Bessarabia show a Rumanian population of 90 per cent. For some reason, the foreigners take to the cities. The poetically minded Rumanians will tell you that this fact alone seems to show that the very soil is favorable only to the Rumanians themselves. The Bessarabians that I saw on the southern border seemed loyal to Rumania, and very pride and betterment that well for the future of our c unity," says a Playground C aloner, who believes, with that "mountains seem to ha built for the human race, as their schools and cathedrals, treasures of illuminated man for the scholar, kindly in sim sons for the worker, quiet cloisters for the thinker, glo holiness for the worshipper. are great cathedrals of the with their gates of rock, pa of cloud, choirs of stream an altars of snow and vaults of traversed by the continual

THE NEW YORK TIMES BOOK REVIEW AND MAGAZINE, JANUARY 16, 1921

From Lucan and Juvenal to Ezra Pound

A Review by
HERBERT S. GORMAN

ILVER AGE OF LATIN LIT-TURE. By Walter Coventry mmers. Frederick A. Stokes mpany. $3.

TUDOR POETRY, 1485-1547. The Macmillan Company.

RALISM IN ENGLISH PO-RY. By Stopford A. Brooke. E. Dutton & Co. $3.

WO attitudes may be taken toward the progression of literary art. One is that movements are like the ng of a pendulum, that at ed intervals certain mani-ns in the spirit of art repeat ves, although it may be true the technical precision that those spirits clear has been enlarged, intensified and t to an increasingly higher f perfection. Another is that nks steadily higher through-t ages, going on from attain-to attainment with no repeti-essential matter. By means of pedantry both of these at-s may be conclusively proved, o fact appears to be that both nents are true. This is be-from time immemorial art has coherent gesture in life, an ating spirit that can hardly fined, but which consists of me poignancy of perfection the days of blind Homer to the of Ezra Pound. Art may be d to the clay of the craftsman ovements to the manner and with which it is molded. To-e have strange workers in art. twist the old eternal substance marvelous and sometimes in-ehensible shapes. With out-h colors and crude symbols disguise the divine substance we who are but neophytes in mple hardly know or under-what we are gazing on. We that something is there quite for however distorted and un-inable art may be it will yet through its habiliments to us the voice that is always unders in an age of experimentation, shifting values, of changing s. There is an apparent un-with old modes, a sudden defi-of ancient shibboleths, an ab-casting away of standards that once proclaimed unalterable. e is nothing to be alarmed at in tempestuous treatment of old s, for, if anything, it is a sign trength; it shows a virility of rt, a genuine absorption in art rs. Only by curiosity and ex-mentation can art extend its daries. There are bound to be prophets crying; mistakes, and e ones, are sure to be made. in spite of these drawbacks, art ntinues to go forward with the s of civilization. It will adopt garmenting as our new view-s demand it.

deed, if we look back through years and the centuries we will that art always progressed st the wishes of the unthink-

What was new in Latin days old in Tudor days, and what was in Tudor days was old in the enth and nineteenth centuries. h age was a preparation for an that was to come. New truths brought to the fore and the ials of the day became the con-atives of the day after. It is natural growth of art that is to raised and studied, and not the ural attempts to pervert move-s into side streams. And here I d like to bring out a point.

metimes the artist may be too ahead of his era. He may have ed conclusions and methods of ment that will be so much more reasonably radical in his day e also radical in the period follows him. This man must for a long time to be vindicated. if he is sincere and possessed of authentic thread the day will when his values will be recog-d and he will take his place in great march of art, a place into h he will fit properly and where he will not seem a monstrosity of strange and unexplainable growth.

It is instructive to note the springs from which art gushes forth. Only by a patient study of the past can a radical be possessed of the authentic thread that will give him the eventual place that he deserves. There is no such thing as an absolute throwing away of values. Somewhere and in some way he must touch hands with the past. A complete demolition of values merely places a man back in primitive times. He is carrying nothing on. Sir Walter Coventry Summers' "The Silver Age of Latin Literature," we are given a text-book, admirably written and closely digested, that is an open door to a literature that often amazes us by its evident modernity. There was nothing primitive in this art. It was a thing of standards, a matter of close study. Always apparent was the absorption in polishing, in making more perfect.

The Silver Age, according to Mr. Summers's book, was that century between the death of Augustus in 14 A. D. and that of Trajan in 117. Between these years the author has made an intensive study and he has placed with a nice precision every writer of any attainment in the niche he deserves. It was an era of greatness in Latin literature. Such men as the historian Tacitus, the satirists Persius and Juvenal, the epic poets Lucan, Statius and Silius Italicus, and the rhetoricans Quintilian and Seneca were among those who made it great. No manner of literary endeavor was untouched. The epic, drama, verse satire, oratory, history, biography, memoirs, philosophy, prose, satire, romance and correspondence abounded. It was also a time of discovery and experimentation. Such things as grammar, criticism, scientific and technical prose played a large part in the literature of the day.

Today we are more interested in form than in words, but in the era of the Silver Age a foremost part was played by grammarians. And this was because literature was so new. The potentialities of words and sentence structure were beyond measure. Undoubtedly the grammarians lost themselves in the absorbing joys of their chosen task, for was it not said in early days that one should beware of grammarians? The grammarians of Latin times were probably like the vers libraists of today. Intoxicated with the modicum of discovery that was their own, they went too far. They grew pedantic; they split hairs; they tore words from their rightful meanings. Nimbleness of wit played a large part in the intellectual ardor of the times. Mr. Summers in his chapter on "The Declamations and the Pointed Style" refers to the extent to which scholars went in their logic. They grew so logical as to be unlogical in their driving of arguments to their last conclusions. Speaking of rhetoric, the author says, "* * * its original purpose was easily forgotten, and it became little more than a vehicle for the display of wit and ingenuity, the tour de force or brilliant handling of some philosophic or psychological point gaining far higher marks than any effective plea, or the careful weaving of a chain of evidence." How easily this may be applied to some of our modern innovators and experimenters! They, too, are carried away by the endless possibilities of their subject, and, spreading out on numberless side paths, they forget the main road and so leave themselves open for the ridicule of those who follow more slowly and with some degree of consistency.

Mr. Summers's book is a study that well may be regarded as a source-book, a means for research. It is written equally for the Latin scholar and for the general reader. One of its principal charms is the large number of original translations from the Latin writers of the Silver Age. Many of them are done for the first time and they prove of incalculable value to the general reader who desires to familiarize himself with the Silver Age but does not possess a sufficient knowledge to read Latin.

It has already been pointed out in this article that one movement grows quite naturally out of another if it is to be successful. There must be no abrupt and great jumps, for the situation becomes exceptional then. We are all familiar with the Elizabethan Period. For English readers it stands at the apogee of literature. It was the massive era, the time of great and eternal achievement. The galaxy of stars that circled about that Moon of Wonder, Shakespeare, has never been equaled. Beaumont and Fletcher, Ben Jonson, Middleton, Massinger, John Webster, Cyril Tourneur, Thomas Dekker, the list is endless. It has, unconsciously to be sure, grown to be a conviction with us that these men rose like phoenixes out of a literary desert that was bare of intellectual flowering. But how far we are from the truth in such a conviction is splendidly shown in Professor John M. Berdan's "Early Tudor Poetry, 1485-1547." Here we have the period of gestation lucidly outlined, the years that eventually gave birth to the Elizabethan Period. It was all quite consistent, quite natural. Nothing was abruptly realized, but the figures of Shakespeare's day profited immensely by the lesser known writers who had gone before. They took advantage of their speculations, theories and experiments and carried on into the realms of perfection what had been imperfectly attempted but a few decades before them.

It is true that the Tudor period was one small in achievement. If we except the name of Edmund Spenser, and it must be realized that he is far from a popular figure today, there was no one who especially stands out. When Spenser was writing, Professor Berdan points out, the great poets of England were Hawes, Skelton, Barclay and Heywood. Outside of Heywood none of these names possess an especial significance for us. Our interest in the age is solely because it was an era of preparation for the Elizabethans who were to follow. This fact will make Professor Berdan's book of primary interest to scholars, although the general reader will find many an exquisite quotation included that will awaken him to the fact that numberless fine writers existed long before Shakespeare was thought of. To properly understand the Elizabethan Period we should know the springs that brought it into being. Only in that way can we intelligently appreciate Shakespeare and his great comrades in letters.

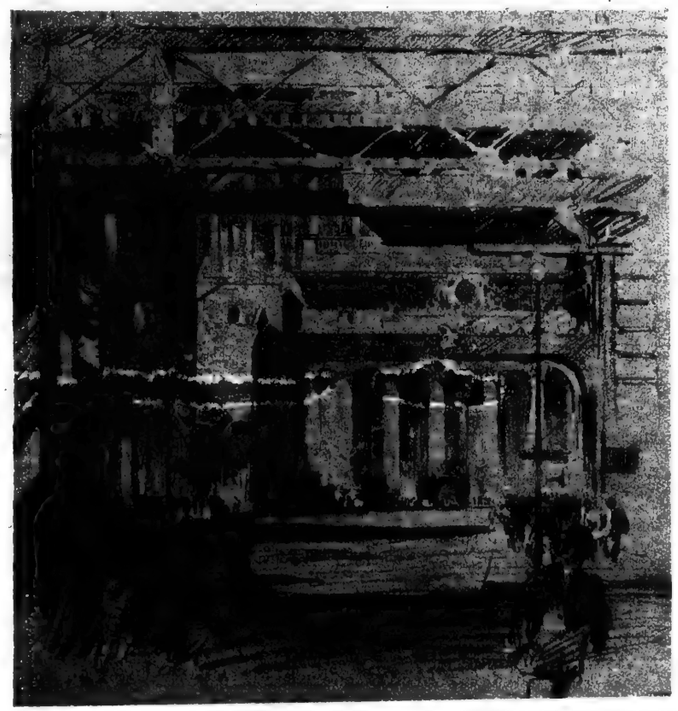
One of the crowning achievements of the Elizabethan Period was a remarkable naturalism. The characters in the great plays said vital things. The heart still leaps at these things, although they were written 400 years ago. After the Elizabethan Period came a time of polished formality and sophistication. One might almost say that the Silver Age of Latin letters was returning in the influences that permeated the times. How closely letters are tied up! How period impinges on period and apparently dead theories come suddenly to life again! Pope and his fellows almost suggest the rhetoricians of Rome in their methods. But after them the period swung back again to naturalism. It was a more gentle naturalism than that of the Elizabethan Period, although many figures among the Elizabethans appeared to prophesy it. John Fletcher was such an one, for instance.

It is the old tale of the pendulum swinging back and forth that was mentioned in the first paragraph of this article. Stopford A. Brooke in "Naturalism in English Poetry" has presented this return to unaffected language and thought in a delightful manner. The articles in this book are formed from a series of lectures that Brooke gave at University College, London, in 1902. Almost colloquial in form, they make admirable reading. The ground that the author covers has been written about many times before, but hardly from the attitude which is taken in this book. He begins with Dryden and Pope, the classic formalists, merely to show what English letters was breaking away from and then treats Young and Thomson. These were the smaller men, the herald-bearers of the era that was beginning. After them came Collins and Gray and the poets who preceded the French Revolution. And then we reach still greater figures in Crabbe and Cowper and Burns. After them came the greatest figures of all in this period, which might almost be called a lesser Elizabethan Period in point of the number of fine and individual artists.

These men were Wordsworth, Shelley and Byron. They were primarily naturalists of letters, although each of them had other gods that he followed as zealously. Wordsworth, perhaps, was the greatest of the expositors of naturalism. Shelley turned to theological theories and philosophic argumentations, and the genius of Byron expended itself in an attitude that sometimes was hardly naturalism. Mr. Brooke's book is one that should be widely read, for it gives new life to these men.

And so, in a final analysis, we may see that art both progresses and swings like a pendulum, at least in form. The substance is unvarying and, if anything, it grows from time to time. But the methods chosen for presenting it go both forward and return to what was best in the ages that lie behind. Art becomes the eternal thread through the ages. It reaches from the Silver Age of Latin letters, through Tudor times, down to modern letters. Sometimes it returns in upon itself to gather new strength. The thread reaches even to vers libre.

PENNSYLVANIA STATION.



Looking West Through Thirty-third Street.
Drawing by H. R. Shurtleff.

What England Reads

THE cost of book production and therefore the retail prices of books are both a little higher today in England than they are in the United States," said Sir Ernest Hodder Williams when asked by THE NEW YORK TIMES BOOK REVIEW AND MAGAZINE to compare the book situation in the two countries.

"Sir Ernest is the head of the London publishing house of Hodder & Stoughton and Vice President of the American house, George H. Doran Company, which is its representative in this country. He has been making a business trip to the United States and Canada and sailed for home last week.

"There, as here," he continued, "the basic factor in the cost of production is the cost of labor, which is likely, in England, to continue at its present level for some time, because there has been no lowering of the prices of any of the necessities of life, nor is there in sight the promise of lower prices for any of these things. And as long as it continues to cost as much to live as it does now workmen cannot be asked to accept lower wages. There has been a larger percentage of increase in the cost of bookmaking in England than here, with paper, other materials, labor, all sharing in the advance. The increase has been so great, the costs continue at so high a level and there is so little indication of lowered prices in any of these things that I see no possibility of lower retail prices for books in England within the near future. The situation looks a little better in the United States, since prices of necessities are showing signs that the peak has been reached. And it is a little better now for the buyers of books here than it is in England because retail prices with us are a little higher than they are here."

"Have the higher retail prices affected the buying of books by the English public?"

"Books have shared, of course, with other commodities, the lessened power of the public to buy extensively at the higher prices. But the circulating libraries, which hitherto have been the bane of the book publishing business, have saved the situation. Many people who formerly bought books themselves turned to the libraries, and these, in order to accommodate their immensely increased patronage, had to buy books in large quantities. Because of this development the book trade in England has not, perhaps, suffered as much as it has in the United States by reason of the higher retail prices which have had to be asked.

"Moreover, you have not as good a book-buying public here as we have in England. In proportion to the population, book sales are less than they are with us. As an illustration, take Atlantic City. I have just been there for the week-end. It corresponds very well with our Brighton, except that it is much bigger. You could put Brighton in one-quarter of the Boardwalk of Atlantic City. But there are sold at Brighton more books in a month than in Atlantic City in the whole year. In a general way the indictment holds against the whole country. Americans seem to buy everything else they want, or think they want, before it occurs to them to buy books. And by the time they begin to think about buying a book they decide that they must economize. On the whole, Americans do not patronize their bookshops and support their book publishers as well as do the people of other educated, intelligent and progressive nations. The people of New Zealand, by the way, in proportion to their population are the best book buyers in the world.

"Perhaps the American public does not yet understand, any more than the English public has grasped the situation, that the advance in retail book prices has been the result of a very serious situation in the book publishing business. The public has been inclined to think, when it was asked to pay from $2 to $2.50 for a book that it formerly bought for $1.25 to $1.50, that somebody was profiteering and that that somebody was probably the publisher. The fact is that the profits of the publisher—and this is true in both England and the United States—are very considerably less with the higher prices which must now be charged than they were in the days when a dollar fifty was the usual price for a book of ordinary size. With the increased cost of book-making the publisher hardly does more than break even, sometimes not even that, on the book at $2 on which he formerly at a dollar fifty made the profit necessary to enable him to carry on his business."

"Are the people in England reading war books this year and is literature about the war likely to have more or less popularity as time goes on?"

"The English people are tired of hearing about the war and, except in the case of some big, outstanding work, the war book has had its day and is done with. Colonel Repington's book, 'The First World War,' for instance, aroused much interest and has been very widely read. It was the first account of the war to give intimate information about it, to take people behind the scenes, and therefore they bought it and read it and talked about it as they are not doing about most war books. Except as other works of similar quality come along, revealing inside information of importance, the English public shows no sign of wanting to read about the war."

"What books of the Fall and Winter season have most interested English readers?"

"Mrs. Asquith's book of memoirs has undoubtedly had the greatest general success of any recent work. Everybody has been reading it and talking about it. Its success has been very spectacular, but H. G. Wells's 'Outline of History' is likely to prove, in the long run, the longest-lived and most widely read of all the books that appeared last Fall. It has attracted a great deal of attention, and people are reading it and talking about it and its sales are growing in a way that indicates it will prove to be one of the most important books of the time. Of American books Bishop's 'Theodore Roosevelt and His Time' has, perhaps, aroused the keenest interest. It has sold well and caused a good deal of discussion. But English readers are more interested in American fiction than in any other kind of books from the United States. What they want is the out-of-door novel, the story that is scened in the open, with plenty of adventure and an exciting plot.

"There is an important factor in the matter of the book relations between the two countries that ought to be brought to the attention of the American people. Once upon a time there was so much piracy of English books in the United States that feeling in England became somewhat embittered against this country. But finally the matter was reformed, and for a number of years the British author and publisher were protected in the United States by the copyright law, as the American author and publisher are protected in England. But recently certain publishers in the United States—there are several of them—have been trying to find loopholes in the copyright law that will enable them to pirate English books. They are succeeding, too, and, although of course no reputable publishing house is to be found among them, there is danger that if the matter goes on much ill-feeling will result. I greatly desire the most cordial and sympathetic relations between the two countries, but I know that if some way cannot be found by the people here to stop this new piracy upon British books there is going to be an outburst of indignation against the United States.

Back of the Harper Name 104 Years of Good Books

Yes—he's done it again! "The Mysterious Rider" is even better than Zane Grey's last book, that outsold all other novels of 1920.

The MYSTERIOUS RIDER

By ZANE GREY

He came to the Belllounds' Ranch—the Mysterious Rider—no one knew from where, gentle, kindly but so terrible a gun-fighter that they called him Hell-Bent Wade. A swift-moving story, full of the glamour of romance and adventure, with the breath of Western Plains and mountains in its pages. $2.00. At All Bookstores—NOW.

Est. 1817 Harper & Brothers New York

Books on Italy
OF SPECIAL INTEREST

Among Italian Peasants
By TONY CYRIAX
In both words and colors the artist-author paints a real work-a-day Italy in which hay-makers, charcoal burners and their kind live quite unknown to most tourists. $5.00

By-Paths in Sicily
By ELIZA PUTNAM HEATON
The product of long intimacy; "it makes the reader feel," says the New York Tribune, "as if he too had climbed the hills of Sicily." Illustrated from fine photographs. $3.50

Cathedrals of Central Italy

Cathedrals of Rome and Central Italy
Both by T. FRANCIS BUMPUS
Fully illustrated. Standard books for the visitor who wishes to see the treasures of Italian sacred art. Each, $3.00

Beatrice d'Este
By JULIA CARTWRIGHT
Through the story of the famous Duchess of Milan is presented a brilliant picture of the most colorful period of Italian history. $3.00

A Short History of Italian Painting
By A. V. V. BROWN and WILLIAM RANKIN $3.50

Novels of Italy
By HAMILTON DRUMMOND
A Maker of Saints
The Betrayers
Each, $2.00. If not on sale in your bookstore, they can be had from
E. P. Dutton & Co., 681 5th Av., N.Y.

The New York Tribune says:
"CONVICT B 14"
By R. K. Weekes
Should stand out as one of the most popular novels of the season."
$1.90 at all bookstores.
Publishers BRENTANO'S New York

DM NEW DODD, MEAD BOOKS DM

SIX SECONDS OF DARKNESS
By Octavus Roy Cohen
Author of "The Crimson Alibi," etc.
During a quiet evening at police headquarters comes word that a prominent citizen has been murdered. Within an hour of the report of the crime three persons confess the murder. Each is ignorant of the others' admission and their stories agree in only one particular—that for six seconds the room in which the crime was committed was in darkness. From this point on the story moves forward at a rapid pace, baffling, breathless to the denouement. $1.75

THE BROWN MOTH By Oscar Graeve
Author of "Youth Goes Seeking," etc.
A novel of every-day life in New York depicting the career of Lola Kargo, who worshipped success and who "was but one of the many thousands—a small brown moth, fluttering through the labyrinth of streets, humble, obscure, intent upon her own ends." Especially this is the old tale of the young girl and her wealthy employer, but in this case the whole story is retold from the modern point of view and with searching realism. $2.00

THE DESTROYER By Burton E. Stevenson
Author of "The Mystery of the Boule Cabinet," etc.
Mysterious explosions are not all uncommon phenomena. Going back a few years, an event which attracted the attention of the entire world, the sudden blowing up of the French battleship La Liberte has never been cleared up. In a novel of great originality, Mr. Stevenson advances a theory of much plausibility as to the reason for this explosion. The book has been out of print some years, and is now reissued, as there has been a steady demand for it. $1.90

THE UNDERWOOD MYSTERY
By Charles J. Dutton
The interest of this super-detective story hangs not on any scientific machines or ultra-modern psychology, but on a confusion of circumstances and evidence that puzzles both the detective and the reader till the very end. The story is a thrilling combination of crime detection interwoven with an exciting tale of adventure. $1.90

A GUIDE TO THE WEST INDIES, BERMUDA AND PANAMA
Revised Edition to 1921. By Frederick Ober
This is a comprehensive guide, with all the latest information concerning the Bermudas, Panama, Bahamas, Cuba, Porto Rico, Jamaica, Haiti and Santo Domingo, the Danish, Virgin, Dutch, French, Leeward and Windward Islands, Barbados and Trinidad. It is the standard guide.
Profusely illustrated, and with many maps. $3.50

A REFERENCE HISTORY OF THE WAR By the Editors of the New International Encyclopaedia.
This compact history is especially designed for reference use. It is conveniently arranged by subjects and by cross-references so that information on any given topic can be acquired without waste of time. With maps, diagrams and illustrations. $5.00

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY, New York
Publishers since 1839
DM DM

E. A. Robinson, E. L. Masters, Typical Poets of Today

A Review by
HERBERT S. GORMAN

THE THREE TAVERNS: A Book of Poems. By Edwin Arlington Robinson. The Macmillan Company.
DOMESDAY BOOK. By Edgar Lee Masters. The Macmillan Company. $4.50.

NO art is great without personality. It is the individual touch that kindles the sacred fire upon the literary hearthstones of nations. When a man rises above the mob and does work, not as well but better, he is fashioning matter for the ages to come. He transcends his own particular period in that while he writes for it he also writes beyond it. In American poetry we have a host of talented writers, men (and a few women) who are doing memorable things. Above the level of talent loom a few figures recognizable because of their personalities, the individual influence they are manifesting in contemporary letters. If one were asked to name the three men who have delivered such matter as to make their names emphatic in American poetry, it is safe to say that nine out of ten answering the question would say Edwin Arlington Robinson, Robert Frost and Edgar Lee Masters. Frost has published nothing in book form since "Mountain Interval," but both Robinson and Masters have their names attached to new books this season. And these two books, "The Three Taverns" and "Domesday Book" are, to say the least, remarkable offerings. They display a strength and conscious nationality that should give them virility for many years to come.

"The Three Taverns" is a finished product. It is a book such as only a master, touched with the authentic fire of genius, could make possible. Within its 120 pages is crystallized the best of modern American poetry. No European could find better introduction to American achievement in letters than through the poems that are contained in "The Three Taverns." It is here that a hand sure of itself is felt, a technical excellence that is well-nigh flawless, and an assured and serious outlook on modern life that is almost prophetic in its candor and searching qualities. No one can doubt that Robinson has his finger on the pulse of the times. He is thoroughly American, and allied with this is a meticulous regard for consistent analysis that is almost French in its qualities.

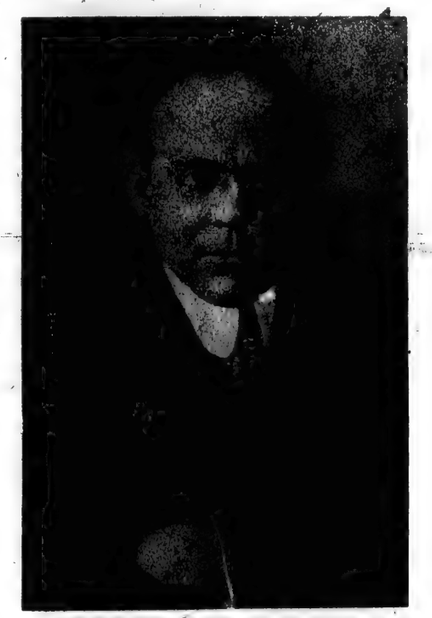
Robinson is interested, first of all, in the human soul and its ambitious blunderings. He delves into hearts and rummages about with a pertinacity that is always productive of strange and illuminating discoveries. The great river of life flows past him, and he studies it with eyes that hardly ever fail of finding truths that go deeper than our superficial gestures care to admit. He has been called sombre in his outlook, but this does not seem to be the true valuation of his moods. Rather is he highly serious and sometimes leaning toward a fatalism that can hardly be called pessimistic. What he finds in life is not a Slough of Despair but a field of battle where one must fight to win, where the follower of the true fire is never a failure, even though the unthinking world may call him so, and where each man has his strenuous journey cut out for him and needs all his bone and sinew and intellect to succeed. He knows only too well the heart-breaking rocks that meet the ambitious traveler. Viewing life as he does, he cannot help but be touched with the darkness of its many valleys. In that fine room that opens "The Three Taverns" and is called "The Valley of the Shadow" he writes:

> There were faces to remember in the Valley of the Shadow,
> There were faces unregarded, there were faces to forget;
> There were fires of grief and fear that are a few forgotten ashes,
> There were sparks of recognition that are not forgotten yet.
> For at first, with an amassed and overwhelming indignation
> At a measureless malfeasance that obscurely willed it thus,
> They were lost and unacquainted—till they found themselves in others,
> Who had groped as they were groping where dim ways were perilous.
>
> There were lives that were as dark as are the fears and intuitions
> Of a child who knows himself and is alone with what he knows;
> There were pensioners of dreams and there were debtors of illusions,
> All to fall before the triumph of a weed that only grows.
> There were thirsting heirs of golden sleeves that held not wine or water,
> And had no names in traffic or more value there than toys;
> There were blighted sons of wonder in the Valley of the Shadow,
> Where they suffered and still wondered why their wonder made no noise.

He goes on to enumerate many a misguided victim of chance, "slaves who dragged the shackles of a precedent unbroken," daughters older than the mothers who had borne them, "creepers among catacombs where dull regrets were torches." It is a sombre picture, yet painted with an amazing perfection of phrasing. The poem ends:

> So they were, and so they are; and as they came are coming others,
> And among them are the fearless and the meek and the unborn;
> And a question that has held us heretofore without an answer
> May abide without an answer until all have ceased to mourn.
> For the children of the dark are more to name than are the wretched,
> Or the broken, or the weary, or the baffled, or the shamed;
> There are builders of new mansions in the Valley of the Shadow,
> And among them are the dying and the blinded and the maimed.

This new book may be divided into three parts. There are poems, like "The Valley of the Shadow," which may be called comment of the times, although it is very much more than that, being an exalted examination and analysis of the conflicting currents that swing modern life into such vexatious whirlpools. Among these poems are the two fine sonnets called "Demos" and "Peace on Earth" and "The New King's Jester." A second group includes poems based upon historical personages, and these include "The Three Taverns," a monologue by St. Paul, which is full of beautiful lines. "On the Way," an imaginary dialogue between Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr; "John Brown," a monologue by the old hero of Harper's Ferry; "Rahel to Varnhagen" and "Lazarus." Into each one of these figures Mr. Robinson brings the vividness of his genius. He causes them to live again before the reader, uttering the words that lay bare their minds and hearts One knows them better, St. Paul, Lazarus John Brown, Aaron Burr.



Edgar Lee Masters

The third part of Mr. Robinson's book may be fashioned from the imaginary figures and characterizations. There is nothing here that does not show the poet at his best as a traveler in the valleys and hills of the human soul. His explorations are made vivid by the individual tang of his phraseology. No one writes quite like Robinson. His style, which consists primarily of discovering the most illuminating word to fill the phrase, is carefully chiseled and unique. It is not a medium of eccentricities or vain stretching for outlandish terms, but a concentrated and deliberate mastery of the English language. He knows exactly what shade of meaning he desires to convey and he works until he discovers the especial phrase which will best bring out his thought. It is because his thought runs into such subterranean channels at times that readers have imagined him difficult to comprehend. There is no poet today of his value writing as lucidly as Mr. Robinson.

There is space to quote but one of Mr. Robinson's short pieces, one that exhibits how he can concentrate a drama of spiritual suffering into three verses.

TACT.

> Observant of the way she told
> So much of what was true,
> No vanity could long withhold
> Regard that was her due:
> She spared him the familiar gulfs.
> So easily achieved,
> That only made a man to smile
> And left him undeceived.
>
> Aware that all imagining
> Of more than what she meant
> Would urge an end of everything
> He stayed; and when he went,
> They parted with a merry word
> That was to him as light

Edwin Arlington Robinson.

From a Painting by Lilla Cabot Perry.

As any that was ever heard
Upon a starry night.

She smiled a little, knowing well
That he would not remark
The ruins of a day that fell
Around her in the dark:
He saw no ruins anywhere,
Nor fancied there were scars
On any one who lingered there,
Alone below the stars.

"The Three Taverns" must be placed beside "The Man Against the Sky" as one of the two books that exhibit Mr. Robinson in his maturity, an assured poet who has not his equal among American writers today.

In turning to Edgar Lee Masters's "Domesday Book" we turn from superb finish and poetic fastidiousness to work that is often unkempt, that is nearly always below the authentic plane of poetry, but which is tremendously virile and which possesses a blind power of its own. "Domesday Book" is the best thing Mr. Masters has done since he wrote "Spoon River Anthology." It is a big book, stretching over 396 pages.

Mr. Masters's style fairly snarls at one. It is shaggy, covered with the mud of Illinois, shapeless. But behind this shapelessness, beneath the blank verse which often seems newspaper English chopped into regular lines, is a blind driving force, an urge that will astonish and keep the reader rapt to the very end. There is much that is extraneous in "Domesday Book." Sociological speculations, curiously inane reasonings, childish conclusions, sensationalism, tawdriness, dreariness, all these things are there, but they are but excrescences upon a vast panorama, a moving theme that in its entirety adequately encompasses a vast subject. It is with difficulty that Mr. Masters makes himself coherent. In the true sense of the word he is not a poet, and yet there are epical proportions in "Domesday Book." It is the raw stuff of America flung at the reader with no attempt at polish, no reworking of phrases or careful selection of words. But it is a theme and that is the big thing. It grasps a subject in a big way and the mightiness of that subject surges through to the reader.

Let us see what is in this huge volume. It is the story of how a woman's life and death affected countless other lives. Elenor Murray's body, found on the river bank a mile above Starved Rock, becomes the touchstone through which the heart of modern America is laid bare. The poem is divided into sections, each one being the testimony of a witness at the coroner's inquest over this dead woman. Their testimony, taken all together, becomes a moving history of one woman's life, and through it a panorama of the United States. Mr. Masters writes of her

> Whose life was humble and whose death was tragic.
> And yet behold the riffles spread, the lives
> That are affected, and the secrets gained
> Of lives she never knew of, as for that

Dozens of men and women, affected (some closely and some remotely) by Elenor Murray's death pass through the pages of the book. They lay bare their hearts to the coroner, giving up their innermost secrets in order to clear up the mystery of the woman's death. It is in the testimony of Barrett Hays, who loved Elenor so much, that the moral of the tale unfolds. He cries:

> This Elenor Murray.
> What was she, just a woman, a little life
> Swept in the war and broken? If no more,
> She is not worth these words: She is the symbol
> Of our America, perhaps this world
> This side of India, of America
> At least she is the symbol. What was she?
> A restlessness, a hunger, and a zeal;
> A hope for goodness, and a tenderness;
> A love, a sorrow, and a venturing will;
> A dreamer fooled but dreaming still, a vision
> That followed lures that fled her, generous, loving,
> But also avid and insatiable;
> An egoism chained and starved too long
> That breaks away and runs: a cruelty,
> A willfulness, a dealer in false weights,
> And measures of herself, her duty, others,
> A lust, a slick hypocrisy and a faith
> Faithless and hollow.

And again but a short distance on he cries:

> This Elenor Murray was America;
> Corrupt, deceived, deceiving, self-deceived,
> Half-disciplined, half-lettered, crude and smart,
> Enslaved yet wanting freedom, brave and coarse,
> Cowardly, shabby, hypocritical,
> Generous, loving, noble, full of prayer,
> Scorning, embracing rituals, recreant
> To Christ so much professed; adventuresome;
> Curious, mediocre, venal, hungry
> For money, place, experience, restless, no
> Repose, restraint; before the world made up
> To act and sport ideals, go abroad
> To bring the world its freedom, having choked
> Freedom at home—the girl was this because > These things were bred in her, she breathed them in > Here where she lived and grew.

It is this theme developed almost savagely that makes "Domesday Book" such an unusual affair. It could have been produced nowhere but in America and nowhere so justly as in the Middle West. The epigrammatic compactness of "Spoon River Anthology" is lacking in it, but it takes on a huge strength that the former book lacked. Its uncouthness is apparent if we set it beside the work in "The Three Taverns," but the two books, taken together, serve to show the immeasurable span of American poetry. They are both books to read and be glad of.

The United States Takes Lead in South America

A Review by
BEN RAY REDMAN

STRAIGHT BUSINESS IN SOUTH AMERICA. By James H. Collins. New York: D. Appleton & Co. $2.50.
THE STATES OF SOUTH AMERICA. By Charles Domville-Fife. New York: The Macmillan Company.
GLIMPSES OF SOUTH AMERICA. By F. A. Sherwood. New York: The Century Company. $4.

FOR many years before the war the possibilities of trade between the United States and South America furnished a subject for the pens of a vast number of writers of varying degrees of enthusiasm and business sanity. The war wrought a great difference in our commercial and financial relations with our southern neighbors, but essentially the problem of trade with South America remains the same as it always was; before the war our task was to win a foothold in the Latin-American markets; today our desire is to retain at least some of the advantages that were forced upon us during the early years of the world struggle. There is no reason any longer for Americans to regard South American trade as a thing of the future—during the war it became an accomplished fact—but unless our capitalists, manufacturers and exporters profit by the lessons they should have learned during the past few years it will lapse into a memory of the past. And from the business standpoint the past tense is quite as unprofitable as the future tense.

To appreciate the problem it is necessary to understand where we stood in South America before the war, the situation which developed during the war, and the subsequent situation of the reconstructive period. The immediate situation has little bearing on the case; it is not with a passing condition of exchange or with a temporarily glutted market that we are concerned, but with the underlying principles of trade applied to a particular relation. These three books that are grouped together for review form an extremely instructive trio for the man who wishes to acquaint himself with the subject. Mr. Collins has written a very readable and eminently practical volume designed to guide the man who contemplates activity in the South American field. The author has studied the subject on its own ground, and his book is a mine of wisdom and practical advice. Mr. Domville-Fife's "The States of South America" is "a complete geographical, descriptive, economic and commercial survey" of all of the South American countries, with especial relation to the rehabilitation of British trade. Aside from its mass of statistics and general information, the chief value of this volume to the American business man lies in the fact that it introduces him, with admirable candor, to the methods of his chief competitor, and a study of "the other fellow's" style of play is quite as essential in the business world as it is in our national game. "Glimpses of South America" is frankly a book of travel—and a very entertaining one—but it will prove highly educational for the man who wishes to learn something of Latin Americans, their customs, mode of living, needs and psychology. Taken together, these three books offer an excellent course of study that will prepare one for a profitable visit to South America itself.

Before the war 84½ per cent. of the total imports into South America came from European countries. Great Britain had enormous capital invested throughout the southern continent, and, as a result, was in a sound position to lead the world as South America's biggest seller and best customer. But although Great Britain apparently held this commanding position in the South American markets, the horizon was not entirely free from clouds. She was maintaining her volume of trade, but she was not increasing it in proportion to the growth of the South American States. Other countries were getting the new business: Germany with her well known policy of "peaceful penetration," was sending out financiers and traders who settled down, married, and took firm root in the soil; France was expanding her banking and commercial interests; and the United States, although realizing but a fraction of her opportunities, was making brilliant advances in certain fields. It was, however, the ubiquitous German who foreshadowed a coming change in the situation. In every bank; in importing houses, and in distributing centres, he was building painstakingly and faithfully the foundations for German domination in South American trade.

With the outbreak of war in 1914, affairs turned topsy-turvy. The United States found South American trade thrust upon her; she had won it by no efforts of her own and she was unprepared. In pre-war days only a few concerns in the United States had studied the needs of South America and built up a business with her on a sound and enduring basis.

They were brilliant exceptions: in the great majority of cases our manufacturers had not attempted to supply the South American markets according to their needs, but had considered them merely as a dumping ground for any surplus commodities that they might desire to export. Hence numerous failures and much amusement for foreigners at the Yankee way of doing business with her southern neighbor. The war demanded a far-reaching readjustment of international trade relations. Latin America had previously depended almost wholly upon Europe for manufactured products and luxuries, and it had been to Europe chiefly that she had shipped her raw materials. Suddenly the commerce of Germany, Austria and Belgium was wiped out, and that of the other belligerent nations radically curtailed. South America needed to buy and to sell, and the United States loomed promisingly to the north, so trade between the two countries began to assume unprecedented proportions and to take on innumerable new forms.

Harbor at Mollendo, Peru.

A few figures will suffice to acquaint the uninitiated with the radical changes that took place. In 1914 we ranked fourth in importance among the nations that were trading with Argentina. During the war our total annual trade with that country averaged £58,000,000, of which £27,000,000 were imports into Argentina, while Great Britain's total trade during the same period averaged only £47,000,000. It was the same story in the other States. Before the war the value of our Brazilian trade was less than that of Great Britain, whereas in 1918 it was double that of our chief competitor. In Equador, Colombia and Peru, we led by a still wider margin. In Uruguay we did not outdistance Great Britain, but we made enormous gains. Fifteen years ago, Great Britain furnished 15 per cent. of that country's imports; during the war her exports to Uruguay only slightly exceeded those of the United States.

The array of similar statistics all prove the same point—that South American trade was thrust suddenly upon us, due to no effort or virtue of our own. Our problem is to retain the business that we "took care of during the war," and it is essentially the same problem that confronted us in pre-war days; for, despite trade figures of the last few years, the fact remains that we still have to learn how to do business with South America. Competitors are returning to the fray, and trade rivalry will be keener than ever before in history. The European countries have an even more vital interest in the reconstruction of their Latin-American trade than we have in the maintenance of ours, because they are in crying need of the foodstuffs and the raw materials that the southern continent of the Western Hemisphere can supply. As Mr. Domville-Fife puts it: "The position is little better than that of the New World feeding the Old World in return for the products of its industry." When we consider the pressing need of Europe to sell as well as to buy, we appreciate the significance of this same author's words on the situation of the United States. After referring to her war-time gains, he writes: "Whether she will be able to maintain her position of commercial supremacy in South America in the years of intensified production which must come, and come soon, in Europe, if a commercial catastrophe is to be averted, remains to be seen."

Our problem, then, is the old problem intensified a thousandfold by the reconstructive legacy of the war. We have the same lessons to learn, and the same battles to wage. We must make the intensive study of South American markets and South American customers that we were constantly advised to make before the war, but which only a small number of concerns actually did make. In one sense our task is more difficult than ever, for we have recent lessons to unlearn as well as the old ones to master. The war created false conditions and false values, on which mushroom export houses thrived and grew fat; our concern is not with these, and the sooner they are forgotten the better for us.

Considering the matter, first of all, from its national rather than its individual aspect, the United States enters the post-war competition for South American trade with the tremendous momentum that it gained during the war, with the advantages of the Panama Canal, and possessed of a vastly augmented merchant marine. This is extremely favorable, but, as usual, there is another side to the medal; for, as Mr. Domville-Fife points out to the encouragment of his fellow-countrymen, there are factors favorable to British commerce which offset the assets of the United States.

George Washington Is Supposed to Have Attended This Church When He Visited Barbados. It Is Little Changed in This Day.

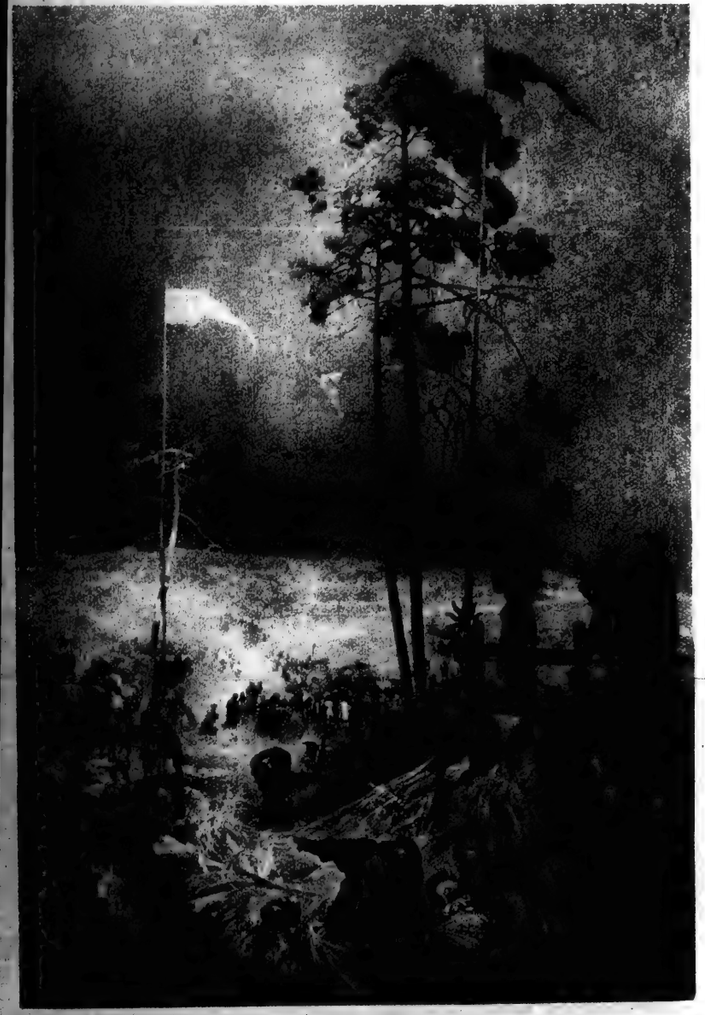
The principal of which is, that far the largest proportion of capital whereby these countries (South American States) owe their present state of developme came from the United King and, as a corollary, British la constructed and controlled nearly per cent. of the railroads, har and public works, 45 per cent. foreign industrial and agricult activity and 50 per cent. of the ping, commercial and financial tivity. It is true that the w greatly changed this position, there is still a preponderating ish commercial influence in America, which, if energetic aided and fostered by the Imp Government and people, will re its old position of supremacy to incalculable advantage of Br trade.

We mentioned above the ne unlearning certain lessons of the as well as mastering the old o Under this head the chief ite the subject of credit. Every man who has ever written on S American trade has been careft emphasize the necessity for the tension of long-time credits—a ne sity which arises from the eco status of the land itself. The dividual in South America, wh almost invariably engaged in toral, agricultural or mining suits, demands credit from his retailers and receives it, and local credit sets in motion a rec cal system that finally extends to the foreign capitalist and m facturer. During the war this tem did not obtain, owing to demands of United States ex houses that controlled the situa As Mr. Collins writes: "We swamped with orders from S Americans, who would take thing at all, and be glad to ge and cable cash to New York to for merchandise." These were happy days of the fly-by-night porters, but they were not des to last: South American bus will go back to the basis of t time credits, and we must be pared to meet competition in field. It is profitable for us to what Mr. Domville-Fife has to on this subject for the instructi British interests. After stating the usual credit period is sixty he goes on to advise that "it strengthen the hand of any re sentative in South America wh able to grant to local firms of standing at least 90 to 120 days preferably one year." The m that he advocates to make credits possible is the establish of "more British banks in America." What is good for Britain is equally good for her petitors, and Mr. Collins places

(Continued on Page 21)

THE WORLD OF ART:

Alphonse Mucha's Mural Decorations



Panel for Mural Decorations, by Alphonse Mucha, Representing Episodes in the History of the Slavonic Nations. On View at the Brooklyn Museum.

THE Brooklyn Museum announces another exhibition of distinction. Five panels by Alphonse Mucha commemorating certain historic moments in the development of the Slavonic nations have been placed on view in the central rotunda on the third floor of the museum. The panels belong to a series not yet completed, designed for the City of Prague and to be the joint gift of the artist and his friend, Charles R. Crane.

Mr. Mucha is a native of the Czechoslovak country of Moravia and the fire and force of his race are not obliterated by the cool gray banality and the decorative flatness of his work. The ardent spirit of a powerful emotional inheritance is made more potent by the chill and austerity of its envelope. The restraint of these mural decorations is first among their many impressive qualities. A born decorator, with a natural instinct for effective placing, interesting design, and appropriate subject matter, the artist has fortified his instinct by a severe training. One of the conspicuous merits of these interesting panels is the closely considered proportion of the space occupied by the numerous figures to the other spaces in the design. Another is the tying of the different parts of the design together by visible or implied lines of direction. Another is the treatment of light in a manner to emphasize the unity of the design. The panels exhibited hardly give a true account of themselves without the sequence of the entire series, but they form a coherent group from which one safely may infer the coherence of the whole, and their technical features hardly can fail to commend them to those who understand the multitudinous problems and difficulties assailing the mural decorator.

The public, however, will be interested in them for reasons not less important. Any great decorator who takes for his own a historic theme becomes an interpreter of the people who made that history, their temper of mind and their place in the past. From the light cast upon history by historians of different points of view, we gain slowly some idea that probably approaches truth. Every student of mural decoration in America recalls the opposite angles from which Puvis de Chavannes in the Boston Library decorations and John La Farge in the St. Paul decorations approached the Greek past and the moment when Plato instructed the young men of Greece. The French painter saw the past as through a mist of dream, as far distant as the records of days assure us that it was. Mr. LaFarge saw it close at hand, significant, real and personal.

Mr. Mucha has something of each. He also creates an impression of mist and with his pale color subdues the vitality of his conception. But he breathes into these pallid phantoms a mental and spiritual life more persistent and haunting than the lustiness of flesh-and-blood realism. We look across these fields and hills illumined by a serene unnatural sunshine, behold these figures staggering under heavy burdens, indolent in attitudes of rest, tense in attitudes of prayer, and see the panorama of action in which famous men and our fathers who were before us took part.

No painters of Anglo-Saxon origin could use symbolism in the way it is used in the Czechoslovak decorations. A self-conscious doubt of it would creep into their presentation. They would make it visionary and obviously ghostly where in these paintings the symbols are made the great realities of the composition. The human figures may fail and fail, the symbols are heroic and everlasting. The human figures assert their humanity in their pathetic littleness and subordination to destiny and environment. The symbols rise as tremendous as the gods and as impervious to destructive force.

The first of the five compositions represents the Festival of Svantovit in Ruegen, which is now a part of Eastern Germany and from ancient times was populated by Slavs. The vast temple in which the crowds gathered to consult their priests concerning the future was situated in the famous old city of Arkuna. After the harvest the festival in honor and praise of the God of Svantovit was held, and the artist has combined the episodes of a great fair with the symbolism of the race. Above the crowds hover forms of heroic proportions. Thor with his wolves, the destroyers of those who defended Svantovit; the last soldier dying on the sacred white horse, the god at his side taking from his hand the sacred sword.

The second picture commemorates the freeing of the serfs by the Czar of Russia in 1861. In the distance rises the Kremlin, its towers and spires dim through falling snow. In the foreground in the snowy public square are groups of peasants lingering to rejoice and give thanks. The third composition is the largest of the five. It shows John Huss preaching in the Bethlehem chapel to the queen and her court and to all sorts and conditions of the people. In the great expanse of the building under the high vaulted ceiling, the figures take their place as minute items in the whole. The paintings on the walls, the colored glass of the windows, the carved stone of the fount are most definitely important, but the effect upon the crowd of the emotion of the preacher is vigorously expressed.

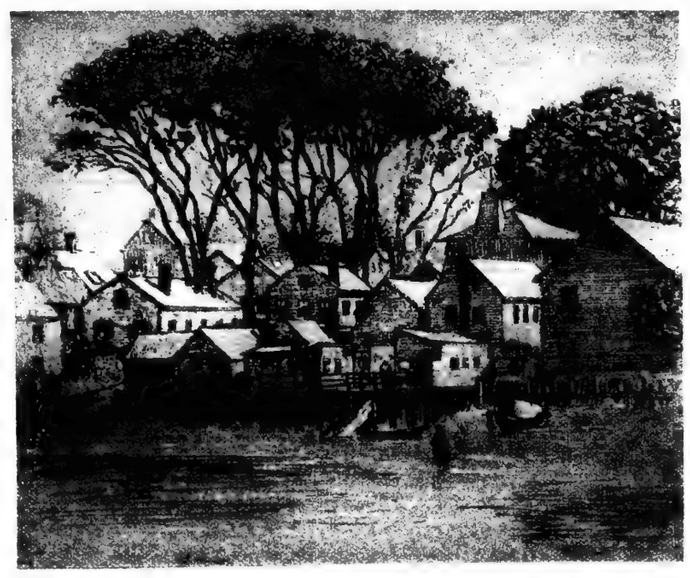
The two other pictures are each given to the commemoration of a famous preacher, one to Milic, who preceded Huss in awakening the religious fervor of his countrymen, with Milic portrayed as standing on the ruins of wickedness and the women of the underworld in reformative frenzy casting aside their jewels and adornments as they beg for absolution; the other to Koranda, to hear whom on St. Michael's Day in 1419 the people came from far and wide, the second object of their meeting being preparation for giving armed assistance to Prague against the Emperor's party.

At the Folsom Galleries is an exhibition of paintings, drawings and etchings by Henry Martyn Hoyt, who died last year at the age of 33. The work has the special poignancy of youth submitting itself to countless influences and gradually taking for its own those which belong to it. Such an early painting as the young languid woman seated before a chair on which is placed a huge bandbox indicates the New England attitude toward such trivial episodes of life. There is no intensity in the girl's pose and gesture, such as one would expect from a Frenchwoman in a boudoir picture. Her air is serious but not too serious, and the bandbox exists conspicuously as an accessory of the composition rather than a psychological document. All the detail of the room is beautifully drawn—the mahogany chair with its good carving, the plain walls, the Whistlerian trick of showing the lower parts of the picture frames.

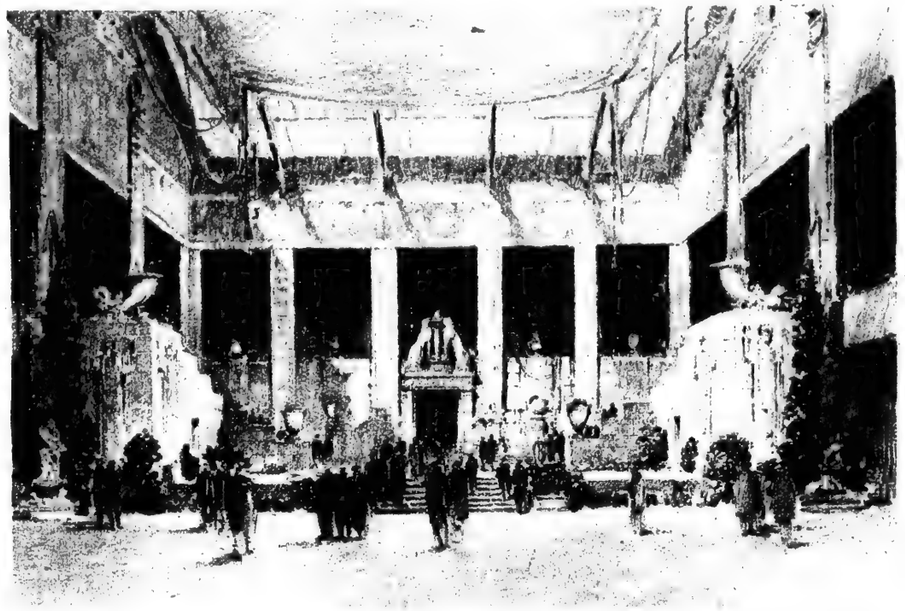
A later painting, "The Octagon House," has the severity and downright methods of the younger schools of art. The house suggests the Pyramids in its aspect of permanence and weight. Even the vine-clad trellis lets no piquant tendril escape from its closely netted coiffure. The barn in the distance is a strong resonant red. The whole picture speaks with masculine force and on the note of the theatre.

The etchings are the finest things in the exhibition. The composition invariably adds to whatever grace it may possess a clean-cut muscular quality that leaves nothing trailing or fading in its wake. The "Back Yards: Provincetown," is an example of his most concentrated mood. The clustered buildings are fresh, truthful, stern. In their strict modernity they condescend to no single hint of the picturesque or the idealized. But also in their strict modernity they stand aloof from meticulous detail. They are neither sentimental nor fussy. They are drawn from the fine generalization that comes from complete knowledge of detail and of the distinction between the inevitable and that with which one may dispense. The great connoisseur is he who knows what he does not want, and in his art, at the moment of leaving it, Mr. Hoyt was a connoisseur of this high type.

There are in the small group etchings less secure and fine, but all are touched with the artist's sense of congruity and with his bright fire of enthusiasm. The exhibition lasts until Jan. 24.



Etching in Exhibition of Henry Martyn Hoyt's Work at the Folsom Galleries.



Sketch of New Wing of Metropolitan Museum, Prepared for the Exhibition of the Architectural League. Drawn by Otto R. Eggers.

Paintings by John H. Twachtman are on exhibition at the Rehn Galleries, few in number, exquisite in manner, and supreme in quality. Twachtman belonged to a group of painters whose strength lay in suggesting the evanescent effects of nature with a delicate energy, a nervous force, that supported their vaporous painting as the steel frame of a modern building supports the apparently fragile structure and by some strange secret of architecture makes manifest its invisible strength. It is just by this haunting quality of muscular efficiency, overlaid by films and veils of sensitive tone, that Twachtman and Weir are especiall American.

Two of the pictures exhibited ar figure subjects, one a woman seate in an open doorway, the other a wo man out of doors. In each the fig ure is reduced to the simplest gen eralization, yet richly expressive o form. The blossoms and leaves, fain and fluttering in the background, th white and blue of the draperies, th blond shadow and radiant light, a with a hint of robust health in thei fair refinement, make nearly intoler able the aggressive robustness o brutal realism. To live with suc paintings would so much refine th eye that violence in color and fort would strike upon the retina as pain fully as the music of trumpets an drums upon ears used only to violi and flute. Of course there ar moods to which the most sensitiv are subject, moods in which an arti tocracy of sensation becomes oppre sive and the good brown earth o Courbet is a pagan pleasure. But th world was full of pagan pleasures fo these American painters of dim Ne England pastures and cool Norther skies. They loved the good brow earth as well as Courbet and Brown ing loved it. They loved it bette going deeper into its reality, freein it from the bonds of pigment an painter's language, showing it as th Chinese landscape painters would, a concentrated essence. So that t live with such a painting as th "Snowy Landscape" would do mo than refine the eye; it would deepe the vision, and would give the o server power to find the unity nature in the presence of multitud nous manifestations. Twachtman pictures and Weir's are not f those who care for pleasures ea ily done with and thrown aside Their character imposes itself on upon prolonged acquaintance. It excellent that the present exhibitio is to last for several weeks and fu nish opportunity for repeated visits.

Bookish Ben Franklin

(Continued from Page 11)

contrived to lend verisimilitude to the hoax. The scalps, we are given to understand, had been made up in eight packs, "cured, dried, hooped and painted," preparatory to sending them as a gift to George III. This was the invoice accompanying Package No. 5: "Containing eighty-eight scalps of women: hair long, braided in the Indian fashion, to show they were mothers; hoops blue; skins, yellow ground, with little red tadpoles, to represent, by way of triumph, the tears of grief occasioned their relations; a black scalping knife or hatchet at the bottom, to mark their being killed with these instruments. Seventeen others, hair very gray; black hoops; plain brown color; no mark, but the short club or casse-tête, to show they were knocked down dead, or had their brains beat out."

Regarding this astonishing production of the press at Passy, Franklin wrote to a friend as follows: "Enclosed I send you a few copies of a paper that places in a striking light the English barbarities in America, particularly those committed by the savages at their instigation. The form may perhaps not be genuine, but the substance is truth; the number of our people of all kinds and ages murdered and scalped by them being known to exceed that of the invoices. Make any use of them you may think proper to shame your Anglomanes, but do not let it be known through what hand they come."

An eyewitness has drawn a pleasing picture of the old bookman's last days, spent in his well-loved library, said to be the largest and finest collection of its day in America. The sketch is from the pen of the Rev. Manasseh Cutler. "After it was dark we went into the house, and the doctor invited me into his library, which is likewise his study. It is a very large chamber, and high studded. The walls are covered with bookshelves filled with books; besides, there are four large alcoves, extending two-thirds of the chamber, filled in the same manner. * * * He * * * showed us his long artificial arm and hand for taking down and putting books up on high shelves * * *; and his great armed chair with rockers, and a large fa placed over it, with which he fan himself, keeps off the flies, &c while he sits reading, with only small motion of his foot." (Alas! w cannot read with our feet in thes degenerate days!)

Visitors to the rooms of the Ame ican Philosophical Society in Phila delphia will recollect the library cha which can be metamorphosed into step-ladder in the twinkling of a eye. We have at the Universit Library another chair which the in genious doctor inoculated with el phantiasis so that the right arm ha monstrously developed into a readin and writing desk. It may be th this chair is the grandfather of that numerous progeny so familia to undergraduates which furnish th college lecture rooms of the land.

To resume Dr. Cutler's description "Over his mantel-tree he has prodigious number of medals, bus and casts in wax or plaster of pari which are the effigies of the mo noted characters in Europe. H what the doctor wished principall to show me was a huge volume Botany and which, indeed, afforde one of the greatest pleasures of a one thing in his library." It was single volume, but so large that was with great difficulty that t doctor was able to raise it from low shelf and lift it on to the tabl but with that senile ambition co mon to old people, he insisted on d ing it himself, and would permit person to assist him, merely to sho us how much strength he had r maining. It contained the wh Linnaeus' Systima Vegetabilia, w large cuts of every plant and color from nature. It was a feast to t and the doctor seemed to enjoy it well as myself."

Mary, by Any Other Name

(Continued from Page 6)

the name on the garments was not hers, then Chow would be released.

"And Mary said that the name on the garments was not hers. And small me and Liu, thinking that Mary had drunk too much beer, as she did often, and thus could not remember, made great outcry and spake to the Judge in a loud voice, saying that this was not so, but that the garments were hers, for had we not taken special care in selecting a suitable name for her to prevent mistakes? And we asked the Judge to look at Mary and see whether the name was not a well-selected one indeed. * * *

"Ai, ai yah, Exalted One, the evil spirits of madness descended upon the court-house and everybody therein.

"And the Judge rolled his eyes very fearfully, and his face turned the hue of a plum and he wanted to speak but could not, and Liu spake again saying that he had selected the name with great care, and Mary made much oration in a loud and strong voice, and the people in the court-room began to laugh with very strong voices, and some of them screamed, and the Judge took a wooden hammer and hit the table in front of him many times, and the people shrieked and howled, and a young foreign man who was sitting near the Judge on a small table shouted with joy and wrote very quickly on many sheets of paper and we did not know why all the people were laughing because a thief had stolen the garments.

"And the young man who had been writing very much on the papers stood up, and he came to Liu and to me and he was still very much laughing, and he hit us on our backs and gave each one of us a tobacco-roll and said that we were 'birds,' which shows plainly that he, too, had gone mad, for everybody can see that we have no wings, thus being unable to fly.

"Ai, ai yah * * * and when small me returned to the house of my masters, there was Mary waiting for me like a robber in ambush, and when small me entered the kitchen she turned round and hit me many times with aforementioned piece of wood with two handles, and then she began to throw at poor me many things which can be found in a kitchen, not caring whether they would break, and she called me many bad names and said that she would kill me should I ever show myself near the house, and she made so much noise that many hundreds of thousand Chinese and foreign people came to the house to see what had happened, but they all were laughing and nobody came to my assistance.

"Ai, ai—yah, great is the ingratitude of the foreign people and worst of all is the woman. Does not the Exalted One know what says the great philosopher Sun, that 'woman hath more poison in her heart than the green snake has in her mouth'?"

The New York Times

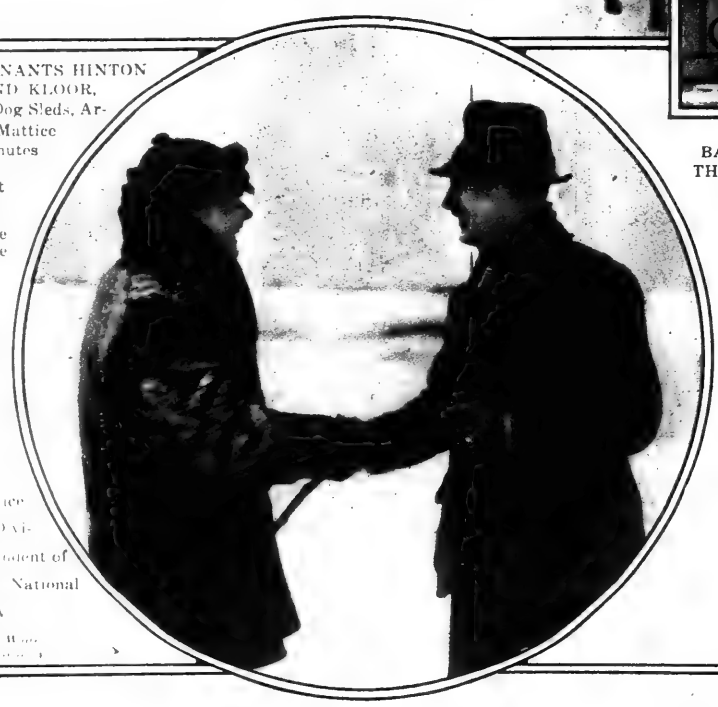
Rotogravure Picture Section 4
In Two Parts

LIEUTENANT STEPHEN A. FARRELL MUSHING INTO MATTICE, ONTARIO, AT THE HEAD OF HIS DOG-TEAM,
Last of the Trio of American Naval Balloonists to Reach the Outpost of Canadian Civilization on the Long Trek Over Snow and Frozen River Beds From Moose Factory, 225 Miles North, on James Bay.
(© News Co., From Underwood & Underwood.)

Balloonists Arrive at Mattice After Their Supreme Adventure Into the Frozen Sub-Arctic Regions of Northern Canada

LIEUTENANT FARRELL
as He Appeared on Arrival at Mattice, the Picture of Good Health and Also of Good Humor Until Informed of the Publication of Lieutenant Hinton's Letter to His Wife.
(© International.)

LIEUTENANTS HINTON AND KLOOR,
Riding on Dog Sleds, Arriving at Mattice Fifteen Minutes Ahead of Lieutenant Farrell, Who Mushed the Last Stage of the Journey From Skunk Island.

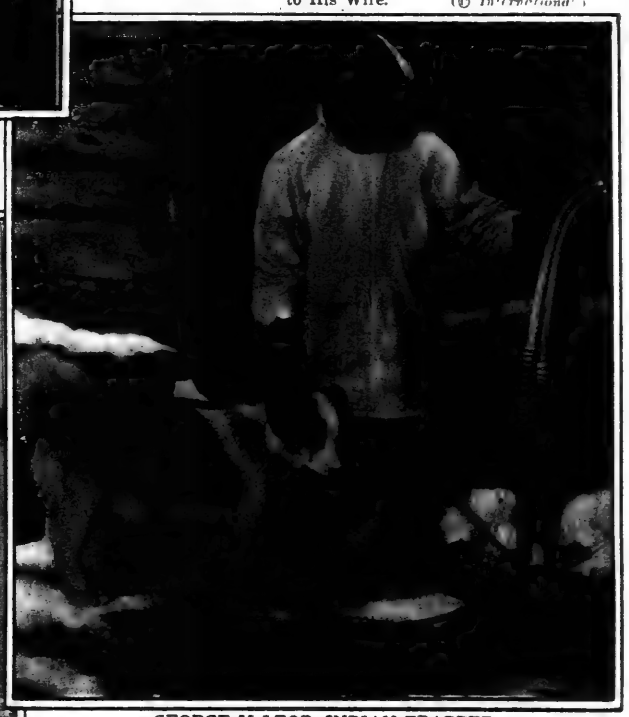


LIEUTENANT FARRELL
Greeted at Mattice by W. B. Way, Divisional Superintendent of the Canadian National Railway.
(© Times Wide World Photos.)

RESCUED BALLOONISTS ON THE PLATFORM OF THE PRIVATE CAR
Placed at Their Disposal by the Canadian National Railway. In the Group, Left to Right, Are: W. B. Way, Divisional Superintendent of the Railway; Lieutenant Farrell, Lieutenant Kloor, Lieutenant Hinton, and Railway Tourist Agent Howard.
(© Times Wide World Photos.)

LIEUTENANTS HINTON AND KLOOR
Immediately After Their Arrival at Mattice Fifteen Minutes Ahead of Lieutenant Farrell, Who Mushed the Last Stage While His Companions Came In on the Dog Sleds.
(© International.)

NEWSPAPER MEN WHO ORGANIZED A RESCUE PARTY GOING OUT FROM MATTICE BY DOG SLED TO MEET THE RETURNING AIRMEN.
(© Times Wide World Photos.)



GEORGE McLEOD, INDIAN TRAPPER,
Who Brought the First News to the Outside World of the Safety of the Three Balloonists.
(© International.)

THE LAST DAYS OF THE ROMANOFFS.

This Photograph of the Late Czar Nicholas II., Emperor of All the Russias, and Members of His Family Was Taken at Tobolsk, Where the Russian Imperial Family Was Interned From September, 1917, to April, 1918. The Czar and His Children Are Shown Perched on the Roof of a Greenhouse Warming Themselves by the Thin Siberian Sun of Early Spring. From Tobolsk They Were Taken to the House of Professor Ipatief at Ekaterinburg, Where They Were Assassinated. In the Group, Left to Right, Are: The Grand Duchess Olga, Grand Duchess Anastasia, the Czar, Czarevitch, the Grand Duchess Tatiana, and, Standing, the Grand Duchess Marie. The Czarina Was at the Time Too Ill to Join the Party on the Roof.

(© Underwood & Underwood.)

THE CONSTELLATION OF ORION, PHOTOGRAPHED AT THE MOUNT WILSON OBSERVATORY, SHOWING THE STAR BETELGEUSE, Whose Diameter Was Recently Measured for the First Time With the Interferometer Devised by Professor Albert A. Michelson of the University of Chicago, Attached to the 100-Inch Hooker Telescope. The Diameter of the Star Was Found to be About 260,000,000 Miles, or Nearly That of the Diameter of the Orbit of Mars, and Its Size Equal to 27,000,000 Suns Like Ours. In the Photograph Above It Should Be Borne in Mind That the Apparent Size of the Images of Stars Is Not Due to Real Diameter But to Photographic Spreading on Account of Brightness, the Photographic Images Being Larger the Brighter the Stars.

(Courtesy, Mount Wilson Solar Observatory, Carnegie Institution of Washington.)

PROFESSOR ALBERT A. MICHELSON,

Who Perfected the "Interference Method" by Which the Diameters of Stars Hundreds of Light Years Away From the Earth Can Be Accurately Measured.

(© Underwood & Underwood.)

THE AIRPLANE AND THE AUTOMOBILE MEET in the Newest Locomotion Toy for Children on the Streets of London.

The Cart Is Propelled by the Feet and Guided by Gear Chains Controlled by the Rear Wheel.

(Times Wide World Photos.)

WILD BUFFALO, LONG THOUGHT EXTINCT,

Still Exist in Northern Canada, the Hitherto Uncredited Tales of Indians Having Been Proven Authentic by Photographs Taken by the Intelligence Branch of the Canadian Department of the Interior. A Herd of a Thousand Head Was Found Near the Shores of Great Slave Lake, Where This Photograph Was Taken. (Colonial Press

MISS KATHERINE FRANCIS

in One of the Novel Costumes Worn at the Manville Masked Ball, Described as One of the Most Beautiful and Elaborate Entertainments for Young People Given in New York This Season.

(Dupont Atelier.)

MISS CLARE REYNDERS,

One of the Debutante Dancers at the Masked Ball Given by Mr. and Mrs. H. Edward Manville of New York.

(Dupont Atelier.)

SCENE FROM THE FORTHCOMING SCREEN PRODUCTION OF "THE FOUR HORSEMEN OF THE APOCALYPSE," Novel by the Spanish Author, Vicente Blasco Ibanez, the Parents of Julio Having at Last Found His Grave in the Battlefield Cemetery.

(Metro Pictures Corporation.)

JOE CANTY, NOTED IRISH JOCKEY, AND HIS MOUNT, IMPRESSIONER, in a Remarkable Spill in the Recent Thames Steeplechase, a Mid-Winter Sport Feature in England. This Was Canty's First Return to the Track After a Long Absence Due to a Broken Collar Bone.
(© Wide World Photos.)

MRS. ALMA WHITE
of New Jersey, Head of the Church of the Pillar of Fire, and the Only Bishop of Her Sex in Christendom.
(© Keystone View Co.)

PRINCESS MARY,
Only Daughter of the King and Queen of England. From a New Photograph Just Received in This Country.
(International)

THE AMBASSADORIAL MUSKETEERS IN PARIS: AMBASSADOR WALLACE OF THE UNITED STATES, AMBASSADOR QUINONES OF SPAIN, LORD DERBY OF GREAT BRITAIN, the "Inseparables" of the Diplomatic Community of the French Capital, Who, Just Before Lord Derby Resigned, Had Their Photographs Taken Together as a Souvenir of Their Friendship.
(Times Wide World Photos.)

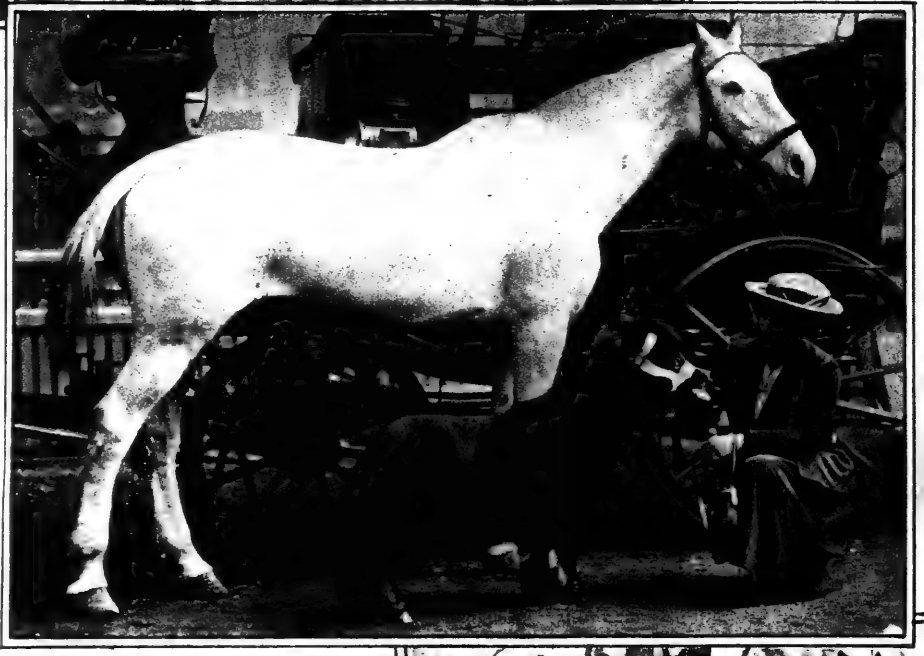
MRS. MARGUERITE DOUBLEDAY as Carmencita in "Forty Winks," Musical Fantasy, Given by the Spence School Alumnae Society for the Benefit of the Society's Home for Babies.
(© Paul Thompson.)



THE WORLD'S SMALLEST PONY: "BABS," EXHIBITED AT THE CURRENT CRYSTAL PALACE CIRCUS, LONDON.
(Times Wide World Photos.)

NORWEGIAN BOY FEEDING REINDEER IN THE FORESTS NEAR HIS HOME, the Animals Being Hard Pressed by Hunger, With Every Vestige of Foliage Covered With Snow.
(Times Wide World Photos.)

MAKING UP FOR "FORTY WINKS": MISS ELIOT PHILLIPS as a Colleen and Miss Helen Trevor as Her French Maid.
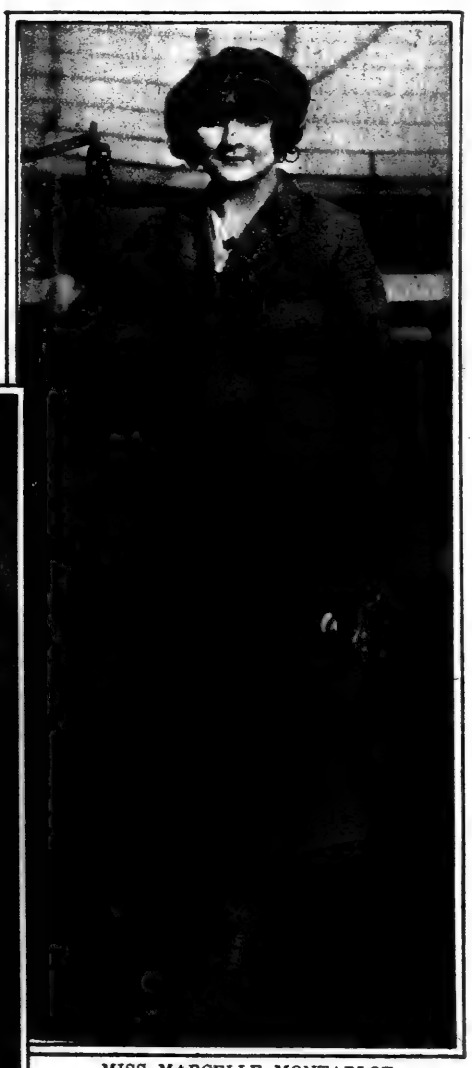
(Paul Thompson.)

A DIFFERENT THREE IN "FORTY WINKS": MISSES BELLE BENNETT AS A GNOME, ISABELLA WOOD, TIN SOLDIER, AND MARGARET REICK, BURGLAR.
(Paul Thompson.)



MISS MARCELLE MONTARLOT
of Paris, Who Had the Distinction of Being Official Photographer of the 29th, or New England, Division, A. E. F., Arriving on the Finland From Coblenz, Germany, Where She Has Been the Official Photographer for the Provost Marshal of the Army of Occupation.
(Times Wide World Photos.)

AMERICAN ARMY OFFICER RECEIVES HIGH FRENCH of the French Army, Commander in Chief of the Allied Forces in Germany, Bestowing at Coblenz the Insignia (Times W

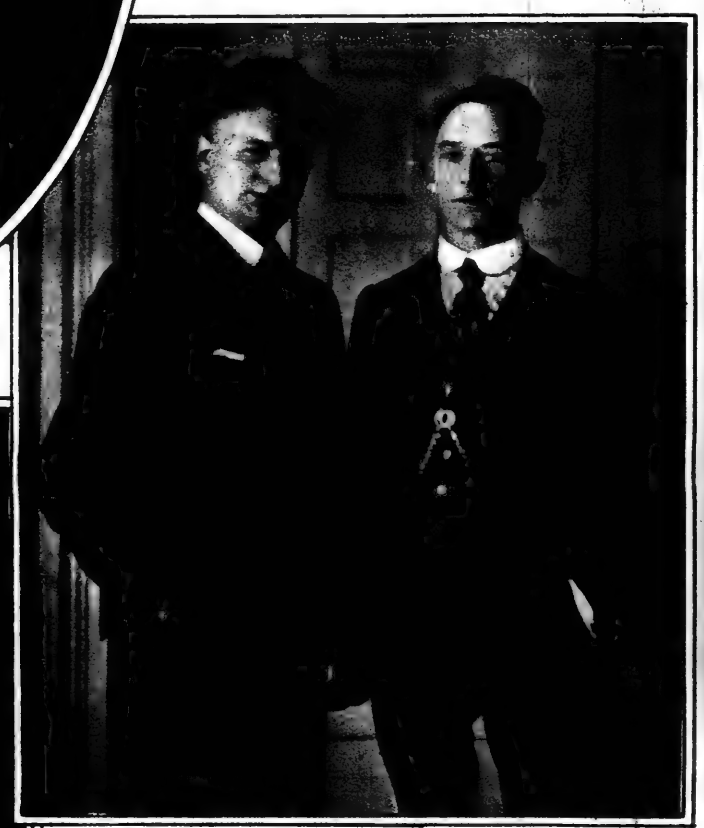
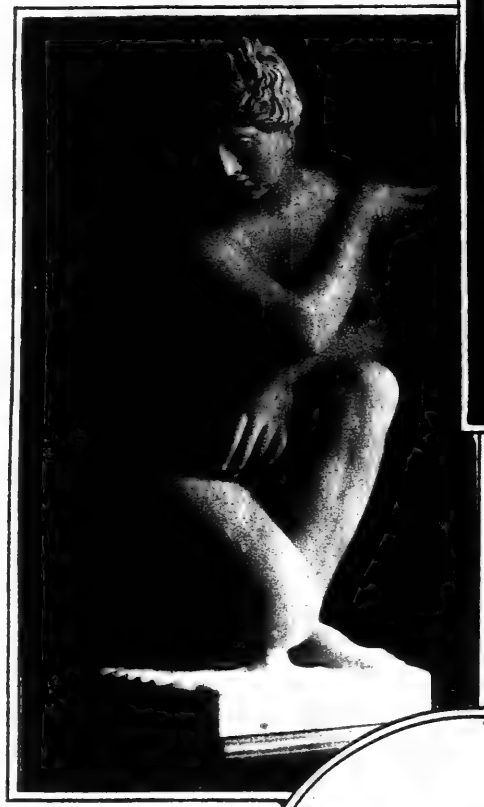
CAPTAIN ANDERSON ("DEVIL ANSE") HATFIELD, Former Confederate Army Officer and One of the Most Notorious and Picturesque Feud Leaders in the Mountains of West Virginia, Who Started the Hatfield-McCoy Feud Fifty Years Ago and Who Alone of Its Chief Figures Died in His Bed.
(Times Wide World Photos.)



DANIEL O'CHAN,
Terence MacSwiney's Successor as Lord Mayor of Cork, Who Came to This Country as a [illegible], Receiv
(Times Wide Photos.)



"THE CROUCHING VENUS,"
Gorgi's Famous Replica of the Statue in the Vatican Galleries at Rome, Which Was Lost for Centuries and Was Recently Found in a Cellar in New York.
(Times Wide World Photos.)

PETER J. MacSWINEY, BROTHER OF THE LATE LORD MAYOR OF CORK, AND LORD MAYOR DANIEL O'CALLAGHAN OF CORK, the Latter Still Wearing His Official Chain of Office, Coming to This Country as a Stowaway When Denied a Passport By the British Authorities.
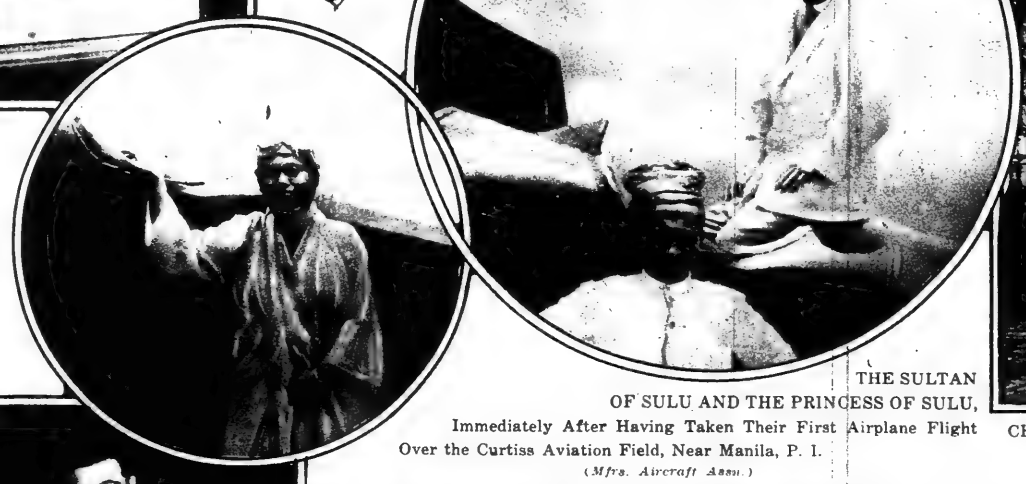
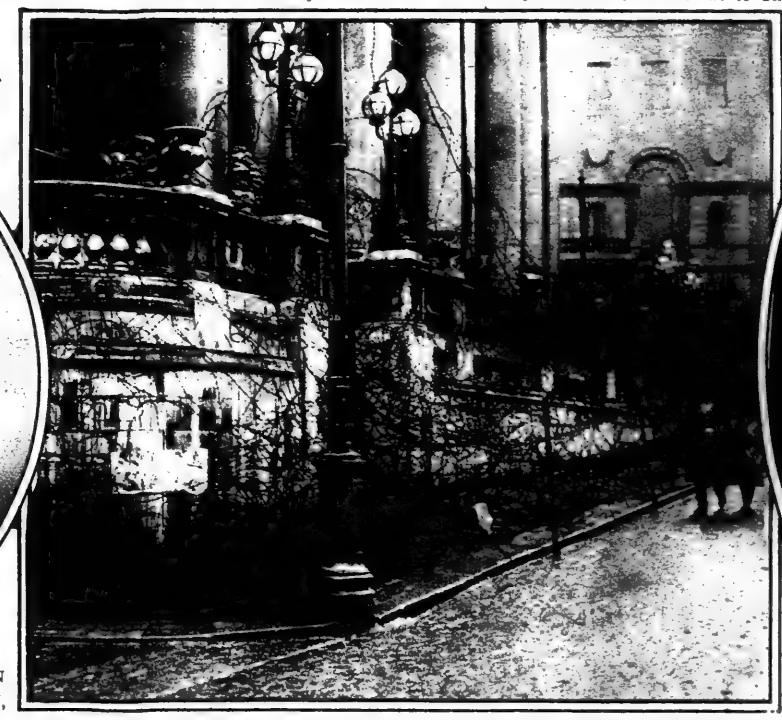
(Times Wide World Photos.)



THE SULTAN OF SULU AND THE PRINCESS OF SULU,
Immediately After Having Taken Their First Airplane Flight Over the Curtiss Aviation Field, Near Manila, P. I.
(Mfrs. Aircraft Assn.)



CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS ABOUT THE CITY HALL IN DUBLIN WHICH DID NOT ADD TO THE GOOD CHEER IN THE TROUBLED IRISH CAPITAL.
(Times Wide World Photos.)

THE REV. F DOMIN
Spiritual Adv[illegible] Late
Mayor Terenc[illegible]ney of C
Who Has Bee[illegible] Trial Be a Britis[illegible]artial.
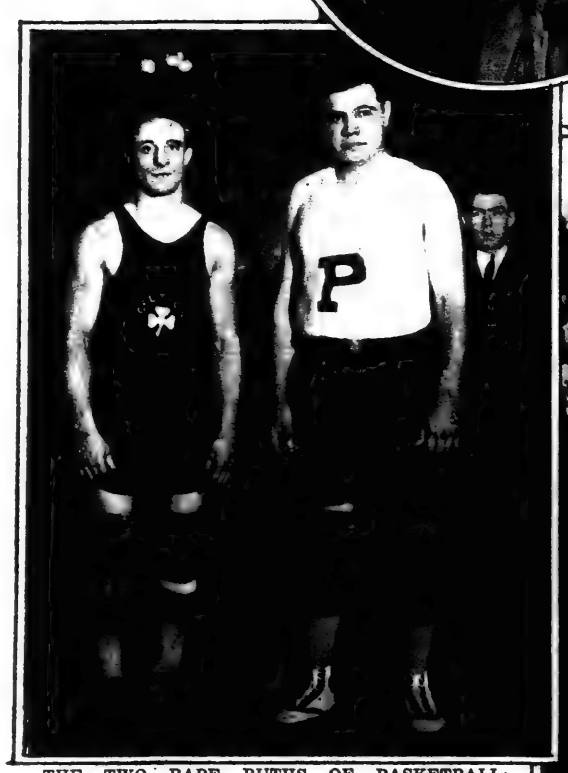
(Times Wi[illegible] Photos.)



THE TWO BABE RUTHS OF BASKETBALL: JOHNNIE BECKMAN, Said to Be the Highest Salaried Basketball Player in the Country and Known as the "Babe Ruth of Basketball," and the Real "Babe" Ruth, Who Has Now Become the Captain of the Passaic Basketball Team. (Times Wide World Photos.)

A GOLF CHAMPION OF TOMORROW: MARJORIE LEWIS, Five Years Old, Daughter of E. B. Lewis, Treasurer of the Metropolitan Opera House, Who, According to Miss Alexa Stirling, National Woman's Golf Champion, Has "Perfect Form."

COWBOY ON ONE OF THE LARGE RANCHES IN THE RIO GRANDE DISTRICT PICKING OFF WITH HIS L LARGE
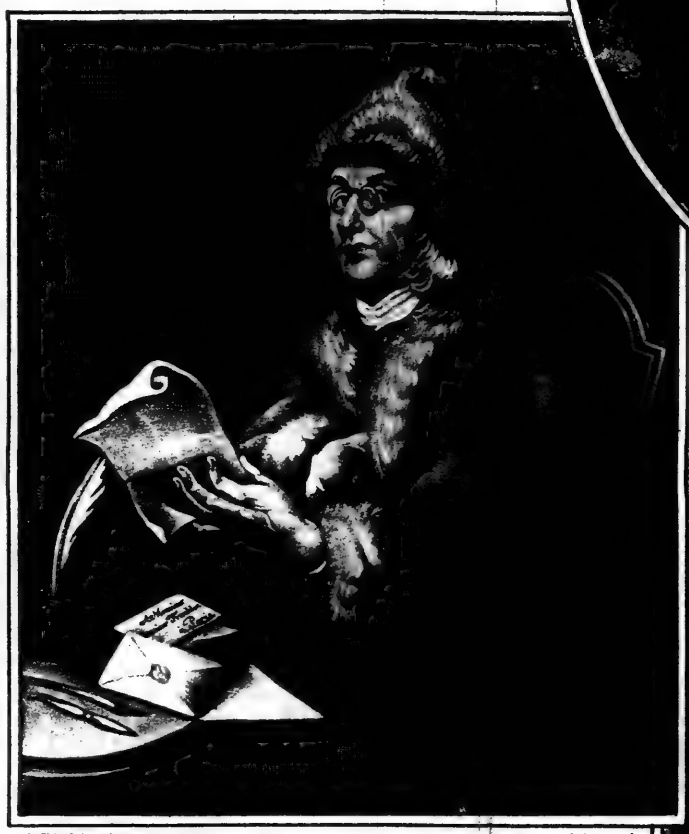
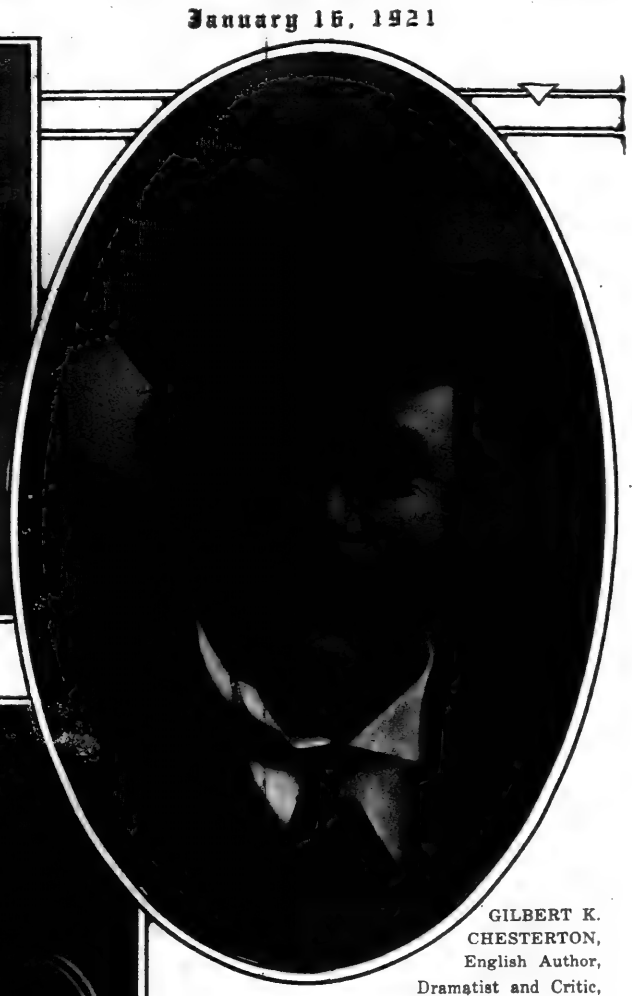
(C

...S HIGH FRENCH ... IN A GERMAN SETTING: GENERAL DAGOUETTE,
...olenz the Insignia of ... Officer of the Legion of Honor on General Henry T. Allen, Commander of the American Forces of Occupation.
(Times Wide ... Photos.)

DANIEL O'...HAN,
...his Country as a S... Received on Arrival at the Pennsylvania Station in New York With Riotous Enthusiasm.
(Times Wide ... Photos.)



BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, Whose 215th Birthday Will Be Celebrated Tomorrow in Many Cities Throughout the Country Under the Auspices of the National Thrift Week Committee. From an Exceedingly Rare Portrait By John Lorenz Rugendas.
(Courtesy Kennedy & Co.)



GILBERT K. CHESTERTON,
English Author,
Dramatist and Critic,
Arriving in New York on the K. A. Victoria.
(Times Wide World Photos.)

MARIE MARCELINE
in "Good Times," at the Hippodrome.
(White.)

THE REV. F... DOMINIC,
Spiritual Advis... Late Lord Mayor Terence ...ey of Cork, Who Has Been ...nal Before a British ...artial.
(Times Wide ... Photos.)

THE NEW TYPE OF FULLY ARMORED MOTOR LORRY
Now Used By the British Crown Forces in Patrolling the Streets of Dublin, the Entire Body of the Lorry Being Composed of Hardest Steel Plates.
(Times Wide World Photos.)

DE WOLF HOPPER AND FRANCIS WILSON in a Scene From "Erminie," at the Park Theatre.
(White.)

DOROTHY CLARK
in "Tip Top," at the Globe Theatre.
(Schubert.)

MARY GARDEN
in "Aphrodite," to Be Sung in New York By the Chicago Opera Company.
(© Moffett)

...OFF WITH HIS LA... LARGE ...
(© ...)

...CHOICEST OF ONE OF THE HERDS OF HALF-WILD HORSES WHICH ROAM OVER THE PRAIRIE IN ...

JEANNE EAGLES,
"Star" of "In the Night Watch," Coming to the Century Theatre. (© Moffett)

HELEN SHIPMAN,
Who Is Playing the Stellar Role in the Chicago Production of "Irene."
(Apeda.)

JANET VELIE AND JACK McGOWAN as Mary and Jack in "Mary" at the Knickerbocker Theatre. (White.)

ELSIE MACKAY
in "Deburau," at the Belasco Theatre.
(Mura.)

Stewart & Co.
Correct Apparel for Women & Misses
Fifth Ave. at 37th St.

Exact reproduction of a new PARISIAN DRESS of heavy Crepe de Chine
Very Specially Priced
39.50

817

817 Distinctively individual is this reproduction of a new Parisian dress, developed in heavy quality Crepe de Chine, with finely knife-pleated tunic and bodice, cape-collar front and back and self girdle and sash. Colors: Navy, Dark Brown, Grey, Black or White. Sizes 14 to 20.

Mail Orders given prompt attention

The Blym Ped Tonic

The Long-Felt Want of Real Style and True Comfort in a Well-Built Street Boot for Women.

Style 2117.— Lace Boot of fine brown kid, with fancy perforated top, vamp and lace stay, flexible welted sole. 10.00

"Ped-Tonic"

J. Blym & Sons

West Side Stores.	East Side Stores.
222-224 W. 125 St.	3d Av. & 122d St.
West of 7th Av.	3d Av., 86 & 87 Sts
6th Av. & 27th St.	3d Av., 150 & 151 Sts
8th Av., 39 & 40 Sts.	160-162 Bowery. Near Broome.
	102 3d Av. nr. 13th

BROOKLYN STORES
442-444 Fulton op. Bridge St., nr. Hoyt
829-833 B'way, bet. Park Av. & Ellery St.
1263-1267 Broadway, nr. Greene Av.

NEWARK STORES
689 Broad St., opp. Military Park.
100 Market St. Men's Shoes Only.

Mail Order Department, 2240 3d Av. Send P. O. Money Order or New York Draft Only. Delivery free to all parts of the world.

Factory: 511-519 East 72d Street.

DEAF?

"I Now Hear Clearly" You, Too, May Hear!

Inasmuch as 400,000 users have testified to the wonderful results obtained from the "Acousticon," we feel perfectly safe in urging every deaf person, without a penny of expense and entirely at our risk, to accept the 1921 Acousticon

For 10 Days' FREE TRIAL
No Deposit—No Expense

Just write saying that you are hard of hearing and will try the "Acousticon." The trial will not cost you one cent, for we even pay delivery charges.

WARNING! There is no good reason why everyone should not make as liberal a trial offer as we do, so do not send money for any instrument for the deaf until you have tried it.

The "Acousticon" has improvements and patented features which cannot be duplicated, so no matter what you have tried in the past, send for your free trial of the "Acousticon" today and convince yourself—you alone to decide.

Dictograph Products Corp.
1302A Candler Bldg.
New York City, N. Y.

A MIGEL SILK

"MOON-GLO"

VAN RAALTE Veils
Look for the little White ticket
VAN RAALTE MAKE

WILSNAP FASHION'S FASTENER WILSNAPS always will snap

BEDROOM SUITES
Full Line Solid Mahogany Four Posters
DAY BEDS $21 UP

GEO. M. MILLER, 7 West 45th Street
BRYANT 914 NEW YORK

Bennett Re-Sets Diamonds

in Platinum or 14k. White Gold—latest style hexagon setting looks like platinum (like illustration) for your Solitaire or 5 to 7 small diamonds.
COMPLETE Only $8.50
Beautiful Platinum Settings, $35 to $65.
Old Jewelry Remounted and Repaired. Diamonds Bought and Sold for Cash.
Bennett Mfg. Co. 175 Broadway SECOND FLOOR at Cortlandt St.

Dale

VISIT our showroom. We do not issue literature, but assist you in your selection from fixtures hung and illuminated. This insures satisfaction.
109 West 13th St., New York ONE DOOR WEST OF 6TH AVE.
DALE Lighting Fixture Co Quality Service Price

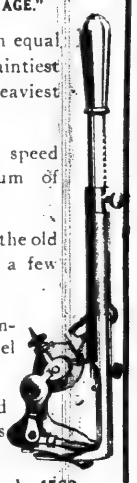
MARVEL
Embroiderer
Price $5.50
"ONE OF THE GREAT INVENTIONS OF THE AGE."



Embroiders with equal facility the daintiest lingerie or the heaviest velour.
A maximum of speed with a minimum of effort.
A year's work in the old way reduced to a few hours.
Our new and improved 1921 model now ready.
Demonstrated and sold at the world's leading stores.
Telephone Circle 4562
MARVEL NEEDLEKRAFT WORKS
Dept. M-10 620 Fifth Ave., N. Y.
MARVEL

Period Furniture
GRAND RAPIDS FURNITURE
(Direct from the Factory)
Mahogany
4 Post Colonial Bed Special $35

DISCONTINUED PATTERNS at 50% of Regular Prices
Est. 1852 MANGES BROS. Mf'rs
668 to 672 Sixth Ave., cor 39th St.

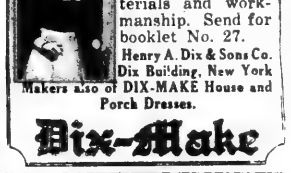
Joseph

CAPS-APRONS-UNIFORMS
Exclusive specialists in Nurses' and Maids' Uniforms.
Send for Catalog T-16
129 East 34th St., New York

Maids' Uniforms

with DIX-MAKE label have assurance of correct style, quality in materials and workmanship. Send for booklet No. 27.
Henry A. Dix & Sons Co.
Dix Building, New York
Makers also of DIX-MAKE House and Porch Dresses.
Dix-Make

SHEPPARD KNAPP SON CO. Inc.
ESTABLISHED 1857
39-41 West 23d Street



January Reduction Sale
WINDSOR DAY-BED
Any desired finish. Several designs to choose from. 2 ft. 6 in. wide or 3 ft. wide.
Reduced to $30.00
COMBINATION BOX SPRING AND MATTRESS, covered in Cretonne or Denim.
Reduced to $25.00

BUSINESS women know Venida for its dependability—it keeps the hair just right throughout the day.
For sports and social occasions, Venida has become absolutely essential to the smartly groomed, discriminating woman.
Each Venida is individually sterilated – an important safeguard.
You can buy VENIDAS with confidence.
WE STAND BACK OF EACH NET.
The Rieser Company
100-T Fifth Avenue, New York

VIOLET

Ambre Royal
Face powder is the choice of the most exclusive Parisiennes

The SALBRO SELF-FILLING FOUNTAIN PEN

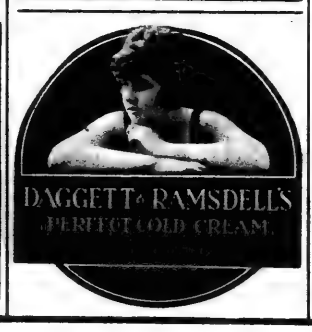
Warranted to write right
$1.75
Used everywhere because of its quality and economy $1.75 at all dealers or sent direct
SALZ BROS
HERALD SQUARE - NEW YORK

ACFIELD'S METAPAD
IT SUPPORTS & BINDS THE FRONT ARCH
For All Metatarsal Arch Affections.
Morton Toe, cramping of toes, enlarged little toe joints, sole callouses and spreading of foot. Worn in any shoe.

Any other foot troubles? Write or call.
C. R. ACFIELD, Foot Specialties,
1328 Broadway and 47 West 34th Street | New York City. Dept. BF.

LUX

For all fine laundering



Bohn Syphon Refrigerator
The California Fruit Shippers will use only Bohn Syphon Refrigerator cars. Call and we will show you why.

Bohn Refrigerator Co.
53 W. 42d St., N. Y.
913 Broad St., Newark.

Reduce Your Flesh
by wearing
Dr. Walter's Reducing Rubber Garments
For Men & Women
Cover entire body or any part. Send for Illustrated Booklet.

Brassiere Price $7.00
Neck & Chin Reducer $3.50
Dr. Jeanne A. B. Walter
333 Fifth Ave., N. Y.
Billings Bldg., 4th fl.
(Ent. 34th St., 3d Door E.)

Francis
Permanent wave Specialist-Francaise
PERMANENT WAVES
By a special steam process we first wash your hair, and then while it is still wet put in the permanent waves. Waving by Monsieur Thomas, Expert. $20 all over the head, or $1 per curl.
Six-Month Guarantee
FRANCIS, 8 West 37th Street
Authority on Hair

A BLESSING
For expectant mothers. Maintains figure in healthful way. Perfectly protects mother and child. Physicians recommend MATERNITY
Corset, Belt & Brassiere
Write for Booklet 21 free, in plain sealed envelope, or call.
BERTHE MAY
10 E. 46th St., N. Y.
Maternity Dresses to Order

GOMI'S PAGODA INCENSE
Imparts a delicate and pleasing odor to the room. At Macy's, Arnold Constable, Lord & Taylor, Stern Bros., H. C. F. Koch and Department, Chinese, Japanese and fancy goods stores everywhere. If not at your dealer send 75c for 2 oz. box; sample 6c.
T. D. GOMI, 3 E. 17th St., N. Y.

SCIENTIFIC DENTISTRY

Removable bridge work on approved hygienic principles. Porcelain inlay work and porcelain caps restoring natural tooth. Porcelain, Gold and Aluminum Plates. Operations painlessly performed.
DRS. M. & H. SCHLESINGER
Suite 1410, Times Bldg. 42d St. & B'way
Telephone Bryant 572

Men, Women and Coffee

How women changed their minds about an "uncivil" masculine custom

Coffee at first was a man's drink—The coffee houses of the 17th century were filled with the most prominent men of the times and women actually became jealous of their husbands' love of coffee.

WHEN coffee first became popular in England, two hundred and fifty years ago, it was considered a man's drink.

It was served only in coffee houses which no woman ever dreamed of entering. As the men spent more and more time in the coffee houses, the women became jealous of this new drink. They claimed it was "unsocial and uncivil."

And then came an innovation. The lonely maidens found they could make coffee at home.

Ever since that day, women have striven to make coffee that will satisfy men's idea of what coffee should be. The clever hostess knows that good coffee expresses the warmest, friendliest kind of hospitality.

When Yuban was first discovered it was decided to reserve it for the guests and friends of the greatest coffee merchant. But everyone who tasted Yuban wished to secure it for himself. The fame of it spread so quickly that at last Yuban was offered to the public.

Ever since that time, Yuban has been the most popular coffee wherever it has been introduced. Its beguiling aroma, its rich, golden liquor, delight everyone who tastes it. Yuban is the most popular coffee in New York among both men and women.

If, by chance, you have never tasted Yuban, what a delightful surprise awaits you! Your own grocer has it—you can drink Yuban tomorrow.

YUBAN

When women discovered they could make coffee at home, how popular they became! This was when salons flourished; women's wits were as sprightly as men's.

Today the hostess who serves good coffee is always popular. Yuban has the flavor that men like. It answers their idea of what coffee should be.

DEAUVILLE
PEARL BRACELET
(Design Patented)

Every woman will be delighted with this perfectly matched bracelet of fine French indestructible Pearls smart, durable, dainty and inexpensive, mounted with 3 bars in solid gold.

Green gold or platinum finish. Look for the name on the blue and gold silk-lined box. At all good Jewelers and Department Stores.

Miller Brothers
230 Fifth Ave., N. Y.
Sole distributors for United States

The Davis Chin Strap

helps to restore youthful contours and lift sagging muscles, modifies double chin; prevents mouth breathing. Measure size over crown of head, point of chin. Cotton, washable. $2.

CORA M DAVIS
Dept. T, 507 Fifth Ave., New York

No, not peach-like and flawless, but YOUR MAN as he is!

PIRIE MACDONALD
Photographer-of-Men.
576 FIFTH AV. COR. 47TH ST.

Pond's
VANISHING CREAM

FITTING THE GROWING FOOT

SHOECRAFT

HE won't get his feet wet even though he aims directly for a puddle, for "Tom Sawyer," the "regular boot for a regular boy," is made with a waterproof rawhide slip inserted in its heavy sole. Natural lines; recommended by foot specialists. Tan Russia Calf. Sizes 11½ to 2. $9.75

Post prepaid. Fit guaranteed. Send for Folders A-16, showing women's and children's shoes.

SHOECRAFT SHOP
27 WEST 38TH STREET
Between Fifth and Sixth Avenues

ALL SIZES - WIDTHS AAA TO E

BONWIT TELLER & CO
The Specialty Shop of Originations
Exclusive Apparel For Women & Misses
FIFTH AVENUE AT 38TH STREET
NEW YORK

Wedding Bells Wedding Rings

A symbol of the Wedding Day, perpetuating for all time joyous wedding bells and the blossoms worn by the Bride. Tiny bells alternating with dainty orange blossoms, carved with artistry and skill upon her ring as they are upon her heart. These beautifully significant hand-carved wedding rings are now on display.

Platinum $35.00 to $50.00; Platinum diamond set $95.00 to $145.00; Yellow, Green or White Gold 14k. $12.00; 18k. $14.00. Initials and date engraved free. Catalog free.

WEDDING GIFTS

Wedding, groom and brides-maids gifts in diamonds, platinum diamond set, gold jewelry, sterling or plated silver, at prices which will surprise and please. Write for free catalog or visit our salesrooms.

CHAS. L. TROUT CO.,
Second Floor
170 Broadway—2 Maiden Lane, N. Y.

DEAF?

Hear clearly and distinctly with a
Little Gem Ear Phone
Simplest and smallest hearing device.

Awarded the Gold Medal at the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

Our latest improvement, the Gem Sound Perfector, insures clear, positive hearing in any assemblage, at any distance.

Try our Auto Ear Massage; used to stop head noises and improve hearing. Call at our office for a free, private demonstration. Expert advice without charge. Ask or write for booklet.

GEM EAR PHONE CO., Inc.
806-BM Marbridge Bldg., 47 W. 34th St. at B'way, N. Y. C. Phone Fitzroy 3744
Canadian Office, Ryrie Bldg., Toronto

The Lane Bryant Maternity Corset

An absolutely safe Corset for the expectant mother. Shaped to fit the maternity figure. Supports without compressing. Conceals condition. $4.95 to $16.50 according to material. Out-of-town customers write Dept. L-1 for Free Style Book.

Lane Bryant
21-23 W 38TH St NY

Save the Envelopes and Compete for one of 295 rich Awards. When next you buy Hair Nets insist on UNIVERSAL (Flat Shape) or

Made Stronger Wear Longer
Stayfast (Cap Shape) HAIR NETS
2 for 25c—grey or white 25c ea.

$7,500 In Rich Awards. All Can Compete.

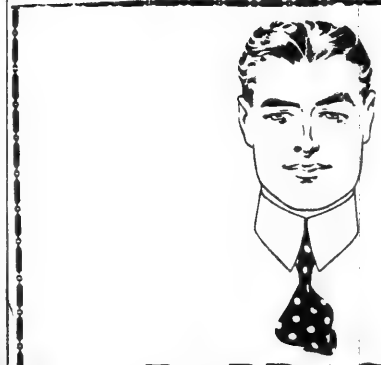
1st Prize: 1922 AUTOMOBILE—
2nd Prize: BABY GRAND PIANO
Complete Details with List of 295 Awards in each envelope.
HYMAN & OPPENHEIM
Sole Manufacturers
105 E. 16th St., N. Y.



BARRACKS
Distinctive in Style
Superior in Quality of LION Collar

UNITED SHIRT AND COLLAR CO., ALSO MAKERS OF LION SHIRTS, TROY, N. Y.

"Old friends"

MY old standby—Sloan's Liniment! Always handy, always willing, always faithful! In the thirty-nine years we've known each other, not once have you failed to relieve my rheumatic twinges! And I've had many of them to test my confidence in you. You haven't faltered. Sloan's Liniment—not once during the many years that have intervened. You have constantly helped relieve the after-effects of exposure, the sharp pains of sciatica, the dull aches of lumbago, the muscles so often made sore by toil and strain, the joint-stiffness from over-exertion. And you've performed your work so economically, so cleanly. No wonder I always keep you handy where, at the first sign of rheumatic twinge or pain or ache, I call on you and you promptly come to my relief! I'm proud of the fact that we are known as Old Friends! 3 sizes: 35c, 70c, $1.40.

Sloan's Liniment
The World's Pain's enemy

The HARDMAN FIVE-FOOT GRAND

Tetrazzini says—

"I am again delighted to be able to use your perfect instrument on my forthcoming transcontinental tour in America during the season of 1920-1921. It has always given me thorough satisfaction." Luisa Tetrazzini

Such measure of artistic appreciation from this gifted coloratura is reason enough why your piano should be a Hardman Five-Foot Grand . . .

Moderately Priced
Convenient terms if desired.

HARDMAN, PECK & CO.
FOUNDED 1842
433 Fifth Avenue, New York City
Brooklyn, 47-51 Flatbush Ave
Represented in all cities.

At last—an economical convenient way of using expensive perfume!

Nips is the new convenient, economical way of using the rarest of perfumes. Nips are little magic wands of glass which hold just enough perfume for one application. Fifteen Nips come to you packed in a little gray French ivory case about the size of a lip-stick which makes Nips not only an economical way of using your most favorite perfume, but also makes it possible for you to carry them with you everywhere so they may be a constant companion in your purse.

Finest Perfumes at very small cost

You will like the diminutive size, you will be delighted with the simplicity of application. Each Nip contains just the right amount of fragrance for a single application, never too much at a time, always the right quantity whether applied in moments of haste or of leisure.

The economy of Nips is that it serves you without the extravagant waste of expensive perfumes in bottles which you often tip over on your dresser, spilling the contents. The perfume in Nips cannot evapporate. Nips does away with the stopper you often forget to replace. From bottles you often accidentally overuse your perfume. From Nips you get only the right amount every time.

And still more virtues in favor of Nips—

You have always wanted to buy Houbigant's, Coty's, and Djer-Kiss and the other more exclusive perfumes in less expensive quantities. They are here now in Nips with the very same wondrously rare perfumes you have so long wanted and in such a delightfully practical and convenient form!

The age-old problem of perfuming conveniently and correctly is completely solved in dainty Nips, the little glass tube shown in the illustration, that gives you every drop of its fragrance by merely breaking the safety sealed ends. There are fifteen ample Nips of fragrance in every packet. Take it with you as you do your powder puff. Use it at the theatre, in the ball room, at the banquet, in the limousine, in the train, at social functions,—everywhere.

HOUBIGANT'S

15 Parfum Ideal Nips
15 Quelques Fleur Nips $1.00 75c.

COTY'S — $1.00

15 L'ORIGAN NIPS

DJER-KISS

12 Nips . . . . . 50c.

At all good perfume counters you will see the display card here illustrated. From it you may quickly choose the kind you yourself prefer.

NIPS, Inc.

229 Jackson St., Hoboken, N. J.

The New York Times

Rotogravure
Picture Section
In Two Parts

WITH ITALY'S REGULARS HAMMERING AT THE GATES OF FIUME, D'ANNUNZIO MAKES HIS LAST APPEAL FOR LOYALTY TO HIS LEGIONAIRES AND TO THE PEOPLE OF THE BELEAGUERED CITY FROM THE TERRACE OF HIS PALACE.
(Times Wide World Photos.)

ENA, MENA, MINA, MO, Prize Basket of Baby "Stripes" Exhibited at the Annual Show of the Atlantic Cat Club and the Silver Society by Mrs. L. B. Sturgis.
(Edwin Levick.)

A STUDY IN SILVER LIGHT: LITTLE SCERNE RICHARDSON WITH THE SERAPH, Shown at the Silver Society's Annual Exhibition.
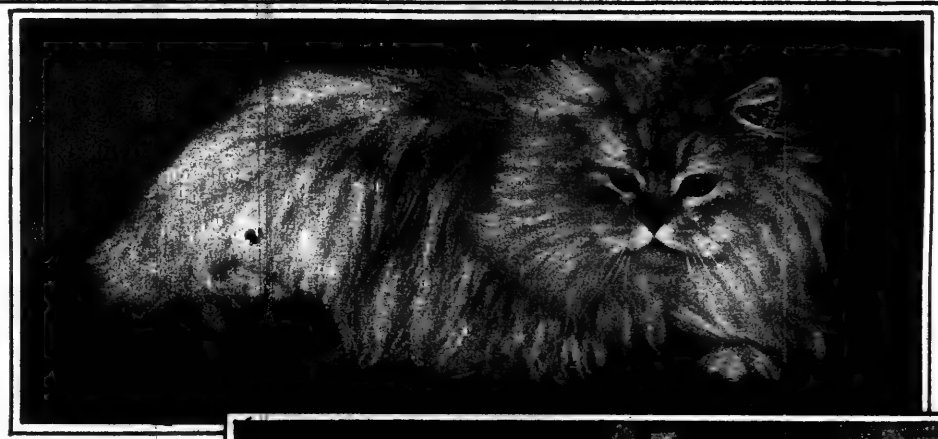
(Paul Thompson.)



CRANREUCH II., Owned by Mrs. Edgar S. Gerberich of Arlington, N. J., Adjudged the Best Cat of All Classes and Both Sexes at the Atlantic Club's Annual Exhibition.
(Edwin Levick.)

A PRIZE-WINNING BEAUTY AT THE ATLANTIC CAT SHOW: MISS MARION HOPE WITH WINTER PAX.
(Edwin Levick.)

PRINCESS JULIANA, HEIRESS TO THE THRONE OF THE NETHERLANDS, Enjoying the Splendid Skating on One of the Canals Which Skirt The Hague Palace Grounds.
(Keystone View Co.)

TRAGEDY OF THE WORLD WAR IN GERMANY: A BERLIN FAMILY,
Said to be Typical of Thousands of Households There, Suffering From the Effects of Undernourishment and Dire Poverty, Many of the Children Being Forced to Stay in Bed All Day for Lack of Clothing.
(Times Wide World Photos.)

(Times Wide World Photos.)

HER HONOR FLORENCE E. ALLEN,
Said to be the First Woman in the United States to be Appointed to the Bench of a Court of General Jurisdiction, Opening a Session of the Eleventh Judicial Court of Common Pleas, Cuyahoga County, Ohio.

VISCOUNTESS STUART,
Formerly Miss Eleanor May Guggenheim of New York, in Her Bridal Gown of the Charles II. Period, Designed According to Her Wishes as a Compliment to the Bridegroom, Viscount Stuart, a Master at Rugby, Who Is a Descendant of the Royal House of Stuart, Long England's Reigning Family.

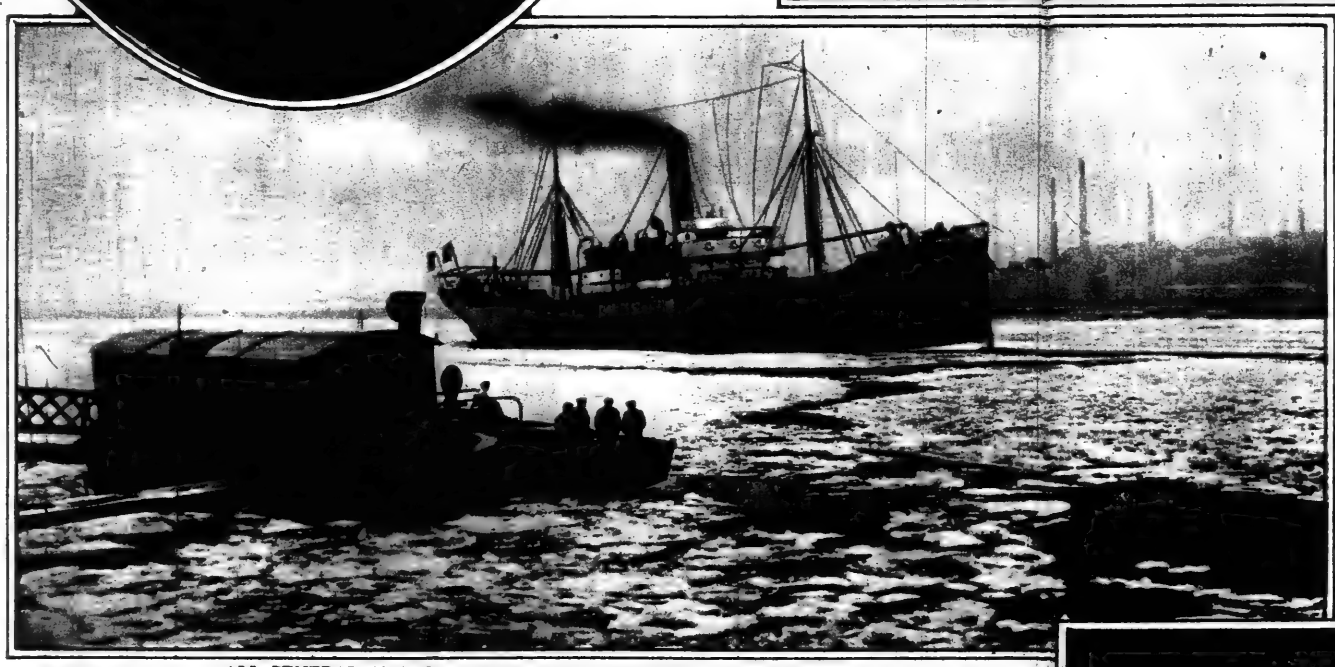
(International.)

THE FAMOUS LITTLE RED, WHITE AND BLUE TROUPE OF THE PANAMA CANAL ZONE
Who Have Entertained With Their Marvelous Swimming Feats Every Recent Distinguished Visitor to the Canal, Including President-Elect Harding, and Who Are Now About to Have Realized Their Ambition to Give Exhibitions in New York.

(Times Wide World Photos.)

MRS. CLEVELAND McCAULEY,
Formerly of San Antonio, Texas, and Now the Wife of Lieut. Commander McCauley, U. S. Navy, Who Is the First Woman to be Admitted to the Practice of Law in China.

(© Keystone View Co.)



ALL CENTRAL AND NORTHERN FRANCE IN THE ICE KING'S GRIP,
For the First Time in Sixty Years Navigation Having Almost Been Stopped in the Loire at St. Nazaire, America's French Port in the World War. (Times Wide World Photos.)

A COLD WAVE DESCENDS ON PARIS, AND THE FASHIONABLE WORLD
Is Spending Its Mornings and Evenings in Graceful Skating and Dancing Steps on the Lake of the Bois de Boulogne.

(Times Wide World Photos.)

THE BARE SHOULDER APPEARS IN PARIS
as a Characteristic of a New Style Which Is Rapidly Gaining in Favor. (Times Wide World Photos.)

NARBONNE, ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT CITIES OF SOUTHERN FRANCE, TORN BY A BLIZZARD of High Winds, Snow and Ice for the First Time in a Hundred Years, Its Beautiful Trees Along the Main Streets, as Here Shown, Blighted

"THE FUNNIEST GIRL IN FRANCE":
MLLE. NOREL,
Who Is Said to Possess to an Extraordinary Degree the Gift of Changing Her Facial Expressions at Will With Lightning Speed.
The Photographs Show Mlle. Norel as She Is and as She Can Be.
(Times Wide World Photos.)

MISS SIE HOLMQUIST,

Called the Mary Pickford of Sweden, Where She Is the Film Sweetheart of Her Country, Arriving in New York on the Manchuria.

MISS ELIZABETH FOERSTER, a Berlin Sales Girl, Receiving the First Prize of 1,000 Marks, One of a Series Recently Offered in the German Capital to the Most Polite Employes, Private or Public, Coming in Contact With the People in Daily Life.

(Times Wide World Photos.)

H. F. WHITNEY,
President of the United States Golf Association, Takes to Trapshooting at the Nassau Country Club Between Golf Seasons, Being the First Member of the Club to Turn in a Par Score of Hits Out of Twenty-Five Chances.
(Edwin Levick.)

DUCHESS LEVIS MIREPOIX of Paris and Her Little Daughter Victoria, Named by Her Godfather, the King of Spain, in Honor of His Queen, Victoria Eugenia.
(Mirzaoff.)

THE "POSTE LAFAYETTE," AT BORDEAUX, MOST POWERFUL WIRELESS STATION IN THE WORLD,
Begun by the United States Government During the War, and Recently Completed, Has Now Been Formally Transferred to France as a Gift of the American People, a Call From Bordeaux to Washington, More Than 3,000 Miles Distant, Being Heard in One-Fiftieth of a Second.
(Times Wide World Photos.)

GENERAL FERRIE OF THE FRENCH ARMY, FORMALLY RECEIVING FROM ADMIRAL MAGRUDER, U. S. NAVY, as the Gift of the American People, the Bordeaux Wireless Station Named in Honor of Lafayette.
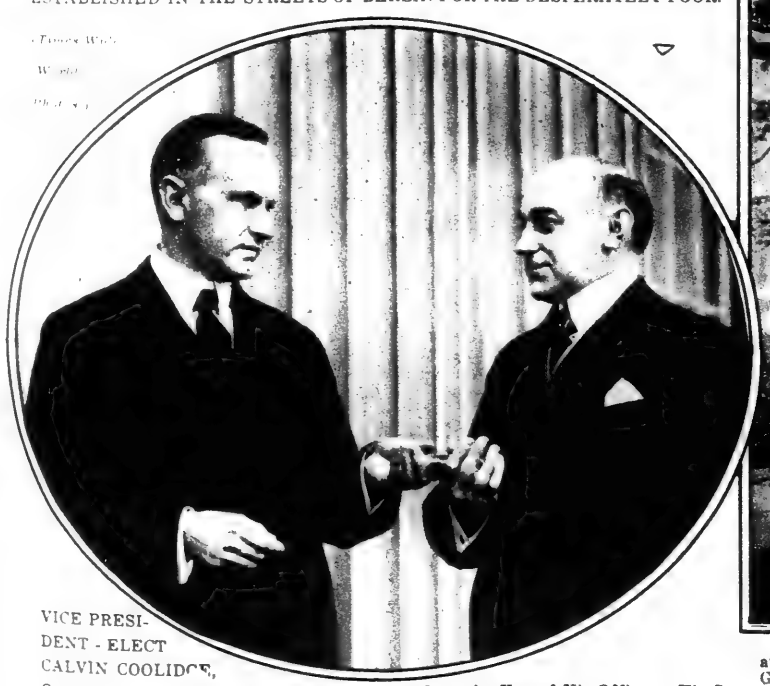
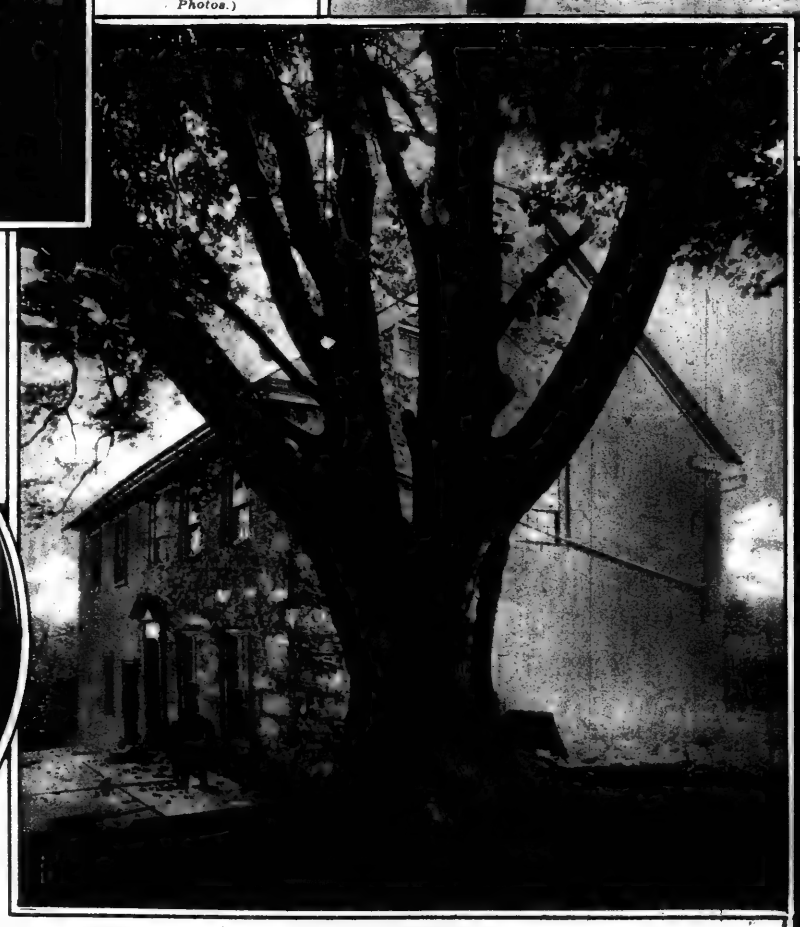
(Times Wide World Photos.)

MENDING WHILE YOU WAIT: A STREET TAILOR AND COBBLER'S SHOP ESTABLISHED IN THE STREETS OF BERLIN FOR THE DESPERATELY POOR.



VICE PRESIDENT-ELECT CALVIN COOLIDGE,
Outgoing Governor of Massachusetts, Turning Over the Key of His Office to His Successor, Governor Channing H. Cox.
(Times Wide World Photos.)



"THE WASHINGTON OAK"
at Bath, Pa., Transplanted From Mount Vernon by Washington Himself as a Present to General Brown of the Continental Army, Newest Addition to the Hall of Fame of Trees Compiled by the American Forestry Association.
(Times Wide World Photos.)

MISS RUTH DRAPER,
American Monologist, Who Recently Achieved Great Popularity in London by Her Original Character Sketches, and Who Has Returned to New York for an Engagement Tour of This Country.
From a New Portrait by Wilfred de Glehn.

The most advanced style tendencies, both in designs and trimmings, are salient features of the superb collection of Betty Wales Dresses for Spring, which we are now presenting.

Included in the display are a number of the new and charming Betty Wales Junior frocks, designed exclusively for the growing girl.

The four models illustrated are typical of the refined elegance of the entire display.

Every Betty Wales Dress carries an unconditional guarantee.

72—Junior Model. Navy Tricotine with Satin underskirt. Embroidered motifs $48.00

210—Junior Model. Navy, black or brown taffeta. Bead and Chenille embroidery $48.00

Betty Wales Dress Shop

394 Fifth Ave. at 36th Street

236—Women and Misses. Taffeta with elaborate silk and gold embroidery $54.00

258—Misses and Women. Canton crepe. Nail heads and novelty embroidery. Panel of plaited skirt $58.00

Widdicomb Chippendale Art Phonograph

Pictured above is the Widdicomb Chippendale console model with divided top, partitions for albums, automatic stop and patented tone control. Plays all records. Price range $115.00 to $350.00, upright and console models. Write the New York office for catalog.

Dealers Everywhere
Ask for Demonstration

MEN and women are daily giving us new evidence of Widdicomb Tone supremacy.

Chiefly does this come to us from people who are recognized music lovers.

They say that the Widdicomb Amplifying Tone Chamber marks a big step forward in the musical development of the phonograph.

And they all agree that Widdicomb has accomplished this because of two main reasons.

1st. When playing an orchestral record on the Widdicomb, the deeper, richer notes are given equal prominence—an exceedingly rare quality.

2nd. Full value is given to the lower as well as to the higher musical tones.

These two exclusive features are directly due to the Widdicomb Amplifying Tone Chamber.

The tone chamber is made of a patented composition that eliminates vibration and positively prevents metallic harshness or "blasting."

This is why the Widdicomb is daily enjoying a larger and ever widening circle of popularity. Ask for a demonstration dealers everywhere.

Please send me the new catalog showing the Widdicomb Period Art Phonographs.

Name.....

Address.....

.....

The Widdicomb Furniture Company
Grand Rapids, Michigan. Fine Furniture Designers Since 1865.
New York Office 105 West 40th St.

Widdicomb PHONOGRAPH
The Aristocrat of Phonographs

(41)

Men at the top prefer them.
Men on the way up can afford them.

FATIMA
CIGARETTES

Twenty (20) for 25 Cents

Every woman should know

TRUHU

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Pronounced True hue

TRUHU means WASHABLE SILKS

IN EVERY WEAVE AND GRADE
IN EVERY COLOR AND SHADE
LIGHT OR DARK — INCLUDING BLACK

ALL WASHABLE

"If its TRUHU its washable"

TRUHU SILKS
for Dresses
Skirts
Blouses
Lingerie
Sports Apparel
Shirtings
Mourning

THE NAME IS ON THE SELVAGE
THE LABEL IS ON THE GARMENT

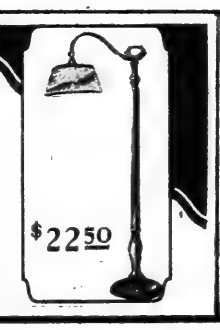
After Sunset-Lightolier

This bridge lamp, of mahogany or antique gold finish, and silver or gold finish arm with adjustable shade, is a typical example of the Lightolier qualities—beauty, practicability and unusual value. Complete $22.50

Write for booklet "The Secret of Entrancing Light."

Corner of Prince St.

Lightolier COMPANY
LIGHTING FIXTURE AND LAMP HEADQUARTERS
569-571 Broadway, New York



L'odeur suprême

Djer-Kiss
Made in France

EXTRACT FACE POWDER
TALC SACHET
TOILET WATER VEGETALE

China — Individual pieces or complete sets at 10% to 50% lower

The Customary January Sale of China and Table Crystal

Discounts of 10% to 50% are the rule

EVERY year during January, Ovington's offers to New York hostesses some rather remarkable values in china and table glassware.

These reductions are all the more marked because the original prices were never high, substantial values and good merchandise being the 85 year old rule at Ovington's.

But, during January, even these fair prices are lowered and everything from a finger-bowl to a dinner set is subject to discounts of 10% to 50%.

OVINGTON'S

"The Gift Shop of Fifth Avenue"

312-314 Fifth Avenue, near 32ndSt.
New York

Nelke soft Dolls

"Just look at me," says Nelke Clown, "I'm fifteen inch and never frown. I'm Black-and-orange, Red-and-green, Blue-and-orange, Black-and-green, Red-and-white or White and-blue. And $2.25 brings me to you."

$2.25

"I'se Nelke Romper Doll you see. And just as sad as I can be, 'cause Nelke boy won't play with me. I'se white or pink or very light blue, Whichever color appeals to you."

Small size $1.50
Large size $3.00

Here we are!

Here we are—just the nicest dollies you ever saw. Cuddly and sweet and as soft as your little pussy-cat. But we don't scratch—not a pin on us, nor even a button. Oh, how you will love to take us to bed!

A nice girl who loves dollies painted our faces with her own hands—think of that! and the paint won't come off.

And we won't break or get out of shape. No, indeed! We're good little dolls!

Tell your mamma you want us for playmates.

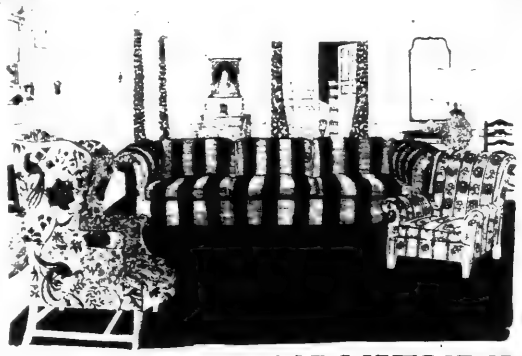
Small size $1.25
Large size $2.00

Pat.Sept 28,1920

TO MAMMAS: Get Nelke Soft Dolls at our Department Store, Toy, Drug or Gift Shop. Look for the Nelke label. Or send us the name right away with your dealer's name and we'll see that you get the doll you choose.

"Say, girls, I'll surely bring you joy, For I'm the Cuddly Nelke Boy. I'm any color you may like, Blue, brown, green, rose, Red, orange or white."

The Nelke Corporation, 10th and Norris Sts., Philadelphia



DANERSK FURNITURE

EVEN the most formal English drawing rooms have a comfortable quality, because their owners have long understood the use of color in over covers of crisp chintz, both glazed and unglazed.

All Danersk Furniture is made in our own factories at Stamford. For upholstered pieces we advise primary coverings of some lovely antique striped velvet and slip covers of our quaint imported English chintzes. The cutting and fitting of these materials are as intricate a matter as the making of a finely tailored gown.

Danersk furniture comprises the interesting and unusual for each room of the entire house. All prices are conservative and based on the actual cost of manufacture.

The same careful attention will be given your order whether you purchase from your dealer, decorator, or direct from us.

Send for the Danersk P-2, a descriptive bulletin illustrating decorative furniture

ERSKINE-DANFORTH CORPORATION
2 West 47th St., New York
First door west of 5th Ave.—4th Floor
Open Saturday afternoons

Franklin Simon & Co.

5th Avenue

127 WOMEN'S TAFFETA GOWN with [illegible] in self color [illegible] Black; [illegible] contrasting color 58.00

129 WOMEN'S CHARMEUSE SATIN METEOR GOWN [illegible] hand embroidery, [illegible] blue, brown or black 89.50

Women's [illegible] Spring [illegible]

SILK GOWNS

THE Silk Gown [illegible] afternoon [illegible] the [illegible] the penchant [illegible] new fashion [illegible] silhouette [illegible]

WOMEN'S SILK ALGERIAN CREPE GOWN [illegible] 75.00

WOMEN'S TAFFETA [illegible] 48.00

HATS [illegible] Millinery Shop [illegible]

Cheney Twill, Crêpe Chenette and grosgrain ribbon

CHENEY SILKS

PRESENTING A NEW IDEA

THERE'S a new idea for Spring—an undeniably smart one, despite the fact that it first appeared on this side of the ocean. As a matter of fact, it, like Topsy, "just grew" as a delightful sequence out of the collection of Cheney designs for Spring. The idea is to design one's frock from the same motif that inspired the design of the silk. And to be convinced of the charming possibilities of the plan, one may take as an example the frock illustrated. A rose, upturned to the sun so that one glimpses the grace of the slim stem, the curves of the calyx and the curled petals, is printed on Cheney Twill against a trellised background. The frock itself develops the theme with petal-shaped panels of twill over Crêpe Chenette, pointed and picot-edged, suggestive of rose-leaves. Grosgrain ribbon lacing repeats the squares of the trellis, and forms little petal-like tabs at the edge of the waist.

Stores with a reputation for fine merchandise will be quite sure to sell Cheney Silks, either by the yard or in garments ready to wear.

CHENEY BROTHERS
4th Avenue at 18th Street, New York

Enjoy this new Molasses Pie

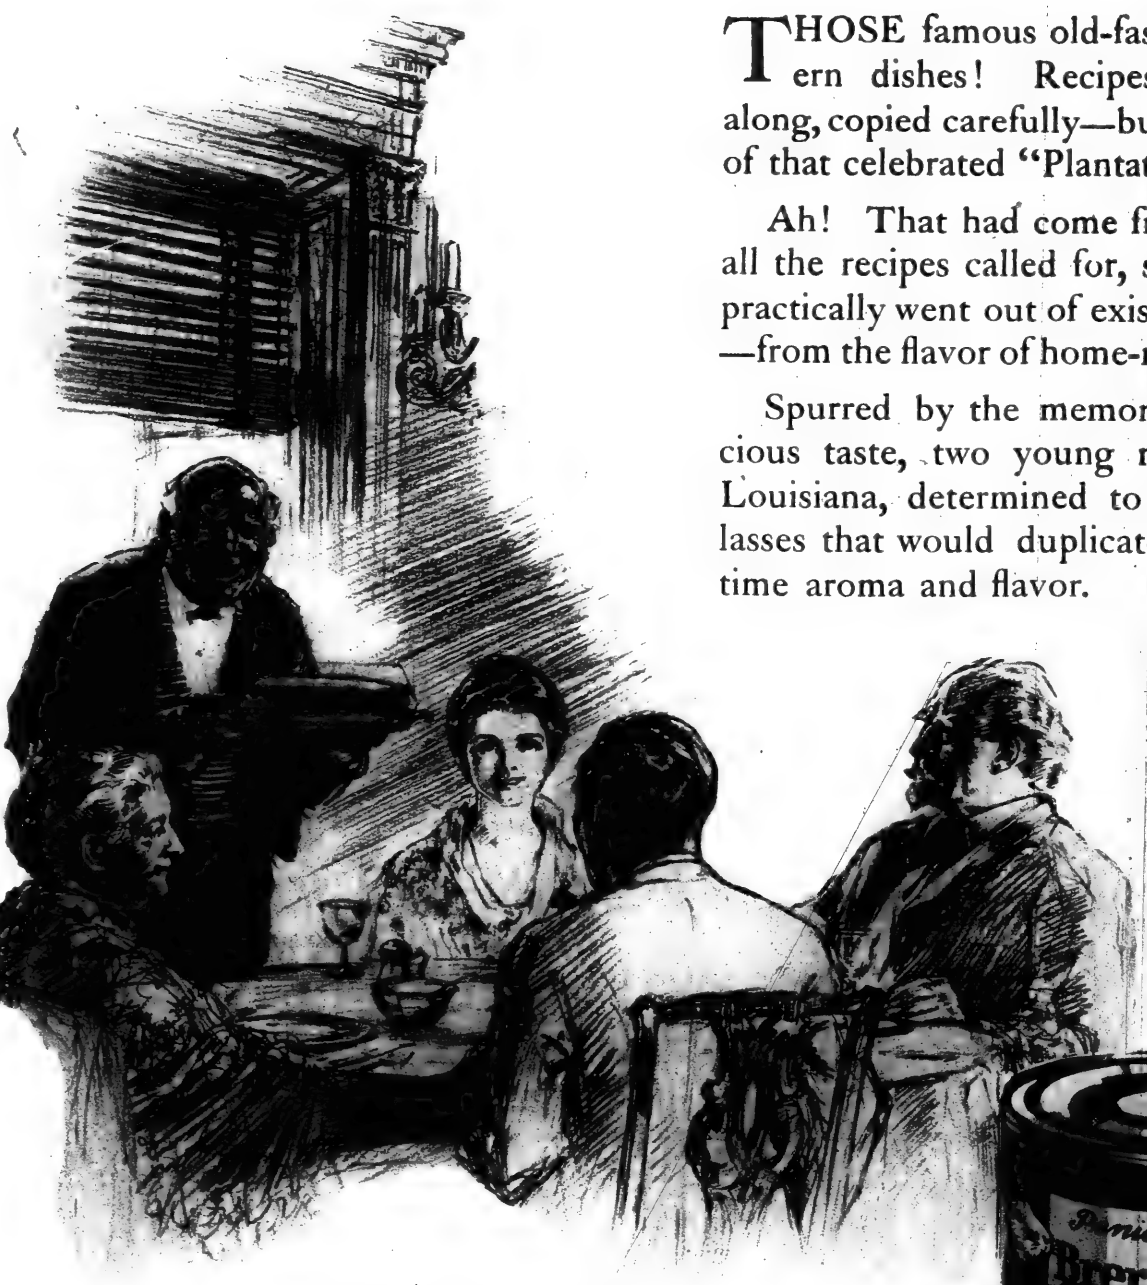
⅓ cup Brer Rabbit Molasses (Gold Label)
1½ cups scalded milk — ¼ tsp. cinnamon, ⅓ tsp. salt
2 tablespoons sugar — ¼ tsp. nutmeg, 3 eggs.

Beat egg and yolks of two, slightly; pour over them scalded milk; stir constantly. Add molasses, spices; cool. Line pie tin with pastry; pour in filling. Bake till knife comes out clean. Remove from oven; cover with meringue made from remaining whites, beaten stiff and combined with sugar. Brown in moderate oven. There are two grades of Brer Rabbit Molasses. Be sure to use Gold Label in the recipe because of its milder flavor

Hot Waffles and Brer Rabbit

Its famous old plantation flavor makes it delicious as a spread for waffles, pancakes, or biscuits! Use Gold Label Brer Rabbit on the table, the highest grade molasses, light-colored, mild-flavored—wonderful for fancy baking, cooking, and candy making.

The long-lost flavor that made famous many an old-time Southern dish



THOSE famous old-fashioned Southern dishes! Recipes were passed along, copied carefully—but what became of that celebrated "Plantation flavor"?

Ah! That had come from something all the recipes called for, something that practically went out of existence for years—from the flavor of home-made molasses.

Spurred by the memory of that delicious taste, two young men, raised in Louisiana, determined to put up a molasses that would duplicate all the old-time aroma and flavor.

This is Brer Rabbit Molasses, named for the hero of their plantation stories.

The minute the can is opened the delicious old-time aroma makes you hungry. Taste it! That luscious, full flavor gives your gingerbread, cookies, dark cakes and breads the rich goodness of plantation days. Its flavor has made Brer Rabbit the most popular molasses in the world.

You can get Brer Rabbit, both light molasses (gold label—for table use as well as cooking) and dark molasses (green label—a stronger flavor for cooking), at your grocer's. See what an improvement the real sugar cane flavor makes. Penick & Ford, Ltd., New Orleans.

Brer Rabbit Molasses

Rich with the flavor of the sugar cane

Free Recipe Book

Write today for Brer Rabbit Recipe Book of Southern dishes—N'Orleans Gingerbread, Ole Mammy Cookies, Plantation Cakes, Creole Caramels, Dixie Bran Bread, Old Fashioned Molasses Crullers—and other unusual recipes—dishes new to your family and exceptionally delicious. Address Penick & Ford, Ltd. (Dept. E.Z.), New Orleans, La.

PREPARED BY THE WORLD'S LARGEST MAKERS OF SUGAR CANE PRODUCTS

The New York Times.

THE IDES OF JANUARY ALONG BROADWAY

Second Thoughts on First Nights

By ALEXANDER WOOLLCOTT.

SPEAKING, as we were recently, of plays taking on or losing values according to the incalculable factors brought to them by each audience, the piece now at the Belasco offers a good case in point. Consider the quiet and startling speech which brings down the curtain at the end of the second act of "Deburau." It comes at the end of the scene where Deburau, torn himself reluctantly from the embraces of young Marie Duplessis, whose eyes he has found a trifle too inquisitive and whom he himself has christened "La Dame aux Camélias." On his way to the Funambules, he has paid a duty call at home and found that his wife has liberated him by decamping. Whereupon, much overjoyed, he catches up his little son and his birdcage and his dog and runs breathless to spend all the rest of his days with the exquisite Marie. But, at her very threshold, he is halted by the spectacle of her new absorption in a handsome, unidentified youngster of her own age. This elder's gentle speech of apology and explanation is a capital passage of rueful comedy, at the end of which his supplanted and uncomprehending rival begs to be introduced. It is this introduction which gives such a fillip to the act in the ears of the older playgoers, for, as the curtain falls, they hear the lady of the camélias murmuring: "Jean-Gaspard Deburau, Monsieur Armand Duval."

To any one with any sentiment for the theatre and any sense of its traditions, this single line is electric, so completely and unexpectedly does it conjure up all the Camille epoch, all the memories of every fine old emotional actress who ever expired on our stage from the recent tabloid death scenes done by Bernhardt to the days when young Edgene Field went to the Tabor Grand "to see Modjesky ez Camille." To any one for whom the name of Armand Duval has no associations whatever, that curtain must fall as limply as though Guitry had written in the St. John Ervine manner and brought his great scene to an end on some such ringing utterance as "I'll have some more oatmeal" or "It looks like snow."

Another Footnote to "Deburau."

THE run of "Deburau" in New York adds a local interest to a curious paper on the Paris of its day which appears in a recent issue of the Mercure de France. It seems that when the author of "La Dame aux Camélias" died in 1896, that magazine held a symposium as to his merits among the younger French writers, who proved almost unanimous in the conviction that as a writer he was no great shakes. This verdict, very annoying as it was to the devoted boulevardiers, provoked from the Figaro a challenge to repeat the question after a calming and enlightening interval of twenty-five years. Now the twenty-five years is past and the Mercure regards the present-day attitude toward the younger Dumas as so obviously adverse that a questionnaire is hardly worth the time and trouble. Which decision left space in the magazine for an elaborate historical essay by Johannès Gros on the last days of that pretty peasant girl from Normandy whose name was Alphonsine Plessis, who liked to call herself Marie Duplessis, and who, after her death, was immortalized, or at least made world-famous, under the name of Marguerite Gautier in the novel and play written by one of her lovers.

This kind of patient and enthusiastic scholarship, the kind of passion for the unimportant, which could thus reconstruct that almost forgotten and essentially insignificant courtesan as a scientist reconstructs a dynosaur from the most meagre of osseous remains, recalls the earnest culture of the student at Halle who spent three years on a thesis about the use of the indefinite article in Edmund Spencer. It is amazing to follow the care with which every lover, every creditor, every portrait painter (there were, it might amuse you to know, two portraits by a Norman painter named Charles Chaplin), every jewel, every fan, every detail of death and interment have been pursued through the old journals, letters, dossiers and archives of that day.

This interest but reflects the interest felt at the time and which was surprising enough even then—surprising certainly to one avid onlooker, Charles Dickens, who was then in Paris, and whose letters are full of the prevailing excitement. "For several days," he wrote the Comte d'Orsay, "all political, artistic and business questions have been dropped by the newspapers. Everything gives way to a much more important event, the romantic death of one of the glories of the demi-monde, the beautiful, the celebrated Marie Duplessis." You may be sure he attended the much-recorded sale of her effects, which scattered her possessions far and wide and even put under the hammer certain letters which escaped her own fireplace only to go up many years later in the smoke of the San Francisco fire. Said Dickens: "To see the general wonder and sorrow, you would have thought it concerned a hero or a Jeanne d'Arc. But the enthusiasm knew no bounds when Eugène Sue bought the courtesan's prayer book."

How much greater would his surprise have been had he known that the interest would flare up again eighty years later in a foreign land. Yet he himself could not help sharing that interest. Nor can we.

Not Guilty.

FROM A. E. Thomas, one of the authors of "The Champion," comes this rebuke:

Obviously, no author has the right to quarrel with a critic because of any unfavorable opinion. But he has the right to object to an unfavorable opinion that is founded upon misstatement of fact. Such an instance occurs in your remarks of today about "The Champion."

"America—they call it God's own country," is the quotation you make, the inference being that it is a spread-eagle speech. The quotation is: "Then I settled in the United States, usually referred to by the inhabitants as 'God's own country.'"

To any but a particularly benighted intelligence the intention of this line is plainly ironic. Whenever I have heard this line spoken audiences have laughed at it. If Wednesday afternoon's audience "rapturously applauded" it, then all I have to say is that it was an uncommonly stupid audience. You seem to have been quite as dense as they, and I think you should have the grace to be a little ashamed of it. All that Mr. Mitchell says on the subject is: "Well, it's a pretty good place," to which sentiment it seems to me that even so fastidious a taste as your own can scarcely object.

It would be quite unfair to the ever audible Grant Mitchell to leave uncorrected the notion that she lets any part of the aforesaid speech go unheard or, indeed, that its searching and razor-edged satire escaped even your correspondent. In Mr. Thomas's behalf it should be said that he has written one of those carefully protected lines to which no one could have—and, as far as is known, no one has—taken exception. "The Champion," as must be firmly repeated, is likely to appeal most to those playgoers who are inclined to applaud ecstatically (or perhaps, defiantly) the phrase about "God's own country." But against the apparently unwelcome charge of writing a spread-eagle speech, Mr. Thomas is armed in advance, just as the timorous critic who wants to call a play the greatest of its time often arms himself against the ugly charge of enthusiasm by going back and inserting the famous weasel word, "perhaps." It is a regurgitative trick, usually referred to as eating your cake and having it, too.

One must confess to a mild surprise at Mr. Thomas's resentment. He and Mr. Louden have, for the delight and arrant flattery of American audiences, contrived a play about an English youth who turns American, deriving thereby a great deal of manliness and muscle, and who returns as a visitor to his ancestral acre to saunter about in agreeable contrast to the weak and simpering natives. One hesitates to press so embarrassing a question as one which would determine whether this play was written before or after 1914, and the program does not say. In either event, why either of the authors of such a spread-eagle work should wince at the charge of having written one little spread-eagle phrase passes all understanding.

From St. John Ervine.

THE same mail brought a letter of somewhat different tone from the author of "Jane Clegg" and "John Ferguson." Of the play of his now running in New York, Mr. Ervine says severely:

I have not heard anything of the production of "Mixed Marriage," but I suppose I shall hear something one of these days. It is a crudely contrived piece, written when I was a callow youth—it is the first long play I wrote—but it has some feeling for human beings in it, and perhaps that compensates to a slight extent for the clumsiness of its construction and the feeble writing. I should like to see Margaret Wycherly's Mrs. Rainey.

The temptation to quote further and without permission from the same letter is too strong. It goes on to say:

The English Winter has been doing its damnedest for a month past, with the result that I pine for the comparative warmth of the blizzard I saw in New York at the beginning of the year. One of these days I shall inaugurate a campaign to spend the Winter in New York or Niagara, because I was really warm there, although, at Niagara, I seemed to be surrounded by mountains of ice.

When I last saw Shaw, I asked him how "Heartbreak House" was getting on in America, and he replied: "Oh, just as usual. The critics say I'm dull!" I hear, however, that the people are standing on top of each other in their efforts to get into the Garrick to see the play. I'm enormously pleased about the production, because I made a great effort to persuade Shaw to let the Theatre Guild do it, and I promised him that they would do it uncommonly well. From all I can discover, they have given a first-rate performance. I knew they would do that. The Theatre Guild is now undeniably the only first-rate theatrical organization in the world—and it is a success.' The officers of the Guild have courage and taste, and I suppose that New York is nearly the only city in the world where men of courage and taste in the theatre can hope to achieve success. They can hope with some certainty to achieve bankruptcy in London.

The New York audience seems to me to be more ready than any other that I know to make experiments. I remember, with astonishment, seeing a large audience at a matinée—mark you, mind you!—of Eugene O'Neill's play, "Beyond the Horizon." My difficulty then was to decide which astonished me most, the size of the audience or the fine quality of the play. In London such a play would probably be performed before an audience of fifteen people, all of whom would be friends of the actors and actresses, and present, after being bribed with free tickets, chiefly because they felt they must do something for poor Willie or darling Agatha who is trying so hard to get a footing on the stage! In New York, on the contrary, crowds of people paid to see "Beyond the Horizon." Paid! I know, because I saw some of them doing it. I myself paid to see it, but then I'm the kind of person who actually pays to see plays like O'Neill's, just as I always buy the books of meritable young poets and novelists on the principle that the man who buys the first book of a writer of quality is worth a hundred of the people who buy his books when he is a successfully established writer. In other words, I am one of those pitiable, dippy boobs who are commonly called Highbrows.

But while I was waiting in the vestibule of the theatre for my turn to get to the box office, I saw, with my own eyes, persons who might fairly be called ordinary people—not like you and me—putting perfectly good dollars down on the ledge and asking for seats to see "Beyond the Horizon"!!! And, more than that, they are putting down more of their perfectly good dollars to see "Heartbreak House." Boston, the city of the mentally moribund, would never quite succeed in outdoing itself with such distinction, but I am astonished to hear that Chicago, for which I developed a considerable affection during the three weeks I spent in it, failed to appreciate "Beyond the Horizon." I should have imagined that Chicago was at least as enterprising and eager to make experiments as New York. Doesn't Mencken say that all the vital poetry is coming from that city or its neighborhood? (I'm just getting my teeth into Edgar Lee Masters's "Domesday Book." And if you aren't a friend of Carl Sandberg then I publicly cast you off!)

But the most gratifying thing to a New Yorker about "Heartbreak House" at the Garrick must surely be this, that the play received its first performance in the language of its author in New York and not, as he had the right to expect, in London. And not only has the play been performed in New York before being done in London—of which there is no sign at present—but it has been singularly well done and it has been handsomely patronized. That is a fact which New York may honorably boast.

May; and, it might be added, from time to time does. Eh, Boston?

THE SUBWAY CIRCUIT.

SHUBERT-RIVIERA — "Opportunity," with James Crane.

BRONX OPERA HOUSE—"The Man Who Came Back."

MONTAUK (Brooklyn) — "Bab," with Helen Hayes.

MAJESTIC (Brooklyn)—"Daddy Dumplins," with Maclyn Arbuckle.

SHUBERT - CRESCENT (Brooklyn)—"Kissing Time."

Willie Howard in Sundry Guises He Assumes in the New Winter Garden Show, Where You May See Him as a Tourist in the Sahara, as the Chinaman From "Mecca," and as Lightnin' Bill Jones.

Grace La Rue in "Dear Me," at the Republic Tomorrow.

THE WEEK'S NEW PLAYS

AFTER a playless week three new offerings will come to town tomorrow and Tuesday nights. Two celebrated stars will be included among the newcomers, and a comedy which has been touring the provinces for nearly a year will fill out the trio.

WAKE UP, JONATHAN—Tomorrow night at Henry Miller's Theatre.

The presentation of "Wake Up, Jonathan!" at Henry Miller's tomorrow night will mark the return of Mrs. Fiske to New York. Her play this time is the work of Hatcher Hughes and Elmer E. Rice, the former a lecturer on the theatre at Columbia University and the latter the author of "On Trial." The piece is described as "a rather broadly imaginative satire on the modern viewpoint." Mrs. Fiske's rôle is that of a mother of four, long at odds with a material and unimaginative husband, and the piece records the gradual bringing around of the husband to other convictions.

Charles Dalton will have the rôle of the husband, said to be even richer in opportunities than that of Mrs. Fiske, and Howard Lang will be a boyhood lover. The cast will also include Donald Cameron, Fleming Ward, Frank Hearn, Freddie Goodrow, Helen Holt, Lois Bartlett, Nadia Gray and Edith Fitzgerald.

DEAR ME—Tomorrow night at the Republic Theatre.

Luther Reed, an author of motion-picture scenarios, and Hale Hamilton, the actor, are responsible for "Dear Me," and Mr. Hamilton and Grace La Rue will be its stars. It has been playing on tour for a year, part of the time in Chicago, and is said to be of popular strain. So much, at least, is indicated by the fact that it is being presented under the John Golden rule.

"Dear Me" begins in a home for failures, wherein is Miss La Rue as April, the maid-of-all-work. Mr. Hamilton is there also—the son of the founder, although April does not know it—and the play recounts their combined struggle to prosperity. "Much to the happiness of the former slaves," runs the announcement, "she finally finds that most of the self-abnegated inmates of the home had benefited by her propaganda against selfishness." It promises to be very nice.

The company, in addition to the stars, will include Robert Fischer, J. K. Hutchinson, George N. Price, Mart E. Heisey and Camilla Crume.

THE GREEN GODDESS — Tuesday night at the Booth Theatre.

Particular interest attaches to this play on several scores, but principally because it is the work of William Archer, known wherever plays are studied, and long celebrated as a critic. The play is Mr. Archer's first to reach the stage in recent years; his preface to "Playmaking" refers to earlier attempts, and declares that he never, never could write a good play. Apparently, however, Mr. Archer has changed his mind since "Playmaking" was written.

George Arliss will have the central rôle, that of the Rajah of a kingdom in Central Asia. It is a quietly sinister figure of the kind which Mr. Arliss plays best—a bit akin to his Zakuri in "The Darling of the Gods," it is said, but only a bit. To his kingdom, at a time when feeling against all Occidentals is inflamed, come two men and a woman from England—and thus the play.

Winthrop Ames, who ventures only occasionally into the theatre, is the producer, and the cast will include Olive Wyndham, Cyril Keightley, Ivan F. Simpson, Herbert Waring, Ronald Colman and David Leonard. Roshanara, the dancer, has designed the costumes.

The annual benefit entertainment in behalf of the Actors' Fund will take place at the Century Theatre next Friday afternoon. George M. Cohan will contribute the entire "Mary" company, which will appear in a new local travesty entitled "Fancy This," especially written for the occasion. Margaret Anglin, Holbrook Blinn, Dorothy Donnelly and Bruce McRae will appear in a one-act play from the French, entitled "The Recoil." Florence Reed, Frank Bacon, Edmund Breese, Lowell Sherman, Frederick Truesdell, Walter Walker and Henry Stephenson will appear in "The Triangle." "Love and Kisses" will introduce Sam Bernard and Helen Ware. This sketch will also include scenes with Norman Trevor and Gilda Vareal, Grant Mitchell and Ann Andrews, Frank Craven and Roberta Arnold, William Faversham and Claire Eames, George M. Cohan and Marion Coakley. Each of the above couples will enact a scene representing the title. Louis Hirsch will accompany Janet Velie and Jack McGowan in "The Love Nest." Another specially prepared contribution is entitled "Imitations," which will include Alphonz Ethier and a supporting cast. Among others will be Nora Bayes, Fred Stone, May Irwin, Ada Mae Weeks, Charles Judels, Savoy and Brennan, Lionel Braham, Lowell Sherman, James C. Marlowe, Frederick Graham, Horace Braham, Fred Moninger, Alfred Gerrard, Frank Reicher, Frederick Tilden, Julia Arthur and the Six Brown Brothers.

William Faversham, in "The Prince and the Pauper," will be transferred tomorrow night from the Booth Theatre to the Apollo. Three plays were withdrawn from the local stages last night—"Jimmie," from the Apollo; "Daddy Dumplins," from the Republic, and "Just Suppose," from the Henry Miller.

On the bill at the Palace during the coming week will be Adelaide and Hughes, the dancers; Lina Abarbanell, Homer B. Mason and Marguerite Keeler in "Oh!" by Porter Emerson Browne, Robert Emmet Keane and others.

Butler Davenport, at his Bramhall Playhouse in Twenty-seventh Street, will revive Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" on Thursday night.

Brandon Tynan will succeed Arnold Daly tomorrow night as the mysterious stranger of "The Tavern." Mr. Daly, more restless than the average player, dislikes to remain long in a single rôle, and vows that it would literally kill him if he were to act the same part for two seasons. His plans call for a Spring appearance in New York, on which occasion he will present one new play and one revival.

TO BE CONTINUED

Play.	Theatre.	Premiere.
Lightnin'	Gaiety	Aug. 26, '18
The Gold Diggers	Lyceum	Sept. 30, '19
Irene	Vanderbilt	Nov. 18, '19
Good Times	Hippodrome	Aug. 9, '20
Ladies' Night	Eltinge	Aug. 9
Enter Madame	Fulton	Aug. 16
Spanish Love	Maxine Elliott	Aug. 17
Tickle Me	Selwyn	Aug. 17
The Bat	Morosco	Aug. 23
The Bad Man	Comedy	Aug. 30
Greenwich Village Follies of 1920	Shubert	Aug. 30
Ziegfeld Midnight Frolic	New Amsterdam Roof	Sept. 2
Honeydew	Casino	Sept. 6
The Woman of Bronze	Frazee	Sept. 7
Little Old New York	Plymouth	Sept. 8
Welcome, Stranger	Cohan & Harris	Sept. 13
The Tavern	George M. Cohan	Sept. 27
Three Live Ghosts	Nora Bayes	Sept. 29
The Mirage	Times Square	Sept. 30
Mecca	Century	Oct. 4
Tip-Top	Globe	Oct. 5
The Meanest Man in the World	Hudson	Oct. 12
Mary	Knickerbocker	Oct. 18
The Skin Game	Bijou	Oct. 20
The First Year	Little	Oct. 20
The Prince and the Pauper	Apollo	Nov. 2
Afgar	Central	Nov. 8
Heartbreak House	Garrick	Nov. 10
Thy Name Is Woman	Playhouse	Nov. 15
Samson and Delilah	39th St.	Nov. 17
Rollo's Wild Oat	Punch and Judy	Nov. 23
The Broken Wing	48th St.	Nov. 29
Cornered	Astor	Dec. 8
Lady Billy	Liberty	Dec. 14
Sally	New Amsterdam	Dec. 21
Mary Rose	Empire	Dec. 22
Deburau	Belasco	Dec. 26
Miss Lulu Bett	Belmont	Dec. 27
Her Family Tree	Lyric	Dec. 27
The Emperor Jones (mats.)	Selwyn	Dec. 27
The Passing Show of 1921	Winter Garden	Dec. 29
Transplanting Jean	Cort	Jan. 3
Erminie	Park	Jan. 3
The Champion	Longacre	Jan. 3

LONDON NOTES

EDGAR SELWYN'S recent remarks on this page concerning the perversion of American plays in London are given point by the case of "The Storm." The scenes of that play, it will be remembered, are laid in the Canadian woods, and the girl is a backwoods heroine. Arthur Bourchier, however, when he staged the play in London, insisted that Miss Bellew should appear in snappy riding costume and with a pair of neat Shetland ponies at her command. Despite the protests of George Broadhurst, Miss Bellew so appeared. Although this may not have been particularly responsible for the failure of the play, it is not likely that it did much to stave it off.

Edith Day, who dodges in and out of the cast of "Irene," is scheduled for the title rôle of "Mary" when that musical comedy reaches London.

Elsie Janis's revue at the Queen's, "It's All Wrong," has won general praise. It appears to be along the lines of "Elsie Janis and Her Gang," which was seen in these parts a season ago, and probably contains quite a little of the material of that production, readjusted, of course, for English audiences.

The announcement that a play by H. G. Wells and St. John Ervine was to be produced in London brought this letter from Mr. Wells to The London Times:

"I learn that I have blossomed into a playwright. This is news to me. I know very little about the stage. I am incurious about it; I am quite sure I shall never be clever enough to write a play. But my friend Mr. St. John Ervine has made a play out of an early book of mine, and apparently he is modestly putting my name, or somebody is putting my name, before his own. It is his play. My share in it has been simply to supply the book, the original raw material so to speak, and afterward to spend three or four days with the real and only playwright, chiefly in a summerhouse, reading over the dialogue and making the most modest suggestions, which he accepted or rejected as he thought good. It seems to me that he has made a very ingenious and pleasing adaptation of my story, but I know practically nothing about this business."

The foundation of the play is Wells's "The Wonderful Visit." John Barrymore was once considering the production of the piece on this side—probably still is, for that matter.

There is a new program at London's Grand Guignol, and its content may be well gauged by looking over the titles, to wit: "What Did Her Husband Say?" "Eight O'Clock," "A Man in Mary's Room," "Private Room No. 6," "The Tragedy of Mr. Punch."

Ian Hay, author of "Happy-Go-Lucky," has written a new comedy which Arthur Bourchier is about to produce.

Masterlinck's "The Betrothal" has been presented at the Gaiety, a departure for that house of musical traditions. It will presently be moved to another theatre.

Louis Calvert is to play Caliban in Viola Tree's forthcoming production of "The Tempest" at the Aldwych. Henry Ainley will be the Prospero.

His Majesty, George V., according to the figures of The London Times, attended seventeen plays during the year 1920. Included in the number were three American plays—"Come Out of the Kitchen," "The Man Who Came Back" and "The Great Lover."

News and Gossip of the Rialto

IT appears to be the day of the special matinee. At the present time three plays are being acted here on afternoons only, and two more are soon to be added to the list. Mr. O'Neill's "The Emperor Jones" is on view at the Selwyn four afternoons a week; Mr. Ervine's "Mixed Marriage" is to be seen at the Times Square on four afternoons and a morning, and "The Yellow Jacket" is being acted three times a week at the Cort. In another week, also, "John Hawthorne" will become a special matinee bill at the Garrick, and for February Grace George promises afternoon performances of Harold Chapin's "The New Morality." These performances, which will be given at the Playhouse, will enlist the services of Miss George, Lawrence Grossmith and Ernest Lawford, among others. Following "The New Morality" Miss George promises a second play.

Two plays are already announced for the week of the 24th, with the probability of still another to come. The Michael Morton melodrama, "In the Night Watch," will be presented at the Century with a big salary list and plenty of scenery, and there will be the matinees of "John Hawthorne" at the Garrick. As for the third offering, the Princess is being held for "Cognac," which the Shuberts are producing, and since that piece will open out of town late this week it seems likely that it will come to town in the near future.

The production of "In the Night Watch" at the Century marks the first Shubertian activity of Frederick Stanhope, who became general stage director for that firm a few months ago. Mr. Stanhope is one of only three or four American directors to have something more than a shadowy existence on theatre programs. He was for many years with the Lieblers, and six months ago he reproduced "The Garden of Allah" at Drury Lane in London, where it promises to run endlessly. He was a Liebler attaché during their tenancy of the Century and participated in the staging of the original "Garden of Allah."

Else Alder, who recently emerged with honor from a musical piece called "June Love," although the production did not reach New York, has gone over to Mr. Hammerstein for a musical comedy to be called "Blossom Time," the work of Otto Harbach and Rudolph Friml. "Blossom Time," it is said, will be ready for production about March 1, which would indicate that the Messrs. Harbach and Friml are working at breakneck speed. "June Love," also with score by Mr. Friml, will be rewritten, recast and tested again.

Lou Tellegen, it appears, is touring the South at present with "Blind Youth," which he acted in New York several seasons ago. Seemingly Augustus Thomas's "Speak of the Devil," which Mr. Tellegen tried on tour last Spring, was found wanting.

Al Jolson, despite the sensational receipts which "Sinbad" has been piling up, is spending the month of January in resting, while his company marks time. Mr. Jolson, who is not so sturdy as his stage work would indicate, requires periodic rests, and frequently has been compelled to take them upon sudden notice, to the great detriment of the entertainment. In Chicago last season, for example, his sudden departure for Palm Beach, despite the fact that it was not advertised, caused a drop in the nightly receipts from $7,000 to $500. This time, while Mr. Jolson enjoys the beach in Florida, "Sinbad" has halted and is waiting for him. It will resume on tour on Jan. 31, and Jolson will come to the Winter Garden with a new show next Fall.

Theda Bara has closed her tour, not, apparently, owing to any lack of patronage, but solely because of the continued adverse comment upon both "The Blue Flame" and the performance. The average weekly receipts were $16,000, and since Miss Bara shared in the spoils, it is obvious that she gave up a profitable undertaking. Her next step, it is thought, will be to turn "The Blue Flame" into a film.

A. H. Woods is coming to life again with a number of plays. Michael Morton's "Woman to Woman" has been produced on tour, and is said to augur sufficiently well to justify deferring its metropolitan production until the beginning of a new season. Also coming along is a little thing called "Gloria's Garter," previously known as "Come Up in the Haymow." Wilson Collison and Avery Hopwood are the authors of this one, and there are Mr. Woods's usual farceurs in the cast. Mr. Woods is also becoming a power in Chicago, with the Woods, the Studebaker, and a new house named the Apollo at his command.

Mr. Brady's next production will be an Owen Davis melodrama entitled "The Haunted House," said to be an attempt to outbat the play at the Morosco. The Davis play, it is understood, is intended to be laughed at, although those concerned are waiting to see how it is taken before making up their minds. At all events, it is filled with mystery and murder, and contains almost as many dead men as living ones.

William Gillette, it is said, is about to enter vaudeville in a sketch of his own writing.

WHERE WAS MADGE LESSING?

EVERY night at the Park Theatre, between the acts of "Erminie," two or three theatregoers look up the company manager and ask: "Where's Madge Lessing been all these years?" The manager proceeds to explain at great length.

The information is here set forth in detail for those theatregoers who may recall her in the days of her great vogue at the Casino. Since "Jack and the Beanstalk," the piece in which she last appeared in America, she has been a reigning favorite in no less than three European capitals—London, Paris and Berlin.

Miss Lessing went from New York to London, where she played a round of leading rôles in pantomimes and musical comedies. She is English-born, but up to this time her great success had been made in this country. She played her original rôle in a revival of her old Casino success, "The Whirl of the Town," and when "The Belle of New York" was done there a second time she had the Edna May rôle. She was afterward featured at the Coliseum for a season, playing the principal parts in a round of tableid musical pieces.

Though she could not speak a word of French she was then engaged to play the leading rôle in the Paris production of "The Prince of Pilsen" at the Olympia Theatre.

"Can you learn French in three months?" asked the director.

"I can and will," she replied, and did so, spending six and seven hours a day in intensive study. So great was her success in the French capital that after three months at the Olympia she was engaged to take the leading rôles in a series of "intime revues" which were presented at the Comedia Royal.

After a year of that a bearded German invaded her dressing room one night, the Herr Director Schultz of the Metropole Theater in Berlin.

"Can you learn German in three months, madame?" he asked.

"Why should I do that?" she inquired.

"Because if you do I'll give you a two years' contract to play leads at my theatre," responded the director.

Again Miss Lessing could and did. She opened at the Metropole three months later and remained for four solid years at that theatre. She achieved such a success as had never before been scored by any artist in her line, whether native or foreign. She was literally "the toast of the town," and even the Viennese soubrettes who came with visiting companies and a traditional background of effervescent gayety were obliged to admit that they could not hope to attain to the popularity of the English girl.

Only the breaking out of the war prevented her from remaining indefinitely in Germany. On the fateful Aug. 4, 1914, she returned hurriedly from an island in the North Sea where she had been having a holiday. Immediately upon her arrival in Hamburg she was taken into custody by the police on suspicion of being a spy. She was surrounded by a howling mob on the street and threatened with violence. In vain she tried to explain her identity and insist that she was an American citizen. She had married an American, it might be mentioned.

While on her way to the station an important German official who recognized her broke through the jeering crowd and established her identity. She eventually got through to Berlin after the first big movement of troops, and was aided by Ambassador Gerard in getting passports.

During the war Miss Lessing played the rôle in the London production of "Sleeping Partners" which Irene Bordoni played here. She also played the leading rôle in "The Girl from Cire's," a farce. She has now been back in this country for a year.

SCREEN PEOPLE AND PLAYS

STRAND—"The Devil," with George Arliss, directed by James Young, based on the play by Franz Molnar, an Associated Producers' picture.

CAPITOL—"Prisoners of Love," with Betty Compson, written by Catherine Henry, directed by Arthur Rosson, a Goldwyn picture; "Mating Manhandlers," a sport pictorial edited by Grantland Rice.

RIVOLI—George Fitzmaurice's "Paying the Piper," with Dorothy Dickson, written by Ouida Bergere, a Paramount picture, the second instalment of the Vandenbergh-Paramount East African pictures.

RIALTO—"Something Different," with Constance Binney, directed by R. William Neill, adapted by Kathryne Stuart from a story by Alice Duer Miller, a Realart picture; "Bungalow Romance," a Mack Sennett comedy

LYRIC—"Outside the Law," with Priscilla Dean, a Universal picture, also at the Longacre, Astor and George M. Cohan theatres, this afternoon and evening.

CARNEGIE HALL—Burton Holmes's travelogue, "Jerusalem," this evening and tomorrow afternoon.

CARNEGIE HALL—"The Kid," with Charlie Chaplin, and "Passion," with Pola Negri, for the benefit of the Children's Fund of the National Board of Review, Friday evening.

CRITERION—"The Inside of the Cup" and "My Barefoot Boy," opened Jan. 9.

FORTY-FOURTH STREET—D. W. Griffith's "Way Down East," opened Sept. 3.

BROADHURST—"Over the Hill," opened Sept. 17.

LEXINGTON—"In the Days of St. Patrick," opened Jan. 9.

APOLLO—"Behold the Man," shown last Sunday, this afternoon and evening.

LOEW'S NEW YORK—Today and tomorrow, "The Testing Block," with William S. Hart; Tuesday, "When We Were Twenty-one," with H. B. Warner; Wednesday, "Truant Husbands," with Mahlon Hamilton; daily change of program.

PLAZA—Today, tomorrow and Tuesday, "Kismet," with Otis Skinner; Wednesday and Thursday, Hugo Ballin's "Pagan Love;" Friday and Saturday, Maurice Tourneur's "The Last of the Mohicans."

CHARLIE CHAPLIN'S latest, and long withheld, comedy, "The Kid," will be shown publicly for the first time at Carnegie Hall next Friday evening for the benefit of the Children's Fund of the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures. "Passion," with Pola Negri, which held the Capitol for two weeks recently, will be on the same program. Associated First National Pictures, Inc., has loaned both films for the occasion.

By the foregoing announcement the report that First National had obtained "The Kid" is confirmed, and in this connection it is further announced that First National is planning a "grand picture season," in which it will release five of its more ambitious productions in consecutive weeks, the pictures being "The Kid," "Passion," R. A. Walsh's "The Oath," "Sowing the Wind," with Anita Stewart in the leading rôle, and Allen Holubar's "Man, Woman and Marriage," with Dorothy Phillips.

S. L. Rothapfel has been appointed by Herbert Hoover Chairman of the Motion Picture Committee in the drive to aid the suffering children of Europe, and, at a meeting of representatives of the motion picture industry held in the Capitol Theatre last Tuesday night, announced that the theatres of the city would be open to speakers of the drive on Jan 26, and on Jan. 29 would honor tickets sold by the women of various organizations co-operating with Mr. Hoover. He also pledged himself to raise $5,000 and called upon the theatre managers to contribute the equivalent of a day's receipts by honoring special tickets at matinees. Mr. Rothapfel added that he was going to devote next week to the drive, winding it up on Saturday evening with a special performance at the Capitol for all those who have contributed $200 or more. There will be a dinner in Los Angeles in the interest of the drive at the same hour, and it is hoped that greetings will be exchanged over the transcontinental phone.

Another indication of the increased importation of foreign films comes in the announcement that Maurice Rousseau, representing French, German, English and Italian producers, has brought forty photoplays to this country, and has engaged Ralph Spence to cut, edit and title them for American exhibition. It is reported that Mr. Spence is to receive $5,000 for each picture he prepares for domestic screens, and, incidentally, he is quoted as saying that of the thirty-eight foreign productions which he has inspected, "only six are suitable for American exploitation," the German pictures approaching those of America most closely "in the matter of thrills and action," but showing a lack of "artistic detail and good acting." Mr. Spence excepts some good English pictures in another year.

At a meeting of the M. P. T. Association of the World, attended by representatives of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish organizations, held at the Hotel Plaza last Tuesday morning, resolutions were passed authorizing the appointment of a committee to draft "a plan for operating * * * a reviewing and information board * * * whose business it will be to view all current motion picture productions and disseminate information relative thereto" to the organizations affiliated with the M. P. T. Association.

BROUGHT INTO FOCUS

TWO motion pictures that came to Broadway last Sunday illustrate the present fondness of filmmakers for "religious themes," and also bear an interesting relation to each other, one of them being an attempt to present chapters from the actual life of Christ and the other purporting to expose the existence and influence in the Church of Christ today of the very "scribes, Pharisees and hypocrites," whom He so thoroughly denounced.

There are several points of view from which a tremendous drama might be built out of the subject matter of these two pictures. One of them could be the eloquent sequel of the other, and together they could have a unity, and a difference, that would make each distinctively strong and both powerful in combination. They might be great, but they are not, neither separately nor together, because each is inherently weak; neither is bright enough to shed light on the other. They only suggest the idea of what they might be; the idea remains something imagined and desired, rather than something accomplished. Perhaps, if filmmakers were fonder of motion pictures than of "religious themes," religious pictures would have more dramatic and spiritual power.

One of these photoplays is "Behold the Man!" which has begun a series of Sundays at the Apollo Theatre, and the other is "The Inside of the Cup," now occupying the Criterion.

The latter production is superior to the former. From the technical point of view, it is much better made, and its treatment, as a whole, shows greater skill and ingenuity. In some respects it is above the average photoplay. Albert Capellani, who directed it, has ideas of continuity and photography which find expression in it, and the acting, while not distinguished by any memorable performance, is acceptable, though the characters are theatrical types rather than typical human beings. However, William P. Carleton as the rector, David Torrence as the Banker Parr, Edith Hallor and Jack Bohn as his daughter and son, Marguerite Clayton as the younger Parr's sweetheart, Richard Carlyle and Margaret Seddon as two of Parr's victims, and Albert Roccardi and Frank A. Lyon as shareholders in Religion, Inc., are all sufficiently alive to give the semblance of life to some of their scenes. But the unrealities of the story prevent its living continuously, from one scene to the next, and so it is only in high moments that it seems anything but fiction reflecting life faintly and disproportionately. How good a translation it is of the novel by Winston Churchill upon which it is based the writer cannot say.

The chief trouble with "The Inside of the Cup" as a photoplay, in the writer's opinion, is that it aims at theatrical effect rather than the presentation of truth. It approaches a complex condition of real life and simplifies it by the easy process of ignoring the difficult and confusing factors and selecting particular traits of human character for overemphasis. Its people are simply personified virtues and vices plainly labeled. For example, Eldon Parr is a wealthy banker who goes to church on Sunday and on Monday frankly calls his stock manipulations "murder." He advises one of his faithful employes to invest his savings in a stock which he knows will soon be worthless and then discharges the man when he appeals to him for help.

The Parr of real life, however, would surely talk as sanctimoniously on Monday as on Sunday, and probably believe himself a great saint, too, and if one of his friendly employes lost money through his advice he would undoubtedly reimburse the man and be credited by himself, the employe, the employe's wife and others with an act of true generosity. His pecuniary profit would come from those who had been "foolish" enough to buy the stock in the open market and could not hold him personally responsible for their losses. Again, there is Wallis Plimpton, a vestryman in the church, and a real estate dealer who owns a saloon where a percentage of the profits of trade in the underworld is collected for him by his personal representative. He even goes to the saloon himself to meet his agent. But the Plimpton of real life would own the saloon, collect all the rent it would yield, and show to the satisfaction of any "practical" man that he could not be held responsible for what the long-term lessee did with it.

And so it goes. The whole story deals with unrealities. The reformers would have an easy and successful time if life was as simple a thing as "The Inside of the Cup" would make it. Their only work would be getting evidence against individuals, and that is all that the picture does, presents evidence against its straw men that immediately destroys them. It merely disposes of a few villains of its own creation—and by miraculously converting them to ways of righteousness, too. It does not analyze a real condition of affairs and point a way to correction. It does not even throw a ray of light on a problem enveloped in darkness for many. So, as a movie it may be good enough, but as a photoplay with a purpose it is wholly futile.

Also on the Criterion's program is about the most thoroughly enjoyable Post Nature picture that has brightened a local screen. It is called "My Barefoot Boy," and in it the little wire-haired fox terrier, who began the story of his life in "A Tale of a Terrier," continues the chronicle of his adventures. He's a real dog, not one of your performing pets dulled by training in tricks, and it is easy for the spectator to let himself go and imagine that this individualistic canine is actually telling his story to the cameraman. Considerable ingenuity must have been used by the director of the picture to induce the dog to do naturally what was wanted of him, and the illusion is perfect. The story is that of the narrator's life on a farm, and its passages of bright humor and scenic beauty were keenly relished by those present when the writer saw the picture, as they are sure to be by any one. "My Barefoot Boy" is one of those delightful little treats that come unpretentiously and entertain generously. Also it seems to promise the development of the narrative scenic, or the scenic narrative, which holds great possibilities for cinematography.

THE boundless opportunities for treating a great subject greatly have been missed in "Behold the Man!" it seems to the writer. The picture, with its strong coloring, its uninspired conventionality, its formal stiffness and its mechanical crudities, seems more like a series of animated illustrations such as decorated the cheap Bibles of the last generation than a cinematographic life of Jesus of Nazareth. The subject is treated reverently, yes, but as if the director had been afraid, in his reverence, to make the people resemble human beings in any way. The story could be told, as if it had really happened, without any lack of reverence. It's no disrespect to Christ to say that He did actually live and, to all outward appearances anyhow, acted like a man.

Another weakness of the story is its failure to present the real mission and message of Christ. It deals episodically with certain incidents of the story told in the synoptic gospels, but greatly overemphasizes the miracles, and seldom illuminates an act or scene by showing its underlying reason and surrounding circumstances. Also, on the subject of the money changers in the Temple at least, it misses the point entirely, and it seems safe to add that provincial Galilee never saw such evidences of wealth and magnificence as are attributed to it in the scene of the wedding at Cana.

The only impressive scenes of the picture are the pageants in which violent coloring and stiff formality are not obtrusively out of place. The attempt to set the Biblical story in a modern frame has not been carried out with noticeable skill, and the titling of the picture does not help it.

AMERICA'S FOREMOST THEATRES AND HITS—DIRECTION OF LEE AND J. J. SHUBERT

The WINTER GARDEN'S Greatest Laughing Hit!
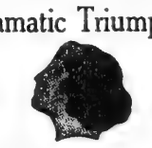
THE PASSING SHOW of 1921
Presenting WILLIE and EUGENE HOWARD
MARIE DRESSLER—HARRY WATSON—200 OTHERS
Staged by J. C. HUFFMAN.
Book and Lyrics by Harold Atteridge. Music by Jean Schwartz.
"Should be called the STAYING SHOW, for it will remain the rest of the season."
—Stephen Rathbun, Sun.
Eve. 8:15. Mts. Tues., Thurs. & Sat., 2:15.
TO-NIGHT SUNDAY CONCERT | ALWAYS THE BEST SUNDAY ENTERTAINMENT IN TOWN

REPUBLIC THEATRE, W. 42d St. Wed. & Sat. Mats., 2:30
Beg. Tomorrow Night, 8:30
JOHN GOLDEN Presents
GRACE LARUE AND HALE HAMILTON
IN A SELFISH COMEDY,
Dear Me
By LUTHER REED & HALE HAMILTON.

WILLIAM A. BRADY'S Theatres & Successes
Playhouse 48th, E. of B'way. Evs. 8:30. Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2:30
Dramatic Triumph!


MARY NASH
IN
"Thy Name Is Woman"
BY
CARL SCHONER & BENJAMIN F. GLAZER
Staged by JOSE RUBEN
"SCORES A SPLENDID SUCCESS." —Eve. Journal.
EXTRA MATINEE THURSDAY
POPULAR PRICES

Wm. A. Brady's 48TH STREET THEA. E. OF B'WAY. Evs. 8:20. Mts. Thurs. & Sat.

THE BROKEN WING
THE GREAT AERO-PLANE CRASH "OUTDOES THE WRECK IN 'BEN HUR' AND THE FOREST FIRE IN 'THE STORM.'"
—N. Y. Times.

BIJOU 45th St., W. of B'way. Evs. 8:30. Mts. Wed. & Sat., 2:30
(In Association with Reandean, London)
104th to 111th Times
The SKIN GAME
By John Galsworthy
"TAKES ITS PLACE AUTOMATICALLY AT THE HEAD OF THE LIST OF PLAYS NOW TO BE SEEN ALONG BROADWAY." —Brooklyn Eagle.

SHUBERT-RIVIERA 97th St. & B'way. Mats. Thurs. & Sat.
OPPORTUNITY
THE MELODRAMA OF MARRIAGE, MORALS & MONEY.
By OWEN DAVIS
WITH JAMES CRANE

BRONX OPERA HOUSE
EVES. 8:15. MATS. WED. & SAT.
THE MAN WHO CAME BACK
JULES ECKERT GOODMAN'S GREAT MELODRAMA with PAUL GORDON—ADDA GLEASON

WAY DOWN EAST
"D. W. GRIFFITH has climbed to new heights of achievement."—Eve. Mail.
"The theatre rocks with applause. Never in our experience have we seen such a demonstration." —N. Y. Tribune.
"Way Down East" is shown twice daily, including Sundays, at 2:15 and 8:15.
Special Music Program.
All Seats Reserved.
44TH STREET THEATRE NOW

Hal Forde & Ethelind Terry sing
SUNSHINE OF LOVE,
HONEYDEW — CASINO

Princess 39th n'r B'way Mon. Jan. 24 Beginning
The MESSRS. SHUBERT Present
COGNAC
A New Three Act Play
By David Arnold Balch.
With a distinguished cast, which will include: Tom Powers, Beatrice Prentice, James Seeley, Sylvia Field, Leonard Boyle, Marie Day, Cyrus Wood, Laura Joy, Harry Humphrey, Harry Hamalainen. Staged by Edward Elsner. SEATS ON SALE THURSDAY.

The Comedy that started the season RIGHT and is going to continue RIGHT to the end.
MAX MARCIN Presents
3 LIVE GHOSTS
By FREDERIC W. ISHAM.
NORA BAYES Theatre 44th St. W. of Bway.
Evgs. 8:30. Mats. Wed. & Sat., 2:30.

LYRIC Thos., 42d St., W. of B'way. Ev. 8:15. Mts. Wed. & Sat., 2:15.
Unanimous!!
Every critic joined in the chorus of praise that greeted
NORA BAYES
IN
"Her Family Tree"
BRILLIANT COMPANY OF 60
A Darn Likely Lot of Girls

COMEDY THEATRE, West 41st. MATINEES Thur. & Sat.
HOLBROOK BLINN
A REAL COMEDY SUCCESS

in The Bad Man

ASTOR THEATRE, B'way & 45th St. Evgs. 8:25. Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2:25.
MADGE KENNEDY (HERSELF) in the Comedy-Drama Hit
"CORNERED"
By DODSON MITCHELL.
Offered by HENRY W. SAVAGE.
A REAL POPULAR PRICED WED. MATINEE
ENTIRE LOWER FLOOR $1.50
BALCONY $1.00
2ND BALCONY $ .75
Saturday Matinee Best Seats $2.

VANDERBILT West 48th St. Phone Bryant 184 THEATRE

2ND YEAR
The Musical Comedy Hit
"IRENE"
SEATS ON SALE 8 WEEKS AHEAD.
EVS. 8:30. MATS. WED. & SAT., 2:30.

SHUBERT THEA., 44th St., W. of B'way. Mats. Wed. & Sat., 2:30.
THE BOHEMIANS, INC.
Present
GREENWICH VILLAGE FOLLIES 1920
Devised and Staged by JOHN MURRAY ANDERSON

SHUBERT-RIVIERA 97th and B'way. Mats. Thurs. & Sat.
Evgs. 8:15. Good Orchestra Seats $1.50.
WILLIAM A. BRADY Presents OPPORTUNITY
The Melodrama of Marriage, Morals and Money.
By OWEN DAVIS
With JAMES CRANE
Week HENRY HULL, ALMA TELL, GEORGE Jan. 24 MARION in WHEN WE ARE YOUNG. To-day—Sunday Concerts—Concerts 1:30 to 11:30.

METROPOLITAN and CHICAGO OPERA TICKETS The Original TYSON & CO. ESTABLISHED 1889
1472 B'WAY. 100 B'WAY. 4080 Bryant 9100 Rector

TO-NIGHT
GREATEST CONCERTS IN NEW YORK
CENTURY Theatre, 62nd St. and Central Park West. Phone Columbus 1600.
GALA ANNIVERSARY SURPRISE BILL
16—Star Acts—16
800 SEATS AT $1.00
CENTRAL Theatre, 47th & B'way. Phone Bryant 17.
FARBER GIRLS
AILEEN STANLEY
PHIL BAKER
& OTHER STAR ACTS &
WINTER GARDEN 50th & B'way Phone Circle 2330
ALWAYS THE BEST SUNDAY ENTERTAINMENT IN TOWN

SELWYN THEATRES
ON WEST 42D ST.
Announcement
In order to supply the demand for popular priced seats, I have finally succeeded, by arrangement with Mr. Lee Shubert and the Selwyns, to move the production of THE PRINCE AND THE PAUPER from the Booth to the larger and new APOLLO THEATRE on West 42nd Street, TOMORROW NIGHT, where seats may be had at prices from 50c to $2.50, with two popular priced matinees, Wed. & Sat.
(Signed)
WILLIAM FAVERSHAM

SELWYN Evgs. 8:20. Mats. Wed. & Sat., 2:20
6TH MONTH
FRANK TINNEY
IN HAMMERSTEIN'S MUSICAL COMEDY
"TICKLE ME"

SELWYN THEA.—Special Mats. PRICES 50c TO $2.00.
TOMORROW, Tuesday, Thurs. and Friday at 2:30.
Provincetown Players with CHARLES OLCOTT in
THE EMPEROR JONES

Times Sq. MATS. THURS. AND SAT.
5TH MONTH
FLORENCE REED
IN EDGAR SELWYN'S DRAMATIC SENSATION
THE MIRAGE

TIMES SQUARE THEATRE. SPECIAL TOMORROW (MON.) TUES. & WED. at 2:30 & SATURDAY MORNING at 11
"MIXED MARRIAGE"
by ST. JOHN ERVINE, Author of "John Ferguson," "Jane Clegg," with Augustin Duncan, Margaret Wycherly, Rollo Peters, Angela McCahill, Barry Macollum, Hermon MacGregor.
PRICES 50c to $2.00.

BELMONT W. 48 St. Bryant 46. Evs. 8:30. Mts. Thur. & Sat. 2:30
Brock Pemberton's Productions
ZONA GALE'S Miss Lulu Bett
FULTON W. 46 St. Evs. 8:30. Mts. Wed., Thurs. & Sat.
GILDA VARESI
ENTER MADAME
NORMAN TREVOR
GOOD SEATS AT BOX OFFICE

ELTINGE
WEST 42D ST.
A. H. WOODS presents
LADIES' NIGHT IN A TURKISH BATH
By AVERY HOPWOOD and CHARLTON ANDREWS
Mats. Wed. & Sat.

"DROP ME A LINE"
Sung by Hal Forde & Ethelind Terry in HONEYDEW CASINO

BOOTH OPENING TUES. EVE., JAN. 18
FIRST MATINEE WEDNESDAY
WINTHROP AMES will Present
GEORGE ARLISS
IN
THE GREEN GODDESS
A PLAY OF ADVENTURE by WILLIAM ARCHER

CENTURY THEATRE 62nd Street and Central Park W.
DIRECTION OF MESSRS. LEE AND J. J. SHUBERT
EVENINGS AT 8—MATINEES WEDNESDAY AND SATURDAY AT 2 SHARP.
LAST WEEK LAST 8 TIMES
LAST 8 TIMES LAST WEEK
POSITIVELY FAREWELL TIMES
F. RAY COMSTOCK AND MORRIS GEST
Announce Regretfully
The Last 8 Performances of the World's Largest and Most Beautiful Production
MECCA
A Musical Extravaganza of the Orient
By Oscar Asche Music by Percy Fletcher
NEVER AGAIN IN THE HISTORY OF THE UNIVERSE WILL SUCH A SUPERB AND COLOSSAL PRODUCTION OF SUCH UNPARALLELED BEAUTY BE SHOWN TO MORTAL EYES.
Last Time Next Saturday Evening, Jan. 22. Complete Company of 400
People will leave immediately after the Performance by two Special Trains for Chicago. Opens in Chicago Tuesday, January 25.
LAST POPULAR BARGAIN MAT. WEDNESDAY—50c TO $2
CENTURY THEATRE, OPENING MON., JAN. 24.
Messrs. LEE and J. J. SHUBERT Announce THIS ALL STAR CAST
ROBERT WARWICK, CYRIL SCOTT, JEANNE EAGELS, MARGARET DALE, MAX FIGMAN, MACLYN ARBUCKLE, EDMUND LOWE
IN
The Paris and London Sensation
The Super Spectacle
IN THE NIGHT WATCH
A DRAMA OF SUPREME SACRIFICE | By MICHAEL MORTON | From the French of Claude Ferrer and Lucien Nepoty.
AFTER LONG ENGAGEMENTS AT THE ANTOINE THEATRE, PARIS, AND THE OXFORD MUSIC HALL, LONDON.
STAGED BY FREDERICK STANHOPE.
FOR THE AMERICAN PRESENTATION THE PRODUCTION WILL BE CONSIDERABLY ENLARGED AND EVERY ADVANTAGE TAKEN OF THE FACILITIES OFFERED BY THE EQUIPMENT AND SIZE OF THE CENTURY STAGE.
COMPANY OF 175 PERSONS
SEATS Go on Sale THURS. at the Box Office of the Century Theatre
ORDERS NOW BEING RECEIVED FOR THE PREMIERE.

CENTRAL THEATRE 47th Street & B'way Mats. Wed. & Sat.
F. RAY COMSTOCK AND MORRIS GEST Present
—ALICE— 3RD ENORMOUS MONTH
In the Franchiest of All French Musical Plays
DELYSIA "AFGAR"
"HAS TAKEN NEW YORK BY STORM."—Eve. Telegram.
From the London Pavilion, London.
(By arrangement with Charles B. Cochran.)
Music by Chas. Cuvillier. GOWNS BY PAUL POIRET OF PARIS

GARRICK 65 W. 35th. Fitz Roy 1522. Evenings 8.15. Mats. Thurs. & Sat., 2:15.
The THEATRE GUILD presents
HEARTBREAK HOUSE
A Comedy by Bernard Shaw
ELIZABETH RISDON—EFFIE SHANNON—LUCILE WATSON—HELEN WESTLEY—DUDLEY DIGGES—FRED ERIC—ALBERT PERRY—RALPH ROEDER—ERSKINE SANFORD—HENRY TRAVERS.

NEW YORK'S 2 GREATEST DRAMATIC HITS
MAXINE ELLIOTT'S "SPANISH LOVE"
MOROSCO "THE BAT"
SEATS 8 WEEKS AHEAD

Greenwich Village Theatre
Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.
ARTHUR HOPKINS presents
"THE BEGGAR'S OPERA"
"A gay and racy old musical show with more charm, satire and sweet tunes than reach Broadway in six seasons."—Kenneth MacGowan, N. Y. Globe

MARGARET ANGLIN
20th Triumphant Week!
The WOMAN of BRONZE
FRAZEE THEATRE, West 42d St. Phone Bryant 31.
Evgs. at 8:30. Mts. Wed. & Sat., 2:30.

LITTLE THEATRE, W. 44 St. Evs. 8:30. Mts. Wed., Thurs. & Sat., 2:30.
3 MATINEES EVERY WEEK {WEDNESDAY THURSDAY SATURDAY
John Golden Presents Winchell Smith Directs Frank Craven
Writes and Plays in A Comic Tragedy
The 1ST YEAR of Married Life.

Plymouth—Mats. Thurs. & Sat.
'A thought for to-day' SEE
LITTLE OLD NEW YORK
BY RIDA JOHNSON YOUNG
"The Gayest Play in Town"
MANAGEMENT SAM H. HARRIS.

GOOD REASONS WHY EVERYBODY SHOULD SEE
HONEYDEW
"A FEAST OF MUSIC" —Alan Dale.
HONEYDEW
"WINS ZINGALIST AN OVATION." —Times.
HONEYDEW
"A REAL DELIGHT." —Charles Darnton.
HONEYDEW
"SWEET AND FINE MELODIES." —Louis De Foe.
AT THE CASINO 39th & B'WAY MATS. WED.-SAT.

39TH ST. THEATRE
Matinees Wed. and Sat.
ARTHUR HOPKINS presents
BEN-AMI and Pauline Lord
in "Samson & Delilah"

LONGACRE THEATRE, West 48 St. Mts. Wed.-Sat.
Staged by Sam Forrest.

All The Wise Ones Are Going TO SEE
SAM H. HARRIS Production
GRANT MITCHELL
IN
"THE CHAMPION"
By Thomas Louden and A. E. Thomas
"The Funniest Play in Town"
—Stephen Rathbun—The Sun.

Hear SAM ASH sing "THE GIRL I LOVE" in HONEYDEW — CASINO

BROOKLYN.
LOEW'S METROPOLITAN
Fulton, Smith, Livingston Sts., Bklyn.
Mon., Tues., Wed., Jan. 17, 18, 19.
WILLIAM S. HART
in "THE TESTING BLOCK"
Ruloff, Rullowa Ballet
ANTHONY & ARNOLD and others
Thur., Fri., Sat., Sun., Jan. 20, 21, 22, 23
"ARE ALL MEN ALIKE?"
Starring MAY ALLISON
(A Loew Metro Picture)
Crane Wilbur (Personally) with Suzanne Caubet.
4—Others—4
HAROLD LLOYD
in "NUMBER PLEASE"

SHUBERT — CRESCENT
ONE WEEK Beginning TOMORROW NIGHT
Evs. & Sat. Mat. 50c to $1.50. Pop. $1 Mat. Wed. Saturday Night, 75c to $2.00
The Latest Musical Comedy Success
"KISSING TIME"
Book By GEORGE V. HOBART
Composed by IVAN CARYLL
Lyrics by Philander Johnson.
WILLIAM NORRIS
EDITH TALIAFERRO
ORIGINAL CAST AND PRODUCTION DIRECT FROM ASTOR THEATRE
16 Acts SUNDAY CONCERT 10 Acts
NEXT WEEK JAN. 24 OLIVER MOROSCO Presents Charlotte Greenwood in her latest musical comedy success LINGER LONGER LETTY

MONTAUK Bargain Mats. Wed. and Sat.
ONE WEEK ONLY
Cast and Production Intact From the Park Theatre
"BAB"
The Season's Comedy Success
Dramatization of Mary Roberts Rinehart's Saturday Evening Post Stories by Edward Childs Carpenter, with HELEN HAYES
WEEK OF JAN'Y 24 One Week
Patricia Collinge in "JUST SUPPOSE"
Original Cast from The Henry Miller Theatre

MAJESTIC MATINEES WED. & SAT.
WEEK BEGINNING TOMORROW EVENING
EARL CARROLL Presents
A Comedy Drama in Three Acts
DADDY DUMPLINS
By GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON and EARL CARROLL
WITH MACLYN ARBUCKLE
Direct from the Republic Theatre
Cast and Production Intact
2 — KEITH SUNDAY CONCERTS — 2
Next Week NANCE O'NEIL in "The Passion Flower."

Teller's Shubert BROOKLYN Evs. at 8:15 Matinees Wed., Sat., 2:15.
WILLIAM HARRIS, JR., Presents
SECOND AND LAST WEEK
EAST IS WEST
JAN'Y 24—WILLIAM A. BRADY Presents
THE MAN WHO CAME BACK
with PAUL GORDON & ADDA GLEASON

B. F. KEITH'S ORPHEUM
Concerts Sunday, 2:15 & 8:15. Week of Jan. 17.
GERTRUDE HOFFMAN
in a New Series of Dances and Impersonations
Augmented Orchestra.
Chas. & Madeline Dunbar | Carl Emmy's Pets
ERIC ZARDO | Dudley—LIDDELL & GIBSON—Ded
Radiah | Bernard & Garry | Osborne Trio
HERMINE SHONE & CO.
Assisted by Billy Rhodes in "The New Moon"

ACADEMY OF MUSIC
GILBERT K. CHESTERTON on
The Ignorance of the Educated
Sat. Eve., January 22, 8:15
Remaining Seats, $2.00, $2.50.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC BURTON
HOLMES
PHOTO-STORIES OF TRAVEL.
Tues. and Wed. Evenings.
GARDEN OF ALLAH..... JAN. 18-19
SPANISH CITIES..... JAN. 25-26
VENICE (ITALIAN LAKES) FEB. 1-2
TICKETS at Inst. Box Off. 50c to $1.50

MARK STRAND BROOKLYN
LIONEL BARRYMORE
"The Great Adventure."
SOLOISTS—BALLETS NOVELTIES
FAMED STRAND ORCH.
BEGINNING NEXT SUNDAY
GEORGE ARLISS IN "THE DEVIL"

Sight Seeing Royal Blue Line
Seeing New York, up town, down town, over the great bridges to Brooklyn, 10 A. M., 2 P. M. Chinatown, New York after dark, 7 P. M. Luxurious glass roof
ROYAL BLUE LINE CO. OF N. Y.
Office Starting Point, Hotel McAlpin

NEW YORK'S LEADING THEATRES AND SUCCESSES

EMPIRE Evgs. 8:15 Mats. Wed. & Sat., 2:15
"One of the plays all lovers of the theatre should see and see again."—Times.
CHARLES FROHMAN Presents
RUTH CHATTERTON
(By Courtesy of HENRY MILLER)
In the New Play
MARY ROSE
by J. M. BARRIE
"The haunting beauty of 'Mary Rose' is felt after the theatre has been left miles behind."—Eve. World.

19th WEEK
SOLOMON Says: "Everyone knows that 2 plus 2 equals 4, but to sell it for 5 that's business."
IT IS GOOD BUSINESS TO SEE
AARON HOFFMAN'S COMEDY
WELCOME STRANGER
STAGED BY SAM FORREST
Presented by SAM H. HARRIS
WITH A REPRESENTATIVE CAST HEADED BY George Sidney
Cohan & Harris Theatre, W. 42 St. Mats. Wed. & Sat.

NEW AMSTERDAM
Mats. Wed. & Sat., 50c to $2.50
ZIEGFELD PRODUCTION
MARILYNN MILLER
LEON ERROL
Sally
in "MUSICAL COMEDY EXTRAORDINARY."—Herald.
Staged by EDWARD BOYER.
ON THE ROOF
Ziegfeld Midnight Frolic
ONLY MIDNIGHT SHOW IN NEW YORK
New Amsterdam Theatre
TODAY Pop. Mat., 2:15 CONCERTS Nights 8:15.
Big B. F. Keith Vaudeville Bill

"Comic and Incomparable."
—N. Y. Globe.
MITZI
IN THE MUSICAL COMEDY HIT
"LADY BILLY"
Offered by HENRY W. SAVAGE
AT THE LIBERTY WEST 42D ST.
Evs. 8:20. Pop. 50c to $2. Mats. Wed. & Sat.

Premier Performance Tomorrow Night at 8:30
HENRY MILLER'S THEATRE, 124 West 43d St.
Matinees Thursday and Saturday
SAM H. HARRIS offers
MRS. FISKE
in a Comedy
"Wake Up, Jonathan!"
By HATCHER HUGHES AND ELMER L. RICE.
Direction of Harrison Grey Fiske

BELASCO THEATRE West 44th nr. B'way.
Evs. 8:15 Sharp. Mats. Thurs. & Sat., 2:15
"A RARE ADVENTURE IN THE THEATRE."—Burns Mantle, Eve. Mail
DAVID BELASCO Presents
LIONEL ATWILL
in "DEBURAU"
By SUTTER. Adapted by BARKER.

Dempsey-Brennan Official Moving Pictures. Park Theatre. Today Only, 1 to 11 P. M. 25c, 50c.

GEO. M. COHAN'S
3 BIG HITS
HUDSON 44th St., E. of B'y
Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2:20
Management of Mrs. Henry B. Harris
The Meanest Man in the World
The Popular American Comedy
MR. COHAN
in the Title Role.
GEO. M. COHAN'S B'WAY-43rd ST.
Matinees Wed. and Sat., 2:30.
The Mystery Masterpiece
THE TAVERN
WHAT'S ALL THE SHOOTIN' FOR?
KNICKERBOCKER B'WAY 38th ST.
Evs. 8:15. Mats. Wed. and Sat., 2:15.
GEO. M. COHAN'S Comedians in THE GREATEST MUSICAL HIT OF THE AGE MARY
"Isn't it a Grand Old Name?"

LYCEUM THEATRE
W. 45 St. Mats. Thurs. & Sat at 2:30
DAVID BELASCO Presents
INA CLAIRE 2nd YEAR in "THE GOLD DIGGERS"
Avery Hopwood's Sparkling Comedy.

Dempsey-Brennan Official Moving Pictures. Park Theatre. Today Only, 1 to 11 P. M. 25c, 50c.

PARK Theatre, Columbus Circle.
Evenings 8:10. Matinees Wed. (Pop.) & Sat., 2:10.
Lawrence J. Anhalt, Sole Lessee & Mgr.
A Supreme Sensation!
"An occasion of genuine, unbroken delight."—World.
FRANCIS DE WOLF
WILSON & HOPPER
IN A NEW AND WONDROUS
"ERMINIE"
"A rare mixture of jolly tunes and jollier humor, extremely well sung and acted, and decorated with such settings and costumes as no musical piece has yet displayed."—Globe.
Seats on Sale 4 Weeks Ahead.

CORT THEATRE AT 8:15 TONITE
"Are you in favor of Blue Sundays?"—I am not.
Frank Fay's Intimate CONCERTS— The Talk of the Town
10 All Star Acts
Blue Sunday's Worst Enemy

CORT WEST 48th St., EVS., 8:20. MATS. WED. & SAT., 2:20.
America's Supreme Stellar Favorites
MARGARET LAWRENCE AND ARTHUR BYRON
The All-Surpassing Comedy Triumph
Transplanting JEAN
ONE YEAR IN PARIS

PUNCH & JUDY THEATRE
49th St., E. of B'way. Evs. 8:30
Fri. and Sat. Mats. 2:30.
CLARE KUMMER PRESENTS ROLAND YOUNG
ROLLO'S WILD OAT

"ONE OF THE FEW JOYS OF THE SEASON"—Charles Darnton, Eve. World.

MATS. ONLY 6 MORE MATINEES
CORT THEATRE 48 ST. WEST
TUES. & FRI. at 3 AND SAT. MORN. 10:30
THE YELLOW JACKET

Presented by Mr. and Mrs. Coburn in association with Mare Klaw, Inc.
JAN. Tuesdays, 18-25, at 3 P.M.
Fridays, 21-28, at 3 P.M.
Also Saturdays, 22d and 29th, 10:30 A. M.
The Cast includes: Juliette Day, Donald Gallaher, Howard Kyle, Schuyler Ladd, Arthur Shaw, Antoinette Walker, J. Arthur Young, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn and others.

GAIETY B'way, 46 St. Evs. 8:30. Mats. Wed., Fri. & Sat., 2:30
3 Matinees Every Week } WEDNESDAY FRIDAY SATURDAY
JOHN GOLDEN Presents
FRANK BACON in LIGHTNIN'

What Makes the Wild Waves Wild?
FRED STONE
"TIP" IN "TOP"
AT CHARLES DILLINGHAM'S GLOBE THEATRE
MATINEES—WED. AND SA

OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN'S
MANHATTAN OPERA HOUSE
Last Week German Comic Operetta Season.
MONDAY—CLOSED FOR REHEARSALS
TUES. EVE., DIE FLEDERMAUS (The Bat);
WED. & THURS. EVES., A New Musical Comedy SPANISH BLOOD; FRI., & SAT. MAT. DIE FLEDERMAUS (The Bat) Prices 50c to $2.50.
Mon., Jan. 24—The Chicago Opera Company.

Dempsey-Brennan Official Moving Pictures. Park Theatre, Today Only, 1 to 11 P. M. 25c, 50c.

CAPITOL

Broadway at 51st St. Phone Circle 5500
SUBWAY STATION AT THE DOOR
EDWARD BOWES..... Managing Director
World's Largest and Most Beautiful Theatre
A NEW STAR AND ONE OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST BETTY COMPSON
Beautiful, brilliant, and with a marvelous sense of drama, Miss Compson, whose great performance of Rose in "The Miracle Man" will always be remembered, has surpassed herself in a most distinguished production with a wide and powerful appeal.
PRISONERS OF LOVE
Personally produced by Betty Compson. Story by C. Henry. Director, Arthur Rosson.
Released by GOLDWYN
SPECIALLY ARRANGED PROLOGUE
VALSE BLUETTE
Mlle. Gambarelli.....Drigo
Merit Film Corporation Presents the Third of a Series of Sport Pictorials,
"MAKING MAN HANDLERS"
EDITED BY GRANTLAND RICE
CAPITOL GRAND ORCHESTRA ERNO RAPEE Conducting Assisted by the following soloists: ERIK BYE, AMUND SJOVIK, CAROLINE CALL and MINER ROBERTS, Capitol Ballet Corps and Capitol Ensemble.
EXCERPTS FROM "LOHENGRIN."
(a) Prelude from Act 3. (b) King's Prayer. (c) Finale of Act 1.
Overture "WILLIAM TELL".....Rossini
Settings by John Wenger. Choreography by Alexander Oumansky. Ensemble in charge of William Axt.
PRESENTATIONS BY S. L. ROTHAPFEL.
Continuous 12:30 to 11 P. M. daily. Matinees 30c-50c. Eves. 55c-85c.
Evening Prices Prevail Saturdays, Sundays and Holidays.

B. F. KEITH'S NEW YORK THEATRES
WORLD'S GREATEST VAUDEVILLE

Mat. Daily at 2. 25, 50, 75c, $1.00 1,000 CHOICE SEATS, 50c. Except Sat. and Holidays
B. F. KEITH'S PALACE B'WAY & 47TH ST. TEL. BRYANT 4300
EVERY NIGHT 25, 50, 75c, $1, $1.50, $2 1,000 ORCH. SEATS, $1.00. Except Sat., Sun. and Holidays.
Two Big Concerts Sunday, 2 and 8 P. M. Beginning Monday, January 17
ENGAGEMENT DE LUXE ADELAIDE & HUGHES America's Representative Dancers Dan Caslar at the Piano.
FEATURE DE LUXE Holbrook Blinn presents LINA ABARBANELL & CO. in "The Bride," by Wm. Hulbert. Music by Milton Schwarzwald.
FEATURE EXTRAORDINARY ROBERT EMMET KEANE The Broadway Comedian
EXTRA ADDED FEATURE BETH BERI & CO. Assisted by Jay Velie and George Clifford in a Brand New Act. Music and Lyrics by Lee David.
EXTRA ADDED ATTRACTION. ED—GALLAGHER & ROLLEY—JOE in "At Palm Beach."
EXTRA FEATURE GEO. M. ROSENER In a New Series of Character Studies, entitled "The Anthology of an OM Actor."
Mme. HERMANN & Co. | Jas.—KINOGRAMS | BURKE & DURKIN—Elinor: A Tete-A-Tete in Songs | THE 4 HASSAMS | Topics of the Day
ENGAGEMENT EXTRAORDINARY HOMER B. MASON & KEELER MARGUERITE Present an Entirely New Offering entitled "OH." A Farcical Improbability, by Porter Emerson Browne.

B. F. KEITH'S RIVERSIDE BROADWAY at 96th STREET
Concerts Sunday, 2.15 & 8.15. Week of Jan. 17.
CYCLONIC EVA TANGUAY World's Greatest Eccentric Comedienne.
BERT & BETTY WHEELER
CRAIG CAMPBELL | JOE COOK AND OTHERS

B. F. KEITH'S 81ST STREET THEATRE, B'way at 81st St.
Concerts Sunday, 2.15 & 8.15. Week of Jan. 17.
FOUR MARX BROS.
GIBSON & CONNELLI, EDNA DREON, WARD & GREENE, WORDEN BROS., OTHERS.
MAURICE TOURNEUR'S SCREEN VERSION OF "THE COUNTY FAIR"

B. F. KEITH'S CELEBRATED SUNDAY CONCERTS
New Amsterdam THEATRE, 42d St., west of Broadway
TODAY MATINEE AND NIGHT
Pop. Prices Mat. 2:15 25c to $1. Eves. 50c to $2.50
Ten Wonderful Features, Headed by EVA TANGUAY
LYDELL & MACEY, ANNA CHANDLER, MASTERS & KRAFT REVUE, Harry Holman & Co., Frank Hurst, Walters & Walters, Russell & Devitt, Reynolds & Johnson, Henry Ware & Co., Julius Lenzberg's Harmonists.
MANHATTAN OPERA HOUSE 34th ST., NEAR 8th AVE.
TODAY MATINEE AND NIGHT
Bargain Mat. 2:15 15c to 75c, Evenings Pop. Prices 50c to $1.50
FOUR MARX BROTHERS & Company of 10 in "N' Everything." Frank Gaby, Wilfred Clarke & Company, Burns & Fabrito, Sylvia Clarke, Bernard & Garry, Rinaldo Brothers & EVA SHIRLEY AND HER JAZZ BAND.

At Four Theatres Today Only.
ASTOR Broadway At 45th St.
LYRIC 42nd Street and Broadway
LONGACRE 48th St., W. of Broadway
GEO. M. COHAN 43d St. and Broadway
TODAY ONLY TWICE
3:00 — 8:30
THE MOST AMAZING ROMANTIC MELODRAMA EVER SCREENED
CARL LAEMMLE Presents
"OUTSIDE THE LAW"
STARRING
PRISCILLA DEAN
Supported by LON CHANEY and 100 Others
FOR THE FIRST TIME IN THEATRICAL HISTORY—FOUR THEATRES—LYRIC, LONGACRE, ASTOR AND GEO. M. COHAN THEATRES WILL PRESENT THE SAME PICTURE, SAME MUSIC, SAME INCIDENTAL FEATURES, SAME HOUR, SAME PRICE

EVERYONE IS THANKFUL FOR

"GOOD TIMES"
CHARLES DILLINGHAM'S WONDER PAGEANT of DELIGHT
—AT THE—
HIPPODROME
By E. H. BURNSIDE
Music by Raymond Hubbell
1000 PEOPLE—100 NOVELTIES
EVERYTHING ON A BIG SCALE —BUT THE SCALE OF PRICES
MATINEE DAILY 2000 GOOD ORCHESTRA SEATS AT $1
10 MUSICAL COMEDIES IN ONE 10

COLUMBIA
47th & B'way. New Show Every Wk.
"The Home of Burlesque de Luxe."—N. Y. Times
BEST SHOWS IN THE WORLD FOR THE MONEY—AND THEY'RE CLEAN!
2 Big Concerts TODAY at 2:15 & 8:15 All Seats Reserved
Commencing Tomorrow Afternoon
SPORTING WIDOWS
with AL. K. HALL
In a new show beautifully produced.
Big Company of favorite funmakers, singers, dancers and vaudeville specialists. Large chorus of winsome Girls. Twice daily. Moderate prices. Seats two weeks in advance. Smoking Permitted.
Week Jan. 24—FOLLY TOWN, with GUS FAY and FRANZ MARIE TEXAS.

Rumford Hall, 50 E. 41. Jan. 18, at 11 1st of 5 Tues. Morning lectures by the brilliant genius, JOHN COWPER
POWYS
"How to Destroy the Commonplace." Tues. Morning, Jan. 25, "G. K. Chesterton." Course Tickets $8.25; Single $1.65. G. Arnold Shaw, 5730 G. C. Terminal. Phone Vand. 8088 and at hall Jan. 18.

APOLLO, West 42d St., TODAY
4 Times Every Sunday—2:30—4:30—7:15—9:15
Pathe Presents in Natural Colors
"BEHOLD THE MAN"
Adapted from "The Life of Our Saviour"
A photo-spectacle that will never be surpassed, because there is no nobler theme and there could not be a more artistic, convincing or inspirational treatment.
Brilliant musical accompaniment.
4 Times Every Sunday—55c, 85c, $1.10

BRONX OPERA HOUSE
149TH STREET, EAST OF 3D AVENUE
POP. PRICES. MATS. WED. and SAT.
BEGINNING TOMORROW EVE. WM. A. BRADY OFFERS
"THE MAN WHO CAME BACK"
BY JULES ECKERT GOODMAN
WITH PAUL GORDON & ADDA GLEASON
WEEK JAN. 24TH. FISKE O'HARA in "SPRINGTIME IN MAYO" SEATS ON SALE TOMORROW.

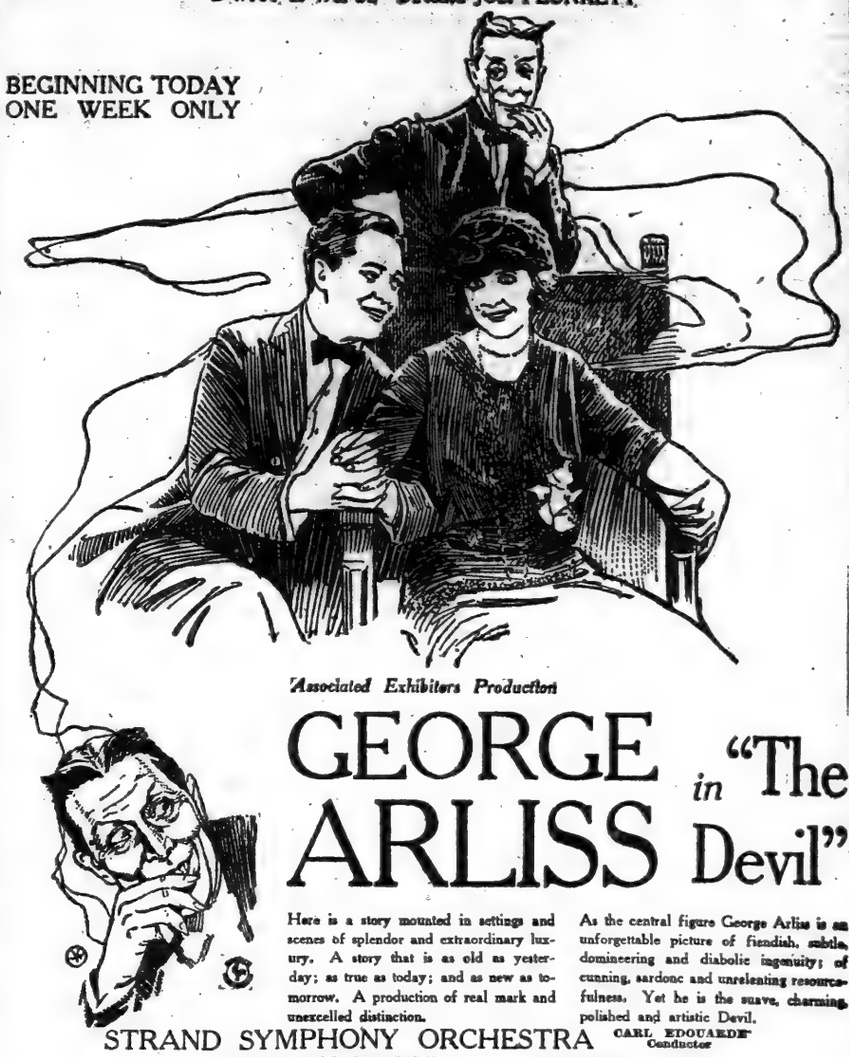
BRAMHALL 326 W. 27 St. Tel. 6-30. Open Christmas Day. Jan. 26th
The IMPORTANCE of BEING EARNEST
by OSCAR WILDE
With Charlotte Granville
Frank E. Hollins, Mabel Frenyear, Butler Davenport, Helen Lisk, Edwin Stevenson, Eleanor Martin, I. Clooney Mathews, Alvin Dexter

MARK STRAND
A NATIONAL INSTITUTION
B'WAY at 47th St. Direction JOS. PLUNKETT
BEGINNING TODAY
ONE WEEK ONLY


Associated Exhibitors Production
GEORGE ARLISS in "The Devil"
Here is a story mounted in settings and scenes of splendor and extraordinary luxury. A story that is as old as yesterday; as true as today; and as new as tomorrow. A production of real mark and unexcelled distinction.
As the central figure George Arliss is an unforgettable picture of fiendish, subtle, domineering and diabolic ingenuity; of cunning, sardonic and unrelenting resourcefulness. Yet he is the suave, charming, polished and artistic Devil.
STRAND SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA CARL EDOUARDE Conductor
Overture "Mephistophele".....Boito
Amanda Brown, Soprano
Elaborate Scene Prologue with Sergastchinko Ballet
Strand Topical Review—New Comedy

CENTURY THEATRE
NEXT FRIDAY AT 1:54
ANNUAL BENEFIT ACTORS' FUND
THE GREAT EVENT OF EACH YEAR
NEW PLAYS AND NEW SKETCHES.
Margaret Anglin, Florence Reed, Nora Bayes, May Irwin, Julia Arthur, Helen Ware, Gilda Varesi, Gladys Hanson, Ann Andrews, Roberta Arnold, Claire Eames, Dorothy Donnelly, Janet Velie, Marion Coakley, Ada Mae Weeks, Fred Stone, Julius Tannen, Holbrook Blinn, George M. Cohan, William Faversham, Norman Trevor, Grant Mitchell, Frank Craven, Frank Reicher, Alphons Ethier, Henry Stephenson, Fred Tilden, Frank Bacon, Edmund Breese, Jess Dandy, F. Graham, H. Braham and other artists of "Mary Co.," Lionel Brahm, Lowell Sherman, Fred Truesdell, Charles Judels, Jack C. Marlowe, Savoy and Brennan, Harry C. Browne, Jack McGowan, Louis Hirsh, Ford Dabney artists, 6 Brown Bros., and a great pageant entitled "Ports of the World," with 100 sailors of Navy.
Stage Direction.....Alexander Leftwich
SEATS $1 TO $3.50 (NO WAR TAX)
Management——of——Daniel Frohman

CARNEGIE HALL 57TH ST. & 7th Ave
BURTON HOLMES HIMSELF
TONIGHT AT 8:30
ALSO TOMORROW MAT. at 3
JERUSALEM
Colored Views & MOTION PICTURES
POP. PRICES 50c to $2

CARNEGIE HALL, Friday Eve., Jan. 21st
Pre-Public Subscription Showing
CHARLES CHAPLIN
in the latest of his Million Dollar Comedies
"THE KID"
Written and directed by CHARLES CHAPLIN and POLAN NEGRI in "PASSION"
Courtesy 1st National Associated Exhibitors
MICHIO ITOW
Famous Nipponese Dancer
BENEFIT CHILDREN'S FUND National Board of Review
Prices $2.50 to 75c. (Tax exempt)

F. F. PROCTOR'S
BIG VAUDEVILLE CONCERTS
125th St. Park & Lex. Kiltie Band, Jack Conway & Co., Ray & Emma Dean, Franklin & Dunigan, Anita Stewart in "Harriet Pays The Piper," Others. Cont. 1 to 11.
58th St. Near 3d Av. Berrans, Ryan Sisters & Pierce, The Bird Cabaret, Edwin George, Hughes & Merritt, Anita Stewart, "Harriet Pays The Piper," Others. Cont. 1 to 11.
23d St. Near 6th Av. ANITA STEWART in "Harriet Pays the Piper" & Big Vaudeville. Others. Cont. 1 to 11.
5th Ave. B'y, 28th St. Dugan & Raymond, Renee Roberts, Lydal & Gibson, Bob LaSalle & Co., Sarnoff & Jole, Una Clayton & Co., Glad Moffatt, LaFrance Bros., The Valentenos.
LEXINGTON Thea., Lex. Ave. & 51st St. Plaza 5020. Mts. 2 & 4. Eves. 8:15. Pop. Prices 25c to $1.00.
2ND BIG WEEK
The Photodramatic Spectacle IN THE DAYS OF ST. PATRICK and another exclusive feature IRELAND TODAY
Added Feature
Tom McGranahan's Choristers
Portion of Proceeds for Irish Relief.

THEATRES UNDER DIRECTION OF HUGO RIESENFELD
RIVOLI
BROADWAY at 49th STREET
CONTINUOUS NOON to 11:30 P. M.

ADOLPH ZUKOR Presents
GEORGE FITZMAURICE PRODUCTION
"Paying the Piper"
with DOROTHY DICKSON, ALMA TELL, GEORGE FAWCETT and ROD LA ROQUE
SECOND SERIES—PICTURES OF WILD TRIBES OF EAST AFRICA AND UGANDA BROUGHT BACK BY PARAMOUNT-VANDENBERGH EXPEDITION. DR. VANDENBERGH WILL SPEAK.
RIVOLI CONCERT ORCHESTRA
Frederick Stahlberg and Joseph Litton conducting.

CRITERION Broadway at 44th St.
Second Week—
Cosmopolitan Productions
"The INSIDE of the CUP"
A Paramount Picture
From Winston Churchill's World-Famous Novel
Continuous Noon to 11:30 P. M.

RIALTO Times Square
CONSTANCE BINNEY in "SOMETHING DIFFERENT"
Paramount-Sennett Comedy "A Bungalow Trouble"
Famous Rialto Orchestra
Hugo Riesenfeld and Lion Vanderheim conducting

CARNEGIE HALL, SAT. EVE., JAN. 29TH, AT 8:15
CHALIF DANCERS
In a Program of Mr. Chalif's Compositions.
GREEK (Interpretive) CLASSICAL (Ballet)
NATIONAL (and Folk) CHARACTER DANCING
ORIENTAL
Tickets $2.75 to 55 Cents. Boxes $19.80 and $18.20.
On Sale Now at CHALIF SCHOOL OF DANCING, 163 WEST 57th ST. (OPP. CARNEGIE HALL).

Loew's New York Theatre and Roof
Cont. 11 A. M. to 11 P. M. Roof to 1 A. M.
WM. S. HART, "The Tattoo Man."
"ICELAND" ICE SKATING
BROADWAY-52D ST. ADMISSION 75c.

BROADHURST 44th St., W. of B'way. Twice Daily 2:20 & 8:20. MATINEE TODAY AT 2.
WILLIAM FOX Presents OVER THE HILL
By Will Carleton. Directed by Harry Millarde.

MUSIC

THE CHILDREN OF SCHUMANN

By RICHARD ALDRICH.

TWO unmarried daughters of Robert and Clara Schumann, Marie and Eugenie, now old ladies, are living in Switzerland in penury and actual want, due in large measure to the results of the war. Friends in England have discovered their plight and wish to help them and hope that American friends will join in doing so. It will need only a comparatively few five-dollar bills to put these aged daughters of two great artists beyond want for the short remainder of their lives.

Perhaps some who are grateful for pleasure derived from songs, piano pieces, chamber music and symphonies of deathless beauty; for a strong and fine influence on the course of modern art; for two artistic careers simply and nobly lived and touched with tragedy, will consign small tokens of their gratitude to Mrs. Stanford White, 24 East Eighty-fourth Street, New York, who will send them to their destination.

***

Robert and Clara Schumann, whose marriage in 1840 was the culmination of a romantic struggle of several years' duration, had eight children, of whom seven grew up. They do not cut much figure in the biographies of the master, but readers of the correspondence, and especially of the biography and correspondence of Frau Clara Schumann, will gain some knowledge of how far these children entered into the lives of both and how the fate of several deepened and intensified the tragic aureole that hung around the lives of both Robert and Clara, but especially of Clara. She had much to bear in the premature death of her husband, and later more in the sadly tangled and suddenly snapped strands of her children's destinies.

These children had a physical and mental inheritance that would make a modern pathologist shake his head. Robert Schumann, the father, died in an insane asylum after a couple of years' struggle with a mental malady that he had inherited and that to physicians of the present day who have studied the reports of his case seems to have been what is called "dementia praecox."

As readers of the Schumann biographies remember, and as some will know from personal knowledge, Clara Schumann was a pianist when she married in 1840, and kept up her career as a solo performer, in which she became one of the most distinguished and most admired of her time, till nearly the end of her life, in 1896, at the age of 77. Her children, during this career as a virtuoso, were alternately a blessing and a burden to her.

Both of the two old ladies mentioned above played the piano. One of them, Eugenie, became a music teacher in a somewhat modest way, spending the later years of her life in London. Marie, the eldest child, born in 1841, passed much of her life as the companion and helper of her mother. Eugenie, the sixth of the children who grew up, and the fourth daughter, was born in 1851. She never gained a very conspicuous place in her art, but her mother at one time had some expectations for her as a pianist, and expressed the hope that the Schumann tradition would be handed down through her. She wrote in her diary in 1882, at Frankfort:

"I have Marie and Eugenie play for me on Sundays. It is wrong for me not to take pains with them when they play so nicely, and have such a subtle understanding. I have no such pupils as these two. I am troubled that I am always a hindrance to them. Nobody knows what they can do, since they never play when I am by."

In 1895 she wrote: "Eugenie played to me several times. Every time I hear her I find her a riper artist; if only she were not so physically frail!" Joachim played with her a few times in London on semi-public occasions; but her life there was spent mostly in the drudgery of teaching.

Marie, the eldest child, was for many years her mother's companion and attendant, often going with her on her numerous concert tours. It is obvious that music cannot be kept up under such circumstances.

Of all the children the three sons caused the mother the greatest anxiety. It is clear enough now that they had what is considered a "bad inheritance" physically and mentally. When the father died in 1856, Ludwig was 8 years old, Ferdinand was 7, and Felix, who never saw his father, 2. They were all separated when the time came for them to go to school. Clara Schumann was constantly engaged on concert tours and unable to give them such a family life as she would have liked to. Ludwig and Ferdinand were sent to school first in Berlin, then Ludwig in Karlsruhe.

When Ludwig's schooling was finished, he was put into the book trade, to follow in his grandfather Schumann's footsteps. He was dissatisfied with it, and wished to go into the music trade. He was hard to get along with and changed his positions frequently. His relations with his family were unsatisfactory in his adolescent days and his mother became quite out of patience with him till she was convinced by a friend that he was mentally abnormal. Then she naturally changed her attitude toward him and gave a freer play to his inclinations, which seemed to turn toward music.

But it became clear that he had neither ear nor rhythmic sense, and his attempts at composition were so extremely bad that his mother was again much disturbed. The conclusion finally became unavoidable that he was incurably insane. He was sent to one asylum after another till death released him.

Ferdinand, the next to the youngest of the children, born in 1849, was a "reasonably satisfactory child." He was put into business, and through the influence of the Mendelssohn family in Berlin got a place in an important house in that city and did well there. He surprised his mother with the news of his engagement very young; married and had children. In the Franco-Prussian War he served in the army and returned unscathed. Unfortunately, he seems to have become a victim of the morphine habit, whereby his health was entirely undermined, so that the support of his children fell upon Clara's shoulders. He, too, had to be sent to sanatoriums, in one of which, after a depressing illness, he died in 1891.

"That leaves me only one son," wrote Mme. Schumann sadly to Joachim in announcing this loss, "whom we can only consider as in a living death." This was Felix, the youngest child, and perhaps the greatest grief of all to the much-tried mother. As a boy he made a poor showing at school and his mother's letters to him—she hoped he would become a scholar—are full of reproaches. She was much distressed when, at the age of 13, he announced his strong desire to become a violinist. A touching letter from her is preserved in which she points out the heavy burden that would rest on him as the son of Robert Schumann if he became a musician. She writes in 1867, thus:

"Your grandmother and Ferdinand write me that you are going about with the idea of becoming a violinist; that would be a grave step, more serious than you can realize. If you are not a distinguished violinist, no matter how clever, you will have a burdensome part to play as the son of Robert Schumann. As I say, you can live up to your name only if you develop really important genius as a musician, and, thus endowed, study with enormous industry.

"Fully as I am convinced that you with your talent can give yourself and others pleasure as an amateur (though even that will require hard work), I do not at all believe that you have such a gift as is required for high artistic rank."

Joachim was called in to decide and in accordance with his decision it was determined that Felix should finish his high school course and not pay too much attention to music, especially as his constitution appeared to be not of the strongest.

As a matter of fact, Felix developed considerable talent as a poet. It was shown in various productions he contributed to home festivals at Christmastide and at other times. And he tasted of immortality in the fact that three of his poems were chosen by Brahms for songs—one of them being one of the finest and most popular of his compositions, "Meine Liebe ist grün." This, and the one next following it in the "Lieder und Gesänge," Op. 63 (Nos. 5 and 6, grouped together as "Junge Lieder"), are marked only with the initials "F. S." The second is much less well known. The song entitled "Versunken," No. 5 in Op. 86, is signed with Felix Schumann's name in full.

The young man's lungs were attacked. He, too, had to spend his last years in sanatoriums and health resorts. He came home to his mother's house in Frankfort in the last stages of tuberculosis and died there in his sister's arms in February, 1879, 25 years old.

Julie, the third daughter, was also a source of anxiety to her mother on account of her delicate health. She was sent to Divonne, a French health resort, for a cure in 1868, and there she met the Italian Count Radicati di Marmorito and lost her heart to him. Mme. Schumann—who cannot be blamed, in her long life of trials and griefs, for taking some things harder than may seem to others absolutely necessary—was distressed.

Marmorito was an Italian and a Catholic. She could hardly speak a word to him, she says in one of her letters, because of the language barrier between them. Nor was the Count's family favorably disposed to the match. But difficulties and objections were overcome and the twain were married the next year.

This marriage had one result unexpected and perplexing to Frau Schumann. Ever since his first acquaintance with Robert Schumann, Johannes Brahms had been an intimate friend of the family, and especially since Schumann's death had he been a help and a dependence for the widow. When news of Julie's engagement arrived, he suddenly became gloomy and silent. Max Kalbeck, in his life of Brahms in four very large volumes, says that there is nothing in the suggestion that Brahms was hard hit by Julie Schumann's engagement. But Clara Schumann thought differently. She wrote to a friend thus:

"Johannes, from the moment that I told him the news of Julie's engagement, was entirely changed; he overcame it in a fortnight or so, but he hardly says a thing to Julie, though formerly he had many words and glances for her. Levi told me a few days ago that Brahms was head over ears in love with Julie."

Julie's happiness, however, in Italy was not for long. She died in November, 1872, after little more than three years of married life, leaving Count Marmorito with a boy, and putting one more grief upon the mother so frequently stricken with grief.

There was one more child, a daughter, Elise, born in 1843, who took up the study of the piano, and began teaching in Frankfort. She made a début in public in that city with her mother and Joachim in 1865. According to the mother's report, it was brilliant and everything went "wunderschön," and brought immense applause. But the career of a German Hausfrau and not of an artist was her destiny. In 1877 she married Louis Sommerhoff, whom Frau Clara reports as "a very charming, excellent man from America. He is a merchant well situated there, and hopes in a few years to be able to return to Europe."

CONCERTS OF THE WEEK.

16—Friends of Music, afternoon, Aeolian Hall.
16—Philharmonic Society, afternoon, Carnegie Hall.
16—Josef Rosenblatt, tenor, afternoon, Hippodrome.
16—Lucile Kellogg, soprano, afternoon, Princess.
16—Scala Orchestra, evening, Hippodrome.
16—Thibaud and others, evening, Metropolitan.
16—Zimro Ensemble, evening, Cooper Union.
17—Maurice Reeve, piano, afternoon, Aeolian Hall.
17—Issay Mitnitzky, violin, evening, Carnegie Hall.
17—Schumann Club, evening, Aeolian Hall.
18—Thanis, dances, afternoon, Carnegie Hall.
18—Arthur Shattuck, piano, afternoon, Aeolian Hall.
18—Poldowski, composer, afternoon, Princess.
18—Serge Rachmaninoff, piano, evening, Carnegie Hall.
18—Flonzaley Quartet, evening, Aeolian Hall.
19—Isolde Menges, violin, afternoon, Aeolian Hall.
20—National Symphony, afternoon, Carnegie Hall.
20—Hambourg Trio, afternoon, Aeolian Hall.
20—Philharmonic Society, evening, Carnegie Hall.
20—Singers' Club, evening, Aeolian Hall.
21—Philharmonic Society, afternoon, Carnegie Hall.
21—Rudolph Ganz, piano, evening, Aeolian Hall.
22—Efrem Zimbalist, violin, afternoon, Carnegie Hall.
22—Helen Stanley and others, afternoon, Aeolian Hall.
22—National Symphony, evening, Carnegie Hall.
22—Daisy Jean, 'cello, evening, Aeolian Hall.
22—Mannes Orchestra, evening, Metropolitan Museum.

CURRENT MUSIC EVENTS

THE Chorus of the Friends of Music will appear for the first time in a concert of that organization this afternoon at Aeolian Hall. A group of singers has rehearsed under Stephen Townsend of Boston, and will be heard in Brahms's "Nänie."

Artur Bodanzky, who directs the concert, will also present Spohr's overture to "Jessonda," a new "concertino" for clarinet and small orchestra by Busoni, with the solo part played by A. Chiaffarelli, and a new "Grottesco" by Malipiero.

The Philharmonic Society this afternoon at Carnegie Hall gives an all-Wagner program entirely different from that which opened the Sunday series. Josef Stransky will conduct excerpts from five music dramas and the "Faust" overture.

Toscanini at the Hippodrome tonight will conduct Rossini's overture to "The Barber," Dvorak's symphony "From the New World," Sabata's "Juventus," Wagner's Good Friday music from "Parsifal," and Berlioz's "Rakoczy" march from "The Damnation of Faust."

Willem Mengelberg's all-Beethoven program with the National Symphony on Thursday afternoon and Saturday evening in Carnegie Hall will comprise both the first and seventh symphonies, while between these will be Beethoven's pianoforte concerto No. 3, in C minor, with Mischa Levitzki.

Josef Stransky will present Mahler's symphony No. 1 and Mendelssohn's "Fingal's Cave" overture on Thursday night in Carnegie Hall, when Leo Schulz will play Schumann's 'cello concerto with the Philharmonic Orchestra.

Henry Hadley at the Philharmonic matinee on Friday will conduct a revival of his first symphony, "Youth and Life," while Mr. Stransky will lead Strauss's "Till Eulenspiegel," Dvorak's "Carnival" overture and Saint-Saëns's C minor concerto, with a young American pianist, Ellen Ballon.

David Mannes's third free program at the Metropolitan Art Museum on Saturday night will include parts of Dvorak's "New World" symphony, excerpts from Gounod's "Faust," Wagner's introduction and finale from "Tristan," Schumann's "Traumerei" and others of Bach, Beethoven, Berlioz, Goldmark and Mendelssohn.

OTHER ORCHESTRA BILLS.

Ignaz Friedman will appear with the National Symphony on Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday evening, Jan. 23 and 26, in Carnegie Hall, when Mr. Mengelberg's program includes Ravel's "Rhapsodie Espagnole," Chopin's pianoforte concerto in E minor, Op. 11, and the Fifth Symphony of Tschaikovsky.

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra is to give a second concert at Carnegie Hall on Wednesday evening, Feb. 2, when Mischa Levitzki will be the pianist in Saint-Saëns's G minor concerto, the orchestra playing Beethoven's "Leonora" overture No. 3, the "Scotch" symphony of Mendelssohn, and Wagner's prelude and finale from "Tristan."

Ossip Gabrilowitsch, for several years conductor of the Detroit Orchestra, has signed a contract to head the organization for another two years, it was announced recently in Detroit. The announcement set at rest rumors that Mr. Gabrilowitsch might be called to lead orchestras in Boston or New York.

CHICAGO ORCHESTRA TOUR.

The Chicago Orchestra in its Eastern tour will play on Monday, Jan. 24, at Symphony Hall, Boston, and on Tuesday evening at Carnegie Hall, New York. The further concerts on successive days are scheduled at the Philadelphia Academy of Music and the National Theatre, Washington. Founded by Theodore Thomas in 1891, and for many years known by his name, the orchestra is said to be the third oldest symphony organization in the United States.

Since 1904 it has owned its own home, Orchestra Hall, built by popular subscription, and now valued at $2,000,000. The hall seats 2,583 persons. Rentals from offices in the building, together with receipts from the concerts, meet all expenses of what is possibly the only self-supporting orchestra in the world.

Six series of concerts are held each season, over ninety events in all, including twenty-eight pairs on Friday afternoons and Saturday evenings, eight programs at the University of Chicago, thirteen popular concerts, seven matinees for younger listeners and a recently added series of six for children. There are also annual series of ten concerts in Milwaukee and three in Aurora, Ill.

"The Orchestral Association," says its announcement, "controls the affairs of the organization; this is composed of forty members, but there is no financial obligation of any kind upon them. In this respect the orchestra is unique; its support has never been the pet hobby of any one wealthy citizen."

Frederick Stock's program for the Chicago Orchestra's concert on Jan. 25 in Carnegie Hall comprises Brahms's Third Symphony, Tschaikovsky's "Francesca," Wagner's finale from "Tristan" and "The Garden of Fand" by Arnold Bax.

CHAMBER MUSIC.

The Flonzaley Quartet's second concert on Tuesday evening at Aeolian Hall will comprise Brahms's quartet in C minor, op. 51, No. 1; a "Serenade Dramatique" by Joseph Jongen, and the quartet in F, op. 59, No. 1, of Beethoven.

The Hambourg Trio on Thursday afternoon in Aeolian Hall will play Schumann's trio in F, op. 80, and a new trio in one movement by John Ireland. J. Campbell McInnes, baritone, will sing Schumann's cycle, "Poet's Love."

Franck's F sharp minor trio, A major sonata for violin, several piano works and songs will be presented at an Aeolian matinee on Saturday by Samuel Gardner, Emmeran Stoeber, Ernest Hutcheson and Helen Stanley.

NEW IN RECITALS.

Maurice Reeve, an English pianist, who appeared in London as a child, makes his début here tomorrow at Aeolian Hall. He is now 23 years old and he served in the war, being wounded at St. Quentin in 1917.

Issay Mitnitzky, a Russian violinist, appearing tomorrow night in Carnegie Hall, is a native of Kiev who studied in Berlin and has played there and in Vienna. He specializes in the works of Paganini.

BROOKLYN MUSIC.

The Hambourg Trio gives a concert of chamber music this afternoon at the Brooklyn Academy, with Alberto Guerrero and J. C. McInnes.

Carl G. Schmitt will play Dunn's "Pilgrim Suite" at the Girls' High School today, and Neira Riegger will sing negro spirituals by Burleigh.

The New York Symphony Orchestra on Saturday will give Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" music at the Academy, assisted by David Bispham.

FREE TO THE PUBLIC.

Samuel Baldwin, at the City College this afternoon, will play organ pieces by Bach, Wagner, Debussy and Rachmaninoff.

W. A. Goldsworthy gives an organ recital at Washington Irving High School today, assisted by Florence Bryant in the "Tabourin Chinois" of Kreisler.

Shomer Rothenberg, soprano, and the Zimro Ensemble will appear at Cooper Union this evening in a program of Hebrew music.

VARIOUS MUSIC EVENTS.

The "Erminie" chorus, recruited from ambitious opera aspirants, will give a concert this evening at the Biltmore.

Willem Mengelberg will be entertained by Hollanders here at a reception tomorrow afternoon at the Ritz-Carlton.

Mischa Levitzki, Isolde Menges, Nina Morgana and José Mardones appear at the sixth Biltmore morning musicale on Friday.

A TRIBUTE TO BODANZKY.

WITH the start of Willem Mengelberg's term as guest conductor of the National Symphony, the governing board of that organization recently paid a timely tribute to the conductor of its previous concerts for the greater part of three seasons, Arthur Bodanzky. "The Directors feel," said their statement, "that the presence at the head of their orchestra of two of the greatest conductors in the world will establish New York as the musical mecca of concert-goers, as it is now of opera.

"The situation has been made possible," they added, "by the close association existing with the Metropolitan opera, where Mr. Bodanzky is now fully occupied with preparations for the coming English revival of 'Lohengrin.'"

The musical activities of Mr. Bodanzky in America are well known, but the statement recalled some facts less familiar as to his record abroad, where he achieved a position rarely if ever attained by a conductor in so short a time. His first engagement as conductor was in 1900 at Budweiss, Bohemia, when he was only 23 years old. In 1901 he went as an operatic conductor to Petrograd.

Bodanzky, two years later, conducted the first performance of "Les Chauves-Soures" in Paris. The next three years he directed the Royal Opera at Prague, and also conducted the Philharmonic concerts there. Thereafter he conducted in Milan, Rome, Moscow, Brussels, Cologne, Vienna, Munich and Mannheim, and in 1914 he led the first performance of "Parsifal" in England.

NATIONAL SYMPHONY
MENGELBERG CONDUCTING
CARNEGIE HALL Thurs. Aft., Jan. 20, at 2:30. Sat. Eve., Jan. 22, at 8:15. SOLOIST
BEETHOVEN PROGRAM
Overture, "Egmont" C minor Concerto Seventh Symphony
MISCHA SOLOIST
LEVITSKI
Tues. Aft., Jan. 25. Wed. Eve., Jan. 26
FRIEDMAN Pianist
Soloist
Tickets at Box Office, $2.50 to 50 Cents. S. E. Macmillen, Manager, 25 W. 42d St. THE KNABE IS THE OFFICIAL PIANO.

Three Programs of Romantic Music by Alfred Cortot
SATURDAYS AT THREE O'CLOCK
Jan. 22—Chopin.
Feb. 12—Schumann.
Feb. 19—Cesar Franck—Debussy—Liszt.
In the Recital Hall of David Mannes Music School,
157 East Seventy-fourth Street.
Subscriptions $8.00.
Seating Capacity Limited to 250.

HIPPODROME, Sun. Eve., Jan. 23.
Return Engagement Popular Demand
TETRAZZINI
Tickets $1.00 to $2.50 (10% War Tax). Box Office. Mgt. S. HUROK'S Musical Bureau (Hardman).

AEOLIAN HALL, Tues. Eve., Jan. 23, at 8:15.
LETZ QUARTET
Malipiero, Schubert, Brahms, Quartet Op. 26
MISCHA LEVITZKI, Assisting Artist.
Tickets at Box Office & Miss Helen Love, 1 W. 34.

Josef Hofmann Today
his artistic career at its height—playing with the perfection which only maturity can bring, is Recording Exclusively for the DUO-ART Reproducing Piano

You are invited to visit Aeolian Hall to hear Hofmann's recordings on this wonderful instrument.
The AEOLIAN COMPANY
Aeolian Hall New York

WOLFSOHN MUSICAL BUREAU & MUSICAL LEAGUE OF AMERICA announce
N. Y. HIPPODROME—THIS AFTERNOON AT 3
JOSEF ROSENBLATT
Assisted by the CANTOR'S ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA
First Appearance in America. The Bohemian Trio (Steinway Piano).
CARNEGIE HALL, SAT. AFTERNOON, JAN. 22, AT 2:30
EFREM ZIMBALIST
2D VIOLIN RECITAL. Seats at Box Office. (Steinway Piano)
PRINCESS THEA., TUES. AFT., Jan. 18, at 3:30
COMPOSER'S CONCERT
POLDOWSKI
ASSISTED BY Margaret Carrington (Steinway Piano.)
AEOLIAN HALL, TOM'W AFT., JAN. 17, at 3
AMERICAN DEBUT
MAURICE REEVE
PIANO RECITAL (Steinway Piano)
AEOLIAN HALL, MON. AFT., Jan. 24, at 3.
KNIGHT MacGREGOR
SONG RECITAL. (Mason & Hamlin)
CARNEGIE HALL, TUES. EVENING, JAN. 25, AT 8:15.
Chicago Symphony Orchestra
(Founded by Theodore Thomas in 1891). FREDERICK STOCK, Conductor.
Program: Symphony No. 3, F Major, Brahms; Fantasia "Francesca da Rimini," Tschaikowsky; Symphonic Poem, "The Garden of Fand," Bax; Prelude and Isolde's Love Death, from "Tristan and Isolde," Wagner.
CARNEGIE HALL, SUN. AFTERNOON, FEB. 6, AT 3.
JOSEF HOFMANN
PIANO RECITAL. ALL CHOPIN PROGRAM. (Steinway Piano) SEATS AT BOX OFFICE

Loudon Charlton Announces
HIPPODROME TO-NIGHT AT 8:15
ANOTHER EXTRA CONCERT
TOSCANINI
and LA SCALA ORCHESTRA
Under the Auspices of the Society for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis.
Sale of Boxes and Orchestra Seats at St. Regis Hotel.
Balcony and Family Circle $1.10 to $2.20. Mail Orders NOW.

AEOLIAN HALL, Tues. Aft., Jan. 18, at 3
Piano Recital by ARTHUR
SHATTUCK
Steinway Piano.
AEOLIAN HALL, Tues. Eve., Jan. 18, at 8:15
Second Subscription Concert
FLONZALEY Quartet
17th Season.
AEOLIAN HALL, SATURDAY AFTERNOON, JANUARY 22, AT 3.
CESAR FRANK PROGRAM
Mme. STANLEY Samuel GARDNER
Mason & Hamlin Piano.
Ernest HUTCHESON Emmeran STOEBER
Steinway Piano.
CARNEGIE HALL, Mon. Eve., Jan. 24, at 8:15
Piano Recital by ALFRED
CORTOT
Steinway Piano.
AEOLIAN HALL, SAT. EVE., JAN. 29, AT 8:15
Piano Recital by MARGUERITE
VOLAVY
Steinway Piano.
Aeolian Hall, Wednesday Afternoon, January 26, at 3.
FIRST SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT
32 BEETHOVEN PIANO SONATAS PLAYED BY
Mme. OLGA SAMAROFF
Leopold STOKOWSKI will lecture at the 1st, 4th, 7th Concerts
Mail Orders Loudon Charlton, Carnegie Hall. (Circle 2136). Steinway Piano.

THE METROPOLITAN MUSICAL BUREAU ANNOUNCES
Wed. Aft. AT 2:30, JAN. 26th.
CARNEGIE HALL
AMERICAN DEBUT OF ERIKA
MORINI
VIOLINIST
SEATS 75c TO $2, AT BOX OFFICE NOW.
Sat. Aft. AT 3, JAN. 29th.
AEOLIAN HALL
SECOND PIANOFORTE RECITAL BY HAROLD BAUER
Seats 75c to $2, at Box Office Now. Mason & Hamlin Piano.

AEOLIAN HALL
Feb. 2, Wed. Aft.
Byrd
PIANIST
Next Fuerstman Concert Joint Recital LOUISE HOMER AND DAUGHTER
Newark Armory, Mon. Ev'g, Jan. 24
Mail Orders Now—Fuerstman's
836 Broad St., Newark. Phone Mkt. 3000

AEOLIAN HALL, MON. EVE., JAN. 24, at 8:15
VIOLIN RECITAL BY RUDOLPH
POLK
Mgt. Haensel & Jones. Mason & Hamlin Piano.
AEOLIAN HALL, THURS. EVE., JAN. 27, at 8:15
SONG RECITAL BY GRACE
KERNS
Mgt. Haensel & Jones. Mason & Hamlin Piano.
CARNEGIE HALL, TOM'W EVE. AT 8:15
MITNITZKY
RUSSIAN VIOLINIST (American Debut)
Mgt. Roger de Bruyn. Baldwin Piano.

METROPOLITAN OPERA HOUSE
MON. at 8:15. MANON LESCAUT. Martinelli, Scotti, Malatesta, Bada—Vix.
WED. at 8:15. TOSCA. Farrar; Ulis. Braun, Middleton, Amanian, Bada—Montesanto.
THUR. S. CLEOPATRA'S NIGHT. Ada. Gordon; Klinedinst, Paul. DING of DON. Garrison, Gordon, Gall; Diaz, Didur, Bada—Rasaza, Simonelli, De Luca, Meader—Dolmetsch.
FRI. at 8:15. ONEGIN. Muzio, Perini; Martinelli, De Luca, Meader—Dolmetsch.
SAT. at 2. LUCIA. Garrison, Borgi; Egner, Danise, Mardones—Papi.
SAT., S. Special Per'ce. ZAZA. Farrar, Bernard, Kenney; Crimi, De Luca, Bada—Montesanto.
THURS., JAN. 27, MAT. at 2 to 5. AIDA. Rappold, Matzenauer; Crimi, Danise, Bada—Gentilini—Papi. Seats Now.
TO-NIGHT CONCERT at 8:30. Tix at 75.
JACQUES THIBAUD VIOLINIST
Garrison, Soprano. Mardones, Bass. Picco, Harpist.
ENTIRE ORCHESTRA. COND. BAMBOSCHEK.
HARDMAN PIANO USED.

MANHATTAN OPERA HOUSE
6 WEEKS. COM. MON., JAN. 31
CHICAGO OPERA CO.
HERBERT M. JOHNSON, Executive Director
MON. "NORMA." Raisa, Rosaldi, Lamont, Lazzari; Cond. Marinuzzi.
TUES. "NORMA." Galli-Curci, Muratore, Baklanoff; Cond. Moranzoni.
WED. "LE CHEMINEAU." Gall, Defrance, Baklanoff, Ostrezil; Cond. Moranzoni.
THURS. "JEWELS OF MADONNA." Raisa, Lamont, Rimini; Oukrainsky; Cond. Cimini.
FRI. "JACQUERIE." Gall, Carsen, Johnson, Galeffi; Cond. Marinuzzi.
SAT., 2 P. M. "CARMEN." Garden, Macbeth, Muratore, Baklanoff; Favier, Scotti, Rainey; Cond. Marinuzzi.
SAT., 8 P. M. "RIGOLETTO." Madeira, Schipa, Ruffo; Cond. Marinuzzi.
BOX OFFICE OPENS TOMORROW

NEW YORK SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA
WALTER DAMROSCH.....Conductor
Aeolian Hall, Next Sun. Aft., Jan. 23
Soloist: E. ROBERT SCHMITZ
CHAUSSON, Symphony; SCHUMANN, Piano Concerto (first time in New York); BRAHMS, Academic Overture.
Historical Cycle at Carnegie Hall Thurs. Aft., Jan. 27. Fri. Eve., Jan. 28.
BRAHMS PROGRAM
KREISLER
Soloist
Tickets at Box Offices. GEO. ENGLES, Mgr.

PHILHARMONIC
CARNEGIE HALL, THIS AFTERNOON AT 3
STRANSKY Conducting
WAGNER PROGRAMME
Thursday Eve. at 8:30
Assisting Artist, LEO SCHULZ
MAHLER SYMPHONY NO. 1
Friday Afternoon at 2:30
Assisting Artist, ELLEN BALLON, Pianist.
HADLEY SYMPHONY NO. 1
Conducted by the composer
"TILL EULENSPIEGEL"
Felix F. Leifels, Manager.

AEOLIAN HALL, THURSDAY AFTERNOON, JANUARY 20, AT 3
Hambourg Trio with J. Campbell McInnes, Baritone
AEOLIAN HALL, Thurs. Aft., Jan. 27, at 3:15
Piano Recital JUAN REYES
AEOLIAN HALL, Fri. Eve., Feb. 4, at 8:15
Piano Recital HARRIET SCHOLDER
CARNEGIE HALL, WEDNESDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 2, AT 8:15.
DETROIT SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA
OSSIP GABRILOWITSCH..... CONDUCTOR
SOLOIST MISCHA LEVITZKI
MANAGEMENT DANIEL MAYER Steinway Piano.

Lee Keedick Presents
GILBERT K.
CHESTERTON
for a Series of three lectures at Times Square Theatre.
Tonight at 8:30: "The Ignorance of the Educated."
Friday Mat., Jan. 21, at 3:30: "Shall We Abolish the Inevitable?"
Sunday Eve., Jan. 23, at 8:30: "The Perils of Health."
Single Tickets at Box Office, or office of Lee Keedick, 437 5th Ave.

AEOLIAN HALL, FRIDAY AFT., JAN. 28, AT 3.
Only appearance of the World's Greatest Woman Violinist
KATHLEEN PARLOW
Seats now on sale at Box Office, 50c to $2.
Management ELWYN CONCERT BUREAU, 52 W. 39th St.

SIXTH BILTMORE FRIDAY MORNING MUSICALE
Grand Ballroom Hotel Biltmore, Jan. 21, at 11.
NINA MORGANA MISCHA LEVITZKI ISOLDE MENGES JOSE MARDONES
Tickets at Biltmore Box Office (Balcony Floor). Mgt. R. E. JOHNSTON. Knabe Piano.

GANZ
AEOLIAN HALL
FRI. EV., JAN. 21, PIANO RECITAL
Mgt. Chas. L. Wagner, D. F. McSweeney, Associate. Steinway Piano Used. Duo Art Rolls. Pathe Records.

CARNEGIE HALL, TUES. EVG., AT 8:15, Jan. 18
CONCERT OF MUSIC FOR PIANO
Rachmaninoff
TICKETS NOW AT BOX OFFICE
Direction C. J. Foley. Steinway Piano.

OPERA TICKETS 4188-9 FITZROY
Chicago & Metropolitan Seats Now On Sale For All Performances.
Jacob's Theatre Ticket Office Normandie Hotel, B'way & 38th St.

CHALIF
Russian School of DANCING

GRADED CLASSES and private lessons for children, adults and teachers, in Greek, Interpretive, National, Classic, Character and Toe Dancing. Personal instruction by Mr. Chalif. MODERN DANCING in its latest forms can be learned in private and class lessons.
Please send for catalog.
Three beautiful studios are available for Concerts, Recitals and Lectures.
163-165 West 57th Street,
Opposite Carnegie Hall. Phone Circle 1827.

AEOLIAN HALL, THIS AFTERNOON AT 3
Friends of Music
Chorus of the Friends of Music (First Time) and Orchestra directed by ARTUR BODANZKY
SPOHR, Overture to Jessonda; BUSONI, Concertino for Clarinet (1st time); MALIPIERO, Grottesco (1st time); BRAHMS, Nanie.
TICKETS AT BOX OFFICE.

AEOLIAN HALL, MON. EVE., JAN. 17, at 8:15
CHORAL SONG RECITAL
SCHUMANN CLUB
PERCY RECTOR STEPHENS, Conductor.
Tkts. $2.20, $1.65, $1.10, $.55. Boxes $16.50, incl. tax. NOW ON SALE.

AEOLIAN HALL, WED. AFT., JAN. 19, at 3
Violin Recital
ISOLDE MENGES
Mgt. R. E. Johnston. Tickets at Box Office.

TIMES SQ. THEATRE, THIS AFTERNOON AT 3
Dramatic Song Recital by LUCILE
KELLOGG
Mason & Hamlin Piano. Mgt. John Dodge.

AEOLIAN HALL, TUES. AFT., JAN. 25, at 3
Song Recital
Eleanor Reynolds
Assisted by Conrad V. Bos.
Mgt. Annie Friedberg. Steinway Piano.

The Chalif Ballrooms
OFFER a delightfully dignified and gracious setting for recitals, balls, banquets and exclusive gatherings of all kinds. The rooms are beautifully planned and decorated, and fitted with every appointment for comfort.
Open for Bookings.
LOUIS H. CHALIF, Inc.
163 West 57th Street
Opposite Carnegie Hall, N. Y.
Phone Circle 1827.

MUSIC

A WOMAN IMPRESARIO

Continued

STARTING one week from tomorrow night, the Chicago Opera Association has announced its fourth season of opera in New York, the visit being extended to six weeks, and the large subscription transferred from the Lexington to the Manhattan Opera House. The tour is under the direction of the world's first woman director of a "major league" opera company, who was elected in Chicago last Thursday, and whose name is Mary Garden.

Telegraphed announcements of Herbert M. Johnson's withdrawal as manager hailed his successor as "an American." There has been confusion as to Miss Garden's actual citizenship, on which the authority of a critic, James Huneker, in his volume called "Bedouins," may be cited as final when he says: "And she is ours. Despite her Scottish birth, she has remained invincibly Yankee. Despite long residence in her beloved Paris, the resilience, dynamic, overflowing and proud spirit that informs her art and character, are American or nothing. She is Our Mary. Miss Garden may not emphasize her American side, but it is the very skeleton of her artistic organism."

Miss Garden's stipulations as to appointment of a business manager were yet to be announced when this section of THE TIMES went to press, but her own concert manager was among those mentioned as probabilities for the place. She herself as director succeds to "a house swept and garnished," for whatever its future the Chicago organization has been handled by Mr. Johnson with shrewd business judgment on behalf of the chief guarantor, Harold F. McCormick, and his plans are expected to "carry on" to the end of the season.

Particular significance attaches to the removal to the Manhattan, according to the company's prospectus, "because of the vastly improved facilities for presenting grand opera there, the greater comfort afforded by its spacious seats, especially made for operatic enjoyment, and also because of the accessibility of the Manhattan Opera House to all parts of New York and its environs."

Novelties promised by the visitors include Conductor Marinuzzi's "Jacquerie," to be heard in the first week, and "Edipus Rex," by the late Leoncavallo. Contemplated revivals are Strauss's "Salome" and Delibes's "Lakmé" in French, and in Italian the "Orpheus" of Gluck, Donizetti's "Favorita," Verdi's "Otello" and, it is hoped, also "Falstaff," as well as Wolf-Ferrari's "Jewels of the Madonna."

New singers are Olga Carrara, Elsa Diemer, Dorothy Francis, Marcelle Goudard and Rosina Storchio, sopranos; Besanzoni, Philine Falco, Rose Gannon, Frances Paperte and Carmen Pascova, contraltos; Joseph Hislop, Riccardo Martin and Albert Palliard, tenors; Sallustio Cival, baritone, and Carl Ritterl and Teofilo Dentale, basses. New conductors are Pietro Cimini, Henri Morin and Gabriel Santini.

Artists reappearing from former seasons are Mary Garden, Galli-Curci, Yvonne Gall, Raisa, Macbeth, Van Gordon, Bonci, Edward Johnson, Lamont, Muratore, Schipa, Baklanoff, Dufranne, Galeffi, Ruffo, Cotreuil and Virgilio Lazzari, with others to a total of about fifty names. Pavley and Oukrainsky will have charge of the ballet.

Operas of the opening week have already been announced, and are, in the order of time beginning Jan. 24, Bellini's "Norma" with Raisa, Fevrier's "Monna Vanna" with Garden, Leroux's "Le Chemineau," a welcome revival from two years ago, and thereafter "The Jewels," "Jacquerie," "Carmen," and "Rigoletto."

METROPOLITAN OPERA.

FIRST times of "Eugene Onyegin" and "Cleopatra's Night" will mark the Metropolitan's tenth week, which is also the last before "double opera" in New York. Henry Hadley's work has the honor of a hearing in the second season here on Thursday, when the singers are Alda, Tiffany, Gordon, Kingston, Reschiglian and Audisio, Papi conducting. It will be followed by the popular "Coq d'Or."

Tchaikovsky's "Eugene Onyegin" will be restored on Friday evening with last year's cast, including Muzio, Perini, Gordon and Howard, Martinelli, de Luca, Didur, Bada, d'Angelo and Picco, conducted by Bodanzky.

Other operas of the tenth week are "Manon Lescaut," tomorrow, with Alda and Martinelli; "Tosca" on Wednesday, with Farrar, Gigli and Scotti; "Lucia" with Garrison, Gigli and Danise, at the Saturday matinee, and "Zaza" with Farrar on Saturday night for the French Hospital.

Jacques Thibaud will play Saint-Saëns's violin concerto at tonight's opera concert, when there are airs for Garrison from "The Barber," for Mardones from "Les Huguenots" and for Millo Picco from "Le Roi de Lahore."

A POLLY WITH A PAST.

Emma Nevada is said to have been the teacher of Sylvia Nelis, the Polly Peachum of both London and New York revivals of "The Beggar's Opera," now current here as originally it was 170 years ago. Miss Nelis, while new to America, was once before announced to appear, when, as an unknown English soprano, she was engaged for the Aborn company in its final season at the Century. Lena Maitland, who sings Mrs. Peachum at the Greenwich Village Theatre, appeared on Broadway some fifteen years ago in "Veronique."

MUSIC IN THE MOVIES.

Amund Sjovik, a Norwegian baritone, sings at the Capitol with Carolina Call and Miner Roberts in excerpts from "Lohengrin."

Theodore Kosloff, the Russian dancer, staged a scene in a "palace of glass" in the current week's picture at the Rivoli.

Fernando Guarneri sings an air from "Mefistofele," and the overture to Boito's opera is played by the orchestra at the Strand, in that theatre's current picture production of "The Devil."

WOMAN COMPOSER HERE.

Mme. Poldowski, daughter of Wieniawski, the violinist, and herself a composer, who in private life is Lady Dean Paul, now on a visit to this country, has been announced to give a matinee of her songs at the Princess on Tuesday, assisted by Mrs. W. T. Carrington.

NEW ARMY ORGANIZATION

THE following instructions, recently issued from the office of the Adjutant General of the Army, forecast the early adoption of the New Tables of Organization (peace strength) for the army:

New Tables of Organization of the army are nearing completion. As the tables prescribing the organization of the various units are completed and approved they will be issued. Each table relating to a particular unit, when issued, will supersede all prior tables governing the organization of such unit except as otherwise authorized in this circular.

For the purpose of reorganization, each table will become effective upon its receipt by an organization concerned.

All emergency authorization for organization within a unit will become inoperative when reorganization in accordance with these tables is effected.

In all cases of conflict between the provisions of General Orders No. 36, War Department, 1920, and the Tables of Organization, the tables will govern.

Authority to transfer enlisted men within their commands and in the same arm of the service in order to effect reorganization is conferred on department, corps area, division, regimental or similar unit commanders. No enlisted man will be transferred from one regiment to another if a vacancy in his own grade exists in his regiment or in his own arm, staff corps or department at his station. Under the above restrictions, department and corps area commanders will take steps to transfer all men made surplus by the operation of this order to an appropriate vacancy within their respective department and corps areas.

Enlisted men who are surplus and who have not been assigned by department or corps area commanders one month after receipt of orders or Tables of Organization, the operation of which has caused them to become surplus, will be reported to the Adjutant General of the Army for assignments.

Officers rendered surplus by this reorganization will be reported by the proper commander by wire to the Adjutant General of the Army for disposal.

Non-commissioned officers and rated enlisted men rendered surplus by this organization will not be demoted or reduced.

To enable the War Department to make adjustment of grades and ratings where necessary, to correct possible divergencies and to further perfect these tables before their issue in final printed form, organization commanders will submit to the Adjutant General of the Army a report of any discrepancies observed.

The Second Division is designated as the division to be organized at war strength, as indicated in letter from the Adjutant General of the army, dated Oct. 27, 1920. Orders for its organization under war strength tables will be issued later.

That orders will be promulgated in the near future requiring that all units conform to the new tables is a certainty. The peace strength tables have been completed, but still lack the final stamp of approval. Until this is given these tables will not become regulation.

The new war strength tables are not expected to become regulation for some time to come.

Adoption of the new tables will become effective first for the infantry units to include the brigade. Other tables of peace strength organizations will follow from time to time, and finally the tables governing the strength and composition of all units for active service.

A study of the peace strength table for the infantry discloses some radical changes. The 4,000,000 veterans of the World War—men who are familiar with the organization of the different units for service in France—would scarcely recognize these units as they will be constituted when these new peace strength tables are put into effect. Undoubtedly the most striking change is to be found in the discontinuance of the machine gun battalions and the substitution of a machine gun company for each infantry battalion. Companies D, H and M will hereafter be machine gun and not rifle companies. This new battalion formation closely resembles the French organization. The adoption of this system will, of course, do away with the regimental machine gun company also.

Another radical change is in the headquarters company. The old headquarters company was the largest unit in the regiment. It was too unwieldy for the proper supervision of one man. The new peace strength headquarters company will have an enlisted personnel of only 60 men, whose functions are primarily those of communication. There will be an intelligence platoon of seven men and a pioneer platoon of eleven men. The communication platoon will consist of 35 men, whose duties will be message centre, courier and runner section, wire section, radio and panel section and the visual section.

It will be interesting to the ex-service man to note the dropping of the Stokes mortar and 37 millimeter platoons from headquarters company and the formation of a howitzer company, which will have a personnel of two officers and 63 men, to handle these arms. The transfer of the band from headquarters company to the service company will form a separate section of 49 men in what will be called the headquarters platoon of the service company.

As striking as these changes are, the ex-service man will be even more impressed with the difference in the numerical strength of the new peace organizations. The strength of an infantry brigade, which during the war contained approximately 8,000 men, drops to 3,221; the regiment from about 3,700 to 1,582; the battalion from 1,000 to 412, and the rifle companies fall from 250 to 96. There is a corresponding reduction in the number of officers all along the line.

These changes have not been made lightly. A board of officers composed of infantrymen, all at the top of their profession, have worked long and diligently over the problem. Experiments and tests without number have been made of every possible phase of infantry work in the Infantry School at Camp Benning, Georgia. The lessons of the World War have been studiously gone over. Every defect of our war organization has been ferreted out as far as has been humanly possible to determine wherein there was a weakness.

There has been no hasty action, no jumping at conclusions nor immature recommendations. Over two years have elapsed since active operations ceased, and the apparent misfits of organization discovered in the war have been studied by experts with a view to finding a remedy. The new tables are the result of that study. No doubt they will add both offensive and defensive power to our fighting units.

F. L. M.

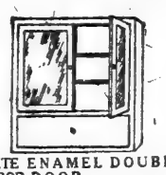
Spear's Pre-Inventory January Clearance

An Absolute "Clean-Up" at Prices That Establish a New Low Level

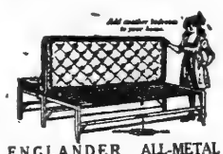
YES—a Furniture Clearance Sale at Spear's two large stores, before taking our annual stock inventory. And that means a rare furniture-buying opportunity, yearly looked for and awaited by our customers. For this Sale includes a generous assortment of every conceivable kind of quality furniture for every room in the house—but only a limited number of each kind of article. That's the reason for the sale and the low prices. We want to clean up our stock of odds and ends and discontinued patterns. Come early and choose from a larger selection. You may pay for your purchases as usual on Spear's Liberal Credit Terms.

TEA WAGON, finished in mahogany, with rubber tired wheels and removable glass tray..... $19.75

METAL BED. Ivory Enamel 2-inch continuous posts and heavy fillers; all sizes..... $14.75



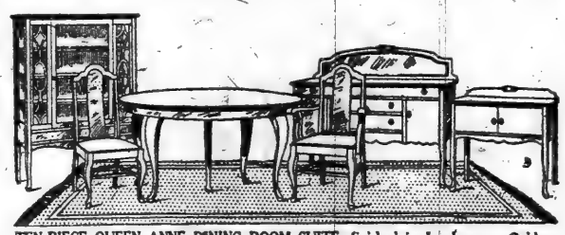
WHITE ENAMEL DOUBLE MIRROR DOOR MEDICINE CABINET..... $4.95



ENGLANDER ALL-METAL COUCH BED. Couch by day—full-size Bed by night; complete with roll edge Mattress. Net. $30.75

THOR Electric Vacuum Cleaners. The Nationally Advertised Cleaner fully guaranteed by the Manufacturers "Makes cleaning day an hour's play." Cash or Credit NET $32.50

TAPESTRY OR DAMASK PILLOW ARM OVERSTUFFED LIVING ROOM SUITE. The loose cushion seats are fitted with Marshall Comfy Springs: Sofa, Arm Chair and Wing Chair..... $374.50
Upholstered in Blue and Mulberry figured Velour..... $419.50



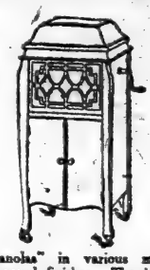
TEN-PIECE QUEEN ANNE DINING ROOM SUITE, finished in Jacobean or Golden Oak, consisting of 54-inch Buffet, 45-inch Dining Table with 6-ft. extension, China Closet, Serving Table, Arm Chair and 5 Side Chairs upholstered in Brown DuPont Leather..... $266.25

FOUR-PIECE ADAM PERIOD BEDROOM SUITE, finished in American Walnut, consisting of Dresser, Chiffrobe, Bedstead and Toilet Table..... $339.25

FIVE-PIECE MAHOGANY FINISHED BREAKFAST ROOM OR SUN PARLOR SUITE, consisting of Gate Leg Table and four Windsor Side Chairs, $86.75, 116.75, 128.50

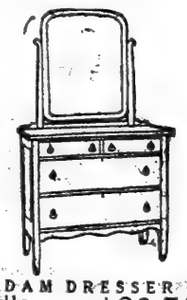
ADAM PERIOD DAY BED, finished in Mahogany, 2.6 ft. size only. (An additional charge for bedding.) $39.75

FOUR POSTER BED, finished in Mahogany. 3.3 and 4.6 ft. sizes. Three styles. $34.75, $42.50, $49.75



"Vitanola" in various models and wood finishes. The instrument as illustrated. Regular $100..... $89.50

PORCELAIN TOP TABLE, durably made; 26x40 in. top with centre drawer..... $16.50
Also 24x36 in. size..... $13.48



ADAM DRESSER in Golden Oak..... $23.75

TWO STORES

22-26 West 34th St. SPEAR & COMPANY 6th Ave. at 16th St.

ADVERTISEMENT.

THEY'RE FINE!

Cascarets

PLEASANT LAXATIVE

"Cascarets"—So Convenient! You wake up with Your Head Clear, Complexion Rosy, Breath and Stomach Sweet—No Biliousness, Headache or Constipation.

BEFORE YOU HAVE TO

Most of our patrons are sent us by doctors.

Why wait until your condition gets so desperate that your doctor has to order you to exercise?

The way to be healthy is to keep healthy by doing the physical work that a human being must do to keep normal.

McGOVERN'S GYMNASIUM,

5 West 66th St., New York City

Telephone: Columbus 2928.

ADVERTISEMENT.

THE REAR ADMIRAL'S SEVEN RUSSIAN WARDS

In the current MID-WEEK PICTORIAL there is a picture showing Rear Admiral McCully and the seven Russian wards he brought with him. In the same issue: 105 etchings, big news events, sports, drama, screen, art, politics, beautiful Americans. 10 cents on news stands.

Tea Rooms.

RUSSIAN INN Table d'Hote Luncheon & Dinner. Also a la Carte. 57 W. 37th St. Russian Afternoon Tea SPECIAL AFTER THEATRE MENU

BILLY ANN 130 Madison Avenue near 32nd St. STRICTLY HOME-COOKED LUNCHEON.

SCOTCH TEA ROOM 51 West 49th St. Lunch; Dinner. Home made jams, Scotch scones, shortbread.

PINE TREE Home Cooking. Open Sundays. Special Chicken, Waffle Dinner 36 West 33rd St. Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday

ADVERTISEMENT.

Yes madam, this trade mark is your best assurance that the goods are Safely Sealed

The grocer who tells you this is guarding your interests. He knows that the packer who seals his foods with Caps bearing this trade-mark has done all that can be done to preserve their original purity and flavor.

See that you get no other. The trade-mark represents a quarter century of serving the world's foremost packers. Now we bring it to your attention so that you may discriminate between known and unknown quality.

There is much that you should know about preserving. It will help you in choosing. "The Story of Preserving" tells you in an interesting way, and we send it free. Write today.

Phoenix-Hermetic Co.
2444 West 16th Street, Chicago

HOTELS AND RESTAURANTS.

Hotel Netherlands
5TH AVE. AT 59TH ST.
Great Northern Hotel
118 W. 57th St. and 109 to 121 W. 58th St.

MURRAY'S ROMAN GARDENS
LUNCHEON TODAY $1.00
42nd STREET, West of Broadway

Shanley Sunday Dinner—$2.50

A famous cuisine in a special Sunday Table d'Hote Dinner—a week end enjoyment for the whole family.

TODAY'S TABLE D'HOTE DINNER—$2.50
Served between the hours of 12 noon and 3 P. M. and again during the evening between 6 and 9.

Blue Point Oysters or Tomato stuffed with Caviar
Celery Olives
Cream of chicken or Consomme princesse
Supreme of sole Colbert
Roast stuffed Vermont turkey, cranberry sauce
Filet mignon with fresh mushrooms
Essence of chicken a la King
Mashed yellow turnips Pane bonnefemme
Mousseline potatoes
Shanley mixed salad
Hot plum pudding, fruit sauce or Biscuit tortoni
Assorted cakes
Roquefort cheese Toasted crackers
Demi tasse
a la carte service as usual.
Evenings—Entertainment de Luxe during dinner and supper, and dancing during supper.

SHANLEY'S
Broadway—43rd to 44th Sts.

HOTEL LE MARQUIS
31st St., just off 5th Ave.
Tel. Longacre 4330
Wonderful Value for Permanent Guests
Room with private bath and excellent meals
One Person $35 Weekly
Two Persons $55 Weekly
The hotel is of the quiet residential type; very centrally located and beautifully equipped.
Under KNOTT MANAGEMENT
Mr. F. Mayer, Mgr.

THE RICHMOND
70 West 46th Street
Between 5th and 6th Avenues
A MODERN FIREPROOF HOTEL
Rooms single and en suite at moderate prices.
Location unsurpassed for convenience to high class shops and the theatres.
Exceptionally refined atmosphere.
Our home cooked Luncheon and Dinner is unequalled in the city.
EGBERT B. SEAMAN, President.
FRED C. BOYNTON, Manager.

A Delightful Place for Sunday Dinner

We invite Sunday diners to get acquainted with Wenning's upstairs—with the charm of the place and the delicious food. The finest food in the Times Square section.
Our daily Table d'Hote Luncheon is now 75c. Dinner $1.50.
BIG A LA CARTE MENU
Sea Food and Game in Season
Homey, Cheery, Good Music.
WENNING'S
"THE QUALITY RESTAURANT"
121 W. 45th, bet. B'way & 6th Ave.
NO CHECK ROOM. NO COVER CHARGE

THE EMBASSY
B'WAY AT 70th ST.
SUBWAY EXPRESS AT 72 ST.
A New Modern Fireproof Hotel
Phone Columbus 8700
ROOMS Single and en suite of as many rooms as desired—every room with bath
Restaurant Francais
Dancing 10 P. M. to Closing
J. C. LAVIN, PRESIDENT
ROBERT S. MAFFITT, VICE PRES. and TREAS.

HOTEL
THERESA
7th Ave., 124th to 125th St.
One block from "L" and Subway Sts. Trolley and bus lines at door.
A Refined Family and Transient Fireproof Hotel
ALL OUTSIDE ROOMS. ATTRACTIVE ACCOMMODATIONS AT MODERATE RATES
Dining Room At Top of Building
Special Table d'Hote or A La Carte Meals
Tel. 7600 Morningside.
R. P. LEUBE, Manager.

Fourteen East Sixtieth St.
A luxurious Residential Hotel, opposite the Metropolitan Club and Fifth Avenue Entrance to Central Park. Easy access to the theatres, clubs and shopping centres.
EAGER & BABCOCK,
New York City.

Hotel Bretton Hall
Broadway, 85th to 86th St.
Subway Station at 86th Street Corner
NEW YORK.
Largest and Most Attractive Midtown Hotel, Convenient to All Shops and Theatres.
For Transient or Permanent Residence. Furnished or Unfurnished Suite
All the Comforts and Advantages of the Best New York City Hotels at Attractive Rates.
RESTAURANT OF HIGHEST STANDARD AT ATTRACTIVE PRICES.

The Touraine
9-11 EAST 39TH STREET
NEW YORK CITY
An apartment Hotel catering to patrons who desire exclusive surroundings. Several desirable furnished apartments by the year or shorter period.
RESTAURANT A LA CARTE
A. R. SMITH, Prop.
Formerly of the St. Regis

New Weston Hotel
Madison Avenue, at 49th St.
DESIRABLE ROOMS AND APARTMENTS
S. G. CLAYTON, President.

Forest Hills Inn
Forest Hills Gardens, L. I.
15 Minutes (actual running time) From Pennsylvania Station, Long Island R. R. Electric Trains
One of the finest (fireproof) residential hotels in the city. More than 80 trains daily. 20 minutes from Wall Street. 25 minutes from shopping and theatre districts. No other place in the city equals the Inn for its food, conveniences and accessibility.
Telephone Boulevard 4200.
F. J. HAWLEY, Mgr.

HOTEL
ENDICOTT
COLUMBUS AVE., 81st to 82nd ST.
One Block From Central Park
Desirable Apartments at Reasonable Rates

Hotel Hamilton
73rd St., East of Broadway
A Luxurious Residential Hotel
ROOMS AND SUITES FOR TRANSIENT AND PERMANENT OCCUPANCY
Descriptive Booklet on Request

A RESTFUL HOTEL FOR MEN
RALEIGH HALL
100 West 47th St.
Attractively furnished Hotel, sunny rooms with private bath or shower. Also rooms unfurnished bath. Billiard, reception, writing, lounge rooms. The comforts and conveniences of a home. The refinement and atmosphere of a club.

THE CAMBRIDGE
69 WEST 65TH ST.
NEW APARTMENT HOTEL.
UNFURNISHED SUITES ON LEASE.
2 ROOMS & BATH, $1,500 UP.
3 ROOMS & BATH, $2,500 UP.
RESTAURANT A LA CARTE.
Under same management Hotel Langdon, 5th Av. and 56th St.
E. H. CHATILLON.

HOTEL NEWTON
2528 Broadway, bet. 94th & 95th Sts.
SUBWAY—EXPRESS AT 96TH STREET
TRANSIENT ACCOMMODATIONS
Telephone 1936 Riverside.

$15 WEEKLY
ROOM WITH PRIVATE BATH
Hotel Nassau
59th St., bet. Mad. & Park Aves.
One Block From Station of All Subways
Phone Plaza 8100

Chicago, Ill.
Cooper-Carlton Hotel-Chicago
53rd St., and Hyde Park Blvd.
(On the shore of Lake Michigan)
NEW 12 STORY FIREPROOF BUILDING
FINEST IN THE MIDDLE WEST
400 ROOMS—400 PRIVATE BATHS (EXCLUSIVE BATH for EACH ROOM)
Illinois Central R. R. Station one block from hotel—10 minute express service to downtown, office, shopping and theatre district. 20 minutes to stockyards. All Mich. Cent., Ill. Cent. and "Big 4" Trains stop at 53rd St. Station, one block from hotel. Check baggage to 53rd St. Station and save time.
EUROPEAN—$2.50 UP
Write or wire manager for reservations.

Teasdale Residence
For Women and Girl Students.
228 WEST 72nd STREET
Booklet on Request.
Open all year. Tel. Columbus 3201

M. Knoedler & Co.
Announce an Important
EXHIBITION
of
ETCHINGS
by the late
Anders Zorn
During January
At Their Galleries
556-558 Fifth Avenue

C. W. KRAUSHAAR
ART GALLERIES
680 Fifth Ave., New York
EXHIBITION OF PAINTINGS by

Courbet	Lavery
Fantin	Ryder
Monticelli	Luks
Carriere	Beal
Forain	Sloan
Menard	DuBois
Le Sidaner	Myers
Zuloaga	Tack

Puvis de Chavannes
BRONZES by Bourdelle and Mahonri Young

OPENING WEDNESDAY
EXHIBITION
PAINTINGS
BY Edith Blight
THOMPSON
At the KINGORE
GALLERIES
668 Fifth Ave.
At 53rd Street

MILCH Galleries
Announce a Noteworthy EXHIBITION OF PAINTINGS
by
George De Forest Brush
Bruce Crane
Thomas W. Dewing
Childe Hassam
Willard L. Metcalf
J. Francis Murphy
January 10 to 29
108 West 57th Street

Exhibition of a Noteworthy Group of PAINTINGS
by Albert P. Ryder
and
Arthur B. Davies
Jan. 19 to Jan. 26
at the
FERARGIL GALLERIES
607 Fifth Avenue, at 49th Street
Who also wish to announce the acquisition of the famous Handley collection of EMIL CARLSENS

DANIEL GALLERY
HENRI LAWSON
GLACKENS
PRENDERGAST
2 WEST 47TH ST.

DUDENSING Galleries
FOR FORTY YEARS
This House has served a discriminating clientele.
MODERN
PAINTINGS
45 West 44th St. between Fifth and Sixth Ave.

Studio Show
Portraits and Etchings
by
Emily Burling Waite
164 West 40th Street
10 to 5—Studio 23
Tel. Bryant 7264.

ART EXHIBITIONS OF PAINTINGS

THE exhibition of Alphonse Mucha's mural paintings at the Brooklyn Museum has been enlarged to include twenty-seven of Mr. Mucha's famous posters, with the Sarah Bernhardt as a leading feature; twelve oil paintings, and a hundred or more drawings made as illustrations for two books published by the Beaux-Arts in Paris.

⁂

Architectural Water Colors in Boston.

The department of architecture of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has placed on view in the Rogers Building, Boylston Street, Boston, a loan collection of architectural water colors by artists of distinction. Guardi, Turner and Ruskin are among the greater names. There are several Winslow Homers and Sargents and there is a little Venetian subject painted by Sargent's mother. Ross Turner, Ralph W. Gray, E. H. Rankin, W. T. Aldrich, Denman W. Ross, F. L. W. Richardson and Charles F. McKim are others of note. The original idea in forming the exhibition was to offer instructive and inspiring material to the students in the school, and it is an example that well might be followed wherever young architects are in training.

⁂

International Exhibition at Pittsburgh.

John W. Beatty, Director of Fine Arts, Carnegie Institute, announces the twentieth annual international exhibition of paintings, to be held during the months of May and June next. As in former years, it is the aim of the Carnegie Institute to bring together a representative group of works by the best contemporary painters of all nations. Official reports have been received from England, Scotland and France. These show that the total number of works coming from England and Scotland is about 10 per cent. larger than last year, while the French representation will be in number about the same. Belgium, Italy, Norway, Spain and Sweden will contribute fully as many as were contributed to the last international exhibition. Reports from various cities in America have not yet been completed.

This year, as heretofore, the international jury of selection and award will be elected by the votes of those contributing to the institute's international exhibitions, and these votes will come from practically every art producing country in the world.

A gold, silver and bronze medal will be awarded, with prizes of $1,500, $1,000 and $500, respectively.

⁂

The Making of a Japanese Print.

The Prints Division of the Public Library announces that in its series of exhibitions demonstrating the making of prints it has reached Japanese prints, which will be on exhibition in the Print Gallery (Room 321) until April 15. As always in these shows, technique is used to illustrate the art, and, vice versa, technique is illustrated by the finest examples procurable of the art. In the present case, these fine examples were selected from the noteworthy collection of Japanese prints presented to the library by the late Charles Stewart Smith. Perhaps it may be said that the natural curiosity of mankind to "see the wheels go 'round" is utilized to show the public various phases of what we group as "prints" in their finest aspect.

By means of tools and pictures, including series of progressive color proofs, the process of making Japanese color prints is described. And then, the application of this technique: prints showing the development of this school of "Ukiyoye"—"picturing the passing show." There are early actor prints, and Harunobu, Kiyonaga, and Koriusai are strongly represented. But especially remarkable is the range and quality of prints by Utamaro, in whose work the Smith collection is particularly rich.

After one has considered the technique of these works of art, the individual application of traditional methods, the decorative quality of the cunningly distributed spaces of flat color, the calligraphic sweep of line, there comes always again realization of the fact that these color prints, with all their exotic appearance, come close to us, after all, in the humanness of their observation. They are essentially records, many of them, of the everyday life of the artist's day. But beside this more superficially obvious character as pictorial documents, they, like all art worth while, form a significant expression of racial ideas and ideals at a given period. And that, in the end, is a high function of art.

⁂

The American Water Color Society Exhibition.

The fifty-fourth annual exhibition of the American Water Color Society will be held in the galleries of the National Arts Club, 119 East Nineteenth Street, New York City. The exhibition opens on Thursday, Feb. 3, and will continue until Thursday, Feb. 24.

The Alexander Hudnut prize of $200 will be awarded for the best water color in the exhibition, and to be free from any restriction whatever.

The American Federation of Arts will select pictures from this exhibition for its annual Rotary exhibition, which is shown in several cities and is on circuit for about six months.

The Jury of Selection are: George Elmer Brown, John F. Carlson, Eliot Clark, E. Irving Couse, Edward Dufner, Howard Giles, H. L. Hildebrandt, Harry L. Hoffman, Francis C. Jones, William S. Robinson, Chauncey F. Ryder and Edward C. Volkert. The Hanging Committee are: G. Glenn Newell, W. Granville Smith and Henry B. Snell.

⁂

Lectures at the Metropolitan Museum.

The series of free lectures at the Metropolitan Museum open to the public Jan. 16, at 2 and 3 P. M., Story Hours for Children, "A Palace of the Moors," by Anna C. Chandler; at 4 P. M., "English Country Houses," by Eliza J. Newkirk. Jan. 22, at 4 P. M., "Dutch Landscape Painters, Seventeenth Century," by Adrian J. Barnouw; at 5 P. M., "Keyboard Instruments, Ancient and Modern," by Frances Morris. Jan. 23 at 2 and 3 P. M., Story Hours for Children, "Through the Doorway of the Past," by Anna C. Chandler; at 4 P. M., "French Gardens of the Renaissance," by Bremer W. Pond. Jan. 28, 2:15 P. M., Talks for Classes in the New York Training School for Teachers, "Qualities of Painting," by Edith R. Abbot. Jan. 29, at 4 P. M., "Practice and Preaching in Eighteenth Century Art," by Frank Jewett Mather; at 5 P. M., "The Great Violin Makers," by Frances Morris. Jan. 30, 2 and 3 P. M., Story Hours for Children, "St. George and the Dragon," by Anna C. Chandler, and at 4 P. M., "Japanese Sword Guards," by Howard Mansfield.

Concerts Jan. 22 and 29, at 8 P. M., by the Symphony Orchestra conducted by David Mannes.

An exhibition of work by manufacturers and designers resulting from a study of museum collections until Jan. 30. From Jan. 18 to Feb. 11 there will be an exhibition of war portraits, assembled by the National Art Committee.

⁂

The New Lyme Gallery.

The Lyme Art Association will celebrate its twentieth anniversary next Fall with an exhibition held in the new gallery, still under construction, but far enough advanced to be photographed and to show a smiling morning face through the bare branches of the surrounding trees. The conditions of light and environment are a great improvement over those of past years. The building is situated within a hundred yards of the home of Miss Griswold, the "Miss Florence" who has been hostess to the artists of the associations since the first year of the organization.

⁂

Paintings by Robert Vonnoh.

At the Arlington Galleries is a retrospective exhibition of paintings by Robert Vonnoh, continuing until Jan. 22. Included in the collection are the large "Grez Bridge" which took a prize at the Connecticut exhibition; a self portrait and an excellent portrait of Bessie Potter Vonnoh, the artist's wife, a portrait of Carl Akeley, the sculptor, and one of Alexander Walker, the medalist. In the last the slightly bald head with its thin film of white hair is reflected in a mirror, a device often used in portraits of women, but not less effective here.

CIRCULATING ART GALLERY

IT will be a highbrow day when Raphael and Rembrandt displace comics and cartoons, but that selfsame day is coming—at least, so says Jo Davidson, artist and sculptor of the Peace Conference, just returned to his native land. Davidson foresees, not far off, circulating art galleries which will permit folks to take home and enjoy for a week rare works of art that now hang in monotonous rows in museums. A circulating art gallery, according to Davidson's idea, could be operated along the lines of a circulating library, except that borrowers might be required to furnish bonds sufficient to more than cover the values of rare works.

"Some one with wealth will start the first circulating art gallery before long and then the movement will be under way," said Davidson. "The way to enjoy art is to live with it, to have it near you the entire day. It does one more good to have a piece of real art near him for one week than to tour a gallery with hundreds of objects all lined up and labeled. In your home you could feel that art."

In Paris this movement has already gained considerable headway, though in a different method from that which Mr. Davidson expects to see take root in America. In France every class, from the lowliest to the highest, is buying art objects, particularly after-the-war productions of the colonies of artists in Paris.

"But the French have a different idea in mind when they buy art," explained Davidson. "The Frenchman is willing to buy something unrecognized and enjoy that. When he outgrows that he gets something better. But he gets art, and not photographs or reprints.

"In America we are different. We would rather have photographic prints of great works of art. Americans are brought up on photographs. They recognize art only when it is photographed. They want the best.

"Well, why not have circulating art galleries so that the American, for a comparatively small sum, can enjoy real art objects."

The sculptor said he formed his idea of a circulating art gallery while modeling busts of the leading statesmen at the Peace Conference. When he first undertook that work he encountered serious difficulties in persuading the coifferes to pose for him. Their ideas of a sculptor's studio were vague, and they were not interested in learning more.

Marshal Foch finally broke the ice, and consented to give Davidson two hours. In those two short hours the Generalissimo's conception of studios changed materially, according to Mr. Davidson, and the French veteran thereafter found more than sufficient time to haunt the studio and watch the clay become a figure.

Joffre, who did not want to pose at all, followed, and became so interested that he spent three days in the studio. Pershing, Clemenceau, Balfour, Tardieu, Paderewski and more than a dozen others followed, each succumbing to the fascination of the studio.

Perhaps the most unusual case was that of Wellington Koo, the Chinese delegation leader. The Orientals explained that they saw no reason for making a bust of a man while he lived. Wait until he is dead, and public opinion clamors for statues of him; then make an allegorical figure—that was their system. But Dr. Koo fell under the spell of art at close range, and became an enthusiastic visitor to Davidson's studio.

Reasoning on the change of heart that overcame these men at the peace conference, Davidson hit upon the idea of circulating art galleries, which would enable even the cook in the kitchen, for a sum within reason, to live with and enjoy an art object that she could not buy.

Mr. Davidson, while he is in America, escorting his exhibit of thirty pieces of statuary to various art museums in American cities, hopes to spread his idea among citizens influential enough to get it started.

TOUCHSTONE GALLERIES Open 11 A. M. 11 West 47th St.
PAINTINGS
by Adelaide J. Lawson
Alice Newton
H. E. Schnakenberg
David Morrison
Richard F. Lahey
January 17 to 29 Richard Marwood
Stewart Cries

On View Tomorrow, Tuesday & Wednesday
From 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.
At the Galleries of
FIFTH AVE. AUCTION ROOMS
333-341 Fourth Ave., at 25th Street
An Unrestricted Public Auction
of
Valuable and Artistic Furnishings
Removed from Apartments on West End Ave., West 58th St. and Residences in Locust Valley, Long Island and Cincinnati, Ohio.
The Collection Comprises
Early Italian, Renaissance, Louis XV., Louis XVI., English and Colonial Period Furniture, including An Aubusson Tapestry Drawing Room Suite,
A Louis XVI. Boudoir Suite in Fine Enamel,
Dining Room and Bedroom Suites in Mahogany, All Upholstered Sofas and Chairs, Renaissance Chests, Tables, Chairs and Jewel Cabinets, Italian and Aubusson Panels, Curtains, and Carpets, European Porcelains, Cut Glass, Solid Silver, Fine Bronzes, Oriental Rugs and Carpets
Polar Bear Rugs, Electroliers, Mirrors, Linens, Limoges Enamels.
TO BE SOLD Thursday, Friday and Saturday, January 20, 21 and 22. Commencing at 2 o'Clock Each Day.
Also on View Until Time of Sale
a Collection of Ancient and Modern Oil Paintings of the Early English, French, Italian and Dutch Schools formed by
Mr. T. C. Hepp, of Looe, Cornwall, England
TO BE SOLD at Unrestricted Sale
Friday Evening, January 21st, at 8:15.
Wallace H. Day, Auctioneer

THE GREATEST SALE EVER HELD IN THIS COUNTRY OF THE MASTERPIECES OF JAPANESE COLOR PRINTS
A NOTED COLLECTION FORMED BY A DISTINGUISHED CONNOISSEUR OF PARIS

"Three young women at Hagidero," by KIYONAGA.
Catalogued by
FREDERICK W. GOOKIN
12 Sharaku, including Drawings and Hosoye; more than 75 Examples of the Superb Kiyonaga; more than 100 Utamaro, distinguished for beauty and grace, line and color; Shuncho, Eishi, Eisho, Choki, Buncho, Harunobu, Primitives; rare series of Hiroshige, Hokusai, Kuniyoshi and Hokkei; Kacho or Bird and Flower Panels by Harumobu and others.
EXHIBITION TOMORROW and each day until time of sale at DELMONICO'S
FIFTH AVENUE AND 44TH STREET
in the large Supper Room, 3d Fl.
UNRESTRICTED SALE, Thurs., Fri. and Sat. Eves., JAN. 20, 21, 22
Illustrated Catalogue, $2.50. Priced Catalogue (after the sale), $5.00.
The WALPOLE GALLERIES
WALTER S. SCOTT, Auctioneer
10 East 49th St., New York

The
Frank K. M. Rehn
Galleries
Announce the Exhibition of a selected group of PAINTINGS
by Twachtman
Rare examples of his later period.
January 15 to February 5
6 West Fiftieth Street

Mussmann Gallery
Announces an Exhibition of
PAINTINGS
Flowers and Still Life
by
Matilda Brownell
JAN. 7 to 22nd, Inc.
144 W. 57th St., N. Y.

Gaston
LA TOUCHE
Exhibition
At KINGORE
GALLERIES
668 5th Ave., at 53d St.

Paintings of China by Frederick Clay Bartlett
Throughout January
MONTROSS GALLERY
550 Fifth Avenue

THE SCHOOL OF AMERICAN SCULPTURE
SOLON H. BORGLUM, Director
Now open for Students.
Day and night classes.
9 East 59th Street, N. Y. C.
Phone 685 Plaza.

OPENING TUESDAY
EXHIBITION
Of PORTRAITS
By Boleslaw Jan
CZEDEKOWSKI
Distinguished Polish Artist
KINGORE
GALLERIES
668 5th Ave. At 53rd St.

Recent Paintings
by
Robert Vonnoh N. A.
Exhibition January 5 to 22
ARLINGTON Galleries
274 Madison Avenue at 40th Street

"SPANISH ANTIQUES ARE NOW THE VOGUE" SPANISH
Antique Shop
Announces a 20% Reduction
during January on all its unusual collection.
768 MADISON AVENUE AT 60TH ST.

Schwartz Galleries
PAINTINGS by George A. Traver
on view January 16 to 29.
14 East 48th Street, Opposite Ritz-Carlton

EXHIBITION OF PAINTINGS
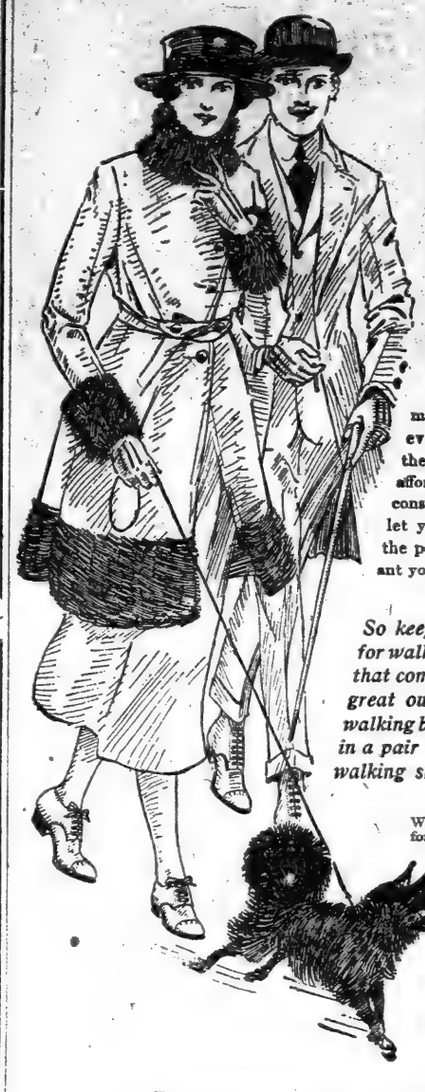
By
HENRI ROUSSEAU
Open 2 to 6 P. M.
M. DE ZAYAS
510 Fifth Ave.

ON A SUNDAY AFTERNOON


When "three is a crowd" and you want a good talk—take a walk. No matter the season or the weather, get out in the open air. Swing along with the spirit of youth in your feet. But be sure that your shoes are right for walking.
GROUND-GRIPPER
WALKING SHOES
make walking a greater delight and benefit than ever before. Light, soft, flexible in all parts, they swing you along with natural ease and afford welcome relief from the cramped, artificial construction of shoes made only for show. They let you forget your feet. They give you back the poise, the lift and lilt, that goes with buoyant youth.
So keep a pair of Ground Grippers just for walking. Know the real companionship that comes from long, happy jaunts in the great outdoors of city or country. Real walking brings real health and happiness—in a pair of sturdy, sensible, comfortable walking shoes that encourage your feet.
We have Ground Gripper Shoes for every member of the family
THE SPIRIT OF YOUTH IN YOUR FEET
Ground Gripper Stores
2 Beekman St., 23 West 35th St., 39 Hoyt St., Brooklyn

Muslin That Washes Well

If you want muslin that looks well after many washings, ask for Fruit of the Loom.
This perfectly woven muslin is the same that women used seventy years ago.
Save yourself a lot of shopping trips and buy a bolt of Fruit of the Loom at the white sales. Ask for the 36-inch width.
Such a purchase is true economy, for there is less waste in cutting. And even if you keep it on hand for a long time you will find that it won't turn yellow.
Fruit of the Loom
Muslin

Lingerie, children's underwear, nightgowns, pajamas, men's shirts, aprons, and pillow slips are but few of the things you will want to make of this long-wearing, inexpensive muslin.
Make sure you are getting Fruit of the Loom; look for the Fruit of the Loom label—picture of fruit in colors.
Every good store has it.
Made by B. B. & R. KNIGHT, INC.

FRANKLIN'S VAIN BEQUEST

Unforeseen Future Has Made It Impossible to Comply With Wills of Early Philanthropists

By WILLIAM L. CHENERY.

PHILADELPHIA is the city with a past. At times it has been pictured as shady. There have, however, at times been lights to give value to the shadows, as this record will testify.

Near Independence Hall is the headquarters of one of the most interesting connecting links between the present city of the quick and the old city of the dead to be found on this continent. In the offices of this curious organization, itself suggestive in arrangement of the business offices of a generation long gone, in spite of its undisputed modern efficiency, are to be found the dearest hopes of many a Philadelphian who loved his city. For well on to two hundred years now memorials left by public spirited citizens have been accumulating. This business office is the focus of all these posthumous efforts, many of them vain, made since the early decades of the eighteenth century, to do good to the people of Philadelphia and to keep alive the names of the givers.

The most eminent, though not the richest nor the best, foreteller of future developments in the long line of philanthropists was Dr. Benjamin Franklin, the anniversary of whose birth is tomorrow, Jan. 17. After the manner of some of his predecessors and of many of his successors, that salty old American left money to his city. His will shows that he devoted his best energies to an attempt to foresee how during the two centuries after his death his money might benefit the people of his city. In almost every detail the great Franklin guessed wrong. His money has not been used as he hoped it would be. Because of changes in the needs of the people, changes he could not have foreseen, the money is to be expended, wisely no doubt, for purposes Franklin did not imagine.

And what happened to Franklin's dreams of posterity is typical. There was, for example, one William Carter, who long before Benjamin Franklin left money to Philadelphia. William Carter owned a number of indentured servants. His will, proved on March 16, 1739, provided that the yearly rent of £8 obtained through the indenture of Nathan Stanbury be used to buy bread for the poor. On March 25 and Sept. 25, his trustees were instructed to invest yearly "in a dole of good bread for ye said poor people." Public notice of this impending benefaction was to be given by "ye City Cryer." Long since Philadelphia has lost its "City Cryer," and long since also it has been necessary to feed the poor more regularly than on two days a year, but William Carter's bequest lives on. It is not large. At the close of the last year reported on—1919—it amounted to $1,574, most of which was invested not in indentured servants but in Liberty bonds. But the money must be kept in perpetuity for the use of the poor.

Unwise "Circus Man."

There were others of William Carter's mind. James Claypoole ordered the "sum of thirty-two Spanish coined silver pieces of eight" to be turned over yearly to the overseers of the poor. Since 1769 that fund has kept alive James Claypoole's memory, and his will provides that it be paid forever. A considerable number of similar funds are still in existence. Food and fuel for the poor were the objects for which the legacies were designed. There was a "Mr. Ricketts of the circus," a man whose full name and initials have vanished completely. He is known now only as the manager of a circus and as the man who gave $851 during the 1790s to provide the necessitous poor with fuel. The circus man planted not unwisely. His small sum, merged with the bequests of others, now makes up the City Fuel Fund, which has added to the comfort of many a poor family during this century and a quarter of change.

After the turn of the nineteenth century, with the rise of manufacturing industry, unemployment became a more serious problem. One of the favorite devices of dealing with this condition—a device obsolete if not yet outlawed—was the soup kitchen. Paul Beck, whose will was filed in 1844, left a rent of $500 to be paid "to the soup societies established in the City of Philadelphia, to aid such societies in their humane endeavors to supply the poor with soup."

Dr. Franklin was more ambitious. Having himself been risen from poverty to affluence, he desired especially to aid young mechanics to establish themselves independently as business men. For that purpose, by his will dated June 23, 1789, he bequeathed to the cities of Boston and Philadelphia alike the sums of 1,000 pounds sterling. These funds were to be "let out upon interest at 5 per cent. per annum to such young married artificers under the age of twenty-five years (later extended by the court to thirty-five years) as have served an apprenticeship in the said town and faithfully fulfilled the duties required in their indentures."

Fund for "Fortifications."

According to the statement of Louis Weiland, Secretary of the Board of Directors of City Trusts, which administers this and other funds, no mechanic has received such aid during the last thirty or forty years. In fact, the fund offers no advantages to young artisans except the lowness of the rate of interest, which is theoretically 4 per cent. The reason that the fund is not used for this purpose is to be found in part, at any rate, in the kind of security exacted. Up until 1869 the City Council of Philadelphia administered the fund. Apparently politics interfered and loose business methods were used. The fund then had reached only the sum of $40,000, far less than Franklin's estimate of its probable growth.

The bequest was to run for 100 years. At the end of that period Franklin thought that it would amount to £131,000. He directed that £31,000 should continue to be let out at interest for another 100 years and that £100,000 should be "laid out in public works, fortifications, bridges, aqueducts, public buildings, baths, &c., or for whatever may make living in the town more convenient to its people and render it more agreeable to strangers resorting thither for health or a temporary residence."

Mr. Heiland states: "In 1869, when the present board took charge of this fund, it amounted to about $40,000. In 1890, the end of the first 100 years, it amounted to about $90,000, and not $600,000 as hoped for by Mr. Franklin. The $90,000 was apportioned in the proportion of 100 to 31, making about $70,000 for public works and $20,000 for a continuation of the loan fund.

"In 1906 this board turned over to the Franklin Institute Building Fund $133,076.46, which represented 100/131 of the amount at the end of the first 100 years with accrued interest.

"At the end of 1919 the Benjamin Franklin Loan Fund amounted to $66,000. No loans have been made for many years, the serving of a regular apprenticeship in these times being almost unheard of and the facility with which money can be borrowed from other sources rendering the terms which this fund offers to the young mechanic no special advantage to him.

"Recognizing these facts the directors appealed to court for some modification of the terms. Under a decree of the court the maximum amount of the loan was increased from $300 to $500, the rate of interest was reduced from 5 to 4 per cent., and the loans were authorized to any properly qualified married artificer without regard to the place where or the mode whereby he obtained his qualification. Notwithstanding these modifications, no loans have been made since."

For the Ambitious.

The trustees of the Boston fund during the first century were far more thrifty, for in 1890 when the Philadelphia fund had grown only to $90,000 the Bostonians had accumulated $368,000.

The use of the money for a school building is generally in line with Franklin's own desires. In his will he made provision for the free grammar schools of Boston in which he obtained his first instruction. But he thought that "among artisans good apprentices are most likely to make good citizens," and he desired to advance "other young men that may be serviceable to their country." It is interesting to speculate how the canny old printer and philosopher would have used his money had he been alive to administer it. He would not, of course, have been embarrassed by the necessity to obey the terms of a will. It is, however, a fair guess that in spite of industrial and social changes Franklin would have found some way in which to make his money serve the needs of ambitious young workmen. The Board of City Trusts decided on June 16, 1919, that it would make loans only "upon a well-secured first mortgage on real estate in Philadelphia." Obviously, the young mechanic who owns Philadelphia real estate does not have to seek a philanthropic fund for loans. The squandering of the money in previous years, however, undoubtedly accounts for the strict ruling.

Others who left money to Philadelphia were quite as unable to foresee the future. Thus William Scotten, whose will was proved on Oct. 31, 1810, left a rent of $12 to be spent on his birthday every year for the purchase of bread. This was to be delivered to the poor, with the administrators "taking care that none but the needy get it, and that not more than two loaves be delivered to any one family." John Bleakly, whose will was proved in 1802, was even less able to see future developments. He left £1,000 to relieve those who "may be reduced to the necessity of being placed in the hospital during the existence of yellow fever." Yellow fever fortunately no longer adds to the sum of misery which Philadelphia's poor must fight.

Stephen Girard's.

By far the most impressive of the numerous funds which have been bequeathed to Philadelphia is that left by Stephen Girard. Girard left a very large fortune, and his will provided that it be used for a number of purposes. The chief of these was the establishment and the maintenance of Girard College in Philadelphia. The total capital of the Girard residuary estate is now upward of forty-three million dollars. This, according to the will of the Mariner-Merchant, is to be used for the support and extension of Girard College. The income during 1919 was nearly six and a half million dollars. The total expenditures for the college reached the sum of $1,266,976 during the same year. Girard College is, accordingly, probably the only institution of higher learning in the United States which has more money than is needed for its present support. The Girard estate is one of the large holders of coal lands. During 1919 more than 4 per cent. of the total shipment of Pennsylvania coal came from the Girard estate. More than three million tons were actually mined. Fourteen collieries operate the Girard mines.

As a maker of wills Stephen Girard bulks larger than any of the other Philadelphians whose fortunes, small and great, were left for the use of the city. After Franklin, Girard was himself the most picturesque figure. But it is in the modest efforts of many smaller folk rather than in the success of the great man that the secular interest of the Board of City Trusts is to be found. Seven soup societies are reported, memorials to the fading good-will of other days. Many fuel funds have been combined, but their total income is less than $10,000 a year. Yet, coming as they do from citizens, large and small, during more than a century, they testify in an interesting way to the stream of human-kindness which has characterized some of the leaders of the city during successive generations. Among those who gave small funds was an Esther Waters—not the Esther Waters who attained a certain permanence through the art of George Moore, but a Philadelphian whose $5,000 given in 1833 has continued to buy firewood and its equivalent for the poor and has given fame to her name. Schools, hospitals and many other institutions have been given funds which came from these various men and women who sought to serve the public.

There was a John Scott of Edinburgh, who was so inspired by Dr. Franklin that in 1816 he gave the City of Philadelphia $7,000. Scott asked that $3,000 of this money be applied for the same purpose as that given by Franklin. Franklin's money, however, as has been noted, has not been used for the last half century and more. There is talk in Philadelphia of using this fund to build comfort stations.

Most of those making bequests essayed eternity. Their gifts must be administered in perpetuity. Old Dr. Franklin, however, thought that his vision was limited to two hundred years. At the end of the second century he estimated that each fund, without unfortunate accident, would amount to four millions and sixty-one thousands pounds sterling. The funds would be then divided between Boston and Massachusetts and Philadelphia and Pennsylvania, to be used in accordance with the disposition of the people. Dr. Franklin concluded that he did not presume to carry his views further, which after all was wise.

America's Greatest Furniture House

Ludwig Baumann & Co.

Do Not Confuse Us with Other Stores with Similar Names

Open 9 to 5:30 — Saturday Evenings Until 9:30

We have Reduced Prices 25 to 40% on FURNITURE

Rugs, Curtains, Linens, Bedding, Linoleums, Silverware, House Furnishings

In This Great January Clearance Sale

If you have "put off" buying that single piece of furniture or an entire outfit—BUY NOW—for probably never again will you have the opportunity to buy high grade Homefurnishings at such low prices. The articles in this advertisement are but examples of the thousands of other unparalleled money-saving bargains throughout our three great stores. Despite the great price reductions you may open an account with your purchase without any extra charges of any kind.

SALE OF SUITS — BEDROOM, DINING ROOM, LIVING ROOM.

487 Suits, in Mahogany, Walnut, Ivory, Fumed Oak and Golden Oak; Living Room Suits in Leather, Tapestry, Velour and Cane, in the most desirable Period designs, at savings up to 40%.

$385	MAHOGANY BEDROOM SUITS, Queen Anne Period Design; four pieces. Reduced to	189.49
$400	DAMASK VELOUR LIVING ROOM SUITS, Mahogany finish frames; three pieces. Reduced to	298.67
$700	AMERICAN WALNUT DINING ROOM SUITS, Queen Anne Period design; four pieces. Reduced to	489.87
$650	MAHOGANY BEDROOM SUITS, Queen Anne Period design; four pieces. Reduced to	389.74
$125	FUMED OAK LIVING ROOM SUITS, covered in Imitation Leather; three pieces. Reduced to	87.49
$400	GOLDEN OAK DINING ROOM SUITS, Queen Anne Period design; four pieces. Reduced to	239.98
$750	AMERICAN WALNUT BEDROOM SUITS, 4-post Colonial design; four pieces, Reduced to	449.24
$185	TAPESTRY LIVING ROOM SUITS, Mahogany finish frames; three pieces. Reduced to	110.49
$450	AMERICAN WALNUT BEDROOM SUITS, Queen Anne Period design; four pieces. Reduced to	269.74
$330	GOLDEN OAK DINING ROOM SUITS, Colonial Period design; four pieces. Reduced to	198.24
$685	TAPESTRY LIVING ROOM SUITS, an unusually handsome and luxurious suit; three pieces. Reduced to	479.34

Englander Couch-Bed—Special

COMPLETE WITH MATTRESS. FROM A COUCH TO A BED WITH A SINGLE MOTION.

This "ENGLANDER" couch-bed can be converted from a couch to a full size bed in an instant—with a single motion. So simple that a young child can operate it. Has famous "Englander" link fabric spring. Complete with mattress of excellent quality..... 29.25

Pay For This Couch 50c Weekly — Cash or Credit.

Sale of Single Pieces of Furniture for Every Room AT PRICE REDUCTIONS Of 20% to 40%

$4 Golden Oak Sewing Rockers Reduced to	2.98
$35 White Enamel Chiffoniers Reduced to	20.98
$65 Fumed Oak Buffets Reduced to	38.89
$110 Walnut Chifforobes Reduced to	69.94
$40 Walnut Sewing Tables Reduced to	19.98
$60 Fumed Oak Morris Chairs Reduced to	35.49
$35 Jacobean Oak Sewing Tables. Reduced to	17.49
$145 Walnut Dressers Reduced to	99.87
$22 Arm Chairs, mahogany finish. Reduced to	15.34
$50 Golden Oak Buffets Reduced to	34.98
$50 Mahogany Chiffoniers Reduced to	39.89
$18 Golden Oak Rockers Reduced to	12.57
$60 Golden Oak China Closets Reduced to	41.94
$75 Walnut Toilet Tables Reduced to	37.49

Open an Account With This 95-Piece Dinner Set And Pay for it 50c A WEEK

Regular Price $25

Reduced to 17.49

CASH OR CREDIT.

Service for 12 persons. Good quality: American Porcelain. None chipped. No seconds. 500 other sets at proportionately reduced prices.

$4 No. 7 Wash Boiler with copper bottom. Reduced to 2.35

Electric Irons Regular Price $6. Reduced to 3.75

Family size, 6 lbs. Detachable Plug. Six feet cord. Each one guaranteed.

50c Lightning Bread Knife Reduced to 29c

$1.50 Bath Room Spray Reduced to 98c

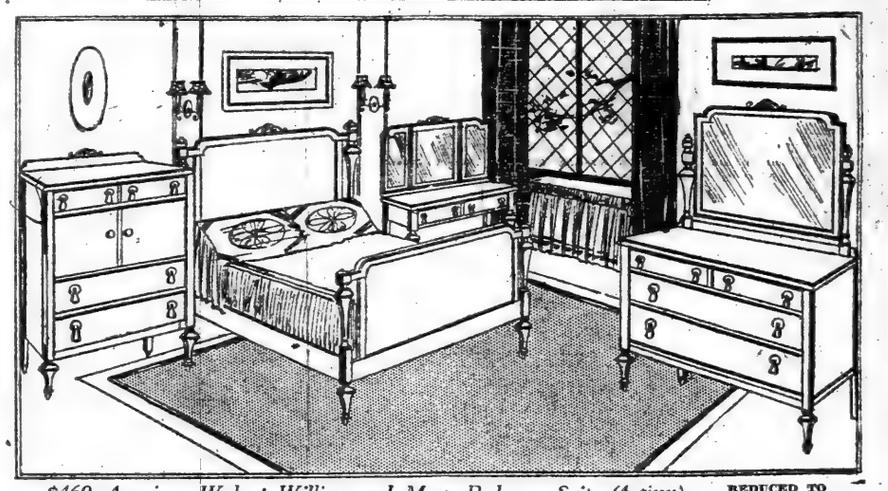
Sale of 9x12 Axminster RUGS

Sold Regularly for $85 REDUCED TO 59.67

Cash or Credit.

In an assortment of Oriental and Floral Designs.

You may open an account with your purchase of any rug, or include it in your outfit without any extra charges.



$460 American Walnut William and Mary Bedroom Suit—(4 pieces) (Sold separately if desired.)

Dresser,	Reg. Price, $150	$94.86	Pay for this Suit $4 Weekly
Chifforobe,	Reg. Price, $120	78.48
Bed,	Reg. Price, $100	65.47
Toilet Table,	Reg. Price, $90	59.68

REDUCED TO 298.49

Cash or Credit.

FLOOR OIL-CLOTH IN AN Assortment of Desirable Patterns REDUCED TO Per Square Yard 59c

Cash or Credit.

$2 3-qt. Aluminum Sauce Pan with Cover Reduced to 98c

Guaranteed Alarm Clock Reduced to 1.45

Plus 8c. War Tax. Nickel Plated, with bell on top

35c Bath Room Bowl Brush Reduced to 19c

$3 White Enamel Bath Room Mirror Reduced to 1.75

Ludwig Baumann Welcomes New Accounts

We invite you to buy a single article or an entire outfit and open an account with your purchase. It makes no difference whether you have had credit before or not or even if we do not know you—we want you to feel at perfect liberty to open an account with us. This applies whether your purchase is $5 or $5,000.

Our liberal credit permits you to select everything you need from our 36 great departments and include them in your purchase—they will all be delivered without any extra charges.

Open an account now—whether your purchase is large or small you will receive the same courteous and liberal treatment accorded our millions of satisfied customers.

You need only pay a small first payment, your purchase will be delivered promptly, then pay the balance in small weekly or monthly payments.

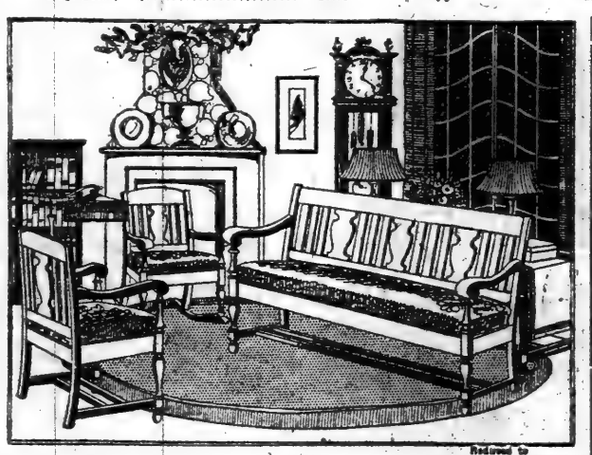
Our Liberal Credit Terms

On $ 35 Purchase	.50 a Week
On $ 75 "	$1.00 a "
On $100 "	$1.50 a "
On $200 "	$3.00 a "
On $250 "	$3.50 a "
On $300 "	$4.50 a "
On $500 "	$7.50 a "

Larger Amounts in Proportion

Our Credit Requires No Extra Charges
No Interest Added

You may open an account with a single sale article or as many as you want at the sale prices



$180 Tapestry Living Room Suit—Three Pieces Reduced to 119.74

This is an exceptionally well constructed suit. The frames are mahogany finish. The seats are soft upholstered and covered in fine fancy tapestry. The pieces are sold separately at $53.86 for the Settee and $28.83 each for the Arm Chair and Arm Rocker.

Cash or Credit.

Pay for This Suit $1.50 Weekly.

Sale of Outfits

3-Room Outfit, $269.	4-Room Outfit, $359	5-Room Outfit, $450
Pay for it $3.50 weekly	Pay for it $5 weekly	Pay for it $6 weekly
3-Room Outfit of Period Furniture, $650	4-Room Outfit of Period Furniture, $850
Pay for it $9 weekly	Pay for it $12 weekly

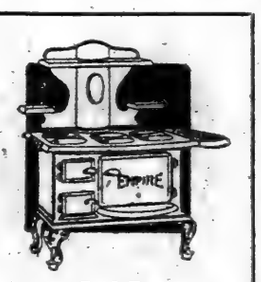
Lift Top Refrigerator Was $13.50 REDUCED TO 12.98

Cash or Credit.

Golden Oak, galvanized food chamber. Size 18 in. wide, 14 in. deep, 28 in. high.



Coal Ranges Were $40 REDUCED TO 25.79

Cash or Credit.

High shelves extra, $5.78. Six holes; good baker.

Sonora — Clear as a Bell

The Highest Class Talking Machine in the World $160

Pay $10 Down and $2 Weekly.

Victrolas, Grafonolas, Sonoras and Superiones from $25 to $1,500

LUDWIG BAUMANN'S THREE GREAT STORES

144 146 West 125 St.

We Give Sperry Gold Stamps

35 TO 36 St. Block 8th Ave.

NEWARK, N. J. 49-51 Market Street

We have no connection with any other Stores.——These are our only three Stores.

FASHIONS NEW FROCKS

UNDER Southern skies, at the Southern resorts, is the place to see the new Summer clothes worn, and wherever we go there, in search of fashion's inspirations, we are greeted by organdies and voiles, taffetas and Summer silks—anything that is light in weight and transparent in texture. From the look of the new, thin frocks one imagines that the old-fashioned style books have been combed and everything of a mediocre type discarded without further notice, for we are confronted with only the best, the most exquisite, the simplest and the most picturesque of designs. One sight of the clothes in a shop here and a wild desire seizes one to take the first train for the South in search of an opportunity to wear some of these lovely things.

It is necessary for us here to wear furs and woolen wrappings, but many are the fortunate ones who are migrating to a more gentle climate, and they are busily buying outfits directly the opposite of the heavier coverings. Nothing is more refreshing it is to enter a shop and see displayed all those fresh and dainty garments while imagination supplies the necessary surrounding. There comes a picture of the Southern sea with its beach dotted by colorful clothes all made according to the latest dictates of a fashion decree. All of the reports show a heavy traffic toward the Southland and all of the shops report just as heavy a buying of fashionable thin clothes.

One of the New Sport Suits From Paris. Designed by Lelong, at Left. It Has Cotton Poplin Skirt and Blue Serge Coat. At Right, Design for Navy Blue Coat Dress in Blue, Embroidered With Touches of Red, Also by Lelong.

Dimities and organdies and printed muslins are the thin things for dressy occasions that have received the greatest amount of attention. And they are not only for the time being. They are setting a pace for our own summertime later on; any innovation now advanced is one that carries weight, for it may be the thing that will rule the fashions of our coming summertime. They cannot be ignored, these Southern fashions. Even if one is not among those who are to wear the newer things at once, still they hold their interest as an indication for dresses to come. Many are they, too, who take advantage of the chance to be forehanded and have their Summer things made up at this time of the year. Now there is the most varied choice of new cottons and silks. Later they will be picked over in the stores and not nearly so great a variety will be available. Now one can attend to fittings and designings without being prostrated by the heated blasts of late Spring and Summer days. One's mind works more freely and is more subject to the inspiration supplied by the fresh new things being displayed around every corner.

The materials allowed for smart Summer frocks are as numerous as the days of the summertime. There is no hard and fast rule about what shall be worn and what shall be taboo. Indeed, if ever there was a chance for latitude it is right here and now, and the individual may choose her clothes according to her own likings and desires with never a fear that they will be running far afield. Organdie is perhaps the favorite of all the thinner materials only because it is so very becoming to almost every type of womanhood and girlhood, and childhood, for that matter. A few years ago it started its rise in popular favor, and its growth in popularity has been a steadily increasing thing. The colors are what make it so extremely attractive, for they have reached the maximum of perfection. The shades are as scintillating as so much pure color, and the fact that the thinness of the fabric helps to catch and reflect the light is something that is charming in itself. Nothing can put up competition with it. It is safe and sound and unassailable right there on its own platform.

Some of the organdie frocks are made quite elaborately, while others are most simple and unpretentious in construction and workmanship. One of the more intricate models is made of a sort of maize colored organdie, trimmed with inserts of the same color and material made in fine pin tuckings. These shapes are oval, are inserted at intervals on the full skirt and are outlined by bands of lace insertion shaped to conform with the outlines of the oval motifs. The lace is cream colored and adds the only note of relief from the predominance of the maize color. Another organdie model has a skirt with narrow ruffles extending all the way and in close succession from the hem to the waist. A panel just in front is made of the organdie unadorned by ruffles, and there is a finely tucked vest, with a sort of an apology for an eton jacket. There is a velvet ribbon girdle of dark sage green, while the organdie in the gown is of that light and singing green.

Then there are the dotted Swisses—sisters to the organdie family. They have dots of color and dots of the same shade as the foundation material, dots that are large and dots that are small, dots that are separated by many inches from each other and dots that are close together. Each new arrangement of the little spots gives a whole new appearance and character to the fabric, and each new handling by a designer gives a new touch that makes the frock stand out as something quite exquisite and fresh among all the others. On the new Summer frocks there are overskirts a-plenty, and there is one of jade dotted organdie made in a sort of Princess line with side panels that are full and make an effect like an overskirt. The only trimming on this gown is an edging of maize organdie laid on in a two-inch double fold and outlining the edges of the overskirt, the neckline and the bell shaped sleeves. It is an attractive color combination and a new idea in the use of a combination of dotted Swiss and plain organdie.

A dimity frock is an indispensable part of any of the present Summer wardrobes, for this fabric has been perfected in a most remarkable manner both as to dye and weave. It has a distinct character of its own. One of these in a bright pink crossbar is made with a full skirt that has tiny flutings of the frock's material running up either side from the hem to the waistline. It has a wide and rounded sash edged by the same sort of flutings, and the bodice is made quite snugly fitting, with the same little pleatings running about the edges of the neck and sleeves.

One of the very newest materials is a printed muslin, which description in itself means nothing. But when it is realized that the muslin is a very thin open weave and that the designs are the tale takes on a different light. A dress made from this fabric has a full skirt and a fitted bodice. The hem of the skirt is cut in scallops, each of which is bound with the tiniest of bias white organdie bindings. There is a folded white organdie collar for a finish at the low cut and rounded neckline and there are turned back folds of the white at the edges of the short sleeves. One can imagine this frock worn with a drooping hat of black with some old-fashioned roses for trimming or even with an exaggerated poke bonnet.

Those frocks of two materials are holding their own. They are done in the sports clothes of which the American woman is so fond, and they are done with the chints prints and sateens and ginghams from which those charming morning frocks are made. There is a combination of printed sateen and soft white French voile that is quite beautiful. The print is in yellow and black and the crepe is in white. The bodice and the draped overskirt are of the former material, while the full underskirt and the set-in sleeves are made of the latter fabric. It makes a frock that is distinctly novel in its design and one that is as practical as it is graceful looking.

Then there are the chintzes made up with plain percales or rather the same material in a plain color. There is a flowered chintz in blue and white and black made up into panels for the skirt and a tiny overbodice having for its foundation an underdress of plain blue. There is a plaid yellow and black gingham, which has a pleated skirt arranging the plaid design so that it looks just right, and then a little surplice bodice of plain yellow cleverly fitted and supplied with spreading collar and cuffs of the plaid from which the skirt is made.

There are the sports clothes of which particular notice must be taken, because they do constitute so large a part of our dressing as a whole. They are the foundation of any outdoors outfit and so great a variety is offered for their choice that it is almost necessary to know just which things are best and which are only nearly best. The sports suit of heavy or light homespun is always good, and this season more particularly than ever because so many smart women have adopted it as a part of their outfitting, whether for the city or the country. It is at its best, however, in the latter setting, and happy is the woman who has a suit of this character to buy just now, for so many perfectly wonderful shades and tones are offered for her selection. The cuts of the suits are as plain as possible, the box coat and the strictly straight skirt being the most desirable if the hardest to find and to have fitted. A suit of this type should really be fitted to the individual figure in order to be right, and it is not always possible for every one to do this. There are other suits with longer coats and big patch pockets and more fullness in the fronts and backs of the coats, with pockets in the skirts and so on.

One of the latest ideas in an informal outdoors suit is shown in the illustration on this page. It has a skirt made of a French material that is a red pique weave with a plaid of black stripes making its pattern. It is a most effective piece of material and hangs into the folds of the skirt with the utmost ease and adaptability. Then the loosely fitting very dark blue serge jacket is a proper complement to the vividness of the skirt. This combination promises to be one of the popular ones for Spring, for it is one of the most exclusive that has been chosen for exploitation at southern resorts.

The other frock that is illustrated shows a very popular type of coat dress. Indeed this sort of street frock has received all sorts of attention, not only for street wear but for traveling purposes. This one happens to be made of a corded dark blue silk, very heavy and thick in texture, but the dressmakers here are having a big success with Canton silk crepes in dark colors and gray, made up along the same severely simple lines that are indicated here. This frock, by Lelong, has intricate little trimmings of red embroidery and, on the whole, carries its unmistakable Frenchy look along with it. But it is only an indication de luxe of what will be the best sort of street or traveling dress to be worn when the need of a coat is no longer paramount.

Of the silk frocks, both for formal and informal wear, there is not space here to give them the attention that they really deserve and an adequate description of them will have to be put over until some future date, for silk frocks are to be, from all indications, more popular than ever they have been and surely the fabrics for them are an inspiration. Suffice it to say that gray in many tones, but especially the pearl gray, will be the greatest thing this season. In silk, in cotton fabrics, and in cloth it is being done over and over again, and the women who are now buying the new Summer things seem to give this color preference above all others. There are gray linens, gray organdies and Swisses, gray duvetyns, both cotton and silk and wool, gray silks, gray velvets for evening wear, even gray laces. There are gray hats both large and small; in fact there is no end to the variations that are indulged in with this pale color for the foundation. And it is gray without any relief, for there is no tendency to use bright colors for a complement or a trimming except in isolated cases. The idea is to have it gray, and gray as can be, no matter what the gown or the fabric.

STILL ARGUING ON RUSSIA

H. G. WELLS and Henry Arthur Jones continue to argue about Russia in open letters to London newspapers.

Mr. Wells observes in the course of a recent letter: "He must have said that I am the enemy of no country but my own two or three score times; and he must have called me 'My dear Wells' several hundred times. * * * Nobody has ever bored me as Mr. H. A. Jones has bored me in the last six months."

Mr. Jones, whose recent letters in THE NEW YORK TIMES are about to be issued in book form by the Duttons, has added a chapter or so for use in the book. Included in his addenda is the following comment on Mr. Wells's answer to Winston Churchill's attack:

"Now, my dear Wells, I will ask you to take up your own reply to Mr. Churchill. * * * I find that your article takes up 557 printed lines. You are arguing with your opponent upon the most serious of all questions that just now concern mankind. How many lines of your paper would you say should be given to argument? Fix in your own mind the least number of lines out of 557 that your readers might reasonably expect you to set apart for plain, simple argument that makes an appeal to their judicial faculties. * * * There are 17 lines which you might doubtfully claim as argument, and which I will allow you. Of the remaining 520 lines, you give no less than 165, almost a third of the whole paper, to personal detraction, insinuation, comment and criticism relating to Mr. Churchill, his career, his character, his mistakes, his political aims and ambitions."

PAPER SAVING IN ST. LOUIS.

WASTE paper conservation has become a sort of indoor sport in most of the schools of St. Louis, Mo. This movement had its inception in April, 1916, and today over 100,000 pupils in 135 schools are participating in the work. The pupils bring old newspapers and magazines to school to be sold for the benefit of the Teachers' Benevolent Annuity Association, and in order to stimulate interest on the part of the pupils, some schools have instituted contests with one room pitted against another. In some schools a banner is awarded the room having the largest collection of papers, to be retained until some other room makes a better record.

For the school year which ended June, 1920, 858 tons of paper were collected. Of this amount, 784 tons consisted of newspapers and 94 tons consisted of magazines. The sale of waste paper during the school year of 1919-20 netted a profit of $17,826, the expense of the operation being $3,367.

Would your husband marry you again?

For 3,000 years supreme

Palm and olive oils were Cleopatra's cosmetics. They were the luxuries of the Greek and Roman baths.

They were the basis of all ancient beauty. Now modern experts go overseas to get them, and blend them for you in this scientific way.

There never has been, and never will be, anything to match them for the skin.

Other soaps cost five times more

There are soaps which cost five times as much as Palmolive. Most facial soaps are higher priced. But there are no soap ingredients more costly than palm and olive oils.

There is nothing so luxurious.

It is only because we make it for millions that Palmolive sells at 10c.

Palmolive factories work day and night to supply the demand. The costly oils are bought in enormous quantities.

Result, the popular 10-cent price and the most popular toilet soap in the world.

Fortunate is the woman who can answer "yes." But many a woman, if she is honest with herself, is forced to be in doubt—after that she pays stricter attention to her personal attractions.

A radiant skin, glowing and healthy, is more than a "sign" of youth. It is youth. And any woman can enjoy it.

Beauty's basis is pure, mild, soothing soap. Never go to sleep without using it. Women should never overlook this all-important fact. The basis of beauty is a thoroughly clean skin. And the only way to it is soap.

There is no harm in cosmetics, or in powder, rouge, if you frequently remove them. Never leave them on overnight.

The skin consists of countless glands and pores. They clog with oil, with dirt, with perspiration—with refuse from within and without.

The first requirement is to cleanse those pores. And soap alone can do that.

A costly mistake

Harsh, irritating soaps have led many women to omit soap. That is a costly mistake. A healthy, rosy, clear, smooth skin must be a clean skin, first of all.

There is no need for irritating soap. Palmolive soothes and softens while it cleans. It is based on palm and olive oils.

Force the lather into the pores by a gentle massage. Every touch is balmy. Then all the foreign matter comes out in the rinsing.

If your skin is very dry, use cold cream before and after washing.

No medicaments

Palmolive is just a soothing, cleansing soap. Its blandness comes through blending palm and olive oils. Nothing since the world began has proved so suitable for delicate complexions.

All its beneficial effects come through gentle, thorough cleaning. There are no medicaments. No drugs can do what Nature does when you aid her with this scientific Palmolive cleansing.

Millions of women get their envied complexions through the use of Palmolive soap.

THE PALMOLIVE COMPANY
MILWAUKEE, U. S. A.
THE PALMOLIVE COMPANY OF CANADA, Limited
TORONTO, ONT.

Volume and efficiency enable us to sell Palmolive for 10c

JOHN FORSYTHE & SONS
THE WAIST HOUSE
3 West 42d Street
JANUARY SALE
WASH WAISTS
$2.85 Sizes 34 to 50
3700 NEW WAISTS TO-MORROW — MONDAY
Mail Orders Filled Promptly—Send for Illustrated Folder

Kunderd's Marvelous Ruffled Gladioli

offer something entirely new and original for your garden. Far removed from the common sorts in size and coloring, their ruffled beauty will make your garden distinctive.

Our 1921 Catalog describes ninety-two new sorts introduced for the first time, and illustrates many of them (eight in natural colors), 44 pages of Gladioli descriptions and cultural directions—send today for a free copy.

A. E. KUNDERD
The originator of the "Ruffled Gladioli"
Box 21, Goshen, Indiana, U. S. A.

Bridal Laces
The Devonshire Lace Shop
Now at
54 West 57th St.
Tel. Circle 4655

EUROPEAN REAL ESTATE AT 5c TO 10c ON THE DOLLAR

Attractive future by quick action. Safety for your exchange holding. Get our free booklet, "European Real Estate as a Safe Investment With Possibilities of Large Profits." Write today to Dept. 10A.

AMERICAN EXCHANGE & TOLL CORP.
527 Fifth Ave., New York.

CUTICURA
SOOTHES SKIN TROUBLES

Bathe with plenty of Cuticura Soap and hot water to cleanse and purify. Dry lightly and apply Cuticura Ointment to soothe and help heal. Cuticura Talcum soothes and cools the skin and overcomes heavy perspiration. Delightful, delightful, delightful.

Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Ointment (25 and 50c.) sold throughout the world. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura, Dept. X, Malden, Mass." Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

SOCIETY CURRENT DOINGS

THE third week of January will be marked by several interesting social events. The pace socially has become rather slow. With Lent only a few weeks away, undoubtedly there will be a spurt toward the close of the formal season, although general activities really never cease even with the advent of the penitential days.

Functions for débutantes and the younger element are still in progress, and it looks now as if the Winter will go down in social history as one almost entirely devoted to the younger set.

Weddings now and then break the monotony. The nuptials of Miss Marjorie A. Curtis, daughter of Mrs. H. Holbrook Curtis, and Thomas L. Chadbourne followed close after the announcement of their engagement, being quietly celebrated yesterday at the home of the bride's mother.

The fashionable New Yorkers who happen to be in Canada for the Winter sports, some of them at least, will no doubt attend the wedding on Wednesday, in Montreal, of the Earl of Minto and Miss Marion Cook, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Cook. The Earl is the eldest son of the late Earl of Minto, former Governor General of Canada.

On Saturday Miss Margaret E. Warren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Elliot Warren, will become the bride of Shannon Lord Meany, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Meany of Convent, N. J. The ceremony will be performed in St Thomas's Church, with the subsequent reception at the Warren home, 114 East Thirty-sixth Street.

Still another marriage of an American girl in the nobility. Miss Marjorie Kingsland, daughter of Mrs. Ambrose C Kingsland, according to a cable dispatch from London, is to marry Vicomte Robert de Vaulogé, a member of a prominent family of the French nobility. Mrs. Kingsland and her daughter have lived for some years in Paris. She is a niece by marriage of a reform Mayor of New York, Ambrose C. Kingsland. Another daughter is Mrs. Ivan Barrington White.

***

The Poultry Show starts on Tuesday at Madison Square Garden. Society displays almost as much interest nowadays in poultry as in horses and many owners of estates near town will be among the exhibitors.

Mr and Mrs. Payne Whitney, who have a wonderful place at Manhasset, L. I., will exhibit game birds and water fowls. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Willets of Roslyn, L. I., Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Havemeyer of Mahwah, N. J., and Mr. and Mrs. P. H. B. Frelinghuysen, who have an estate at Bernardsville, N. J., will also exhibit.

The Women's League for Animals is to have a booth throughout the exhibition as at the Horse Show. Mrs. Abbott T Hutchinson, Mrs. Herbert B. Nichols and the Misses Kathryn Baldwin and Florilla Niles are to be in charge.

The next day will be a day of self-denial, as planned by the Women's Emergency Committee of the European Relief Council, of which Mrs. Willard Straight is Chairman, in aid of the destitute children of Europe. On this day the members of 500 women's organizations are asked to omit the principal meal and devote its cost to swell the relief fund. Many prominent society women are members of the Emergency Committee.

A very interesting event of the week past was the opening of New York's first Town Hall. Prominent hostesses have been in charge each day since the formal opening on Wednesday, when Mrs. Charles B. Alexander presided. Mrs. Elgin R. L. Gould was hostess on Thursday, Mrs. Otto H. Kahn on Friday and Mrs. John T. Pratt on Saturday.

Today, which promises to be the biggest day of all, Mrs. Schuyler N. Warren is to be the hostess. Mrs. James Duane Livingston will be among those assisting Mrs. Schuyler. Tomorrow Mrs. Arnold Whitridge is to preside and Mrs. James W. Gerard will be Tuesday's hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. de Forest are giving a small dance at the Colony Club on Friday, for their daughter, Miss Julia Mary de Forest. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fletcher are also giving a dance that night at 640 Park Avenue for their daughter, Miss Jean Fletcher, who was introduced to society last Autumn.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew will entertain at dinner on Saturday evening.

Friday will see the first of the set of subscription dances, known as The Seniors, inaugurated at the Plaza. Mrs. J. Horton Ijams is in charge. The two other dances will be given on Feb. 25 and April 8.

***

Rehearsals are well under way for the entertainment which is to be given by the Junior Auxiliary of St. Luke's Hospital Social Service on the nights of Jan. 23 and 26 at the Hotel Plaza.

The features of the evening will be the presentation of Anatole France's "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" and a French medieval pageant, both to be produced under the direction of Miss Grace R. Henry.

The full cast for the play will include Mrs. Herbert Groesbeck Jr., Miss Carrie D. Mathews, Miss Dorothy Clapp and Leonard Cox, V. E. Macy Jr., Cyril Butler, Robertson Cleveland, Emerson McMillin 3d and J Berry Underhill Jr.

The play will be interpolated with songs and dances. The music will be chosen from old French songs of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, adapted by Gerald Reynolds, who as Terry Reynolds was well known throughout the A. E. F., where he served for over two years with the Y. M. C. A.

The dances will consist of a pavanne, a gypsy dance, and a dance of street children. In the latter will be the Misses Geraldine McAplin, Betty Merchant, Katherine Knapp, Elsie Morrill, Dorothy Morrill, Edith McCoon, Sylvia Seymour, Ethel Potter, Virigina de Haven, Eleanor Coward, Betsy Flagg, Mary Strange, Florence Clendennin, and Louise Reick.

Those who will appear as gypsies will include the Misses Mary Lincoln, Alice Goddard, Helen Lee, Mary Hurd, Elizabeth Thompson, Eleanor Landon, Marie LaMarche, Hope Lincoln, Mariquita Penniman, Eliabeth Hyde, and Helen Hagen.

In the gavotte will be the Misses Carolyn Ferriday, Elizabeth Moffat, Gretchen Schoen, Currie Mathews, Margaret Flint, Ruth Manierre, Rita Boker, Margaret de Forest, Virginia Hagen, and Marguerite Doubleday.

The affair promises to be one of the real treats of January, and booking for seats and boxes is very heavy. The orchestra will be from the Music School Settlement. Miss Eleanor Cromwell of 711 Park Avenue is receiving applications for tickets, and those who wish to be well seated and enjoy a good performance, for a good cause, should apply early.

Boxes have already been taken by Mrs. R. Grosvenor Hutchins Jr., Mrs. Clarence M. Hyde, Mrs. William Willis Ireese, Mrs. John S. Sheppard, Mrs. James Speyer and Mrs. M. F. Loughman.

Among the additional patronesses are Mrs. Stephen Baker, Mrs. Frank L. Mathews, Mrs. Deas Murphy, Mrs. Robert L. Fowler Jr., Mrs. Henry H. M. Lyle, Mrs. Robert Ellis Jones, Mrs. Ancell H. Bale, Mrs. Jocelyn H. Evans, Mrs. Samuel Riker, Mrs. George de B. Greene, Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, Mrs. Mortimer Schiff, Mrs. John C. Jay, Mrs. Edwin Thorne, Mrs. Walter B. James, Mrs. Richard M. Hurd, Mrs. James R. Sheffield, Mrs. Ernest M. Stires, Mrs. William Pierson Hamilton, Mrs. James M. Duane and Miss Josephine Willis.

***

The Bachelors, after a very successful first series of supper subscription dances, have started another series of five, the first of which was held on Friday night in the Della Robbia room at the Hotel Vanderbilt.

The Cutler Comedy Club has arranged to give its thirtieth annual performance on the evening of Feb. 4, in the large ballroom of the Hotel Plaza. The club is to present James C. Montgomery's "Nothing But the Truth."

Willem Mengelberg, the Dutch orchestra leader, was the principal guest at a reception at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Astor, on Friday evening, arranged by the President and Board of Directors of the National Symphony Orchestra. Tomorrow, from 4:30 to 7 o'clock, the Netherlands Chargé d'Affaires at Washington and Mrs. Hubrecht, the Netherlands Committee for Arts, Science and Friendly Relations, will give a reception for Mr. Mengelberg at the Ritz-Carlton.

The Smith College Club is to give a concert at Carnegie Hall on Wednesday evening, Feb. 2, in the interest of the College Endowment Fund. The program will be provided by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, led by Ossip Gabrilowitsch, with Mischa Levitzki as soloist. The committee in charge is made up of Miss Lena Curtis, Chairman; Mrs. Joseph Griswold Deane, Mrs. Ronald C. Lee, Mrs. Herbert Scoville, Mrs. Sidney Neuberg and Miss Virginia Mollenhauer. Among those who have taken boxes are Mrs. Harold I. Pratt, Mrs. Seth Milliken Jr., Mrs. Dwight Morrow, Mrs. William Crittenden Adams, Mrs. Cornelius Zabriskie, Mrs. James S. Cushand Mrs. J. Amory Haskell.

***

It will not be long now until the annual Charity Ball blazes forth at the Waldorf-Astoria. All social roads will lead to the hotel on the night of Feb. 1. Meantime, all the various committees are meeting and tickets are being sold like the proverbial hot cakes, for the sixty-fourth promises to be the most brilliant of all.

On the Floor Committee this season are Lawrence Smith Butler, George H. Sullivan and Major Henry G. Sanford. Of course, the Directors and managers of the New York Nursery and Child's Hospital, for the benefit of which the ball is given from year to year, are to play an important part in the success of the function. Mrs. James W. Gerard is the new President of the Ball Committee.

Additional patronesses for the Union Settlement Ball, to be held at the Ritz-Carlton on the evening of Jan. 28, have been announced by Mrs. H. P. Davison, Chairman of the Ball Committee. Some of them are Mrs. J. Clifton Edgar, Mrs. R. Burnham Moffat, Mrs. Ira Davenport, Mrs. Eugene Hodenpyl, Mrs. Hermann M. Biggs, Mrs. Willis D. Wood and Mrs. L. Amory Haskell.

Mrs. John A. Drake has announced the names of the committee for the Cupid's Ball, the fancy dress affair which she is giving in behalf of Free Milk for Italy, at the Hotel Vanderbilt on Monday evening, Jan. 31. Mrs. Orestes Farrara, Mrs. William Wallace Jr., Mrs. Edward N. Breitung, Mrs. Edwin R. Campbell, Mrs. Rutherford Bingham, Mrs. Allen G. Wellman and Miss Adeliza Morton Murphy are among the members.

Mrs. Algernon Sydney Sullivan has consented to accept the Chairmanship of the Mardi Gras ball, which is to be held at the Ritz-Carlton on the evening of Shrove Tuesday, Feb. 8, under the auspices of the New York Auxiliary of the Southern Industrial Educational Association, to raise a fund for schools and working implements in the mountain regions of the South.

SAVE SOLDIERS' BOOTHS

APPROXIMATELY three years ago the War Camp Community Service, now called the New York Community Service, put up a number of booths or kiosks in some of the streets of the city for the purpose of helping the stranger in khaki find his way about town and to give him any additional aid he might need that would help dispel the notion in his brain that New York was the loneliest city in the world. Eigteen of these booths were erected, to be exact.

It was believed at the time that with the end of the war would come a cessation of the need of this type of service, and that the booths would be shut down. The end of the war came, but the requests for help, instead of decreasing, increased. In December, 1918, for instance, 76,319 soldiers applied for help; in July, 1919, there were 113,495. By that time the number of information booths had been reduced to eight. Nevertheless, the returned soldier or sailor managed to find them and turned to them for help in the same manner as a mariner turns to a lighthouse to get his bearings.

During the early part of 1919 it was decided to extend this information service to the general public as well as to the service man and ex-service man. It was found that the civilian stranger turned to them in almost as great numbers as the soldiers. Nevertheless, retrenchment demanded that the number of booths be still further reduced to meet the budget of the War Camp Community Service. Today there are only three of these booths. Lack of funds to maintain them may force them to quit.

It was the soldier for whom the booths were put up. They helped him during war times. Today it is the ex-soldier who is turning to them for aid. He comes for help and information along all sorts of lines, it is asserted. Not the least important among them is the man who finds himself without a bed to sleep in and without a job to work at. Innumerable stories are told at the headquarters of the committee of men who have been placed on their feet through efforts of the men and women connected with the information service.

Mrs. A. Everett Skinner, who is in charge of this feature of the work, declared in an interview that it was important that the service be kept up during the present industrial depression.

"It is the spirit of the women in the booths and the thing that the booths primarily stand for that helps the ex-service men most," she said. "The men know that the service was originally intended for them; they have come to feel that it is one of the few things left of the war spirit and war enthusiasm.

"Appreciating this attitude on the part of the men, all of whom or most of whom are in civilian clothes today, we have tried to mold our work in a manner to meet their needs. A man, pretty much broken in spirit, jobless, hopeless, will come here and ask whether we could refer him to a place where he could get a room at a low cost. We do. That is one phase of the work which we have developed. It very often develops that the boy is out of work. Assured that the boy is all right and just down on his luck temporarily, we make plans to guarantee his room rent until the boy can find some work to do.

"We have no employment department, but in emergency cases we have managed to get jobs for a number of the boys. We get in touch with people who we think can use another man in their organization, it is definitely ascertained whether they want us to send the boy down to them, and, if they do, the boy is dispatched. All the time we keep on assuring the stranded ex-soldier that we are behind him, that something certainly will turn up in short order. It is spirit he needs more than anything in most instances, and we give it to him. We try to fit him into the groove or peg hole where he will be most comfortable. We try to help him out when he thinks he has been cornered by Fate and there is nothing for him to do but lie down and die. The civilian service has also grown beyond any plans made for it.

"Altogether, over 340,000 questions vital to their welfare were answered persons during the past year at the information booths operated in the city by the New York Community Service.

"Over 70,000 questions were answered convalescent service and service men, while over 60,000 ex-service men received the information they sought. Men, women and girls, strangers to the city, disabled veterans taking vocational training here, secured suitable living quarters and employment through inquiring at the booths, and much other information, and residents of the city benefited equally.

"The workers in our information service have gathered all the possible information about everything. At the booths questions are answered on every conceivable topic, sometimes even as to where persons are the inquirers haven't seen for years.

"Among the questions were: Suitable living quarters, educational institutions, employment, reconstruction work abroad, business, even as to export trade in South America; social life, bonus, compensation, &c., for service and former service men.

"The big point about the information service of these booths is that the booths are a concentration of practically anything anybody would want to know. A question is asked. It is answered immediately from our colossal collection of facts."

The organization lacks the funds today to keep the booths open for the next four months. The sum of $5,000 is needed to assure their existence until June, when other arrangements will be made to run them. Checks should be sent to the Information Bureau, New York Community Service, 15 East Fortieth Street, New York City.

THRIFT WEEK.

NATIONAL THRIFT WEEK, designed to impress on the people of this country the importance of thrift, begins tomorrow, on the anniversary of the birth of the great preacher of thrift, Benjamin Franklin.

Thrift week has been provided with a program for each day. Monday is thrift or bank day; Tuesday, budget day; Wednesday, life insurance day; Thursday, own your own home day; Friday, make a will day; Saturday, pay up day; Sunday, share with others day. It is expected that the Four Minute Men and other speakers in theatres, factories, stores and other places will tell why thrift is desirable and explain how it may be made effective, and on Sunday next the pastors of the city are expected to impress their congregations with the idea.

Co-operating with the Y. M. C. A., which is sponsor for the Thrift Week, are the United States Treasury Department—Savings Division; American Bankers Association, United States League of Building and Loan Associations, National Federation of Construction Industries, National Association of Real Estate Boards, and life underwriters, fire insurance men, credit men, women's clubs, Y. W. C. A. and many other groups.

Tomorrow being a Franklin anniversary, many of these societies as well as prominent individuals will pay reverence to his memory and teachings at the Franklin statue in Printing House Square, by laying wreaths there. Probably there will be speakers and brief exercises. Others will pay tribute at the Franklin tablet in the Hall of Fame.

Thrift posters and display cards have been distributed over the city, advertisements will call attention to Thrift Week, and each district of the city will put on a program intended to reach every resident and worker of the section. Altogether it is explained that New York will have the precept of thrift—wise spending—impressed as never before. The committee in charge will continue throughout the year its thrift propaganda.

CHILDREN AS MANIKINS.

AMERICAN merchants, quick to take up any movement tending to increase woman's buying, have done little toward employing child manikins to show off juvenile clothing. This custom has taken hold in England and in France during the last several months.

Little girls from 5 to 14 years of age have had prominent parts in fashion shows in the shops over there, particularly in London suburban stores. They wear huge bows in their carefully curled hair. Frock after frock, coats and hats in numbers are put on them, and they parade about the floors, showing fond mothers how their little ones would look if dressed in a like outfit. The little girls are said to glory in their employment. It is hard to get little boys, however, to show off juvenile masculine attire.

L. Bamberger & Co.

"ONE OF AMERICA'S GREAT STORES"

NEWARK, N. J.

The gowns the smartly dressed woman will wear for Spring—

—are in the collection of four hundred new models which we shall show on Monday for the first time.

A representative assemblage, presenting the newest ideas of the authoritative makers of correct costumes for every hour of the fashionable woman's day—

At a price range which begins so low, and ascends so gradually, that every woman may find the types of dresses she prefers at just about what she has in mind to spend.

Perfectly tailored cloth models for street wear. Soft silks and satins in the new weaves for afternoon and dinner wear. Surpassingly lovely evening gowns. Colorful sports silk, conforming with Fashion's smartest notions. Priced 35.00 to 169.50.

Bamberger's—Third Floor.

Wool Blankets and Comfortables 25% Off Regular

Every wool blanket, steamer rug, auto robe and comfortable in our entire stock is subject to this 25% reduction at the time of purchase. Thus you may choose—

All-wool blankets	regularly	15.00 to 50.00	at 11.25 to 37.50
Part-wool blankets	"	6.00 to 30.00	at 4.50 to 22.50
Auto Robes	"	9.00 to 50.00	at 6.75 to 37.50
Steamer Rugs	"	9.00 to 75.00	at 6.75 to 56.25
Wool-filled comfortables	"	8.50 to 22.50	at 5.88 to 16.88
Down-filled "	"	25.00 to 30.00	at 18.75 to 22.50
Cotton-filled "	"	3.50 to 20.00	at 2.63 to 15.00

Bamberger's—First Floor.

Entire Stock of Furniture Reduced

In taking the radical price-reductions for this Half-Yearly Sale, now in progress, we have overlooked absolutely nothing. So it matters not what you may select, the price is much less than regular. And remember, this sweeping and unrestricted offer applies to Bamberger furniture "of enduring quality," conscientiously and skilfully wrought, artistically designed and carefully finished.

Bamberger's—Fourth & Fifth Floors.

Fore! The Indoor Golf School Is Now Open

Come and learn to play this great game, so that in the Spring you can walk up to the first tee swinging your driver with plenty of confidence in your ability and knowledge of the fine points of the game. During the absence of Mr. William Scott, now in Europe, Mr. Harry Avery, professional of the Mountain Ridge Golf Club, is in charge. Make reservations now for either lessons or practice.

Bamberger's—Sixth Floor.

All-Linen Pattern Table Cloths and Napkins at Low Prices

Pure linen, closely woven and fully bleached in beautiful pattern table cloths and napkins to match—featured in the great Bamberger Linen Sale. A wonderful assortment of square and circular designs. Exceptionally low priced.

70x70 table cloths made to sell for 12.50, at 9.50
70x88 table cloths made to sell for 15.00, at 11.50
22x22 napkins made to sell for 16.50 at 12.50 doz.
70x70 table cloths made to sell for 13.50, at 10.00
70x88 table cloths made to sell for 16.00 at 12.50
22x22 napkins made to sell for 16.50 at 13.50 doz.
70x70 table cloths made to sell for 16.50 at 13.00
70x88 table cloths made to sell for 20.00 at 16.00
70x106 table cloths made to sell for 25.00 at 19.00
22x22 napkins made to sell for 25.00 at 16.00 doz.

Bamberger's—First Floor.

Half Price Sale of Ultra Smart Mink Coats

Truly is mink one of the aristocrats of the fur world—and never has this glorious fur better displayed its right to supremacy than in these luxurious models, with their wealth of skins, graceful lines, and high type of workmanship. At half-price they present savings too great to be overlooked by any woman who has been planning to buy a fur coat.

1150.00 natural mink coat, 36-inch, at 575.00
1375.00 natural mink coat, 40-inch, at 675.00
1495.00 natural mink coat, 45-inch, at 745.00

Cut on the season's best lines, with deep cape collars, full bel cuffs, and linings of silk in the colorful effects that are so fashionable To own a mink coat is to be filled with pride in its possession for many years. Happy, indeed, the woman who secures one of these.

Bamberger's—Third Floor.

A Limited Number of Fine Clocks on Sale

In an effort to reduce our stock as much as possible before taking inventory, we have selected a number of fine clocks and marked the prices down. They are all excellent timekeepers.

1 French clock; distinctive tambour shape; Circassian walnut; eight-day, with strike; regularly 65.00, at 32.50.

1 French clock; semi-gothic shape; mahogany; eight-day, with strike; regularly 65.00, at 32.50.

1 French clock; Circassian walnut; lever movement; eight-day; regularly 50.00, at 25.00.

2 French clocks; mahogany; eight-day, with strike; regularly 35.00, at 17.50.

Bamberger's—First Floor.

Unquestionably Our Greatest Sale of Oriental Rugs, Now In Progress

Every rug in our entire magnificent assemblage is now marked so low that those who have been waiting lower prices need delay no longer—but buy now.

Everything seems to indicate that bed-rock levels have been reached in quotations on Oriental rugs. What is more, it is inconceivable that floor-coverings of this character will be offered again for a long time at such pronounced margins of savings as this Half-Yearly Sale affords. With prices brought down to such exceedingly low figures, surely this would seem the logical time to buy.

It will be well to bear in mind that the entire stock of Persian, Turkish, Chinese and Indian rugs is embraced by this sale, from the finest of large room sizes to modest little mats. Not a single rug is excepted.

Saruk, 9x11.10 ft.	1200.00	Extra Mahal, 8.3x11.8 ft.	285.00	Saruk, 7x10 ft.	720.00
Chinese, 9x12 ft.	450.00	Extra Arak, 8.11x13 ft.	628.00	Kirmanshah, 8.5x11.4 ft.	640.00
Melaghie, 10x13 ft.	540.00	Saruk, 9.7x12.6	1200.00	Chinese, 8.11x11.10 ft.	400.00
Heriz, 10x14.4 ft.	445.00	Chinese, 10x13.8 ft.	585.00
Sivas, 8.2x11.7 ft.	425.00	Chinese, 11.4x13.8 ft.	650.00	Small Oriental Rugs
Extra Mahal, 8.10x12.3 ft.	310.00	Hamadan, 6.8x13 ft.	354.00	A superb assortment in a wide range of fine weaves, fascinating designs and beautiful colorings.
Siestan, 9x11.10 ft.	408.00	Heriz, 8.9x11.9 ft.	495.00
Fine Mahal, 9.2x12.5 ft.	371.00	Serapi, 9.5x12.9 ft.	350.00	MOSSOUL and KURDISTAN PIECES—Davenport sizes, 37.00 to 67.00. Extra fine and large pieces, 70.00 to 87.00.
Melaghie, 8.9x12.4 ft.	468.00	Serapi, 8.9x13.5 ft.	532.00
Mahal, 6.5x10.6 ft.	184.00	Iran, 12.4x16.4 ft.	1400.00

Bamberger's—Fourth Floor.

Important

Super-Savings

(Monday Only)

In instances where the lots in this column are small, and we cannot guarantee that they will remain on sale all day, we state at the bottom of each item: "While quantities last. No mail, phone or C. O. D. orders."

Dining Room Chairs, 6.50
Of American Walnut, regularly 12.50, in Queen Anne design; have brown imitation Spanish leather seats. Arm chairs to match, regularly 17.50, at 9.75. Fifth Floor.

Feather Pillows, 4.50
Regularly 7.00. Live goose feather pillows, size 22x28. Covered with tan and white striped ticking. While lot lasts. Fifth Floor.

56 Inch Storm Serge, 1.98
Navy blue double warp all wool serge, made to sell for 3.50. Sponged and shrunk. While 200 yards last. Second Floor.

Cut-Out Sets, 79c
Mother Goose "Put-me-together" cut-outs, regularly 1.00. Box contains book with objects to cut out, crayons to color the objects and package of clips to put them together. Neatly packed in box. Sixth Floor.

50c Lace Collars, 34c
Venise lace collars in Tuxedo shape, made of white, cream and ecru lace. Suitable for taffeta, silk and cloth dresses or suits. While quantity lasts. First Floor.

3.50 Pie Dishes, 2.50
No. 9 size. Fitted with earthenware inset, mounted in fancy designed, nickel plated, pierced frame. While they last. Basement.

Boys' Hats, 1.39
3.00 cloth alpine hats, stitched; of fancy suitings and plaids; sizes 6½ to 6⅞. No mail, phone, or C. O. D.'s. LIMITED QUANTITY. Second Floor.

All ages—even the kiddies, love

Chateau Frontenac

QUEBEC CANADA

For a real Winter's holiday. No place like it.

Guests enjoy continuous carnivals of thrilling events during January and February. Skiing, tobagganing, snow shoeing. Fancy skating and masquerades on enclosed rink of the Chateau. Big curling bonspiel week of Jan. 24th Indoor golf with professional instructors.

Evenings of good fellowship, music and dance. All the niceties of appointments and service of a Canadian Pacific Hotel

Easy, comfortable trip via Montreal. Reservations thru

CANADIAN PACIFIC HOTELS, 1231 Broadway, New York City or CHATEAU FRONTENAC, Quebec, Canada

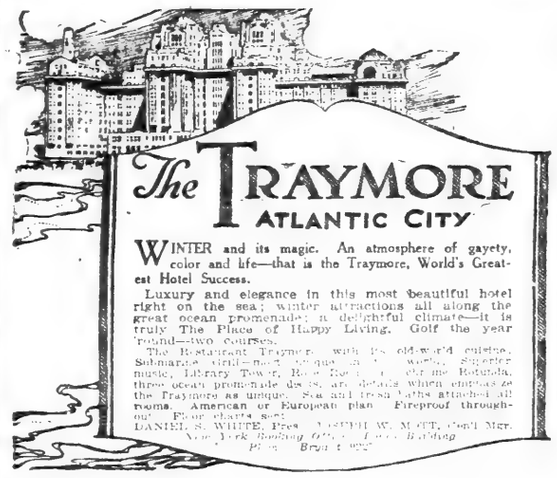
The Ambassador

Atlantic City's Newest and Most Distinctive Hotel

A whole world indoors! Every comfort provided, every wish anticipated, even to your daily plunge in the sea pool, and to the skillful preparation of your favorite dishes. Social life or quietude, as you wish. Dancing afternoon or evening in the Japanese tea room or Pompeiian Grill, and a grand view of the old Atlantic from every window. These are among the features the Ambassador offers. American and European plans. Rates $6 and up, European plan. Write for booklet.

THE AMBASSADOR HOTELS SYSTEM
Ambassador, Atlantic City
Ambassador, New York
Ambassador, Santa Barbara
Ambassador, Los Angeles
Alexandria, Los Angeles

New York Office: 110 East 52d Street. Telephone Plaza 1225.



The TRAYMORE
ATLANTIC CITY

WINTER and its magic. An atmosphere of gayety, color and life—that is the Traymore, World's Greatest Hotel Success.

Luxury and elegance in this most beautiful hotel right on the sea; winter attractions all along the great ocean promenade; a delightful climate—it is truly The Place of Happy Living. Golf the year 'round—two Courses.

The Restaurant Traymore, with its old-world cuisine, Submarine Grill—most unique [illegible] in the world, Superior music, Library Tower, Rose Room [illegible] the Rotunda, three ocean promenade decks, are delights which captivate the Traymore as unique. Sun and Iron Baths attached to rooms. American or European plan. Fireproof throughout. Floor charts sent.

DANIEL S. WHITE, Pres. JOSEPH W. MOTT, Gen'l Mgr.
New York Booking Office, Times Building
Phone Bryant [illegible]

NEW YORK.

HOTEL GRAMATAN

23 minutes from Grand Central. 60 electric trains daily. City conveniences in the country. Dining—Dancing—Daily concerts. Accommodates 400.

Henri Pauchey & Son, Inc., Lessee.
Lawrence Park, Bronxville, N. Y.

Gedney Farm Hotel

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.
EDWARD H. CRANDALL.

Winter Sports, Dancing, Sun Parlor. Open Fireplaces. 38 min. elec. train service. Open All Year. Private motor bus service without charge.

VALHALLA MOUNTAIN HOUSE,
Valhalla, Westchester County, N. Y.
Open all year round.
White Plains 1165.

LAKE MAHOPAC, New York.—Mrs. Cohn accommodates week-end guests; $3.50 day

---

NEW JERSEY.

IDEAL COUNTRY HOME

Hotel Montclair

MONTCLAIR, N. J.
MOST DELIGHTFULLY SITUATED RESIDENTIAL HOTEL IN NEW YORK'S SUBURBS.
OPEN THE ENTIRE YEAR.
OWNERSHIP MANAGEMENT.
FREDERICK C. HALL COMPANY

PUDDING STONE INN

Here among the hills you will find the crisp, dry air of the Mountains inspiring, invigorating. The Outlook soothing as the r[illegible] interesting, changing at the command of a winter day. In the midst of the wood, the Inn, with warm rooms electrically lighted, running water. The food is excellent and the trip short. Folder. Open all year G. N. VINCENT, Boonton, N. J.

Hotel Beechwood

SUMMIT, N. J.

Highest elevation near New York City. Well heated sun parlors facing East, South and West. Open and enclosed porches. Afternoon tea served. Telephone 1064 Summit.

THE NEW PARK HOUSE

Summit, N. J.

30 mins. from N. Y. 600 ft. above the sea. A home for you and your family, with TRUE COMFORT, CLEANLILNESS, COURTESY.
And the best food you ever ate.

NEW JERSEY—Atlantic City.

REDUCED RATES
DURING PRESENT SEASON

The Breakers

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.
ON OCEAN FRONT FIREPROOF

Unusually attractive during Winter and Spring Seasons. Horseback on the beach. Golf. Indoor Swimming and the ever popular "Rolling Chairs" on Boardwalk. Luxuriously appointed lobbies and Sun Parlors with afternoon musicales and complimentary tea service, which invites relaxation. Hot and cold sea-water baths.

AMERICAN AND EUROPEAN PLANS

HOTEL

CHELSEA

Occupying entire block of ocean front in the fashionable Chelsea section.

300 light chambers with private baths (fresh and sea water). High-class orchestra, cafe, grill, etc. French chefs. Golf privileges. Autos meet trains. Booklet. Open all year.

J. B. THOMPSON & CO.

ROYAL PALACE

HOTEL & COTTAGES
on the Beach. Cap. 600
CONVENIENT TO ALL AMUSEMENTS
Sea Baths. DIET KITCHEN. Orchestra
Family Patronage Invited
C. L. HANSTEIN LYMAN J. WATROUS
President Sect. & Mgr.

SHAPIRO'S HOTEL BRITAIN
Vermont & Oriental Aves.

Fireproof—Elevator—Dietary Laws.
Formerly of Maryland Ave.
Bookings for season upon application.

The WILTSHIRE

Virginia Av. and Beach. Cap. 350. Private baths, running water, elevator, etc. Amer. plan. SAMUEL ELLIS, Owner. N. J. COLLINS, Mgr.

Marlborough-Blenheim

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.
JOSIAH WHITE & SONS COMPANY.

THE SENATOR Virginia Ave. at Boardwalk. Fireproof. Running Water. Private baths. Ocean view rooms. Sun parlor. Elevator to street level. Well heated. Special Winter rates $4 per day. American plan.

THE LOCUST Am. Plan. 111 S. Penna. Av. Near Beach. Daily $3.00. Weekly $18.00. Elec. Lights. Private Baths. Running Water. Refined Patronage.

East Coast of FLORIDA

THE GOLFERS' WINTER PARADISE

THE East Coast of Florida is particularly fortunate in having so many superior Golf courses located at various points thereon, and devotees of the ancient game, be they amateur or expert, are cordially invited to avail themselves of the privileges which are freely extended under the usual conditions at all the clubs.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF TOURNAMENTS FOR 1921

At St. Augustine — The St. Augustine Links
Fifth Annual Spring Tournament . . . . Feb. 21st to 26th
Winter Championship of Florida . . . . Mar. 21st to 26th
Address Robert Murray—Hotel Ponce de Leon

At Ormond — Ormond Beach Golf Course
Tomoka Sweepstakes . . . . Jan. 25th to 29th
Ormond Beach Championship . . . . Feb. 14th to 19th Invitation Tournament for Women . . . . Feb. 28th to Mar. 5th Championship at Volusia . . . . Mar. 14th to 19th
Address R. L. Johnston—Hotel Ormond

At Palm Beach—Palm Beach Golf Club, Palm Beach Country Club
Lake Worth Tournament, Jan. 24 to 29—3 sixteens
South Florida Championship, Feb. 7 to 11—5 sixteens
Women's Championship, Feb. 14 to 19—2 sixteens
Championship of Palm Beach, Mar. 7th to 11th—4 sixteens
Address H. E. Smith—Hotel Royal Poinciana

At Miami — Miami Country Club
18 hole course—6046 yards . . . . Par 71
Address Jos. P. Greaves—Hotel Royal Palm

Miami Beach — Nassau Golf Club
Nine hole course—2223 yards . . . . Par 34
Address John W. Greene—Hotel Colonial

Surf Bathing, Tennis, Fishing, Boating, Riding, Etc.
Through Pullmans from all principal cities to Florida East Coast
Resorts with steamer connections for Nassau and Havana

FULL INFORMATION AT 243 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK CITY
Telephones, Madison Square 8230 and 9231

FLORIDA EAST COAST
(Flagler System)

DAYTONA

On the FLORIDA EAST COAST
"The Prettiest Resort in the World"

Combining all the attractions of Ocean, River and Tropical Scenery.

DAYTONA is located on the ocean and beautiful Halifax River, affording the finest Yachting, Fishing and Hunting, as well as surf and still-water Bathing.

PRIVILEGE OF THREE GOLF COURSES
Equable climate. Free musical concerts in the BURROUGHS CASINO. Most central point from which to tour the State. Paved Boulevards in all directions.

For illustrated booklet and general information regarding Daytona, address Chamber of Commerce, Daytona, Fla.

	Capacity		Capacity		Capacity
Ridgewood	275	Despland	250	Prince George	150
Dalton	90	Hotel Schmidt	85	Volusia Inn	80
New Gables	75	Elmhurst	75	Ivy Lane Hotel	75
Oaks	75	Hamilton	70	Howard	70
Palmetto	70	Islington	60	Orange Villa	60
Seville	60	Windsor	60	Pines	50
Poinsettia	40	Prospect	40	Colonial	40
		Lyndhurst	35

For illustrated booklet and general information regarding Daytona, address Chamber of Commerce, Daytona, Fla.

Tampa Bay Hotel

Tampa Bay On the Beautiful West Coast of Florida

SEASON JAN. 18T TO APRIL 16TH

This Magnificent Hotel affords accommodations of the highest order and is famous for its cuisine. The hotel is a fireproof building, surrounded by sixty-five acres of Tropical Park.

Two Eighteen-Hole Golf Courses

Palma Ceia Golf Association—Rocky Point Golf Club.
IDEAL CLIMATE, BOATING, FISHING, TENNIS, MOTORING, HUNTING, WITH INSTRUCTORS, GUIDES AND ATTENDANTS.
For information and reservations address
TAMPA BAY HOTEL, TAMPA, FLORIDA. W. F. ADAMS, Manager. H. A. HASKELL, Ass't Manager.

NEW JERSEY—Lakewood.

Laurel-in-the-Pines

LAKEWOOD, N. J.

Situated among the Pines and overlooking Lake Carasaljo

New "Palm Grill"—18-hole Golf Course, Horseback Riding, Motoring, Picturesque Walks. Music. Private Garage.

New Electro-hydrotherapy Bath system.
FRANK F. SHUTE, Manager.
Branch Offices of GEO. A. HUHN & SONS Members New York Stock Exchange

---

Lakewood Hotel

LAKEWOOD, N.J.

NOW OPEN—CAPACITY 900

Newly furnished and redecorated throughout. Spacious parlors and lounging rooms. Handsome ballroom. Exquisite music. Rooms with baths.

W. JACOBS—R. WINKLER
Managing Directors

HOTEL EMBASSY,

Lakewood, N. J. Telephone Lakewood 351. In the heart of the pines. Newly built and up to date in every respect. All outside rooms. Hot and cold running water. Private baths. Sun parlor. Grill room. Dance hall. Rates $30 up weekly. $6 up daily. Further particulars on application.

SOUTHERN STATES.

ORANGE PARK HOTEL

30 Minutes From Jacksonville

"Where hospitality is a religion and chickens are born fried."

A delightful hotel, offering steam-heated rooms with and without bath. Excellent table. Large, open sunny swimming pool, billiard room, best of fishing and hunting along the famous ST. JOHNS RIVER. Daily bus service to and from Jacksonville. Rates $4 per day up (American plan). Ownership-Management, ORANGE PARK, FLORIDA.

THREE HILLS, WARM SPRINGS

Bath County, Virginia.
Five Miles from Hot Springs.

Elev. 2,700 ft. Fine mountain scenery, driving, riding. Accommodations in private family for few guests all year. Large attractive house, two cottages; garage; electricity, vapor heat, open fires; 40 acres; good table, own garden, eggs, milk, butter.

Tennis court, famous golf links 15 min. by automobile.

$40 and above a week; references.

Apply, MISS ELOISE JOHNSTON.

VILLA ATLANTIQUE

12 Atlantic Ave. Palm Beach, Fla.

A few single rooms, each with private bath, in a very select and private Christian home, with or without meals. (French cooking.) Week, month or season. One hundred yards from ocean. Five minutes' walk from Breakers Hotel. An unusual home for people who want rest and excellent accommodations.

A. M. SCHEDLER
P. O. Box 35 Palm Beach, Fla.

Palm Beach Hotel Adjoins largest hotel. Modern, holds 300, golf. Less formal, more moderate rates. Warm sea baths.

SOUTHERN STATES.

THE DESPLAND

The Largest and Most Modern Hotel at DAYTONA

ON THE FAMOUS FLORIDA "EAST COAST"

OPEN JAN. 3rd. Booklet.

SUPERB OCEAN BEACH	MANY PRIVATE BATHS
SEA BATHING
GOLF
TENNIS	HOT AND COLD RUNNING WATER IN PRACTICALLY EVERY ROOM FISHING
BOATING
DANCING	ELEVATOR
ORCHESTRA	STEAM HEAT
AFTERNOON TEA	ELECTRIC LIGHT

LEON M. WAITE, Manager.

Florida's Most Attractive Resort

Hotel Royal Palm

FORT MYERS

On the beautiful Caloosahatchee River.

OPEN JAN. 8th TO APRIL 10th. 18-hole Golf Course, Grass Greens, Yachting, Horse Back Riding, Motoring, Tennis, Fine Fishing and Hunting. Sulphur Swimming Pool, Orchestra, Elevator, Superior Cuisine. Accommodates 200.

Every Room with Private Bath.
J. L. NELSON, Manager.
Ask Mr. Foster, care of Lord & Taylor store, New York.

THE KIRKWOOD

On Camden Heights
SOUTH CAROLINA
OPEN JAN. TO MAY
18-hole Golf, Riding, Climate
T. EDMUND KRUMBHOLZ

Hotel Bon Air AUGUSTA GA.

Delightful for a Winter Vacation

Two full 18-hole courses—in splendid condition. Horseback riding and all outdoor sports. C. G. TRUSSELL, Manager.

GOLF AT ST. AUGUSTINE
HOTEL ALCAZAR
Now Open
PONCE DE LEON
Now Open
FLORIDA'S IDEAL WINTER CLIMATE

EUSTIS FLORIDA The heart of the OCKLAWAHA HOTEL. Lake Region.
A charming Winter hotel, beautifully remodeled. Good Golf, Fishing, Sailing, Hunting, Motoring. Reasonable Rates.
Lewis N. Wiggins, Owner and Manager.

HOTEL CLARENDON SEABREEZE, FLORIDA, and cottages. Directly on ocean; 18-hole golf course. Booklet on application at 1180 Broadway, New York.

TARPON INN Tarpon Springs, Florida.
West Coast. Each room with bath. Golf, grass green. H. V. DALTON, Mgr.

MANHATTAN HOTEL St. Petersburg, Florida.
Select, modern, winter home hotel.

Asheville
Land of the Sky

America's All-Year Resort

Winter Tourist Headquarters of the Southern Appalachians

A veritable Scenic Wonderland, "In the Heart of the Blue Ridges." In a 100-mile circle around Asheville are 54 peaks 6000 feet and over; Mt. Mitchell 6,711, "Top of Eastern America." Two hours by motor into heart of Pisgah National Forest and Game Preserve, with its herd of elk and other forest life. Road crosses Pisgah a mile high.

18-HOLE ALL-TURF GOLF COURSE

A hundred miles of paved streets and roads. Hundreds of miles of fine motor roads throughout. ON THE DIXIE HIGHWAY. Pure water from 17,000 acre city-owned water shed on Craggy Mountains and eastern slopes of Mt. Mitchell. Handsome cottages, bungalows, residences. Hotel and boarding-house facilities unexcelled.

Come to Asheville for rest, recreation, pleasure, business. Ideal for homes.

Illustrated Asheville Folder and special hotel list free.

H. BUCKNER, Secretary
Board of Trade, Asheville, N. C.

NEW ORLEANS

"The Paris of America"

Central Ticket Offices of all Principal Railroad and Steamship Lines in St. Charles Lobby. Illustrated Folder on Request.

The St. Charles

One of America's leading hotels. Accommodating over 1000 guests.
ALFRED S. AMER & CO., Ltd.
Proprietors

QUI-SI-SANA SPA HOTEL
Green Cove Springs, Florida.

Fireproof hotel with modern improvements and conveniences. Hot sulpho-magnesia springs and baths, golf, bathing casino, tennis, hunting. Rates $5.00 per day and upwards with meals.

Summer connection: Hotel Dunmore, Lake Dunmore, Vt.; Hotel Marion, Lake George, N. Y. ROSCOE A. MAEVEL.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

HAMILTON

14th & K Sts., N. W.
WASHINGTON, D. C.
A Select Family and Transient Hotel

Ideal Location. Modern appointments and home-like. Good table. American plan. Rates reasonable. Special rates for a prolonged stay. Booklet. Irving T. Ball, Prop.

HOTEL GRAFTON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Connecticut Avenue. Location, clientele, cuisine and appointments in every way desirable. American or European plan. HARRINGTON MILLS, Prop.

MICHIGAN.

MOUNT CLEMENS MINERAL BATHS

World renowned for Rheumatism, Nervousness and that run-down condition. Open all the year. Twenty miles from Detroit. Write for Booklet.
Business Men's Assoc., Mt. Clemens, Mich.

BERMUDA

SUMMER LAND IN WINTER TIME.

Why stay in the cold Northland, where expensive fuel and clothing are an absolute necessity? Come to Brooksville, the highest and most beautiful, natural location in Florida, where a man with capital and energy can earn a competence, and live in comfort and health the year round.

The best location in the State for tangerines, dairying and general farming. Scenic beauty unparalleled, a hunter's and fisherman's paradise.

We are giving you an opportunity to deal with a company composed of 90% of the business men of the town, whose only desire is to bring in new settlers to develop the productive and undeveloped resources of the county. Our references, First National Bank, Hernando State Bank, or any business man.

Write for literature and real facts to Brooksville Investment Co., Inc.,
Box 40, Brooksville, Fla.

"40 Hours from frost to flowers"

The Hamilton Hotel

BERMUDA

"The Queen of Winter Resorts"

The largest and finest hotel on the Islands—and of fireproof construction; modern in equipment and operation. Golf, tennis, boating, riding, driving, dancing, fishing, bathing in the sea, glass enclosed sun parlor 200 feet long. Grill, 400 outside rooms—250 with connecting bath.
—Hamilton Hotel Company, Ltd.—

MANAGEMENT OF J. A. SHERRARD
(Booklet). Cable address "Hotel Bermuda"

The ST. GEORGE HOTEL, Bermuda having been thoroughly renovated, will be open to receive guests on FRIDAY, JANUARY 21st, 1921

Under New Management.

Cable address DRAGON BERMUDA. Address Resident Manager ST. GEORGE HOTEL.

HOTEL SALT AIR

WEST PALM BEACH.

Leading hotel, entire block lake front, overlooking Royal Poinciana; hot & cold running water & phone every room; private baths, private balconies, overlooking tropical gardens; spacious verandas; ocean bathing, golf, fishing, sailing; most delightful social life in America. STRAAT & MAAS.

DECRIES PESSIMISM OF BUSINESS MEN.

Francis H. Sisson, in an article in The Annalist (out tomorrow), declaring that readjustment of production and prices is well under way, laments the pessimistic attitude of some business men. Ten cents a copy at news stands; $5.00 a year by mail.

BERMUDA

"Nature's Fairyland"—2 Days from New York

Under Summer Skies in January

In Bermuda, far from the ice and snow of the freezing North, in a quaint old-world setting of incomparable loveliness, you may lazily rest, or play your favorite sports of golf, tennis, riding, driving, motor boating, sailing, bathing and fishing, or dance at the gay parties at the many modern hotels. Join the many charming American families to whom Bermuda is each year a Mecca of vacation enjoyment.

NO PASSPORTS REQUIRED FOR BERMUDA

Two Sailings Weekly, during Jan., Feb., Mar., and April, via Safe, Fast, De Luxe, Twin-Screw Steamers.

S. S. "FORT VICTORIA"	S. S. "FORT HAMILTON"
14,000 Tons Displacement.	11,000 Tons Displacement.
Sailing from New York	Sailing from New York
Jan. 22, 29.	Jan. 19, 28.
Feb. 5, 12, 19, 26.	Feb. 2, 9, 16, 23.

Send for descriptive Literature to

Furness Bermuda Line

34 Whitehall St., New York.
Tel. Bowling Green 7800.

PORTO RICO

Visit this lovely Island of Enchantment with its unsurpassed climate, its luxuriant tropical scenery and its fascinating Spanish old world life.

Miles of splendid automobile roads; excellent hotels, including the new Condado-Vanderbilt, finest resort hotel in the West Indies.

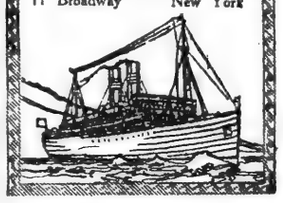
ALL EXPENSE CRUISES
$180 UP

Sailings from New York every Saturday for 16-day cruises, and on alternate Wednesdays for 20-day cruises.

Big, comfortable steamers especially equipped for service in the Tropics. Steamer is your hotel for the entire voyage, and rate covers all necessary expenses to and around the Island and return to New York.

Write for literature

PORTO RICO LINE
General Offices
11 Broadway New York



Quickest time Across the Pacific

To the ORIENT

10 Days to JAPAN
14 Days to CHINA
17 Days to MANILA

TRAVEL IN COMFORT ON THE Empress of Russia
Empress of Asia

Luxurious Accommodations; Single Cabins, Double Cabins, Suites—Bedroom, Sitting Room, Private Bathroom.

TO EUROPE

ST. JOHN, N. B., to LIVERPOOL, GLASGOW, LONDON, SOUTHAMPTON, HAVRE, ANTWERP.

1231 Broadway, New York.
Phone Longacre 4110.
The Canadian Pacific Ocean Services, Ltd.

ITALIAN LINES

NAVIGAZIONE GENERALE ITALIANA
TRANSOCEANICA

NEW YORK—NAPLES—GENOA
ALSO THROUGH RATES TO TRIESTE, LEVANT, PALESTINE, SYRIA AND BLACK SEA PORTS

DUCA ABRUZZI	Feb. 3	Mar. 19
SAN GIOVANNI	Feb. 8	——
F. FALASCIANO	Feb. 10	Mar. 31
DUCA D'AOSTA	Feb. 16	Apr. 6
*TAORMINA	Mar. 5	Apr. 23
*AMERICA	Mar. 12	——

†To Naples and the Levant, Piraeus, Constantinople and Constanza.
*Sailing from Philadelphia day previous.
By New Large Twin-Screw Steamers.
FOR FURTHER INFORMATION APPLY ITALIA-AMERICA, INC.,
1 State St., N. Y. Phone Bowling Green 9400
203 So. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

South America

Direct Passenger Service to Montevideo and Buenos Aires
"Crofton Hall" Jan. 25
Accommodation First Class Passengers only. Spacious and beautifully appointed Public Rooms.

Norton Line

For further particulars apply to NORTON, LILLY & COMPANY
General Agents
26 Beaver St. New York

EGYPT-INDIA
AMERICAN & INDIAN LINE

NEW YORK direct to
PORT SAID, BOMBAY, COLOMBO, MADRAS, RANGOON, CALCUTTA
S.S. CITY OF MARSEILLES, JAN. 20
10,000 Ton Twin Screw Steamer
ALL OUTSIDE ROOMS
First and second class only.
For rates of passage, etc., apply to NORTON LILLY & CO.
26 Beaver St., New York City.
GEN. AGTS. FOR ELLERMAN & BUCKNALL S.S. CO. LTD.

Travel in WINTER To LANDS of SUMMER
MUNSON STEAMSHIP LINES

NOWHERE in the world is Winter so gloriously Summer as on the East Coast of South America—Rio—Montevideo—Buenos Aires.

The colorful, gay life of these Spanish-American capitals, in their verdant settings, is in full swing now. The trip itself is a fascinating voyage thru tropical, romantic seas. Every comfort is provided. Fine steamers of the U. S. Shipping Board. Frequent sailings. Full particulars of any Travel Agency or at the offices of the

MUNSON STEAMSHIP LINES
82-92 Beaver Street, New York

PHILADELPHIA CHICAGO ST. LOUIS BALTIMORE MOBILE

NIPPON YUSEN KAISHA

Fast Palatial Passenger Steamships—of 21,000 tons to

JAPAN, CHINA AND MANILA

From Seattle to Hong Kong via Yokohama, Kobe, Nagasaki, Shanghai and Manila

ALSO FREIGHT SERVICES.
Seattle to the Far East—Fortnightly. New York to the Orient via Panama—Frequently. New York to British Indian Ports—Monthly.
For Particulars of Passage or Freight Apply to Company's Offices.
120 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
RAILWAY EXCHANGE, CHICAGO. COLMAN BUILDING, SEATTLE.

SOUTH AMERICA

Luxuriously appointed passenger steamers of 17,000 tons displacement sailing from New York.

Pernambuco	S. S. Vauban Feb. 15
Bahia
Rio de Janeiro	S. S. Vestris Mar. 10
Montevideo	S. S. Vasari April 23
Buenos Aires	S. S. Vauban June 4

Also frequent large and fast cargo steamers with comfortable accommodation for a few passengers. Connections for all parts of South America. For rates etc., apply Company's office, 42 Broadway, N. Y.

LAMPORT & HOLT LINE

Direct Sailings for

PIRAEUS

By the following steamer of
THE GREEK LINE
S. S. MEGALI HELLAS, Jan. 26
N. GALANOS & COMPANY
20 Pearl St. Phone Bowling Green 9080.

HOLLAND AMERICA LINE

NEW YORK to ROTTERDAM

Via Plymouth, Boulogne-Sur-Mer

ROTTERDAM	Noon Jan. 25 Mar. 1 Apr. 9
RYNDAM	Noon Feb. 12 Mar. 19 Apr. 23
N. AMSTDAM.	Noon Feb. 19 Mar. 26 Apr. 30
NOORDAM	Noon Apr. 2 May 7

General Passenger Office, 24 State St., N. Y.

Australia

OCEANIC STEAMSHIP CO.

Fast U. S. mail s. Sonoma, Ventura, 16,000 tons. Lloyds A1 register. Delightful service. Sydney short line—Samoa, Honolulu. Quickest passage. Lowest Rates. Pacific Tours. $522. 1st Class. Sonoma $325 Jan. 25; Ventura March 1st. R. E. Barratt, 17 Battery Pl., N. Y. Oceanic Bldg., 2 Pine St., San Francisco, Cal.

Fast Trans-Continental Service. Hotel System—Atlantic to Pacific. CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY. F. R. PERRY, Gen. Agent, Passenger Dept. 1,231 Broadway, New York City.

U.S. MAIL STEAMSHIP COMPANY Inc.

100% American 100% Service

NEW YORK—
QUEENSTOWN (Westbound)
—BOULOGNE—LONDON

First Class Only—Luxurious New 16-Knot Ships

	Sailings:
OLD NORTH STATE:	Jan. 18—Feb. 19
PANHANDLE STATE:	Feb. 5—Mar. 12

NEW YORK—NAPLES—GENOA
PRINCESS MATOIKA
Sailing Jan. 20—Cabin and 3d Class Only

NEW YORK—BREMEN—DANZIG
S. S. SUSQUEHANNA
Cabin and Third Class Only.
Sailing February 19—April 6
Passenger Dept., 45 Broadway, N. Y.
Phone 1200 Whitehall.

BALTIC AMERICAN LINE

Direct Fortnightly Passenger Service
New York—Hamburg—Danzig—Libau
By Twin Screw Passenger Steamer

ESTONIA	Feb. 1	March 16
POLONIA	Feb. 15	March 30
LITUANIA	Mar. 4	April 15

Bookings for 1st and 2nd Class can now be made.
For further information apply to
A. E. JOHNSON & CO., Gen. Pass. Agt.
42 Broadway, N. Y. Phone Broad 660.
Freight Office
East Asiatic Co., 60 Wall St., N. Y.
Phone Hanover 5913.

AUSTRALIA

HONOLULU, SUVA, NEW ZEALAND
The Palatial Passenger Steamers

R.M.S. "Niagara"	R.M.S. "Makura"
20,000 Tons	13,500 Tons

Sail from Vancouver, B. C.
For fares and sailings apply Canadian Pac. Ry., 1,231 Broadway, N. Y., or to Canadian-Australasian Royal Mail Line, 440 Seymour St., Vancouver, B. C.

Transatlantic Italiana

Largest and Fastest Steamers of the Italian Mercantile Marine
Direct Passenger Service Between NEW YORK—GENOA—NAPLES.
Dante Alighieri Sailing from NEW YORK. Jan. 29
1st Class, $250 up; 2d Class, $160 up.
GIUSEPPE VERDI Feb. 11
McDONNELL & TRUDA, General Agents
8 State Street, New York.

RAYMOND-WHITCOMB

The Best in Travel — TOURS & CRUISES — The Best in Travel

FLORIDA & NASSAU

January 20, 24, 27 & 31 and throughout February and March
Visit the famous Florida resorts at the height of their brilliant season. Our tours include both the East and West Coasts, the Lake Region and picturesque Nassau. They insure you accommodations at the great hotels.

CALIFORNIA

January 19, 24, 26 and 31 and throughout the Winter
For forty-one years Raymond-Whitcomb tours have been the ideal way to visit California. This winter they include also the Grand Canyon, the Apache Trail, Colorado and New Orleans. Five to seven weeks in length.

EUROPE

Winter and spring tours of varied length and itineraries, visiting Spain, Italy, the Riviera, France, Switzerland, Holland and the British Isles.

WEST INDIES CRUISES

February 12, March 5 and March 26
Our Cruises to the warm waters of the sunny Caribbean make a perfect short winter vacation. They visit Havana, Santiago, Jamaica and Panama and provide for extensive sight-seeing in each quaint port.

SOUTH AMERICA CRUISE-TOUR

For the time required our special Cruise-Tour of South America is the most remarkable foreign trip ever arranged. In 50 days it visits the great cities of the East and West Coasts. Sailing from New York February 15.

Other Tours to Algeria and Tunisia, Japan-China and Round the World
Send for Booklet Desired

RAYMOND & WHITCOMB COMPANY
225 Fifth Avenue NEW YORK Telephone: Madison Square 6270

COOK'S

TRAVEL SERVICE

FIRST in 1841 FIRST in 1921

TROPICAL CRUISES

By Noted Steamers of the United Fruit Company.

Complete change of surroundings, the most desirable of climatic conditions, the comforts of a high class hotel, rest and recreation are yours by joining our most attractively planned select cruises sailing from New York—

January 29, per S. S. "Calamares"
March 12, per S. S. "Ulua"

There will be visits to CUBA, JAMAICA, PANAMA and the CANAL ZONE, COSTA RICA, etc., altogether 23 days of sailing and excursions ashore.

Reservations should be made now.

COOK'S TRAVELERS CHEQUES THE SAFEST WAY TO CARRY FUNDS

SOUTH AMERICA—Most attractively arranged tours of 90 days, including a rail trip into the ANDES and visiting AREQUIPA, CUZCO, the INCA CITY, LA PAZ, LAKE TITICACA and other remarkable places. Small select parties. Applications should be made immediately. Departures Jan. 26, Feb. 8.

EGYPT AND THE NILE—Cook's NILE Steamers have re-opened service on Jan. 11. Steamers will run throughout the season to the First and Second CATARACTS.

CALIFORNIA—From New York January 17 and later. Delightfully planned Tours embracing GRAND CANYON, APACHE TRAIL, SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA AND COAST RESORTS.

In connection with California travel we are offering a fascinating Extension Tour to HONOLULU. Twenty days. Leaving San Francisco Jan. 26.

JAPAN — CHINA — PHILIPPINES — Select Tours from Pacific Coast Feb. 5, March 5, 16, 19 and April 2. Unusually well-planned itineraries.

FLORIDA — CUBA — Frequent departures. Especially well-planned itineraries for individual travel.

BERMUDA TOURS—Short or extended periods—inclusive of all expense. Sailings twice weekly.

THOS. COOK & SON

245 Broadway, Opposite City Hall — Telephone Barclay 7100
561 Fifth Ave., Corner 46th Street — Telephone Murray Hill 6171

The American Express Company announces the first cruise ever offered

To Honolulu via Panama Canal without change of steamer

From Baltimore
February 15th

On the New Cruising Steamer
"Hawkeye State"
43 Days $1025 up
Including Shore Excursions

The New Matson Line Cruising Steamer "Hawkeye State" has been engaged by the American Express Company for a remarkable 43 day Winter Cruise with fascinating visits at Havana, Panama, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, San Francisco, 10 days in Honolulu, Hilo (and the great volcano).

The "Hawkeye State" is a new steamer 535 feet long and has the famous Matson cuisine and service, native Hawaiian Orchestra, swimming pool, large staterooms with special automatic temperature regulators, most rooms with private bath. There will be deck sports, entertainment and shore excursions under management of American Express Travel Experts.

Ask for details

AMERICAN EXPRESS COMPANY

118 West 39th St. Fitz Roy 735 — 876 Broad St., Newark, N. J. Tel. Market 1447 — 65 Broadway Bowling Green 10,000

SOUTH AMERICA

DIRECT PASSENGER SERVICES

NEW YORK—VALPARAISO
Regular Sailings
Cristobal, Callao, Mollendo, Arica, Iquique, Antofagasta, Valparaiso
*EBRO, JAN. 29 ESSEQUIBO, FEB. 26
*Calls at Havana

NEW YORK—GUAYAQUIL
Regular Sailings
Cristobal Buenaventura, Esmeraldas, Bahia, Manta, Guayaquil
*QUILPUE, JAN. 22 QUILLOTA, FEB. 17
*Calls at Nassau

HAVANA—VALPARAISO
and Intermediate Ports
ORIANA, JAN. 31 ORCOMA, FEB. 28

CRISTOBAL—VALPARAISO
and Intermediate Ports
Regular Sailings

CRISTOBAL—CHAMPERICO
Calling at
Punta Arenas, San Juan, Corinto, Amapala, La Union, La Libertad, Acajutla and San Jose
Regular Sailings

ENGLAND—BRAZIL—ARGENTINA
Frequent Sailings by Large Mail Steamers

PACIFIC LINE
The Pacific Steam Navigation Co.

ROYAL MAIL
The Royal Mail Steam Packet Company

NELSON LINE
M. & W. Nelson, Ltd.

South Africa From England by Union-Castle Line
The Union-Castle Mail Steamship Company, Ltd.

Sanderson & Son
GENERAL AGENTS
25 Broadway, New York
PHONE BROAD 3360
or Any Steamship Ticket Agent

FRENCH LINE

Compagnie Générale Transatlantique

From COVERED PIER to COVERED PIER
Affording Protection from the Cold and Discomforts of Winter
NEW YORK—HAVRE—PARIS
Fast liners direct to Havre pier—thence, direct by shortest rail route, to Paris.
A unique steamship service for comfortable winter travel.
The Large, Fast, Popular, Quadruple Screw Liner

S. S. FRANCE Sailing {JAN. 20 FEB. 17

Super accommodations for all classes of transatlantic travelers. Renowned French cuisine—Juvenile Theatre. Every convenience and comfort that French thoughtfulness and courtesy can provide.

OTHER SAILINGS

La Touraine	Jan. 18 Mar. 12 Apr. 12	Chicago	Feb. 15 Mar. 19 Apr. 26
France	Jan. 20 Feb. 17 Mar. 17	Leopoldina	Feb. 16
La Savoie	Jan. 29 Feb. 26 Mar. 26	Rochambeau	Mar. 8 Apr. 12 May 17
La Lorraine	Feb. 5 Apr. 2 Apr. 30

FRENCH LINE, 19 STATE ST., NEW YORK

CUNARD-ANCHOR

Passenger and Freight Services from New York

PANNONIA	Piraeus, Dubrovnik and Trieste	Jan. 18	— —
IMPERATOR	Cherbourg and Southampton	Jan. 29 Mar. 19	— —
SAXONIA	Halifax, Plymouth, Cherbourg and Hamburg	Jan. 22	— —
VESTRIS	Liverpool	Jan. 29	— —
CARMANIA	Liverpool	Jan. 29 Mar. 8	Apr. 16
ITALIA	Vigo, Patras, Dubrovnik and Trieste	Feb. 1	— —
AQUITANIA	Cherbourg and Southampton	Feb. 3 Feb. 26	Mar. 22
ALBANIA (New)	Plymouth and Cherbourg	Feb. 8 Mar. 15	Apr. 19
COLUMBIA	Londonderry and Glasgow	Feb. 19 Mar. 26	Apr. 23
SAXONIA	Plymouth, Cherbourg and Hamburg	Mar. 1 Apr. 12	May 24
ALGERIA	Londonderry and Glasgow	Mar. 5 Apr. 6	— —
CARONIA	Londonderry and Glasgow	Mar. 16 Apr. 23	May 21
K. A. VICTORIA	Liverpool	Mar. 22 Apr. 30	June 4
MAURETANIA	Liverpool	Mar. 22 Apr. 30	June 4
	Cherbourg and Southampton	Apr. 7 May 12	June 9

List of Later Sailings on Request

OFFICES: 21-24 STATE STREET, NEW YORK.

TOURS AND CRUISES OF THE AMERICAN EXPRESS

Appeal to the discriminating traveler who prefers to enjoy the best accommodations available and the pleasant companionship of desirable fellow travelers.

CRUISES

Honolulu via Panama Canal
From Baltimore Feb. 15. 43 day cruise on new Matson Line Steamer Hawkeye State. Havana, Panama Canal, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, San Francisco, 11 days in Honolulu, Hilo (and the great volcano). $1025 up, including shore excursions. The "Hawkeye State" has the famous Matson cuisine and service, native Hawaiian orchestra, swimming pool, large staterooms with special automatic temperature regulators, most rooms with private bath. There will be deck sports, entertainment and shore excursions.

South America
Jan. 29. 70 days—$2200 Up.
Down West Coast on S. S. Ebro. Up East Coast via Lamport & Holt Line. Sightseeing in all principal cities of South America.

West Indies
Feb. 19—S. S. Toloa—23 days—$450 up. Visiting principal cities of the Caribbean.

Inter-Ocean Cruise via Panama Canal
West Coast U. S.—China—Japan
Feb. 15—The new S. S. Golden State. From Baltimore—To Panama Canal, California Honolulu, Japan, China, Philippine Islands. Return San Francisco, May 17—$2750.

TOURS China—Japan
Sailing from Pacific Coast Ports Jan. to July. Small congenial parties. Visiting: Honolulu, Japan, China, Manchuria, and the Philippine Islands.

INDEPENDENT TOURS

All care of detail eliminated. You start with tickets and coupons covering entire trip. Our branch offices around the World act as your invisible but efficient escort. Send for booklets—"Winter Vacations," covering the United States, West Indies and Bermuda; "Cruises on the Nile;" American Traveler in Europe. They contain a wealth of valuable information for the traveler.

Steamship Reservations
Write or call for details

AMERICAN EXPRESS CO.
65 B'way. Bowling Green 10,000
118 W. 39th St. Fitz Roy 735
876 Broad St., Newark, N. J.

TOURS DE LUXE

SOUTH AMERICA
February 23
JAPAN AND CHINA
Feb. 5 & 19—March 16—April 26
INDEPENDENT TRIPS
Everywhere.
Steamship and Pullman Reservations.
Full Itineraries and Information.

Bennett's Travel Bureau
THOS. BENNETT & SONS
Est. 1859
H. W. DUNNING CO.
Est. 1890
506 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Gentleman who has toured all of the United States and Canada offers his services as guide or manager for tour party, any number, anywhere. Address W. J. K., 301 William St., City.

IDEAL WINTER CRUISES

West Indies—Panama Canal—South America
Leaving New York, January 22, February 21, March 23, 1921.
WHITE STAR LINE S. S. "MEGANTIC"
20,740 Tons Disp.—Largest Steamer to Tropics

THE AMERICAN MEDITERRANEAN

$400 up
25-26 DAYS
SPECIALLY SELECTED PORTS OF CALL.

International Mercantile Marine Co.
Offices: 9 Broadway, New York. Tel. Bowling Green 8300

AMERICAN INTERNATIONAL TRAVEL SERVICE

SATISFACTION COURTESY

EUROPE
FRANCE, ITALY, SPAIN
JANUARY, FEBRUARY, MARCH.

WEST INDIES
Special Cruise S. S. "Megantic." Jan. 22d-Feb. 21st.

CALIFORNIA
ALL RAIL—RAIL-WATER, or Via PANAMA CANAL DIRECT.

BERMUDA
"40 HOURS—Frost to Flowers." Semi-weekly Sailings.
ASK BELL ALL ABOUT BERMUDA
BERMUDA TRAVEL BUREAU

FLORIDA and CUBA
ALL EAST COAST AND WEST COAST RESORTS

AMERICAN INTERNATIONAL TRAVEL BUREAU
130 W. 42d St. BUSH TERM. SALES BLDG. Tel. Bryant 9800—1518.
15 Park Row PARK ROW BLDG. Tel. Barclay 5877—5878.

☆ WHITE STAR LINE ☆

NEW YORK—CHERBOURG—SOUTHAMPTON

ADRIATIC. 12 Noon Jan. 19 Feb. 16 Apr. 6
New York—Liverpool
Vedic (new). 12 Noon Jan. 26 (3rd Class Only)
CEDRIC. 12 Noon Feb. 5 Mar. 12 Apr. 16
CELTIC. 12 Noon Feb. 26 Apr. 2 —
OLYMPIC .....Mar. 19 Apr. 20 May 14
New York—Boston—Azores—Gibraltar Naples—Genoa
Cretic .....3 P. M. Mar. 8 May 3
Canopic .....3 P. M. Mar. 22 May 17

AMERICAN LINE and RED STAR LINE

N. Y., Plymouth, Cherbourg, Antwerp.
Zeeland..Noon Jan. 22 Lapland..4 P.M. Feb. 12
Kroonland.....Noon Jan 29
New York—Danzig, via Hamburg.
Third Class Passengers Only.
Gothland .....Noon Jan. 20 Feb. 26 Apr. 13
Finland.....Feb. 19
AMERICAN LINE—New York-Hamburg (Direct Service)
Mongolia.....Noon Jan. 17 Manchuria.....Feb. 24 Mongolia.....Mar. 10 International Mercantile Marine Company
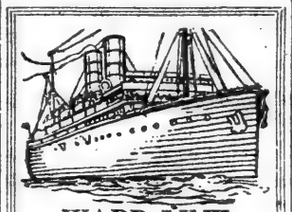
Offices, 9 Broadway, New York. Piers 58, 59, 60, 61, 62 North River.

EUROPE CLARK'S TOURS leave in May, June, July. 17th Annual Mediterranean Cruise, Feb., 1922
Frank C. Clark, Times Bldg., N. Y.

NIAGARA TO THE SEA.
For illustrated guide, address John F. Pierce, Dept. 102, Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd. Montreal, Canada.

LLOYD SABAUDO
Cabin Dept.: 44 Whitehall St., N. Y.
Direct passenger and freight service to ITALY and Black Sea Ports by magnificent twin screw steamers.
S. S. "Regina d'Italia".....Jan. 30th



WARD LINE
Direct weekly service from New York to HAVANA
AND POINTS IN CUBA MEXICO
VERA CRUZ TAMPICO
Regular sailings to Nassau.
For information address
New York and Cuba Mail S. S. Co.
Foot of Wall Street, New York

WEEKLY PASSENGER SERVICE DIRECT TO HAVANA

From JACKSONVILLE, Fla.
The Fast and Modern
All Electric Oil Burning S.S. "CUBA"
Lvs. Jacksonville Every Saturday at 3 P. M.
From Havana Every Tuesday at 4 P. M.
FIRST CLASS ONLY
Luxurious Accommodations. Excellent Cuisine
Rates $35 & $45 Including Berth and Meals.
A few Special Rooms, with private bath, rate $60.
For Further Information address
MIAMI STEAMSHIP CO.
PASS'R DEPT. Ft. Catherine St., Jacksonville, Fla. | GENERAL OFFICES 32 Broadway, N. Y. Phones Broad 179-3263

SPANISH ROYAL MAIL LINE

COMPANIA TRASATLANTICA
FREIGHT AND PASSENGER SERVICES.
To CADIZ and BARCELONA
R. M. S. Buenos Aires.....About Jan. 29
R. M. S. Leon XIII.....About Feb. 29
To HAVANA and VERA CRUZ
R. M. S. Leon XIII.....About Jan. 16
For Further Particulars Apply to LUIS LLANSO, Agent.
Pier 3, E. R. Telephone Bowling Green 8150

SWEDISH AMERICAN LINE

Short Route to Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Russia, Germany, &c.
Direct to
GOTHENBURG-SWEDEN
LARGE MODERN STEAMERS
S. S. STOCKHOLM.....Jan. 22 Mar. 10
S. S. DROTTNINGHOLM..Feb. 10 Mar. 24
Superior Passenger Accommodations. Service and Cuisine.
Passenger Office, 24 State St., N. Y.

SCANDINAVIAN AMERICAN

DENMARK, NORWAY, SWEDEN, GERMANY AND BALTIC STATES
Frederick VIII...Jan. 28
United States..Feb. 24
Hellig Olav....Mar. 17
Oscar II.....Mar. 31
For Passenger Rates, etc., 1 B'way, N. Y.

Norwegian America Line

NORWAY
SWEDEN—DENMARK
Continental Europe
Modern Twin Screw Steamers
Stavangerfjord....Jan. 22 Mar. 11
Bergensfjord.....Feb. 18 Apr. 1
Passenger Office, 9-10 Bridge St., N. Y.

SPAIN

Compania Transmediterranea
REGULAR PASSENGER SERVICE TO CADIZ—BARCELONA
Tarragona—Valencia—Alicante—Cartagena—Malaga
S. S. ROMEU.....Feb. 1
Manuel Romani, Agt. 82 Beaver Street Tel. Hanover 8569

AUSTRLAIA

NEW ZEALAND—SOUTH SEAS.
Via Tahiti and Raratonga. Mail and passenger service from San Francisco, sailing every 28 days. UNION STEAMSHIP CO. OF NEW ZEALAND.
230 California St., San Francisco, Cal., or THOS. COOK & SON, 245 Broadway, N. Y.

Fall River Line
To Boston
Splendid Steamers. Splendid Service.
Lv. Pier 14, N. R. (Fulton Street) 6.00 P. M. Daily
New London (Norwich) Line. Lv. Pier 40, N. R. (Houston St.), 5:30 P. M. (Except Sunday). Leave Pier 70, E. R. (22nd St.), 4.00 P. M.

FRANKS TOURS-CRUISES

NO RUSHING—NO CROWDING—EVERYTHING FIRST CLASS
The number of members of all parties is strictly limited. An experienced tour manager will escort each party and attend to all details so as to ensure the comfort and enjoyment of the members. Only the best steamers, railroads and hotels will be used, and the liberal program of included sightseeing trips will be arranged in 5 or 7 passenger autos, or when preferable by the universal conveyance of the country visited.

WEST INDIES
28 DAYS
Special De Luxe Cruise Sailing January 22
New S. S. TOLOA, one of the newest and largest steamers of the GREAT WHITE FLEET, visiting Havana, Santiago, Port Antonio, Kingston, Panama, Port Limon, Costa Rica
Rates, including shore excursions and all expenses, $450 and up. Most luxurious steamer, especially built for pleasure travel to the tropics; many rooms with bedsteads, private bath and suites. Palm gardens, deck games, music, etc.

CHINA—JAPAN
Philippines—Honolulu
Small de luxe parties, with escort. Each limited to 12 members.
Sailing from Pacific Coast—Feb. 5 Mar. 11 Apr. 13
Returning—June 13 June 28 Aug. 6

MEDITERRANEAN
Riviera, Northern Africa, Egypt, Holy Land, Italy, France
Small de luxe parties, with escort. Each limited to 15 members.
Sailing Jan. 20, Feb. 16 and later.
Rates $1,450 and up, 65 days and longer, including all expenses, permitting liberal amount of time at all places visited.

SOUTH AMERICA
Panama—East and West Coasts—Andes Mountains
Small de luxe parties, with escort. Each limited to 15 members.
Sailing from New York—Jan. 26 Feb. 19 Feb. 23
Returning—Apr. 9 Apr. 21 May 5

CALIFORNIA & HONOLULU
Through California by private touring autos.
Grand Canyon—Apache Trail—Coast Resorts, etc.
Small de luxe parties, with escort. Each limited to 15 members.
Departures: January, February and March.
Also special tour to California via steamer and Panama.

BERMUDA
Special Tours every Wednesday and Saturday; $75 and up for round trip. Tours of 8, 9, 12 days and longer, including hotels, transportation and sightseeing, $112.00 and up.

FLORIDA—CUBA
Visiting St. Augustine, Daytona, Palm Beach, Miami, Havana, etc. Small de luxe parties, with escort. Each limited to 15 members.

STEAMSHIP RESERVATIONS TO ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD
As official agents of all steamship companies we will be pleased to furnish latest sailing lists, diagrams, rate sheets, and secure most desirable reservations at companies' regular rates.

Send for Itineraries and Information of Tour Desired, Dept. G.

FRANK TOURIST CO.
Established 1875. Tel. 7390 Vanderbilt.
489 Fifth Ave., bet. 41st and 42d Sts., New York
(Opposite Public Library)
Paris—10 Rue Edouard VII.

Let us tell You

the cost of your winter trip to

Bermuda Nassau Cuba
California Florida Anywhere

Let us Help you plan your route
Furnish railroad & steamship tickets.
Make your hotel reservations

Advance arrangements are necessary for winter travel.
Raymond-Whitcomb are official agents of all steamship lines and the Raymond-Whitcomb office in Boston is General Headquarters for Travel Information.
Write, telephone or visit us
RAYMOND & WHITCOMB COMPANY
225 Fifth Avenue. Telephone Madison Square 6270.

TICKETS AND TOURS EVERYWHERE

McCANN'S TOURS
The Sign of a Perfect Tour.

FLORIDA Three escorted Tours in January, February and March. The East and West Coasts. Accommodations Limited.
CALIFORNIA Four escorted Tours in January, February and March. New Orleans, Texas, Apache Trail, Grand Canyon, California and Colorado.

Thru Summer Seas to the Land of Sunshine From New York February 26 to Los Angeles and San Francisco via the Panama Canal by the S. S. WENATCHEE of the Admiral Line as her initial voyage before being placed in the trans-Pacific run. Rates $300 up for the entire cruise. Early application necessary.

EUROPE For information of personally conducted European Tours or Independent Travel anywhere consult McCann.

TRAVEL TIPS A copy of this 52 Page Compendium of the latest travel information mailed free on request.

Independent Tours for Independent travelers providing Railroad and Steamship tickets and including hotel accommodations, starting any day. All Southern Resorts. Florida, California, Honolulu, etc.

McCANN'S TOURS, Inc., 1328 Broadway

"The Public Be Pleased"
COLONIAL LINE
BOSTON, $5.61. Boat and Rail.
PROVIDENCE, $3.89. Direct Boat.
Boat Leaves Pier 36, N. R., Ft. W. Houston St. Daily and Sunday at 5 P. M. Phone 0481 Spring.

Gentleman who has toured all of the United States and Canada offers his services as guide or manager for tour party, any number, anywhere.
Address
W. J. K., Room 301 William St., City.

Hudson River Day Line

service discontinued for the season.

CENTRAL HUDSON LINE
Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, Kingston. Lv. Monday, Wednesday and Friday, Franklin St., at 4 P. M.

THE SIFTED TRUTH OF OCCURRENCES.
Out of the contradictions of the news of great events of international interest, CURRENT HISTORY sifts the facts; 50 nations are considered; facts within 30 days' occurrence without bias or comment; 192 pages profusely illustrated. January issue on news stands.—Advt.

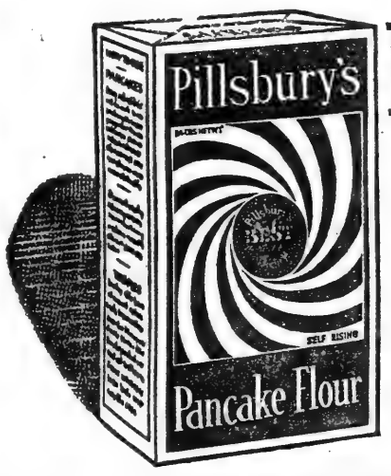
When Mother's Away

Give daughter a chance. Let her show her skill as a cook. She can't help making good pancakes with Pillsbury's Pancake Flour. She will qualify as an expert at once.

Delicious, golden-brown pancakes are made quickly and easily with Pillsbury's Pancake Flour. Add only water—everything required, including milk, is in the flour. Pillsbury pancakes are so much better than the uncertain, hand-mixed kind, and they always come out just right!

Always buy Pillsbury's Family of Foods—different in kind, but alike in quality. At your grocer's.

Pillsbury's Best Flour — Pillsbury's Wheat Cereal
Pillsbury's Health Bran — Pillsbury's Pancake Flour
Rye, Graham and Macaroni Flours



Pillsbury's
FAMILY OF FOODS
Pancake Flour

PILLSBURY FLOUR MILLS COMPANY
Minneapolis, Minnesota

Koch Prices Make Downtown Shopping an Extravagance

Established 1859
H. C. F. KOCH & Co. INC.
125th STREET WEST

This is the Final Week of Our Great Sale of $200,000 Worth of Koch Quality Furniture

Also a Sample Line of Brass and Steel Beds, in Enamel and Wood finishes

Savings of at Least 25% on our already Lowest-in-the-City Prices

Dining Room Suites
Living Room Suites
Bedroom Suites
Book Cases
Desks
Library Tables
Fireside Chairs

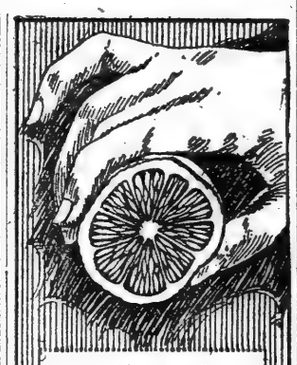
25% OFF

Dressers
Chiffarobes
Bedroom Chairs
Rockers
Living Room Chairs
Buffets
China Closets

ALL REDUCTIONS MADE AT TIME OF PURCHASE. ORIGINAL PRICE TICKETS REMAIN ON EACH PIECE OF FURNITURE.

For those who prefer to pay for their selections of Furniture and Rugs on a partial-payment basis, we recommend

THE KOCH PLAN OF DEFERRED PAYMENTS — Fifth Floor.



Angélus
THE LEMON
Cleansing Cream

THE beauty of your skin depends upon the care you give it. That is why it is of vital importance to use Angelus Lemon Cleansing Cream—the smooth French cream compounded by Louis Philippe.

Angelus Lemon Cleansing Cream softens and loosens the impurities that clog the pores and soon coarsen the texture of your skin. The soft clear flush of youth will grace your cheek. Begin today to cleanse, soothe and soften your skin with this remarkable cream.

Small Size Jar $1.00
Large Size Jar 1.85

ANGELUS SKIN FOOD

Angelus Skin Food replaces the natural oils that washing, heat and exposure dry out of the skin. Tonight after the pores are cleansed, massage it well into the skin and allow it to remain over night. Angelus Skin Food nourishes the tissues, softens and whitens the skin.

2 oz. Jar, $1.00 — 4 oz. Jar, $2.00

Angelus Lip Stick $1.00
Dark for Day and Light for Evening Use

At all Drug and Department Stores
Park & Tilford, New York

6,000 Dressed Fowls on Display

One etching in the current issue of MID-WEEK PICTORIAL illustrates a London poultry shop with 6,000 dressed fowls on display. In the same issue: 105 etchings, big world news, sports, drama, politics, screen, art. On news stands, 10 cents.

Use the A. & S. Crossway Hoyt Street Station

ABRAHAM AND STRAUS INC.
BROOKLYN

Store Hours 9 to 5:30

A. and S. Silk Week

Silks by the yard—over 100,000 yards of them—silken garments of many kinds, from lingerie to Spring frocks, silk ribbons—all these, and many more, are gathered in A. & S. SILK WEEK, to delight you with their new low prices, which faithfully present to the public the new state of the market! Leading the van:

The Sale of Silks for Spring and Summer 1921

Our whole large stock of Silks has been readjusted in price to harmonize with the altered conditions—but outstanding are the splendid lots of fashionable silks—bought but a short time ago, when prices had touched bottom (which means below actual cost of manufacturing) and which we could not buy today at the same prices. These:

Chiffon Taffeta, $1.98 Yd.
35 inches wide; large color range, including navy and brown.

Satin Charmeuse, $1.98 Yd.
40 inches wide, in light and dark colors; also black.

Glace Taffeta, $2.18 Yd.
Rich, two-tone effects. 35 inches wide; 12 color combinations.

Satin Crepe, $2.88 Yd.
An exquisite fabric in charming colors.

Foulard Silk, $1.79 Yd.
New designs in a variety of colors; 35 inches wide.

Printed Georgette, $1.79 Yd.
All-silk; 40 inches wide; effective colors and designs.

Dress Satin, $1.48 Yd.
One of the most remarkable of the silk values. 3,000 yards in excellent colors. 35 inches wide.

Imported Shantung, 89c. Yd.
All-silk, natural color; launders beautifully. 31 inches wide.

Black Crepe Meteor, $2.48 Yd.
Rich fabric, 40 inches wide.

Black Duchess Satin, $1.49 Yd.
All-silk, 35 inches wide.

Black Dress Taffeta, $1.95 Yd.
All-silk, 35 inches wide.

Imported Black Satin, $2.98 Yd.
Fine French satin, 35 inches wide.

Imported Black Satin, $3.68 Yd.
Exquisite material, 39 inches wide.

And our entire Stock of METAL BROCADES reduced to HALF PRICE. The most exquisite fabrics, imported from France, glitteringly lovely with gold and silver, in a large variety.

A. & S.—Street floor, West.

Women's Gloves Of Embroidered Silk

Most attractive gloves of Milanese silk—incidentally low in price!

2-button, 1.75 Pair—Of heavy silk, 3-row embroidered backs and embroidered wrists. White and pongee.

16-button, 2.98 Pair—Of heavy silk, embroidered arms, white and pongee.

A. & S.—Street floor, Central.

Women's Silk Stockings

These are some of the new qualities at the new low prices.

$1.10 Pair—Thread silk, full fashioned, mercerized tops and soles; black only.

89c. Pair—Thread silk, seamed back, mercerized cotton tops and soles; black only.

A. & S.—Street floor, Central.

Crepe de Chine Nightgowns $3.68

For Monday's selling come these beautiful Nightgowns made in the pointed shoulder effect, trimmed with cream lace.

Silk Bloomers at $2.94

Pink Satin or Crepe de Chine bloomers in plain tailored or lace-trimmed models.

A. & S.—Second floor, East.

Pongee Blouses, $2.79

Four interesting models in natural color Pongee; styles for tailored or sports wear; one with roll collar, another with the youthful Peter Pan collar, a third with convertible collar and the fourth has a round collar ending in square tabs at the front.

A. & S.—Second floor, East.

Baronet Satin Skirts $9.75 and $10.75

A special purchase of these smart and deservedly popular skirts in straightline model with pockets and wide belt. Deep hems. Regular sizes, 25 to 32 in., at $9.75; extra sizes, 33 to 38 inch, at $10.75.

Colors include black, navy blue, white, gray and other colors.

A. & S.—Second floor, Central.

Glove Silk Lingerie

The discriminating woman knows that nothing looks so well, wears so wonderfully and launders so satisfactorily as glove silk underwear.

Vests, $1.98—Pink, finished with tailored tops and ribbon shoulder straps.

A. & S.—Second floor, East.

A Sale Arranged for Silk Week!

Women's and Misses' Silk Frocks $23.50

"As new as the New Year" are these fascinating New Silk Frocks for smart women and their daughters.

Among the Silk Frocks for Women are advanced models in crisp Taffetas, plaided or plain; Georgettes, combined with Taffeta, and graceful modes in Crepe de Chine. The slender, youthful figure will find fluffy, quaint modes—the more mature figure will find grace and dignity in long lines.

About 12 styles in black, navy blue, gray, brown or taupe. Sizes 34 to 44, but not a full range of sizes in every style.

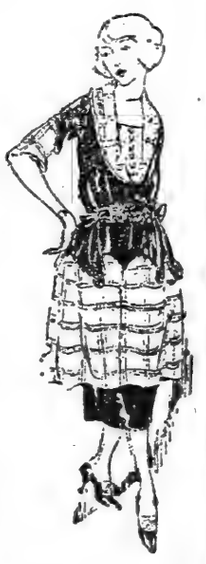
Taffeta Frocks for Misses are in all-Taffeta or Taffeta combined with Georgette Crepe or the smart Mignonette in effective plaids. Delightful styles are here advanced in modes for Spring wear, in navy or Copenhagen blue, brown, black. Sizes 14 to 18 years.

A. & S.—Second floor, Central.



The January Sale of Housefurnishings

Begins Tomorrow—An Event That Fairly Bristles With Saving on Ever-Needed Household Accessories

Once more the January Sale of Housefurnishings is here—this year doubly welcomed by those who look forward to this event—not only on account of the lack of such wares, but because of the extremely low prices that this sale commands.

For months we have been assembling specially-purchased assortments with the view of giving our patrons the best possible values. That we have succeeded is best judged by a careful scanning of the sale-prices.

Deliveries During the Week* —— *Representative of the Values Are:

Porcelain Enamel Top Tables, $8.47
Slightly marred in transit. Size 25x40 inches. Limited quantity.

4-Sewed Corn Brooms, 47c
Regularly 85c.
Green corn; well made. Limited quantity.

"Ohio" Electric Vacuum Cleaners, $34.95
Regularly $50.00
Has light aluminum case. Can be used with either direct or alternating current. Equipped with cord and plug.

"Hotpoint" Electric Irons, $6.47
Regularly $8.25
Highly nickel-plated. Complete with cord and plug. 5-lb. size.

Ash Cans, $2.75 Regularly $3.97
Corrugated galvanized iron; steel bars at sides; steel hoops at top and bottom.

A. & S.—Subway floor, East.

The New York Times.

WASHINGTON'S SOCIAL "400"

Exclusive and Wealthy Circle About to Be Linked With White House for the First Time

By FRANK PARKER STOCKBRIDGE.

WITH the occupancy of the White House by the Hardings, on March 4, Washington "society" comes into its own. For the first time in the history of the Capital City the new President and his wife begin their White House career on terms of social intimacy with that group of persons of wealth and leisure, mainly of no official status, who constitute at least the foundation in Washington of "society" in the current sense of that term. The group might be called "the 400 of Washington." At any rate, its own members would so regard it.

There are and have been Senators and even an occasional member of Congress mingling within the circle. With diplomats, both American and European, "society" has always maintained an entente cordiale. Against officers in the regular establishments of the army and navy the bars have not been set up. But Presidents are another matter.

The first question Washington "society" asks about a new President and his wife is: "Are they socially possible for us?"

Sometimes the answer is frankly negative; but, somehow, both "society" and the White House continue to move in their respective orbits as if unaware of each other's existence. Washington "society" is like "society" in every other world capital.

"Royalty was in abeyance," wrote Henry Adams, describing, in his "Education," his life in London in the '60s. "One was tempted to think that the nicest distinction between the very best society and the second-best was their attitude toward royalty. The one regarded royalty as a bore, and avoided it, or quietly said that the Queen had never been in society. The same thing might have been said of fully half the peerage."

It might be said, too, of fully half the Presidents, taking them by and large.

And even when the answer to Washington "society's" query as to a new Presidential family's social eligibility has been entirely and unqualifiedly affirmative, as it was in the case of the Hardings' last three predecessors, it has not always followed that "society" has had unchallenged entrée to the White House. The tenants of that domicile have had something to say in the matter. * * *

But in and of Washington "society" the Hardings undoubtedly are, as no no previous Presidential family has been.

Twenty years of retrospect takes us back to the Roosevelts. They were well acquainted in Washington through Mr. Roosevelt's service, first as Civil Service Commissioner, then as Assistant Secretary of the Navy. The Tafts were almost as well known as the Roosevelts, and in much the same circles. But these circles did not then include, nor more than barely impinge at isolated points upon, what Washington knows as "society" today. And the Wilsons came to Washington practically unknown to and quite unmindful of any "society" in Washington other than that which they brought with them. The present Mrs. Wilson, whose own social status rests on the foundation of old Virginia lineage, has always moved chiefly in a social orbit that centres about the Southern tradition that is still powerful in Washington. To this group, composed of members of Virginia and Maryland families, many of which still retain their ancestral acres and country seats, Washington is merely a larger Georgetown, a convenient centre for Winter residence, in which the activities of Government are as incidental as the proceedings of the City Council are to the social life of New York.

Neither this native stock, nor yet the "moving shadow-shapes that come and go" in the persons of Senators, members of Congress, diplomats, Cabinet members and other officials and their families constitute the Washington "society" that is now for the first time about to see the White House occupied by those to whom it has already affixed its approval. The wealthy "set" may, and to a constantly varying extent does, include members of all of these groups, but underlying all the shifting personnel of officialdom, and ignoring, where it cannot assimilate, the more deeply rooted elements of the city's life, is the group of permanent residents of wealth and leisure who began first to build their mansions in Washington some forty years ago and who have not only made the upper Connecticut Avenue region one of the most attractive residential sections in America, but have succeeded in establishing themselves as the sponsors and arbiters of something that comes as near to being "society" in the European and historical sense as we have ever had in America.

"In London," writes H. G. Wells in "The Outline of History," "there was 'society,' a continuous mingling of influential persons and ideas." He is writing of seventeenth-century Poland. Its Government, he points out, lacked the solidarity of the British. "Poland had no London and no 'society.'"

"Society" in England was the natural growth of the periodical assemblage of peers and commoners in Parliament at Westminster. Our kaleidoscopic system of rapid rotation in public office, and the entirely natural desire of every official to get away from primitive Washington as far and as fast as possible when his term of office expired, militated against any permanent society in this sense for the first century or so of our national existence. Even so keen an observer as Henry Adams (blessed first aid to every would-be commentator on American "social problems for all time to come!) failed to find a vestige of society in Washington a short half century ago. "No rich or fashionable stranger had yet discovered the town. No literary or scientific man, no artist, no gentleman without office or employment, had ever lived there. It was rural and its society was primitive. Scarcely a person in it had ever known life in a great city." Diplomats complained to him that in Washington "there were no theatres, no restaurants, no monde, no demi-monde, no drives, no splendor, and, as Mme. de Struve used to say, no grandezza. This was all true; Washington was a mere political camp, as transient and temporary as a camp meeting for religious revival."

Rich and fashionable strangers, however, and, in Adams's phrase, "gentlemen without office or employment," began to gravitate toward Washington within the next decade. "Boss" Shepherd cleaned up the city in the '70s, paved the muddy streets and installed sewers; and strangers—many rich, a few fashionable, and all without office or employment—began to buy town lots and build houses, and the foundations of a permanent society in Washington were laid.

Washingtonians of the ancient tradition still love to regale whoever will listen with stories, largely apocryphal but none the less humorous, of socially ambitious wives of newly rich men who have sought, by way of Washington, to gain the social entrée which their home towns could not and New York would not accord them. There were plenty of these among the "strangers" who built and settled in Washington in the 1880s and '90s, but they, or their descendants, are not the dominant force in Washington "society" of today. Many families of wealth and culture have come to Washington in the last forty years because of genuine interest in public affairs and a liking for the contacts with official life. Washington is no longer a city to escape from at the first opportunity, so there runs through its "society" of today a substantial and growing stratum of those who, having gone to the capital to take up official duties, have found it a pleasant place in which to remain after their terms of office expired. And to parents ambitious to provide matrimonial opportunities for their daughters Washington has long been famous as one of the happiest of hunting grounds.

To analyze further the mixture of motives that has resulted in the erection in Washington of the social structure that may be termed "society" would be tedious. It exists, and in a very much more real and substantial sense now than ever before. Its presence is no longer resented by Washingtonians of the old traditions; its hospitality extends to all of the ancien régime who care for the official contrasts that give the new "society" its basis for existence, while those who prefer the old seclusion still keep up their own independent social life.

And now the White House comes within the sphere of this new social growth, by quite normal and natural processes.

When the Hardings first went to Washington, in 1915, their earliest social contacts were naturally with others from their own State. It so happens that among the undisputed leaders of "society" in Washington are the McLeans. The editor and owner of The Washington Post and of The Cincinnati Enquirer, Edward B. McLean, is an Ohioan by ancestry and by the fact of his ownership of the most widely known Ohio newspaper. His father, the late John R. McLean, was one of the men of wealth who settled in Washington in the last quarter of the nineteenth century. His aunt is Mrs. George Dewey, widow of the Admiral. Mrs. McLean, daughter of the late Senator Walsh of Colorado, had been one of Washington's most sought-after belles before her marriage.

The McLeans "took to" the Hardings, and the Hardings reciprocated. The McLeans made the Hardings a part of Washington "society," and the circle found the Hardings a welcome addition. It is not intimated that without such sponsorship Senator and Mrs. Harding would have failed to achieve the same social prestige; comparatively few men in public office have brought to Washington the social equipment of the Hardings—the President-elect's genial and unostentatious dignity and his wife's gracious charm, and a broad culture based on extensive travels about the world.

Five years have strengthened the ties between the Washington social leaders and the Hardings, and the personal friendship of the Hardings and the McLeans. Mr. McLean's selection as Chairman of the Citizens' Inaugural Committee was made at the suggestion of the President-elect himself. Mr. Harding's concurrence in the Congressional demand for economy in the matter of inauguration expenses can hardly be held, as has been intimated in some quarters, as ground for the rupture of a friendship so solidly based, even though it results in the reduction of the customary pomp and pageantry accompanying the induction of a new President.

"Society" is not much concerned over the absence of the parade and the crowds. It is not greatly concerned over the elimination of the Inaugural Ball, which long ago ceased to have any real significance from a social point of view, but served mainly to help the local committee cover expenses through the sale of tickets to all comers. Washington's tradesmen, not Washington's "society," resent the elimination of the spectacular and crowd-attracting features that used to accompany Presidential inaugurations in the pre-Wilsonian days; but no President can hope to keep the good-will of the mass of Washingtonians very long after taking office, at best; it is impossible, in the nature of things, that he should. So Mr. Harding may have acted wisely, apart from all other considerations, in giving Washington a short, sharp shock now and having done with it.

It is related of President Wilson that, as he was on his way to Washington to take the Presidential oath of office for the first time, some one in his party said, mischievously:

"Mr. President, I can tell you three things which no President has ever done and which, if you will do them, will stand Washington on its head."

"What are they?" the President is reported to have replied.

"Don't keep your personal account in the Riggs Bank, don't accept membership in the Chevy Chase Country Club, and don't go to the Inaugural Ball."

Whether the story be true or not, the record is clear that President Wilson avoided the three things, thereby bringing down upon himself the enmity of Washington business interests and of a considerable section of Washington "society."

The enmity of local business interests and of the mass of Washingtonians to any President within a few months after he takes office is insured automatically. Washington's population is composed almost exclusively of Government employes and those who make a living by selling things to Government employes. The officeholders quickly come to dislike the new President because they quite uniformly fail to obtain the promotions which each thinks he or she deserves and for the failure of which each blames the President personally. The business interests reflect, of necessity, the attitude of their customers, and they usually have further ground for antagonism because the President seldom meets their wishes in his appointments to District of Columbia local offices, which they regard as peculiarly their own.

Presidents can stand that sort of hostility from those sources. It is becoming increasingly difficult, however, for a President to ignore or hold himself aloof from contact with the well-compacted, solidly based entity into which "society" in Washington has become crystallized.

Public opinion in Washington speedily becomes public (if not published) opinion throughout the country. When "society" knows the President as of its own, and the Presidential family mingles freely in and with it, the door is effectively closed against such exaggerations and distortions, resulting through thoughtless repetition in graceless scandals and cruel slanders, as have sullied the personal reputations of more than one President in the popular mind. That is one pitfall, at least, that Mr. Harding's relations with Washington "society" should enable him to escape.

WHISKY RINGS OLD AND NEW

Present Scandal Recalls One With Both Contrasts and Similarities in 1874

By A VETERAN POLITICAL OBSERVER.

WHISKY has been the cause of two great nation-wide frauds, or, to put it in another way, the laws curbing the sale of whisky have. The present fraud, concerning which Elmer L. Irey, Chief of the Special Intelligence Service of the Internal Revenue Bureau, has been in New York seeking clues, getting material for an investigation, appears to be the larger.

According to the testimony of John McDonald, who "peached" when there was no use in holding out any longer, the earlier whisky fraud cost the Government $2,786,000. It must be remembered, however, that in the present case the bureau does not lose the money, while in the former case it was robbed.

The first Whisky Ring, through its agents, who were officers of the Government, worked by simple graft, in the way of Tweed and other municipal robbers. The second, that of today, worked by forgery, and its members were also officers of the Government. Who is the discoverer of the present-day Whisky Ring has not been revealed by the Internal Revenue Bureau. Benjamin H. Bristow, the Secretary of the Treasury under President Grant, got the credit for discovering the first Whisky Ring, and also got a Presidential boom which came near to success.

In the present case Hugh McQuillan, Chief of the Special Intelligence Unit operating in New York City, is said to have been "instrumental" in revealing a traffic in forged withdrawal permits estimated to have released $100,000,000 worth of whisky. The investigation which Chief Irey promises may show the amount to be larger. The difference between the large and relatively small sums involved in the two rings is caused by the fact that in this case it is against the law to sell whisky at all, while in the earlier case there was no such thing as prohibition. If Mr. McQuillan has discovered New York City to be the distributing point, it goes without saying that the figure of a hundred millions will be the total amount or near it. The chances are, however, that points like Detroit, near the Canadian line, will be found as deep in the mire as New York, the good whisky coming over the Canadian border having New York as its distributing point in the East, and some Western and Southern cities having been distributing points for other shipping places. That this is probable is shown by reports from Newark, Chicago and other places. The Internal Revenue Commissioner, Mr. Williams, has suspended one member of his staff, a woman, but has refused to discuss reports of irregularities concerning other officials.

The man most prominent in the Whisky Ring of 1874, McDonald, was Supervisor of Internal Revenue for nearly six years. His testimony concerning the probable amount stolen from the Government during that time has already been cited. The frauds of today cannot have lasted a year. McDonald, by the way, did not escape in spite of his turning State's evidence.

The Whisky Ring of 1874 was marked by a sensational circumstance which will not be repeated in this case. The President of the United States gave evidence. Of course he did not go to the court house where the case was being tried, but he did testify in the White House, as Jefferson did in the Burr case, but he testified only as to the innocence of his Secretary, General Orville E. Babcock, who had been indicted. History has been easy with Grant and believes that that amiable President honestly believed in the honesty of the crooks, from Murphy to Ward, who gathered themselves under his skirts. Wilson has been wiser; he has delegated all his secondary powers to the Cabinet officers, and with the exception of a few friends who have attached themselves to him he has had nobody to reproach himself with. Those few, as is well known, have been honest men.

McDonald tried to drag Grant in. He had not the audacity to charge the General with personal participation in the profits, but he did, apparently, intimate that the President was willing to receive the benefits, or some of them, in the interest of his third-term boom. Since we know now that neither Grant nor any one, not even Babcock, spent any money to advance the third-term boom, and that Grant did not seriously expect to receive a third nomination in 1876, this intimation of McDonald's falls to the ground. "McDonald utterly fails to make out a case against Grant," writes Rhodes.

Grant was a man of his word. When he testified he did so before Secretary Bristow, Chief Justice Waite and Edwards Pierrepont. He swore that he knew of no campaign fund which came from the profits of illicit distilling; and we know that there was no campaign fund at all, unless it was the Congressional fund of 1874. With that Grant was not concerned, nor was McDonald. The scandal arose from the fact that McDonald entertained Grant and his party when they visited St. Louis, before the scandal came out. Without doubt McDonald did so to strengthen his pull with the distillers. The worst thing about it was that McDonald made Babcock a present of a diamond shirt stud costing $2,400 and gave Grant a pair of horses which the President had admired. Things like that are not done these days; but Grant's carelessness about such matters is a part of history.

Grant even supported Babcock when he was indicted for complicity in a safe-cracking conspiracy. Things have changed since then. A whisky ring investigation is being carried on by subordinate officials, without even a Cabinet officer interfering, and yet the amount is fifty times greater than that involved in the first whisky fraud. One should never lose sight, however, of the fact that the amount is not the deciding point. In 1874 it was a direct robbery of the Government; in 1920 it was the forgery of permits for the sale of whisky. Between robbery and forgery there may not seem to be much difference; but by the forgery nobody has suffered except the prohibitionists and people who desired to see the law enforced, and their feelings were all that were injured. Of course, the saloonkeepers lost money, but they made it up on the sale of their liquor to their customers. Both cases involved theft; but the theft of 1920 has been at the expense of the ultimate consumer, while the theft of 1874 was taken from tills.

HUGHES AND THE CABINET

Hitherto Untold Story of How the New Yorker Almost Became Chief Justice

By STEPHEN BONSAL.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14, 1921.

WILL Charles Evans Hughes be Secretary of State? This question is on every tongue at the capital today (Friday), and the most careful commentators and the most dependable sages make certain reservations, although there is even a possibility of the appointment before this article appears in print. They all agree that Mr. Hughes has been turning the matter over since his visit to Marion, weighing the pros and the cons. It is not quite clear yet that he will give up the lucrative law practice, of which he understands so well the mechanics, to become a slave of diplomacy—a new game with whose technique he is not altogether conversant—and bound up with restrictions upon speech and way of living which he senses as irksome.

And there is another factor that enters into the uncertainty of the present situation. "I do not know about the premier portfolio," said the wisest of the Senatorial sages this morning. "Perhaps he may take it temporarily, but Mr. Hughes would really like to sit upon the woolsack—he would like to preside over the Supreme Court. That appeals to him. The other matter? Well, he is thinking it over.

"What do you think gives him pause?" I inquired.

"Well, it is only to a slight degree the fear of the irreconcilables and the lively antics of the Battalion of Death. In a way, Mr. Hughes has always been sound. Jim Reed and the other irreconcilables like him better than they do Mr. Root. Hughes, at least, never said, like ex-President Taft, that Article X. simply constituted the extension of the Monroe Doctrine to the world and was really an easy and economical way of impounding all the wardogs. But, unfortunately, at a certain moment Mr. Hughes did say that he thought the safe and wise course was for the United States to get into the League and behind the covenant and then set about improving it from the inside out. And, of course, Reed and the rest of them know this and cannot forget it.

"It looks," he continued, "as though the Senate intends to run the foreign affairs of the United States for the next four years as it has for the last twelve months and—well, they know that a Secretary of State who would persistently think for himself, and that is Mr. Hughes, might develop into a nuisance. The Senate does not want to be disciplining the Secretary of State all the time, so there is quite a strong and a growing current here in favor of some man who is thoroughly domesticated, who would 'stay put' where placed by the Foreign Relations Committee and there stand without hitching. And so, you see, there is quite a chance that the mantle of Marcy and Webster, of Hay and Olney, may descend upon some such shrunken shoulders."

"But why the delay?"

"Mr. Hughes is turning the matter over, weighing the pros and the cons, and Mr. Harding is not in a hurry to hear from him—not even if the answer should be in the affirmative. As a matter of fact, as must be patent to everybody now, all the Marion offers and proffers are subject to a little clause such as this: 'If the situation has not changed before then, on March 3, or perhaps a little earlier, I will talk to you in this sense—' But there is another string to the Hughes appointment. Mr. Hughes's friends are letting it be known that the only position that exerts enough attraction to induce him to depart from his present passive course may be the Chief Justiceship of the Supreme Court.

"And now I will tell you a little story," said the wisest of the Senatorial sages, who, unfortunately, rarely communicates with ordinary mortals, either in the Chamber or through the press. "Every one knows how near Charles Evans Hughes came to being President in 1916, how the congratulatory telegrams piled high, and how even the hidebound of the Democratic organs had thrown up the sponge and counted him in. Everybody knows that, but only a few other Senators know that he came nearer being Chief Justice of the United States than any other man who has not been Chief Justice. Perhaps Mr. Hughes does not know this himself, and yet I sometimes think he does, and that this is the reason why he may be determined to seize the prize that was once almost within his grasp and then escaped him.

"Here goes for my little scrap of unwritten history: In October, 1910, Mr. Hughes was appointed Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, and it chanced that in December of the same year—only two months later—President Taft was called upon to fill the vacancy and select a new Chief Justice. Taft was for Hughes. The whole matter had been settled in his mind, and easily settled. In the judgment of the President there was no one in the race but Hughes, and at noon on Dec. 11, 1910, Mr. Taft called in the White House reporters and told them that he had settled upon a choice for the new Chief Justice and that his name would be sent in to the Senate the following morning.

"It was at this juncture that the members of the Senate Judiciary Committee and several other Senators got busy. They knew that the new appointment was on the eve of being announced and that the name of the new Chief Justice was practically already en route to the Senate Committee on Confirmations. How they knew it, I do not know, and it is not very much to the point, but the six important Senators who were most concerned with the vacancy did know that Hughes had been selected, and they immediately proceeded horse, foot and heavy artillery to the White House.

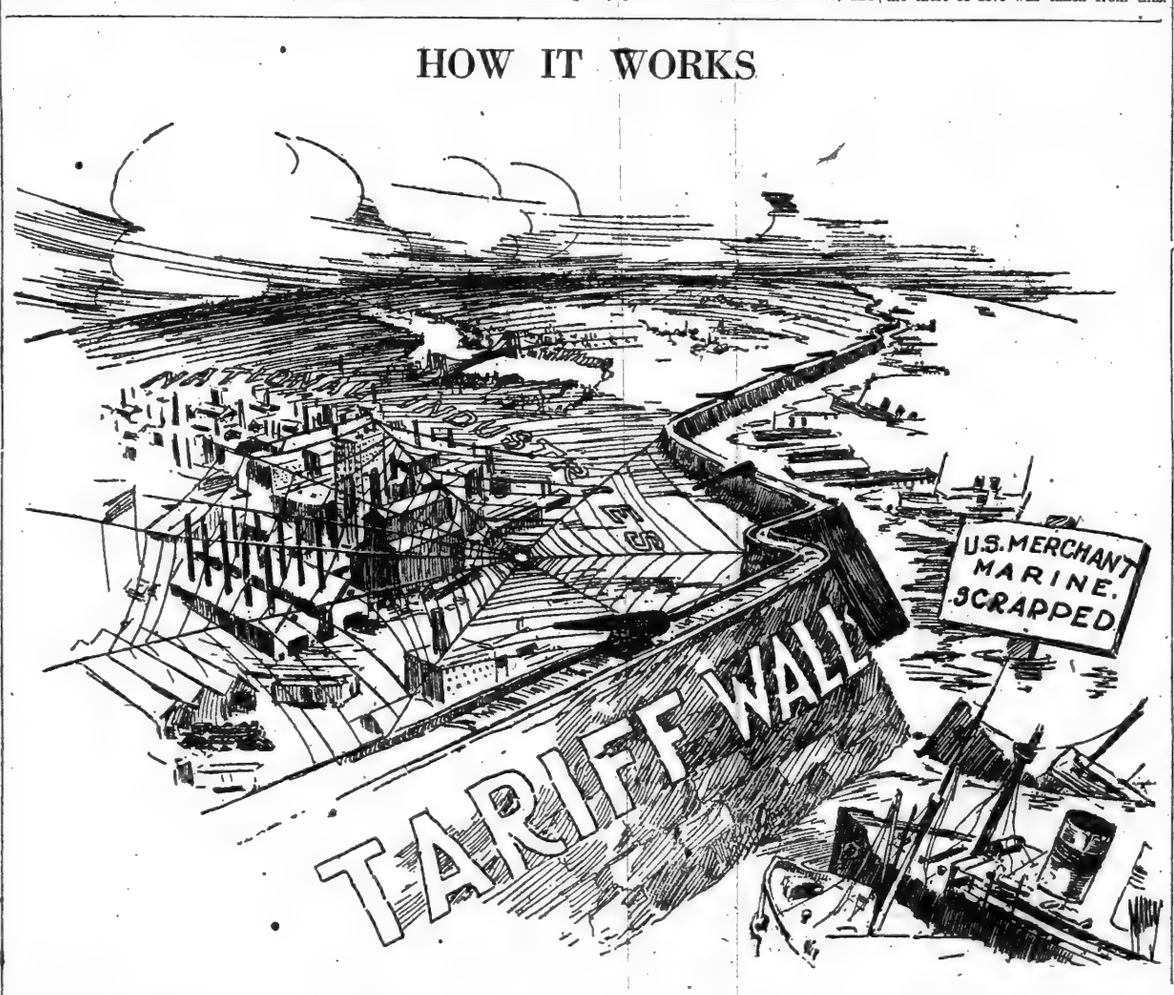
"They did not attack Hughes. They made no such childish mistake as that. Indeed, they admitted that the man who was to be Chief Justice in the morning was unassailable; only they insisted his contact with the bench and his touch with the ermine was confined to two short months. These Senators had drawn up a lot of statistics, sound statistics, that made a tremendous impression on Mr. Taft. They were important men, and the President did not want to offend them; besides, Mr. Taft had been a Judge a long time himself and he knew about Judges. He saw the point was fairly well taken; the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court would not care to be presided over by a man who had sat with them merely for sixty days and who had never presided over any other court sitting in the land.

"Mr. Taft sent the Senators away, assuring them that he had an open mind on the important subject and that he hoped night study would bring him wise counsel. In the morning Edward Douglas White, a Democrat, who had fought in the Confederate Army and had served as Associate Justice since February, 1894, was appointed Chief Justice.

"You see, I do not enter into the politics of the thing," mused my commentator aloud. "There was, of course, weeping and gnashing of teeth over the matter, and, as a matter of fact, there still is. From that day to this Mr. Hughes has been a passive and unconscious, but none the less receptive candidate for the Chief Justiceship. The nominations for the Presidency was forced upon Hughes. No man would have gone more unwillingly into the White House than he would have gone but for those miraculous two thousand votes in California.

"Now, you must remember that the only flaw in Mr. Hughes's record that kept him from reaching the highest judicial post in the world has been removed. He has worn the ermine, he has sat on the Supreme Bench for five years, and since he left it his colleagues and the great lawyers who appear before this august court say that his place has never been quite filled. Remember this, and you will understand things that are coming from Marion that are full of enigmas and perplexity to the uninitiated. Remember that Chief Justice White is rich in years and in honors, and though hale and hearty he has passed the age limit at which Supreme Court Judges find it wise to resign. Of course, it is an open secret here that the Chief Justice has signified his intention of handing in his resignation when it will be convenient for the President to receive it. So, after all, even the cornerstone of the Cabinet that has not yet risen very high may be overturned, and Mr. Hughes may very well dodge the premier portfolio of State and get the prize that was so nearly his in 1910."

HOW IT WORKS



WHAT LURES MASTER MINDS INTO BIG BUSINESS

By CHARLES J. ROSEBAULT.

THE great magician of our day—speaking more particularly of the American species of wizards—is not identified with any of the professions from which the seers and prophets are supposed to issue. He is neither poet, editor, author, doctor, philosopher, painter, musician nor delver in the black arts. Neither is he the man who makes two blades of grass grow where but one grew before. Unmistakably and indisputably he is the genius who can manipulate one dollar so that it develops into many—do it within the law, of course.

Although this kernel of wisdom doubtless dwelt within me these many years, it was not brought to my conscious mind until recently, when I came to say farewell to a European artist about to return to his native land.

"My friend," said he, "I cannot tell you how I regret to leave your country. I am captivated by its beauty, by its wonderful skies, more lovely than those of Italy; by the generosity and boundless hospitality of your people. I am thrilled by the vitality, the daring, the optimism of everybody. I am constantly reminded of a young giant to whom no tasks seem really great. Ah, if I had not had the misfortune to be born a painter—if I had only been blessed with talents for business! Then nothing could drive me away. For America belongs to the business man. It is his by right of conquest and because America must have his leadership. The gifts which enable him to transmute your boundless natural resources into equally boundless wealth are superior to all other endowments for him who would live in your great country. So I, who know nothing of the magic which puts dollars in unseen places, as one plants seeds in the ground and receives them back with a numerous progeny, am out of place. Adieu, my friend, and may you, too, penetrate the sorcerer's secret."

Although delivered in the spirit of banter, the conviction of truth underlay these observations. Whether it is the result of nature's demands, the need of speeding the development of our great resources so that the world may benefit thereby, or whether it is that keen intellect has detected the easiest means of access to the most bountiful fruits of energy to be along the business route, the fact remains that with us the "master minds" gravitate not to the arts nor to literature, but to those pursuits which the world calls practical. The Morgans, Harrimans, Hills, Huntingtons and their like, some of whom showed a passionate interest in the arts, devoted their great talents and energies in the first instance to the activities of finance and industry. These have been the builders and leaders of the country.

Today the colleges find it difficult to keep their chemists and other technical experts in competition with industry. The college curriculum has had to be changed to meet the ever-increasing demand for young men trained in the methods of business. More college graduates are going into business every year. The cloistered halls incite less to fame in scholarship than to ambition for the wealth and power which are, above all, the prizes of business. Finance, industry, commerce claim an ever-increasing proportion of the trained brains, and our indicated future is that of a country in which material progress has been exploited beyond anything the world had known previously.

Perhaps this is no more than fasthotive preparation for the fierce international competition which is likely to develop with the European struggle for rehabilitation, and which will reach its zenith when Germany gets into her industrial stride. Incidentally, our captains of industry are constantly adjusting their machinery to meet new conditions, and in nothing is this more evident than in the great financial enterprises which are both life blood and backbone to all our commercial and industrial activities.

Every New Yorker whose memory goes back even a decade is aware that the banks and the trust companies have grown and developed in many directions. As for the old fellows, who can recall when going to a bank for any purpose but the routine act of depositing or withdrawing money was a step not to be taken without prayerful consideration; when a bank President was about as accessible to the average citizen as was the ancient Egyptian god, secluded in the last recess of his sombre and mighty temple, under the vigilant guard of a priesthood trained in the arts of interference—how they must wonder at the extraordinary changes in those institutions, once hallowed to conservatism and now pioneers in the fields of commercial and industrial exploration.

For it is here more than in the direct activities of trade and industry that the master minds have centred their energies, with the result that all the old trammels and hindrances to enterprise once deemed essential to the safety of the banking business have been thrust aside. From being reluctant supporters of the courageous venturing into new fields of enterprise, ever in the rear and having to be convinced, as was true of bankers generally a score of years ago, it is the banker who is now the explorer, opening up new avenues of trade, seeking new opportunities for the venturesome and enterprising, carrying the commercial banners of America far afield and staking out America's claim to a share of the world's business. Doing this, too, in the face of the fact that the game of baiting the banker still remains one of our most popular sports.

Big Banking's Vast Activities.

As one looks into the vast activities of the big banking and trust company institutions—it is in the trust company form, which has recently been adopted, also, by some of the great national banks, that the widest powers are exercised—the lure to the master minds becomes understandable. Here is plenty of scope for the greatest energy, the most daring imagination, the broadest development of high enterprise, power and force. Here is possible the widest application of the driving power of concentrated wealth. Here are single enterprises whose capital, surplus and undivided profits amount to forty, sixty, eighty millions, with resources ten times those huge sums.

It would be impossible within the space of one article to do more than suggest the diverse fields of action of one of these companies. Broadly speaking, it is organized into four general departments—general banking, the issue of new securities, trust and fiduciary, foreign trade.

In the first department alone does it abide by the traditions and customs of the old-time bank, and even there the present-day methods would frighten any

(Continued on Page 4).

NEW PLAN TO TRAIN BOYS

Brig. Gen. Andrews Presents a Detailed Scheme in Accord With State Law

Brig. Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews has lately come from retirement from the regular army service to take charge of the Bureau of Technical Military Training of the State Military Training Commission, which consists of Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan, commanding the National Guard of the State; Dr. John H. Finley, retiring State Commissioner of Education, and Dr. George J. Fisher, Deputy Chief Scout Executive, Boy Scouts of America. General Andrews contends that every man and woman who is responsible for the work of others is to that degree a leader of men, and as is responsible for the effect his leadership is having upon their characters. He believes that if business and professional men will realize this responsibility of leadership, and use their power wisely, much will be done toward solving our vexatious problems. He has brought these ideas to the training work under the State Military Training Commission, and after a study of the problem of boy training in the State has arrived at a solution. This is presented in a paper prepared by him, from which the following is taken.

ANCIENT civilizations were destroyed by invading barbarians—we breed our own. New York City considers adding 700 new policemen to its payroll, more than a million dollars a year for life, largely to aid in keeping these barbarians rounded up. New York State pays $30,000,000 a year to provide institutions for the safe-keeping of individuals unfit for community living. Government accepts the principle of taxing the industrious and productive to provide support for the worthless and incompetent. But the latter class is being recruited too rapidly for safety and bids fair to become an intolerable burden upon the industrious. Civilization appears headed for its own destruction when it simply guards and supports its worthless citizens. It must actively reduce their growing numbers and even take steps to breed better ones.

"New York State strives to meet this responsibility. She recognizes her schools as her first agent for training citizens—and votes them a $38,000,000 budget. The schools should properly train all who attend them, but 143,000 of her boys have quit school before they are 16 years of age and 247,000 before they are 18. These boys are continuing their education in the practical school of life, without guidance from the State. The lessons they learn in these formative years are going to determine the kind of men they will be. Fifty thousand of them are without fathers or guardians; 28,000 went on record in our questionnaire as stating they had no definite purpose or aim in their present jobs. They drift from job to job, or no job, and stumble along until they stumble into becoming voters and assuming the responsibility of citizenship.

"All thoughtful men recognize the importance of guarding the future of these boys. Throughout this State thousands of men, hundreds of thousands of dollars are engaged in a dozen different boyhood welfare movements. But these reach only the few individuals who respond to their particular program and can only scratch the surface of this vast army of boys, from which are recruited the drags and derelicts of social living. This vast effort and voluntary expense does, however, prove the recognized need for this field of work.

Boyhood Welfare Work.

"Here again New York State has taken a most progressive step in her law for universal military training. Under the broad provisions of this law, we may organize and operate a State-wide legalized boyhood welfare work, which will include every one of these two hundred and forty-seven thousand boys who are out of school. We can bring every one of them into local units where, under wise leadership, they may be trained to higher ideals, and to better individual development; where they may be led through the enthusiasm and spirit injected by the trained instructor to participate in all manner of exercises and community interests which will enlist them for life in the cause of good government and good citizenship.

"While the law is State-wide in scope, in its application, for any given community, it directly affects the welfare of the citizens of that community. It is their boys who are to be trained and led to better things, and, therefore, it is important and necessary that the law be administered in each community under the supervision of some local body representing that community—just as the boards of education and school trustees are the local agents for administering the State laws for education. So we would make the local committee an integral part of our organization, and expected to exercise a definite responsibility in carrying on the training of its own community boys.

"And because by far the greater share of the instructor's work with the boys lies in those things he will give them in addition to the minimum drill prescribed by law, and because the local civic pride and development are so important a phase of his work, this instructor must be a local man—most acceptable to the community. It would, therefore, be the first duty of the local committee to see that the best available local men are selected as instructors. Their services must be largely voluntary. The State cannot pay for the ability which the man must have who is fitted for this high order of leadership. Like the scout leader, his work is done in response to a sense of civic duty and his reward is the intense gratification that comes to the man who is instrumental in making men.

Spirit of Leadership.

"It is recognized that the finest policies and noblest projects must fail if their execution be left to incompetent hands. All these instructors must be fitted for this work. Experience in war, unlimited experience in army or National Guard training may not alone fit a man to give this instruction, nor will it give him the spirit of this leadership. Therefore, all men who are selected to be instructors would be assembled and given a preliminary ten days' intensive course of training designed to fit them for this special work. A manual for instructors must be prepared which will contain all of the technical and required work which they are to give. A manual for cadets must be issued containing the definite things the cadet is required to learn. Material for lectures, suggestions for practical instruction, subject-matter for hygiene talks and the details for physical examinations, suggestions for outside entertainments and activities for the development of esprit and civic pride and improvement, all of these would be furnished from headquarters. Necessary administration for the instructor would be reduced to the absolute minimum. The voluntary leader could thus occupy himself and his time exclusively in leadership.

"The purpose of the training, the sole object of all our efforts, must be kept clear before every one engaged—to benefit the boy, to fit him better to meet the issues of life, to give him habits and a mental and physical attitude which qualify him for a happier and more successful membership in his community and for citizenship in both the political and industrial State. Every detail of the training would be designed and carried out to these specific ends. The drills and exercises must be made so keen and interesting that the boy would enjoy them, would leave them exhilarated and uplifted, feeling that they had done him good and wanting to come again. Training will include three phases—the purely military, the health activities, and the educational activities.

"The purely military is used for the sole reason that no other known system has been devised which can so well develop the boy and instil in him the qualities of manliness which mean so much. William James says: 'There is a military type which every one feels that the race should continue to breed, for every one recognizes its superiority.'

Training for Democracy.

"Modern discipline and the requirements of modern command both in business and in war require that subordinates be trusted to act on their own initiative. This means that training must develop their individual characters. It must develop their self-respect and self-assurance, so that they may have the self-confidence to make decisions as to what should be done, and it must develop their strength of character so they may willingly accept the responsibility of acting on this decision.

"This is training fit for democracy. It seeks out the qualities of individualism in its men, and stands on the development and intelligent use of these qualities. It is a maker of men. And these men are taught the self-control demanded by membership in community living; the team work demanded by that co-operative effort which alone can win success today, and the requirements of loyalty and subordination under proper leadership. This is the discipline of the college football squad—high spirited and proud, its individuals blend into the team, loyal to fellows and to leader, and instant in obedience to orders on the field. And this is modern military discipline. * * *

"The objects of the health activities are better understood and need less explanation. The lessons of the draft were too startling to be forgotten. Healthy minds will be found only in healthy bodies, and healthy minds are necessary to democracy and to our accepted philosophy of self-determination. Through these activities we would expect to do much to lessen the number of young men who are now recruiting the State institutions. The field for improving the quality and tone of our manhood is unlimited. Our enrollment questionnaire, containing forty-five intimate questions, has given us the data for our problem, and points our way to positive constructive work that no agency has ever heretofore been able to undertake. No other Government has ever made such a survey of boyhood, and no one could heretofore have appreciated one-half the requirements of the problem. * * *

Facilities for the Work.

"Let us see how this works out with training. We would go to a community under our State law and say, We will organize all your boys into training units, and, under leaders whom you select, will give them a prescribed minimum of training for good citizenship. The State will furnish the organization, the supervision and the prescribed course up to a certain standard. But the main thing for you is this, we actually get all of these boys into these units. We reach the ones who need it, as well as the better boys who would volunteer. You thus have them in hand, and may go as much further in their development as your ability and time admit.

"In the medium-sized communities this is both simple and inexpensive. Drills may be held out of doors in the open seasons during the twilight hours after supper. In the next larger cities, drills may be held in the armories during Winter evenings. But in the largest cities, armory facilities will not accommodate the great number of boys. For example, the armory facilities of Greater New York as now available will accommodate a maximum of 40,000 boys. There are 132,000 to be trained. In these largest cities we must plan to train the surplus in some other way—most efficiently in Summer camps.

"These large cities are the big important field for welfare work. Their boys largely recruit the worthless and criminal classes. We can actually get these boys into permanent training units which will keep them in hand during the year where proper leaders may keep them engaged in wholesome activities. The 40,000 New York boys to be given the continuous armory training would be made up of local groups which would be organized through the aid of the various settlement and welfare agencies. Each such unit would be a local "gang" or club, where "self-government" and all manner of welfare ideas could be continuously practiced through the year. For the others, they would attend the annual Summertime camps. And those who there became inspired with the sense of duty to State and an appreciation of the value of continued military training could enlist in the National Guard and thus continue as members of the Guard their military training throughout the year.

"Likewise in the sparsely settled rural communities it is impracticable to assemble weekly enough boys to justify a training unit. So here also these boys should be assembled in local county training camps in the Fall at the end of harvest. Here, in addition to military training, they would be given instruction and training in teamwork for meeting rural problems, such as shade tree planting, the elimination of common farm pests, various co-operative and community enterprises, &c.

"Training in camp, while most efficient, is costly. We would divide this cost between the community, the State and the nation, according to the good roads idea. The community would supply the camp sites for her own boys and transport them to and from the camp. This could be done cheaply by mobilizing on Sundays the necessary motor-truck transportation. The State would furnish the trained instructors, the uniform, the military equipment and conduct the training. And then the nation, where States conduct these training camps up to a required standard of efficiency and curriculum, would assist the States to the extent of supplying army rations for the men in camp, the mess equipment, the army cooks and the medical staffs necessary for the health examinations.

"Such a Federal law could and should be passed by Congress. It would be a step toward universal training, and in accord with our policy of keeping educational matters quite in the hands of the State authorities. This would put little burden on the Federal Government, for New York is the only State now preparing to take advantage of it; and the cost would mount only as other States passed training laws and organized for the conduct of training.

"Recognizing the necessity of approaching so comprehensive a scheme on a sound and practical basis, and while awaiting the action of Congress, we would employ this year largely in preparation and laboratory experimentation. We would leave to the schools the training of their 38,000 schoolboys; continue the training of certain employed boy units which are now in particularly successful operation; try out on a small scale in a few selected localities the practicability and relative value of our new methods; prepare the required manuals; train the selected instructors, and in general prove the ground so that another year we could come to the people with a sure plan whose results and costs are known. This would advance rather than retard the cause of universal military training on sound lines.

"There should be no doubt of the value of this training conducted on these lines. The leading thoughtful citizens of every community in the nation would seek its advantage for their own citizenship. The nation is now full of men trained in leadership through their late war experiences. Many of these men are available as local leaders for carrying on this training of boyhood for manhood. Here is the possibility of universal military training along American lines toward American ideals."

TRADE GAINS IN EUROPE

Progress of War-Torn Countries in Reducing Unfavorable Balances—Latest Figures

EUROPEAN nations are making decided progress in cutting down unfavorable trade balances, according to latest official figures obtainable at Washington. The war-torn countries are getting on their feet commercially. In most cases their imports still exceed their exports, but the growth in imports proportionately is much less than that in exports.

Figures compiled by the United States Department of Commerce from reports furnished by American Consular officers in all parts of the world tell a story of growing commercial rivalry. They show that Germany in the last two months for which figures are available exported more than she imported, for the first time since the war began, in August, 1914. They show that Great Britain's exports nearly doubled in value during the first ten months of 1920, as compared with the same months in 1919. They show that France in 1919 was importing three times as much goods as she was exporting, while in 1920 her imports were only one and a half times as great as her exports. They show that Italy's imports decreased in the first half of 1920, as compared with the same months of the previous year, while the imports of nearly every other nation in Europe increased.

But the great balance of trade in favor of the United States, certain South American countries and Australia, which are regarded as the reservoirs of raw materials on which European nations that specialise in manufactured commodities must draw, is still an impressive feature of the world picture from a business standpoint.

The shifting exchange rates have made comparisons in American dollars impractical, according to officials of the Department of Commerce, but those officials do find in the volume of export and import business convincing proof that industry abroad, all of which was thrown out of gear during the years of the war and some of it stopped completely, is strengthening. European nations have made a start toward closing the gap in unfavorable trade balances.

Germany exported nearly twenty times as much in 1920 as she did the year before, according to incomplete figures for the early months of last year, as compared with the same months of 1919. Her imports for the same period show them to be seven times greater in 1920 than in 1919.

Great Britain, which, maintained a semblance of her world trade even in the greatest period of her war strain, has made a quicker recovery than any of the others. The balance of trade no longer is running heavily against Great Britain. In the first ten months of 1920 her imports were 1,454,160,928 in pounds sterling, while her exports in the same period were 1,119,373,510 pounds.

In the corresponding months of 1919 Great Britain imported goods to the value of £1,201,582,993 and exported only £620,407,198. This represents a tremendous gain relatively in exports during one year, and it is believed the complete figures for 1920 will show that her exports at the beginning of 1921 will exceed her imports.

The decline in value of the German mark during 1920 makes comparisons of trade with 1919, based on the mark, inaccurate; but nevertheless the story of Germany's business recovery is regarded as remarkable. During part of 1920 the German mark was worth only one-sixth what it was in 1919. It is now worth between 1 and 2 cents in American money as compared to 24 cents before the war.

In April of 1920 Germany's exports exceeded her imports for the first time since the war began, the comparison that month being imports valued at 4,788,000,000 marks as against exports of 5,344,000,000. In May her imports were 5,537,000,000 and her exports 6,647,000,000.

"The German Ministry of Economics," says the report of the United States Department of Commerce, "recently published a brief statistical review. The disproportion between imports and exports had been gradually lessening since October, 1919.

While the latest figures on German trade show that the nation has not yet approached her pre-war status in world commerce, especially in view of the greatly depreciated value of her currency, it does show that she is making progress despite an undetermined reparation hanging over her and a huge war debt confronting her.

France, like Germany, is rapidly getting away from overwhelming importations and moderate exportations. In the first nine months of 1920 France shows, in terms of francs, imports of 27,189,071,000 and exports of 14,577,731,000, while during the same nine months of 1919 imports were 24,000,000,000 and exports 6,700,000,000.

"The first post-war year in France," says a report made by A. M. Thackara, American Consul General at Paris, "was from an economic standpoint still under the influence of restrictions surviving from the war period, but in spite of such handicaps, such as shortage of labor, an increasing unfavorable balance of trade, a depreciation of the exchange value of the franc, a lack of transportation facilities and other similar deficiencies, and the consequent difficulty of procuring raw materials and machines for reconstruction."

Consul General Thackara's report was sent from Paris on May 20, 1920, and since then the progress of France has been more rapid.

Belgium is earnestly at work. Her imports for nine months of 1920 were 8,457,000,000 francs and her exports 6,441,000,000 francs, whereas the year before, in the same period, she imported goods to the value of 3,000,000,000 francs and sold 1,000,000,000 francs. In one year's time she increased her selling volume by six, the best showing of any of the nations except Germany.

Italy shows a relative gain in exports compared with imports in 1920 over 1919, but not proportionate to some of the other nations. She still has an unwieldy balance of trade against her. Italy's exports in the first six months of 1920 were 50 per cent. over the same six months of the year previous, but at the beginning of the last half of 1920, the Italian imports were 8,413,000,000 lire and her exports 3,889,000,000 lire.

Something of the financial stress of Japan is shown by the figures recently made public by the Department of Commerce. During the war Japan had a favorable balance of trade, but now her imports are exceeding her exports. Likewise some of the South American countries, Brazil for example, show a decided increase in imports and a decrease in exports. This shows, so Government experts say, where a large part of the manufactured products of Europe are finding their markets.

The United States still maintains in her favor the largest trade balance in the world's history, but detailed statistics in shipments abroad reflect decreases in the cattle and hog industry in this country. More than $1,000,000,000 in meat and dairy products were exported from America in 1919, while in 1920 the total was approximately one-half that.

Breadstuffs, including both wheat and flour, showed exports of $982,852,257 for the year 1920, exclusive of December, and for the same eleven months of the year before the exports of those commodities aggregated $864,525,988. Cotton recorded a falling off in the eleven months' shipment of approximately 150,000,000 pounds.

N. P. L.'S MANY TROUBLES

Difficulties Within and Without Beset Political Organization of Radical Farmers

SO many difficulties, within and without, face the Non-Partisan League that its very life as a political party is in danger, according to the opinion of both friends and foes at Washington.

Unrestricted application of the principles and policies for which it stood through control of the North Dakota State legislative and executive machinery generally is regarded here as having done more than anything else to bring about the present situation.

Difficulties, varied and many, have beset the organization within the last few months in the State in which it was most deeply rooted, culminating on Jan. 4 in the loss of the lower house of the North Dakota Legislature and the enforced suspension of all but two of the league's daily newspapers in the Northwest.

Determined efforts have been made in other States to offset the losses in North Dakota, such as the present efforts of A. C. Townley, President of the National Non-Partisan League, to organise the farmers in Kansas, but the membership drives before election and since have not been conspicuously successful.

Spokesmen for the league in the national capital, men who have worked in vain to prevail upon Congress to adopt some of the legislative proposals of the organization, assert that its present difficulties are due more to a "boycott" of big business than to failure of its theories in practical application.

Nevertheless, there is an admitted and insistent demand on the part of many members for a "democratization" of the present league. Complaint is made that many of the methods used by President Townley are "tyrannical." Reports received here by men who have been active in the organization are to the effect that Townley no longer has control of the league's activities in North Dakota, that the farmers have selected a committee of their own which has assumed active charge.

Some of the recent events in the Northwest which have discouraged the Non-Partisan League supporters are the following:

Failure of more than twenty State banks of North Dakota while the league controlled the State Government.

Enforced suspension of the construction of a State flour mill to cost $1,000,000, due to inability to raise money.

Defeat of Representative John Baer of North Dakota, spokesman for the league in Congress.

Failure in the elections last Fall to elect a large block of State Senators and Representatives in States where active campaigns were conducted.

Inability substantially to increase the membership of the league in the last two years, and expiration of many of the original membership cards, which are not being renewed.

The only conspicuous victory claimed by the spokesmen of the league here is the election of Dr. E. F. Ladd of North Dakota to succeed Senator A. J. Gronna in Congress. With the endorsement of the league, Dr. Ladd won the Republican nomination in the primary fight made for it by Senator Gronna.

There will still be one outspoken advocate of the league left in the next national House of Representatives, James H. Sinclair of North Dakota, who has been Mr. Baer's colleague in the present Congress. Mr. Sinclair was re-elected.

In the State Legislatures the league representation is generally less than it has been in recent years. The league's candidate for Speaker of the House in the North Dakota Legislature, Walter Maddock, was defeated this month by the opposition candidate, L. L. Twitchell.

In the Minnesota Legislature, according to the league's figures, it will have but twenty-six members out of a total of 131 in that body.

In Nebraska, where an extensive drive was made in the recent campaign, it is contended that a line-up of forces will show that there were but nine league representatives elected to the State Legislature.

"If the Legislature of Minnesota," said Representative Harold Knutson of Minnesota, Republican whip of the national House, "gives the farmers some of the laws they are demanding and should have, I am convinced that the league will no longer be a factor in Minnesota.

"I say that in spite of the fact that the league carried my Congressional district and two others in the State in the primary last year. The league lost those districts in the general election a few months later."

Endorsement of the league was offered to several Republican Representatives in Congress from North and South Dakota last Fall if they would become members of the league, but none of them accepted. That move is regarded here as a forerunner of what may happen in future political activities of the organization. Not a few of its members insist that no matter what may happen to the league as now organized, the fight which it has been making will be carried on in some manner. If a substantial block of voters can be held together to be thrown into the balance for one candidate or another, the membership may exercise great force, irrespective of the ultimate fate of the league.

W. W. Liggett, Secretary to Senator-elect Ladd, asserted that in the last election the league polled a total of 1,200,000 votes for its candidates, though he admitted that 400,000 of that number were cast for "La Follette candidates" in Wisconsin.

Mr. Liggett is one of the advocates of the league who is convinced that there must be a substantial change in its present methods if the organization is to continue to function. In North Dakota, while working for the organization, he made speeches in which he vigorously opposed the policies of Townley, but asserted that his organization ability must be recognised.

According to Mr. Liggett, the league now has membership in the agricultural States as follows: Minnesota, 55,000; North Dakota, 40,000; South Dakota, 15,000; Wisconsin, 35,000; Montana, 20,000; Colorado, 10,000; Idaho, 12,000; Washington, 15,000; Nebraska, 15,000; Iowa, 8,000. Mr. Liggett said he has not the figures as to membership in Kansas and Oklahoma.

A subscription of $18 gives a farmer membership in the league for two years, so it is practically necessary to re-enlist the entire membership every two years. Discouraging outcomes in the campaign, and the failure of some of the league's financial activities have made it difficult to get old members to renew, according to well-informed men in Washington on the subject.

Almost without exception, the spokesmen here assert that the inability to put the State flour mill in operation has done more than anything else to hurt the league's activities. The farmers were told that they would break the "milling trust" by having the State operate the mill to the farmers' advantage, but the State was unable to float the bonds necessary to complete the structure and equip it with modern machinery.

"The bond issue carried interest at the rate of 5% per cent. and had all the resources of the State back of it," said Mr. Liggett, "but the bonds could not be sold. Some of them were taken up in North Dakota, but the people of that State could not subscribe for all of them and an effort was made to sell the balance in Wall Street. Of course that failed."

It is reported that $300,000 had been put into the mill, prior to the enforced suspension of work, just before Christmas.

Efforts to expand the league in new States are meeting with determined opposition, similar to that which has been attracting attention in Kansas recently. There the American Legion as a body decided to resist the efforts of President Townley to establish the league among the Kansas farmers, but the legion as an organization had to abandon the plan when Colonel F. W. Galbraith Jr., national commander, telegraphed that the constitution did not permit such activities.

Since then Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas has encouraged the ex-service men to act individually against the Non-Partisan Leaguers, and has appealed to the farmers to investigate the outcome of the league theories.

"Townley has been able to present to North Dakota a lot of dreams which seemed real," said Governor Allen. "But the weakness and costs of his schemes have finally been exposed" and Townley is hunting for new fields.

MONK WHO MARRIED TALKS ON CELIBACY

JAMES CORNELL BIDDLE of the Philadelphia Biddle family famous in diplomacy and finance, in leaving the Trappist order two years ago, after twenty years of silence, seclusion, piety and religious exclusiveness, took a step that has few parallels. Seldom have monks repudiated their vows, though fiction presents the figure of the monk in the "Garden of Allah" who wandered from the cloister and married, but returned to his cell, a repentant man.

In a way, the life of Mr. Biddle, known until two years ago as Father Alberic in the Abbey of Gethsemane, Kentucky, is a counterpart of this work of fiction. For, like the monk of fiction, he married only a few days ago Miss Mary Lena Gaines of Warrenton, Va., as was announced in press dispatches. The honeymoon was passed in Washington, but now Mr. Biddle and his bride are at the country estate of the latter, Paradise, one of the beautiful Colonial homesteads in Virginia, where the bridegroom is devoting himself to a study of the questions that have pressed upon the world in the last twenty years. The League of Nations, he says, is the greatest thing that has been offered to the world in centuries, and he believes that the United States will finally enter into an association of nations which will be effective in preserving the peace of the world.

Having entered the broad highway of affairs at the age of 52, unfamiliar with what has occurred in a definite way in world development, Mr. Biddle is more eager than a college boy preparing his commencement speech. He is saturating himself with the things that have happened since his entrance upon monkhood some twenty-two years ago. In the last week Mr. and Mrs. Biddle have been in Washington, where they were married. Much of Mr. Biddle's time has been passed at the Congressional Library, reading about the questions of the day, and in the shops buying books on history to carry back to his Virginia home.

Mr. Biddle, who is a tall, ascetic man, with a well-developed head, slightly bald on top—the hair slight and gray—looks through snappy eyes which follow you as he talks and hold your attention. He seemed not unwilling, a few days ago, to give his views as to political and international questions, but was rather reticent when asked to discuss the reasons that impelled him to return to the world and marry. He talked rather slowly, frequently hesitated for a word, or was indecisive as to whether he should say what was in his mind. He remarked that he did not desire to express his opinion in a polemical spirit which might injure the affections of others who did not agree with him that he took the right course when he left the monastery.

"When I was about 23 years of age, with insufficient study of the questions," he said, "I embraced the tenets of the Roman Catholic Church, and later study of the early Christian writers and authors, such as Jerome, Melethus and a large number of other religious men regarded both in the East and West as saints, led me to accept the view that the early Christian and original Church organization was that generally expressed in the Episcopal or evangelical movement, ruled by a Council of Elders and presided over by a Bishop.

"The original Church government was democratic in form, ruled by leading wise men of the Church, which furnishes a basis for the Church remaining upon a firm foundation. The essential character of religious truth is expressed in the Apostles' Creed, and other matters which are not essential are left to individual freedom.

"It is not my desire to express in a polemical spirit anything that may injure the affections of others. My views can be found learnedly expressed in such recent works as 'Angelical Pullers,' 'Primitive Saints,' 'The See of Rome' and Denys' 'Papalism,' and other learned ancient and modern historical and ecclesiastical works. St. Jerome, while a youth, entered the Church of Rome, and in his writings declared that it was not as in this time, but ruled by a Council of Elders, of which the Bishop was the presiding one. In the Acts of St. Paul and his writings the terms bishop, elder and priest are synonymous.

"After many years of study, therefore, I became convinced that St. Paul was right and that celibacy was a matter of choice with the individual. One day my relatives came to see me and I went with them to Philadelphia for medical treatment and never returned to the monastery."

"But had you not taken the vow?"

"Yes, but I did not regard the vow as binding upon me because later I took the Protestant view of the matter," he explained.

Mr. Biddle was told that his case seemed to be similar to the monk in the "Garden of Allah," and it was suggested that he might follow the course of that monk.

"Oh, no! There is every difference. I left out of conscience and he was never at rest with his conscience, as you know. He returned because his conscience drove him back. I left my seclusion because my conscience convinced me that I should do so. I will never return."

There are two monasteries of Trappist monks in the United States. One forty-eight miles south of Louisville, Ky., and the other at Dubuque, Iowa. These monks, when they receive full membership, consecrate themselves to five vows—poverty, chastity, obedience, stability and reformation of manners. They are under a vow of silence and are governed by these rules:

No meat, fish, eggs or wine at any time.

Only one meal a day, consisting of vegetable soup and boiled bread and rice, about fifteen or twenty ounces altogether. During Lent, only one meal of bread and water.

Frequent and prolonged devotions, with penance for the slightest forgetfulness.

Rise at 2 A. M., Winter and Summer.

Work from five to ten hours a day in the fields and workshops.

To bed at 7 P. M. in Winter and 8 P. M. in Summer.

Pray six hours a day.

Speaking of his life as a Trappist Monk Mr. Biddle said: "They rise at 2 A. M. and assemble in the abbey church for prayer. The little office of the Blessed Virgin Mary is recited, followed by a half hour's meditation, the monks kneeling in their stalls.

"At 3 o'clock the regular canonical Divine Office, composed of the Psalms of David, is recited, beginning with the office of matins, followed by lauds. Generally it ends about 4 A. M.

"The Divine Office consists of passages from the Holy Scriptures, homilies by the fathers of the Church, and extracts from the lives of Christian saints—all sung in simple Gregorian chant, as restored to its ancient usage by Pope Pius X.

"But this singing is done only on Sundays and the chief festivals of the year. On other days the office is recited.

"The intervals between prayer are spent in reading, study and manual labor. The abbey has about 1,000 acres of land. The manual labor, for what is known as the 'choir religious,' is from four to five hours daily. The lay brothers have a shorter office, which they say in private. The lay brothers also have longer hours of labor.

"While every monk is supposed to earn his living by manual labor, according to the old traditions of St. Benedict, St. Basil and the fathers of the desert, the Church has required choir religious to devote considerable time to sacred studies—theology and the Scriptures.

"In Summer, on account of the heat and labor, the monks get what are called two full meals, consisting of vegetables, milk and butter. They receive what is called 'monk's coffee,' made of ground barley, with milk and sugar. In early times this was the ordinary beverage of the people, especially in England. It is somewhat tasteless at first and a little difficult to get used to, but one becomes accustomed to it, and it is healthy.

"In this country, on account of the climate, the monks are allowed what is called 'mixt' in the morning. This consists of about six ounces of bread with barley coffee. In Winter they are granted one full meal, served about 11:30 A. M., and a small collation in the evening. It is extremely light, not a quarter of a full meal.

"Generally speaking, this diet proves healthy. The monks, as a rule, are spare, and you would not find any lazy ones. The rule of austerity is perfectly observed, but it is rather difficult to obtain new subjects, especially in this country, because many have not sufficient strength to observe the rules.

"Perpetual silence is observed, except to speak to the abbot, or the prior of the monastery. The master of work also may give directions verbally when necessary. This silence is difficult, but is necessary for a life of recollection and prayer. In case of great necessity the rule does not apply.

"A few years ago the building where the monks conduct a boys' school caught fire. A monk, discovering the flames, threw stones and smashed some of the windows by way of warning. But he kept silence."

Mr. Biddle said that he did not intend to decide hastily what his future life would be. In the meantime he will rest at Warrenton and may join later in the Sunday school work his cousin, Drexel Biddle, is doing in Philadelphia. He hopes to spend a great deal of his time during the next six months in Washington to keep in touch with the Senate debate upon the peace treaty.

NO CASH IN THIS FIRM'S SYSTEM

A MANUFACTURING company in Rochester, N. Y., is carrying on an annual business of millions of dollars without the use of currency. Money has been done away with in all the corporation's transactions. All payments are made and all remittances received by check or other credit instruments. Employes, at their option, get their pay in checks or certificates of bank deposit. Even junk men who purchase old or waste metal at the factory are required to pay by check. Incidentally, if the junk man is not an American citizen by birth or naturalisation, the company will not deal with him.

The concern is the Todd Protectograph Company. The purpose is to demonstrate a method of doing away with payroll robberies and other thefts of cash and to show the efficiency of modern banking methods. According to L. M. Todd, President, the plan is working out successfully. George W. Todd, Treasurer, says there is not so much cash belonging to the firm as even the price of a postage stamp on the premises to tempt the petty thief.

The new method is the culmination of a dream, so to speak, that the President had entertained for years. Of course, the law of legal tender may at some time interfere with the plan; that is, some customer may insist on settling an account with cash. Legally the company cannot refuse money in payment of an obligation. So far, however, this contingency has not arisen, and every one of the 800,000 or more customers of the company uses checks. If they didn't, they wouldn't be customers. President Todd says that should any one of them send cash, the money would be sent to the customer's bank with a request for a check. He expects to bring home the lesson which bankers, credit men's organizations, economists, police officials and others are trying to impress upon the public in an effort to stamp out the present tremendous wave of crime.

The plan is working out in the financial and credit departments, according to their heads, without any inconvenience, and nearly everybody with whom the company does business is converted to the pay-by-check system. The officers have been conducting an educational campaign to that end for years. The result was hastened by the epidemic of hold-ups and outlawry, when they decided that the best way to deal with the trouble was to remove the sources of temptation. All departments of the main plant and the branch sales offices in nearly a hundred cities are affected by the order.

When an employe desires to purchase anything whatsoever and has no checking account at a bank, a check is made out to his order by the head of the department for the amount of the purchase. The employe endorses the check to the company and settles the cash obligation with the head of the department in such a manner as is satisfactory to both. All employes, executives and salesmen understand that the company has no money at the plant and make arrangements accordingly. The employes are all co-operating by requesting check or certificate of deposit. These certificates are not the regular bank certificates of deposit, but are forms used by the company and certify that the amount written on them has been deposited to the account of the employe. Bills and expenses are paid by check or similar form of paper. Car fares, hotel bills, railroad fares for the force of 500 salesmen, and other sundries, are included in the order. Customers may remit with trade acceptances instead of checks if they desire. Many of them do this.

Recently the company's President made an automobile trip through twelve Eastern cities, tendering his personal check at every hotel where he stopped. The trip was made to experiment with the pay-by-check plan. Only one hotel refused the bank check, but it accepted a traveler's check. The result of this experiment, Mr. Todd says, demonstrates the growing confidence that the public has in modern banking methods. In fact, the whole pay-by-check plan is tending to increase the business of the banks, which do what they can to encourage it. The employes, of course, are getting in the habit of carrying checking accounts.

It has been estimated that the average industrial worker carries around in his pocket a roll of bills averaging $27. In the aggregate this amounts to millions of dollars, a large proportion of which, if the Todd plan were applied throughout the country, would be returned to the banks.

1921 ASTRONOMICALLY

FIVE months with five Saturdays each, instead of the usual four months with an "extra pay-day," is one of the many interesting things about 1921, as noted in a summary of the year, calendarial and astronomical, made by Dr. Benjamin F. Yanney, professor of astronomy at Wooster College.

"Unlike its predecessor, the year 1921, launched just two weeks ago, is a common year," Dr. Yanney stated. "This means that it has 365 days. It began on a Saturday and will therefore end on a Saturday. It is one of the fourteen varieties of year that we have within the briefest interval of twenty-five years, as from 1904 to 1928, inclusive. The calendar for this year is identical with that of the year 1910. It will be duplicated by each of the following years of the present century: 1927, 1938, 1949, 1955, 1960, 1977, 1983 and 1994.

"The year 1921 has its quota of singular happenings, if one is curious enough to note them. For instance, the months begin and also end on all of the different days of the week. Also each day of the month falls at least once on each day of the week, except the 31st, which this year misses Friday. As in the case of any common year there are only two months, January and October, having identical calendars. In leap years the only two months having identical calendars are January and July.

"Astronomically considered, the year is not without interest. There will be two eclipses of the sun and two of the moon, only those of the moon being visible in this country. The first eclipse of the moon occurs April 21, and the second Oct. 16. Eclipses of the sun, April 8 and Oct. 1, will be principally visible, respectively, over the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans.

"Even the casual observer has noticed two conspicuous planets approaching each other in the southwestern heavens. These are Venus and Mars, the former being far the brighter. On Jan. 9 they were in conjunction. They will be so again on April 4 and again on Oct. 3. They were not in conjunction last year, nor will they be so again until after 1922. Another conspicuous pair of planets, visible in the morning, are Jupiter and Saturn, the former being the brighter and gradually overtaking the latter. The interesting thing about them just now is that each has begun to retrograde. They will continue their apparent westward movement among the stars for about a third of the year, when they will resume their eastward march. Jupiter will overtake Saturn Sept. 14. This will be the second occurrence of conjunction of these planets in this century. The first conjunction occurred in 1901. Other noteworthy conjunctions scheduled for the year are: Venus and Saturn, Oct. 22; Venus and Jupiter, Oct. 25; Mars and Saturn, Nov. 18; Mars and Jupiter, Nov. 28.

"There will doubtless be the usual number of non-predictable phenomena, such as meteors, sunspots and boreal auroras.

"There are four epochs of perennial interest each year. These are the astronomical beginnings of the seasons. Their dates for the year 1921 are: Spring, March 20, 10:51 P. M.; Summer, June 21, 6:36 P. M.; Autumn, Sept. 23, 9:20 A. M.; Winter, Dec. 22, 4:08 A. M."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

IRISH RIGHT AND WRONG

Attack and Reprisal—The Conflict as Represented by Mrs. Green and Professor Phillips

New York, Jan. 10, 1920.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Ireland has an area of approximately 32,000 square miles and a population of about two-thirds of the City of New York. Our breakfast-table newspaper gives us glimpses of Mesopotamia, short trips to Armenia and Syria and along the shores of the Black Sea. We occasionally visit Greece—now so unsettled—"The gulf, the rock of Salamis." But Ireland is always on the front page. We cannot avoid it if we would. I hear workmen discussing it at their benches; men of every age and condition of servitude have Ireland on their lips, and a few days ago, at a Directors' meeting in one of our large local financial institutions, the subject was earnestly argued. Matters of greater importance waited for the end of what is seemingly an endless subject. Truly, the shot fired in County Clare is heard easily in Tierra del Fuego. Such is the irrepressible character of the Gael.

I have been watching this struggle for over thirty years, and am familiar with an earlier and more peaceful time. The death of Mr. Parnell was a severe loss, but there were a number of splendid men to take up the work along ordered lines. Dillon, Davitt, Healy, J. F. X. and Justin McCarthy were men of exceptional merit—clean men with clear minds who did much in an intelligent way for their country. We cannot, in this discussion, forget Mr. Redmond. With the exception of Mr. Healy, I knew these men very well. Our own Congress has had few men as able or resourceful. Without terror they inspired respect for law and order, and without coercion they received the almost unanimous support of their countrymen. They secured not only notable reforms for Ireland, but they had gradually awakened in the minds of Englishmen a realization of the wrongs from which Ireland had suffered for centuries. The stage had been set for an honorable settlement. Yet when Mr. Redmond died radicalism was born, and every hope of a peaceful solution was, seemingly, buried with him.

Now comes the Sinn Fein. This means "For ourselves alone." The word "Bolshevik" has a similar meaning. If, as Mr Lloyd George states, the people of Ireland are intimidated and coerced by the Sinn Fein, there is no difference between Moscow and Dublin but one of language. It is difficult for us in this country to sift the conflicting stories. We are compelled to grope, often vainly, for the truth; but this much is clear—Ireland will never walk to freedom through a bullet hole in a policeman's back. War may be murder, but murder is not war. Shooting a policeman or a few of them is not war; it is murder; and the men who perpetrate these crimes are not fit for freedom. These statements are based upon the unanswered accusations of Mr. Lloyd George.

On the other hand, reprisals are not a function of Government. If some of our marines were shot in the Philippines, we would not lay waste an entire village in reprisal. The torch and the bomb, the bayonet and bludgeon are the weapons of barbarism. There is no extenuating circumstance to excuse or defend them. Burning a peasant's home and sending women with unborn children to the forbidding shelter of leafless fields arouse anger in the hearts of men the world over, and will plant the seeds of bitterness in the breasts of young Ireland. A Government eager for peace and unity must be mad to tolerate such conditions.

It will be difficult, if not impossible, to find common ground for discussion while these conditions are tolerated, if not ordered, by the Government. Mr. Lloyd George emerged from the great war the one conspicuous statesman of the world. Is his star to set behind the smoke of a burning thatched cottage on the dreary bogs of Connemara?

ROGER I. SMYTH.

Professor Phillips on Ireland.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have been following with much interest the cabled articles of Professor W. Alison Phillips, in reply to Mrs. Alice Stopford Green's recent article on the conditions in Ireland and the genesis, recent and remote, of the co-existing warfare there. Professor Phillips's reply is in the nature of "confession and avoidance." In the course of this plea he makes several capital concessions to the fundamental argument for Ireland's right to complete independence.

For example, how usual it is for English apologists to deny the very existence of the Irish nation as a nation. Of course, this attitude is wholly unhistorical and wholly unconstitutional in the contemplation of British law. Yet Lloyd George, not a constitutional lawyer or historian, made the statement less than a year ago that "Ireland is not a nation," and he has been echoed by "Loyal Legionists" in debate before the American people and elsewhere.

Yet here is Professor Phillips of Trinity College, the very cradle of English influence and control in Ireland, saying:

"The United Kingdom is constituted of four self-conscious nations, each of which sends representatives to the Imperial Parliament. In the case of two of these nations the union was effected by acts passed simultaneously in their separate Parliaments, acts which were of the nature of international treaties very much like in principle those which bound the American States into their great federation, though unlike in their provisions and results."

This is creditable to the professor's hearing and fairness; but, at least from an American viewpoint, certain conclusions follow the admission.

Ireland, being a nation, is entitled to the rights of a nation. She is not a federated State, as are our truly federated States, but a nation with the note of national sovereignty; and certainly with the essential right "to determine her own form of life and obedience," as all true nations of a right do. Especially is this so when we remember, another historical fact, which Professor Phillips cannot question; that the so-called "international treaty" (the act of Union, 1801) between the "two nations," Great Britain and Ireland, was a "treaty" forced upon the people of Ireland, and driven through a minority-representing Irish Parliament by force and bribery and a corruption which has received the unbounded condemnation of many English historians and of a long series of British statesmen, including the great Gladstone, who poured upon this "international treaty" all the vials of his denunciation and condemnation.

Such a contract, or treaty, is, necessarily, null and void because of duress, and, grand in its inception—a common principle of law and morals. Nor has the "treaty" ever been acquiesced in, or "adopted," by the Irish nation. Hence, it has no sanction; and Ireland stands on her original and unforfeited right as a nation.

Moreover, Professor Phillips does not omit to say (giving various causes) that "in the election of 1918 Sinn Fein swept three-quarters of the country." Thus another decisive expression of the will of the vast majority of the people in favor of a republic was given, in a constitutional and orderly manner.

I believe Professor Phillips, perhaps unknowingly, has done the cause of Ireland's liberty a great service. I re-echo with him his concluding sentence: "God save Ireland!"

JOHN JEROME ROONEY.

New York, Jan. 10, 1921.

No Foreign War Here.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article in Monday's paper "No Foreign War Here" expresses the opinions of all Americans of vision. There appear to be some who labor under the delusion that this is Ireland and not America, and who seek to make this the bloody battleground of Irish liberation. Would it not be well to turn such over to the various Americanization committees in order to test the practical results of such committees' efforts to make good Americans first and last and all the time?

The first lesson in Americanization is to realize that this country is not composed of any one race, but of many. Therefore, we should respect all and never enter into the domestic disputes of European nations. For there will always be good American citizens of foreign blood on both sides of such questions, the controversies of which if raised here will tend to destroy our unity. Nothing must be allowed to destroy our efforts of co-operation among our different races.

This was the reason, apparently, in the mind of General Washington which caused him to speak against foreign entanglements. He was a man of great vision and saw that such would probably lead to riot and bloodshed, if not civil war in our nation. The Irish question seems to peculiarly come under his ban.

MADISON MARINE.

New York, Jan. 11, 1921.

In Spenser's Time.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Irish question in the spacious times of great Elizabeth was apparently just as perplexing and just as unsettled as it is today. A reference in a letter in THE TIMES for Sunday, Jan. 6, to the Cork fire of 1598, which destroyed Kilcolman Castle, the home of Edmund Spenser, calls to mind Spenser's contribution to the Irish question, a prose treatise in dialogue entitled "A View of the Present State of Ireland." This essay was written in 1598, but evidently it was not approved by the English Government, since it did not find its way into print until 1633, many years after the poet's death.

Spenser's fifteen years in Ireland as Secretary to Lord Grey, clerk of the Munster Council and Sheriff of Cork, had failed to give him a clear perception of the cause of her disaffection and a living sympathy with her troubles. He had very little faith in Ireland's future and despaired of her ability to save herself unaided.

"Marry, see there have been divers good plots and wise counsels cast already about reformation of that realm; but they say it is the fatal destiny of that land, that no purposes, whatsoever are meant for her good, will prosper or take good effect, which whether it proceed from the very Genius of the soil, or influence of the stars, or that Almighty God hath not yet appointed the time of her reformation, or that He reserveth her in this unquiet state still for some secret scourge, which shall by her come to England, it is hard to be known, but yet much to be feared." "It is vain," he goes on, "to prescribe laws where no man careth for the keeping of them, nor feareth the danger for the breaking of them." Therefore he advocated the suppression of Irish nationality by forced colonizing and systematic starving, and urged extreme measures in forcing English law upon the Irish, even the use of the sword. Spenser's uncompromising spirit was no doubt typical of the attitude of most Elizabethans toward their suffering neighbors across the Irish Sea.

A quotation in the letter mentioned above from Ridpath's "Library of Universal Knowledge" contains an error that has been often repeated—the reference to the perishing of Spenser's wife and infant son in the burning of Kilcolman Castle. The story does not rest upon a single contemporary record. The only warrant for it is a statement made by Ben Jonson in a conversation with William Drummond of Hawthornden, and "Rare Ben," it is well known, was a "wide talker over his cups."

CHARLES H. WHITMAN.

Rutgers College, New Brunswick, N. J., Jan. 10, 1921.

Balance of Argument.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In this morning's issue you say, speaking of Professor Phillips's articles on Ireland: "There is little chance for a balancing of arguments and statements coming from the contending disputants." In so much as the professor had for his distinct purpose the answering of Mrs. Green's statements and arguments, it follows logically from your statement (with which I agree) that the former has failed to achieve his purpose. WILLIAM J. McGRATH.

New York, Jan. 11, 1921.

Maiming of Cattle.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Reading Mr. Phillips's article published in your papers, I can state truthfully that I remember the cutting of the tails of animals, which he refers to, and which was charged up to the people. Personally, I know one of the men who was caught in the act, with another. They belonged to the Royal Irish Police. They were both arrested and then sent out to the States. W. HAYES.

New York, Jan. 12, 1921.

ARMENIAN TANGLE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A careful reading of the Rev. M. T. Kalaidjian's letter in THE TIMES of Jan. 9, entitled "Armenian Mediation," leads inevitably to the conclusion that Mr. Kalaidjian places on the great powers the responsibility for shifting the Armenian problem from its real centre in Turkey to Russia.

But the Turkish Armenians cannot very well evade their responsibility in the matter. At the Peace Conference in Paris they identified their cause with that of their co-religionists in Russia; they demanded as Armenian territory the countries stretching from the Caucasus to the Mediterranean Sea. Thus they helped to obscure the real issue, and consequently the interest of the so-called Armenian vilayets was relegated to the background of affairs.

The change of attitude on the part of the American statesmen can be attributed to their clearer understanding of the complicated question. After an exhaustive study and investigation for about two years they have come to know that the solution of the intricate problem, as the Armenians insist, is out of the question—only if the Almighty send His heavenly hosts to destroy the 80 per cent. of the population of the region claimed and leave the remaining few to rule themselves in their own way. It is probably the knowledge of this fact that led President Wilson, the best friend of the Armenians, to omit the real issue in his delimitation of Armenia; practically all the six vilayets and Cilicia are left out of its boundary.

This latest stage in the development of the Armenian problem should lead the leaders of that race to ponder and understand that what they have traditionally considered as the vital issue is no longer regarded as such by the best judgment of mankind and that the practical solution of the Armenian tangle necessitates a change in the traditional idea and the means employed for its execution. Such a happy solution, in my humble opinion, depends largely on the Armenians of Turkey: Completely to dissociate themselves in politics from all the Armenians of non-Turkish birth, and thus become their own masters; to give up the erroneous notion mythologically held that the six vilayets and Cilicia belong to the minority of their rightful inhabitants, who adhere to a particular church and speak a particular dialect; to approach directly Mustapha Kemal, frankly acknowledging the mistakes of the past, as he deplored in the presence of General Harbord the injustice done to the Armenians, and expressing their willingness to join in forming a government of all, by all and for all of the peoples without distinction as to race, creed and language. ISYA JOSEPH.

Port Chester, N. Y., Jan. 12, 1921.

BOLSHEVIST AGENT AT REVAL.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the last article of Mr. Schwartz is a great mistake in the mention of the name of Mr. Guchkoff. The Bolshevist representative at Reval is named Gukovsky, mercenary of Lenin, but never Mr. Guchkoff, who is very prominent in the Constitutional Democratic Party, that I belong to. Guchkoff was a very rich man, a member of the Duma and first the War Minister in Russia after the March revolution, and he could never be a mercenary of the Bolshevikl. To mix Guchkoff with Gukovsky is an affliction to the right parties.

CAPT. C. N. KOLANDS.

New York, Jan. 12, 1921.

FIUME'S "ITALIANITY."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One notices the assumption in a good many American papers, especially those particularly hostile to President Wilson, that the people of Fiume will speedily throw off the dignity of freedom and vote themselves into complete subordination to the Government at Rome. For any who have a reputation as seers to maintain it might be well to go a little slow with this prophecy.

A few on this side the Atlantic are aware of the fact that d'Annunzio never took the risk of a popular referendum on this matter, although a good majority in favor of submerging themselves in the Kingdom of Italy, rendered in an absolutely untrammeled election, would have been by all odds the best gift that a grateful Fiuman citizenship could have presented to its "deliverer."

Now, that the wild poet has gone, with his legionaries and his hypnotic verbal power over an excitable populace, the business men who must be the backbone of any future prosperity for Fiume, and the laborers whose daily bread must depend upon its business prosperity, will begin to take candid stock of the situation. And at the very outset they will run into a situation which does not make for submergence into Italy.

Under present circumstances, with Trieste in Italian hands, there is absolutely nothing to guarantee any considerable future growth and prosperity to Fiume except the trade which may come to it from a prosperous and well-disposed Jugoslavic hinterland. To get this trade, and handle it so as to keep it, there must be harbor developments on a scale which there is no reason, so far, to suppose that Italy will be willing to pay for. There must also be that interracial comity and confidence which would receive a lasting shock if the treaty of Rapallo should prove to be only the laying of the skids for the speedy transfer of Fiume to unqualified Italian control. Under the treaty, executed with absolute good faith, with Fiume retaining the status which induced Jugoslavia to agree to the settlement, twenty-five years from now may see Fiume one of the great and wealthy ports of the Mediterranean basin. If the Fiumans are wise they will not endanger that possibility by trying to "save d'Annunzio's face." W. H. JOHNSON.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 4, 1921.

WELLS-CHURCHILL DEBATE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with interest in today's TIMES extracts from a debate between Winston Churchill and H. G. Wells on Bolshevism in Russia. Mr. Wells makes the statement, among others that "Mr. Churchill is incapable of facing the facts of Bolshevism in cold blood. His heat is clear evidence to the discerning of his subconscious struggle; directly he approaches the topic he begins to orate and gesticulate and 'work himself up.'" Then Mr. Wells proceeds to orate and Mr. Churchill in the matter of heat, reaching a climax in the exclamation, "What a spectacle of utter bankruptcy, moral and intellectual, does not Mr. Churchill display!" In fact, Mr. Wells's reply is an excellent example of the "argumentum ad hominem." He presents no logical arguments and reaches no conclusion, save that Mr. Churchill is mentally and morally defective. Certainly Mr. Churchill's statements are more convincing and to the point, and in their freedom from such demagogic devices offer a pleasing contrast in this verbal controversy. ALEXANDER T. ORMOND.

Boston, Jan. 9, 1921.

HOUSE REAPPORTIONMENT.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On the basis of a study which I presented at the annual meeting of the American Mathematical Society, Dec. 28, 1920, on the problem of the correct apportionment of Representatives among the States according to population, I beg to call your attention to what appears to be an injustice in the apportionment of 483 Representatives just recommended by the House Census Committee.

The relation between the two States of Missouri and Montana is mathematically unfair, in that Missouri receives too much and Montana too little. The proof of this statement is as follows:

According to the committee report (based on the "method of major fractions"), we find Missouri 16, Montana 2, which gives Missouri eight times as many members as Montana.

According to what I believe is a fairer method of distribution, we should have (without changing the total of eighteen for the two States), Missouri 15, Montana 3, which would give Missouri five times as many members as Montana.

Now, the number eight is too large and the number five is too small, since, if a theoretically perfect apportionment were possible, Missouri ought to have 6.28622 times as many members as Montana.

An examination of the amount of the error committed in the two cases shows, however, that the number eight is too large by 27.3 per cent., while the number five is too small by only 25.7 per cent. Hence the relation between the two States of Missouri and Montana, as recommended by the committee, is not as fair as it might be, since the error could be reduced from over 27 per cent. to less than 26 per cent. by the transfer of one member, without altering the assignment to any other State.

Moreover, it can be shown that this is the only pair of States which is capable of improvement in the manner indicated.

It should be noted that if the committee deems it advisable to make this improvement in the table of apportionment for 483 members, while still adhering to the principle that no State should lose a representative, it would be necessary to increase the total membership of the House to 484 (in order to give Missouri 16 members). On the other hand, if the committee should adopt the table for 460 members, which involves a loss on the part of only two States, this table is correct as it stands, no pair of States being capable of improvement in the manner indicated.

If the above criticism of the "method of major fractions" appears unimportant on account of the small size of the error involved, it should be remembered that what is really involved is a mathematical principle which admits of no gradation between truth and falsity. It is to be hoped, therefore, that the committee will seriously reconsider its method of apportionment, with the view of determining whether the above criticism is valid.

EDWARD V. HUNTINGTON.

Professor of Mechanics, Harvard University.

Cambridge, Mass, Jan. 8, 1921.

MOTION PICTURE CRITICS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of Jan. 5 appeared three articles containing rather serious animadversions upon motion pictures. One paragraph in the news columns told of a ruling made by a police official in Chicago to the effect that crime in any shape or form could not be portrayed in pictures; the other article was in the form of a cable from Paris, and set forth the unfavorable opinion on motion pictures entertained by a representative of theatrical interests in Paris; the third item reported, in the local news columns, the derogatory remarks of a college President in this city. In another daily paper of the same date there was published a cartoon tending to hold up the motion picture to ridicule and contempt.

Leaving aside the question of whether or not there is any ground for these or similar articles with which the press is now being deluged, it must be clear that a continuation of such articles and the effect thereof on the public might crystallize to the point of demanding police control, forbidding the attendance of children and other consequences detrimental and possibly fatal to the progress of our industry.

There is only one answer to all this. The industry must stop such attacks, if it is going to progress and even be a safe business to stay in.

Representative men in the industry must combat such propaganda intelligently—abuse or denial of objectionable conditions will not longer do. They must recognize that, if objectionable conditions do exist, it is only by the curing of the same that the propaganda against us can be stopped. Until there is a conscientious and intelligent effort made to remedy wrong conditions giving just ground for complaint the anti-picture propaganda must increase constantly, until it is finally burned into the consciousness of every executive in the business that he owes a duty to the public in the conduct of his business. The very nature of the business makes this plain. The commercial success must not be placed above public duty. Paradoxical as it may sound to many in our industry, the greatest commercial success will follow a full recognition of our duty to the public. On this basis we endeavor, and always have endeavored, to operate.

WILLIAM W. HODKINSON.

New York, Jan. 11, 1921.

MR. HARDING'S DISCOVERY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I see by THE TIMES that although Mr. Harding is still six weeks away from the White House he is already becoming depressed and worried. He has discovered that Presidents have unpleasant things to contend with, "the aloofness of friends," for instance, and the necessity for being constantly on guard against "intrigue and untruth."

The discovery to him must be a great shock. He has never seen anything like it either during his campaign or in the Senate.

Not knowing that even while President Wilson was helping to bear the burden of the greatest war in history—while he was grappling with problems greater than any man in this country had ever grappled with before—he was beset on all sides by intrigue and untruth and perplexed not only by the aloofness of friends but the rabid activities of his enemies, Mr. Harding is naturally surprised at the revelation which is coming to him.

Poor Mr. Harding! Just what would become of him if he had a world war and a brainstorm Senate on his hands we cannot imagine. It is lucky for him that peace reigns and that the men who called him to the "world's greatest office" are inclined to protect him.

LUTANA SHELDON FERRIS.

Old Orchard, Me., Jan. 8, 1921.

ADVERTISEMENT.

Pelmanism Awakes the Giant Within You

From England, from France, from Australia, Scotland, Africa, India, Holland, and now from America comes the Indisputable Testimony of a Living Avalanche of a Half Million Pelmanists

By GEORGE CREEL

George Creel

Awake to your powers, be the man or woman you ought to be. Beneath your conscious, your everyday self — lies a giant—an unsuspected self of sleeping strength and infinite possibilities.

That giant is your inner-self—your true self—the man or woman you ought to be.

It is this unrealized self that sometimes awakes at a critical point in your life, and makes you outdo yourself. It is this sleeping giant that sometimes has been aroused when you were at the point of despair and made you grit your teeth and go in and win. And often after the victory is won your every-day self, your surface self, the self you know so well, wonders and says, "How strange, I didn't think I had it in me."

But you do have it in you. Every man or woman who can read or write has this giant of reserve power within him or her. But very few discover this bigger inner self, and fewer still know how to scientifically train this master self to their advantage.

Those whom we look upon as supermen—Cæsar, Alexander the Great, Napoleon—were mortals even as you and I. But they were fortunate in being born with this inner-self in the ascendant. Whereas the average man or woman rarely glimpses this inner-self and seldom uses the great possibilities that lie dormant within.

But there is a way for everyone to discover—to awaken—to train and mold the sleeping giant to his or her will.

500,000 Pelmanists have discovered that way. Pelmanism is a force of power and self-realization.

Resolve to be one of them. Resolve now to discover your unsuspected self. Pelmanism, with a record of over 500,000 in England alone, is one of the biggest things that has come to the United States in many a year.

Pelmanism Discovers and Trains for Action

Pelmanism can and does develop and strengthen such qualities as will power, concentration, ambition, self-reliance, judgment and memory.

Pelmanism can and does substitute "I will" for "I wish" by curing mind wandering and wool gathering.

I know that Pelmanism will do these things, because I have seen Pelmanism changing the lives of individuals in England—in France—in America.

I have seen men and women turn from despondency to hope—from hope to accomplishment—all thru the discovery and training of the master-self of Pelmanism.

I have seen the influence by Pelmanism turn poor jobs into good jobs; small salaries to large salaries; make home owners out of the homeless. I have seen it work miracles in character growth. I have seen it put a smile on the face of the grouch and turn dissensions and misunderstanding into harmony.

It was because I had seen how Pelmanism reached down into the very roots of individual beings and made over the lives of men and women of England and France; it was because I knew the whole glowing story of successful accomplishment of Pelmanism, starting in England, breaking through national bounderies, sweeping over Europe to India and Australia, that in 1919 I brought Pelmanism to America.

Viewed historically, twenty years ago Pelmanism was a simple memory training system. Today it is a study in intelligent growth, as broad in scope as are the needs of humanity.

America's Answer

Pelmanism brought to America by Americans for Americans captured the imagination of men and women in every walk of life. There is not a business, not a trade, not a profession in the United States that is not feeling the force of Pelmanism. For Pelmanism is as universal in its appeals as are the needs of humanity. As in England its followers included Statesmen, Generals, Authors, Lords, Ladies, down to the humblest laborer who wished to better himself, so in America all classes, from statesmen, captains of industry, executives, jurists, down to street cleaners are training themselves in Pelmanism. Pelmanists like General Sir Robert Baden-Powell, Sir Rider Haggard are matched by Judge Ben Lindsey and other leaders in America. (Read their testimony so briefly though authoritatively stated in this announcement.) For all big men—all ambitious men realized that Pelmanism was what America needed—in political, industrial and farm life.

Judge Ben. B. Lindsey

As a matter of fact, Pelmanism ought to be the beginning of education instead of a remedy for its faults.

Pelmanism also for Women

Pelmanism is not only of great value to the woman who works in the office, but to women who work in the home. It develops close reasoning, quick thinking, intelligent decision and executive facility. It has social as well as material values, opening the door to a richer, more interesting life. Pelmanism tones up the mental processes. As there is a very close inter-relation and sympathy between mind and body, the result is quickly apparent in a general improved physical condition. Looks, speech, thought and action—receive their share of benefit.

Pelmanism Brings Business Success

Charles M. Schwab expressed what Business in America needed when he said: "Captains of Industry are seeking brains, specialized, active brains. Brains are needed to carry out the ideas of those who furnish the capital, the man who attracts attention is not the dazzler, but the man who is thinking all the time, and expressing himself in little unusual ways."

Charles M. Schwab

Captains of Industry are seeking brains, specialized, active brains.

It is just this sort of power that Pelmanism develops. It takes the negative qualities—purposelessness, indecision, timidity, mental lethargy, and changes them into positives—purpose, decision, courage, mental activity and keenness.

It makes work a pleasure, not a drab, dreary task. It puts interest, joy into living, working—it gives the true key to successful accomplishment — right thinking and right acting. Pelmanism shows what to do, how to do it and trains the will to put thought into action.

Pelmanism is above all practical. Its results are not intangible, vague—but positive—definite.

The man whose aim is to think clearer becomes a clearer thinker thru Pelmanism. Those whose aim is money—find that Pelmanism inevitably increases their earning power if they follow Pelmanistic training. Those who wish to open the windows of their soul to the beauties of art, literature, nature, will find a new, a keener joy in living comes from Pelman training.

Successful men who felt themselves growing stale, ambitious men eager to get the best out of their minds, men and women who had "lost their nerve," men and women who were victims of mind wandering and wool gathering have cured their faults and are attaining their ambition. Thousands and thousands of letters, telling of individual self-mastery, full of glowing, enthusiastic appreciation of success, are proof of the power that Pelmanism is exerting in re-making and developing lives.

A secretary and treasurer of a famous corporation became a Pelmanist. The results were so definite that his five sons are now enthusiastic Pelmanists. So one Pelmanist's success becomes another's invitation to take up Pelmanism.

Drive—Don't Drift

What are you doing today? What will you be doing twelve months from today? Are you in the hands of fate, or do you direct your own fate? Are you drifting or driving? Will you stay on the dull, monotonous plane of mediocrity, will you sink to the valley of despair or will you mount to the hill-tops of achievement? Will you be master of your own fate or the slave of destiny?

To the aimless a year is a long time—a long desert road of dreary nights and days without the spur of hope or the joy of accomplishment, but a year is short to those full of purpose, tingling with the anticipation of hopes being achieved.

You have seen Millet's great painting, "The Man with the Hoe."

With eyes cast down upon the earth he leans upon his hoe.

His thoughts are stagnant, dead, inert—a masterpiece of woe.

He represents by far the great majority in that there is no apparent desire to rise up, cast off the weighted shroud of mental depression, and be a man, the image of his Maker.

Remember, thought is fire. Thought is your best friend or worst enemy.

Undirected or misdirected thought burns up purpose, character, hope. Directed—mastered thought is the fire that creates the steam to drive the wheels of progress.

Realize this—

Then train your mind as a trainer develops the human body. Banish flabby thinking as the trainer tries out flabby muscle. Develop purposeful thought as he develops muscle.

Know this hidden, sleeping giant—train it—develop it—master it. Make it save you, don't let it destroy you.

How can you do this?

The Answer is Pelmanism

Talk of quick and large salary raises suggests quackery, but with my own eyes I have seen bundles of letters telling how Pelmanism has increased salaries from 20 to 200 per cent. With my own ears I have heard the testimony of employers to this effect. Why not? Increased efficiency is worth more money.

But Pelmanism is bigger than that. There is more to it than the making of money. It makes for a richer and more wholesome and more interesting life. The advantages of Pelmanism touch life and living at every point.

Sir H. Rider Haggard

I recommend Pelmanism to those who, in the fullest sense, really wish to learn and to become what men and women ought to be.

In bringing Pelmanism to America I know I have brought to every man and woman in America a greater opportunity. I cannot carry it to your doorstep, but every reader of this paper can do that for him or herself—if he or she but WILL.

Pelmanism guarantees nothing but what it can deliver.

How to Become a Pelmanist

Mind and Memory is a book which throws the searchlight of truth on Pelmanism. Clear, incisive, fascinating, it describes Pelmanism down to the last detail. It shows clearly why and how Pelmanism has positive benefits for all sexes, all classes, all ages, from the boy of 14 to the man or woman at the end of life. It shows how to keep the mind young, keen, active.

In its pages will be found the testimony and experience of men and women of every trade and profession telling how Pelmanism works—"stories from the life" showing actual application of Pelmanism, the substitution of good for bad habits, and its bearing on success. It has inspirational essays on personality, opportunity, and the hidden powers and their development.

The third edition of 100,000 Mind and Memory, has been necessary to fill the American demand. Your copy is ready for you. It is absolutely free of charge and free of any obligation whatsoever. This can be the golden moment of your life. Don't hesitate. Don't put it off. ACT, NOW—Send for Mind and Memory today. Now is the time—this is your opportunity. The booklet Mind and Memory is free, but within its covers thousands are finding the key to financial, intellectual and social success. Use the coupon below. Send it now, or call personally. Pelman Institute of America, Suite 310, 2575 Broadway, New York City, New York.

PELMAN INSTITUTE OF AMERICA
Suite 310, 2575 Broadway, NEW YORK CITY, NEW YORK

Please send me, without obligation on my part, your free booklet, "Mind and Memory."

Name.....

Address.....

N. Y. Times, Jan. 16.

All correspondence strictly confidential

WANT BETTER AUTO TARIFF

Urge Import Reduction to 30 Per Cent.—Congress to Be Asked for Scientific System.

SEVERAL important subjects relating to future foreign trade possibilities were discussed by the Foreign Trade Committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce at its meeting last week. The position taken by the chamber several months ago was strongly endorsed, favoring a reduction of the import tariff duty from 45 per cent. to 30 per cent. on all automobiles.

A resolution was adopted, which will be laid before the Congressional Ways and Means Committee, urging a scientific tariff arrangement to prevent discrimination against American products shipped abroad and provide for mutual advantages in a greater exchange of commodities between foreign countries and the United States.

Many suggestions were made looking for relief from the increased insurance rates, among them the possibility of co-operative or mutual insurance among automobile manufacturers, whose foreign shipments of cars and trucks last year totaled $290,000,000. It was felt that the higher rates are particularly unfortunate at this time, when foreign exchange and other conditions are tending to restrict rather than assist exports.

Complaints from members were received that marine underwriters had increased, in some case 200 to 300 per cent., rates on so-called floater policies covering shipments from factory to foreign destination. Losses, it is said, have been incurred, due to damage by long exposure to the weather during the freight congestion of the past year. Manufacturers feel that this risk is eliminated, now that normal movement of freight may be expected.

J. Walker Drake, Chairman, presided at the meeting, and the others present were H. M. Robins, Jay Rathbun, L. J. Ollier, H. B. Phipps, W. Harvey and J. H. Zimmerman.

REBUILT TIRE WARNING.

PRACTICES employed by cut-price dealers in the marketing of rebuilt tires and factory "seconds" have long deceived the buying public, injured the tire industry and thrown many honest dealers into ill repute form the salient features of a report from the Associated Advertising Clubs, issued after a careful study of the situation by its National Vigilance Committee. "Unreliable dealers commonly call rebuilt tires 'double treads,'" says the report, "yet few readers know that instead of meaning an extra thickness of tread, which the name implies, it is in reality a second-hand tire, remade by cutting old, worn casings and sewing together the less worn parts.

"It is often untruthfully claimed that these tires are free from punctures or trim cuts, and to heighten the impression that these are unusually safe a re-liner, supposed to prevent blowouts, is given away free with each tire. A re-liner, however, is false security, because dependable tires do not need them, and they only mean increased fabric which produces friction and friction causes blowouts.

"All tires which are defective in workmanship or materials are rejected by some manufacturers and called 'seconds.' These do not carry the manufacturer's guarantee, and are disposed of through dealers handling that class of goods. The very fact that they have been rejected makes them unfit to be sold in competition with first-class stock, unless the buyer is fully informed of the exact character of the product which he is getting."

The committee also adds that "it is a falsehood to claim that rebuilt or 'second' tires are selling at large reductions from the list price. Such tires have no list price. They sell for whatever they will bring, and generally that is every bit of what they are worth in the market."

BIG ROAD CONFERENCE.

WHAT is expected to be the largest meeting ever held in this country in the interest of good roads is being arranged by the American Road Builders' Association from Feb 9 to 12 at Chicago. The sessions will be held in the Coliseum. Governor Small of Illinois will welcome the delegates. Governor Small has personally invited all of the State Governors to be present or send representatives, and Mayor Thompson of Chicago has invited more than 3,000 Mayors of leading cities.

It is estimated that there are about 400,000 bridges of more than five-foot span in the United States. According to Willis Whited of the Pennsylvania State Highway Department, more than 80 per cent. of these are unable to carry a thoroughly modern truck with an ample margin of safety. A majority of the bridges consist of a single span of wooden stringers with plank floors. Better construction and inspection of bridges will be urged at the convention.

The constantly increasing number of grade crossing accidents will be considered in connection with the growing demand for the elimination of grade crossings. Automobile accidents on the public highways killed 7,969 persons in 1919, according to the census figures. A total of 3,808 deaths occurred on the streets of the sixty-six largest cities of the country.

EXHIBIT LICENSE PLATES.

AN exhibition of automobile license plates will be made by the Secretary of State at this year's shows. The exhibit will include the 1921 plates from all the States, in addition to plates from at least twenty foreign countries, including the Fiji Islands, Iceland, New Zealand, Peru, Egypt, China and Japan.

AUTOMOBILE'S PART IN NATION'S BUSINESS.

Amount of special taxes paid annually by industry to Federal Government	$257,000,000
Registration fees paid by car users	81,000,000
Per cent. of all cars used more or less for business	80%
Per cent. of total milage used for business	60%
Gain in business efficiency from use of car as reported by average owner	57%
Average increase in doctors efficiency through use of car	104%
Per cent. of steel supply used by automobile industry	4%
Amount paid by industry to railroads for freight shipments	$100,000,000

S. BAUMANN & BRO

6th Ave. & 15th St. ←TWO STORES→ 3d Ave. & 84th St.

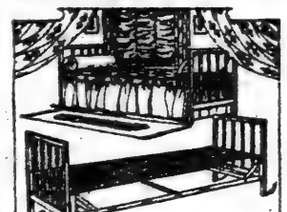
A Greater January Sale

Our Winter Clearance this year comes at a time when prices are on the downward trend. We have anticipated the greatest reductions by cutting prices

10 to 40%

Thousands of bargains marked with Special tags tied to original tags showing the actual amount you are saving.

Certainly—
Our LIBERAL CREDIT Is at Your Disposal
Plain Figure Tags on Everything



ENGLANDER DA-BED
The Englander Da-Bed is now a recognized necessity in every home, as it is instantly ready for the afternoon nap. Transformed when needed into a comfortable Bed. The Head and Foot ends are of wood finished in Mahogany. The Spring is Englander link fabric finished in rust proof enamel. Complete, as illustrated $49.75

This Stately Library Table
With Solid Mahogany Top $29.50
You will find it very attractive. It is neat in design; a table that will lend dignity to your home. Built of carefully selected materials throughout. It measures 42 inches in length and has a large, well-fitting drawer.

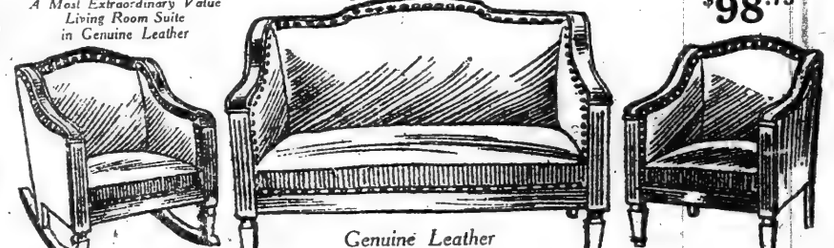
A Period Dining Room Suite of Well Deserved Popularity, at $289.50

Secretary
William and Mary Period, in Golden Oak, as illustrated, at $49.98

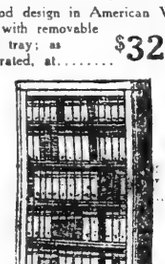
Four-Piece William and Mary Dining Room Suite
In Golden Oak, consisting of Buffet, 60 inches long, China Closet, Serving Table, Dining Table, 48 inches, 6 foot extension; four pieces, as illustrated..... $289.50

A Most Extraordinary Value Living Room Suite in Genuine Leather $98.75

Tea Wagon
Period design in American Walnut, with removable glass tray; as illustrated, at..... $32.98



Genuine Leather Living Room Suite
Massive moulded frames, in Mahogany finish, highly polished, upholstered seats, backs and arms in Genuine Leather, indestructible spring in seats; 3 pieces; as illustrated, at..... $98.75



Bookcase
In Quartered Oak, as illustrated, at.... $24.98

We Offer You a Modern Bedroom Suite at an Unusually Moderate Price of $329.50

Queen Anne Bed Room Suite in American Walnut $329.50
Consisting of Dresser, Chifforobe, Toilet Table and bow end Bed, four pieces, as illustrated.....

We Are Headquarters for Nationally Advertised Productions

Open Saturday Evening at Both Stores
Motor Truck Deliveries

Royal Easy Chairs
Greenpoint Beds and Cribs
Singer Parlor Suites
Stickley Day Beds

ENGLANDER
Springs, Couch Beds, Da-Beds and Beds

Kroehler Duofolds
Porcelain Kitchen Tables
A Large Assortment at Popular Prices

6TH Ave & 15TH St. ←TWO STORES→ 3RD Ave & 84TH St.

ADVERTISEMENT.

Children Love the Taste of "California Syrup of Figs"
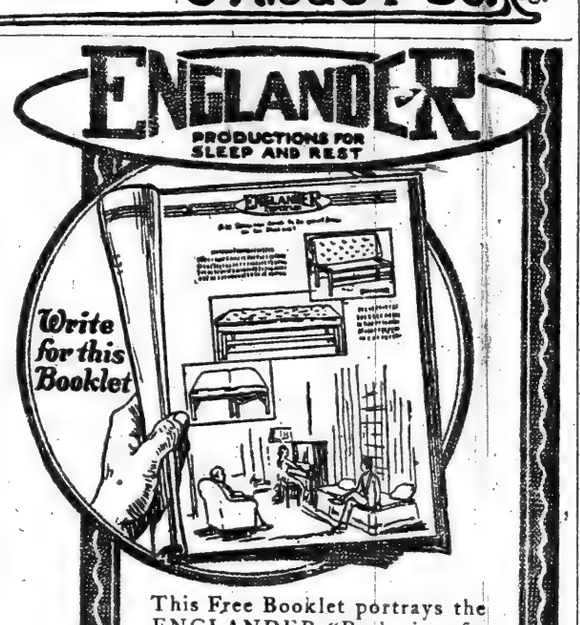
The Safe, Pleasant Laxative

All druggists sell the genuine "California Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna." Full directions as a laxative for children of all ages are plainly printed on the bottle label. Look for the name "California" and accept no other "Fig Syrup" except that made by the originators.

The California Fig Syrup Co.

ENGLANDER
PRODUCTIONS FOR SLEEP AND REST



This Free Booklet portrays the ENGLANDER "Productions for Sleep and Rest." It emphasizes the merits that have made them the fastest selling home needs in America.

ENGLANDER "Productions for Sleep and Rest"

Couch Beds	Three Piece Beds	Bedivans
Da-Beds	Foldaway Beds	Bed Springs
Double-Da-Beds	Cots and Cribs	Cozy Beds
Wit-Edge Springs	Couch Hammocks	Divans

Sold everywhere by Furniture Dealers and Department Stores. Write for illustrated booklet A.

ENGLANDER SPRING BED CO.
New York Chicago Brooklyn

Look for this trade mark

ENGLANDER
PRODUCTIONS FOR SLEEP AND REST

The Roads Are Still Here

THE family that has owned a good automobile, and no longer owns one, is about as comfortable without a car as a family of birds with their wings clipped.

The distances to school and station and neighbor's home seem to have suddenly stretched out like a rubber band, and only a car will bring them back to normal.

The roads are still here. Houses and places are where they have always been, and a car is still the best way to get to the places where you want to go.

When you look at the Standard Eight, remember that you can take its power for granted. It is known for that. You can consider its future as secure because the company that makes it has ample resources.

Think of the Standard Eight as something that brings the places and people you want to visit closer to you, and by bringing distant things nearer, enlarges your world.

See the models at our Showrooms.

STANDARD EIGHT
A POWERFUL CAR
STANDARD STEEL CAR COMPANY
1920 Broadway New York City

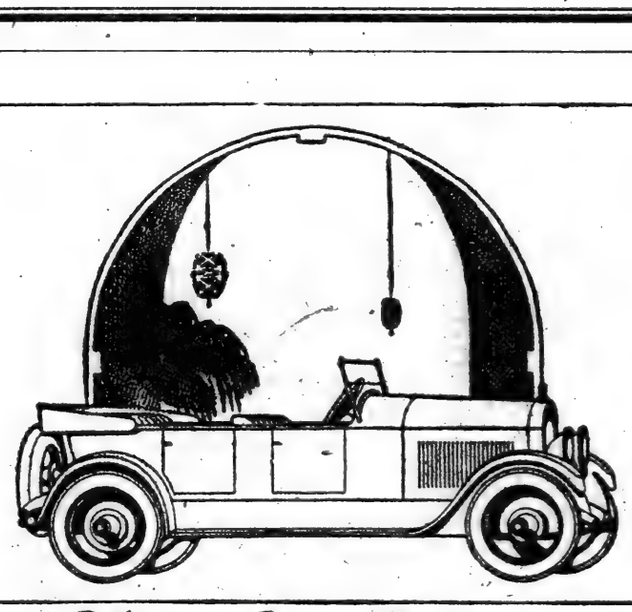
WM. A. BURK, Inc.
15 Court Street, White Plains, N. Y.
HEUBLEIN GARAGE CO.
39 Gold Street, Hartford, Conn.
DUGUID BROTHERS
1285 Bedford Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.
FAWLETT & COMPANY, Inc.
540 Fairfield Ave., Bridgeport, Conn.
F. C. HUFF MOTORS CO.
354 Central Ave., East Orange, N. J.
BRADFORD & LOMAS, Inc.
400 Crown Street, New Haven, Conn.
FORSYTH & DAVIS MOTOR CAR CO.
113 Green Street, Kingston, N. Y.
CONTINENTAL AVE. GARAGE, Inc.
Queens Boulevard, Forest Hills, L. I.



Cole Aero-Eight

15,000 Miles on Tires—50% Greater Fuel Efficiency—Zero-Balance Roadability—Less Annual Depreciation

SHOW CARS
On Exhibit at Our Show Rooms
1804 Broadway at 59th St.
Cole Motor Company of New York, Inc., Dist.
1804 Broadway, New York City
Telephone Circle 510

Royal Vehicle Corporation
1750 Bedford Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Wallace Motor Car Co
894 Broad Street, Newark, N. J.

COLE MOTOR CAR COMPANY, INDIANAPOLIS, U.S.A.
Creators of Advanced Motor Cars

There's a Touch of Tomorrow in All Cole Does Today

DIRECT THEM TO FARMING

One Suggestion for Handling Immigrants, Too Many of Whom Are Allowed to Tarry in City

By W. BRENTON WELLING.

IN the immigration problem now before the country, are the few who have power, authority and intelligence rising to their responsibilities? Are they bringing keen observation, forethought and experience to bear on its solution?

These few must choose the proper course, while the many have no choice but must do whatever comes first to hand along lines already laid down for them. The idea is growing in this country that possessions and place are a crime. Illustrations of this abound, and if those in the seat of authority allow this idea to spread they have only themselves to blame.

In the well-ordered state there is a fairly distributed prosperity and a reasonable degree of comfort and satisfaction throughout—no abject poverty—no class hatred.

What was the condition of this country before the war, and as it will probably be very shortly? Large fortunes accumulated readily (some of them through favoring legislation); abject poverty and unemployment in cities; about 300,000 unemployed in New York City alone in Winter; agrarian or producing population 30 per cent.; urban population, 70 per cent., all consumers (an exact reversal of the figures of twenty-five years previous); personal philanthropy in evidence in every city; free hospitals, free coal, free ice, missions to care for the helpless, crowds becoming larger and larger, bread lines, crowded tenements, riots in Union Square, trades unions, strikes, unrest, dissatisfaction on the east side, ostentatious wealth on Fifth Avenue, free giving to relieve, and no relief in sight, but clouds growing more ominous yearly, envy, hatred and malice, personal philanthropy broken down unable to cope with the situation and only adding oil to the flame.

What has economic philanthropy to say?

Would Keep Out the Inefficient.

It tells us that a large city is a high pressure privileged community, where none should be allowed to enter who cannot support themselves. We are interested primarily in our faithful workers already established there. We recognize that their wages are low in proportion to their expenses. We wish to see them better paid. We do not believe in legislation to this end nor in trade unions as a means, but we do claim the right to protect them by keeping out the inefficient who flock to take their jobs at rates the newcomers can only afford because they are partly assisted by local charity. For every worker we formerly had who was near the breaking point, we now have two, and next year four, and then ten, and in the end they all turn on us who have allowed this to happen and tell us possessions and place are a crime.

But this is a free country, and we cannot prevent people moving to the cities. Let them come by all means, but let the first man who wants help or asks for aid or charity in this privileged labor market understand the alternative: if he cannot find work, he must be sent to the country, where he will not only find employment but will receive full measure of such help as will fill his soul with comfort. Once we get him away from the city, we must be ready with both work and training to make self-supporting citizens of both him and his family.

We should have established homes or colonies where, sick or well, his case is studied and he is taught, encouraged and helped if need be. He may turn into a tiller of the soil. We should have small farms for sale to such on easy terms. He may learn a trade. We should have trade schools there for strenuous and for gentle trades. We should have instructors there to encourage him and help him to find a new niche in the world—and there is one for every man born. He may become a landowner—we should have plenty of land for all—perhaps a producer in place of a consumer—an economic blessing reversing these percentages before the nation starves. All this applies doubly to the discharged prisoner, who must not be allowed to return to the community he wronged.

Ignorance and Socialism.

The rent payer and wage earner is more liable to unsound socialistic doctrine than the man who owns his farm and earns his living on it. The latter is of the backbone of a nation.

What responsibility is on us for turning the ignorant crowd into Socialists? Who fanned this flame? The men of place and position who thought that personal philanthropy sufficed. "The poor ye have always with you"—but should we not use our brains? Remember the cry in the East End of London: "It is not charity we want, but work." That same cry was lately heard in New York, in a land with millions of idle acres and a nation on the verge of starvation for lack of producers.

Visualize 300,000 men out of a job in New York on a cold Winter night; not so today, but so it was before the war and will be worse shortly—much worse when labor is liquidated. They have got to be provided for, and they come to the only place where we offer them anything. Absolutely no alternative—we build the road and it leads us both to the pit, and we call it charity.

The future population of the city can be predicted with reasonable certainty by going back a number of years and calculating therefrom. But what will happen when the 300,000 unemployed become 1,000,000, as they certainly will? Has any one ever heard of a way to check their natural rate of increase excepting war?

At the writer's city home some years ago the job of removing the snow from the sidewalk and steps was given to a lad who came regularly receiving 30 cents, the prevailing rate of pay for this work at that time. One night a new boy asked for the job and offered to cut the rate to 20 cents. On questioning him it was found he was a stranger to the city and came from "up-State" (probably having heard people were cared for in the great city). Where had he slept since coming to town? At the Free Mission. Where, his meals? Free Mission. Had not this mission lowered the rate of wages in that street, besides depriving the 70-cent boy of his job? And it now has two boys to lodge and feed. If that last boy, in place of considering the city as "easy," had known it was rather more strenuous than his country home, he would have stuck it out at home until or unless he had the sand and the grit to make a go of it in New York on his own resources. If he fell down in his home town a mission in the country should have been at hand glad to look after him and take good care that he did not come to New York again unless he was to be of some real help in such a congested and high pressure place.

They abolished vagrancy in many continental cities of Europe by a system of farm colonies. It is all in the books. ("Elimination of the Tramp," by Edmond Kelly.) He who runs may read. They founded voluntary farm colonies, open to all, and obligatory farm colonies to which offenders were sent. The memory will last. Every farm colony depends for its success on the principal in charge, who must be such a large-hearted man as to inspire confidence and affection in the inmates. Adjacent to every such institution should be small farm sections for rent and for sale on easy terms, payable in crops, with full set of community instructors. How many underfed, overworked city poor might thrive and become landowners under such a system?

The American farmer puts his house in the centre of his 160 acres and his wife finds it lonesome. The Swiss, Italian, French and other foreign farmers build their houses all together along a little village street for sociability, and have their farm lands outlying at the back of their houses.

An elevator man on a freight-hoist in New York City, known to the writer, is an honest, industrious man. He has a wife and two children to support and lives in the remote suburbs. The prevailing rate of wages on his job is $18 a week. We can get all the men we need for that elevator at that price. Who made that rate? The law of supply and demand, the final arbiter of all rates. Did any charitable aid extended to the improvident in the city help to increase the supply and so set that inexorable law into play? We think it did and we hold that our first duty is to that elevator man now on the job near the edge of breaking but too honest and too proud to appeal to the charitable associations. These very nearly drive him to accept charity, and if the town were rid of those who come here, assisted by charity to underbid him, he might be getting $12 and even $14. With this small increase both he and his family might be better citizens.

We now place a premium on incompetence, and any speaker in Union Square will tell you the result. The responsibility lies solely with those who have intelligence, possessions and place. The crowd only know the result. The mills of the gods are grinding.

With ante-war immigration of 1,000,000 per annum, 100,000 yearly settle in New York. These people were nearly all farmers at home. An apt cartoon pictured the immigrant approaching our shores and viewing on the one hand our fields and our great farms North, South, East and West—on the other hand the City of New York, and in the sky over the city was the hand of charity distributing annually the sum of $30,000,000. It may seem a small figure in these times, but to the immigrant it looked large, and as the land had no hand of charity distributing anything, he naturally took the easiest place to live in, and we find him and his family grumbling at those good Fifth Avenue people who contribute the $30,000,000.

He only grumbles now, but if we keep on thus adding to his numbers, what then? Ten per cent. of all immigrants never get beyond New York City. The handwriting on the wall tells us to distribute our population better. You say it has been tried. It has not been properly tried so long as the $30,000,000 is put in the wrong place.

Quoting James J. Hill.

James J. Hill in "Highways of Progress," written in 1910, says (Page 45): "Land without population is a wilderness. . . . Population without land is a mob. * * * " (Page 55): "The wealth of a nation, character of its people, quality and permanence of its institutions are all dependent upon a sound and sufficient agricultural foundation." (Page 48): "Legislators trying to alleviate symptoms by socialistic nostrums instead of striking at the disease itself." (Page 44): "This country has brought itself within reach of the throng, while grasping at the satisfaction of present appetite, and forgetting the primal relation between earth and man." (Page 323): "Of our farm area, only one-half is improved."

No truly better business man ever lived in America than James J. Hill. Quite apart from philanthropy, apart from socialism, Hill showed that the United States must distribute their population better or starve, and where could a better beginning be made than through the united action of all so-called philanthropies which have been these many years pulling in the opposite direction?

We have, with their co-operation the means under control, for the immigrant will go where we make it easiest for him, and stay away from where we make it hardest. There is no incompetent man. There are men unable to find jobs, or not fitted to their jobs, and of such material the city should be freed. Such men can be trained and fitted to jobs outside at a fraction of the cost of the present uneconomic system.

The harvest will be exactly what we have planted. Ours to plant, ours to gather the harvest. We have been planting Socialists in cities who rely on charity as their right. We have been breeding envy of property. We might have been filling up the land and getting self-supporting property owners. The lower strata of city workers are now helpless against those we invite to compete with them.

Whoever helps the city poor to farm-work outside of the city does three things: He helps those placed; he helps the land and the food situation, and he helps those left in the city to better wages. Whoever helps incompetents in a city does also three things: He helps to pauperize them; he increases the percentage of consumers; he lowers the rate of wages in cities all at one stroke. It is like a fire department using oil in place of water.

Co-operation in Charity.

The victims of this mistaken philanthropy see only that a mistake has been made and turn on those who made it. Such a plan as outlined, if carried out with the co-operation of all institutions of philanthropy, would do more to raise the wages and living conditions in large cities than all the trade unions and legislation combined.

It is futile to attempt any plans outside of the city without the co-operation of all charities in the city as well as that of the city administration and the churches. The giving of aid in a city to those who enter the city's labor market should be stopped absolutely, and the entire fund of philanthropy should be used to protect those now working here by transporting the needy to remote points and giving them such training as will make them self-supporting.

Congressman Siegel of the Immigration Committee tells us that 28,000 Polish immigrants have settled in New York City in the last four months, while 270,000 more are only waiting for passports before sailing. Consider the effect alone upon our housing problem of receiving such a number at this time.

If it is once understood that there is nothing to be gained in the city but what a man can command unaided, and if an excellent suggestion already made were adopted that immigrants be placed on probation first in camps of instruction in Americanization, trades, farming &c. before being released, we might be able to turn the tide. At present we have, as Mr. Hill said, only a mob constantly increasing in size.

We live in a community where many think the private ownership of land is a crime, that banks are a form of robbery, and that wealth means oppression of the poor.

The people of intelligence and those in authority are responsible for the views of their community. On them alone it rests. Theirs to think out what natural laws when set in motion rightly will bring order, or wrongly will bring chaos.

NEW AID FOR WOUNDED

Committee, Headed by ex-Secretary of War Stimson, Champions Disabled Soldiers

THE disabled war veteran has a friend, after all, albeit he may wonder sometimes whether or not that or any other friend has very great influence with Congress. But while the wounded ex-soldier has been waiting and wondering a group of business men and lawyers, who have made ex-Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson their chief, have been working in his behalf.

Known as the Joint Committee for Aid to Disabled Veterans, this group of men, including ex-service men from practically every district in the United States, has arrived at the following conclusions as the result of its study of the problems of the wounded ex-soldier and ex-sailor:

First, the committee came to a practically unanimous conclusion that the country owed in the interests of justice a debt to the disabled before it owed anything to the other classes of service men. Going back to the civil war for precedent of similar neglect, the committee found that nearly twenty-five years elapsed before the maximum number of disabled soldiers came to the attention of the Government.

More than 20,000 veterans of the late war are now in hospitals. The number, according to medical authorities of the Government, is increasing at a rate of 1,000 per month. It is estimated by them that 30,000 service men will need treatment during 1921 for disabilities growing out of injuries received.

During the entire war more than half a million disabled men were discharged from the army. Large numbers of them are likely to have recurrences of the troubles which caused their discharges, according to medical men, who estimate now that many men needing treatment are not coming to the Government for it, owing to delays, lack of facilities and inability to get proper attention.

For instance, of the 20,000 patients in hospitals, there are 5,761 mental cases. The number of men discharged from service for nervous or mental ailments was 76,588. It is quite probable, say authorities, that the number of returns to hospitals for these ailments will increase steadily for a number of years.

Part of the price of the war is the cost of vocational training for men who were disabled. Approximately 60,000 men are now receiving this training, but the number eligible for it is nearer 150,000. In its investigation the committee found many men returned to their old jobs, despite disabilities, but were working under constant danger of losing out, due to difficulties arising out of their wounds. These men, then, will have but one hopeful choice, namely, learning a new vocation at Uncle Sam's expense, the committee believes.

In its study of the problem the Joint Committee has worked in close harmony with R. G. Cholmeley-Jones, Director of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, and Uel W. Lamkin, Director of the Rehabilitation Division of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, and in recommendations the committee has the endorsement of these men. Among the measures which the committee will urge before Congress are the following:

Co-ordination of the bureaus of War Risk Insurance, the Rehabilitation Division of the Board for Vocational Education, and the Public Health Service.

The committee concluded that these three bodies, working separately, duplicated work in many respects, especially in making medical examinations and in determining responsibility for care of the wounded. Reorganization of these three bodies into one service would save time, reduce cost of operation and increase efficiency, the committee decided.

In its second general recommendation the committee urges measures to provide adequate hospital facilities. Conditions at present, the investigators report, are almost as chaotic as they were during the war, except that the pressure of numbers of patients has decreased. The 20,000 disabled men are scattered far and wide in more than 1,000 hospitals, many of them incapable of giving patients the special treatments needed.

Three measures are recommended to remedy this condition—utilization to fullest capacity of the National Homes for Volunteer Disabled Soldiers, acquisition by the War and Navy Departments of surplus beds for the army and navy hospitals and appeals to the States to build hospitals to be leased to the National Government. This has been undertaken by the State of New York already, and it is believed that several States can be induced to follow the example. Presentation of facts gathered by the committee will influence Congress to take steps for the centralization of care for the disabled, it is believed. Among other features, the Joint Committee will seek to have the handling of war risk insurance decentralized, following the precedent of the Board for Vocational Education, which has fourteen regional headquarters scattered over the country.

Federal vocational training should be extended so that not only the badly disabled benefit, the committee has concluded, but so that any veteran who has been disabled 10 per cent., either in service or traceable to service, may benefit from Government schooling. This is urged on the ground that it is a good investment to the country. The committee will also urge that disabled members of the National Guard, Naval Reserve, and national and temporary officers of the army be placed, so far as retirement benefits are concerned, on the same basis as officers of the regular army.

One of the difficulties that confronted the disabled veteran obliged to learn a new vocation from Uncle Sam, the committee discovered, was that of paying his expenses until his first maintenance check of $80 arrived from the Treasury. Red tape almost inevitably caused delay, and this worked hardship particularly on men with families. To bridge over the delay it is proposed that a revolving fund of $500,000 be established from which to lend funds to the needy men.

The joint committee will take its stand as unanimously favoring extension of the benefits of vocational training to the widows and orphans of men who died in the service. There are approximately 22,000 widows of men who died during the war, 10,000 of them with children dependent upon them. These widows and orphans now receive insurance, of course. But the committee will espouse their cause further, and urge that "as a matter of simple justice" these dependents be given the opportunity to equip themselves to become self-supporting in a better way. It is also proposed to increase the allowance to all who are taking vocational training from $80 to $100 per month.

One broad-minded proposal of the joint committee is that vocational training privileges shall be extended to all American citizens who were disabled in the service of the allies of the United States. At present only veterans of the American Army are trained by the Government, whereas many of the wounded of the war were Americans who volunteered their services to France or other countries long before America entered the conflict.

The present members of the General Committee are: Colonel Joel H. Hildebrand of the University of California, Captain John P. Shields of Wilmington, Del.; Major William M. Rutter of Chicago, Colonel E. L. Gruber of Kentucky Military Academy, Gustaf Westfeldt of New Orleans, Captain Walter G. Davis of Portland, Me.; Judson Hannigan of Beverly, Mass.; Major B. W. Vallett of Detroit, William A. Percy of Greenville, Miss.; Major Inghnam Hook of Kansas City, Captain John L. Treacy of Helena, Major John G. Maher of Lincoln, Neb.; Professor H. D. Thompson of Princeton, C. E. Achorn of the New York Rotary Club and J. C. Farles, Director of the Institute for Crippled and Disabled Men of New York City.

Many American Legion posts have indorsed the program, and are bringing pressure to bear in their districts to secure immediate action in Congress. An Executive Committee of New York lawyers and prominent business men will be chosen to go to Washington and present the facts regarding the disabled veterans to Congressional committees.

OUR REAL "DUTCH TREAT"

TO create a better understanding between the people of Holland and America well-known Netherlanders in this country are organizing a Netherland Committee for Arts, Science and Friendly Relations. The name is self-explanatory.

Dr. A. J. Barnouw, the Queen Wilhelmina lecturer at Columbia, told in an interview why America should be glad to foster such a committee. Not the least interesting part of his talk dealt with his objection to the term "Dutch treat."

"To Hollanders who come to America there is something objectionable in a 'Dutch treat.' It is not that they like an American treat better. They certainly do not. Coming from a country which is nearly all water, they have a different opinion from the American as to the best ways of keeping dry. Nor are they opposed to paying their own way, as all through their history they have been remarkable for stubbornly insisting not only on paying their own way but on having it. Their objection, in short, is not to the treat thus named, but to the name Dutch thus being treated.

"They have no special affection for the name. In fact, they hold it so little sacred that they have given it, as a thing discarded, to their neighbors the Germans, retaining for themselves the appellation Hollanders or Netherlanders. But as long as Dutch, in the English language, stands for Hollandish, the 'Dutch' so-called will not stand for its being used in expressions which cast a reflection upon their national character. The English can excuse these as harmless survivals of a rivalry, long since subsided, between the two nations, but the Americans have no such excuse.

"They have, on the contrary, every reason to give expression, in their language, to their feelings of indebtedness to Holland. The 'Dutch treat' which the Pilgrim Fathers received there, for a period of twelve years, was far better, at any rate, than the treatment which they met with, and fled from, at home. No shrewd calculation had a part in the welcome which was accorded them by the Magistrate of the good city of Leyden. No other pledge was asked from them than 'that they should behave themselves and submit to the laws and ordinances.'

"In return for that pledge they obtained perfect freedom of worship, a commodity, whose value must have been in proportion to its scarcity, as it was nowhere to be had, at that time, except in Holland."

After referring to the establishment of the New Netherlands in this country, Dr. Barnouw said:

"The ties between the New Netherlands of the patroons and the mother country were broken in 1664, when the English took possession of the colony.

"New Amsterdam was rechristened New York, Fort Oranje became Albany, Fort Schuyler changed its name into Utica, to mention only a few of the many disguises that obliterated the part which the Hollanders played in the early history of this country. The very name of the last Director of New Netherlands, Peter Stuyvesant, was ominous of this general effacement. 'Stuyvesant' is 'sand blown away by the wind.'

"But scattered though it be, there is enough of the old Hollandish grit left in this country to make its collection and consolidation worth attempting. That is one aim of the Netherlands Committee for Arts, Science and Friendly Relations, and all those Americans who take an interest and a pride in their country's early connections with Holland are invited to collaborate with us for the attainment of this end."

The committee has opened headquarters at 44 Beaver Street. L. Wittert van Hoogland is the Secretary.

THE AFRICAN AND BUITI.

WHEN there is illness or an epidemic in darkest Africa, the medicine man sets up a roughly cut image of Buiti to warn of the danger lurking near the scene of the disease. A Buiti with a cavity in his middle signifies that a serious stomach malady, perhaps cholera, is afflicting the community. It is simple, but understandable, and the Buitis are used all over the country, outside white settlements. They warn not only of disease, but of certain phases of conduct that are taboo. Perhaps only the negro could interpret the message that the grotesque wooden image sometimes conveys, but the white intruder can always comprehend something of the danger he runs when he passes a statue and is within the limits of the district over which that figure rules.

The missionaries forbid the carving and setting up of a Buiti, but their mandates are of avail only upon missionary property. Outside, the natives carve their image, set it up and worship. Most denominations working in Africa have winked at the practice, but as Christianity grows in power the negroes get further away from their images.

The Soldier's Grievance.

There is many a veteran limping about this county with a half-dozen bullet wounds in his system who wishes he could get compensation at the rate asked for a Lyons boy, who values his wounds, received at the hands of a county official, at $20,000 per wound. It all depends whether one stops a charge accidentally or gets hits while fighting for his country. It is not until he gets back into civilian clothes that a soldier finds his body is anything but a cheap commodity.—Rochester Post-Express.

Oldsmobile
23rd YEAR

A New Idea of Value

Nearly everyone knows how Oldsmobile Eights and Sixes have for several seasons added fame to the 23-year-old name of Oldsmobile for honest worth and quality.

And now, we want to lay particular stress on the Oldsmobile "4," the latest addition to a line of luxurious cars, modestly priced.

Be sure and see this car at the Show.

We believe even a brief examination of the Oldsmobile "4" will reveal virtues of style, comfort and power performance that you have yet to find in a four cylinder car of like size and price.

Remember the space
A3, GRAND CENTRAL PALACE

Oldsmobile Company of New York
CUTTING-LARSON COMPANY, Inc.

109 West 64th St., near Broadway
Broadway Branch:
1806 Broadway—Columbus Circle
Brooklyn: Oldsmobile Co. of B'klyn
1296 Bedford Av.
Bronx Branch: 187th St. and Grand Concourse

MODEL 43A
$1445
f.o.b. Lansing
Plus War Tax

Visit the Special

ESSEX AUTO SHOW

All This Week

At 1842 Broadway

NEW AND SPECIAL MODELS

See one of the four ESSEX Cars that hold the world's transcontinental record

San Francisco to New York
4 days, 14 hours, 43 minutes

See the Trail of the Arrow—a moving picture of the ESSEX performing under terrific conditions.
SHOWN EVERY EVENING AT 8 P. M.

HUDSON MOTOR CAR CO. OF N. Y., Inc.
BROADWAY AT 61ST STREET :: CIRCLE BUILDING

WHAT LURES MASTER MINDS

Continued from Page 1.

resurrected banker of Victorian days back into his grave. New securities include the bonds of foreign governments as well as our own, of States and municipalities, of private enterprises of every description and the stocks and notes of these. During the war this department was so much in evidence that even the man in the street must have been impressed with the fact that some of our bankers were approaching the importance of Government itself. The dullest could see that their services to the Allies while our Goevrnment was still neutral would inevitably have a great influence on the final result.

The trust and fiduciary might well be called the department of intimate relations. The public and the banker meet here on the ground of lawyer and client, of doctor and patient, of father confessor and the seeker for guidance.

Some years ago a merchant advertised his readiness to supply all the wants of man, woman and child in their progress from the cradle to the grave. The trust company of today is much better equipped to make good this boast. In fact, some of its agencies extend beyond the grave. Let us assume a quite possible case: With the exception of a young infant the entire Smithers family has been wiped out in a railroad smash. Looks rather bad for a helpless babe. But in the vaults of the trust company lies a will made by a wise parent. It provided that the trust company should be guardian of the property in just such a contingency. The law does not permit it to be guardian of the person, also, but the court is naturally inclined to listen to recommendations from a disinterested corporation, especially when the latter shows that its agents have been at great pains to find a guardian whose character, education, training and disposition have stood the severest tests. So the last of the Smitherses becomes practically a ward of a huge corporation—one of those heartless entities which furnish fuel for the fires of revolutionary eloquence. Now witness the despoiling of the orphan child.

Looking After the Infant.

There is a department devoted to investments. Primarily its purpose is to select those securities which will give the largest return in combination with the greatest safety for the surplus funds of the company. The force in charge is made up of experts, men who know the histories of all the corporations whose securities are dealt in on the public mart and who have the technical equipment to analyze and appraise at their real value the financial statements which are sometimes beyond the penetration of the general public. To these come for appraisal the property of the infant. This may be partly stocks and bonds, some real estate and an interest in a going business. The stocks and bonds may or may not be up to the standards of the experts, but at least they indicate the views of Smithers père, and, very likely, these views will have some influence. Some investors show a preference for the securities that are sound even in a cataclysm, while others believe in a judicious mixture of the very best with those which have a reasonable margin of safety combined with possibilities of increasing value. If Smithers was one of the latter, note will be taken of that fact and the effort will be to continue his policy, always within limits of prudence; but there are opportunities in the business of the trust company, because of its large financial operations and the inside information which these bring, which would never have come to Smithers and which will be used to the advantage of his heir.

Possibly his real estate is not of the best or there is danger of unfavorable developments in the neighborhood. There are real estate sharps to look after that. Finally, a going business is not usually the best investment for a non-participating partner, so the effort will be to dispose of this to advantage, and some official with special capacity for such a delicate undertaking will be charged with that. Parenthetically, here are two such instances in the experience of one trust company:

One of the most valuable assets of the heir, a widow, was a secret chemical formula, which could be disposed of only to somebody who was prepared to exploit it, and yet could not be divulged even to a prospective purchaser as secrecy was its only protection. The official charged with that bit of work had to devote days and nights to planning as well as to tactful negotiations, but he finally sold it for $20,000. In the other instance a widow was left with a chain of small stores which called for both capital and technical knowledge, neither of which was at hand at the owner's death. The difficulties were surmounted and a purchaser found.

A Personal Link.

Returning to our hypothetical ward, we find him growing up under the continuing supervision of his corporate guardian. Somebody from within has been appointed a periodical visitor, who will not only see that he continues to thrive, that his training and education are such as will develop him physically, mentally and morally, but who will seek to gain his liking and confidence, so that there will be a personal link later on. This same official will be on the watch for outcroppings which may indicate the calling in life best suited to the world's temperament and talents. Nor will this interest cease when, as a young man, his career chosen, he goes out into the world's arena to wage his own life's battle. Always he will be encouraged to return to the foster parent for guidance and advice. Moreover, should he decide after his property has been turned over to him that he prefers to have the old administration continued, there is the machinery for taking care of it as before, either with or without his participation.

Has he decided to make a tour of the world before settling down, there will be letters of introduction to branch offices and agents everywhere which will smooth away many of the difficulties that beset the traveler, especially in these unsettled times; not only in such routine matters as passports, train, boat, hotels, but in the personal details which make or mar the pleasure and the profit of travel-protection from the avaricious and dishonest ever lying in wait for the inexperienced traveler, and more especially the American; guidance in his purchases, advice and direction in his sight-seeing to embrace all that which he is most desirous of seeing and knowing.

Of course, young Smithers was one of the fortunate, but suppose he had inherited only enough to carry him along to manhood, and even that in strict economy. The care and thought devoted to him would have been no less. In fact, there is in New York today a red-headed youth whose inheritance was just $500. Of course, that is not enough to bring up a boy, without considering compensation for the guardian, but the parent having chosen a certain trust company, the latter was unwilling to refuse the guardianship and certain of the officers chipped in to make up the deficit. They even wanted to put the lad through college, and for some time resisted his wish to go into business earlier. They finally agreed to this, but only after a thorough investigation of the offer which had come to him satisfied them that it was an opportunity which they were not justified in putting aside. It is pleasant too add that the outcome has been satisfactory to all.

I have found it impossible to resist this reference to the personal department, but that after all is only a small feature of the work of such an institution. Manifestly it is not this which has drawn the interest and energies of the "master minds."

Bankers as Public Speakers.

An observant reader of the newspapers during the last half dozen years cannot have failed to notice the frequency with which bankers have appeared as public speakers on questions of national and international importance. Such men as Fred I. Kent, Vice President of the Bankers Trust Company, and Francis H. Sisson, holding a similar office with the Guaranty Trust Company, to mention only two, have been frequently in the public eye as interpreters of problems in economics too intricate for even the intelligent layman to comprehend unaided and which were too important to the public welfare to be left unelucidated.

A most important department of every leading banking institution today is the department of publicity, and the most important branch of that department is that which concerns itself with the education of the public in economics through open discussion of the problems arising from local and world events, more particularly those upon which misguided as well as mischievous propagandists have sought to mislead and inflame public judgment. The danger of indiscriminate radicalism has not, however, been the only subject of this publicity. It has treated with equal thoroughness the importance of our foreign trade in the development of American prosperity and the need of a generous attitude in our foreign relations. Not of least importance has been its influence at critical moments in dispelling public misapprehension and allaying public alarm through calm yet convincing demonstration that this country, favored of the gods, is secure from financial disaster so long as its people do not lose their heads.

The whole tone of this publicity is optimistic. Nor is it in support of the reactionary and opposed to the worker. It seeks only to give vitality to facts as opposed to miguided theories. In a recent address Mr. Sisson approached the labor problem in these words:

Labor must bear in mind that it has most to lose by decreasing output on the false theory that less production per man creates more jobs. It should realize that the only way to sustain wage levels is by greater production per man, which will enable employers to reduce production costs. * * * The reactionary element among the employers should remember that the curtailment of production in order to force wages down and sustain prices will inevitably act as a boomerang.

The National City Bank issues a monthly review of business and economic conditions, under the editorship of Vice President George E. Roberts, which should be read by every man who has the desire to approach these with understanding. Here he will find the calm, clear spirit of the informed, experienced and thorough student, who discusses even the most abstruse and technical problems with a human philosophy which makes them interesting. No such illuminating treatment of financial questions has been seen since the late "Matthew Marshall" (Thomas Hitchcock) made the financial column of the Monday morning Sun the most talked of pronouncement on financial matters in this country.

Forms of Publicity.

Other banks—the Mechanics and Metals for one—issue bulletins and reviews with the same purpose, but perhaps the unique enterprise in this form of publicity is that introduced by George Barry Mallon for the Bankers Trust Company. I am happy to say that I have a growing library of the works on economics issued under Mr. Mallon's able editorship. These are not ephemeral publications, even though they treat more or less of existing conditions. The authors are scholars as well as experts in the subjects treated, and have gone about their work with the utmost professional care and zeal, having in mind its value as a source of exact information, not only now, but in the far future. Tastefully printed and bound in uniform style, color and design, some of them as books in substantial covers, these publications in many instances supply valuable information not obtainable through other sources without a great deal of hard digging.

"Our Public Debt," a book of 126 pages, written by Harvey E. Fisk, traces the history of American national indebtedness and sets forth in detail its varying forms, with the theories influencing the changes, from Revolutionary days through the strained relations with France, the War of 1812, the experience with the Bank of the United States, the Mexican War, the Civil War, the silver craze, the Spanish War and the recent war. "America's Merchant Marine," 257 pages, is a complete history of shipbuilding in our country from its inception in the beginning of the seventeenth century to date. "English Public Finance," 241 pages, traces its subject from 1066, showing the nature and manner of raising the taxes at the time of the Norman conquest and the slow but steady development of constitutional government through control by the Commons of the powers of taxation; the ancient exchequer and the modern fiscal system, England's financial position at the beginning of the World War and at the present time, and a brief history of banking and of the Bank of England.

